Following State-Duke Game Warren Covington Slated For Annual IDC Ball

Warren Covington and his orchestra are slated for this year's Inter-Dormitory Council Ball.

The date for the Ball has been set for October 28.

Earl Mitchell, IDC Publicity Director, says that plans are entering the final stages now for what promises to be one of the best IDC Balls ever for the State campus. In addition to the scheduled ball, the State-Duke football game is to be played Saturday afternoon.

The hours for the ball will be 8 o'clock until 12 midnight. It will be held in William Neal Reynolds Coliseum. Any dormitory student who wishes to go can pick up his bid and ticket from his dormitory president. These bids have been in the hands of the dormitory officials since last Tuesday. Dress for the ball will be formal.

Warren Covington was on the State campus several years ago for this very same IDC Ball, but then he was with the Tommy Dorsey Orchestra. Since his last appearance at State, Covington has formed his own group and this is the one engaged by Jim Jones, IDC Social Director.

Jones stated that the Warren Covington Orchestra is probably one of the most versatile dance bands in the United States. Carrying a crew of 15, the orchestra is capable of playing just about everything from soft society music to hot Latin-American cha-chas, depending upon what the dancers want, Jones said.

Trustees To Visit NCS

The Visiting Committee of the Board of Trustees will visit State College on October 20 and 21.

The Student Affairs Office yesterday released the Committee's schedule and the regulations concerning the appearance of any State Student before the committee.

The Student Affairs office stated that anyone who wishes to appear before the committee should see Norris Tolson, President of the Student Body or come by the Student Affairs office in 206 Holladay Hall to make an appointment. These appointments must be made before October 18.

Campus Chest Drive Training Session Held Here Tuesday

The second in a series of training sessions for the Campus Chest Drive was presented last night.

The program consisted of a series of speakers who acquainted the trainees with the organizations represented by the Campus Chest. The speakers were: Chick Doaks and his mother, Mrs. Doaks, representing the American Friends Service Committee; Debbie Jackson, a graduate from Pomona College, representing the World University Service; and John Fox, local representative for the Raleigh United Fund.

Textile Dean Chosen For Research Committee

Dr. Malcolm E. Campbell, Dean of State College's School of Textiles, has recently been appointed a member of the 12-man National Textile Research Committee.

Secretary of Commerce Luther H. Hodges established the committee as a function of the National Academy of Sciences—National Research Council to advise the U. S. Government on textile industry. As the textile education and research representative, Dean Campbell will help to make a thorough study of textile manufacturing throughout the country as well as foreign markets. The committee will then recommend a plan of action for production and research.

The committee has already begun its meetings in Washington and will continue to meet

State Grad Student Tapped For Peace Corps Service

By Bill Jackson

Arthur Gene Hunter, a graduate student at State College last year, is one of twelve young Americans participating in a new Peace Corps project.

Gene worked on a master's degree in Forest Management at State until his selection for the St. Lucia program last July. His friends say that when the two-year tour of duty has been completed, he will finish his education here.

After leaving Raleigh on July 26, Gene underwent Peace Corps training at Iowa State, studying the West Indies, American traditions, and specialized subjects. The actual work at St. Lucia begins this month.

St. Lucia is one of the larger islands in the British West Indies; it is located some 20 miles north of St. Vincent Island and 30 miles south of the French island of Martinique. St. Lucia is still comparatively unknown and unsettled. As a consequence, the cultivable land present provides an opportunity for applying new agricultural techniques to the Caribbean area.

"Gene started talking about it right from the beginning," Hunter's former roommate, Jim Ayres, commented. "He signed up right at first." Ayres, a senior in Applied Math from Baltimore, added, "He's a good church worker. He didn't drink or smoke; I don't know how he stood it around here, but he didn't. He was a pretty nice guy."

Hunter's landlady, Mrs. A. R. Duncan, of 216 Hillcrest Road, had this to say: "He's doing what he loves to do—teaching."

While at State, Gene spent approximately half of his time doing research work in the Forestry school. Besides earning his own way, Hunter's work became an excellent source for thesis material, forestry officials said. Hunter needs another year or so of work here to complete his degree requirements, they added. The twenty-three year old Hunter received his bachelor's degree from Louisiana Tech; he has also done work at the University of New Mexico. His forestry experience includes work as a forester in Louisiana, Washington, New Mexico, and Alabama.

The St. Lucia project is being supported by both the Peace Corps and Heifer Project, Inc., a non-profit voluntary agency supported by major Protestant denominations, agencies of the Catholic Church, the World Council of Churches, and farm groups. The objectives of the project, according to the Peace Corps News, are to increase livestock production; to develop irrigation systems for small farms; to introduce soil conservation techniques; to encourage a newly established 4-H Club organization, and to improve vocational and health education.

Some of the twelve Peace Corps volunteers will be used in the training and developing of modern agricultural techniques among the local farmers. Others will be used in the training of both teachers and students on the island. The project will be jointly administered by Heifer Project and the government of St. Lucia.

Three New Members Added To ROTC Staff

Captain Maynard E. Shields, an ROTC graduate from State College, has joined the Military Science staff here this fall.

Captain Shields received a Bachelor of Science degree in Recreation from State in 1952. He has served in the United States Army since his commissioning on June 7 of that year. His last assignment was in a Quartermaster Corps ration depot in Korea. "It feels fine to be back," Captain Shields remarked. "This is the first chance I've had to visit the campus since 1952. It has changed quite a bit; I was sort of lost for a while." Shields, who originally hails from Canton, was a member of Delta Sigma Phi while at State.

Another new addition to the Army cadre is Major Robert E. Wickham, an Artillery officer. Wickham received his BS degree in Economics from the University of South Carolina in 1947. Before coming to Raleigh, he also served in Korea as an advisor to the II ROK Corps.

Sergeant Charles M. Rose is the other new member of the ROTC staff. Rose, whose home town is Wilson, N. C., has also been reassigned from duty in Korea.

The three new men will replace Lt. Col Donald J. McGurk, Major Edwin M. Reid, and Sergeant Robert W. Ollenberger, who served on the Army faculty last year. Col. McGurk has been assigned to the 56th Quartermaster Battalion in Kaiserlautern, Germany; Major Reid has joined the 2nd Infantry Division at Fort Benning, Georgia. Both officers had been at State since 1958. SFC Ollenberger, who came to State College in 1956, has been transferred to the 6th Infantry in Berlin.

State College Coed Of The Week

The Technician's choice for Coed of the Week is Miss Sharon Ellis. Sharon is a Freshman and to the delight and surprise of many in the E.E. curriculum, is enrolled in Electrical Engineering. Miss Ellis is not the only pretty girl in this field, for Miss Universe is also an E.E. major. Perhaps this indicates a trend. (Photo by Justice)

- Campus Crier -

Averette College in Danville, Virginia, has extended an invitation to State College students to attend its annual Harvest Ball Saturday, October 14, from 8 p.m. to midnight. Provided at least thirty students sign up for this dance by 11 P.M., October 12, it will be possible to charter a bus for the round trip, which will cost $3.50 per person. The sign-up sheet will be at the College Union Main Desk until 11 p.m. Thursday, October 12. The $3.50 must be paid upon signing up and it will not be refunded unless there are fewer than 30 students interested in going. The bus will leave the College Union at 5:45 p.m. Saturday, October 14, and will return at midnight.

The annual Fall Table Tennis Tournament will be held in the College Union Games Room on Monday, Oct. 16, at 7:00 p.m. All participants must sign-up at the College Union Games Desk before 12 noon on Sunday, Oct. 15. The tournament will be run under United States Table Tennis Association rules, and trophies will be given to the first and second place winners.

The Food Problem

One can eat off-campus more cheaply than he can in his own cafeteria.

This fact has been demonstrated and graphically pointed out by the reduced number of people who are presently eating in the college cafeteria.

After talking to a reliable source, we found that the number of people who are now eating in the cafeteria is at least twenty-five per cent less than it was at the same time last year. We have also made a study of the prices charged for food in the cafes across Hillsboro Street, at the College Union Snack Bar, and at Leazer Hall; and found that one could eat considerably cheaper at the College Union and as inexpensively at commercial restaurants across from the college.

As an example, two pork chops, with two vegetables, and bread and butter sell for one dollar in a commercial eating establishment while the same meal would sell for at least ten cents more at the cafeteria. Of course, the College Union with its special plates is much less expensive than either of the other two.

We can see why this unequal price level exists. The catering company which is operating the cafeteria is a private company which has to make a profit and is also working with the disadvantages of using outmoded equipment and an obsolete building. This, undoubtedly, raises the price of the food which is served.

On the other hand, the restaurants across Hillsboro are making a profit and are working on a much smaller scale, which should cause their prices to still be above the cafeteria prices.

The one bright spot in this picture is the College Union Food Service. It consistently produces palatable and inexpensive meals. Its special plate is as good a buy on food as one can possibly get.

This year, when we raise a question on a subject such as the price of food at the cafeteria which we feel should be looked into and corrected, we will do our best to offer a constructive answer.

A possible answer to this problem is to let the College Union take over the cafeteria. It has demonstrated that it can serve good food at the lowest possible cost. It does this under very poor conditions in its present location since it only has one twelve-foot serving line for its cafeteria and has a fairly small kitchen for the capacity of food which it prepares.

Also, any money which would be made from the cafeteria would come back to the students in the form of College Union programs. While the quality of some of the Union programs is sometimes questionable, at least all benefit some of the students. Camping trips are of more use to the campus than money being sent to national headquarters of a private company.

The problem is more basic than the place where profits go, however. There must be a place on this campus where people can eat at a nominal price other than the College Union which can handle only a relatively small crowd. Many students attending this college are having to count their money very closely and the difference between paying an extra twenty or thirty cents at every meal when multiplied over a whole year could very easily be the difference between their obtaining a college degree or not.

LITTLE MAN ON CAMPUS

"I DON'T CARE HOW BAD YOUR PENMANSHIP IS — YOU'LL HAVE TO LEARN TO TAKE YOUR OWN LECTURE NOTES!"

Library Committee Asks For Support

By Joel Ray
When a lecture series at State College can draw the attendance of students from our sister institution at Chapel Hill, reputedly the educational center of culture in North Carolina, it is evident that the cultural lag so often attributed to this technical institution is not nearly so bad as imagined by our critics. The proof at point is the tremendous success which greeted the newly formed Library Committee Incorporated in its attempt last year to begin a lecture series in the arts on this campus.
John Dos Passos, Lawrence Ferlinghetti, John Ciardi, and Malcom Cowley, last year's lecturers, spoke to capacity audiences in the College Union ballroom, and the aggregate reward of their lectures was a highly interesting cross-section view of the current state of American literature. And it was a lineup of individual excellence which hardly could have been rivaled by any other school in the country.
So the point has been well put and well proved: State College can support with high interest inroads in the area of artistic endeavor. And the series which has been planned for this year will undoubtedly reconfirm this fact.

Consider the participants in this year's series: on October 19, one of America's foremost literary critics. He is Lionel Trilling, a member of the English faculty at Columbia University and a man possessing a wide range of critical ability. A real phenomenon in this day of narrow critical judgments, Dr. Trilling's work ranges from Freud to Keats to the Kinsey report.
And on November 6, in an attempt to encompass more varied areas of art, the committee will present Henry Cowell, one of America's most widely acclaimed composers. Among his works are included fourteen symphonies and an extensive list of chamber music, vocal music, piano music and music for band. In a field dominated for so long by European composers, Mr. Cowell has acquitted himself excellently.
During the 1930's, there arose a group of poets who were to dominate English poetry for almost two decades. Among this group was Stephen Spender, who will deliver the third lecture on March 6. Perhaps most widely known for his poems of social and political protest, Mr. Spender is a true master of lyrically beautiful poetry which presents before the reader a wealth of unusual and deeply moving images.

Probably the most contemporary of this year's lecturers is Flannery O'Connor, a relatively new novelist in the tradition of William Faulkner. Her latest novel, The Violent Bear It Away, has been hailed by Granville Hicks as "a distinguished piece of work." Since writing her first novel in 1952, Miss O'Connor has produced several short stories, some of which have appeared in leading literary publications, and others which have been collected in a book entitled A Good Man Is Hard to Find.

Thurman Sensing

Thurman Sensing will speak at the second meeting of the Apollo Club this Thursday evening. He will speak against the Welfare State, the topic of discussion for the series.
Thurman Sensing is an executive, an author, and a public speaker. A native of Tennessee, he is the executive vice-president of the Southern States Industrial Council, representing the interests of southern manufacturers.
Sensing is a graduate of Vanderbilt University and received the M.A. degree from Peabody College in Nashville. He later served as Business Manager of Peabody. While there, he became both president and secretary of the Southern Association of College and University Business Officers, an organization he helped establish.
Mr. Sensing is the writer of the weekly column "Sensing the News", which appears in many southern newspapers. His book Champ Ferguson—Confederate Guerrilla was published by the Vanderbilt Press.

A well-traveled public speaker, Mr. Sensing has received five awards from the Freedoms Foundation of Valley Forge for his writings and speeches. Several of his speeches have appeared in the magazine Vital Speeches of the Day.
Sensing is known as a staunch advocate of individual freedom and a free competitive economy. He traveled to England in 1949 to study first hand the conditions prevailing under a socialist system.
Organizations to which Sensing belongs include: The Southern Association of Science and Industry, the Southern Historical Association, the Southern Economic Association, the Southern Association of Chamber of Commerce Executives, and Kiwanis International.

Editor's Letter

To the Editor:
I think that it is about time that the prices at the cafeteria were studied. I am having to attend State College on very limited means, and I cannot afford to eat at the commercial-cafeteria prices which are presently being charged. In fact, I find myself having to buy most of my meals from the "Mop-ups."
In previous years when a special was served, it was not nearly so bad. Although the food in the specials was never very good, at least it was cheap. I existed off of it for three years and feel that I could for another.
I think that the cafeteria should provide food that everyone can buy.
I would appreciate your not using my name for a reason which is readily evident to you personally.

Third Ranked Alabama To Host Wolfpack

By Benny Pearce

The Wolfpack will meet nationally-rated Alabama this weekend at Tuscaloosa, Ala. The Crimson Tide, as the Alabama team is called, are ranked third in the nation in most polls.

Alabama is coached by Paul "Bear" Bryant, one of the better coaches in the country. In the last two years, Alabama has won 15, lost two and tied three games. They have appeared in two bowl games in the last two years. The Crimson Tide appears to be stronger this year than either of the last two years.

Alabama has won three games in a row this season. They scored decisive victories over Georgia and Vanderbilt and were able to defeat Tulane 9-0.

The Wolfpack, winless until last week against Virginia, will have a battle on their hands Saturday. State has been improving considerably and with a few breaks could very easily give Alabama a present to remember them by.

State has been developing new troubles with every game. In the game with Wyoming the centers performed badly. The next week the Wolfpack was unable to muster any type of running attack at all. After the win over Virginia it appears the 'Pack may have to make the trip to Alabama without several of their players. Tom Dellinger and Jim D'Antonio were injured against Virginia and Tony Koszarsky was already injured.

In addition to the injuries, Bert Wilder, star tackle, was lost to the Army. Jake Shaffer will take over Wilder's position with sophomore Chuck Wachtel moving up to the second-team position.

Meanwhile, there are certain reasons for optimism in the Wolfpack camp. Carson Boshier, sophomore wingback, has returned to action after an injury and appears to be headed for future stardom. Against Virginia, Boshier gained 72 yards on seven attempts for a 10.3 yard average rushing. One run was for 53 yards and would probably have been a touchdown if Boshier had not still been bothered by his injured shoulder. It was the longest Wolfpack run in two years.

The defense is improving steadily. The return of line-backer Sam Raneri to the line-up and the tremendous play of halfback Joe Scarpati has sparked the defense.

State blockers were blocking much better against Virginia

Gabriel Leads Conference In Total Yardage Gained

In statistics released from the ACC service bureau after games of last Saturday, N. C. State is among the last place members in almost every department.

In rushing offense, the Wolfpack is last in the conference with a total of 309 yards in three games for a 103.0 average.

In rushing defense, State ranks seventh in the conference with a total of 647 yards given up in the three games for a 215.7 per game average.

In total defense, the 'Pack is seventh having allowed 864 yards for an average of 288.0 per game.

In pass offense and total offense State ranks fourth in the conference. The Wolfpack has averaged 211.6 yards gained per game and of this total 108.7 per game have been via the air.

In pass defense, the Wolfpack leads the conference having allowed only an average of 72.3 yards per game through the air.

In the individual departments, Roman Gabriel leads the conference in total yardage gained.

Johnson's Jewelers

Gabriel has picked up 361 yards in his first three games. He also leads in passing having passed for 326 yards. "Gabe" has passed for four touchdowns tying him with Dick Novak of Maryland in this department.

Although no statistics were released on his standing in the conference, sophomore fullback Dave Houtz must rank at the top of the list in the punting department. Houtz has punted 13 times for an average of 42.5 yards. State opponents have averaged only 32.6 yards per punt.

Freshman Tryouts

Freshman basketball coach, Lou Pucillo, urges any freshmen interested in trying out for the 1961-62 freshman squad to report to the new gym at 3:00 p.m. Sunday, Oct. 15 and at 7:00 p.m. Monday, Oct. 16. Bring your own equipment and be ready to scrimmage.

Wolfpack Harriers Lose To Duke And Wake Forest

By Benny Pearce

The Wolfpack cross country team was defeated in a triangular meet with Duke and Wake Forest on the campus four-mile course here last weekend.

Duke defeated the State harriers 16-51 while Wake Forest defeated the 'Pack 23-34. In cross country, the team with the lowest score is the winner.

The varsity team received a tremendous blow before the meet when it was learned that team captain, Jerry Fincher, was ruled ineligible to participate in competition. Fincher was ruled ineligible due to insufficient hours credit.

The freshmen Wolflets were also defeated by the freshmen from the other two schools. The freshmen only run over a two-mile course. Duke defeated the freshmen 20-42 and Wake Forest defeated the Wolflets 29-45. One consolation in the freshman defeat was that Wolfpacker Melvin Woodcock came in first place. Woodcock set a new two-mile course record running the length in 16 minutes 19.5 seconds.

Heifer Project provides livestock strains to build up the capacity of a country to produce its own food requirements. St. Lucia is 30 miles long and six to ten miles wide with a total area of 238 square miles. The population is estimated at 90,000.

Because of the island's strategic position, there was a long struggle between France and Britain during the 17th, 18th and 19th centuries during which the island changed hands 14 times. Since 1802 St. Lucia has been under British rule.

The capital, Castries, flanked by the two great hills of Vigie and Morne Fortune, has one of the most attractive harbors in the Caribbean. Soufriere, the second largest city, lies at the head of a deep bay and is overshadowed by the twin peaks of Gros Pitouen and Petit Pitouen, which rise from the sea to a height of 2,619 and 2,461 feet.

Mountainous St. Lucia offers lovely landscapes. The pastel tones of quiet streets, the lush greenery of the rural areas, the changing blues of sea and sky, the bougainvillea, orchids, roses and lilies have won it the title "Isle of Enchantment."

Except for Wilder, the Wolfpack's line-up should remain about the same as in past games. This, of course, is providing that the injured players recover in time for the game Saturday.

THE TRUE AND HARROWING FACTS ABOUT RUSHING

It is well enough to sit in one's Morris chair and theorize about sorority rushing, but if one really wishes to know the facts, one must leave one's Morris chair and go out into the field. (My Morris chair, incidentally, was given to me by the Philip Morris Company, makers of Marlboro Cigarettes. They are great-hearted folk, the makers of Marlboro Cigarettes, as millions of you know who have enjoyed their excellent cigarettes. Only from bountiful souls could come such mildness, such flavor, such filters, such pleasure, as you will find in Marlboros! For those who prefer crushproof boxes, Marlboro is available in crushproof boxes. For those who prefer soft packs, Marlboro is available in soft packs. For those who prefer to buy their cigarettes in bulk, please contact Emmett R. Sigafos, friendly manager of our factory in Richmond, Virginia.)

But I digress. I was saying that in order to know the true facts about sorority rushing, one must go into the field and investigate. Consequently, I went last week to the Indiana College of Spot Welding and Belles Lettres and interviewed several million coeds, among them a lovely lass named Gerund McKeever. (It is, incidentally, quite an interesting little story about how she came to be named Gerund. It seems that her father, Ralph T. McKeever, loved grammar better than anything in the world, and so he named all his children after parts of speech. In addition to Gerund, there were three girls named Preposition, Adverb, and Pronoun, and one boy named Dative Case. The girls seemed not to be unduly depressed by their names, but Dative Case, alas, grew steadily more morose and was finally found one night dangling from a participle. After this tragic event, the father abandoned his practice of grammatical nomenclature, and whatever children were subsequently born to him—eight in all—were named Everett.)

But I digress. I was interviewing a lovely coed named Gerund McKeever. "Gerund," I said, "were you rushed by a sorority?"

"Yes, mister," she said, "I was rushed by a sorority."

"Did they give you a high-pressure pitch?" I asked. "Did they use the hard sell?"

"No, mister," she replied. "It was all done with quiet dignity. They simply talked to me about the chapter and the girls for about three minutes and then I pledged."

"My goodness!" I said. "Three minutes is not very long for a sales talk!"

"It is when they are holding you under water, mister," said Gerund.

"Well, Gerund," I said, "how do you like the house?"

"I like the house fine, mister," she replied. "But I don't live there. Unfortunately, they pledged more girls than they have room for, so they are sleeping some of us in the bell tower."

"Isn't that rather noisy?" I said.

"Only on the quarter-hour," said Gerund.

"Well, Gerund," I said, "it has certainly been a pleasure talking to you," I said.

"Likewise, mister," she said, and with many a laugh and cheer we went our separate ways—she to the campanile, I to the Morris chair.
