Inauguration of Chancellor Monday Penn State President To Speak

Dr. Eric Walker's Talk Set For Evening Banquet

Dr. Eric A. Walker, president of the Pennsylvania State University at University Park, Pa., will be the principal speaker at a banquet honoring Dr. John T. Caldwell, chancellor of State College, here Monday, March 7.

The banquet scheduled for the College Union Monday at 6:30 p.m. will follow the formal installation of Chancellor Caldwell as the eighth chief executive officer of State. Among those attending the dinner will be State officials, members of the General Assembly, trustees of the Consolidated University of North Carolina, and members of the faculty installation committee.

The exercises marking Dr. Caldwell's inauguration will be held in the Reynolds Coliseum Monday at 3 p.m. and will be open to the public. The oath of office will be administered by Chief Justice J. Wallace Winborne of the State Supreme Court. The investiture will be conducted by Governor Luther H. Hodges, President William C. Friday of the Consolidated University will preside.

Dr. Walker, Penn State's president, is one of America's top educators and is internationally-known for his work as a college teacher and administrator.

Topic of his talk at the inaugural banquet will be "Education . . . Of the People, By the People, For the People."

A native of Long Eaton, England, Dr. Walker was educated at the Wrightsville, Pa., High School and at Harvard University, where he earned bachelor of science, master's and Ph.D. degrees. He holds honorary degrees from Temple and Lehigh Universities and from Elizabethtown and Hofstra Colleges.

"He was awarded the Navy's 'Distinguished Public Service Award' in 1958 and received the Presidential Certificate of Merit in 1948 for work during World War II on the development of guided torpedoes. He is a Fellow of the Institute of Radio Engineers.

Dr. Walker's professional experience includes positions at Tufts College, 1933-40; University of Connecticut, 1940-42; Harvard Underwater Sound Laboratory, 1942-45; Head, Department of Electrical Engineering and Director, Ordnance Research Laboratory, Penn State, 1945-51; Dean, College of Engineering and Architecture, Penn State, 1951-56; Vice President, Penn State, 1956; and president, Penn State, since October 1, 1956.

APO 'Legs' Contest To Aid Chest Drive

Know a girl with beautiful legs? She may gain up to $200.00 in prizes for herself and you, plus a trophy for your fraternity, dormitory or organization, should she win Alpha Phi Omega's first "Beautiful Legs" contest to be held April 4-8.

Anyone can enter the contest. The sponsoring group may supply the picture and negative or obtain the services of the Alpha Phi Omega photographer. The pictures will be of legs only; there are no restrictions concerning race, sex, or pose.

Voting will take place at six strategically located ballot boxes on campus. Each vote costs one cent, with a ten percent bonus on bills (a five spot is worth 550 votes). A running tabulation will be kept and posted at the booths. All proceeds from the contest will go to the N. C. State Campus Chest Drive.

The prizes have been donated by local merchants. The winning fraternity, dorm, and organization will receive a trophy. In addition, each sponsoring group will receive recognition in campus and local newspapers.

Interested persons should call Larry Stevens at TE 2-7861 or VA 8-9733 or write Box 15027. Entries should be made before March 20th.

Coliseum Ceremonies Install 8th Chief Executive

Dr. John Tyler Caldwell will be installed as chancellor of State College at the William Neal Reynolds Coliseum on Monday, March 7, the 73rd anniversary of the founding of State College. The ceremonies, which are open to the public, are expected to attract several thousands of persons from throughout North Carolina and the nation.

Hundreds of America's top educators as well as representatives of learned and professional societies will attend the rites.

President William C. Friday, president of the Consolidated University will preside.

Governor Luther H. Hodges will conduct the investiture of Chancellor Caldwell. Chief Justice Wallace Winborne of the State Supreme Court will administer the oath of office.

The Chancellor will deliver an address after his investiture by Governor Hodges.

Greetings will be extended by Judge Rudolf I. Mintz of Wilmington, representing the Board of Trustees; Prof. L. Walter Seegers, chairman of the State College Faculty Senate; H. Eddie Knox, president of the Student Government; and Mose Kiser of Greensboro, representing the General Alumni association.

The invocation and benediction will be spoken by the Rev. W. W. Finlator, pastor of the Pullen Memorial Baptist Church, Raleigh.

Special Music will be provided by the State College Symphonic Band, the Men's Glee Club, and the Matted Men's Chorus, all under the direction of Robert A. Barnes, director of music.

John T. Caldwell

After the ceremonies a dinner honoring the new Chancellor will be held at the College Union. Dr. Eric A. Walker, president of the Pennsylvania State University at University Park, Pa., will be the speaker at the dinner for trustees, members of the General Assembly, State officials, and members of the faculty installation committee.

Dr. Caldwell, former president of the University of Arkansas, assumed his duties as chancellor last September 1, succeeding Dr. Carey H. Bostian.

As chancellor at State, Caldwell directs an educational and research program embracing 50 instructional departments; a 50 million dollar physical plant; a technical mission to Peru; forest laboratories in four regions of North Carolina; engineering facilities at Asheville, Gastonia, and Charlotte; 16 test farms at various locations throughout the State; 2,000 staff members in Raleigh; employees in all of the State's 100 county seats; a student body of 6,000 plus; the nation's first privately-owned and operated nuclear reactor; a 5 million dollar annual budget; a 16 million dollar annual payroll; and the authority to grant bachelor of science degrees in more than 50 fields, master of science degrees in 57 fields, and doctor of philosophy degrees in 23 fields.

Prior to becoming president of the University of Arkansas, Dr. Caldwell was a teacher at Holmes Junior College, Goodman, Miss., 1932-36; junior economist for the U. S. Resettlement Administration, 1936-37; a member of the faculty at Vanderbilt University, 1939-42; U. S. Navy, 1942-47, advancing from the rank of Ensign to the rank of Lieutenant Commander; and president of Alabama College, Montevallo, Alabama, 1947-52.

The Caldwell family resides at 1902 Hillsboro St., official residence of the State College chancellor.

S G Studies Bill To Change Honor System

In an effort to strengthen the efficiency of the Honor System here at State College, the Academic Affairs Committee of the Student Government, headed by John Fulton, has drawn up two resolutions to be presented at the meeting tonight in the College Union.

The main substance of the report, submitted to The Technician by Fulton, provides for the abolishment of the requirement that all new students entering the college sign an oath to uphold the Honor System during their enrollment at State. To compensate for this deletion, the Committee has stipulated that, should the bill be passed and approved by the administration, a statement be sent to all entering students telling them that they are responsible to the Honor System while they are in residence.

The second resolution calls for dropping the requirement that a signed pledge must accompany all curricula work done at the College, calls for all professors to announce that his class is conducted under the Honor System at the beginning of each semester and other times during the semester, and finally calls for some uniform system to be established among the faculty to provide for proctor-ing of quizzes, for seating arrangements, for reporting of violations, for appearing as witnesses at trials, and for classroom orientation.

Joel Ray, chairman of the Honor Code Board, said, in an interview with The Technician, "I find it extremely hard-to believe that this Committee can feel that they've accomplished anything by this first bill. Material concerning the Honor System at State is sent to each entering student, anyway, and this resolution provides for nothing new; the Committee simply wants to take out the signing of the initial pledge when the student enters, and offers nothing of substance in its place.

"As far as the second resolution is concerned, certain parts of it hold considerable merit, but I find many other facets that not only disagree with my personal beliefs, but also tend to undermine the Honor System as it now stands. Let me say that I am completely in favor of the resolution's attempt to establish a way in which the Faculty will be able to operate under a uniform set of practices dictated by the Honor System. Faculty cooperation is indeed a critical area, and a way for providing consistency among the administration of the Honor System, while still upholding its principles, would surely be a boon to the System.

"However, let me point out the weaknesses of this bill—weaknesses that I feel make this resolution relatively worthless. The reason that the Committee has given for the deletion of the requirement that all students sign a pledge at the end of each quiz, etc., is that students have believed themselves relieved of responsibility to the Honor System if they didn't sign the Pledge. This statement is a pure assumption.

"The Committee, in its reasons for this same change, has stated that . . . the customary pledge . . . pertains to only one area covered by our Honor System'. I fail to see how the pledge could be expected to cover any other area of the Honor System; it was intended only to cover cheating on quizzes, etc., and I think it has accomplished that purpose."

As for proctoring of quizzes and the plan for the establishment of seating arrangements, I feel that this move, if effected by the Student Government and the Administration, would be extremely detrimental to the Honor System. Both of these intentions are completely against any principles that the Honor Code and System adhere to. If these were to be followed through, I cannot foresee anything short of the eventual abolishment of the complete Honor System that we know now taking place.

"Let me say that the Honor System was instituted by students here at State College so that this very practice of classroom proctoring could be done away with. During the few years that the System has been in effect, we have seen the responsibility of honor placed more on the Students as the Faculty has become more willing to respect the thoughts and feelings of the student body. I can only say that I believe these two bills, if allowed to take effect, will be as much a detriment to the Honor System at State College as an addition of a Department of Communistic Thought and Action to the President's Cabinet would be to the American System of government."

Eddie Knox, president of the Student Government, had not seen either of the bills at the time of this paper's publication.

Both bills will be presented at the Student Government meeting tonight. Any interested student may attend the meeting in the College Union Theater at 8:15 p.m.

PHI PSI TO SPONSOR ANNUAL TEXTILE FASHION SHOW SATURDAY

The Second Annual Student Fashion Show will be held in the Textile auditorium at 3:00 p.m., Saturday, March 5, it was announced today by Malcolm E. Campbell, Dean of the School of Textiles, State College.

The Student Fashion Show is sponsored by Phi Psi Textile fraternity and features the students, students' wives, and friends as models. The garments are made by the models from fabrics of cotton, wool, synthetics and blends of all these fibers donated by the leading textile manufacturers in North and South Carolina and Virginia.

Between 35 and 40 models will model some 55 garments, including coats, suits, skirts and blouses, daytime or casual dresses, sportswear, cocktail gowns, and short and long evening formal wear.

A special feature of the show will be the selection and crowning of a "1960 Fashion Queen" by a panel of three judges.

Coordinating the fashions for the show is Miss Inez Aldridge, fashion consultant from Boylan-Pearce department store in Raleigh. Miss Aldridge will also commentate for the fashion show.

Overall supervision of the show is in charge of Professor James W. Klibbe, faculty advisor for Phi Psi Textile fraternity, and member of the Textile Technology Department of the School of Textiles.

Kleptuism

Often, we receive complaints from various students and faculty members which amount to little more than a desire to see their names in print. However, we sometimes receive a note asking us to throw in a word about some event a little more pertinent to the general welfare of State College.

Of this latter complaint is one that has reached our offices today. A student, apparently partially working his way through school by selling newspapers, said, ". . . stealing newspapers is immature and a student who tends to steal to satisfy his own heart is deceiving himself . . ." and "stealing is a coward's way of getting what one wants, or what one thinks he wants".

Obviously, the student who wrote these sentences was a bit perturbed by some person(s) who had been overly exercising his right to think as he pleases. However, we must agree with this carrier. He has been deprived of his right to earn a few dollars a week by some student who is too irresponsible or lazy to read a daily newspaper that he has come upon honestly.

First, in prosecution of the one who has done the stealing, we must caution that such an act is a violation of this College's Honor Code, and carries a penalty as high as permanent expulsion from State College. It seems that this in itself would be enough reason for anyone to think twice before he picked up a newspaper (or any other item of value).

As for possible alternatives for the person committing the act, we can only suggest that he go to either the D. H. Hill Library, the College Union, or many of the School libraries, where at least five dailies can be read for no price at all. If the person tries those and still is not satisfied, we invite him to come by this office on any night and read the Raleigh papers . . . also, no charge.

Seriously, there is no place at State College for a person who must let out his kleptomaniac tendencies at the expense of a fellow student. Not only does such a person have no place on this campus, but also he has no place as an upright American citizen. Exhibition of "the easy way out" is often found in petty thievery, and the feeling that this easy way out is the best way out has sometimes grown to such proportions that these people are no longer threats to just one college student, but instead are threats to an entire community or section of our country.

College is the breeding ground for habits that continue through life; they should be made accordingly.

Arrgh!!

Tonight, Friday night, and Saturday night, this campus will be completely infiltrated with many varieties of North Carolinians, who will be attending the Atlantic Coast Conference Tournament in the Coliseum.

Since most of them will be somewhat unfamiliar with the layout and traffic laws of the campus, we remind all students to pay particularly high attention to the flow of traffic before attempting to cross the streets. Beware; don't be sorry! Arrgh!!

Mealtime Series, No. 2, . . . GESUNDHEIT!!

Rambling 'Round

By Harvey Horowitz

With characteristic disregard for what one might call necessity, for lack of a better word, still another change has been made in the traffic flow on campus. First there was the flipping end for end of that one-way street, then those silly stop signs (I hear that M and O chased one student through all three of them, and gave him $15 worth of tickets), and now the street behind Tucker Dorm. has been blocked off with a pile of concrete boulders. The sign tells me that this was the idea of the Traffic Committee, which I presume is a branch of the Student Government. At any rate, closing the street is a thorn in the side of almost everybody. Not an hour passes without a dozen or so cars being forced to turn around and circumnavigate half the campus to get to their destinations. I am looking forward to the day when all the streets on campus will be one-way in the off-campus direction. That, at least would be a solution to the traffic problem!

The Weekly Construction Report: It seems they have finally placed the foundations of Harrelson Hall (I found out that this is to be the name of our roundhouse), so now they are pushing those piles of dirt back into the holes. Unfortunately, it was discovered that the bulldozer was too big to get through the gate in their lovely fence, so there is now a twenty-five foot section of hole replacing a former chunk of fence. One good point: they are washing the tires of their vehicles before taking them out of the mud and onto the streets.

It is hard enough getting to the right class on Monday morning, without having the bells ring at the wrong time. This seems to be a chronic condition around here. It always takes them at least half a day to clear things up, which one must admit is pretty good for M and O!

It was with considerable approval that I read in last Sunday's paper that Carolina was to be investigated for illegal recruiting practices by the NCAA. It has always been my belief that all schools (or at least most of them) are equally guilty in this respect, and that we were just unlucky to be the one that was caught. If the Blue Boys are punished by probation, we all really must send Frank McGuire a sympathy card!

New Technician

Probably by now, all students, faculty members, and staff members have seen the Monday, February 29, issue of The Technician. As you may have noticed, that edition was printed on a finer, more glossy stock of paper than had been used in the past.

Also, the reproduction of the pictures was done with a higher screen, i. e., more detailed, than in the past.

We invite all persons connected with the College to write to this newspaper's business manager expressing any feelings that resulted from these changes. We are presently negotiating with various paper concerns and college officials on the possibility of making these changes permanent. Any comments, for or against, would greatly aid us in determining what policies to follow.

Write to Penn Cassels, Business Manager, The Technician, Box 5698, State College Station, Raleigh.

ple have voiced such an opinion, and some believe this assertion enough to continue their professional relationship with the college. We have an increasing number of students which requires more teaching personnel. New buildings are being constructed over a continually expanding campus site. The research program is expanding which requires more personnel. All of this progress we can be proud of, but progress of any sort is usually accompanied by some type of "growing pains".

In other words, a "grouch" often appears in every "ouch". Who was it that made the statement to the effect that "everyone regarding the abominable parking facilities on the campus.

It appears very appropriate to provide designated parking spaces for certain personnel of the staff and for visitors to the institution. However, it does not make any difference where visitors park. If they receive a citation, it is automatically rescinded. It does not seem to make any difference how individuals park cars in legal parking areas—two cars occupying the space which would normally accommodate three cars. This practice is often due to poor marking of space areas. Anyway, no penalty is imposed.

Look at a specific example and judge how it affects morale and finances. First, each staff member pays a fee for the privilege of parking on the campus. It is true the regulation does not specify how close to the place of employment the privilege of parking must or can be. The "victim" may find it necessary to perform some official function which requires the use of a car—whether a personal car or an official car is used is irrelevant. The point is that upon returning to meet a class or attend a meeting at a specified time, there usually are only two alternatives—park in a limited zone (cost is $2.00, if any are available) or park on Hillsboro Street (cost is $1.00, if you do not have an opportunity to reach the meter before the "red flag" shows).

Perhaps it is ironically censorious to refer to one of the popular songs, "Don't Fence Me In," but the staff and faculty of State College are being "fenced in". A more appropriate version would be "fenced out". It may be possible to get on the campus, to drive around hoping for an open space, give up, park in Cameron Village, call a taxi, and be late for class or a conference.

Red brick sidewalks, green mounds, and other symbols of idyllicism may add much to the physical prestige of an educational institution such as State College. The fine is much more severe if one parks on the grass or a sidewalk, but at times these are the only "illegal" parking spaces available. It is doubtful that such adverse conditions add very much to the efficiency in performance of professional responsibilities of the staff. It is hoped that someone with enough responsibility to make remedial decisions will recognize the problems and take appropriate action. A Voice from the Staff

The American College Poetry Society has announced that its third semester anthology of outstanding college poetry is now being compiled for publication this summer.

Contributions must be the original work of the student (who shall retain literary rights to the material), submitted to Alan C. Fox, care of the American College Poetry Society, Box 24463, Los Angeles 24, California.

The material must have the entrant's name, address, and school on each page. The poems may deal with any subject, may not exceed 48 lines, nor may any entrant submit more than five poems.

Entries which are not accepted for publication will be returned if accompanied by a stamped, self-addressed envelope, but they cannot be otherwise acknowledged.

All entries must be postmarked not later than midnight, March 30, 1960, to be considered, and the decisions of the Society judges are final.

The YMCA at State College in its effort to provide opportunities for Christian stewardship is sponsoring an extensive social service project which will soon be in full swing. The five institutions which will be included in the program are the Catholic Orphanage, the Methodist Home for Children, the State School for the Blind, the State Mental Hospital and Central Prison. Interested students who volunteer will help with art and craft projects, outdoor recreational programs, hobbies, musical interests, and occupational and industrial therapy. Tom Johnston, associate secretary of the "Y", expressed one of the aims of the project, "It is our wish that companionship and genuine friendship will develop between State College students and those children and adults who are in need of real Christian fellowship." Those who wish to serve should contact Tom Johnston at the "Y".

Some sixty Freshmen of the Freshman Diners' Club will welcome Dr. Howard M. Nahikian, Professor of Mathematics and Professor Charles Smallwood, ing as guest speakers at the second meeting of the Club March 1. Supper will be served at 5:45 p.m. in the North Parlor of the "Y" followed by the program which will be concerned with "Moral Absolutes and Changing Values."

"Lady Chatterley and Friends" will be the subject of discussion Thursday evening, March 3, as Rev. Rod Reinecke, Episcopal Chaplain, presents the third discussion of the Courtship and Marriage series. The program will begin at 7:00 p.m. in the North Parlor of the "Y".

Lenten devotional books have been prepared and delivered to members of the YMCA. Any other student who is interested may obtain a copy at the "Y". Written by faculty members and campus leaders, the booklet contains a meditation for each of the forty weekdays of Lent.

"Existentialism" is the topic to be studied by the North Carolina State Junco, a discussion group formed to promote serious thought and individual expression. The group will meet on the first three Thursdays in March, 5:30 to 7:30 p.m., in the North Parlor of the "Y". Interested students should contact Tom Johnston at the "Y".

Rev. Oscar Wooldridge, State College YMCA Chaplain, will begin a series of sermons Sunday, March 5, in Danforth Chapel. Questions given to him by students will help him determine his topics for this Lenten season.

Ch. E Writing Contest

Chemical engineering students from North Carolina State College walked off with top honors in a Student Technical Paper Competition held this week at the annual Southeastern Regional Conference of Student Chapters of the American Institute of Chemical Engineers in Atlanta, Ga.

First place award went to Charles Warlick of Polkville and Kenneth Conley of Shelby, co-authors of a paper on "The Fusion of Liquids."

Second place went to Sam Winchester of Greenville for his paper on "A Photographic Study of Mixing in the Fusion Cells."

Also at the conference, James W. Keistler, Jr., of Great Falls, S. C., also a State College student, was elected president of the student chapters in the Southeastern region. Regional chapters include those from 15 major engineering schools in the southeast.

"We are indeed very proud of the showing our students in chemical engineering made in the paper competition and in the election at this area conference," said Dr. Kenneth C. Beatty, acting head of the college's Department of Chemical Engineering.

Dr. Beatty was also in Atlanta this week attending the annual national meeting of the AIChE.

Warlick, son of Mr. and Mrs. L. T. Warlick of Polkville, is a senior in chemical engineering. During his high school career, he was president of the student body in his senior year and president of the Future Farmers of America. Before entering State College, young Warlick attended Gardner-Webb College for a year.

While there, he was president of Alpha Beta Gamma, chemistry honor society, and was awarded the annual chemistry award. At State College he is an active member in the AIChE student chapter.

Son of Mr. and Mrs. Herschel L. Conley, of Shelby, Conley is also a senior in chemical engineering. In addition to his AIChE student chapter activities, he is active in the Veteran's Association.

Winchester, a senior with a double major in chemical engineering and engineering mathematics, is the son of Mr. and Mrs. S. C. Winchester of Greenville. He was awarded a $500 National Science Foundation Grant for the current academic year. Young Winchester, also an active member of AIChE, is vice president of Tau Beta Pi, honorary scholastic engineering society.

Keistler is the son of Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Keistler of Great Falls, S. C. Along with his AIChE student chapter duties, he is a member of the Wesley Foundation and is enrolled in the advanced ROTC course.

English Prof Appointed Head of 'Awards' Council

Dr. Jack Suberman, associate professor of English at State College and director of the Summer Sessions, has been appointed chairman of the Achievement Awards of the North Carolina division of the National Council of Teachers of English.

The awards are made annually to high school students in the State who demonstrate superior ability in English.

Serving with Dr. Suberman will be 12 college and high school teachers including Dr. F. E. Bowman of Duke University.

Dr. Suberman is well known for his work with the North Carolina English Teachers Association. He is at present serving on the English curriculum Study Committee engaged in a study sponsored by the State Department of Education.

YMCA Offers Lenten Booklet

This year, the YMCA has prepared a devotional booklet for all "Y" members to be used during Lent. It is composed of forty devotions written by members of the college faculty and student leaders on the campus. There is a devotion for each of the forty weekdays preceding Easter.

Lent officially begins March 2nd. Booklets are being sent to all "Y" members. Any other person desiring a booklet can obtain one at the College YMCA.

The purpose of this booklet is that it may benefit all those concerned; that it may guide their spiritual thoughts.

NCAA Investigates Tar Heel Basketball

Is Carolina due for NCAA probation?

This sports writer probably knows just as little about the whole matter as the next writer. Last Saturday, Chancellor William B. Aycock told the press that the NCAA was making an official inquest into the matter. He also stated that he and other University officials would appear in Kansas City this past Tuesday. It is known that Aycock, Athletic Director Chuck Erickson, and head basketball coach Frank McGuire were in Kansas City Tuesday.

The only reason that the University officials made an announcement was due to a rumor that was printed in Smith Barrier's column in the Greensboro Daily News. The rumor said that one of the schools in this area was in trouble with the NCAA.

There was no statement released by the NCAA in Kansas City Tuesday. The meeting Tuesday was with the infractions committee. This committee will recommend to the NCAA Council what action should be taken on the matter. The Council will meet in late April.

What is the reason behind all this? This writer learned from a reliable source that the controversy had something to do with all the ball players that McGuire recruited out of the New York area. It is believed that the University paid more than just their expenses when they came down to visit the campus at Chapel Hill.

The inquiry was made after the Tar Heels captured the NC AA championship in 1957. This was the team that captured 32 consecutive games without a defeat and defeated Wilt Chamberlain's University of Kansas team.

Players that came to the University from the New York area include All-American Lennie Rosenbluth, Pete Brennan, Tommy Kearns, York Laresse, Ray Stanley, Hugh Donahue, John Crotty, Lou Brown, Harvey Salz, Don Walsh. On this year's freshman team are two standouts from the New York area. They are Marty Conlin and Larry Brown. Brown was one of the top scorers on this year's freshman team.

Looking at this list of stand-out players from the New York area you can see why the teams from that section have been watching UNC very closely. Many of the schools in the N. Y. area would like to have some of these boys on their teams. McGuire is getting the cream of the crop and the schools in that area cannot compete with him.

Just what will happen to the Tar Heels is not known at the present and nothing probably will be known until the NCAA meeting in April.

The teams in the New York area seem to have the goods on the boys at Chapel Hill, and if they do... well, the University might just be on probation for a couple of years. Although it would do the conference harm, it is a known fact that many of the State supporters would love to see it.

Maybe in a couple of years when Speaks, Rohloff, Auxsel, & Co. meet the Tar Heels in the finals of the ACC, and the Tar Heels are on probation, this might be an after game comment from Coach Everett Case: "Well Frank, since we already had it sewed up as far as the trip to New York was concerned we thought we would give the first stringers a rest." That (See BASKETBALL, page 6)

ACC Coverage

The Atlantic Coast Conference Tournament will be covered completely in Monday night's issue of The Technician. Box scores of all the tournament games will be run in this issue. Jay Brame, Sports Editor of The Technician, will give a complete summary of the ACC tournament and comments from the winning coach of this year's tourney. Will it be Frank McGuire? Bones McKinney? or Everett Case? Look for one of these coaches' comments in Monday night's issue. Clyde Hoy will take pictures for the ACC tourney for The Technician.

was held in Chapel Hill last Saturday. Duke captured first place with a total of 59 points. Carolina was second with 46 points, followed by State 24, Davidson 11, and Wake Forest 1. Bill Biggerstaff was high scorer for the varsity with a first place in the high hurdles and a 3rd place in the low hurdles.

The varsity's Hank Hoomani, Iran's gift to the State College team, took first place in the 60-yard dash with a time of 6.6.

The freshmen also finished third as the UNC frosh captured the freshmen meet with a total of 51½ points. Duke was second with 40½ points. State with 15½, Davidson with 8½, and Wake Forest with 5½ followed Duke.

Bob Martin of the freshman team took first places in the high hurdles and low hurdles for a total of 10 points. He was high scorer for both State teams.

Coach Everett Case has just had his first losing team in 41 years of coaching.

When the Wolfpack lost both games to South Carolina and Clemson, it eliminated all chance of breaking even or having a winning season.

The Wolfpack is 10-14 at this point. Even if State won all three tournament games, the final record would be 13-14.

Dick (Tiny) Reynolds, State's massive tackle, will miss spring football practice because of a knee injury.

The 268-pound senior from College Park, Md., hurt his knee the first day of off-season drills and will undergo an operation this week end.

Coach Vic Sorrell will have a fine looking prospect working out with his State baseball team for the next week or two, but

The Wolfpack has at least two basketball players who take pride in playing defense. Bob (Moose) DiStefano and Dutch Muehlbauer had rather hold their opponent scoreless than make 20 points themselves.

The twosome has a defensive duel in each game with the winner collecting a milkshake. Among their top efforts this year: Muehlbauer holding Maryland's Jerry Bechtie to two points in the second half (he got 14 in the first), and DiStefano's two tremendous jobs on Duke's Carroll Youngkin (two field goals in two games).

You'll like our new hand blocked English challis foulards; sea island cottons, solid colored Tussah Tweeds from India, and pure silk repp ties for your spring wardrobe. Price.

made. Association members were allowed to place long distance calls (Direct Distance Dialing) all over the States, including Hawaii.

The next Association meeting will be Friday, March 4th, at 7:00 PM in room 252 of the College Union. Mr. Herbert E. Carpenter, a life insurance underwriter, will discuss different types of life insurance. Mr. Carpenter represents The Fidelity Union Life Insurance Company, which specializes in life insurance for college graduates. Also on the agenda are the adoption of the new constitution and the appointment of the Nominations Committee for the general elections in April.

The Veterans' Association Membership Drive is drawing to a close. Members who are interested in completing for the $50 cash awards are urged to contact and sign up as many new members as possible. The may be obtained at the next meeting.

Here's a bit of information concerning veterans attending school under the Korean GI Bill (PL 550). Only one change of program is allowed, and this must be made before three years from the date of your release from active duty. A change of program is defined as any change which extends your graduation date beyond the present expected date of graduation. There is one exception to the above rule: a change of program may be made after the three year deadline if the change allows you to graduate earlier than you normally would have.

Esterbrook fountain pens write with the amazing new miracle discovery—INK!

DON'T BOTHER to have your handwriting analyzed. It probably looks just like your room-mate's... No character at all.

Wait until you come to your senses and buy the smart looking Esterbrook Classic fountain pen—with the point that's custom-fitted for you.

The Esterbrook Classic starts writing instantly—the minute it touches the paper. Feels so 'right' in the hand... and looks good, too! Choice of six colors.

Another thing—the Esterbrook Classic always uses ink. You'll like ink once you get used to it. It makes clearly discernible marks on the paper.

THERE'S A POINT CHOICE OF 32—ONE IS CUSTOM-FITTED FOR YOU!

lege's Industrial Experimental Program has been invited by President Eisenhower to attend the President's Conference on Occupational Safety, to be held in Washington, D. C., today.

He is Stuart D. Coward, industrial management specialist who is in charge of the Industrial Experimental Program's Supervisory Development Workshops held throughout the State.

Among the five workshop units he directs is a special program on employee training and safety, with special emphasis on the supervisor's responsibility for the safety of industrial workers.

The March conference will bring together in the Nation's Capital more than 3,000 leaders from American industry, labor, agriculture, government agencies, insurance, education, health, and private safety organizations from all parts of the country.

Their purpose is to devise and then apply voluntary, cooperative means for reducing the 13,300 deaths and nearly two million disabling injuries occurring annually because of on-the-job accidents.

of this column to a very interesting letter which found its way into our hands a few weeks ago. Allow us to apologize for the delay in commenting. The reason for this is, believe it or not, we try to plan this column in advance.

The letter reads in part "... Last year, you wrote a great deal on television; and we enjoyed it very much. We hope you'll give us an opportunity to express our opinions on TV. Especially TV for this area! A certain station serving us is without a doubt a disgrace to the viewer. Why if there are 3 major networks are there only 2 stations? This must mean that some of the shows don't get shown around here, and it's always the best ones. This station claims they are ABC-CBS, but half of their ABC programs end up on the Raleigh Channel which says they are NBC. It seems as though TV is simply not organized around Raleigh. For examples, the other even-or our favorite shows, "The Ann Southern Show". To our disgust, it was taken off unannounced to make way for a special from the other network the station is affiliated with. Is this fair to the viewer? We think not. Luckily, we were able to pick up our show on another channel, and we shall continue to watch this channel in the future. Another of our favorite shows, "Perry Mason", is always interrupted by the station signing off without warning. Usually the dead air period comes at the major point of the show, and all we see is a silly sign about network difficulty. This happened 3 weeks in a row recently."

"We could go on. Alton, what can the viewer do when he gets bad reception in this area? Don't say move because we like Raleigh except for the TV service..."
"We hope you can use your column to get some better TV service. Anyway, we have our radios. Please don't use our names..."
Unfortunately, we could not print all this letter even if we used 2 columns. Our best suggestion for improving TV is to write directly to the station and likely that they will be seen here.

However, since you mentioned this, we'll make a few comments. The TV affiliations of the various stations in this area are changed about as much as a baby's diaper. You will be happy to note that many of the ABC shows can be seen on WRAL-TV. With a few exceptions, they do carry all the NBC shows. Obviously, the other station to which you refer is Durham; it would seem you have exaggerated just a little.

They carry most of the CBS shows, but you are right that they do interrupt regular shows for a Special whenever one comes along. This can be very annoying for those viewers who have a favorite show such as that which you mentioned. In regard to "Perry Mason", it must be your set. We watch that and can't recall the station losing the picture but once this year.

Our questions for the local TV outlets would be this? Why are such top-rated shows as "Pat Boone", "Man From Black Hawk", "Masquerade Party", and so many of the stimulating Sunday shows not scheduled?

PENQUINS ROOST

On the application for admission to State College there is a question which asks, "Why do you want to come to N. C. State?" Thanks to the janitor at Holladay Hall, we were able to obtain several of these forms, which went as follows:

(1) Dear sirs:

I have always wanted to go to State College. My great grandfather, Sam Pullen II, graduated from State in 1910. My father Sam Pullen III graduated at State in 1935. All six of my brothers went to State. Besides, my girl goes to St. Mary's.
Sam Pullen IV

(2) Dear Guys:

I want to go to State cause they give me $5,000 and a Cadillac convertible to play football down there.
Ivan Storoskiens
Pittsburgh, Pa.

(3) Dear Madam,

Jake Thumper done tole me they got things that milk cows so ya don't hafta pull 'em. I got dish-water hands from milking cows & I want to find out how to get rid of them with one of them thar automatical pulling machines.

is a similar remark that Coach McGuire said after his Tar Heels were soundly beaten by the Wolfpack in last year's ACC finals, 80-56.

So it goes. Will Carolina go on probation or not? That is the question that has all Tar Heel fans worried over at the Hill at the present. We will soon know the answer.

(4) Dear Mister,

There is something I like about State College. There is something about State College which makes you want to go there. All my friends want to go to Harvard or Yale, but I tell them they are crazy—they should go to State College. Once I visited State College and a boy said hello. It made me very happy. I want to go to State so I can say hello to someone and make them happy.
Percy Muddelopper

(5) Dear Sirs:

I go to the University of North Carolina. I hate U.N.C. I hate the Tarheels and I hate being a Tarheel. I want to be a Wolfpacker so I can be sober again.
Doug Mo
Chapel Hill, N. C.

(6) Dear Sirs:

I am a girl. I want to go to State College because I am horny.
Lucy Sue Garbager

(7) Dear Sir:

I am interested in State College because it is such a great military institute. All my friends tell me of the wonderful ROTC program at State College. I want to study to be a general.

Adolph Hitler

(8) Dear Sirs:

I want to go to State College because there is a Woolworth's store nearby in Cameron Village.
George Washington Smith

(9) Dear Chancellor:

I want to go to State College because I am a literary genius and want to write a dirty joke column in The Technician.

Lucky Strike's Dr. Frood is asked

Why Are Today's Students More Serious, Dedicated, Industrious?

Dear Dr. Frood: In your day, college students were all rah-rah and raccoon coats. Today's student is more responsible, more dedicated, more industrious. What accounts for this big change?
Studios

Dear Stu: Today's world is more complex, more challenging. Ideologies clash. Our planet grows smaller. The cold war strikes fear into our hearts. There is a shortage of raccoons.

Dear Dr. Frood: I am disgusted with my classmates. All they think about is women and parties. How can I get them to talk about important things?
Serious

Dear Serious: Throw a large party. Invite plenty of women. Then, around midnight, say something important, like "We're out of beer."

Dear Dr. Frood: Modern girls go to college for four years. Then they get married and don't even know how to change diapers. What is this leading to?
Old-Fashioned

Dear Old-Fashioned: Self-sufficient babies.

Dear Dr. Frood: Why doesn't everybody smoke Lucky Strike?
Lucky Smoker

Dear Lucky: Why doesn't everybody get straight "A's"?
Art Lover

Dear Dr. Frood: Here are two portraits of Beethoven. One was done by an old master. The other by a student. Which is the masterpiece?
Art Lover

Dear Art: The one on the left is the master's work. The stroke is deft, clean, authoritative. Every detail is authentic Beethoven, even the gesture of keeping his composing hand warm.

Dear Dr. Frood: Has college ever really helped anyone in business?
Practical

Dear Practical: Of course. Think how college has helped the people who make pennants, footballs, fraternity pins.

Dear Dr. Frood: Grandfather's will provided a rather handsome allowance on the stipulation that I showed "the courage and strength of character" to stay in college. Frankly, however, I am tired of college. I have been here 40 years. Is there any way I can quit and still collect?
Senior

Dear Senior: Your question brings up a considerable number of legal problems, with interesting technical ramifications. Having given the matter much thought, I have this suggestion: enter Law School.

COLLEGE STUDENTS SMOKE MORE LUCKIES THAN ANY OTHER REGULAR!

When it comes to choosing their regular smoke, college students head right for fine tobacco. Result: Lucky Strike tops every other regular sold. Lucky's taste beats all the rest because L.S./M.F.T.—Lucky Strike means fine tobacco.
