Students Convicted By Campus Code Board

The Campus Code Board of the Judicial Department of North Carolina State College recently tried two cases involving violations of the Campus Code. "Under the Campus Code one is bound by his responsibility as a gentleman to conduct himself as such at all times, and further to see to it, insofar as possible, that his fellow students do likewise."

One case involved a State student who was found guilty of ungentlemanly behavior at the State-Carolina basketball game. His actions proved especially embarrassing to students' dates as well as the male students who were seated near him. The Board ruled that his actions were not exemplary of what a gentleman and representative of N. C. State College should be. His penalty is a probationary period effective through both summer school sessions of 1961. This is accompanied by a letter to his parents explaining the matter and a permanent record of the event in his personal school files.

A second case involved eight students who painted up a statue on the campus of U. N. C. These students were found guilty and received a reprimand, which consists of a letter to their parents and recording in the students' files. Also they were fined by the Chapel Hill city court and paid the cost of restoring the statue, which amounted to approximately twenty dollars each.

As mature college students, one must think before he acts. Oftentimes one rushes into doing things without thinking of the seriousness of the consequences. One should strive to be a better gentleman and representative of N. C. State College. A student's reputation as well as that of the school is at stake.

Intercollegiate Conference Set For State YMCA

The sixth annual Raleigh Intercollegiate Conference will be held this Saturday and Sunday at the State College YMCA. Students from Meredith, Peace, St. Mary's, Shaw, St. Augustine, and State will gather for this event.

The theme of the conference is the "Revolutionary Dimension of Christianity". Dr. Clarence Jordan, Director of Koinonia Farm in Americus, Georgia, will be the guest speaker.

The conference is an opportunity for students of the six colleges in Raleigh to come together regardless of their denomination, creed, or race to participate in a unique intercollegiate experience.

Dr. Jordan was born in Georgia and obtained his B.S. in Agriculture at the University of Georgia. He received his B.D. and Ph.D. from the Southern Baptist Theological Seminary.

After the Seminary, Dr. Jordan went to the slums of Louisville, Kentucky where he did mission work for four years. Seeing the needs of people as he worked in the slums, Dr. Jordan caught the vision of a new venture in Christian life. This was the beginning of Koinonia Farm.

Koinonia Farm was established in 1942. It is an inter-racial, communal venture in which there is a concerted effort to understand the meaning of Christian vocation. It has not been a popular undertaking among its neighbors. Bombings, shotgun blasts, and general opposition have marked its life. About these experiences Dr. Jordan has written several books.

The program begins with registration in the YMCA at two o'clock Saturday. It concludes with worship Sunday morning. The cost of registration is $.1, and those interested may leave their names at the YMCA.

MRS. CALDWELL

Mrs. John Caldwell Wife Of Chancellor Succumbs In Boston

Mrs. Catherine Wadsworth Zeek Caldwell, wife of the Chancellor of North Carolina State College, died early today in a Boston, Mass., nursing home.

She was 41. The daughter of a university professor of French, she married Dr. John Tyler Caldwell in May, 1947, and he became a college president almost immediately—being offered the presidency of Alabama College while honeymooning.

As the wife of a rising college administrator, she was a gracious hostess, charming entertainer and mother of their four children.

Her husband, in 1951, became president of the University of Arkansas and served there for eight years. He was named Chancellor of N. C. State in 1959. The chancellor is the top administrative officer of each unit of the Greater University of North Carolina.

Mrs. Caldwell's death followed a lengthy illness. She was confined at the Christian Science Sanatorium at Chestnut Hills, Mass.

Marching Sergeants PR Drill Team To Perform Thurs.

This year a new concept in a trick drill team has evolved at N. C. State College. This concept has been realized in the "Marching Sergeants", an eight man crack drill unit of the Pershing Rifles. This unit is designed to perform in areas of limited space, such as a basketball court. The unit's initial demonstration took place during halftime of the State-Carolina basketball game, 18 January 1961. Their appearance was so successful that invitations have been received from other schools for similar performances.

For those who plan to attend the State-Villanova game this Thursday night, a special half-time show will be presented by the "Marching Sergeants." The unit will appear in the following order: A. E. Dumont, Commander; A. F. VanNostrand, guidon bearer; and F. Moss, J. Kunkle, R. Staton, T. Bumgarner, D. Moretz, D. Coon, J. Stevens, W. Young, riflemen.

The members of the Pershing Rifles, realizing the extra amount of work and hours that this unit has put forth, are very proud of them, and urge everyone to attend the game Thursday and give their support, not only to the basketball team, but also to the "Marching Sergeants".

'Arts' Festival Slates Varied Entertainment

As its contribution to the Fine Arts Festival, the North Carolina State College Band, under the direction of Donald B. Adcock, will present its Annual Winter Concert in the College Union Ballroom at 8 p.m. on Friday (February 24).

The eighty-five piece organization will perform a varied musical program ranging from classical to modern compositions. Composers represented include Dvorak, Franck, Mozart, and Respighi. Contemporary works to be performed include numbers by the American composers Clifton Williams, Robert Russell Bennett, and Leroy Anderson.

The movie, "Les Enfants Terribles, (The Strange Ones)," will be shown Wednesday (February 22) at 7:30 and 9:15 p.m. in the College Union Theatre.

The movie is about the private world of a brother and sister who share one room. Its secrets, treasures, memories, and cluttered appurtenances betray the total lack of emotional discipline and disorderly lives of those who occupy it.

They are bizarre, eccentric, lovable, wicked and strange people who are isolated by circumstances from the world. Creating a world of their own, they are scarcely aware of their friends who are the only outsiders admitted to their lives.

Tragedy is inevitable when emotions begin to spin a net of strong gossamer, thin threads about the brother and sister, "enfants terribles" of the story.

Dr. Sidney Knowles, Jr., will speak at the North Carolina State College Union Tuesday (February 28) at 8 p.m.

The topic of the talk will be "The Captive Art: Literature in the 1930's".

Dr. Knowles is a member of the teaching staff of the English Department at North Carolina State College. He has taught at the college since 1955.

The English professor received his B.A. and M.A. degrees at the University of Virginia. He received his Ph. D. degree at the University of North Carolina. He taught for 3 years at Ohio University.

John Ciardi, poet and educator, will speak at the College Union on Monday (February 27) at 8:15 p.m.

Few men in the world of contemporary letters pass John Ciardi's versatility. Poet, essayist, critic, editor, translator, educator, he has made his influence felt in every part of the literary scene.

Mr. Ciardi has held fast to the idea that poetry is an accessible art. He has said: "Poetry, after all, is about life. Anyone who is alive and conscious must have some information about it."

The talk by John Ciardi is sponsored by the Library Committee Incorporated.

Frosh Diners' Club Meets Second Time

The second in a series of four weekly meetings of the newly organized Freshman Diners' Club, sponsored by the N. C. State College YMCA, was held Tuesday night, February 21, in the North Parlor of the King Religious Center.

The invocation was given by Burnette Blakely, freshman YMCA Council member, after which the group enjoyed a country ham dinner prepared again this week by the women of St. Paul's Christian Church.

Following the meal, Lynn Spruill presented the following topic for consideration: "The State Students and His Personal Ethics. Should we follow a traditional pattern of personal conduct or should we accept the patterns of the campus?" Lynn then introduced the speakers for the evening who were Professors William N. Hicks, Department Head of Philosophy and Religion, and Dr. Burton F. Beers, Assistant Professor of History. Reverend Tom Johnston again served as coordinator for the discussion.

In his opening remarks, Dr. Beers divided the "traditional pattern of conduct" into the social and intellectual realms. In the social realm he placed such things as the way one wears his hair and attitudes toward sex and drinking. He pointed out that the college freshman had now reached the age at which he must choose for himself in these matters. He said that these problems are present in all phases of life and are concentrated on the campus. Dr. Beers also brought out that life in our respective hometowns might not have contained intellectual conflict to any great degree, and that the sudden appearance of

Comments From The Editor A Note Of Sympathy

On behalf of the student body at State College and the staff of The Technician we would like to extend our sympathy at this time to our Chancellor, Dr. John Caldwell and his children upon the death of his wife, and their mother, Mrs. Catherine Zeek Caldwell.

In The Future

Tomorrow night, there will be a very important investigation hearing on delayed rush. Members of the IFC and the Student Government will meet to discuss the good and bad points of the second semester rush for the fraternities. We understand that the main reason for this discussion is the grades that were made by fraternity pledges last semester.

At the present the delayed rush would strike the fraternities with a severe blow. Many of the fraternities are below the membership that will be required to move on fraternity row. We are confident that this proposal will be held up for the present. Many fraternities on campus are going to be required to have a big rushes next fall to meet these requirements.

Second semester rush, or delayed rush, has some good points. In the next five years this type of rush will probably prevail at State.

We feel that the Student Government has a right to make this proposal to the IFC, but the IFC is going to have to table this motion until the fraternities are fully established at their new residences.

We can not account for the low grades that were made by the new fraternity men last fall. There are years when you have low averages, and there are years when the averages are high. This year just happened to be the former.

Will the fraternities at State have delayed rush some in the next few years? We feel that the answer to this question would have to be yes . . . but for the present . . . NO!

Fund Grows

The Gene Inman Fund is growing as each day passes. Over $500 dollars has been sent into the Technician offices alone. The $750 figure that was printed in Monday's edition was a mistake. The total amount that has been collected by all organizations is currently approaching $3000. The fund has not stopped. Anyone or any organization is urged to contribute to this worthy cause.

Letters To The Editor

To The Editor of the Technician:

In time, we are sure that the incident like the one, of which you are to read, will occur again. But we are presenting this letter to you for publication, in hopes that it will help our fellow students avoid the mistake that we made and other similar incidents. This incident took place purely out of jest and school spirit. What we attempted to do (we say attempted because that's about what it amounted to) was paint "Silent Sam" at Carolina. But paying fines, court costs, and having a court record is no laughing matter. Money is hard to come by and besides it would be of more use to us on our campus than it would be paying some policeman's salary at Carolina, Duke, or any other school for that matter. Appearing before the Campus Code Board is no laughing matter either. This board is responsible for the School's conduct and it has a lot to handle. But the board does a great job, a tremendous job, of keeping the conduct of this school in order. Whether a student who has had apart in such an incident remains in school or gets dismissed from school depends on what the board's verdict is. Students have been kicked out of school for similar incidents, and it is only fortunate that we were not. We realize the mistake that we made, and also realize that it could lead to worse things. We sincerely hope that State students will heed our words and avoid this ungentlemanly conduct. It's a serious matter, and we would like to emphasize this by our experience. We, as freshmen, realized our mistake only too late.

Seven State Freshmen
To The Editor of the Technician:

At the end of last semester a great deal of disharmony existed between Holladay Hall and the student body in relation to the fee payment plan for the coming registration. This was realized by your Student Government and after a great deal of negotiating on both sides a compromise was reached at the last minute.

Now that it is all over and everyone has caught their breath, I would like to thank Holladay Hall and especially

CU Theatre Committee Provides Fine Service

Theatre management and production are included in the College Union Theatre Committee program which is designed for students interested in actively participating in drama and also for those only wishing to be spectators.

There are a series of events which will attract the attention of students interested in production. In September a theatre workshop was established to provide a work situation for those who had been exposed to or had had experience in drama while attending high school, and also to provide a learning situation for those interested in learning more about theatre production. In addition to reading, acting, and play selection, demonstrations and practical work sessions were planned in lighting, make-up, and set construction.

The Theatre Committee has just cast "The Luck Piece," a one-act play which will be presented in the Carolina Dramatic Association competition which will be held in Chapel Hill in the Early Spring.

During the annual One-Act Play Festival which is held in conjunction with the Fine Arts Festival, colleges throughout North Carolina will present plays. There are many opportunities to work actively with sets, lighting, and make-up as well as management. Each Spring, the Theatre Committee selects and produces a three-act play. Here is another opportunity for acting, backstage work, and management.

For students interested in dramatics only as a spectator, the Theatre Committee presents both professional and amateur groups. In November, La Petite Dramatique from Graham Memorial Union in Chapel Hill presented "Solid Gold Cadillac." The committee has also arranged for at least two hundred students to see four of the Raleigh Little Theatre's productions. Players, Inc., the longest-running national classical repertory company in the United States in the 20th Century, will present "The Merchant of Venice" in March. This company is composed of graduates of the Speech and Drama Department of the Catholic University of America. In April the Cleveland Play House will present "Dr. Faustus." This group is touring under the auspices of a Ford Foundation grant. This is the perfect opportunity to see and assist quality theatre.

The College Union Theatre Committee program is planned for and by the students. All students are encouraged to participate actively in the committee work and give their suggestions for programs.

Ramboling Round

By Ann Smith

I am finally sitting down at the battered, old typewriter to write the first of this series of columns for the Technician. After two weeks of inactivity, I have decided to get to work.

I have found out by experience that Holladay Hall is as bad, if not worse, than any other body that comes into power. It is said by the administration, that financial aid is to be offered to students who really need it and have a satisfactory average. Why is it then that a certain student applied for a grant-in-aid and was refused twice. It was explained to the financial-aid committee that unless this student received the grant that registration would be impossible. The application went back to the board for reconsideration, but was refused again. A short-term loan was applied for next and the same answer was given. Finally after missing a complete week of classes, the student with the aid of friends, managed to pay the tuition and fees and register. The administration expects the student body to believe that financial aid is given according to need—BULL!

I had a few friends over Saturday night for bridge. The game started a little after midnight and the chianti was warm. Around 2 a.m. everything was forgotten except the cards and the emptying bottle. Even though my partner and I lost by a little over two thousand points, the morning was rather enjoyable.

ME Professor Attends Meeting

R. B. Knight, professor of mechanical engineering at North Carolina State College, is participating on the program of the tenth annual Industrial Ventilation Conference at Michigan State University at East Lansing, Michigan, this week.

The conference, sponsored by the Michigan Board of Health and Michigan State, began Monday morning (February 20) at the Kellogg Center located on the university campus.

Professor Knight, whose specialty is in the area of heating and air conditioning, will present one of a series of lectures scheduled throughout the conference program.

A similar conference will be held at North Carolina State College March 20-23 for industrial representatives from throughout the eastern part of the country. Professor Knight is chairman of the industrial ventilation conference which will be conducted by State College's Department of Mechanical Engineering and Extension Division in cooperation with the North Carolina State Board of Health, the Triangle Chapter of Plant Engineers, and the college's Industrial Experimental Program.

Intramural Playoffs In Basketball On Tap

By Richie Williamson
Associate Sports Editor

The first round of playoff games for all three intramural basketball leagues will get underway on Monday night at the Frank Thompson gym. The intramural department said that the tournament games would be spread over a two-week period with the finals slated around March 1. Six teams have already qualified for the dormitory playoffs, and eight teams from the fraternities have clinched berths.

In the open league, five out of the 14 spots have been claimed. The favorite in the dorm action will be Bragaw South, who completed their regular season with a clean record when Dick Culler's 18 points led them to a 46-36 victory over WG4. Rated to give Bragaw the most trouble will be Tucker #2 and Bagwell. Bagwell finished up the season with an impressive 61-33 win over Becton. Tom Hiron with 21 and Jim Blake with 16 lead the scoring. Tucker #2 suffered its first loss of the season to last year's champion Watauga by a slim 46-44 margin.

LCA will meet either KA or SAE in the first round, depending on which team wins the toss of the coin for the best position. SPE plays the other team in the coin toss. The other first round game matches Sigma Chi, the defending champion, against PKA.

All of the positions for the playoffs in the open league have not been decided yet as they still have a game this week. However, of the teams that are assured of berths, the T. Birds appear to be a strong contender as they have not lost a game in their section. The Broncos have not seen defeat, while once beaten A. I. Grads and Pulling 5 look like strong contenders. With the fourteen teams competing for the championship, it will take a very strong effort by any team to cart off the title.

Watauga can also be counted in the running after a very slow start this season. The remaining two teams in the playoffs are WG4 and Syme. Syme clinched its spot on the basis of a 52-34 romp over Tucker #1.

The fraternity division boasts two undefeated teams, PKT and LCA, who will rate as co-favorites for the tournament. However, these two teams are in the same bracket in the pairings so they will not meet in the finals. PKT will play Sigma Nu (4-2) in the first round. Sigma Nu started strong this season but lost their last two games in the absence of injured Johnny Stevens.

Chamber president, urged more support.

"For the first time in many years there appears to be some slight slowdown in ticket sales," Little said. "This may be the result of the controversial developments of the basketball season, or it may be the result of other factors."

"Many tickets have already been sold but this year particularly it is necessary that the citizens of Raleigh demonstrate their real support of the tournament."

Little noted past efforts to move the site of the annual tournament to another city.

Sales of tickets to the four sessions of the tournament went on sale to the public only last Saturday although mail orders were filled earlier. The tournament is played at 12,400-seat William Neal Reynolds Coliseum, usually to capacity crowds.

Ticket Sales Lag; Little Issues Plea

RALEIGH, N. C., FEB. 21 (UPI)—Ticket sales for the annual Atlantic Coast Conference Basketball Tournament are lagging.

One reason given was the fact that the University of North Carolina currently ranked fifth in the nation but under NCAA probation, has withdrawn from the tourney this year.

The Tar Heels have what many fans believe is the best team in the conference and perhaps the best team in Tar Heel history. But under the NCAA probation, making them ineligible to participate in NCAA championship events, the Tar Heels chose to ass up the ACC tournament on grounds that they might spoil the chances of another team to reach the NCAA. Traditionally the ACC tournament champion represents the conference in the NCAA tournament.

In 1957, the Tar Heels went through the regular season, the ACC tournament and the grueling NCAA tournament without a defeat to become national champions.

Because of North Carolina's withdrawal, the team which finishes first among the seven teams in the tourney in the regular season standings will get a first round bye.

The Raleigh Chamber of Commerce reported lag in ticket sales today and James C. Little,

No Tickets Left For UNC-Duke Game

CHAPEL HILL, N. C., FEB. 21 (UPI)—The North Carolina-Duke basketball game here Saturday afternoon is a sellout, officials announced today.

No more tickets remain for the game, matching the archrivals and top powers in the conference. The game will be televised regionally Saturday afternoon from Woollen Gymnasium.

North Carolina won the first Duke-North Carolina game this year in the finals of the Dixie Classic Tournament. Duke triumphed in a fight-marred return match at Duke Indoor Stadium on Feb. 4.

Because of the fight which erupted in the last nine seconds of the Feb. 4 game, Duke sophomore scoring star Art Heyman and two Tar Heel guards, Larry Brown and Don Walsh, were declared ineligible for remaining regular season conference games.

As most of the students know by now, the annual Fine Arts Festival is now in progress at the College Union. If you have missed any of the spectacular programs scheduled you have really missed something. The Intercollegiate Vocal group that sang in the Coliseum Saturday night, the performances by Cilli Wang on Friday night, the Detroit Symphony on Thursday night, the Duke Symphonic Band on Sunday afternoon, and the Modern Dance group on Sunday night were all worth going out in the rain to see. This week more events will be taking place and it will be really worth the time and effort to attend.

Bowling Notes

Most of the teams reach the midway point of the season in bowling action this week. In the fraternity league, a two-way battle for first place in section #1 continues between SPE and Delta Sig. SPE took 3-1 wins over both LCA and PKT this past week to give them a 16-4 record. Delta Sig won four from KA to boost their record to 13-3. Despite their loss to SPE, the keglers of PKT moved into third spot after taking four points from AGR to give them an 11-9 mark. PKT's Stowe posted games of 230, 215, and 201 in their two matches of the week for 550 and 502 series.

SAM moved into the lead in section #2 by winning four from PEP. Wechsler's 534 and Williamson's 522 paced the Sammies, who have a 13-3 record. PKA, who was idle this week,

DEACS AND DUKE TOPS IN ACC SCORING RACE

GREENSBORO, N. C., FEB. 22 (UPI)—Five Atlantic Coast Conference teams are now scoring points at a rate higher than any other league team has produced since 1957, with Wake Forest and Duke still leading the way just across the 80-point barrier.

The Deacons are hitting at the rate of 81.0 points a game. Duke is right behind with an offensive average of 80.3 and both have a perfectly good explanation for scoring so well.

The Blue Devils and Deacons are both hitting their shots from the floor at an ACC-record pace. Duke has made 47.7 per cent of its field goal attempts, Wake Forest 46.8, and the ACC record stands at 46.0 per cent and was established six years ago by the Deacons.

Maryland's Terrapins, the perennial defensive kingpins of the ACC, continue to lead in defense holds second with 9-3 and Sigma Chi third with 7-5.

In the dormitory league, Syme took a stronger hold to first place in section #1 by winning four over Owen #1 to move to a 12-0 record. Berry holds second spot with 7-1. Things are very much tighter in the other section with Becton (8-4), Watauga (7-5), and Tucker #2 (6-2) in hot competition for the lead.

against scoring and free throw accuracy, but the Terps are closely challenged in the defensive department by North Carolina. The Tar Heels have given up an average of only 65.7 points a game to Maryland's 64.7.

Maryland tops free throw accuracy at 73.6 per cent. North Carolina State is no. 1 in team rebounding with 50.8 a game to North Carolina's 50.7. The Tar Heels own the best average margin over the opposition, 11.4 points a game to Duke's 9.6.

In the individual race, meantime, ACC service bureau figures show Len Chappell of Wake Forest as the leader with an average of 25.0 points a game, with Duke's Art Heyman close on his heels at 24.4. York Larese of North Carolina is third at 23.1 and Doug Moe of the Tar Heels is fourth at 20.8.

Carroll Youngkin of Duke tops field goal accuracy, having made 111 of 182 shots for 60.9 per cent. Bob McDonald has dropped in 61 free throws in 70 attempts for 87.1 per cent, the lead average. Moe tops individual rebounding with 14.2 recoveries a game and Chappell is a close second with 13.1.

MEN'S WEAR

Greetings to those of us who have the intestinal fortitude to remain in this fine institution. I hope you'll have a fine semester.

I listened in on a meeting the other day and heard our honored leader, little Bobby Cooke, lose his composure. Sure, Bob, school spirit is great, but it doesn't get the job done.

Those fools at WKNC are still at it. Why don't they get the idea that the students want to hear more music and less talk? I listened to them last Tuesday afternoon and the announcer sounded like a fugitive from one of these trash stations . . . you know . . . real "top forty" type. We, the listeners, like to hear music, not the rabid rantings of a character who can't seem to quit giving the time and temperature.

I noticed a letter to the editor of this noble rag (or was it a report) about lessened hostility to the Clique Unanimous, and was amazed. We've never had anything against the CU, we, the Student Opposition AND Free Thinking Party, just can't seem to understand why some of the people down there don't like the students. I mean after all, we pay their salaries.

A funny recollection . . . I distinctly remember one of the flunkies at the CU saying: ". . . and I AM a member of the faculty of this school and you will treat me with more respect in the future or . . ." This character is as much a member of the faculty as Castro is a campfire girl.

The column in this noble rag known as the Cat's Meow has come up with some good ideas, but his latest is somewhat late. Mr. Cat, I am enrolled in a curriculum with just such courses as you have proposed. Some of the courses which I am now taking: (Note: the department abbreviation is FE here instead of PHENG) . . . FE 301 Introduction to the Calculus of class cutting, FE 451 Advanced Poker playing, FE 432 Cheating Vending Machines For Fun and Profit, and other such courses.

An announcement: Sigma Upsilon Alpha, National Dishonorary Fraternity, will have an open meeting in room 307 Holladay hall on Wednesday, February 29, at 7:00 p.m. All interested persons are invited to attend. For those of you who don't know about SUA, sometimes called the "shove its", this will be an eye opener. Just ask any old brother about our authentic Roman orgy in the Coliseum, where we threw Christians (Baptists . . . Girls from Meredith to be exact) to the lions (actually disguised brothers), and you will see his blood shot eyes glaze in remembrance.

Diners' Club Airs Problems

new thoughts and ideas might jar the "home-grown" sensibilities of the average student. In summary he said that changing times are bringing traditions constantly under fire, and that the student should acquire knowledge of the past in order to determine for himself the value of the traditional ideas.

Dr. Hicks then refuted the idea that the student has the right to choose between the traditional and the new. He contended that one can never really escape from the traditional patterns of the home and that he should not try to do so completely in most cases. He pointed out that although the campus is concerned with the intellectual to a greater extent, there is no real break between the campus and the rest of the society. In support of this idea he asked the following questions: "What good deeds do we do on campus that are not done at home? What sins do we commit here that are not committed in the smallest town?" He also stated that although the campus has its own set of academic values, the overall values of life still apply. In answer to the question, he said that we can not escape following both the traditional patterns we have learned and the campus patterns, but we should have the courage to do neither slavishly. He wondered if the real question here is not "How bad can we be and still be good?"

Reverend Johnston as moderator. The matters of drinking and sex were brought up and discussed by the group, with several viewpoints being aired by those present. The consensus was that the individual must explore for himself these problems and find a personal solution using both new and traditional ideas.

The third meeting of the series will be held next Tuesday evening and will explore "The State Student and His Ultimate Values." Professor Herbert G. Eldridge, Jr., and Dr. Howard G. Miller will be featured at this session.

She met her husband when he was an instructor and later assistant professor and associate professor at Vanderbilt.

The funeral for Mrs. Caldwell will be held Thursday, 11 a.m. in the Brown-Wynn Funeral Home.

The family of Mrs. Caldwell has established a memorial fund for foreign students in her memory and has requested that no flowers be sent. Anyone wishing to contribute to this memorial fund should give their contribution to Mrs. Helen Ohmer, Room "A" Holladay Hall.

Gentlemen preferred by blondes, brunettes, and redheads prefer 'Vaseline' Hair Tonic. That's because most men use water with their hair tonic — and 'Vaseline' Hair Tonic is specially made to use with water! The 100% pure grooming oil in 'Vaseline' Hair Tonic replaces the oil that water removes from your hair. In the bottle and on your hair, the difference is clearly there! Just a little 'Vaseline' Hair Tonic does a lot!
