Freud Will Be Topic Of Apollo Club Meeting

The Apollo Club will hold its second meeting of the year tonight in the Student Cafeteria at 5:45. The featured speaker for the evening will be Dr. Bernard Glueck, Sr., of the University of North Carolina. Dr. Glueck is Professor of Psychiatry and a prominent member of Carolina's School of Medicine.

A leading authority on psychoanalysis, criminology, and child guidance, Dr. Glueck will speak on the topic, "Freud and the Twentieth Century." Dr. Glueck knew Freud as a personal friend and was associated very closely with his early works. He has taught and practiced psychiatry for a half-century.

Dr. Glueck is the author of "Forensic Psychiatry" and translator of several books. In addition he has published a large number of papers on psychiatry and allied subjects.

Included in the program of the year, the Apollos will have other outstanding speakers throughout the semester. Next week, October 15, the featured celebrity will be Dr. Conway Zirkle of the University of Pennsylvania, who will speak on "Darwin and the Twentieth Century". Other topics planned for later meetings include "Einstein and the Twentieth Century" and "Marx and the Twentieth Century".

The State College Apollo Club is composed of students who meet each week in the cafeteria and enjoy intellectual talks by some of the most renowned leaders of our day. Anyone interested in membership with the club should contact Rev. Oscar Woolridge at the College YMCA.

Woman's Club Holds Picnic

The International Forensic Committee of the State College Woman's Club held a picnic last Sunday for the international students of State College. A group of sixty-six international students from all parts of the world attended the buffet supper at the home of Professor Ralph Bryant, of the Forestry Department.

Twenty committee members and their husbands were present to help in the friendship gesture. The chairwomen for the event were Mrs. Henry Kamphoefner and Mrs. Richard Volk. The picnic is an annual affair sponsored by the club.

Textile Booth At Fair

The Tompkins Textile Council, student governing body in the School of Textiles here, will sponsor a booth in the North Carolina State Fair to be held at the Fair Grounds on October 12-17.

In an interview with a staff writer for The Technician on Wednesday, Dan Cash, president of the Council, said, "We are making big plans to show the people of North Carolina some of the work that we do here at the School of Textiles. We will have a machine from the knitting department making men's hosiery and another machine from the same department manufacturing dish cloths.

"Furthermore, we plan to have an exhibit showing the different processes through which cloth goes when it is being dyed. We also will have on display several fabrics and garments made here in the School of Textiles and in industry."

Cash stated, in conclusion, that he thought the booth this year would be effective in showing the work that the State students are doing as they prepare to enter the Textile industry.

State-Wide Bond Referendum Boosted By Student Support

The North Carolina Bond Referendum, to be voted on October 27, received a boost this week when Eddie Knox, President of the Student Government, announced that plans are underway on the State College campus for the students to take an active part in securing an affirmative vote for the Bond.

Knox said the students have developed a number of plans designed to inform the people of the State about the significance of the bond issue to higher education and urging them to vote.

Between today and October 27, the students will contact their parents, neighbors, and friends in all of the State's 100 counties. They will explain the issues involved in the referendum and will cite the need for the funds to be voted upon in the face of rising enrollments in the State's institutions of higher learning.

$4,884,000 for N. C. S.

Tar Heel voters will decide on whether to grant the State of North Carolina authority to issue $34,400,000 to finance permanent improvements at many of the State institutions. In the total is $18,891,000 earmarked for permanent improvements at the institutions of higher learning, including $4,884,000 for State College.

Among the promotional activities of the State College students in the interest of obtaining an affirmative vote will be the publication of a special issue of The Technician which will be sent to all regular subscribers and to the parents of students in North Carolina; the mailing of postal cards to parents and friends; and a personal contact program to be conducted by the students in their hometowns and neighborhoods across the State.

Knox said that the State College student legislature will consider the adoption of a resolution urging passage of the bond referendum at a meeting on the college campus Thursday night. The Academic Affairs Committee of the Student Government is now drafting the resolution.

Motion Passed at C.U.S.C.

Knox proposed a motion at a meeting of the Consolidated University Student Council Saturday that the council, representing students at UNC, Woman's College, and State College, support the bond drive and that a committee draft a resolution endorsing the passage of the bond issues. The motion was unanimously adopted by the 45-member council, including 15 members from each of the three Consolidated University institutions. Ladd Daniels, a State student, is council chairman.

The Technician plans an editorial campaign aimed at encouraging an affirmative vote. In addition to sending copies of the special issue of The Technician to their parents, this newspaper also will be sent to the editors of all North Carolina newspapers. The issue will be published October 19.

Space will be left on each card for the students to pen a personal message to their parents.

Radio station WKNC also will promote the campaign.

Campus Crier

Friday is the last day that Junior pictures will be taken for the Agromeck. All Juniors who have not had their pictures taken are encouraged to go by the College Union Art Gallery between the hours 9 a.m. and 5 p.m.

State's Mates, State College student's wives club, will have its first meeting Monday, October 12, at 7:30 p.m. in the College Union. All State College student's wives are invited to attend. On the program for the evening will be a welcome to the group by President William Friday of the Consolidated University of North Carolina.

The Sigma Pi Fraternity is sponsoring a campus-wide "Ugly Man" contest in connection with the Homecoming Day festivities. Similar contests have proven to be very successful at other schools and it is hoped that State College will respond as well.

Any campus organization may sponsor a candidate. Any interested in further information are asked to contact Jim Hastings or Larry Fleming at the Sigma Pi House or call TE 2-0268.

The IDC has arranged a tuxedo rental plan for the IDC Ball on October 24. Two plans are offered: (1) Tony Martin type tuxedo with all accessories including shirt, tie, suspenders, and cummerbund—$6.50. (2) Plan 1 less shirt and jewelry—$5.50. If interested, contact your dormitory manager for an application form. All orders must be in by noon, Tuesday, October 13.

Students will also be permitted to wear their ROTC uniforms to the dance. The formal military uniform consists of the regular uniform worn with a white shirt and black bow tie.

The IDC Ball is free to all dormitory residents. Bids may be picked up from the dormitory managers.

Attention Juniors

At the junior class meeting held Tuesday night, it was decided that the '61 class ring will be ordered from Balfour again this year. The representative from Balfour will be on the campus October 12-16 to fit juniors for their rings. Those students ordering rings must do so between 9 a.m. and 4 p.m. in the College Union snack bar area. Delivery of the rings is assured before Christmas.

Hungarian Orchestra Plans Concert Here

"The Friends of the College" will present its first in a series of cultural programs, The Philharmonia Hungarica Symphony Orchestra on Tuesday, October 13.

"The Friends of the College" is a nonprofit corporation, sponsored by the College Union, orchestras and is composed of musicians from several of Hungary's leading orchestras. These members are the eighty artists who fled their homeland to the West during the Russian Purge of Budapest in 1956. Many of them have been prize-winners in international musical competitions, and some of them have been soloists. All are fired with a musical zeal that has welded them into an orchestra ranking among the truly great musical organizations of the day.

Zoltan Rozsnyai, the founder of the orchestra, is the First Conductor. Although he is very young, he has a very distinguished musical career. He directed many symphony orchestras in Hungary before he left that country in 1956. He has received many prizes for his musical prowess and has been a guest director to many of the more prominent orchestras of the world.

Shortly after his escape from Hungary, Rozsnyai started planning the "Philharmonia Hungarica" and it is mainly due to his efforts that these plans materialized so soon.

The Concert will start at 8:00 p.m. The cost will be $3.00 for adults, $2.00 for college students, and $1.00 for non-college students. State College students and their dates will be admitted by presenting their registration cards at the door.

Trustees Plan Visit to State

The following officers were elected:
Mrs. T. R. Redden, Jr.—president, Mrs. H. C. Fox, Jr.—vice president, Mrs. C. L. De Board—Secretary, Mrs. J. H. Scott, Jr.—Treasurer, and Mrs. D. R. Brooks—PIO.

EDITORIAL COMMENT

The Silent State

Joe McCarthy, former manager of the New York Yankees and the Boston Red Sox major league baseball teams, once said that he would fire any man on his team that he caught smoking a pipe, because, to him, a man smoking a pipe was a complacent man.

If we were to use McCarthy's line of thinking, we would have to estimate that there are about six thousand pipe-smoking students on the State College Campus.

At the first of this school year, we predicted that 1959-60 would be, generally speaking, one of the best years in State's history. We based this prediction on a number of optimistic observations, such as the increased enrollment, the enthusiasm of many campus leaders, and the far-above normal expectation on the part of the students that accompanies the beginning of a school year.

As we look over the files of Letters to the Editor, we see no indication, with one exception, that the students of State College are dissatisfied with any element of campus government or campus activities.

We sincerely hope that this is not the true picture of the mind of the State College student. We still believe that there must be a few students who have enough self-respect to speak out when they feel that they are being stepped on in some way.

If this type of student is here at State, however, he hasn't spoken yet.

The Technician is the student's newspaper. By being the student's newspaper, it assumes the duty of speaking for the student at all times.

So far this year, however, it seems that the student needs no one to speak for him. If this is any indication of the months ahead, we see no reason to continue operations.

This newspaper is here so that the student's opinion can be voiced. If we are to effectuate this purpose, we must know how the student feels.

Let us cut down the number of pipe-smoking students. We can grow strong only by speaking up when we, as students, feel that our position is being threatened.

Higher Education

North Carolinians will go to the polls on October 27 to vote on the importance of higher education in our state. They will vote in the Bond Issue either to give education an eighteen million dollars shot-in-the-arm or to deny this sum for the construction of better facilities for this State's students.

Of the eighteen million dollars, State College will receive nearly five million if the Bond Issue is approved. This is a sizeable amount in the entire Bond; only one other school will receive more.

In order that the students of State can help the cause of higher education, a Planning Committee has been established to formulate suggestions for the desired passage of this Bond Issue. (See story, page one, and letter, page two.)

In the near future, this committee will go into action by explaining the ways that students can help in seeing this vote through successfully.

We, as students, realize the inadequacies of our classrooms and labs here; the people of North Carolina want to know. The Planning Committee will show us how to tell the people.

The seasonal rash of new cars is once more upon us, but this year Detroit has added something new: the domestic small car. One can now have an air-cooled V-6 in the trunk of his vehicle, or (for the more conservative in our midst) a car with the motor in front, but tilted to the side at a racy 30-degree angle. These blurb are really beginning to sound like cigarette advertisements. The next thing I expect is a convertible with a top made of 'high porosity paper.' You can't get them to admit it, but one of the gasoline companies is working on a mentholated gasoline. Just the thing to use if your car catches a cold!

Soon the Friends of the College, Inc. will present the first of their series; the Philharmonic Orchestra of Hungary. It should be interesting to see just how many of my brethren students take advantage of their free membership in the organization to pick up a little culture and hear some fine music.

Speaking of music, what is that radio station downtown trying to prove—that they can dominate our taste? I realize that some people like Rock and Roll, so why can't they understand that some others like music of a quiet nature?

I'll have to give them credit for trying. The water fountains did work for a little while in Bragaw—long enough for them to find out that the one on the second floor wouldn't turn off. So now there is no more water, and I am getting thirsty again. "Crossroads," anyone?

M & O isn't really as bad as some people make out. At least when they are finished with a street they let us use it. The State has completed the second pair of lanes on a ten mile stretch of the interstate highway between Durham and Greensboro, but do they use the new pavement? Of course not.

Let's all become Methodists! Then we, too, can park in no-parking zones without getting a ticket. When they had their little convention, or whatever it was, in the Coliseum last Monday, they were all over the place, but none of those cute little tags were in evidence on their windshields.

Overheard at the mailboxes:

1st guy: 'Aw, it's just a magazine.' 2nd guy: 'For you or your roommate?' 1st guy: 'Neither. It's for some other guy. He gets more mail in this box than either of us do!' Get on the ball, Uncle Sam!

Query: when the term 'french curve' is mentioned, do you think of Brigitte Bardot before or after the drawing instrument?

Summary of a recent sports event: 'Lobo' got a low blow. Anyone want to sell their stock? I'm trying to get a controlling interest, so I can let him out of his cage to chase the Blue Devil.

A week ago, the Student Government Legislature created a new body, the Honor System Commission. The purpose of the new Commission is "to better inform the student body as to the worth of the system and the benefits that may be derived from it."

Actually, the new Commission is a helping hand for the Judiciary Department of the Student Government, which is constituted mainly by the Honor Code Board and the two Campus Code Boards. The Honor Code is a very valuable document, and the Judiciary Department enforces it mainly by punishing its violators. The Boards can do very little else, however, to enforce or make the students practice the Honor System. It is here that the system is weak and this is the reason for its partial failure!

If the student body does not believe in the Honor System, (or, what is the same, acts as if they do not agree with it,) the whole idea of having such a policy fails and becomes a paradox. Much better it would be, then, for the faculty and the administration to take over, from the hands of the students, the regulation of conduct and integrity on the campus, and enforce it as they may deem necessary.

The whole subject is a matter of principle! Why to have an Honor System at all? If Joe Blow desires to cheat on a test, he is harming nobody but himself (he would say). He is right on that, I would answer, but does the rest of the class deserve to have somebody undeservingly earn an "A", while the majority of them sweat for a "B" or "C"? Does the College (and consequently its graduates) deserve the poor performance that such an individual, no doubt, will eventually give?

We would agree that rare is the student who goes through college cheating on everything and consequently learning nothing, or next to nothing. Usually there will be no cheating, or only sporadic cheating, by an average student, depending on the make-up of his character and his value judgement.

Yet, if it is only in one basic course that he has cheated, that fact leaves a hole in his education, prompts his neighbors to do the same, corrupts the morale of the students, and underrates the name and purpose of the Institution.

The students should know what they want as guidance, and since they are given the opportunity to formulate some of it, the sensible thing to do is to stick to the general consensus and make the adopted system work.

Our actual situation is precarious, because this system, supposedly agreeable to the students, fails to work. The student body in general does not know the Honor System, fails to see its importance, doubts its value, and neglects its application. Is this the way we will define our stand after having completed our college education?

Every year we all go through the process of seeing others cheat on the exams: We hear of exam papers being stoleff from professors' offices, office equipment and student wallets being sacked.

It would be naive of us to believe that our young, flexible determinations are enough to counteract such abnormalities. The evidence for the necessity of a regulatory system is all too clear. What system shall we approve and practice?!

The Honor System Commission is courageous and realistic in its intentions. It will be something else to see how efficient it becomes. Our best wishes go for its success.

Many students disagree with the Honor System because they think of it as too harsh or incompatible with educational purposes; yet, it can hardly be denied that such a system is full of merits for the integral development of the individual.

In the last instance, the students must decide if the Honor System will be successful or a frustrating half-failure.

Bond Issue Defined; Kuharich Replies

To the Editor:

On October 27, higher education in the State of North Carolina will receive one of its greatest tests, for, on this day, the people of this State will go to the polls to cast their votes on whether to issue $34 million dollars in bonds. Out of this sum, $18,891,000 will be for educational institutions.

This bond issue is somewhat unique in that the voting procedure is not one of either approval or disapproval of the entire sum, but that each faction concerned will stand on its own merit. However, a strong campaign for the support of the entire amount is in progress.

We, as students, being involved in the educational process at the present are primarily concerned with the appropriations for higher education. Daily, we observe the inadequacies in present facilities, and with the ever increasing enrollment of our colleges, the need of these funds become real.

Should the people approve this bond issue, particularly the funds for our colleges, a positive step toward alleviating the present condition and a step of progress for the future of higher education would have been taken.

State College has a considerable stake in this issue—the total of $4,799,000, which will be used for constructing needed facilities. The construction of a new cafeteria, to be located in the area west of the Coliseum would become a reality should the bond issue be approved. With many of our students now living in this area and plans for more student housing to be located in the same vicinity, it is important that facilities for food service be built nearby.

An Electrical Engineering and Physics Building is a must if adequate space is to be provided for the increased enrollment. Funds to complete the budget for building a circular classroom building is included in the bond—classrooms which are needed at present. We badly need double the laboratory space under present conditions, and funds are in the bond's contents for construction of a General Laboratory Building.

The replacement and repair of Horticulture Greenhouses will be facilitated if the bond is approved. With heavier demands on heat facilities due to additional buildings, steps must be taken to meet present service and currently planned expansion. Set aside in State College's share in the issue are funds for purchasing an additional Steam Boiler.

An addition to Polk Hall is to be constructed should the funds be approved. There is a drastic need for extra space in this building, due to the increased enrollment, research and extension. Funds are set aside in this bond to allow the construction of the above-mentioned facilities.

Briefly stated is the case of our educational institutions and, in particular, State College.

Being cognizant of these needs, we, as students, can be very instrumental in seeing that the people of this State also understand and realize the importance that something be done now to correct them.

Pres. of Student Gov.

To the Editor:

I deeply appreciate the honor of being selected by your newspaper as the "Athlete of the Week". It was an honor that should have gone to the entire Notre Dame team, however, and I will accept it in their name. (Editor's Note: On Monday morning, we received the foregoing note from Mr. Kuharich of Notre Dame. In order to make the honor to the outstanding lineman from State in the Carolina game last Saturday seem more official, Jay Brame, sports editor, polled the football coaching staff of State. Their unanimous choice for the award was Frank (Rock) Marocco, a senior guard from Aliquippa, Pennsylvania. Marocco may receive his award by going to the Varsity Men's Wear on Hillsboro Street.)

Rose Chosen To Head A.F.R.O.T.C. Wilson Fellowship Competition Opens

Colonel Robert C. Paul and Cadet Colonel Herbert C. Rose will be the Senior and Cadet Leaders of the Air Force Detachment here for the coming year.

Cadet Colonel Rose, a senior majoring in aeronautical engineering, was named head of the 595th A.F.R.O.T.C. Cadet wing at State College by Colonel Paul at the start of this school year.

He is a member of Sigma Pi Fraternity, and is a representative of this fraternity to the Inter Fraternity Council. He has been chosen for the Sigma Pi outstanding athlete award and is the treasurer of the senior class.

Colonel Paul, Professor of Air Science to State College, has commanded the Air Force Detachment here for one year. He came to the College from Brookley AF Base, in Mobile, Alabama, where he was Base Commander.

Colonel Paul's home of record is in Florida. He graduated with a B.S. Degree from Georgia Tech in 1930. After completing Flying Cadet Training in October 1936, Colonel Paul was commissioned as a Second Lieutenant in the Army Air Corps.

He has remained in the service continuously as a commissioned officer since this time.

During his career, Colonel Paul has served in Africa, Algeria, French Morocco, Italy, and Germany. He has been awarded the Air Medal with the Bronze Star, and various other medals.

Colonel Paul is a Command Pilot. He has also served as a Commander of a Base Unit, Group, Wing, Base and Depot; as a Chief of Staff of a European Detachment; as an Executive Officer, and as a Staff Officer at Headquarters, United States Air Force in Europe.

The Woodrow Wilson National Fellowship Foundation has announced the opening of competition for its fellowships for the academic year 1960-61. The purpose of the Wilson Fellowships is to encourage more college graduates to consider college teaching careers as a profession to help offset the critical shortage of qualified college teachers.

1000 Fellowships are awarded annually for first-year graduate study at any university of the recipients choice in the United States or Canada.

The Woodrow Wilson Fellowships offer $1500, plus full tuition and fees, and, in the case of married Fellows, a dependency allowance for wives and children. The program is open to college graduates in the natural and social sciences and in the humanities.

Both men and women are eligible.

Those who receive awards are not asked to commit themselves to college teaching, but merely to "seriously consider" it as a possible career.

The Woodrow Wilson Foundation does not accept applications directly from students. Candidates for the award must be nominated by a faculty member. Nominated students are invited to declare themselves as active candidates for the award by completing the necessary application forms.

Winners of the award are selected through screenings of the applications and personal interviews by regional selection committees made up of faculty members from the regions' universities and colleges.

The closing date for nominations for the academic year N. C. 1960-61 is October 31, 1960. Additional information can be obtained from the State College Campus Representative, Dr. John R. Lambert, Jr., Winston-Salem, or from the Selection Committee Chairman, Dr. Richard Bardolph, Woman's 220.

State Battles Defending ACC Champions, Clemson

North Carolina State jumps from the frying pan into the fire Saturday afternoon. Last week, the Wolfpack was beaten by a fired-up and determined North Carolina eleven, 20-12, at Chapel Hill. This week, State travels to Clemson, S. C., to meet the Atlantic Coast Conference favorite.

"I'm afraid Clemson will be just as riled as Carolina," Coach Earle Edwards remarked, "following their loss to Georgia Tech. It looks like we had a Ram by the horns and now have to grab a Tiger by the tail."

Edwards said he was pleased with the Wolfpack's performance "except in the fourth quarter." In that period, the Tar Heels came from behind with two touchdowns to overcome a 12-7 State lead and grab the victory.

Edwards said the squad would work harder for Clemson this week. "If we expect to win, we can't afford to run out of gas late in the game," he said.

The Wolfpack coach said the team also would devote more time to fundamentals. "At times, our blocking and tackling against Carolina was just mediocre," Edwards stated.

State plans no lineup changes after the loss to the Tar Heels, it's first setback of the season after a 15-13 win over Virginia Tech in the opener. Clemson is now 2-1 with wins over Carolina and Virginia and a loss to the Ramblin' Wreck.

What problem confronts State the most this week? "Clemson's end sweeps, probably," said Edwards. "But that's not all, of course. They have a fine team, a lot of big boys, and good depth. They will give any team trouble."

Edwards said the Wolfpack would make several adjustments in the defensive alignments to strengthen the terminals. "Carolina had pretty good success run-

A CAMPUS-TO-CAREER CASE HISTORY

Bob Allen and his Chief Operator, Mrs. Julia Chipman, discuss Long Distance records which will soon be converted to automatic processing.

Meet Bob Allen—he's growing fast with a fast-growing company

Robert E. Allen got his B.A. degree from Wabash College in June, 1957, and went to work with Indiana Bell Telephone Company at Indianapolis. "It looked like a growing company where I could grow, too," he says.

It was. Today he is an Assistant Traffic Supervisor there. He's in charge of six other supervisory people and about 100 telephone operators.

Bob attributes his rapid progress to two main factors: the thorough training he received and the steady growth of the telephone business.

"I was trained to be a telephone manager, not just a traffic specialist," he points out. "I've also had practical, on-the-job experience in the plant, commercial and engineering phases of the business. So I'm equipped to handle new responsibilities all the time. And in this fast-growing communications field, that means I have more chances to keep moving ahead."

What about a Bell Telephone Company career for you? Talk with the Bell interviewer when he visits your campus—and read the Bell Telephone booklet in your Placement Office.

With Mrs. Chipman and Miss Gee, Group Chief Operator, Bob reviews a blow-up of the automatic processing card which will mechanize Indiana Bell's Long Distance billing.

Edwards said a squad of 39 players would make the trip.

Notes From The Pack

State hasn't made good on an extra point attempt in four tries this year. The Wolfpack tried two against Virginia Tech (one was wide, the other was not good because of a bad pass from center) and two against North Carolina (one was wide, one was blocked).

In field goal attempts, the Wolfpack is one for two. Ron Wojcicki booted a 44-yarder against VPI but was short on a try against the Tar Heels.

State's three backfield starters (omitting the quarterback) have better than three-yard averages after two games. Right half Ron Podwika has a 3.9 average for 28 carries, left half Claude Gibson is 3.8 for 15 carries, and fullback Arnold Nelson is 3.2 for 16 carries.

Ron Podwika's name must be the most misspelled in collegiate sports. During the past two weeks it has appeared: Podwika, Podwike, Podweka, and worst of all, Podwicki. The latter version appeared six times in a wire service story of the State-Carolina game, including the scoring summary. (Podwika scored both State touchdowns in the 20-12 loss to the Tar Heels).

That's getting as bad as Earl (Edwards) and Everette (Case).

The State freshmen have their own version of the varsity's Gabriel to Gibson passing combination.

It's Kriger to Montgomery. Quarterback Bill Kriger of Moon Run, Pa., hit eight of 13 passes in the 28-0 loss to the North Carolina frosh, and end Don Montgomery of Albemarle caught six.

Coach Bill Smaltz is highly pleased over the work of his three quarterbacks. Backing up Kriger are Phil Sandifer of Washington, D. C., and Dick Wilder of Chadbourn.

State's football team lost Saturday to Carolina, but the Wolfpack band is undefeated—and will be all season. Director Bob Barnes has the biggest and best band in the college's history... 148 pieces. The State band also includes lovely Lindsay Wey of Boone, a nifty majorette.

State Soccer Team Meets Ft. Bragg

Coach Bill Leonhardt's State College soccer team will play host to Fort Bragg here Wednesday in the first home match of the season for the locals.

State, which compiled a 5-2 record last year, opened the season against Fort Bragg last week at Fayetteville and dropped a 5-3 decision to the soldiers.

Led by Co-captains Andy Hutchins of Canton and Dennis Alber of Pinar Del Rio, Cuba, the Pack booters have 10 lettermen returning from last year's squad.

Lettermen include Boris Brodsky, Lima, Peru; Verlin Edwards, Waynesville; Dave Finkelstein, Lima, Peru; Carlos Gutierrez, Mexico City, Mexico; Yalcin Kerem, Istanbul, Turkey; Tommy Lind, Marion; John Scott, Charlotte; and Jobie Redmond, Waterville.

The match will begin at 3 o'clock on the college soccer field.

Dixie Classic Pairings Named

Visiting teams for this year's Dixie Classic will be Utah, Holy Cross, Minnesota, and Dayton.

Pairings for the first round of play are as follows:

- 2:00 p.m.—Wake Forest vs. Holy Cross
- 4:00 p.m.—N. C. STATE vs. Dayton
- 7:30 p.m.—Duke vs. Utah
- 9:30 p.m.—North Carolina vs. Minnesota

State and South Carolina Freshmen Tangle Friday Night In Columbia

North Carolina State's freshman football team travels to Columbia, S. C., Friday night for its second game of the season against the University of South Carolina frosh.

The Wolflets opened the season last week and were blanked 28-0 by North Carolina. The Biddies smashed Maryland in their only game to date.

Coach Bill Smaltz, dissatisfied with his team's performance in the opener, has made several lineup changes for the South Carolina game.

Smaltz will start Bill Kriger of Moon Run, Pa., at quarterback, Bob Renner of Easton, Pa., at tackle, Gene Buonato of Williamsport Pa., at guard, and Jim Darrup of Mt. Carmel, Pa., at right halfback. All were promoted following the loss to Carolina.

Other starters will be Don Montgomery of Albemarle and Bill Faircloth of Fayetteville at ends, Tom Volovich of Bridgeville, Pa., at tackle, Buzzy Holton of New Bern at guard, and Oscar Overcash of Landis at center.

Working with Kriger in the backfield will be Mike Tyndall of Erwin at left half, Darrup at right half, and Roger Moore of Littleton at fullback.

Student Insurance Plan Available, Deadline For Enrollment Is Oct. 15

The insurance plan being offered to all State College students will be available until October 15. Anyone who is interested in enrolling under this plan can do so by going by the College Infirmary or Room 201, the Counseling Office, Holiday Hall.

In answer to the many inquiries from married students, Mr. Lyle B. Rogers has announced that any married student may enroll in a single policy, if they so desire.

Identification cards are available to those who have already enrolled in the plan. They may be picked up at the College Union main desk.

In a statement issued earlier this year by Dean Stewart, the insurance plan was described thus, "Again this year, as in the last several years, State College students are being offered group health and accident insurance. This insurance was originated and is sponsored by the Student Government. The plan for the coming year is underwritten by Educators Mutual Life Insurance Company."

"The insurance plan is designed to supplement the medical service provided by the State College Student Health Service, by giving protection while the student is away from the campus. . . ."

Anyone who desires more information about this insurance may obtain such from the State College Infirmary or the Counseling Office in Room 201, Holiday Hall.

At The College Union

by Oscar Taylor

I notice that the Graduate Students are not satisfied with the College Union program schedule this year. The comment made in the Monday issue of The Technician seems to indicate that no program of a social or cultural level is presented by the CU worth the time to see. I do not wish to start any controversy, but I might mention that the program is not established to have all social-cultural programs.

By no means is the College Union planning to spend money on all programs of one type. It is established on a well-rounded basis to provide programs of interest to all the student body during the year.

These programs are of many varieties so that the end result is a program that will appeal to the entire student body on a large scale.

The committees plan the program during the spring of the previous year and try to have a program schedule that will be of interest to all. These committees then during the current year execute the programs to fulfill the extra time that a student might have.

If a student has this spare time, the programs are provided for his enjoyment. Seventeen committees combine their purposes to meet a common goal—programs that will help the student in later life when he needs to have a well-rounded knowledge of many subjects.

We working with the College Union as students hope that the program is appealing to students and that they will give them a try before condemning the programs.

Opening at the CU in the Gallery on October 6th is a Ceramic Exhibition from the Sixth Annual Miami National Ceramic Exhibition held at Miami, Florida. The exhibit should be of special interest to enthusiasts in the State College area.

The Gallery Committee has constructed a modern surrounding for the pieces that includes a rock and gravel flooring that should be of interest to students.

All beachcomers that have not signed for the overnight trip this week-end will be missing a treat. The trip will be chaperoned, and students are invited to bring a date. Leave at 1 p.m. on Saturday.

Luther Lassiter is now at the CU Games Room with a demonstration of billiards and secrets about playing. He will be present on Thursday evening from 7-9:30 and on Friday from 2-4:30 and from 7-9:30 p.m.

The Friends Of The College, Inc. presents the first program of the year in the Coliseum on October 13, 1959 at 8 p.m. The students at State College are reminded that they may attend free and may also bring a date free. The ID card is your membership card for the series.

Some of the funniest moments in television and radio have been performed completely unintentionally. These pleasant little mistakes are called "goofs", "fluffs", "boo-boos", and some other titles which we are not allowed to print.

In the field of television, the introduction of tape and, of course, film from the beginning cuts down on the possibility of errors.

However, many people enjoyed TV when they could see such sights as the night a "corpse" got up and walked off the stage when he thought the camera had faded from the set. Take the night Betty Furness was extolling the wonderful doors on a certain refrigerator. "See how easy they open," she smiled, but the door would not open.

There are thousands of such stories where during commercials, announcers have discovered to their horror that the product was missing. One night, on Dinah Shore's program, an entire set collapsed in the background while Dinah finished her song without missing a note.

Then, of course, there are such minor calamities as doors jamming on sets, people missing cues while the other actors stand and ad-lib valiantly, sound effects happening after the action is already over, and on and on one can go.

As Mr. Lowery of The News & Observer has pointed out, in the days of live TV, it was always fun to see if the actors would ad-lib such as Lloyd Bridges did one night not so long ago. He got just a little bit carried away, but it made for a more realistic and enjoyable play.

There are fluffs in the films also; of course, they are usually very minor. A recent example was in "North By Northwest." A scene shows Cary Grant and Eva Marie Saint having dinner on a train. The camera, of course, goes back and forth from one to the other as the actors face each other. When Cary is with his back to the camera and Eva is facing it, a cocktail glass sits in front of him untouched. However, every picture of him has him holding the glass. The sound is off here, also, which shows that the scene was filmed twice and then intermingled. If you see a picture a second time, you are always more alert to the mistakes.

No column such as this would be complete without mentioning the inevitable tongue-twisters which every announcer has made. Many of these are often hilarious.

But we as the public are not being critical. Half the fun of the entertainment world is watching for these flaws whether large or small.

Next, week, we'll devote our column to that yearly favorite, the N. C. State Fair. The following week, since modern radio is quite the thing in Raleigh, we'll talk about it pro and con.

Advanced information on music: Here are a few of the hits of tomorrow as listed in a trade publication: "The Best of Everything" & "Cherie" . . . Johnny Mathis; "True Love, True Love" . . . Drifters; "Little Boy Blue" . . . Nina ("I Love You Porgy") . . . Simone; and "Taste of the Blues" . . . Buddy Knox.

A movie marquee in Raleigh recently had a new way to spell Montgomery Clift's last name. On the marquee, it read CLIFE. Well, so goes Life.

James Arness of "Gunsmoke" will appear on "The Red Skelton Special" tomorrow night, and one hour later, The Kingston Trio entertain on "The Telephone Hour." Should be a ringer.

Summer Jobs Offered To Juniors By U.S. Social Security Department

The Social Security Administration, a division of the U. S. Department of Health, Education and Welfare, has announced a new program of hiring their technical and supervisory employees.

Under the new plan, a limited number of students will be employed for the summer months between their junior and senior year at an annual salary of $4040.00.

If the Social Security people like the student and he likes them, he will be given permanent employment the following June. His salary at that time will be $4980 a year if he has a B average or ranks in the upper fourth of his class.

The number of these Student Assistant positions for the summer of 1960 is limited to 25 in the Charlottesville, Virginia region of the Social Security Administration.

The successful applicants for the positions will report the first week in June in a district office in one of the five States served by that Region. They will be released in September to return to school for their senior year.

Any junior who has an interest in a career with the Social Security Administration should get in touch with Dr. Kingston Johns in the Student Employment Office, 207 Holladay Hall, immediately. He will advise you about making application to take the Federal Service Entrance Examination which is a prerequisite for these positions.

Hill Library Cited For Forestry Books

The D. H. Hill Library at State College Wednesday was presented a certificate praising it for "its meritorious contributions in the collecting, preserving, and disseminating of North American forest and forest industries history."

In presenting the certificate to the library, the Forest History Foundation, Inc., of St. Paul, Minn., also designated the State College Library as "an approved repository of manuscript and other materials relating to forest history."

Making the presentation to Librarian Harlan C. Brown was J. J. Ennis of Canton, regional manager of the Timber Products Division, Champion Paper and Fibre Company.

The certificate was signed by Theodore C. Blegen, president of the Forest History Foundation, Inc., which maintains its headquarters in St. Paul, Minn.

Among those present for the presentation was Dr. Richard J.

Preston, dean of the State College School of Forestry.

The D. H. Hill Library at State College contains the valuable Biltmore Collection, which includes the papers and books of a number of distinguished foresters including the late Dr. Carl Alwin Schenck, who started the first school of forestry in the Western Hemisphere, the Biltmore Forest School at Asheville, in 1898 and headed it until 1913 when it ceased operation.

Dr. Schenck, a German forester brought to this country by Commodore Vanderbilt to supervise the operation of the Biltmore Forest near Asheville, was awarded an honorary doctor's degree by State College in the early 1950s.

We are still running our contest for the "Name It" program. A $5.00 cash prize may be yours if you come up with a suitable name for this show which runs from 5 til 7:30 each weekday evening. This contest closes midnight, Oct. 12, so send those names into WKNC, Box 5748, Raleigh, or call TE 2-7861 during broadcast hours. A dime or 3c stamp is a pretty good investment on a $5.00 prize.

WKNC's apprentice members have just begun their six-week training program. About eight interested students turned out for the orientation meeting on Tuesday. There is still an opportunity for any other interested students to enroll in the WKNC apprenticeship program. If you are interested, come by the station anytime during broadcast hours.

A note of interest—the necessary funds have been approved for the purchase of a new tape recorder. Programming until 3 a.m. may come sooner than expected!

We certainly appreciate the many requests we have gotten for our "Dedicated to You" show during this week. Keep them coming so that we can truly be featuring "the music most people like most."

Since most of you won't be able to go to Clémson this weekend, be sure to follow the game over WKNC, brought to you by L&M. We'll see you at the 580 spot.
