College Marks Anniversary At General Assembly Meet

State College marked the observance of its 74th anniversary Tuesday (March 7) with a luncheon meeting of the North Carolina General Assembly in the College Union as highlight of the day.

Chancellor John T. Caldwell was principal speaker at the luncheon, which was presided over by Lt. Gov. H. Cloyd Philpott.

Dr. Caldwell told members of the General Assembly that

State College "endeavors to be true to the philosophy of a growing, vigorous, forward-looking America newly conscious of excellence as a requirement of survival."

He said, "Today our growth in size is inevitable. It is not inevitable, however, that we can meet the urgent demands upon our nation and state, indeed of the whole free world, for quality education of the first rank, for stunning advancements in fundamental and applied knowledge."

"The requirements in money, in men and materials loom large," said Dr. Caldwell. "For enough money, good enough men, and sufficient materials are all scarce and must be spread over many competing demands."

The chancellors continued that State College in its 74 years of existence has looked to the representatives of the people for sustenance. "This has been true of our sister institutions all over this land," he said.

"It is clear to us that so long as we are true to our public purpose—not self-serving nor timid, not mean, not restrictive nor short-sighted ourselves—the resources will be found and will be placed in our hands."

Dr. Caldwell continued, "This has been our history and time has not run out. We are a young nation yet, through wiser by reason of the stresses and strains of a troubled world. In each school on this campus, work of highest distinction goes on."

"In engineering, in forestry, in architecture, in education, in the physical sciences and matheematics in agriculture, and textiles we offer instruction and perform research recognized everywhere," said Dr. Caldwell.

Continuing, the chancellor said, "This would not be true but for you and your predecessors who have represented the will of the people in this state. I trust that this college will continue to promote virtues which are the warp and woof of the civilized society; integrity, dependability, good will, loyalty to what is right as we are given to see it, and that these virtues will underpin the intellectual achievements which justify an institution of higher learning."

The founders' day program set the stage for the college's plans to celebrate its Diamond Jubilee next year coincident with the national observance of the Centennial of Federal legislation (the Morrill Act of 1862) establishing the nation's 68 Land-Grant colleges and State universities, of which North Carolina state is an example.

Others participating in the luncheon program were President William C. Friday of the Consolidated University, who introduced Chancellor Caldwell; and the Rev. Charles K. McAdams, director of public relations and development for the Fayetteville Area Methodist College, both of whom are State College graduates.

Among special invited guests were Governor Sanford; Speaker Joe Hunt of the House of Representatives; members of the Council of State; other State officials; and W. J. Mathews of Goldsboro, first student to register when State College opened its doors October 3, 1889; and others.

College Plans Alumni Weekend

A new program of alumni seminars will be a feature of North Carolina State College's annual Alumni Weekend, May 5 and 6, with an expected attendance of several hundred persons.

Alumni will be able to return to the school in which they majored to hear a lecture by one of the school's most outstanding members. The lecture will be aimed at informing alumni of the most modern developments in each division of the institution.

The Class of 1911 will celebrate its golden anniversary. The Class of 1936 will hold its silver anniversary reunion.

Other classes holding regular five-year reunions will be the Class of '16, Class of '21, Class of '36, Class of '31, Class of '41, Class of '46, Class of '51, and Class of '56.

The "Old Guard," alumni from classes prior to the Class of '11, will have their annual reunion.

In addition, State College alumni from all years are expected to attend.

A reception in the home of Chancellor John T. Caldwell will highlight the first day's activities on Friday, May 5. The new alumni seminars will be conducted Saturday, May 6.

H. W. Taylor, director of alumni affairs at State College, announced that special programs of entertainment for wives of alumni are being planned during the hours of the seminars.

Other features for alumni and their wives include a pop concert by the State College Symphonic Band and Glee Club, class luncheons and dinners, campus tours, an alumni open house, and the alumni luncheon.

Roy H. Park of Ithaca, N. Y., is president of the Alumni Association of North Carolina State College. Other officers are John L. Morgan, Jr. of South Boston, Va., vice president; Richard L. Rice, of Raleigh, board chairman; H. W. Taylor of Raleigh, secretary; and J. G. Vann also of Raleigh, treasurer.

Congo Government Hands UN Demands

LEOPOLDVILLE UPI — The Congolese government demanded Tuesday night that the United Nations bow to five harsh conditions — including ouster of special representative Rajeshwar Dayal — as its price for letting U. N. troops back into the key ports of Banana and Matadi.

Informed sources said one key condition insisted that the Congo government be given control over all landings of U. N. aircraft at Congolese airfields.

The sources said the four other conditions, drawn up at a cabinet meeting Tuesday:

—Demanded that Dayal leave the Congo and be replaced by an "impartial" special U. N. representative.

—Insisted that the Congo government have control over all pilots on ships in the Congo River Estuary.

—Called for the return of all strategic bases taken over by the U. N. Banana and Matadi, two vital supply ports on the Congo River Estuary, were seized from U. N. control by Congolese troops after heavy weekend fighting.

The Congolese demand for the withdrawal of Dayal coincided with Leopoldville reports that the U. N. had already decided to replace him with a Sudanese economist, Mekki Abbas.

Dayal has been under heavy fire by the Leopoldville government, which charges he has favored the Lumumbist faction.

Earlier Tuesday acting Interior Minister Albert Delvaux demanded that U. N. aircraft be subject to control by the Congolese government.

UPI News Briefs

LEOPOLDVILLE — The Congolese government demanded five conditions for permitting U. N. forces back in the ports of Banana and Matadi. They included dismissal of top civilian U. N. official Rajeshwar Dayal and Congolese control over U. N. aircraft and shipping. The ports were seized by Congolese troops after heavy weekend fighting. In Tananarive, Malagasy, Congolese leaders postponed their meeting again while awaiting the arrival of leftist leader Antoine Gizenga.

LONDON — Actress Elizabeth Taylor's physician, Dr. Carl Heinz Goldman, reported she was "much better" in her fight against double pneumonia. But a later medical bulletin warned there was still "considerable anxiety." Friends said her temperature had returned to normal. Miss Taylor remained in the oxygen tent in which she had been placed Saturday. Seven doctors are attending the 29-year-old star.

HAVANA — Premier Fidel Castro's firing squads executed two Cuban youths convicted of illegal arms possession. The prosecution charged the arms and ammunition were supplied by the American Central Intelligence Agency. In an early-morning television appearance, Castro charged the CIA sent a plane over eastern Cuba Saturday.

Statistics Department Receives $42,000 Grant

The U. S. Department of Health, Education and Welfare has given a grant of $41,688 to the Department of Experimental Statistics at North Carolina State College for a training program in biomathematics.

Dr. H. L. Lucas, Jr., William Neal Reynolds distinguished professor of experimental statistics at State College, will serve as project director.

The grant will be used to sponsor a conference on training in biomathematics.

Dr. Lucas stated that outstanding mathematical biologists, statisticians, and other men working in biomathematics from around the world will be invited to attend the conference to discuss what is needed in training programs in biomathematics and how to implement those needs.

Dates of the conference will be announced later.

Campus Crier

The State College Amateur Radio Club will meet Thursday March 9, at 7:00 p.m. in Room 307 of the 1911 Building. All members are urged to attend.

During the past few weeks there have been numerous out-of-space parking violations committed on the campus. Since these violations deny others the use of numerous parking spaces, and creates inconvenience for persons desiring to park in the vicinity of incorrectly parked cars, the Student Government Traffic Committee has agreed that this parking regulation should be strictly enforced. If you cannot park next to a vehicle that is out-of-space without violating the out-of-space regulation yourself, DO NOT PARK THERE for you will also be liable for a violation ticket.

The deadline for entering arts and crafts in the Arts and Crafts Contest to be held in the College Union Craft Shop is March 25. The contest is open to all College Union members and their families. Items made for class may not be entered in the contest. Entries should be made as soon as possible.

The written darkroom test will be given on Monday, March 6, at 7 p.m. in the College Union. Time will be arranged for all those who need to take the practical exam, also. Please

Minority Leader To Address YRC Tonight

Representative Bill Osteen (R-Guilford) will speak to the Young Republican Club Wednesday night, March 8, at 8:00 p.m. in the College Union. Rep. Osteen is the House Minority Leader. Mr. Osteen is emblematic of the hopes of the GOP to move into the Eastern Piedmont and Coastal Plain. Guilford County gave a 10,000 vote majority to the Republican Party in the November election.

Every one who is interested in good conservative government and the Republican Party and who would like to meet Mr. Osteen is invited to attend.

Foreign Students' Mountain Trip Planned By UWF

The United World Fellowship and the Junior Women's Club of Mount Airy have cordially invited the foreign students of State College to spend the weekend of April 8 & 9 in the mountains of North Carolina.

The expense of gas and overnight lodging will be provided by the two host groups in Mount Airy. It has been requested that the students arrive there on Saturday afternoon, April 8, and return to State College on Sunday afternoon.

Dinner and breakfast will be arranged for the students going for the weekend. On Sunday, they will be taken to the mountains and other places of interest.

Foreign students interested in this trip should come to the College Union Activities Office not later than March 10 at 12 noon. Any student who has a car and would be willing to drive, please come by the CU Activities Office.

Housing Problems Aired

A mass meeting of some 200 State College students and their wives was held Monday night in the College Union for the purpose of airing some of the problems faced by occupants of the new married student housing units opened this fall.

Mr. M. B. Watts, State College Housing Officer answered questions from the floor and heard many complaints.

Student wives protested the policy of prohibiting clotheslines in the new units as well as the fact that screen doors have not yet been installed. Another sore spot among married students was the delay in obtaining repairs and the poor quality of construction, especially of the heating system. There was also the complaint that rents are too high since heating and other facilities are not included in the rent.

Mr. Watts answered all questions and complaints and explained that the delay in repairs is due to the fact that the contractor responsible for the repairs is located in Charlotte. He also pointed out that the rental rates are necessitated by lack of subsidization and the fact that the debt must be paid by the occupants and the college.

Comments From The Editor Group Leaders Needed

The Student Government Commission on Orientation is again going to use the small group method of orienting the new students that come to State College next fall.

Leadership is the key to the small group method, and it is the upperclassmen that provide this leadership. These upperclassmen are referred to as Group Leaders. Each group consists of fifteen to twenty new students. The Group Leaders lead the discussions about various aspects of life here at State. Group Leaders are selected from a group of interested upperclassmen who apply for the job.

Group Leaders receive a letter of commendation from the college, and a copy of this letter is placed in the student's permanent record.

Students that have been through this program know that it is very helpful to the new student. The new student gains an insight into life here at State through discussions on the college's academics, extra-curricular activities, social life, fraternities, and the Student Government.

Students that are returning next fall are urged to become a Group Leader of one of these small groups. The Student Government needs the services of any upperclassmen that was a Group Leader last fall or if you are an outstanding freshman.

Applications are now available to any student that is interested. These applications may be picked up at the College Union or 207 Holladay Hall.

There are two requirements of Group Leaders. They must return to school one week early, and they must attend one training session this spring.

Students selected to be a Group Leader find that they are greatly rewarded in knowing that a big job has been done well.

We hope that many of you will help the Student Government out by applying for one of the Group Leader positions.

The Keith Inman Fund

Little Keith Inman is a beautiful four-year old child. We visited Keith and his parents last Sunday at Rex Hospital. Keith was in very good spirits under the circumstances that prevailed.

This week, the hospital insurance runs out on Keith. The nurses rates increase at the end of this week. Keith's parents are spending the necessary money to help him. However, this money is not present. They have spent thousands of dollars so far on medical expenses.

We appealed to the students a few weeks ago, and received a very good response. We would like to urge those that have not contributed to the Keith Inman Fund to do so. We know that it would be deeply appreciated by Keith and his parents.

Letters To The Editor

To the Editor

In a free state of government such as ours in America, it is necessary that every individual have an equal opportunity of some sort for expression of ideas. I would like at this time to express a few of my own opinions on the policy of the recently adopted "F" rule. In your last issue of The Technician, there was an article entitled: State College . . . A View from within, which brought disagreement with myself and several other fellow-students.

I am a Freshman here at State and can honestly say that I am one of the many freshmen that got off on the wrong foot this past semester. I attribute this primarily to not knowing "how" and "when" to study. State College is a big step after four years of "coasting" through high school. When I came here last September, I had no worldly idea of what engineering actually was. Everyone was not given the ability to be fitted into the highly competitive world of Technical science. I admit that I have wasted time and money; and am glad the author of the article is concerned. However, I have gained a more tangible picture of the type of studies I would like to follow in the future.

I class myself as a slow learner; and if it takes me longer to really learn a subject in order to get a decent grade on it, why should I not be allowed to omit the previous grade? After all, the whole purpose of taking any course is to learn the subject well. It should make no difference whatsoever whether a student speeds through a course and makes an "A" or whether it takes him ten years to understand the course enough to deserve an "A". In the end he would still know the course as well, if not better than Old Speedy. I can see no logical reason for the statement made by Mr. Ray in his article to the effect that an omitted "F" is a misrepresentation of a student's worthiness or even ability for a future position. He has earned his average perhaps by more hard work than the so-called, "true Scholars". The gift of quick intelligence is not the only thing that an employer desires in an employee. If a student makes up what he lacks in brains with sincere - honest hard work; he will not go unrewarded.

If the students that think of themselves as the "true scholars" would stop and analyze themselves for a moment, perhaps they would find that they are being unjustly vain.

This past semester my roommate flunked Physics, the shaft course of the sophomore year. He is now working harder and has gained a better understanding of the course. If he makes an "A", God knows he deserves it!

To the Editor

This letter is in reference to the most recent of Joel Ray's articles in the "State College . . . A View from Within" series. In this article Mr. Ray discussed the new "F-rule" at length. He raised two issues on which I would like to comment.

As Chairman of the Student Government Academic Affairs Committee, I have been vitally concerned with this "F-rule". It entered my discussions at the Conference on Climate of Learning to some length; and although I did not specifically mention the rule in my review of the conference which appeared in the TECHNICIAN during November, I certainly intended reference to it when I mentioned "innovations" which tended to worsen rather than aid the situation when . . . viewed within the context of the present system.

As a follow-up to this, a bill which recommended that the administration reconsider the ruling was introduced to the Student Government Legislature on November 3, 1960. The bill was seconded, but failed by a vote of fifteen for-nineteen against.

Thus the attempt to have the "F-rule" revoked proved abortive. But it was none the less tried, and it is unfair to say that the rule has met with "hardly . . . a note of dissent."

The second issue concerns Mr. Ray's mention of administrative intent in the matter of the "F-rule". While the resolution concerning the rule which was presented to the Student Legislature decries very much the same results as does Mr. Ray's article, it makes no statements concerning the intent of the original ruling.

In my opinion this is as it should be. Regardless of my stringent objections to the "F-rule", I cannot visualize the person responsible for the rule as having acted on anything but the most honorable motives.

Fraternity Flashes

By Ed Puckhaber

The Fraternity Intramural Basketball League ended the season's play with a play-off game on Monday night. The two teams concerned, the Pika's and the PKT's, had a mutual agreement that the winning team would treat the losers to a party after the game. I understand that the Pika's won, by a very close margin and were hosts to the PKT's for the tapping of a keg.

Again I have run across an article in our national fraternity magazine which I would like to pass along to the fraternity men on the State campus. This clipping deals with the subject of chapter programs.

Fraternities need to alter their performance in order to enrich their programs and attract more men. The future of the fraternity system depends upon its members and the ability of the fraternity men to convince others of the positive results. In brief, fraternities should improve performance and have each man sell the positive benefits he has received. (See FRATERNITY FLASHES, page 4)

By Ann Smith

What do you all think about this weather we are having? It is really lovely weather, but not for this time of year. I bet it snows before Easter.

Speaking of the weather, can you guess how many times and how many ways that the subject of weather is used to change the subject? I can't count that high. In certain groups the weather is used to mean certain things. To the weather bureau the weather is a lively-hood. What would they do if we were to stop having it? That is a very good question.

Another example of how the weather is used is in conversation. Several people will be discussing a certain subject of which one member of the group is not in the slightest bit interested. What does he say? He says, "I see we are having weather again." That is a hint to either talk about something else or shut up.

Speaking of changing the subject, how does one get across to the student body of this college that when they attend class or

Bragaw, PKA, Raiders Win Playoffs

By Richie Williamson
Associate Sports Editor

In the final three games ever to be played in intramural basketball in Frank Thompson gymnasium, Bragaw South, Pi Kappa Alpha, and the Raiders won championships in three of the closest games ever seen in one night. Bragaw pulled away in the last minutes to beat Bagwell 49-43, PKA scored a last second basket to nose out PKT 54-53, and the Raiders held off a last half surge by the Cardinals to win 38-37.

One of the most astounding records lead Bragaw to their victory over Bagwell as the team hit its first 18 free throws and finished with 21 out of 22 accurate charity tosses in the foul-marred contest. Bagwell was almost completely in the opposite position as they connected on only 5 of 17 attempts from the line.

Dickie Culler's 16 points led the scoring, but it was the last quarter appearance of Roman Gabriel that gave the boost to Bragaw. Gabriel arrived at the game during the last period of play and scored six important points to break the game open. The scoring opened slow as the teams loosened up the shooting arms, and Bragaw led 9-7 at the quarter. The lead changed hands several times in the second period with Bagwell holding a one point lead at half. The see-saw battle continued through the next period, and the teams went into the final stanza tied at 33 all. Then Gabriel arrived and sent Bragaw on their way to the championship.

Behind Culler in scoring for Bragaw was Phil Sandifer and Hugh Shelton with 12 and 11 points respectively. Jim Blake paced Bagwell with 14 points with Tom Hiron getting 11 and Bob Roach 10.

PKA's Brad Hessler tapped in a rebound with two seconds remaining to give his team a 54-53 squeaker over PKT in the fraternity finals. The winning play was set up after PKT had taken the lead 53-52 with 15 seconds to play. Bud Mickle of PKA was fouled and went to the line for one shot and the chance to tie the game. However, his shot rolled off the rim, and a battle for the rebound followed. After a couple of tap-ups failed, Hessler put the guiding hand on the ball and sent it through the nets.

Neither team could build up a sizeable lead as the battle swayed from one side to the other. Les Young pumped in 17 points for PKA, and Hessler added 12, the last two being the biggest. PKT got excellent performance throughout the game and almost held on for the victory. Jennings Scarce and Jim Skidmore each had 15 points with Bobby Mayton getting 10.

The open league championship was just as close as the Raiders

The Raiders won the Open League playoffs in basketball Monday night when they downed Cardinals 38-37. The playoffs were played in Frank Thompson Gymnasium. The PKA fraternity won the fraternity division and Bragaw South won the dormitory title. PKA defeated PKT 54-53 and Bragaw downed Bagwell 49-43.

Bowling Notes

On Monday's bowling action at the Western Lanes, SAM increased their lead in section two of the fraternity league by winning four points from Sigma Pi. The Sammies put together games of 804, 807, and 821 for a 2432 series to run their record to 21-3. Don Wechsler rolled a 200 game, and Richie Williamson had a 516 series in pacing the victory. James Marshburn lead S. Pi with a 478 series.

Sigma Chi strengthened its hold on third place in the section by taking four points from Kappa Sig. Tom Dellinger's 206 game and 508 series along with Shannon Lambeth's 202 game and 497 series leading the Sigs.

In the other section, second place SPE ran into trouble against AGR as the teams split 2-2. SPE won the first and third games by close margins, and AGR took the second game by a large enough margin to win total pins also. Grant of SPE had a 504 series, and Carpenter of AGR rolled a 525 set.

Other fraternity action saw PEP win four points from TKE, being lead by Gary Rosenstrauch's 202 and 497 set. KA and Sigma Nu split 2-2 in their match with KA getting the total pins by a 23-pin margin.

The only dormitory contest saw Tucker 1 win their match from Alexander 3-1. Tucker's Bailey put together three good games for a 541 set. This win gave Tucker undisputed first place in their section.
