Only 32.6% Goal

Chest Drive Falls Short

By Tom Lane

The banners were waved, the shouting done, but the money did not come.

The Campus Chest Drive for 1960-61 is passed. The proceeds from the drive totaled $918.09. This was only 32.6% of the goal of $3000—not a very good showing for our large campus.

I realize that money is not flowing freely on our campus, but I do feel that more money could be raised for such a worthwhile cause. Is this lack of interest in the drive due to a disregard of other people's needs? It certainly should not be.

Breaking down the results into groups showed: dormitories—$720.10; fraternities—$135.15; Statesville—$29.34; and organizations—$33.50.

The dormitories showed a one hundred dollar increase over last year, while the fraternities decreased by $725. There was a decrease also on the part of the organizations.

There were many people involved in the carrying out of this year's drive. The Technician gave tremendous help by printing the articles even when they were submitted late. WKNC helped considerably with their spots throughout the week of the drive. To all the staffs of both these groups I say "Thank you."

To all the men of Alpha Phi Omega, who acted as coordinators and solicitors, I say "You did your part." To Mrs. Joyner and Miss Shirley of the Student Affairs office, I really appreciate your efforts for the drive. The boys in the dorms who acted as solicitors deserve a big thanks for the part they played in the drive.

I would like to especially thank Pete Gernert, Chairman of Solicitations; Jim Spotts, Publicity Chairman; and Tom Johnston, Campus Chest Advisor for their efforts in the drive.

This year's Campus Chest Drive is over; it is time to start on next year's. If anyone has any suggestions for future Campus Chest Drives, please give them to any member of Alpha Phi Omega.

If everyone will do his part, next year's drive can be a success.

Drive Launched To Aid State Graduate School

RALEIGH, N. C., NOV. 29 (UPI)—The North Carolina Engineering Foundation, Inc., today launched a drive to raise $340,000 to match part of the Ford Foundation's $760,000 grant to North Carolina State College.

The matching funds, together with the Ford grant, will make a total of $1,100,000 available to the School of Engineering for its graduate training program.

R. Walker Martin of Raleigh, President of the Engineering Foundation, announced plans for the fund campaign following the Foundation's annual meeting in Winston-Salem yesterday.

Martin was re-elected for a third term as President of the Foundation at the Winston-Salem meeting.

State Loses M E Prof. To New York State U.

Dr. Thomas F. Irvine, Jr., professor of mechanical engineering at State College, has been named Dean of Engineering for the State University of New York, Long Island Center, effective February 1.

Announcement of the appointment was made today by Prof. John F. Lee, head of the college's Department of Mechanical Engineering and president-elect of the newly-established New York university.

"It is very difficult for one who is wearing the two hats of department head at State College and president-elect of the State University of New York on Long-Island to express accurately his feelings concerning this announcement," said Prof.

Lee. "Dr. Irvine's leaving is a great loss to State College, but from the point of view of president-elect I must say that no better choice could be made in the county for dean of engineering."

Professor Lee said, "Dr. Irvine's intellectual contributions and leadership in engineering at the State University will reflect great credit on his term of service at North Carolina State College."

Dr. Irvine, who has had wide experience in academic work, in research, and in consulting, joined the State College faculty in the fall of 1959. Since then, in addition to his teaching duties, he has been technical director for two major research projects, has been very active in professional societies, has been chairman of the mechanical engineering lecture series, and has published more than ten technical papers.

Commenting on his new appointment, Dr. Irvine stated, "I am very sorry to leave my colleagues and students at North Carolina State College, but the professional challenge offered by the new position was one impossible to turn down."

A graduate of Pennsylvania State University with a degree in electrical engineering, Dr. Irvine received his master's and his doctor's degrees in mechanical engineering from the University of Minnesota. His special fields of interest are in the areas of heat transfer, gas dynamics, thermodynamics, fluid mechanics, and rocket propulsion.

Prior to his coming to State College, he was associate professor of mechanical engineering at the University of Minnesota.

Honorary and professional societies to which he belongs are the American Rocket Society, the Association for Applied Solar Energy, the American Society of Mechanical Engineers, the American Association for the Advancement of Science, Sigma Xi, Tau Beta Pi, Eta Kappa Nu, and Pi Tau Sigma.

He is chairman of the National Committee on Aircraft Heat Transfer in the American Society of Mechanical Engineers; a member of the ASME National Committee on Heat Transfer in Biotechnology, and the ASME Papers Committee of Heat Transfer Division; chairman of the Papers Committee for the 1961 International Heat Transfer Conference and a member of the Conference Planning Committee; a member of the American Rocket Society's National Committee on Liquid Fuel Rockets; official liaison representative between the American Rocket Society and the Heat Transfer Division of the ACME; and a member of the editorial board of the Internal Heat Transfer Journal.

During the last five years, he has served as consultant for a number of nationally known industries and is currently doing consulting work for the United States Air Force in space technology and for the Astra Corporation.

Dr. Irvine has had published approximately 35 papers in professional and technical journals throughout the country.

A native of Northmont, N. J., he is married to the former Martha Emery and they have five daughters.

Community Chorus Plans Christmas Music Program

The State College student body has a cordial invitation to the 15th annual Christmas oratorio of the Raleigh Music Club-sponsored Community Chorus next Sunday, December 4th. The time is 4 p.m., the place the Auditorium of the Josephus Daniels Junior High School.

Soloists are Helen Masloff Mahler, Pat Fraher, Edward Hill, Joseph Bouchard, Ray Kreiner, Jim Edwards, and John Hills. Director is Miss Geraldine Cate of the St. Mary's Junior College Music Department. The committee in charge is chaired by Mrs. David B. Sutton and includes Mrs. W. P. Garriss of the Meredith College Music Department, Mrs. Coite Jones and Mrs. Ray Goodmon.

There is no charge. The music to be sung is a very fitting introduction to the Christmas season. The Christmas portion of the Mendelssohn oratorio "Christus" will open the program. This oratorio, based on the life of Christ, was started near the end of Mendelssohn's life and was never finished. Introduced by the three wise men singing "Say, where is He born, the King of Judea," the Chorus responds with the prophecy "There shall a star from Jacob come forth and a sceptre from Israel rise up, and dash in pieces princes and nations." The great "Morning Star" chorale concludes this section of the oratorio.

For the principal work of the concert, the Chorus, Soloists and Orchestra will present the Magnificat in D Major by Carl Philip Emanuel Bach. Second son of a famous father, Carl Philip Emanuel Bach became even better known in the Europe of his day where he exerted great influence on both Haydn and Mozart. The Magnificat is one of his three great choral compositions. Musically it is a mixture of the Italian romantic style and the classic forms of his father, Johan Sebastian Bach. The text, sung in English, is taken from the Gospel of Luke, Chapter I, verses 46 to 55 beginning with Mary's words: "My soul doth magnify the Lord" and concluding with a mighty "Gloria". The chorus is composed of singers from many groups in Raleigh, church choirs, and various college groups. The orchestra has been recruited from the Triangle area and is sponsored by the local chapter of the American Federation of Musicians. Geraldine Cate will direct the performance which is open to the public without charge. Any contributions received at the concert will be applied to the music scholarship fund sponsored by the Raleigh Music Club.

Bishop's Company To Present Play

The Bishop's Company, a unique repertory company now in its eighth year of touring coast to coast, will present Stephen Vincent Benet's "The Devil and Daniel Webster" on December 6th at 8:00 P.M. in the Danforth Chapel at the E. S. King Religious Center.

"The Devil and Daniel Webster" is one of six carefully selected works to be staged by The Bishop's Company. The play presents the situation of Webster, Mr. America himself, cornered by the Devil in an attempt to argue for a man's soul. Webster avoids a losing defense based on facts and figures by appealing to the jury in making them sense the dignity as well as the weakness of man.

Founded in 1952 by Phyllis Benbow Beardsley, The Bishop's Company has toured over 600,000 miles, playing in 48 states and Canada. It has appeared as part of the program of the Second Assembly of the World Council of Churches at Evanston, at Yale Divinity School and Princeton Theological Semnary, and at Rutgers University, Wittenberg and Carleton Colleges, and many other colleges and universities.

Churches which have acclaimed this unusual touring company, currently featuring two traveling units, include the President's Church in Washington; Hennepin Avenue Methodist Church, Minneapolis; St. Paul's Episcopal Church, New Haven; University Presbyterian Church, Seattle; Taylor Road Synagogue, Cleveland.

Santa Barbara, California, has become the scene of permanent headquarters for The Bishop's Company. In addition to the two touring units and a Santa Barbara resident unit, a Bishop's Company Duo will tour high schools beginning in January, 1961.

This is one of the greatest opportunities of the year to be presented to State College students. Seats will be available on a first-come first-served basis, although any interested student may be sure of getting a seat by picking up a ticket in the office of the college YMCA.

Alma Mater Contest Slated

By William E. Coutouzis

The Mu Beta Psi Music Fraternity on campus is again holding a contest to promote the learning and the ability to sing our school Alma Mater. The North Carolina State Marching Band has played our school song twice during each game; once during the half-time performances and once at the end of each game. Cheerleaders have distributed sheets with the cheers and Alma Mater on them at each game. There was still not much response in the singing.

Last year more than 160 persons were stopped on campus and asked to sing the Alma Mater. Only four did it, or could do it; and they were promptly rewarded for their efforts. This year Mu Beta Psi has decided to award five silver dollars to any person who is stopped on campus and asked to sing the Alma Mater and who does so. Many students will be asked and many dollars will be given away, but many students will not sing it. Is this typical of our school?

I wish somebody would ask me, but I am ineligible as are all band and glee club members. The opening of the contest will come Thursday, and the contest will last approximately one week. If the past results are any indication, the contest this year should be interesting. It's amazing to see how many students who are constantly hard up for money let five dollars slip through their fingers. Will you be one of them?!

North Carolina State Alma Mater

Where the winds of Dixie softly blow,

O'er the fields of Caroline, There stands ever cherished N. C. State;

As thy honored shrine.

So lift your voices proudly sing From hill to ocean side;

Our hearts ever hold you, N. C. State

In the folds of our love and pride.

ROTC Units In Parade

The colorful spectacle of Raleigh's Christmas parade was lent added interest by the presence of several units from the State College Army ROTC brigade. Helping to escort Santa into town were the Drum and Bugle Corps, the Pershing Rifles drill team, and the Color Guard.

The four-man Color Guard carried the American and State College Army ROTC flags along the route of the parade, which began near the intersection of St. Mary's and Hillsboro streets, moved through downtown Ra-

Campus Crier

Leopold Wildlife Club will have its next meeting on Thursday, December 1. All students in the wildlife and Zoology curricula are urged to attend. The meeting will begin at 7:00 p.m. in room 149 Gardner. After a short business meeting a talk will be given on Conservation in South Africa by Samuel Mottuenvane.

There will be a combined meeting of all textile students in the Textile Auditorium on Thursday, December 8, 1960, at 1 P.M.

In order to accommodate the members of the Board of Trustees for a meeting at the College Union, the College Union parking lot and Primrose Avenue between Brooks and Gardner Streets will be reserved for the Trustees. Students who ordinarily use any of these parking spaces are requested to cooperate by parking their vehicles in other areas. The parking spaces reserved for the Trustees will be blocked to campus traffic at 7 a.m. on December 5, and traffic will be controlled by the campus traffic officers.

The N. C. State College Agronomy Club will meet Thursday, December 1, at 7:00 p.m. in the McKimmon Room, Williams Hall. A representative from the N. C. State College Alumni Association will be the guest speaker. All members should wear coat and tie as the picture for the Agromock will be made at the meeting promptly at 7 p.m. Refreshments will be served.

Hospitality Committee Provides C. U. Programs

For those of you who came dressed in dogpatch style and remember the fun you had at the Sadie Hawkins Dance, with well over 1,000 attending, you may recall that the College Union Hospitality Committee was the working force behind this event. This Committee, composed mostly of coeds on campus, devoted many hours and much interest toward preparation for this dance. These girls jittered and stomped around until all decorations were made and up in the ballroom. The Committee made a special effort to have "Marryin' Sam" dressed in full regalia, performing his duties, and that he did! He tied the knot for two couples without too much ado. Yes, this is indeed a working committee, and the Sadie Hawkins Dance is just one example of programs which these students will be sponsoring.

The faculty outside the regular classroom meetings. The first such coffee hour is scheduled for shortly before the Thanksgiving Holidays. Along this same line, the members of the Committee offer their help in passing out programs for the Friends of the College series.

Other events which the Committee will be sponsoring are the College Union Banquet and the Spring Fashion Show. The Banquet is held each Spring in recognition of the students who have served on committees and contributed their time and efforts toward planning and presenting programs for State College students. The Hospitality Committee is responsible for the entire preparation for the Banquet. The Committee hopes that it will be able to feature men's apparel as well as ladies' fashions. This will depend largely upon whether they are able to draft enough fellows on campus to model the Men's clothes.

Just recently, the Committee staged a fashion show in the ballroom, modeling costumes from thirty-six different countries. This was the Committee's contribution to International Week, October 16-24. They endeavored through this program to show something of the different modes of dress in various countries.

If you have remained after the close of some of the programs in the College Union to have coffee and cookies, the girls behind the tables serving you were Hospitality Committee members. Presiding at coffee hours is another of the functions of this Committee. The girls enjoy helping in this way because they feel that a certain amount of graciousness may be offered to these programs. In addition to the regular coffee hours, the Committee is anxious to sponsor, this year, Faculty-Student coffee hours in the Union. The Committee feels that such occasions will offer an opportunity for students to get to know and talk more freely with members of

When Easter comes around, you will probably find the members of the Hospitality Committee behind the Union hiding eggs under leaves and in the grass. Then you'll see a teeming mob of youngsters combing every area looking for Easter eggs. This event is planned for the children of State students and Faculty. This is one function which the Committee always looks forward to having.

Each Thursday, the members of the Hospitality Committee meet in the College Union with Peggy Hamilton, the Chairman. This meeting offers an opportunity to work out details for future programs and a few minutes for relaxation from a busy schedule. There are approximately 30 girls on this Committee. Any student who is interested in working with this group and offering suggestions for improvement of future or past programs is invited to do so.

Comments From The Editor Thanks-What?

I. Thanksgiving? Oh, that's the time every fall when they close school for a couple days. That break sure comes in handy. What? Naw, I'm still behind.

Maybe Christmas . . .

II. Thanksgiving? Well, that started several hundred years ago when the Pilgrims and the Indians quit shooting at each other and started on the turkeys. Had some kind of a feast . . .

America—the land which, now that the election is over, everybody agrees is the richest on earth. Highest cost of living in the world—great country. Nice folks, too. They wouldn't stand for any of this persecution the Communists are always-up to. Remember Hungary?

The South is a wonderful place. The people there have dignity and courage and—culture. Best part of America. They surely wouldn't go for human indignities there. Not the South. The South has class.

That's what the Campus Chest goal was—50¢ for each student at State College. Proceeds from the drive, the only charity campaign on the campus each year, go to the World University Service and the Raleigh United Fund.

World University Service—Hungarian refugees, food and shelter in Chile, aiding students the world over. 50¢

Well, sure—these are hard times. A man needs money to get an education nowadays. You gotta be pretty careful how you spend it when your folks or your wife or somebody is giving it to you. 50¢? The price of a cheap meal, two packs of cigarettes, and quite a bit less than a Bardot flick. We won't even mention liquor.

Fraternities—$135. 15. The so-called "leaders of the campus" must have decided they'd druther step out of the lead for awhile. Only 270 fraternity men? Count noses at the parties and see.

Dormitories—$720.10. Well, fellows, thanks. Which three dorms do you live in? Not bad, though.

Statesville—$29.34. Well, they have a pretty stiff rent to pay and all that. 50¢?

Organizations—$33.50. Count that one again. Only 67 people in organizations around here? Just look in the College Union and see.

Well, what about Thanksgiving? Is it the time of year when we stop a second to consider the blessings we have—country, family, freedom, luxuries, and all that. You know the bit—we ought to be grateful for having more than any nation in the world has ever had. GRATEFUL?

Pass the turkey.

Letters To The Editor

To the Editor of the Technician:
This is my first year at North Carolina State College, so I have never had the janitor bed service that the upperclassmen have had in recent years. As for the $85 room rent, I don't think that the minor task of making a bed is worth any price reduction.

I think it is a fine thing to reduce the janitors working day by one hour. The insignificant job of making a bed was an appropriate duty to be removed from the janitors' daily schedule.

One must see the janitors at times doing nothing but they are only human and cannot be expected to work every minute of the day. They may be seen doing nothing once in a while, but how many students do not procrastinate during part of their day. To say that the janitors while away their time is a farce compared to the free time the student has each day.

If a person has not learned how to make up a bed by the time he reaches the college level, he should stay at home with his mother. The janitors at State College are not nurse maids and were not hired for that reason.

I would personally like to commend the janitors of Owen Dormitory for the efficient job they have done so far this year.

Mike Gurley

To the Editor of the Technician:
I wish to express my deep gratitude to the students, the faculty, and other personnel at North Carolina State College for the many kindnesses shown to me and my family following my son's accident and during our stay at Rex Hospital. Words certainly seem inadequate to express to all you the feelings within my heart.

To each boy who volunteered to donate blood I have a special word of deepest gratitude. I feel that I owe my life to those boys who donated blood, and there are no words to thank you for that. I pray that God will bless you for it, and may you always find such good friends in time of need.

I have never met a finer or more friendly group of people than I found at State College, and I surely can understand Grier's love for his school and anxiety to soon return there.

Bagwell, Sigma Chi Lead Point Races

By Richie Williamson
Associate Sports Editor

The fall intramural program has completed its schedule in both the dormitory and fraternity divisions with the early point leaders for the overall championship being Bagwell and Sigma Chi. These point totals are for the fall sports of football, volleyball, track, and golf.

Bagwell Leads

The boys from Bagwell have tabulated 419 points through the four sports to hold a slim lead over Bragaw North's 406 points. Bagwell holds the top spot on the basis of winning the football title and a third place finish in the pitch and putt golf. Bragaw North was second in football and volleyball and fourth in golf to boost them into second place.

Other fall sport champions were Bragaw South in volleyball which left them in fourth place in the standings, Tucker #2 in the track meet giving them sixth spot, and Becton took the golf. Although Syme has not won a sport, it has finished strong in all of them to leave them in third in the overall race.

Sigma Chi is once again in the lead for another championship with 591 points and a 30 point lead over second place Delta Sigma Phi. Kappa Alpha is in third with 406 points and Pi Kappa Alpha has 390 points for fourth.

Sigma Chi on Top

Even though Sigma Chi has not taken a first in any sport, they have finished second in football and track and third in volleyball to send them into the point lead. Delta Sig stayed right in the contention by winning the track meet, taking third in volleyball, and placing fourth in football.

Kappa Alpha was the football champion for this year and this was good enough to put them in third place. PKA went through the volleyball season without a loss to win that sport and also placed second in pitch and putt golf for the bulk of their points. SPE was the winner of the golf which helped them into fifth spot in the standings.

Participation Up

There was an excellent participation record for the fall program with 571 participants in the dorms and 700 participants in the fraternities or about 20% of the student body. There were only a few forfeits in football and volleyball, 100% participation in track and almost the same percentage in golf.

The fall standings:

ROTC Rifle Team Wins Four

Stiff Competition from several strong opponents has held the State College Army ROTC team to a somewhat disappointing record in the team's first matches. According to Sgt. George Oakley, the team's coach, the score stands at four wins and seven losses. Several of the losses have been by narrow margins and the team members hope to move into the win column more often as the less experienced shooters improve with practice.

The results of the first postal matches show victories over South Carolina State, the College of A. and M. of Puerto Rico, Georgia Military College, and Tuskegee Institute. State lost to Mississippi Southern, Notre Dame, Wofford College, East Tennessee State, and Gordon Military College.

The first shoulder-to-shoulder match was on November 16 against the Air Force. The Army lost, 1348-1298. Two more matches will be held this year between the two teams; the winner of two out of three will receive a trophy. The Army out-

State Back In Action

The winter sports get into full swing this weekend with Coach Everett Case's basketball team facing Southern Illinois tomorrow night in William Neal Reynolds Coliseum.

On Saturday afternoon, in the Frank Thompson Pool, North Carolina State will take on the Atlantic Coast Conference champions, Maryland, in a meet. State is one of the top teams in the ACC in the swimming ranks and this should be a very interesting meet since Maryland was the only team to beat State last year.

Saturday night the basketball team takes to the floor again to do battle with George Washington University, one of the real strong teams in this part of the country.

Dear Dr. Frood: I just don't understand the men in this college. Not one of them has ever asked me for a date. I am intelligent and easy to get along with. Enclosed is my snapshot. What do you think is wrong?

Left Out

DEAR LEFT: After considering this problem from every angle, I can only conclude that you have enormous feet.

Dear Dr. Frood: According to my figures over ninety-five per cent of the students here are below average. What is wrong?
Math Major

DEAR MATH: You are obviously going to a below-average college.

Dear Dr. Frood: I don't speak from personal experience, but I understand all the men in this college are wolves. What do you think a respectable girl like me—with a good old-fashioned upbringing—should do about this situation?

Strait Laced

DEAR STRAIT: Drop your handkerchief.

Dear Dr. Frood: When I entered college as a freshman this fall, my father gave me a very large sum of money to cover room, board, tuition, books and all other expenses for four full years of college. Because of an unfortunate series of poker games, however, the money is now completely gone. How would you suggest I handle this situation?

Ten High

DEAR TEN: I feel confident that your father will give you another chance if you go up to him like a man, tell him you are sorry, admit your mistake and promise him that your luck will change.

Dear Dr. Frood: Do you think it is safe for a girl to walk home alone from a college dance?

Nervous

DEAR NERVOUS: Safer.

DON'T BREAK TRADITION, WARNS FROOD! One of the proudest traditions on the American campus, reports Dr. Frood, is smoking Luckies. Today college students smoke more Luckies than any other regular. According to Dr. Frood, "Any student who breaks this tradition not only robs himself of the full pleasure of smoking—but also could, conceivably, bring 'the Curse of Frood' down upon the entire student body."

Member Wolfpack Club, Too!

Welcome Back to all of those of you who are still with us. Boy, did we have a blast at home over the holiday. We drove over to Sneads Ferry, where some of my acquaintances from Camp Lejeune had a party. I'm still hung over.

Who were the people seen roaming around carrying reptiles? I hear that one of the college union staff had a cousin in the batch. You know which reptiles, the ones caught in the recent SUA snake hunt in the CU snack bar.

wash cloth (?), a tooth brush (?), (maybe they have been sleeping out lately) . . . a shorty night gown (three sizes too small), apartment keys (not theirs), a pint of Gin, a pint of Vermouth (lets have a party), CU silverware, and assorted other exotic items, on the order of identification cards certifying that the bearer is twenty one.

Some girls (?) carry the oddest hand bags. They come in all shapes and sizes (the girls too . . . aint variety fun) and contain the oddest assortment of stuff. Like, where else can you find: 4 used lipsticks, half of a cream cheese and sardine sandwich, a coin p . . . er . . . purse, an inner tube, a cigarette pack . . . with one whole cig and three butts, two pencils . . . no points, three pencils . . . broken, bra strap, two half pieces of chewing gum, three albums of ex boy friends' pictures, four reams of unmailed poison pen letters, assorted cold creams, a "Junior, what are you doing? Stop teasing that little girl. Oh Junior, can't you wait until after dark?"

Contrary to popular opinion, Gerry Erdahl IS Santa Claus.

Why do those design students look so absolutely blah in the dawn hours.

"Junior, don't call your father that. Now you go right over to the cage and give him a banana."

Teeth, hair, and eyes all over the pavement. And me without a spoon.

I hear that they are going to have a sale of some of the art (?) objects produced by our design students. Those boys really turn out some good work, but what we need is an old fashioned saloon nude hanging in the CU snack bar.

I hear that the skaters with the Ice Capades can really skate. Also, those girls with those nice muscular legs make real fine dates.

Well, The last day to drop out without failure has arrived and left already. Do you notice empty spaces at the bar? I hear that they are going to cut down on the amount of beer bought for resale at our favorite watering places.

leigh, and ended near Memorial Auditorium. The Drum and Bugle Corps, commanded by Cadet Major Eric Smart, provided a crisp cadence. The Corps, marching at a record strength of 75 members, drew attention to its accurate marching and snappy bugle calls. The members received warm applause from the crowds thronging the sidewalks.

A special favorite was the Pershing Rifles' 32-man drill team, whose precision marching lent a martial air to the events. The team's brilliant red uniforms and glistening boots received admiring looks from the spectators. P-R Major James B. Jones was in command.

HOW TO BEAT THE BEAT GENERATION

My cousin Herkie Nylet is a sturdy lad of nineteen summers who has, we all believed until recently, a lively intelligence and an assured future. Herkie's father, Walter O. Nylet, is as everyone knows, president of the First National Artificial Cherry Company, world's largest maker of artificial cherries for ladies' hats. Uncle Walter had great plans for Herkie. Last year he sent Herkie to the Maryland College of Humanities, Sciences, and Artificial Cherries, and he intended, upon Herkie's graduation, to find him a nice fat wife and take him into the firm as a full partner.

Could a young man have more pleasing prospects? Of course not. But a couple of months ago, to everyone's consternation, Herkie announced that he was not going into the artificial cherry business. Nor was he going to stay in college. "I am," said Herkie, "a member of the Beat Generation. I am going to San Francisco and grow a beard."

Well sir, you can imagine the commotion in the family when Herkie went traipsing off to San Francisco! Uncle Walter would have gone after him and dragged him home, but unfortunately he was right in the middle of the artificial cherry season. Aunt Thelma couldn't go either because of her old leg trouble. (One of her legs is older than the other.)

So I went. I searched San Francisco for weeks before I found Herkie living under the counter of a Pronto Pup stand. "Herkie, how are you?" I cried, looking distraughtly upon his tangled beard, his corduroy jacket, his stricken eyes.

"Beat," said Herkie. I offered him a Marlboro and felt instantly better when he took it because when one smokes Marlboros, one cannot be too far removed from the world. One still has, so to speak, a hold on the finer things of life—like good tobacco, like easy-drawing filtration, like settling back and getting comfortable and enjoying a full-flavored smoke. One is, despite all appearances, basically happiness-oriented, fulfillment-directed, pleasure-prone.

"Herkie, what are you doing with yourself?" I asked. "I am finding myself," he replied. "I am writing a novel in the sand with a pointed stick. I am composing a fugue for clavier and police whistle. I am sculpting in experimental materials—like English muffins."

"And what do you do for fun?" I asked. "Come," he said and took me to a dank little night club where men in beards and women in basic burlap sat on orange crates and drank espresso. On a tiny stage stood a poet reciting a free-form work of his own composition entitled Excema: The Story of a Boy while behind him a jazz trio played 200 choruses of Tin Roof Blues.

"Herkie," said I, "come home with me to the artificial cherries." "No," said Herkie, so sadly I went home to tell Uncle Walter the bad news. He was less distressed than I had feared. It seems Uncle Walter has another son, a quiet boy named Edvorts, about whom he had completely forgotten, and today Edvorts is in business with Uncle Walter and Herkie is beat in San Francisco, and everyone is happy.
