Young Presidents

Growth of Individual Needed For Nation Today

"If we continue to drift toward conformity, the greatness of this country will disappear."

This conviction was expressed by Beverly E. (Bevo) Howard of Moultrie, Ga., president of Hawthorne Aviation and one of the nation's most noted stunt flyers, in a talk at North Carolina State College Wednesday (March 8).

Howard, head of a multi-million-dollar enterprise, and four other youthful Southern business executives appeared on a panel challenging college seniors to seek out professional and business opportunities and capitalize on free enterprise ventures open to them in America.

Students from Davidson College, Duke University, the University of North Carolina, Wake Forest College, and North Carolina State College heard the discussions, sponsored by the Young Presidents' Organization, an international body of business executives who have become presidents of companies having sales of at least one million dollars a year before their 40th birthdays.

Joining Howard on the panel were James H. Millis of High Point, president of the Adams-Millis Corporation; John F. Redding of Asheboro, president of Pinehurst Textiles, Inc.; S. B. (Skeet) Rymer of Cleveland, Tenn.; president of Magic Chef; and John M. Harbert, III, of Birmingham, Ala., president of Harbert Construction Company and other enterprises.

"You've heard it said," Rymer declared, "that young people do not have the business opportunities open to their ancestors, but I want to say that opportunities for advancement in business are greater than ever before. And they will continue to be as long as we preserve our present form of government..."

The other panelists echoed Rymer's point of view.

"Development of the individual is the key to keeping our country free and strong," said Harbert, who has built a construction firm from a humble beginning to a world-wide operation with a $20,000,000 plus annual business volume.

Redding, a graduate of North Carolina State, started Pinehurst Textiles, Inc., with 10 sewing machines in an old warehouse and with borrowed capital and has guided the company to a multi-million-dollar operation, with sales throughout the United States and as far away as Hong Kong.

"Look around for the opportunity that suits you, and when you find it, stick to it," Redding told the seniors.

Millis, president of his firm since 1953, told how the company has diversified its output to meet changing market trends and now employs 2,500 persons.

All of the panelists cited individual initiative, perseverance, and hard work as factors involved in their business success. They also stressed integrity.

State College Joins Scholarship Group Of Southern Schools

North Carolina State College has joined the Southern College Scholarship Group which is composed of 25 Southern colleges and universities.

Announcement of State College's membership in the group was made by Dr. Kingston Johns, financial aid officer at the college.

The group is an organization formed to further the conviction that college financial aid programs exist to make possible a college education for qualified students, regardless of their economic circumstances.

Institutions belonging to the group, in addition to State College, follow:

Davidson College, Duke University, Queens College, Wake Forest College, Agnes Scott College, Barry College, Centre College of Kentucky, Emory University, Florida Presbyterian College, Furman University, Hollins College, Howard College, Mary Baldwin College, Randolph - Macon Woman's College, Rollins College, Southwestern at Memphis, Stetson University, Sweet Briar College, Transylvania College, Tulane University, The University of the South, University of Virginia, Vanderbilt University, and Washington and Lee University.

Engineering School Names Currie 'Outstanding Senior'

James Richard Currie of Hickory was named "Outstanding Senior in Engineering" at North Carolina State College tonight (March 11, 1961) from the 1961 class of around 500 engineering seniors.

Announcement of the honor, bestowed upon Currie by a committee of college administrators, was made by Dr. J. Harold Lampe at the annual St. Patrick's Dance held in the William Neal Reynolds Coliseum for engineering students, faculty, and guests.

In presenting young Currie with an engraved electric wrist watch, Dean Lampe said, "Through your excellent scholastic record while at North Carolina State College and your contributions in student and college activities, you have demonstrated those attributes of mind, character, and energy which typify 'outstanding'."

The award winner is the son of Mr. and Mrs. James Currie of Hickory.

An industrial engineering senior, Currie has a 3.4 average out of a possible 4.00 and has made the "Deans' List" every year since his enrollment at State College. He is a member of the Engineering Honors Program which allows superior students more freedom in course selection to suit their individual needs.

During the 1959-1960 academic year, Currie was awarded the Burlington Industries Scholarship which was renewed ship honor fraternity; Golden Chain, senior honor fraternity; Phi Eta Sigma, freshman honor society; Engineers' Council; the State College Student Government Board; the Consolidated University Student Council; and the Young Men's Christian Association.

Currie, who spent his earlier life in the State of New York, is a graduate of Mamaroneck High School, Mamaroneck, N. Y.

for the current academic year. He also has held the University Club of Larchmont Scholarship.

Not only does he excel in academic work, but he is a leader in extra-curricular activities in the college's School of Engineering as well as campus-wide.

Currently Currie is president of Alpha Pi Mu, industrial engineering society; president of the American Institute of Industrial Engineers; and a member of the Publications Board of The Southern Engineer, student magazine.

Last year he was secretary of the AIEE and business manager of the magazine.

In addition, he is an active member of Phi Kappa Phi, national engineering scholastic society; the order of Thirty and Three; Blue Key, junior leader-

Religion Series Scheduled

A noted Bible authority and Yale professor will be the guest lecturer for the annual North Carolina State College faculty Lectures on Religion to be held March 21-23 at 12 noon in the college cafeteria.

Dr. B. Davie Napier, the speaker, is a Holmes professor of Old Testament criticism at the Yale University Divinity School.

In addition to the three faculty lectures, Dr. Napier will hold three student lectures on the same days at 5:45 p.m., also in the cafeteria.

The faculty gatherings will be luncheon meetings and the student lectures will be dinner meetings. Following all sessions, the speaker will answer questions.

The theme of the faculty lectures is "Man, Time, and Event in the Old Testament." The three subjects to be discussed are "Problems of Approach," "The Nature of the Record," and "Prophet and Prophecy." "The Nature of Biblical Faith" will be the theme of the student lectures with the individual topics including "Faith and Protestantism," "Faith and Existence," and "Faith and a Broken World."

Dr. Napier, an ordained Baptist minister, joined the Yale faculty in 1949 and was promoted to full professorship in 1956.

In addition to writing and delivering sermons and lectures, the Yale professor has spent some time in Heidelberg, Germany, on a Fulbright Act exchange grant doing research on form-criticism and on the interpretations of "Genesis". He spent a month in Palestine visiting several current archaeological "digs" and participating briefly in the activities of the American School of Oriental Research in Jerusalem.

Born of missionary parents in China in 1915, Dr. Napier received his B.A. degree from Howard College, and his B.D. and Ph.D. degrees from Yale University.

The lecturer has served as chaplain and chairman of the Department of Religion at Alfred University, later transferring to the University of Georgia in similar capacities.

Dr. Napier has written several articles that have appeared in religious and professional journals.

The Yale professor is married and he and his wife have two children.

The lectures will be sponsored by the Protestant Chaplains' Council and the State College Young Men's Christian Association.

LEOPOLDVILLE, The Congo—Anti-Communist Congolese leaders pressed a three-pronged military, political and financial offensive against the Soviet-backed rival regime of Antoine Gizenga in Stanleyville. Some 1,200 troops of Congo army Maj. Gen. Joseph Mobutu were reported to have seized a Lumumbist stronghold manned by Gizenga troops and to be advancing toward the border of Oriental Province, the seat of Gizenga's strength.

HAVANA—William A. Morgan of Toledo, Ohio, who died with "extraordinary valor" before a firing squad still swearing allegiance to Fidel Castro, was buried Sunday in a traitor's grave. Prime Minister Castro, the only man who could have saved the 34-year-old one-time hero, was off at a party tendered by Chinese Communist officials and ignored Morgan's request for last talks with him.

LONDON—Five persons, including an alleged Soviet master spy and an American couple, go on trial here Monday on charges of stealing Western atomic-age naval secrets and radioing them to Russia in Britain's biggest spy case since atom spy Klaus Fuchs. The Americans are bookseller Peter Kroger, 50, and his wife, Helen, 47.

TANANARIVE, Malagasy Republic—Anti-Communist Congolese leaders completed details of a plan to set up a loose "confederation" of independent Congo states to end strife and squeeze out the Soviet-backed rival regime in Oriental Province. The agreement at a "summit" conference here drew immediate denunciation from the Soviet bloc.

YMCA Service Group To Work At Dix Hill

State College students are volunteering their time and talents at Dorothea Dix State Mental Hospital. This is a new program in which service is provided for the Hospital, as well as offering understanding of mental illness to the students involved.

This week eight students are beginning their work under Ann Abernethy, Director of Volunteer Service, at the Hospital. These students receive instruction on the causes of mental illness and the ways in which they may be of service.

Some of the students will be working in occupational rehabilitation. This involves assisting patients in their work in shops, crafts and vocational training. There is a large professional staff at work in this area, and students are able to work with the staff and assist the patients.

Other students will be working in recreational rehabilitation. This involves showing movies, playing checkers, dancing, or generally having fun. This program, also under staff supervision, makes it possible for volunteers to get to know patients personally and to talk with the patients as a friend.

When students feel they are ready, they may visit patients on the wards. In visiting the wards the volunteers are exposed to many different kinds of illness. Also they will be able to spend time with particular patients they have met in the course of other activities.

Jim Morgan, one of those involved in the project states, "I have long been interested in this type of activity but have never had a chance to participate in it before. I am grateful for this program."

Technician's Election Policy

With the campus elections approaching we would like to announce our policy to the candidates that will be running for a campus position. The primaries will be held on April 13 and the finals one week later.

The Technician will not publish a special election issue for the candidates. Students desiring to have their platforms and qualifications published should have releases in no later than 7:00 p.m., April 9.

We will try to give each candidate an equal amount of space. The more important offices such as President of the Student Government will receive more space than an office such as senator.

The Technician does not plan to support any individual for an office. We plan to remain neutral and present the candidate's own views.

Nominations for campus offices may be filed in Holladay Hall beginning this Thursday. All students that plan to become a candidate for a campus office are required to have a 2.0 average.

We urge all students that are interested in becoming one of the campus leaders for next year to run for a position. Let's make this the biggest election ever for State College.

A Strong Student Government

Why should a student run for a campus office? There are many reasons that a student should become a candidate for a campus position, but one of the main ones is that he is taking an active part in campus life. He is one of the leaders of tomorrow.

A student should take an interest in his college, and he can do so by running for an office. There are many that complain about State College, but how many students know the senators that represent his school and class? There are very few.

There are many rules established at State College by the Student Government. However, there are very few students that have a say so in these rules. Why? The reason is simple. They are not familiar with their student government leaders.

State College has one of the strongest student governments among American colleges and universities today. Why is our student government so strong? It is strong because we have strong leaders that are capable of leading the entire student body.

There are many outstanding student leaders in our student government. The majority of them have held campus offices since their freshman year. They have come up through the ranks.

We would like to see the student government at State College continue being one of the best and strongest in America today. It can not continue being strong without good leaders. We have them. Let's continue to put the best candidates in office as we have done in the past.

Group Leaders Aid Orientation Week

Participation in the freshman orientation week activities as an upperclass Group Leader affords the student many opportunities for service to himself, to State College, and to the incoming freshman.

Serving as a group leader is an excellent situation for exercising and further development of leadership qualities. This is also a great opportunity to serve State College, as well as the fulfillment of our duty.

North Carolina State College can take pride in its Freshman Orientation Program. State has one of the best, if not the best, orientation program for freshman and transfer students of any college in the South. This can be attributed largely to the interest and work of a great number of students. Each year colleges all over the United States write to State for information on our program, and many of these colleges have patterned their program after ours.

In order for this program to continue to be successful, as it has been in past years, the students must assume their responsibilities and properly fulfill these responsibilities.

This year the same general type program will be used as in past years. That is, there will be approximately 100 groups of 15 to 20 new students, transfers or freshmen, which will be under the guidance of an upperclass group leader. Therefore, the Orientation Commission needs 100 Group Leaders.

Here is a wonderful opportunity to gain experience in leading others, and thereby further developing your leadership abilities, and at the same time perform a service for State College.

Fellows, if you act fast you can pick up your application at the College Union main desk or 207 Holladay Hall. If you have not picked up your application you should do so and return it before March 17.

NOTICE

Any student desiring to work on State College's student newspaper, The Technician, is urged to come by our offices in the 1911 Building. There are a few openings on the editorial and business staffs.

It's A Puzzlement

(Editor's Note. The following article appeared in The Wall Street Journal on Monday, March 6, 1961. We thought that it might be of particular interest to the students.)

Every now and then the public fancy gets caught up by a catch-phrase idea in a way that, without disturbing us particularly, just leaves us puzzled. The Food-for-Peace program. The Peoples-to-Peoples program. And now the Peace Corps.

The puzzlement isn't over the basic idea of any of these things. We are all in favor of the people of one country getting acquainted with the people of another country, whether by personal visiting or correspondence. We have long been enthusiasts for such exchanges of young people as the Experiment in International Living and the work of the American Field Service.

There's something to be gained, too, from more serious exchanges—as when an American teacher or doctor makes his contribution to some far-off place. That can help to give a better understanding abroad of what kind of country America is; it is also just good in itself, simply because charity and friendliness are virtues.

What is bewildering is the wild and fanciful notions that get wrapped around these ideas. The catch-phrase "Peace Corps" becomes one of the biggest slogans of the campaign. It is the subject of a special message from the President. And before you know it, the trumpets are sounding and the whole thing takes on the ardor of a revival meeting. An army of young people, fresh out of college, are going to go swarming all over the world, spreading the gospel of America and saving the Free World from the barbarians.

The thing is so completely disproportionate as to be nonsensical. The wars of the civilized world did not break out because there was any lack of peoples-to-peoples contact between Germans and Frenchmen. And what person, except perhaps the very young themselves, can really believe that an Africa aflame with violence will have its fires quenched because some Harvard boy or Vassar girl lives in a mud hut and speaks Swahili?

All this to-do about the Peace Corps would be of no great consequence, we suppose, except for its uneasy reminder of how readily we can be swept up by a slogan, how quickly we become ourselves that simple good-will solves the most complex problems.

Why is it that we aren't content with applauding the Russian ballet because it is good, but must tell ourselves the pirouettes are deepening international understanding? And why can't we just be pleased that Louis Armstrong's trumpet is applauded in Moscow without imagining that the music has softened the hearts of the Politburo?

Let us have this Peace Corps, if we will; especially since the President no longer plans to substitute it for military service. But all this ecstasy about it still remains a puzzlement.

Students Needed For Campus Chest Committee

By Raymond Phillips

Bob Cooke, President of the Student Government, requests for volunteers to serve on the 1961-62 Advisory Committee of the Campus Chest Drive.

The committee will be composed of ten members from the entire student body. It is the intent that the ten members shall be a cross section of the students at State College.

Any students interested in serving on the committee is urged to get in touch with Cooke or leave your name and address in Cooke's box at the main desk in the College Union.

By creating an Advisory Committee in the year preceding the drive, it is hoped that many of the problems will be solved without rushing.

The duties of the Advisory Committee will be to make up recommendations to the legislature on how the collected money should be used, to organize the procedure in carrying out the drive, and to set the dates of the drive.

State Wins Three AAU Titles

State's representatives in the Carolinas AAU wrestling tournament made a very good account of themselves. The tournament, held in Frank Thompson Gym on Friday and Saturday, was the annual affair for wrestlers from North and South Carolina.

Matthews, Reynolds, and Wilder of State were all first place winners in the annual competition. Matthews won his place with a pin in the first period after 2:48 had gone by. Reynolds copped his title with a pin at 1:30 of the third period. Wilder won his championship with a 5-2 decision.

Ward, Cook, Sullivan, Havas, and Simmons, also of State, got into the finals but were beaten. In the consolation bracket, Moretz of State lost a 3-0 decision, Junker won a 9-6 decision, and Gilleskie was pinned.

On the overall tournament State won three first places, five second places, one third place, and two fourth places.

State also won the team title with a total of 135 points while Appalachian was second with 93 points. Reynolds of State was selected as the outstanding wrestler of the tournament.

The opening rounds of the tournament were held on Friday afternoon and Friday night. The finals and consolation rounds were held Saturday night. A total of 68 wrestlers were entered from colleges, high schools and military bases in North and South Carolina.

Spencer Cops Two Events

North Carolina State's Ed Spencer took two gold medals in the Eastern Intercollegiate swimming meet in Princeton, N. J. Pete Fogarasy, also of State, won a gold medal in one event and came in third in another.

Spencer won both the 100 and 200 yard butterfly events in record breaking times. On Friday night, Spencer copped the 200-yard distance in 2:04.9 which topped the old mark of 2:06.4. On Saturday night Spencer won the 100-yard race in a time of :53.4 which was also a new mark. Spencer had swam these two events only a few times in the past this season. Most of his efforts had been in the long distance freestyle events.

Fogarasy won a first place in the 200-yard breaststroke and a third in the 100-yard breaststroke. Fogarasy's first place came on Friday when he beat the field with a time of 2:18.1. Fogarasy was behind for the better part of this race but pulled from behind at the 175-yard mark. Saturday night, Fogarasy placed third in the 100-yard event, after setting a new Eastern mark of 1:04 in the qualifying round.

State's Vollmar Places Fourth

State College didn't fare too well in the Atlantic Coast Conference indoor games held this past weekend in Chapel Hill. The Pack varsity picked up a fourth in the shot put and a fifth in the two-mile relay.

George Vollmar of State won the fourth place in the shot put for State. The winning toss was 53-7 1/2. State's relay team placed fifth in the two-mile relay.

In the freshman division Goodwin of State finished fifth in the 70-yard high hurdles and the State team finished fifth in the one-mile relay.

High Style, Contoured Underwear For Gentlemen

MATADOR MATES PRAISED BY TEST WEARERS

Test wearers from coast to coast have heaped praise upon the new, high style Matador Mates. Typical comments have been: "I am more than pleased with this new idea in brief and 'T' shirt comfort. Although they cost a little more, they're certainly worth it! Matador has a new friend and customer." A lady from Richmond, Virginia wrote, "I love my husband in his Matador Briefs." From the deep south comes this comment, "Matadors are the smartest, most comfortable garments I have ever worn. They're a great team." And this abbreviated, but descriptive comment came out of the west, "WOW!"

From all sections of the country, the comments are strongly in favor of this radically new development in high style men's underwear. Most agree, "Matador Mates are just what I have been looking for."

Matador Name Chosen From 100s

Naming of this new concept in underwear style and comfort was no easy task. From hundreds of names submitted to Stedman Manufacturing Company, "Matador" was finally chosen.

Results of an extensive survey indicated that the name "Matador" implied virility, good looks and tasteful styling . . . all important factors in the appearance of today's well dressed gentleman. "Mates" was used in conjunction with "Matador" to indicate a matching high style underwear pair . . . the first available on the American market.

MATADOR MATES . . . CONTOURED BRIEF AND MATCHING 'T' SHIRT. AN ENTIRELY NEW CONCEPT!

Through the years styles have changed drastically in men's dress. It took years, but high style finally became the by-word in the men's field . . . especially in his outer garments . . . just as it did for women many years ago.

However, underwear for gentlemen has been different. Few changes have come about . . . style-wise . . . since the advent of the droopy, ill-fitting knitted garments of the early 30's. That is, until research, plus the demand of men and women alike, brought Matador Mates onto the American Market.

Matador Mates . . . available exclusively at Student Supply Stores . . . are designed especially for the man who truly cares about his dress—from head to toe, from inside out. It is the first high style, proportionally fitted, matching underwear garment pair ever placed on the market, either here or in fashion conscious Europe.

The high style, contoured Matador Brief has a radically new dimensional pouch that supports gently, but firmly. It supports the way today's athletically minded man wants to be supported. Fits exactly the way a man is built . . . at the waist, in the hips . . . around the legs. Matching Matador 'T' is equally handsome in appearance. Banded collar and sleeves, vented sides and contoured styling help make-up a perfectly fitted — perfectly dressed gentleman's team. Both garments are fashioned from a new waffle-weave knit fabric . . . created especially for these high style garments. They're guaranteed to maintain proper size and fit even after repeated washings.

Advertised in Playboy, Esquire and Sports Illustrated, Matador Mates are a product of Stedman Manufacturing Company's research and development. They are available only at a few fashion conscious men's shops in this country.
