Earle Edwards, head football coach at North Carolina State College, and his assistant Al Michaels, begin their 20th year of coaching on the same football coaching staff with the start of the 1960 football season. They were together at Penn State University for 13 years and seven years here at N. C. State College. They are both Penn State graduates.

Edwards Voted Coach Of Week After Two Successive Wins

By WILLIAM A. SHIRES
United Press International
RALEIGH, UPI—His hard-luck team last year lost nine straight games—most of them in the last minutes, by such scores as 14-17, 15-17, 14-19, 7-12, 28-33—enough heartbreakers for a lifetime of coaching. But suave, genial Earle Edwards of North Carolina State is a man of courage and strong determination based on respect and admiration for "his boys."

Last year's losing season hurt because Edwards knew what his boys felt, how they wanted to win, and he knew they were better than their record. A lot of the hurt has been wiped away already. Edwards' boys have turned two would-be heartbreakers into victory on sheer determination, desire and, in Edwards' words, "a lot of good luck." State downed Virginia Tech, 29-14, with two last period touchdowns, and last Saturday upset favored North Carolina, 3-0, on a third period field goal, some goal line heroism and luck.

As a result, United Press International today named Edwards football's "Coach of the Week."

Luck, like the ball squirting Gabriel, six-foot, four inch 220-pound junior from Wilmington, N. C., is the Wolfpack's story-book athlete, the nation's most accurate college passer as a sophomore, a tremendous passer, field general, runner and defensive stalwart.

Kiwanis To Initiate Campus Circle K Club

All students interested in joining the new Kiwanis Circle K Club on the campus are urged to attend a meeting at 7:30 tonight (Wednesday) in the theater of the College Union.

At the meeting will be representatives of Raleigh's two Kiwanis Clubs. They will explain the operation of the Circle K Club on the campus.

Circle K Clubs are service organizations—character-building groups whose members band together voluntarily to render service to campus and community. Their motto, like the motto of Kiwanis, is "We Build."

Here are some sample campus service activities of Circle K: Operating campus safety programs, including distribution of literature, running automobile checks, and handling pedestrian and traffic surveys.

Assisting college officials in operating freshman orientation programs.

Entertaining under-privileged children at Thanksgiving, Christmas and other times of the year.

Providing scholarships. Operating student tutoring programs.

Publishing needed campus aids such as directories, activity calendars, sports and musical programs, song books.

Operating campus cleanup programs.

Promoting blood donor drives and fund-raising programs for national charities.

Sponsoring all-campus dances and other parties.

Ike, Khrushchev Refuse Meeting

United Arab Republic President Gamal Abdel Nasser proposed Tuesday that the United Nations sponsor an Eisenhower-Khrushchev meeting but both the U. S. President and the Soviet Premier refused.

President Eisenhower disclosed through a high American official that he would only meet Khrushchev if the Russian leader freed two RB47 reconnaissance plane fliers held captive on spy charges and toned down his anti-American demands in the United Nations.

Khrushchev, looking glum, shrugged his shoulders and turned his back when asked whether he would agree to the Nasser proposal. He has verified President Eisenhower repeatedly over the U2 plane incident, and sworn never to do business with him.

But Khrushchev said he might be willing to meet British Prime Minister Harold Macmillan.

Nasser suggested that the "two great leaders" meet to try to agree on disarmament.

Sought Neutralist Approach Bracketed in between speakers from Communist satellites, who wholeheartedly supported Khrushchev's proposals, Nasser sought a neutralist approach during his 78-minute address to the U. N. General Assembly. He followed the Khrushchev line of last Friday in demanding U. N. support for pro-Russian Premier Patrice Lumumba of the Congo and in urging a U. N. seat for Red China.

He accused the United Nations of shirking responsibility in Palestine and demanded a return of territory "seized" by Israel. He also demanded a plebiscite in Algeria to end French "imperialism."

However, Nasser refrained from joining the Soviet-led attack against U. N. Secretary-General Dag Hammarskjold.

Neutralist nations' appeared to be lining up behind the United States in support of Hammarskjold against Red demands that he resign.

The U. S. State Department announced that a majority of the African nations now support the secretary-general, a statement which appeared to doom Khrushchev's effort to replace him with a three-member presidium.

Nassar Stole Show Romania's Communist Party Leader Gheorghe Gheorghiu-Dej, first speaker of the day, renewed demands for Hammarskjold's political scalp and he, like Polish Party Leader Wladyslaw Gomulka, denounced West German "militarism."

Southern Governors Laud Kennedy For Mon. Debate

Ten southern governors congratulated Democratic presidential nominee John F. Kennedy today on his "superb handling" of both Mr. Nixon and the issues facing our country" during Monday night's radio-TV "debate."

The governors, attending the 26th Annual Southern Governors Conference at Hot Springs, Ark., told Kennedy they felt "the masterful way in which you controlled this debate further accelerates the movement to Kennedy-Johnson and the Democratic ticket."

The congratulations were contained in a telegram which was released by the Democratic National Committee.

The telegram was signed by the following governors: Buford Ellington of Tennessee, Luther Hodges of North Carolina, Ernest Hollings of South Carolina, John Patterson of Alabama, Price Daniel of Texas, Bert Combs of Kentucky, S. Ernest Vandiver of Georgia, J. Lindsay Almond Jr. of Virginia, J. Millard Tawes of Maryland and Orville E. Faubus of Arkansas.

Governors Leroy Collins of Florida, James Davis of Louisiana and J. Howard Edmondson of Oklahoma were absent from the conference.

Ike Triumphs At U N; Wins African Support

NEW YORK, UPI—President Eisenhower dealt Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev a stinging diplomatic defeat Tuesday and won a thunderous ovation from hundreds of thousands overflowing the sidewalks of New York.

Before he left to return to Washington Eisenhower turned down a proposal that he meet with the Soviet premier. And he left behind a dour and silent Khrushchev.

New Yorkers poured out of office buildings to cheer the President as he left the Waldorf-Astoria Hotel in a motorcade and drove to Newark Airport.

White House officials said it was the biggest turnout Eisenhower has received in this country and was perhaps the largest New York ovation for any president since Franklin D. Roosevelt's 1944 victory tour of the garment district.

A few hours before he rode through the streets with his arms raised in greeting, Eisenhower capped a round of personal diplomacy by rallying African nations against Khrushchev's efforts to oust U. N. Secretary General Dag Hammarskjold and replace him with a three-man, Soviet-style executive committee.

World Traveler Visits N C S

By Jim Page
Tuesday night the Farmhouse had as their guest a world wide traveler. This in itself is not so astonishing; however, the fact that he is doing it on one penny is astonishing.

Alex Sanchez, a student at San Marcos University in Inca, Peru, started around the world several years ago. At this time he was acting as a regular tourist, paying his way wherever he went. He soon found that he was not getting to meet people as he wanted to, being in the tourist class. This fact led Alex to decide to hitch hike and bum around the world.

On April of 1958 he left Peru with exactly one cent in his pocket. Since that time he has visited Chile, Argentina, Uruguay, Brazil, Paraguay, Bolivia, Columbia, Venezuela, Panama, Central America, Mexico, and twenty-six of the states in this country. As he has traveled he has made friends with people throughout these countries, and they have supported him in some way as he moved on.

When asked why he was doing this sort of thing, he stated that his reasons were two fold. He was mainly doing it as a personal good will tour and secondly he was doing it in order to see some of the countries around the world.

On his pack may be found many fire department badges which he has collected from fire departments throughout the United States. He said, "I usually go to a fire department because they are a good bunch of guys, you know... they keep care of you." Also, he visits in various fraternities along his route spreading his words of good will and tales of his trips.

Alex passes out a card where he goes which states, "For the peace and the prosperity to be an American! ! ! For the Americans! ! ! For Americans! ! ! "God Bless You."

Upon leaving Raleigh Alex will turn toward Miami, Fla.

Good-will ambassador Alex Sanchez (with beret) talks to several State College students while visiting here yesterday.

Comments From The Editor Traffic Trouble

Each year, the Student Government Traffic Committee hears appeals from students who have received traffic violation tickets on campus. The majority of these appeals have no merit whatsoever. The Traffic Committee feels that in most cases the student took a chance and received a ticket.

We feel that such appeals do not do justice to the committee since they must rule, and do in the majority of the cases, against the student.

The Traffic Committee urges all students to obtain one of the booklets if they do not have one and read up on the rules. Any student who understands these rules and abides by them will not receive any tickets during the coming year.

The Traffic Committee has not set up these high fees for the purpose of raising money, but rather to discourage the students from taking chances on receiving a traffic ticket.

We hope that you will assist the Traffic Committee by abiding by these rules, and that all of you will take time to review the Traffic Committee Committee's handbook on rules.

Congratulations

We, on behalf of the student body, would like to congratulate head football Coach Earle Edwards on being named "Coach of the Week" by United Press International wire service. It is an honor that is well deserved after the tremendous victory over the University of North Carolina.

It is true that the Wolfpack received many breaks in the game Saturday, but, after last season, it is about time the breaks were going our way.

It is the first time that Coach Edwards has ever been named "Coach of the Week" by UPI.

Coach Edwards has already doubled his victory output over last season, and we definitely look for the Wolfpack to win some more before the season is over.

We hope that Coach Edwards' Wolfpack will continue the fine play that it has demonstrated in the first two games of the season.

It is indeed a different year, and maybe instead of a 1-9 record, we'll have a 9-1 record. Again, congratulations Coach!

Letter To The Editor

To the Editor of The Technician: Students of North Carolina State College, I would like for you to think seriously of what danger you are in. Be friendly with everyone you come in contact with, because it is now feasible for you to be expelled on the word of any of the close to six thousand students. I'm not generalizing; the honorable members of the Honor Code Board did just this last Thursday night.

I'm not judging their decision . . . I'm condemning it. Since when in these United States has any organization, entrusted with judicial power, had the right to assume that God has given them eternal knowledge. If someone told me that John Doe cheated, and then John Doe told me he had not, or for that matter no one in his right mind could condemn John on such evidence; that is no one except the honorable members of the Honor Code Board.

The point is this—in our democratic judicial system a man can only be legitimately incriminated through fact and deviation from this practice; i.e. hear say, circumstance, personal impression, etc., is a step away from our fundamental concept of justice. You voice your views on integration, foreign policy, and nuclear control—why not investigate the justice which can condemn you on the hazy interpretations of any one fellow student. If it is allowed to thrive, this College could become the one rotten apple which eventually spoils the whole basketful.

NOTICE

We have received many notices about meetings to be published in the Campus Crier. Many of these notices have been written out instead of being typed. Due to the small staff that we employ, we would like to request that all organizations and persons desiring to publish a notice in The Technician to have the notice typed. It will help our staff out a great deal.

We would also like to remind you of the deadlines that we have. All articles and stories must be in the office by 7:00 p.m. in order to get into the following day's edition. We are going to follow these deadlines closely. We hope that you will help us in meeting these deadlines.

With the autumn comes football, with football comes homecoming. Yes, homecoming is here again. Bah, rah!

The alumni will be stomping around campus again. Fraternities will be scheming to build better floats for the homecoming parade and the dormitories will be scheming to build better floats than the fraternities. Everyone will be working hard to cut each other's throat. So it is with home coming.

The slight nip in the air combined with the autumn colors (?) makes for a wonderful theme for a party. Let's have one!

I say all you football lovers, plan to yell your heads off at the game Saturday. We've won two games already, maybe we can yell Virginia off the field.

Here is a little story for all the Alumni. Can you remember the old location of the cow barns?

A Day At State

The day started just like any other day, except the sun was shining. It gets so the sun just doesn't shine on good ole North Carolina State anymore.

My roommate was still asleep in the upper bunk. His foot was dangling over the rail and hit me squarely in the face when I sat up. There's nothing like a cold foot in the face to wake you up. I pushed him back into his bunk; I don't know why, I just did it.

After carrying out the major morning activities, I left the dorm to go to my 8 o'clock class. Since it was already 8:30, I decided to skip it and eat breakfast instead.

The sky was a lovely shade of blue and the sun played through the leafless trees. It was a beautiful day for April, except the month happened to be January.

I trotted over to Ptomaine Tavern to have my breakfast. Just as I was finishing the last of my pigeon eggs, this character tapped me on the shoulder.

"What are you doing here, Rufus?" he spluttered at me.

"Eating breakfast." What else could I tell him? Just to humor the guy, I asked him to sit down and have a bite with me.

"I can't. I'm going over to Holladay Hall to watch the fun. Why don't you come?" he screamed.

"What fun over at Holladay Hall?" I asked. Even though my tormentor was a dead-beat as well as a loud-mouth, he could find out some pretty fascinating things. He had a nose for trouble.

"Find out for yourself," he said as he hoisted his anchor and sailed out the door.

I finished my breakfast and ambled over to Holladay Hall. There was a crowd of students gathered around the front door. Some of them had ball bats while others had useless rifles from the ROTC surplus. They were a mean looking bunch, and I was not in the mood to argue with them, so I didn't.

There was a small, stupid looking guy standing beside one of the bushes near the entrance. I walked over to him to see if he knew what was going on. When I got closer, I found that he was armed with a twenty-inch slide rule.

"Pardon me, but could you tell me just what is going on here?" I asked.

"None of your business," he mumbled.

"I'm a student here, and I demand to know what is going on!" I was feeling my pigeon eggs by then.

After a few minutes of trying to stare each other down, he finally told me what all of the ruckus was about. It seemed that several of the students were trying to persuade the administration to get rid of the cow barns. The wind very often carried the scent of the barns to the campus. Some of the students didn't appreciate it. They couldn't do anything about the wind, but the barns could go.

The chap that was giving me all the poop was known as Ryland G. Bumgarter. He was a likeable chap except that he was always slapping himself across the face.

Fraternity Grid Loop Opened Play Monday

By Richie Williamson

The fraternity football season got off to a good start on Monday afternoon with eight games being played on the intramural fields. There were no major upsets in the first round of play but there were a number of close games. Of course, the early in the season it is still too soon to be deciding which teams will be the powerhouses for this year.

Defending champs Sigma Chi started well in defense of their crown by stopping Pi Kappa Phi 13-0. The winners picked up one touchdown in the first period and added another in the third while keeping the PKP's scoreless. However, the statistics showed that offensively the two teams were evenly matched. The other game in division one saw Delta Sigma Phi shutout Pi Kappa Alpha by a 15-0 score. Neither team moved the ball very well throughout the game, but the Delta Sigs pushed across two first half T. D.'s and pinned a safety on the PKA's for the victory.

In division two, Kappa Alpha beat Tau Kappa Epsilon 12-6 and Sigma Alpha Epsilon nosed out Kappa Sigma 6-2. The KA's were in almost complete control as they amassed 130 yards to TKE's 44 yards. KA had their twelve points when TKE scored in the last period. The closest game of the afternoon saw the SAE's push across a touchdown in the third period to come from behind to beat Kappa Sig by 6-2. The game was featured by hard line play by both teams.

Sigma Phi Epsilon scored in every period to roll to a 24-0 victory over Farm House. SPE used their two tall ends, Biggerstaff and Faelten, to the best advantage in continually rolling up yardage while FarmHouse was thrown for several losses which prevented them from scoring. Phi Kappa Tau and Alpha Gamma Rho had a rugged battle which PKT won 20-0. Skidmore, Williams, and Shipp each scored for the winners with Scott adding two points after touchdown.

Others — Duke, 15; Penn State, 12; Baylor, 11; Purdue, 6; Pittsburgh and New Mexico State, 4 each; North Carolina State, 3; Army and Wisconsin, 2 each; Wyoming and Air Force, 1 each.

Sigma Nu proved that they are the team to be watched as they stunned Phi Epsilon Pi by a 41-0 verdict. Boasting a heavy line, they held the PEP's to a -12 yards gained while picking up 132 yards themselves. The scoring was divided evenly among six Sigma Nu's. Division four's second game was a 19-6 victory for Sigma Alpha Nu over Lambda Chi Alpha. LCA scored on the first play of the game on a deflected pass but the Sammies came right back to score and add the extra point for a 7-6 halftime lead. SAM pushed across two second-half T. D.'s to wrap up the game.

The scores and next Monday's schedule:

Sig Chi 13	PKP 0
Delta Sig 15	PKA 0
KA 12	TKE 6

has been so important that we look back and see we couldn't have done it without him," said Edwards but he and Gabriel both give credit on a team basis.

"By winning, there's an entirely new feeling," Edwards says. "We know that it's too early to tell what this team is going to do. We've flubbed some, hurt ourselves and made a lot of mistakes. Our offense hasn't been strong. We must do much better on offense. I don't mind if they call us lucky."

"Winning helps everybody, and in every way. It's when you lose so many that it's bad."

On the bus going to Chapel Hill for the "big" game against the Tar Heels, "There weren't more than two words spoken among the more than 40 people, and I was worse than anyone. I had butterflies all week. Sure we were tense, but winning helped that."

State managed to run only 45 plays, while the Tar Heels had possession for 81. The Tar Heels doubled State's yardage and first downs—and the State offense sputtered, in contrast to last year's high-scoring team. It was the first time in 14 games that State had fewer first downs than its opponent.

And it was only the third victory in 14 games. Edwards, beaming, was like a man who had made a discovery:

"They can have the first downs any time, so long as we have the points."

This is Edwards' 25th anniversary year in college coaching. He served as end coach under Biggie Munn at Michigan State for five years and came to State in 1954. He began coaching at Princeton, N. J., Prep, after graduation from Penn State in 1931, and coached high school at Ebensburg, Pa., for two years. He was end coach at Penn State from 1936 to 1948.

He uses the multiple offense, unbalanced line—"We make certain adjustments to make the best use of our personnel, and we feel that enabling a boy to play his best for the team is the important thing."

Nehru Pushes Disarmament At U N Meet

Indian Prime Minister Jawaharlal Nehru, a symbol of neutrality, Tuesday pursued his attempt to thaw the cold war by talks with leaders of East and West.

While heads of state addressed the United Nations General Assembly the soft-spoken Indian leader was meeting privately with others.

The 70-year-old Nehru started his second business day Tuesday by conferring privately with President Tito of Yugoslavia.

"We discussed disarmament and reducing international tensions," he told newsmen later. "In the main we discussed some way of relaxing tensions which makes it easier to discuss things."

Nehru Monday met with U.N. Secretary-General Dag Ham-maraskjold, Assembly President Frederick H. Boland, President Eisenhower, Prime Minister

But Nasser, natty in medium gray suit, blue tie, white shirt and white breast pocket handkerchief, stole Tuesday's show. His head bobbing up and down from his notes, he said:

"We suggest that the General Assembly recommend that the two great leaders should, under the standard of the United Nations, meet either by themselves or together with whom you the U. N. select among those who are present here in order for them all to put, under the aegis of the United Nations, guiding rules for a new attempt toward disarmament."

Khrushchev sat in the audience as Nasser spoke. The Soviet Premier loudly joined in the thunderous ovation received by Nasser.

John Diefenbaker of Canada, British Prime Minister Harold Macmillan, President Kwame Nkrumah of Ghana, Tito, President Gamal Abdel Nasser of the United Arab Republic and Soviet Premier Khrushchev.

In what he has described as "imbibing the atmosphere" before deciding which way to swing India's prestige, Nehru met again Tuesday with Diefenbaker and Tito and attended the General Assembly session.

In his meeting with Eisenhower Monday the two leaders agreed that disarmament was perhaps the most important issue in the present world crisis.
