Ferlinghetti, Noted Writer, To Speak In Lecture Series

By Joel Ray

Lawrence Ferlinghetti, famed poet-leader of the 'west coast movement', will present the second lecture in the "Contemporary Scene" series this Wednesday night at 8:15 in the ballroom of the N. C. State College Union. After remarkable success with the John Dos Passos lecture on the 26th of last month, the Library Committee Inc. is anticipating even larger attendance to hear Mr. Ferlinghetti. Following the lecture will be a coffee hour to provide interested persons the opportunity to meet and talk with Ferlinghetti.

Lawrence Ferlinghetti, sometimes called "the most important poet writing today", is shown talking with State College students at the Sigma Alpha Mu fraternity. The noted writer will present the second lecture in the series, "Contemporary Scene," at the College Union ballroom, Wednesday at 8:15 p.m. (Photo by Hoey)

Ferlinghetti was born in Yonkers, New York, in 1919. He received an A. B. degree from the University of North Carolina and an M. A. from Columbia. After Navy service in World War II, he "emptied wastebaskets at Time" for a while and then went to Paris, where he lived from 1947-1951. While he was there, he received his doctorate from the Sorbonne. Upon returning to the states, he went to San Francisco where he and Peter Martin founded the first all-paperbound bookstore in the country. Here he began to publish the now famous Pocket Poets Series, which includes work by William Carlos Williams, Gregory Corso, Kenneth Rexroth, Kenneth Patchen and Allen Ginsberg, as well as a volume of his own poetry, Pictures of the Gone World. Since that time, he has had published another volume of poems, A Coney Island of the Mind, a vastly popular book which has sold over 40,000 copies, an almost phenomenal figure for a book of poetry. It is now in its seventh printing. Ferlinghetti has recently published a novel, Her, and will soon hit the presses with a new volume of poetry, Love and Death.

He has traveled widely in this country giving poetry readings and recently participated with Allen Ginsberg in a Pan-American cultural conference at the University of Concepcion in Chile.

While in San Francisco this summer, the author of this column had the distinct pleasure of meeting Mr. Ferlinghetti, who was, at the time, manning the cash register in the City Lights Bookstore. Unfortunately, he has been labeled a "beatnik" or "angry young man," call it what you will, primarily because of his relations with Ginsberg and Corso. This artificial conception of Ferlinghetti is completely unjustified, as one will see the minute he compares the writings of the three men. Possessing an unbelievable ear for the sounds of the times, Ferlinghetti writes poetry that is simple, human, and sometimes frighteningly true. He speaks with the voice of a man who has seen deeply into the troubles of our society, but is not blinded by these ills. A good example of the beauty in his work is seen in these lines from Pictures of the Gone World: "... at that moment in the still November dusk, silence hung like a lost idea and a statue turned its head." This is Lawrence Ferlinghetti, the man who has been called "the most important poet writing today."

Genetics Dept. Receives Grant; Boosts Training And Research

RALEIGH, N. C., Nov. 12—North Carolina State College has received a grant of $125,000 from the Rockefeller Foundation to be used toward support of graduate training and research in quantitative genetics and breeding methodology of maize (corn).

The grant, which became effective November 1, will be available during a five-year period. Dr. A. H. Moseman, deputy director of Agricultural Services of the Rockefeller Foundation, N. Y., notified the college of the grant.

Dr. John T. Caldwell, chancellor of the college, termed the grant "a further recognition of the high competence which has been developed at North Carolina State College in the field of genetics." He added that the grant "will enable us to make further progress of real significance."

The program authorized by the grant is being administered in the college's Department of Genetics, headed by Dr. H. F. Robinson.

Working with Dr. Robinson are Dr. R. H. Moll of the Department of Genetics, Dr. P. H. Harvey and Dr. D. L. Thompson, both of the Department of Field Crops, and Dr. C. C. Cockerham of the Department of Statistics.

The grant will be applied to the salary of a senior geneticist in the Department of Genetics and to supplement salaries for additional staff members in the department; to services supplied by the Department of Field Crops and Statistics; to the travel expenses of staff members of the cooperating departments to Latin American countries; and to labor, supplies, and miscellaneous materials.

The objectives of the program are five-fold:

First, to provide a training center for superior foreign graduate students, particularly those from Latin America, who intend to emphasize quantitative genetics in their advanced training.

Secondly, to utilize interbreeding populations of exotic U. S. germ plasm in the study of the nature of the gene action in crosses between widely divergent genetic stocks.

Thirdly, to determine the utility of exotic germ plasm in further improvement of southern prolific corn.

And last, to serve in an advisory capacity to the Inter-American Maize Program.

Rockefeller Foundation grants have provided generous support to statistical and quantitative genetics research at State College during the past 10 years.

The staff of geneticists and statisticians working at this institution on both theoretical and experimental studies in quantitative inheritance provide a comprehensive program which has achieved international recognition.

This will clearly establish the college as the leading center in the world of quantitative genetics.

Ag Council Planning Barnwarming Dance For Saturday Night

The Annual Barnwarming Dance, sponsored by the Ag Council will be held this Saturday night, November 19, in Frank Thompson Gymnasium.

In years past, the Barnwarming has been an enjoyable event and it looks as if this year is not going to be an exception. Attire for the occasion will be informal. The usual dress for girls is long skirts and bonnets and plaid shirts and bib overalls for the boys. A prize is usually given for the best-dressed couple of the evening.

Music will be supplied by the String Band of Red Rose who won First Prize at the State Fair.

Anyone wishing to enter a girl in the Queen Contest should contact Ben Costin or any Ag Council member. A prize will be given to the girl chosen as the queen of the dance.

Four Young Cubans Escape Castro In Outboard Boat

MOBILE, ALA., NOV 15 (UPI)—Four young Cubans who braved the Gulf of Mexico in a nine-foot outboard motorboat to escape Cuba, went to Brownsville, Tex., today for an immigration hearing.

The Cubans, ages, 15, 21, 24, 26, arrived here yesterday aboard the SS Ore transport and asked for political asylum. They said they would be jailed and possibly executed for counter-revolutionary activities if sent back to Cuba.

They said they were active in spreading anti-Castro leaflets in Cuba. They predicted Cuban Premier Fidel Castro would be overthrown within five or six months because "the people are fed up . . ."

The refugees, who asked that their names be withheld to protect relatives still in Cuba, said they had a small boat, a six-horsepower motor, 10 gallons of gasoline, one bottle of water and no food when they left Sept. 26.

"We headed north," the oldest said, "and hoped to hit the coast of Florida. We had to bail rain out of the boat all the time and after 20 hours, were exhausted. We were ready to give up, then this ship appeared on the horizon."

The SS Ore chief took the group to Venezuela. There, the Cubans said, they were asked by an anti-Communist group to make speeches, telling how the Communists are taking over Cuba. They said they then were threatened by Venezuelan Communists and ship's officers decided they should be sent to the United States.

"Castro holds his power by the use of fear," the refugees said. "But the people are fed up with this fear and they are making plans to take over the government."

Eight Finalists

Miss Photogenic To Be Chosen

On Saturday (November 19) at 2:30 p.m., the final events of the Miss Photogenic Contest will be held in the College Union Ballroom.

Eight lovely ladies who were chosen as finalists in a preliminary contest held November 2, will parade before the judges.

Judges for the contest will be:

Miss Millie Clements of the News and Observer Photographic staff; Roy Johnson, director of WUNC-TV in Raleigh; and John Mattox of the N. C. State College Visual Aids Department. The finalists are girls from the campuses of our own and neighboring colleges. These girls are all single and are either independents or sponsored by a campus organization.

The models wore street clothes for the preliminaries, and will wear cocktail dresses for the finals. They are judged on their personality, modeling ability, and photogenic qualities.

The eight finalists are:

Gail Newton of Meredith College, Amy Lou Bell of Meredith College, Dolly Isom an independent, Janet Shaw of Peace College, Dale Thompson an independent, Paula Billingsley sponsored by the pledge class of Sigma Kappa sorority, Carol Kelly sponsored by Phi Epsilon Fraternity, and Melissa Lindsey sponsored by the regular members of Sigma Kappa sorority.

The lighting will be arranged so that photographers may take pictures during the finals of the contest.

The Photography Committee chairman is Rodney McCurry, and this event was planned by the contest sub-committee headed by Sam Barham.

Which one of these fair lassies will be chosen "Miss Photogenic" at the finals on Saturday November 19.

The Engineers' Ball will be held on November 19, 1960 at 8:00 p.m. in Reynolds Coliseum. Bids may be picked up in your respective departmental offices from today until November 18. Music will be provided by the Duke Ambassadors. Free refreshments will be served by the Engineers' Council. All faculty and students of the School of Engineering are cordially invited to attend this event.

A meeting of the North Carolina State College Young Democrats Club Executive Committee will be held Wednesday night at 8:00 p.m. in the College Union.

There will be a meeting of the American Society of Agricultural Engineers and the Mechanized Agriculture Club, 7:00 p.m., Thursday, November 17, in the new Agricultural Engineering Building. Mr. Bob Walters, chief agricultural engineer with TVA, will be the guest speaker. All faculty, students, and staff (See CRIER, page 4)

Comments From The Editor

Only One...

Graduation exercises for the 1960-61 academic school year were announced yesterday. To the surprise of many, there will be no midyear or summer graduation exercises. Students completing requirements for a degree at the end of the fall semester or a summer school session will receive their diploma by mail. These students will also be listed in the spring commencement program. If these students desire, they may participate in the spring graduation exercises.

The commencement will be held on May 27, 1961. The program will consist of a military parade at 1:00 p.m., military commissioning exercises at 2:00 p.m., informal receptions as desired and scheduled by the various academic departments, and formal exercises at 4:30 p.m. The formal exercises will be held in the William Neal Reynolds Coliseum.

All candidates for baccalaureate degrees must attend the exercises unless excused by the Division of Student Affairs. All candidates for graduate degrees must attend the exercises unless excused by the Dean of the Graduate School. There will be no school exercises this year.

This year, there will be no graduation exercises in January as was stated above. Many of the students that graduate in January will not approve of having just one graduation per year. They feel that they are entitled to have fall graduation exercises also. Some of them claim that they will find it inconvenient to return to school for the spring exercises due to various reasons.

By having only the spring graduation exercises, the school will be able financially to obtain some speaker of national prominence such as Adlai Stevenson, Henry Cabot Lodge, or President Dwight D. Eisenhower. These are without a doubt very notable men. By having a guest speaker that is nationally known, the graduation exercises will be long remembered by the graduating senior.

We are also glad to see that the graduation exercises have been moved to Saturday instead of Sunday. We feel that the graduation will be more than just a sermon as it has been in the past.

We feel that the graduation exercises held by State College will not conflict with other colleges in the area as they have in the past. By having the graduation exercises earlier than other colleges in the area, there will be more coverage by newspapers throughout the state. In the past the newspapers have had to split coverages between the different colleges.

By having graduation exercises once a year, the exercises will mean more for all concerned. It is a definite improvement over the old plan, and the persons that proposed the new one should be congratulated.

LITTLE MAN ON CAMPUS

Rambling Round

By Ann Smith

I have it on good authority that pizzas are going to be served in the College Union Snack Bar in the near future. It's a shame that they won't be able to serve beer with them.

Have you ever felt out of place and conspicuous at the same time? Well, I have.

I trotted into Physical Ed class Tuesday morning and found out that it was to be held in the band room. Now, the band room is in the downstairs part of the gym. I have been told on various occasions that creatures like me are not allowed in that section of the building, downstairs I went. I entered the room and found a nice corner to hide in.

Boys started coming into the room. They stared at me and I blushed. All during the class, they were whispering, laughing, and staring at me. I think that it is a shame that a girl cannot take a course in physical education without becoming something to be stared at and laughed at.

The employees that work behind the Snack Bar of the College Union gave a going away party for one of the workers who had to quit work because there was to be an addition to her family. A cake was presented with gooey letters wishing her a fond farewell.

Thanksgiving is here again and I can go home.

With Thanksgiving comes mid-term reports. How are your grades coming so far? Are they trailing behind or are they trotting merrily ahead of you? If they are doing either, you will be getting mail from your advisor. If your grades are higher than they should be, you will be warned to keep them down and if they are lower than they should be, you will be warned to raise them.

Have you been going to see the week-end movies at the College Union? What do you think of the serial? I was in the theatre last Saturday and when the first cartoon came on, there was the usual amount of rejoycing. When the second cartoon started (it was a Road Runner type), you could not hear the first few lines because of the yelling. When the serial started, there was more cheering that there has been at all of the home football games put together.

I think that it is about time that college students learn how to go up and down stairs. Try to go upstairs in Winston Hall at 10 a.m. on Tuesday and Thursdays.

Letters To The Editor

To the Editor of The Technician:

I do not attend State, in fact I don't even go to school in North Carolina. The only time I've been there was this summer which I spent in Raleigh. I hope you will print my letter anyway. I am very interested in State since one of my dearest friends is a member of your student body. I have received some of the clippings concerning your cheerleaders and school spirit and would like to put in my unprejudiced two cents' worth.

The letter to which I am particularly referring is the one from the Occupants of Burlington Dormitory. Not only does this letter display the poor taste of its authors, it displays rather poor taste on your part. I sincerely believe that anyone who would write such a letter is, himself, a rather bad representative of State, and anyone who would print it is even worse.

I do not know your head cheerleader, but I am sure that he was chosen to be one on rather valid reasons. I have always been under the impression that it was the job of a cheerleader to get the spectators to cheer—whether they are "damn sick of it" or not.

I don't know anyone in Burlington Dormitory either, and frankly, I don't think I would care to know anyone who could express himself no better than the occupants who wrote the letter. They gave very poor reasons for their opinion of the head cheerleader. And, why didn't they sign their names and stand up for what they said?

I believe in constructive criticism as much as the next person. But only as it was demonstrated by Barbara Louise Snyder.

In closing, I would like to say that anyone who found it necessary to express himself in such a vulgar manner must have a very limited vocabulary and any editor who would print such a letter a very limited amount of subject matter.

An interested outsider,
Barbara Ann Hayes
Greeley, Colorado

To the Editor of The Technician:

After reading Jay Brame's article about N. C. State's probation, one would get the idea that the NCAA was a big, bad meany and that N. C. State was simple-pure and being picked on.

Not once in his analysis of why we were on probation did Brame mention that we were as guilty as we could be of illegal recruiting. Brame says that we were on probation because the NCAA took the word of one coach over the facts that N. C. State presented to the body. You and I know that the NCAA doesn't go and hand out maximum four-year probations on the word of one person. They must have had some pretty solid facts.

The point is: lets not miss the whole point of the probation; lets realize that we were wrong, and not blame the NCAA for our probation.

Richard B. Phillips

(Sports Editor's Note: Mr. Phillips, we appreciate your comments on our story pertaining to the probation period that State just finished this past Sunday. The facts presented by Mr. Brame in his story are the actual facts concerning the probation trial. Mr. Brame has been close with the athletic department for several years, and he is a member of the Athletic Council of the College. This should establish him as an authority on the subject.)

The charges brought against State College were never proved with concrete facts. State College was convicted on the word of one person.

The article was written after a study of the probation period. Included in this study were interviews with people here at State College, who are in positions of responsibility in the athletic department.)

Honor Code Board Violations Announced

A case involving a violation of the Honor Code was brought to the attention of the Honor Code Board of the North Carolina State College Student Government last Thursday, Nov. 10. A student was charged with stealing a jacket from the Student Supply Store; he pleaded guilty to the charge.

After consideration of the facts involved, the board placed the student on probation for the remainder of the 60-61 school year. This means that because of his act, the defendant may not participate in any college activity or represent the school in any manner during this period. A letter concerning the violation was placed in the student's permanent files, and a copy sent home to his parents.

Bagwell Tops Bragaw For Football Title

By Richie Williamson
Associate Sports Editor

The dormitory intramural championship which had long eluded Bagwell became theirs Tuesday afternoon as they downed Bragaw N. 13-6. A combination of strong running plays and good pass patterns provided them with two quick touchdowns in the second period as they overcame an earlier score by Bragaw.

Mike Carpenter was the elusive quarterback for Bagwell as he paced the team, completing 11 of 22 passes for 84 yards and two TD's. Monte Wilson paced the ground game with a 29-yard run that set up the winning score.

Bagwell's defense was ready for the occasion as they kept the Bragaw running game in the red column for a minus seven yards. The pass defense was equally strong allowing three Bragaw passers, J. B. Snipes, John Tullis, and Ed Knox, to complete 3 of 18 aeriels.

The first period of play was pretty much of a standstill with the teams exchanging punts as they battled over the 60-yard field. In the opening seconds of the second quarter, Bragaw's Howard Knox intercepted one of Carpenter's passes on the Bagwell 15 and returned it to the one yard line. Snipes started around right end but found himself trapped so he tossed the ball into the end zone where Andy Adams snagged it for the touchdown. The pass for the extra point went into the dirt.

Bagwell came right back for a 44-yard drive to tie the score. Wilson returned the kickoff 14 yards. After a runing play, Carpenter took to the air for two completions to Bill Styons for a first down on the Bragaw 20. He then passed down the right side to Bob Roach for another first on the three. On the next play Carpenter hit Styons across the middle for the TD.

Later in the period Snipes intercepted a pass and ran to the Bagwell 13, but Bragaw could not move the ball and Bagwell took over on downs. Wilson crashed through the middle and cut to the left side for 29 yards to the Bragaw 18. Carpenter faded back and hit Styons in the right corner for the winning touchdown with eight seconds left in the half. Roach made the extra point on a pass.

Bagwell drove to the Bragaw in the third period behind the Carpenter to Styons combination, but the drive ended when Howard Knox intercepted a pass.

Here is some of the action in the intramural football championships played the first of this week.

Pack Finishes 4th In X-Country Meet

N. C. State finished fourth in the Atlantic Coast Conference cross country meet held in College Park, Maryland, Monday. Rett Everett and Gerald Stuver finished first and second for Carolina. These are the same two boys, who finished in a tie for first in the state meet held here last week.

Carolina was the overall team winner with 25 points to 38 for Maryland. It marked the third time in five years that the Tar Heels have won the team title. Duke finished third and State finished fourth. Virginia placed fifth, while Clemson, South Carolina, and Wake Forest failed to qualify in the team scoring.

State did not have a man in the top 15. The winning time posted by Everett was 17:53. Stuver's second place time was 18:06.

Soils Judging Team Wins Second Place At U. Of Tennessee

The Soils Judging Team from North Carolina State College has won second place in recent southeastern soil judging competition at the University of Tennessee.

Members of the State College team are Jerry B. Fitts, son of Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Fitts, 1021 Gardner St., Raleigh; Roger E. Hanes, Yadkinville; James A. Wright, Marion; and Robert P. Patterson, Hickory. Patterson is team captain.

E. F. Goldston, assistant professor of soils, is team coach.

The Agronomy Club sponsors the team.

"The purpose of the team," Prof. Goldston explained, "is to train students to appreciate the value of different soils, their productive capacity, use and management."

C. U. Craft Group Makes Christmas Decorations

The Christmas Craft Workshop was held on November 14 from 7:30 until 10:00 p.m. The Workshop was open to anyone who wished to make Christmas decorations. A great array of free materials was available and the Hobby Committee, sponsor of the Workshop, provided printed sheets explaining the construction of six different decorations. Included among this decorations were pine cone or tooth pick Christmas trees, paper napkin stars, and quadruple lanterns. Large, colored candles could also be made.
