Gala Homecoming Festivities Held

Meredith College Junior Named Miss Wolfpack

By Allen Lennon
The new Sweetheart of State College, crowned Miss Wolfpack of 1960 during Saturday's Homecoming contest, is Miss Amy Lou Bell. A junior at Meredith College, Miss Bell was crowned by last year's queen, the former Miss Peggy Ann Breedlove, before more than 10,000 spectators. The new Miss Wolfpack, who hails from Asheville, was sponsored by the Theta Chi Fraternity and was escorted by Baxter Lee. She was announced during half-time ceremonies in Saturday's State-Virginia game and regined over the homecoming dance which was held Saturday night in the College Union ballroom.

The array of beauties from which Amy Lou was selected includes the following young ladies: Brenda Lester, sponsored by Alpha Phi Omega; Donna Jean McCann sponsored by Delta Sigma Phi; Joan Godwin, sponsored by Tau Kappa Epsilon; Pam Wilder, sponsored by Dan Huffman; Patricia Brantley, sponsored by the Iranian Club; Sherry Cameron, sponsored by Kappa Sigma; Frances Goodwin, sponsored by the Monogram Club; Gloria Miller, sponsored by Sigma Phi Epsilon; Pat Tucker, sponsored by the State College YDC; Jody Butler, sponsored by Lambda Chi Alpha; Mary L. Morgan, sponsored by Pi Kappa Phi; Sandy Barden, sponsored by Pi Kappa Alpha; Shirley McIntyre, sponsored by Sigma Pi; Barbara Mallonee, sponsored by the Veterans Association; Chatty Cornelius, sponsored by the State College 4-H Club; Judy Brinkley, sponsored by Farm-House; and Patty Stone, sponsored by Kappa Alpha.

An estimated crowd of 8,000 citizens and students watched the Homecoming parade Saturday morning which was made up of 51 units. Composing the gala parade were colorful floats prepared by the various college fraternities, dormitories, and clubs. Parade music was furnished by the 150 piece State College band and four high school bands from the surrounding area.

Campus Crier

The internationally famous Krsmanovich Chorus of mixed voices will appear at the Reynolds Coliseum on Wednesday, October 5 at 8:00 p.m. Students may go and take a date free of charge by presenting their ID cards at the right front door of (See CRIER, page 4)

First place honors in the float contest were bestowed as follows: fraternity division, Sigma Chi; dormitory division, Turlington; open division, the Forestry Club.

The second and third place floats were: fraternity—Sigma Nu and Delta Sigma Phi; dormitory—Bragaw, and Syme; and open organizations—States Mates and Young Democrats Club.

The student organizations which sponsored the parade, queen competition, and homecoming dance, respectively, were the Order of Thirty and Three, the Blue Key, and the Monogram Club. All three of these organizations cooperated with the Weather Man to make this year's Homecoming festivities a great success.

State's School of Engineering To Survey Nuclear Program

An ambitious program in nuclear studies in the School of Engineering at North Carolina State College will take its new coordinator to major schools and industrial concerns throughout the country to find out just what makes the best nuclear engineer. Dr. Harold A. Lamonds, new chief of the nuclear engineering program, said today that a survey of industry and other nuclear engineering programs and developments will begin next week "to be sure that our programs in the training of nuclear engineers are modern and progressive."

"By the end of the calendar year, we hope to have results on which to strengthen and update our curriculum," he said. The nuclear engineering curriculum will continue as an established program in the Engineering School, headed by Dean J. Harold Lampe, and will place increased emphasis on nuclear design, development of industrial application, controls and instrumentation.

Until this year the nuclear engineering studies were a part of the Department of Physics in the School of Engineering. The Physics Department is now under the new School of Physical Sciences and Applied Mathematics. During the coming year Dr. Lamonds and an advisory committee whose members come from the staffs to the various areas of engineering will work toward establishing an undergraduate and graduate program of courses and study in the true sense of nuclear engineering.

"We will try in the new program to arrive at a selection of courses which will provide added strength in engineering along with nuclear technology," Dr. Lamonds said. "Ultimately we expect new courses to evolve which will be tailored to the new program and a gradual change to bring the program to a departmental status." The major efforts of the curriculum head and his committee will be devoted to determining a fundamental approach to the subject. The adjustments in curriculum will give the student a strong engineering course and will also encompass specialization in suitable areas of study such as instrumentation, control, down. Wayne Ballard's kick went out of bounds on the State 25 yard marker. After getting only two yards on the first two plays from scrimmage, the Wolfpack got help in the form of a 15 yard penalty against Virginia for a first down on the Cavalier's 48. Jim D'Antonio picked up three before a Gabriel-to-Jim Tapp pass picked up 15 yards and a first down on the UVA 30. Another State first down gave the Wolfpack the ball on the 18. Jack Stanton then rocked the Virginia line for 15 yards in two carries. Stanton again was called on by Gabriel to carry the ball after an incomplete pass and he carried the ball to the Virginia one yard line. From here Gabriel carried the ball over the line on a sneak. Jake Shaffer split the uprights and Pack led 7-0 with 4:15 left in the first period.

Cavaliers Move Back
Virginia came right back with a touchdown and the extra point to tie the score at seven-all. The Cavaliers took the kickoff and returned it to their own 26. From here they drove 74 yards in 14 plays for the score with Wayne Ballard booting the extra point. At this point in the game it appeared that the Wahos were going to give the State boys a run for their money.

After State had been forced to punt after taking the kickoff, Virginia moved the ball up to their own 30. Then the Cavaliers ran into a lot of trouble. Cuozzo faded back for pass and threw a perfect strike, but to the wrong man. State's Roger Moore stepped in and snared the Cavalier aerial on the Virginia yard line.

Five Cases Handled By State Honor Code Board
In September meetings, the Honor Code Board at State College handled five cases involving alleged violations of the Honor Code. On Thursday, September 22, a trial was held concerning the theft of a textbook. The student pleaded guilty as charged and was given probation for one full year. The other case involved a student charged with cheating on a chemistry quiz. The eyewitness to the alleged violation was present at the hearing. After extensive questioning the defendant was found guilty and suspended from school for one semester. On Thursday, September 29, another case involving cheating on a quiz was brought to the attention of the Honor Code Board. A student accused of cheating on a Physics test pleaded not guilty. By Earl Mitchell
The State College football team again proved once again that it is no fly-by-night outfit by trouncing the University of Virginia 26-7 in an Atlantic Coast Conference tilt in State's Riddick Stadium. It was the running and passing of State's All-American candidate Roman Gabriel that baffled the visiting Cavaliers.

Gabriel carried the ball into paydirt twice himself and passed to his teammates for the other two Pack tallies. Gabriel attempted 18 aeriels and completed eight of these. His eight completions picked up a total of 94 yards. Claude Gibson and George Vollmar hauled in the two TD aeriels, both for 13 yards. Gary Cuozzo of the Cavaliers put on a passing show of his own by completing ten aeriels out of 24 tries. Cuozzo's aeriels accounted for a 106 yards. For the entire afternoon, there were 44 attempted passes with 18 of them being completed.

by the defendant and the accuser, the student was found not guilty. The next trial concerned students who, because of similar quiz papers, had been charged with cheating on an examination. One of the defendants was found not guilty; the other was convicted and given one semester of suspension. The last hearing concerned two students who pleaded guilty to charges of counterfeiting season tickets to State football games and selling them. Both men were placed on probation for one year, and restitution was made to the College. Letters concerning the meetings were sent to the parents of the students involved, and notes concerning the circumstances were placed in the students' files.

Help Yourself

We, as members of a democratic nation, have seen and lived with democracy in varying degrees as long as we've been able to reason. We've been members or leaders of organizations ranging from Miss Pheps' third grade home room (which was actually governed by the iron hand of Miss Pheps) to the Junior Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Jaybirds. We've seen a need for organization, selected leaders democratically, and then sat back and did nothing.

Now we're in college. We're supposedly learning trades to support us the rest of our lives, and in more subtle ways, how to live our lives. So, we organize, some of us vote to select our leaders, and then we calmly sit back and do nothing.

Our Student Government is a good organization. From comparisons with other schools, it is easy to see that our governing body is stronger and more active than ones in most of our contemporary schools.

Last Thursday night, the Student Legislature held its first meeting of the year. At the meeting, Bob Cooke, the president, urged each representative to keep in his mind his responsibility to the student body to enact policies for the improvement of the campus, student welfare, and student-administration relations. He also stated that the student government should be an instrument by which student needs can be accurately analysed.

We now urge the student body to keep in its mind that the student government cannot enact policies for the improvement of our campus etc., without the help of the student body at large. It cannot even be an instrument by which the needs of the students can be accurately analysed unless a much greater percentage of the student body takes an interest in it than have in recent years. There have been cases in which the legislature has passed resolutions which have not been the consensus of the student. It was not the legislature's fault in most of these cases; it was the fault of the student who did not let his legislator know his feelings on the subject in question.

Now, the student at large will ask how he can help the student government if he is not a member of it. All that needs to be done is to be familiar with the problems faced by the government, contact his legislators, and let the people whom he has elected know how he feels on issues before the Government acts. This would not be very difficult, and the student would have the satisfaction of knowing that he is not only helping his fellow students, but also himself.

"I CAN'T STOP TO TALK NOW, MAX. I GOTTA GET TO CLASS BEFORE THESE BOOKS GO OUTA DATE."

By Jim Hart

An address by Bob Cooke, Student Government President, opened the first session of the 1960-61 State College Student Legislature, which met last Thursday night, September 29, at the College Union. In his talk Cooke outlined the scope of the student government activities for the coming year and asked each representative to keep utmost in his mind his responsibility to the student body and to the student legislature to enact policies for the improvement of the campus, student welfare, and student-administration relations. He stressed the legislature's role as a sounding board for student opinion and reminded its members of their limitless opportunity to exert positive, aggressive leadership in an effort to unify the student body. He also considered very important the part the student government should play as an instrument by which student needs can be accurately analyzed and the environment which it should provide for intellectual growth.

Tom Lane then gave a report on the coming Campus Chest Drive, which is to be conducted from October 31 to November 5, and pointed out that the goal is again to be $3000. He mentioned that many more upperclassman solicitors are needed and announced the four charities to which the money collected is to be given. After the presiding officer and Vice-President, Charles Russell, had read the committee appointments, Jim Floyd presented the treasurer's report and discussed the budget for the coming year. Russell followed with a summary of the activities of the National Student Association Congress, which met at the University of Minnesota this past summer, and to which State College sent five delegates. He commented that State College was near the top in every aspect of student activities and compared very favorably with the approximately 400 remaining colleges and universities represented at the congress. He said that the trip had been very profitable and strongly urged that the knowledge and ideas gained there by the delegates be used here at State College for its improvement.

Other business included the passing of rules concerning posting of campaign literature for the coming elections and regulations pertaining to the use of the student government public address system. Joe Baker was approved by the legislature as a replacement for Don Blizzard who had to resign his position of Senior Senator from the School of Forestry. Recommendations for appointments to the Board of Review were also brought before the legislature and passed.

The minutes of each of the Student Government meetings will be posted in the College Union. The resolutions, amendments, etc. in their original forms will be posted with the minutes. All students are urged to look over these minutes, and to see exactly what the Student Government is doing.

Letters To The Editor

Roomates Denounce Student Housing

To the Editor of The Technician:
Dear Mr. Watts,

This must be some joke! You people over in the Student Housing couldn't be so stupid as to think that by letting students move out to the new efficiency apartments it would relieve the three in a room situation. By the latest handout which I just received, it seems that you people think there is going to be a migration out to the efficiency apartments. Don't fool yourself . . . there won't be. Why? Forty-five dollars a month plus utilities is your reason. Why should two students pay approximately sixty dollars a month for an apartment two miles from the main part of the campus, when for twenty dollars each, they can have a place just across the street from the campus.

cents per day. You kindly offer us eighty-five dollars minus one dollar per day of occupancy if we decide to move. Now, my question to you Mr. Watts, is who gets, where goes, what happens to, or why are the students being charged the extra thirty-eight and nine tenths cents per day.

Thanking you, I think we'll remain in our cozy three-man-to-a-room dormitory.

Ronald Roughton
William Campbell

To the Editor of the Technician:
I would like to address a few remarks to Mr. Wilson, author of Wednesday's Letter to the Editor.

First, Mr. Wilson, you helped elect an Honor Code Board and in so doing you endorsed the HONOR System. OR perhaps you did not, if you didn't care enough to vote. When you came to State College, you pledged yourself to that system by your signature, whatever it was worth. Then you agreed to, honestly and without bias, report any violations. Do you think that any of your fellow students should do less?

You have one other choice, Mr. Wilson. You can vote in a protor system, whereby your every move will be watched by "Academic Policemen", hired at your expense.

Wouldn't this be better than your own "Hazy Interpretation" of your fellow student, Mr. Wilson? Or wouldn't you, perhaps, feel like you were receiving the third-grade treatment that you deserve?

Our Honor System is based on the mature judgment and integrity of our students. It may be subject to error, as in any judiciary control, but it is a basic right and guaranty of every conscientious member of our college society.

Sincerely,
S. Gordon Knowles

You people are not even doing married students a favor by renting them the apartments for forty-three dollars a month. This can be shown by the fact that most of the veterans that moved out of Vetville went elsewhere to find an apartment. I know you people are not around just to do people favors, but neither are you supposed to be around to make profit off the married student's housing. Speaking of profit, I thought there was only suppose to be enough for maintenance. Damn, at the rate you people are charging you must be planning on rebuilding every other year.

Should the efficiency apartments be completely filled, that would take care of but one hundred and twenty students. My gosh, there are over one hundred and twenty rooms in Owen alone in which there are three people. So, you people just put back on your pointed thinking caps and come up with another "original."

In conclusion, since we are both in engineering and have a slide rule; we thought we might as well put it to some use. At the rate of eighty-five dollars per semester for 139 days of dormitory occupancy, we are paying sixty-one and one-tenth ed up one yard before Al Taylor moved the ball six yards to the one in two carries. Again Gabriel carried the ball over on a sneak play. Shaffer's kick was no good and the Pack led 13-7 with 7:55 remaining in the second period. The kick that Shaffer missed was the first one that he has missed in eleven tries. He also missed one later in the game.

Pack Fashions 20-7 Lead

After the ball exchanged hands twice the Cavaliers took the ball on their own 23 with 53 seconds left in the half. Cuozzo let fly with a pass and again it fell into the wrong hands. Taylor grabbed the pass on the Virginia 49 and returned it 29 yards to the Cavalier 20.

With 37 seconds left in the half, Gabriel ran what appeared to be the same play twice in a row to score the touchdown. Both times Gabriel hit Gibson going down the left sideline with perfect tosses. The first was good for seven yards and the second one was good for 13 yards and the score. Shaffer kicked the extra point and the Wolfpack went out at intermission with a 13 point lead.

State's Finale

Virginia took the second half kickoff and moved all the way down to the State one yard line before they were halted by a stubborn Pack forward line led by Jim Fitzgerald. The Cavaliers got down to the 33 early in the fourth quarter, but a 15 yard penalty kept them from getting any closer. This was the last Cavalier threat of the afternoon.

Midway in the fourth period the State team took the ball on their own seven and drove 93 yards in 18 plays for the game's final score. A Gabriel-to-Randy Harrell aerial covered 29 yards midway in the drive to give the Pack a first down on the Virginia 14. After two unsuccessful line plays, Gabriel flipped a 13 yard pass into the waiting hands of George Vollmar in the endzone. The kick failed and State held a 26-7 lead with 7:18 left in the game.

Kruger Scares Cavaliers

After three fruitless downs, Virginia punted to State and it was returned to the Cavalier 48. Bill Kruger stepped into the signal calling post and moved the ball to the UVA 17 before a fumble halted the drive. Kruger accounted for 23 of the 35 yards that the Pack covered in the drive.

After the game Coach Earle

Edwards, the Pack's head mentor, said,

"We had a rough time with Virginia, but we played hard and didn't let up. I am proud of the boys for not having a let-down following the Carolina game."

"I still don't think we are a good ball club yet. We still need work on both offense and defense," Edwards added about his Wolfpack team.

Gabriel Not Satisfied

After the Virginia game, Gabriel said that he was not satisfied with his own playing. He felt that he missed a couple of passes that he should've completed.

Both Edwards and visiting coach Dick Voris disagreed with Gabriel on his showing against the Cavaliers.

"Gabriel played well, as usual. I thought he ran hard," commented Edwards on Gabriel's play.

"He has to be classified as a great player. Anyone who could pass as many times in three games without an interception has to be a good ball player," added Voris about Gabriel.

Jack Stanton was the running star for the Pack in the Virginia game. Stanton picked up 54 yards in nine carries for a 6.0 average. Gabriel's passing exhibition gave him 25 completions for 45 attempts for a 55.5% efficiency mark for three games. Gabriel has not had a single pass intercepted in the three games this season.

Evening Classes in Investing Money Initiated Here

An evening class, "Investing in Stocks," will begin at 7:30 p.m. on October 13 in Room 18, Patterson Hall, North Carolina State College.

The course, to be held each Thursday night for five weeks, will be taught by W. L. Turner, extension economist of State College, and representatives from brokerage firms.

The course is designed for the person who wants to invest small sums or large ones regularly.

Included will be such topics as how to read the newspaper stock market page, balancing investment programs, determining investment objectives, managing personal finances, and many other subjects of interest to investors.

Registration may be completed at the office of the Extension Division, room 115 of the 1911 Building, State College or by telephone—TE 4-3333.

Research Grant Given College For Heart Study

The National Science Foundation has granted North Carolina State College $44,800 to be used for research on heat radiation properties of various materials.

Dr. Thomas F. Irvine of the Mechanical Engineering Department, who will direct the research project, said the gift will provide for research in a field where there is practically no information.

Interest has accelerated, he explained, because the temperature of objects in space depends upon the heat radiation which they receive from the sun and give off in space.

Dr. Irvine came to N. C. State from the University of Minnesota where he received his Masters and Ph. D. degrees. He is currently a professor in mechanical engineering, directing the activities of the Heat Transfer Laboratory as well as the teaching graduate and undergraduate courses in his fields of interest.

materials, power and waste disposal.

"We hope that our survey will help us to determine in which areas specialization is most needed," Dr. Lamonds said.

A native of Greensboro, Dr. Lamonds was graduated from State College with B. S. and M. S. Degrees in nuclear engineering and a Ph. D. in engineering physics. Before his recent appointment and promotion to associate professor of nuclear engineering, he was director of State College's Burlington Nuclear Reactor.
