$300 Appropriation

SG Backs Bond Campaign; Decides Election Dates

By Roy Colquitt

The Student Government has backed its support of the State-wide bond issue with a $300 allocation to the Academic Affairs Committee to be used in publicizing the issue.

Meeting Friday, the SG unanimously passed a resolution which stated that "Whereas the college students of today will soon be the leaders of tomorrow... and the higher education institutions of the State of North Carolina have been seriously hampered in their educational endeavors through inadequate and outmoded facilities... and the State Bond Proposal would definitely help to alleviate the present inadequacies at the higher educational institutions, therefore be it resolved that the N. C. State College Government Legislature heartily endorses and supports the State Bond Proposal and urges the people of North Carolina to approve said bond issue. . ."

Also passed at the meeting was a resolution stating the endorsement and approval of full participation in the forthcoming celebrations of the Land-Grant College Centennial which coincides with the observance of the Diamond Jubilee of the founding of State College.

The dates for the freshmen government elections were decided upon also. The books for registration of the candidates will open on Monday, Oct. 23, and will close on Friday, Nov. 3. Election day will be Tuesday, Nov. 4.

Student Section Planned For Home Football Games

By Bill Jackson

Premium seats for the Wake Forest and Duke football games in Riddick Stadium have been made available to interested student groups.

"1600 seats which stretch from the 20 to the 45 yard line have been designated for student groups which wish to cheer for the Wolfpack," said Floyd McCall, President of the Junior Class. "In this section will be seated groups of twenty or more, including dates. The seats will be saved for campus clubs, dormitories, and fraternities until noon on Wednesday."

Issuing of the special seat tickets began at 9:30 this morning, McCall reported. After the Wednesday deadline, the unclaimed seats will be sold to individual students. McCall emphasized that the ticket blocks for both games will be sold this week.

ID cards are enclosed in the Wake Forest envelope."

The dual purpose for the new seating section is to promote school spirit at athletic events and to provide better seats for State College students, McCall reported. Heretofore the only good student seats were the 800 set aside between 45-yard-lines for individuals; these seats will still be available on a first-come, first-served basis.

The seating project, originated by McCall, was begun with the help of the State cheerleading squad. After approval from Holladay Hall, the plan was submitted to Roy Clogston, State College's Director of Athletics. The seating arrangement was then approved by both Clogston and Student Body President Norris Tolson on a trial basis. The details were worked out by Dick Farrell, Manager of the Box Office.

YDC Plans Fair Booth To Support Bond Issue

The State College Young Democrats Club will man a booth at the State Fair this week supporting the bond election coming in November John Kanipe, president of the State College YDC announced today.

Kanipe, a member of the Student Committee for a Better North Carolina, stated that students would distribute bulletins explaining and supporting the coming Bond Referendum.

The YDC exhibit will be in the Industrial Exposition Building at the Fairgrounds. The Raleigh YDC will be assisting the State Members during the week.

State College will receive approximately $4,500,000 of the 61½ million dollar referendum if it passes. The money will be used for renovation and expansion of existing facilities and will cover approximately one-half of the cost of a new 800-man dorm.

"Groups are asked to bring all their pink ID cards and money for other tickets to the ticket office in a sealed envelope. Write the name of the group and the number of each type ticket requested—student, date, and general admission—on the outside of the envelope.

"Since you will pick up tickets for both the Wake Forest and Duke games," McCall continued, "it is requested that you submit two envelopes . . . For the Duke game, you are asked to complete the envelope as above, except that you should include a list of the students who want tickets, but whose

Happy Birthday To You . . . Happy Birthday To You . . . Happy Birthday State College . . . Happy Birthday To You!

This is not a picture of a house-warming for Harrelson Hall. It very well could be the world's largest birthday cake. It is surely The Technician's way of saying "Happy Birthday to the land-grant colleges of our nation." It is also a birthday tribute to State College, a leader among the land-grant schools, which is celebrating its 75th anniversary this year. Both State College and the other land-grant institutions were honored at the North Carolina State Fair in ceremonies today.

The Worth Of Consolidated U.

A man who went from Surry County via State College to become head of two Duncan Hines firms has described The Consolidated University of North Carolina as "one of the most significant factors in the recent dramatic growth" of our state. That man is Roy Park of Ithaca, N. Y., and he made his remarks at a meeting of the Society for the Advancement of Management in Greensboro.

It is good to have such an appraisal of the Consolidated University from such a man at any time. At this time, however, such an appraisal is unusually welcome for it comes just three weeks before the people will vote on a State bond issue to help provide for the needs of higher education.

What Roy Park said in Greensboro emphasizes the importance of making adequate provision for the higher education of our young people:

"The significant thing about the development of North Carolina has not been the increase of manufacturing activities, the new industries, the new products or the increased dollar income . . . (the significance is in) the accelerated progress in providing education and character building for our young people . . . (the three institutions of the Consolidated University) and producing smart, well-educated young men and women, trained for leadership roles in industry, education and politics. . . ."

Roy Park was describing what the Consolidated University has done for our young people and by inference what it can do in the years to come. It can do the job in the future, however, only if it has the tools it needs and it cannot get these tools if the bond issue is not approved on November 7. In that bond issue are the funds needed for dormitories, classrooms, laboratories, things the University and other institutions of higher learning must have if they are to do the jobs for which they were created.

That is the only issue in the November 7 election, the issue of making it possible for our own young people to get the educations they must have.

Once Oversights—Now Mistakes

For the last week, there have been only two cars parked in the area besides Syme Dormitory which is reserved for staff members.

We also ran a personal check on the volume of cars at the intersection in front of Bragaw Dormitory which we have discussed earlier. The traffic on Dan Allen Drive was nearly eight times as heavy as the traffic on the Dunn Avenue. Yet there is still a four-way-stop sign at the crossroads.

These figures more than any words we could write should sway anyone who even pretends that he is trying to do a competent job, and should force these two oversights or mistakes to be corrected.

Irreligious Thieves Pilfer Billfolds From Fairmont

Fourteen billfolds were stolen from Fairmont Methodist Church last night.

The theft occurred while the Wesleyan Foundation was holding its evening program in the basement of the church. The thief entered the cloakroom of the church and extracted the billfolds from the girl's pocketbooks. The losses to the individual girls were light, averaging about $2 or $3, but one girl reported $23 stolen.

Any person who may have information concerning this theft should contact the Raleigh Police Department.

Profile . . . Lionel Trilling

Lionel Trilling will speak at the College Union this Thursday under the auspices of the Library Committee of the College Union. He is a literary critic, a novelist, a Columbia professor, and a biographer.

Lionel Trilling is one of the best-known critics in America and was singled out by the London Times Literary Supplement when it summed up the literary scene of America. He was described as "perhaps the most outstanding of the 'general' American critics today."

Mr. Trilling gained this praise by his critical articles which have appeared in the Partisan Review, The Nation,

Kenyon Review, and Harper's Bazaar along with his books of critical study such as E. M. Forster.

Mr. Trilling is the author of the best-seller The Middle of the Journey which was written in 1947 and won wide critical praise. This novel will shortly be published in a paperback edition.

He has also written a biography, Matthew Arnold; a collection essays, The Opposing Self; and Freud and the Crisis of Our Times. He has edited The Portable Matthew Arnold and The Letters of John Keats and has written a number of short stories.

Mr. Trilling was born and educated in New York and holds a Ph.D. from Columbia University. He has taught at Columbia, The University of Wisconsin, and Indiana University.

Acclaimed Pianist To Appear Here Tonight

Ozan Marsh, who is considered by the New York Times as one of the most outstanding of the younger generation of American piano virtuosos, will make an appearance tonight at the Memorial Auditorium. His concert is one of five planned for this year by the Raleigh Concert Music Association.

Marsh, a native of California, has been called the leading interpreter of Chopin and Liszt by the New York Herald Tribune. According to the Concert Association, he recently won remarkable notices for his performance at the Lewisohn Stadium in New York.

The Raleigh Concert Music Association plans to follow his appearance with those of five other outstanding performers. Admittance to the concerts will be by membership only. Student membership will be $4.00, and will be on sale tonight between seven and eight o'clock at the Auditorium. No single performance tickets will be sold.

Anonymous Professor Helps Book Shortage

Each month the library will be assured of at least $10 for the purchase of books, thanks to the generosity of an anonymous donor.

A professor, who chooses to remain anonymous, has made arrangements to donate a minimum of $10 per month to the Library for the purchase of books dealing with his subject.

According to the professor, his reason for giving the gift was two-fold. He stated that, "I gave the gift because the Library needed help to help the students understand their subject."

The generous professor also hopes that "this gift will encourage the faculty and the students to make similar donations to the library."

This gift was praised by both Harlan C. Brown, Director of the Library, who said "His generosity is assisting us in building up what I know will be one of the finest collections of this subject in the Southeast," and Chancellor Caldwell, who praised the donor for his "unselfishness" in making the gift.

Crimson Tide Hands Wolfpack Third Defeat Of Season

By Benny Pearce
Sports Editor

For three-quarters of a football game the Wolfpack appeared to be playing nationally-ranked Alabama on even terms. It was not until the last quarter that Alabama was able to pull away from the 'Pack and defeat them, 26-7.

Once again the Wolfpack's running attack proved to be a liability. Wolfpack runners wound up the day with a total of minus five yards rushing. The statistics would have been a little better if Roman Gabriel had not been thrown for losses totaling 25 yards. Most of this was lost on pass attempts when Gabriel was hard-rushed by the strong Alabama line.

Gabriel had what was probably his best passing day of the year, completing 16 of 23, good for 123 yards. Before the game Gabriel's completion percentage was 49.2. After his fine performance he had hiked his percentage up to 54.9. This is nearly equal to his percentage of 1960, 56.5.

State was forced to kick many times due to a lack of an efficient running attack. Dave Houtz once again proved to be one of the bright spots in the Wolfpack attack. He punted 10 times for a 38.9 average. This was slightly below his season average of 42.5, but it enabled the 'Pack to get out of many a troublesome spot.

Coach Earle Edwards said before Saturday's game that, "It is hard to pick out a weakness on the Alabama squad. Bear Bryant is noted for his defensive teams, and this is one of his best defensively."

Alabama demonstrated that they are a definite possibility for a bowl game come New Year's Day. If they have a weakness, it must lie with their pass defense. 'Bama is noted for their rushing defense and their offense, directed by QB Pat Trammell, appears to be as good as any team's in the nation.

The Wolfpack may be plagued by another injury. Don Montgomery, fastly becoming one of the best ends in the conference, was injured early in the Alabama game and did not return to action.

Next week the Wolfpack will be at home for a night game with Wake Forest.

Soccer

The Wolfpack soccer team played three games last week, winning one and losing two. Their second victory of the year was a 1-0 decision over Washington and Lee. Last week's losses were to Virginia and Maryland. The season's record is now 2-3. The next game is with Carolina here Oct. 19.
