Board Suspends Student For Stealing Textbook

By Bill Jackson

The Honor Code Board dealt with another case involving the theft of a textbook at a meeting last Thursday night in the College Union. A student was charged with stealing a thermodynamics text and selling it as his own at the Supply Store.

The offense was a continuation of the wave of thefts which have been brought to the attention of the board this year. Despite warnings by the Honor Code Board, some students have continued to infringe on the property rights of their fellow students. Most of the cases have concerned men who evidently thought that a loose book belonged to whoever could pick it up.

The owner of the stolen book in this case checked the Student Supply Store and found his book in the used section. The name had been partially erased in an effort to conceal the identity of the book. The student charged with stealing admitted rubbing out the owner's name; he had previously pleaded guilty to the alleged offense.

After deliberation by the board members, the student was found guilty as charged; his penalty was suspension from school for the remainder of this semester. He was also placed on probation through summer school.

In an effort to acquaint the student body with the policies of the Honor Code Board, The Technician is releasing the following suggestions:

(1) Books found lying in out-of-the-way places should be checked carefully for identification. If it is impossible to locate the owner, the books may be turned in to a lost-and-found agency, such as the College Union or the Student Supply Store.

(2) Each student should clearly mark his own books, including his name and address. If a book is missing, check with the lost-and-found services mentioned above.

The actions mentioned above may seem to be a little trouble for the students concerned, but a great deal of future anxiety may be eliminated. Students who fail to meet their responsibilities both to themselves and to others have missed an important segment of their education. The price for a few minutes of thoughtlessness has in many cases been extremely high.

Math Graduate Student Chosen To Study Abroad

An outstanding North Carolina State College student who will receive his master's degree in applied mathematics this summer has been selected to go to the University of Glasgow for the 1961-62 academic year.

He is John Tunstall Welch, Jr., of Oxford.

Announcement of the selection was made today (Tuesday, May 2) by Dr. John W. Cell, head of the Department of Mathematics who said that this is the beginning of a cooperative program between North Carolina State College and the Glasgow University. It is jointly sponsored by the Department of Mathematics and the Department of Engineering Research.

Young Welch will spend the year in half-time study and half-time research at the university. He will work under Dr. I. N. Sneddon, who holds the Simson Chair of Applied Mathematics at Glasgow University and who was visiting lecturer at State College this semester.

Dr. Cell referred to Welch, who had a 3.92 aver-

Thirteen Leaders Initiated In Blue Key Honor Society

Thirteen new members were initiated into Blue Key Honor Fraternity Tuesday night at a banquet which was held at The College Inn. Art Hoch, the popular Physical Education instructor and Director of Intramural Athletics, was also inducted at this meeting as an honorary member.

The speaker at the banquet was Mr. Graham Jones, Press Secretary for Governor Sanford, who spoke on Sanford's approach to bettering the educational system of North Carolina. Mr. Jones quoted some shocking statistics concerning education in the state. He pointed out that North Carolina was among the lower ten states in the nation in almost all statistics concerning literacy, teachers' salaries, expenditures for education and almost all other phases of public schools.

He also said that "people must pay for every improvement", and that the only way that the much needed improvement in education could come about would be for the state to raise the money by raising taxes. He stated that Sanford had studied every method of tax "that the General Assembly had discussed and some that they had not even thought about; and that the only way that he could find to raise the needed revenue was with the proposed food tax."

Blue Key is a national honor society which was founded in 1924 to perpetuate the belief in God, to preserve the principles of good citizenship, and to promote the best interests of the students.

The fraternity recognizes outstanding qualities in character, scholarship, and service, placing equal emphasis upon leadership in student activities.

The State College chapter was founded in May of 1928. The students who were initiated yesterday were:

Every student who is repeating a course for credit this semester should secure a special IBM card (one for each course) from his departmental office, complete, and bring it to the Registration Office, 12 Holaday Hall, not later than Monday, May 15. This applies only to courses previously taken at State College and includes courses failed as well as passed.

Will the person who borrowed the flags of Albania, Hungary, Nicaragua, and Venezuela please return them to the Home Demonstration Office, 101 Ricks Hall.

The Board of Publications Banquet will be held at the College Inn on May 11, at 6:30 p.m. Representatives from each of the publications should contact Mrs. Lucas, room 313 in the 1911 Building, or TE 3-4810, before Friday of this week to reserve places for their staff members.

Delta Sigs Plan Sailor's Ball

brothers will leave Raleigh on Friday afternoon and arrive at the beach to be registered and to prepare for an informal party for Friday night. Saturday will be filled with a day in and around the motel's swimming pool and the strand in front of the motel. Saturday night, the brothers will gather for a party, at which everyone will be dressed in the traditional all white with a green sash, from 8 till 12 which will feature the "Famous Keys" for entertainment. This will be held at the motel. The chaperones for the affair are "Mom" Riddle, the house-mother, and Mr. & Mrs. Bill Keppler, members of the staff at N. C. State.

Textile School Receives Large Research Grant

A $38,000 research contract has been awarded to State College's School of Textiles by the U. S. Department of Agriculture to evaluate data dealing with cotton fiber properties and spinning performances as affected by ginning treatments.

The announcement of the research contract was made by Dr. Malcolm E. Campbell, dean of the School of Textiles.

The project will be administered by the college's department of Textile Technology headed by Prof. E. B. Grover and will be under the direction of Prof. J. F. Bogdan.

Realizing that the possible misuse of cotton ginning equipment sharply reduces the spinning and weaving performance of cotton, the USDA undertook a series of controlled ginning experiments to investigate the effects of various changes in fiber properties.

The results of a wide variety of physical tests performed on cotton from three Area studies at the USDA Cotton Quality Research Laboratory in Clemson, S. C., comprise the data to be investigated.

In addition to the development of guides to better ginning practices, the investigation will be concerned with a comprehensive analysis leading to the development of a mathematical description of the Suter-Webb length array curve and recommendations regarding the size and number of tests to be conducted in the future for statistical reliability.

State Takes Big Four Trophy

State Coach Paul Derr presents the Big Four Sports Day trophy to Richie Williamson, intramural athletic director. State won the annual competition for the third time to retain permanent possession of the trophy. State led with 30 points and was followed by Wake Forest with 21 points and Duke with 20. Carolina, the defending champs, finished in last place with 17 points. For complete details see the sports page of this paper.

Serious Problem Faces Council

The Student Council at the University of North Carolina is faced with a difficult problem. They have the problem of deciding the fate of one of the University's greatest all-time athletes, All-American basketballer Doug Moe. It undoubtedly is probably one of the toughest cases the Student Council has ever handled.

Doug Moe's friend, Lou Brown, talked to a Charlotte sportswriter last week and stated that Moe did not accept any money for bribing any contest. He said that Moe took the money for him, because he was in great need of it. Moe admitted accepting the money which amounted to $75 dollars to the Chancellor William Aycock.

The Student Council has the problem written before it. Is Doug Moe guilty . . . or not guilty? The answer is that he is guilty of accepting the $75 dollars. The Student Council has got to decide whether he is guilty of bribing any contest. We definitely feel that he is not guilty of this charge. The thing that will probably see Moe leave school is the fact that he reported attempts of Lou Brown and his gambling friends to no one at the university. He is definitely guilty of this.

This is the case that the Student Council is concerned with. It is a tough one. There will be no interference from the administration. They will undoubtedly spend many hours on the case before they come to a decision.

We wonder if the Student Council is mature enough to handle a case as serious as this one. They are faced with a man's job. We hope that they handle the case in that manner.

Intramural Program Proves Best

It has been said many times in the past few years that State College has the best intramural athletic program in the south. Last Monday, this fact was proven once again when the students at State College took the Annual Big Four Day championship.

Not only did we take the championship, but we retired the trophy since it marked our third championship in the past five years. The trophy will be placed in the new gym.

There is a great deal of interest in intramural athletics at State College. There are many reasons for this keen interest, but the main reason seems to center around one man . . . a man who has devoted many hours to this program . . . a man who has secured the best in intramurals for the students at State College. This man is Art Hoch.

Each year, a large percentage of the students participate in the intramural program. The fraternities usually have over ninety per cent of their members participating. With this large percentage it is easy to see why State College retired the trophy Monday. We would like to thank Art Hoch for helping us secure this fine program, and we would like to congratulate everyone that took part in winning the trophy.

Dean Stewart Proves Valuable To Students

By Roger Faulkner

Have a gripe? If it is about the operation of the college and is legitimate, the man to see is Dean James J. Stewart, Dean of student affairs.

A person is welcomed in Dr. Stewart's office with a warm handclasp and a pleasant air.

Dr. Stewart believes that the attitude of the majority of students here at State is one of serious mindedness, with the desire to get the best possible education in their respective professions.

"Although N. C. State owes a special responsibility to the citizens of this state to provide educational opportunity to all qualified in-state students, we are by no means provincial," is one of his opinions.

Continuing, "Our responsibility extends far beyond state boundaries to all states and many nations. Fifty one foreign countries and forty-four other states are represented at State right now."

The Dean feels that since large numbers of our graduates go to other states for graduate work, which is as it should be to provide a broader background, we should be especially receptive to graduates from other areas of the country.

The fact that thirty percent of the students are married, plus the fact that many of our students have come here after first working in some field, the Dean feels, causes the general student atmosphere to be more serious and mature than many colleges.

Some of the reasons cited by Dean Stewart for the high rate of students failing to graduate from N. C. State are: 1. Many students, perhaps due to no fault of their own, come here unprepared. 2. Financial and personal reasons. 3. Changing to another institution. 4. Students not applying themselves and lack of motivation.

The Dean feels that the college can do something about increasing motivation by doing a better job of teaching, advising, and counselling. However, only individual students can learn to apply themselves.

Concerning school spirit, Dean Stewart says, "I have heard many student discussions, and I am afraid that many of our younger students judge school spirit by pep rallies, attendance at athletic events, and so on. However, our older students tend to define school spirit as respect for State as an educational institution. They take pride in the opportunities for learning, the services to the state and nation, and the respect that other institutions show toward N. C. State."

Dr. Stewart is impressed with the remarkable progress the students of State have made in self-government, the development of honor system, and the initiative they have shown in all college activities.

"I know of no other group who have done so well."

However, the Dean feels that there can be much improvement in such areas as the honor system and personal integrity. Such improvement benefits the students personally as well as benefiting the whole group. The reputation of the college is the reputation each graduate carries with him after he leaves. Any student who doesn't live up to the standards set in the honor system should be eliminated for the benefit of the rest of the students.

Letters To The Editor

To the Editor
Of The Technician:
(Reply to Bob Cooke's letter to the editor concerning the Outstanding Teacher Selection Project of the senior class.)

Thanks for the opening Bob. Your letter was very timely and should not be thrown into the round file without further comment.

Perhaps Mr. Duncan Stuart acted rather hastily and without too much concern when he evaluated this project whereby the senior class selects an outstanding professor from each of the eight schools.

It is true, I agree, that a plan of this nature could be very harmful unless much thought and work went into its preparation. The part Mr. Stuart disagreed with most openly is the competence of the students who are responsible for the final teacher selections. Contrary to all distorted gossip, the committee members are some of the most mature and conscientious students in the college. Many are outstanding leaders with membership in Phi Kappa Phi to their credit. Criticize these students, and you criticize the very finest State College can produce.

How were these particular students selected? At the beginning of the semester the senior class officers contacted every department head in the college and asked them to recommend two students in their respective departments who would make competent, senior committee members. Maturity, attitude, and scholarship were weighed heavily by each department head.

This project is intended solely to encourage and recognize those on our faculty who excel in classroom instruction . . . committee membership, research, etc. are not considered. Our project should be recognized for its intended purpose . . . the betterment of education in North Carolina.

To The Editor
Of The Technician:

It has been brought to my attention that the Air Force and Army R.O.T.C. units plan to have their graduation parade on Saturday afternoon, May 27, 1961. I would like to know if the military departments have even considered the possibility that some of the military students have other things to do on this afternoon since school is dismissed for the week at 12:00 p.m. Saturday. To add the icing to this cake, Dr. John T. Caldwell, Chancellor of North Carolina State College, has stated that any student that does not attend this parade will fail military science for the semester.

This in my opinion is one of the most unfair shows of his authority. If the Military Science Department wants to have a graduation parade, let them have it on Tuesday or Thursday from 12:00 to 1:00 p.m.; or else pay the military students who volunteer for the parade.

On Friday night, May 5, the North Carolina State College Symphonic Band, directed by Donald B. Adcock, will present an Outdoor Pop Concert. The Concert will feature works by Strauss, Wagner, and others. Novelty numbers will be:

"Horns A-Hunting", a horn trio, and "Relax", a rumba for bassoon and contrabass clarinet soloists. The program will end with the Fight Song and the Alma Mater. The program is free and the public is cordially invited.

"Doctor Faustus", the play given last Friday night in the College Union, was a stage, with elaborate and state, with elaborate and handsome costumes and with eerie lighting effects, the large cast created a vivid representation of the famous Faust legend. The effect of the play was marred only by sudden flashes as people in the audience lit cigarettes and by constant talking on the part of the audience during the play.

State Retires Big Four Day Trophy

By Richie Williamson
Associate Sports Editor

North Carolina State easily outclassed the rest of the intramural athletes in the Big Four to win the fifteenth annual Big Four Sports Day here Monday. This win allowed State to permanently retire the rotating trophy, symbol of the outstanding school in intramural sports in the Big Four. At the same time, State's entires in the Rod and Gun meet were taking a second place, losing to Wake Forest by two points.

State won four of the eight events on the rain-soaked afternoon which gave it an easy victory by a margin of nine points over second place Wake Forest, 30-21. Duke copped third with 20 points, and Carolina was first with 17. Only one sport, tennis, was cancelled due to the wet weather which hampered the outdoor sports. Besides the four firsts, State came up with three second place finishes and one fourth place.

The Rod and Gun meet went to Wake Forest with 15 points for the four events while State compiled 13 points in the same events. Carolina collected six points for third, and Duke, which entered only one event and won it, had five points.

State started off its winning string in softball by stopping Duke in the first round 17-9 behind the pitching of Don Livingston. Ken Rohloff got two hits including a home run, and Paul Iaeger got two homers and a single in four trips to the plate to spark the victory. Carolina advanced to the finals by beating Wake 18-8.

In the finals, State broke loose with six runs in the second inning and held on to win 9-6. Walt Gregory and Livingston combined in the pitching to get the victory. Charles Kale provided the big bat with a single, double, and home run for four runs batted in. His homer was the climax of the big second inning.

Don Wechsler sparked the State bowler's to a second place in the Big Four Sports Day with a brilliant 645 series. The 645 series was rolled against Carolina in the opening match. State was beaten by Duke in the finals of Wechsler recently represented State in a national intercollegiate bowling tournament.

Led by the spiking of Jim Skidmore and the setups by Hank Hoomani, State's Volleyball team beat both

Wake and Duke to take first place. State had an easy time with Wake in the first round, winning two straight games 15-4 and 15-7. In the finals Duke proved to be tough by sending the match to the third game. After losing the first game 15-6, Duke came back to win the second game 15-13 behind the spiking of Buzz Mewhort. However, State got tough in the deciding game for a 15-11 win.

Another first place was registered in handball with State winning all of its matches. Richie Williamson won the singles competition with wins over Tom Griffith of Carolina and Elred Forbis of Duke. Joe Bushofsky and Jake Shaffer combined for one doubles team, and Arnie Cohen and Alan Altman formed the other doubles team that ripped Carolina and Duke on the way to the championship.

The other first came in table tennis led by Martin Mainster, James Collins, Eion Faelten, and James Dail. Mainster, no. 1 singles lost in both matches, but Collins was strong at the second singles in winning over Carolina and Wake. However, the big game was furnished by the doubles team of Faelten and Dail who came through in the third game of the finals match against Wake to give the victory.

Don Wechsler of State was the man that gave State its second place in bowling. In the first round against Carolina he had a 645 set to lead the four man team to a 2182 series. State was too cold in the finals against Duke as they could only get a 1928 pinfall and lost the match by 80 pins. Ron Gossell helped State with series of 547 and 527 for the afternoon.

Carolina's Mac Rugheimer outlasted State's Charles Ives in the no. 1 badminton match which paced them to a first place. State, behind Ives, Bruce Hoadley and Jim Cutter at one doubles, and Charles Wintzer and Joe Seagle at the other doubles, gained the finals in beating Duke 3-0. Carolina stopped Wake 3-0 before beating State by the same score.

Wake Forest won first in the horseshoes and golf which boosted them to second place overall. In horseshoes they stopped State in the finals 2-1. Jim Mauney of State was the top man of the day as he beat both Duke's and Wake's singles men, but State's two doubles teams could not stop Wake. In golf, Wake compiled 27 1/2 points to Duke's 23 1/2 behind the shooting of Chuck Jones's 76. Carolina was third and State fourth. Wake Lass Wins Archery Meet Highlight of the Rod and Gun meet was Lynne Smathers of Wake Forest, the only lady contestant of the day, as she easily won the archery contest with a 222 score. Ralph Day of State took second place with a 207 score. Miss Smathers was consistent from all three distances as she overtook Day at the 40-yard mark with an amazing display of accuracy.

Another star performer was Gray Reed of Duke in the skeet shooting. Reed and Robert Gray of State each had 25 of 25 in the first round, necessitating a shootoff. In the shootoff, Reed showed perfect aim despite a strong wind as he busted 50 of 50 pigeons to win the meet. Gray missed his twentieth shot as he broke 49 of 50.

Wake's Bobby Robinson captured the skish honors with a point total of 38 to edge teammate Eric Harrell who had 34 points. High man for State was Perry Geoffrey with 26 points, good for fourth place.

In the target rifle division, A. L. Price of State and Don Smith of Wake tied for top honors with 185 points out of a possible 200 points. Each man fired ten shots from the prone position and ten shots from the standing position. Zoble Morris of State took third with a score of 179.

LUCKY STRIKE PRESENTS:
DEAR DR. FROOD:

DR. FROOD'S THOUGHT FOR THE DAY: BEWARE OF SUBLIMINAL ADVERTISING!

Dear Dr. Frood: I've been reading a great deal about automated teaching devices. How long will it be before they come up with machines to replace professors?
Professor

DEAR PROFESSOR: Just as soon as they get one that can rap the knuckles of a sleeping student, give humiliating answers to foolish questions and spring surprise tests whenever it happens to be in a bad mood.

Dear Dr. Frood: My problem is fat, stubby fingers. As a result, I am exceedingly awkward with my hands. My manual dexterity is so poor, in fact, that I can't even get a Lucky pack open. What can I do?
Fingers

DEAR FINGERS: Simply strap ordinary sewing needles along both of your index fingers. Now cup the Lucky pack in your hands, grasp the little red tab in your teeth, and yank. Next, place the pack on a flat surface and secure it between two unabridged dictionaries. Then, with the right-hand needle, carefully, carefully carve a one-inch-square opening at the top right-hand corner. Finally, place the points of the needles firmly against the sides of a Lucky and lift. That's all there is to it. A word of warning though: Try to be careful when shaking hands.

Dear Dr. Frood: In the four years I've been at this college I've done some pretty horrible things. I am guilty, for instance, of [redacted] into and around the home of Professor [redacted]. I'm also ashamed of [redacted] the Board of Regents, and completely [redacted] the campus policeman's [redacted]. But the worst thing I did was [redacted] after hiding all night in the [redacted]. Can I, in good conscience, even accept a diploma from dear old [redacted]?

DEAR [redacted]: You can if you send $500 in unmarked bills to Dr. Frood, Box 2990, Grand Central Station, New York 17, N. Y. If you don't, I'll print your letter without the little black lines.

Dear Dr. Frood: Don't you think it's wrong for a boy and girl to marry while they're still in school?
Soc. Major

DEAR SOC.: Yes, they should at least wait until recess.

THE HANDWRITING IS ON THE WALL, says Dr. Frood. Or, more exactly, on the blackboard. It's appearing on college blackboards everywhere: "College students smoke more Luckies than any other regular." Why is this statement showing up on college blackboards? Because I am paying agents to put it there. For you must remember that Luckies are the cigarette with taste—the emphatic toasted taste. Try a pack of Luckies today.

CHANGE TO LUCKIES and get some taste for a change!
