Greeks Expect Big Weekend; Ellington Featured At IFC

Duke Ellington will provide the music for the "Fall Greeks" at this weekend's IFC Ball.

The State College Greeks' big weekend of the fall semester gets into full swing with Ellington's indoor concert on Saturday afternoon and is highlighted ed by the formal dance that night.

According to Charlie Hamilton, IFC Publicity Director, "The Ellington orchestra has the distinction of being the oldest and greatest jazz organization in the world and a dance band of renown. Its forty weeks of one nighters each year includes every major college and university in America."

The afternoon concert will be held in the Coliseum from 2 to 4 p.m.

The dance, scheduled from 8 p.m. to midnight, will also be in the Coliseum. During the intermission, IFC members and their dates will be introduced. A smooth dance band will play until the Ellington orchestra returns from its intermission.

This year the dance is expected to be enjoyed by more than 1200 fraternity men and their dates.

Gamma Sigma Delta Meets, Presents Student Awards

A meeting of agricultural minds was held at noon yesterday in the College Union Ballroom.

The occasion was the Annual Scholarship and Awards Luncheon of the State College Chapter of Gamma Sigma Delta, an international honor society for Agriculture, Agricultural Education, and Forestry.

At the luncheon, recognition was given students who made outstanding scholastic records as freshmen last year. Award certificates were also presented to five sophomore students of 1960-61 of highest scholastic standing.

Freshmen receiving awards from the Department of Agricultural Education were Gerald Franklin Peedin and Benjamin Griffin Ware.

The School of Forestry recognized Royall Nelvin Broughton,

Jr., Micheal James Ford, John Douglas Gilman, James Lewis Hamrick, Alfred Walter Lindsey, George David Oakley, Jack Brinkley Prescott, Walter Charles Shaefer, Jerry Lee Self, and Donald Bruce Zobel.

Receiving outstanding sophomore recognition were Elwood Vance Best, Thurman Everett Burnett, Charles Everett Dunning, Edward Carlyle Franklin, and William David South.

IFC Rules Probation For KA Rush Violation

Kappa Alpha Fraternity will not be allowed to rush during the second semester.

This ruling was made yesterday at the regular I.F.C. Interfraternity Council meeting after the group had passed a resolution calling for the probation by a vote of 14 to 4.

The violation by Kappa Alpha occurred during rush week when an associate member of KA, Tommy Hand, visited the Theta Chi Fraternity House and posed as a rushee. Theta Chi reported that his actions during his visit were detrimental to their rushing program.

Originally, the resolution which was drawn up by the Investigations Committee of the I.F.C. called for the disassociation of Hand with the fraternity, along with the probation for KA, but the resolution was amended at an earlier I.F.C. meeting to omit the portion concerning Hand.

Grady Farrall, President of Kappa Alpha fraternity stated that "I feel that the incident was blown up and exaggerated through the determined efforts of several persons. The same incident happened at the KA house in the falls of 1959 and 1960 during rush week and we did not attempt to get anyone in trouble but treated it as a small joke. I am sorry that this type of penalty was imposed. I do not think that it was just or fair, but KA will abide by it.

Charles Hamilton, a member of Theta Chi Fraternity, stated that this penalty against Kappa Alpha should go far towards strengthening the power and the respect of the Interfraternity Council.

The probation will not affect the rushing or pledging of any person by Kappa Alpha this semester and will come into effect at the beginning of the second one. After the second semester, Kappa Alpha will be free to rush or pledge anyone.

This is the second penalty the I.F.C. has delivered this year. Sigma Alpha Mu Fraternity was placed on a year of less stringent probation for contacting rushees outside of specified rushing hours.

Campus Chest Drive Named Successful

The Campus Chest Drive for 1961 has entered its last stages.

Jerry Puckett, Publicity Chairman for the Campus Chest Committee, told the Technician last night, "We are extremely happy and proud that there has been a very large increase over last year's donations."

The Committee is proud that total collections have shown more than a 100% increase this year, but feels that participation could have easily been much greater, Puckett said. To date $1,309.21 has been collected. However, nearly $1500.00 is expected after all organizations have reported.

The major contributions were received from dormitories and fraternities. In addition, donations were received from most organizations on campus.

Dormitories donated $718.51 to claim first place in total contributions. Fraternities followed with a total of $230.50 Married Student Housing gave $15.50, while off-campus donations totaled $115.70. From the Student Supply Store came $50.00 and various other organizations gave $40.00. Many other organizations have not yet reported.

College Appoints Heaton As CU Acting Director

Richard S. Heaton has been named the acting director of the College Union until a new director can be appointed.

According to James J. Stewart, Dean of Student Affairs, Heaton was asked to accept the position following the death of Gerald O. T. Erdahl, director of the College Union.

Mr. Heaton, who has been the Assistant Director of the College Union for 6½ years, has also taken over the coordination of the Friends of the College, Inc., which Erdahl had formerly headed.

It was also stated that a permanent director will be approved by the President of the Consolidated University, William C. Friday, and the Consolidated University Board of Trustees in the near future.

Shock Expressed Over Bond Failure

The defeat of the Bond Election left a fallout of shock and disappointment over the State College campus.

In exclusive interviews with The Technician, leaders of State College staff and faculty gave their opinions on the defeat of the bond issue.

Chancellor John T. Caldwell said, "N. C. State College as a result of the defeat of the bond issue faces the prospect of not meeting some of its responsibilities to students, to the Forestry economics, to the Agricultural economics, and to scientific progress in North Carolina. We will, of course, continue to utilize to the maximum what we have. At the same time, we are looking forward to public action which will provide the capital improvements and experience desperately needed. It goes without saying that we were disappointed, but it must be added that our morale remains high in its dedication which we hold to the public.

President William C. Friday of the Consolidated University, in a quote to the News and Observer, said, "We will not be able to do what we had hoped to do in improving educational opportunities for our young people, but we will do the very best we can with what we have."

Dean John H. Lampe of the School of Engineering stated that "the Electrical Engineering department would be held back the most of any department." Dean Lampe pointed out that, "new equipment that was to be installed in Mann will now have to be done without. Money has already been allotted for the new Civil Engineering building, which, when built, will vacate Mann. The Electrical Engineering department will then move into Mann. Laboratories and equipment such as radar was to have been installed in this building, but it is now out of the question."

In the Forestry School Dr. T. E. Maki said, "The new building that was to be located east of the Robertson Laboratories will not be available to students in the future. The Forestry campus, which needed improving, will remain the same. Proposed greenhouse and classrooms that will not be built will seriously hamper research and teaching."

Dr. Barkalow of the Zoology department reported, "We are partitioning already crowded offices and we will not be able to expand the Physiology and Parasitology departments."

Director of Student Housing, N. B. Watts, stated, "The housing problem is an acute one now, but will become much more so in the immediate future. A dorm will be raised in 1962, (See BOND FAILURE, page 2)

The Welfare State

The Apollo Club this year was treated to a series of debates concerning the welfare state. This was a timely and interesting topic for conservation at this time because our nation is beset with both external and internal stresses directly effecting the validity of the welfare state.

First, a definition is in order. The welfare state can be defined briefly as a society that is governed, protected, and subsidized by a strong, central government . . . a semi-socialistic state in a better connotation of the word than we Americans usually think of it. Socialism and socialistic policies are too often confused for the more radical concept of Communism.

Undoubtedly, we are moving more and more towards becoming a welfare state. In the last thirty years more and more social legislation has been passed. This has almost been a necessity in many of the cases because in these thirty years, we have become increasingly engrossed in international affairs and we have also had to remedy many of our internal policies. We need a strong central government to help us negotiate and associate with the other countries of the world. Our foe, Russia is the welfare state personified. While we condemn her ideals, we have to compliment her on the way in which she has pursued them. This was possible because her system of government leaves no room for the concept we Americans find most important—individual freedom. Russia can strike faster and harder because she does not have to receive the permission of her individual citizens before making a move. This mobility that Russia has has been partly neutralized by our building up of the welfare state. Social legislation for certain underprivileged groups of citizens are also understandable on humanitarian grounds.

This previous paragraph makes us sound as if we are in favor of the welfare state. There are certain portions of this type of government that seem to offer a distinct advantage, but there are also many valid arguments against it.

The welfare state tends to surpress individual freedom and initiative. When a society begins giving too much power to its governing segment, it finds that individual desires are often sublimated to the desires of the group in power. This is readily evident in today's society. A very good example was President Kennedy's request earlier in the year that newspapers set up a "censoring bureau".

The welfare state also tends to bring everyone to the same level. By offering aid to some groups and by restricting other ones, it molds a classless society that has no room for individual initiative. It is easier for a person to be mediocre in a society such as this than to work very hard and then be reduced to a state of mediocrity by governmental controls.

The alternative to not having a welfare state could easily be Communist domination while the alternative to not having one could just as easily be a society similar to the one in George Orwell's 1984.

The only solution we can offer to this conflict is that more careful attention be given to the merits of all legislation. People should not divide themselves along party lines or consider themselves to be a "liberal" or a "conservative." Legislation should be looked at from the standpoint of whether it is beneficial or not, not from the standpoint of whether it supports the views of one faction.

Only a careful and realistic molding of these two different concepts can keep us from escaping the subsidiary evils of either.

I.B.M. No. 907302

Watkins, Gerald J.

Anyone blessed with the sense of sight can plainly see that freshmen elections will soon be here. There are just a couple of things I would like to say in regard to them. It seems that one of the honorable candidates for office is actually a nationally known personality loved by adults and children alike. In plain sight there is a poster with bold letters announcing that "Mr. X" is actually the Great Pumpkin himself! Heavens to Betsy! Here on our own campus! Wait til Whiskey Hill hears about this. We'll be the envy of every college in the country. I can see the local newspapers now when the story breaks.

"N. C. State College Student Reveals Himself To Be The Great Pumpkin.

It was announced today by Chancellor Caldwell that Mr. X, a student at State College, is the Great Pumpkin himself. Surprise and shock have been expressed by the various nations around the world. Russia claims there is no truth in the story, that the real Great Pumpkin is actually a high Communist official. Other reports seem to indicate . . ."

Really now. Great Pumpkin indeed.

Another candidate for office has threatened everyone with the Mafia if they don't vote for him. Other posters have horrible looking faces drawn on them apparently trying to scare our poor freshmen into voting the right way.

Notices

Free passes good for the Variety, the Ambassador and the Tower Drive-in Theatres are being offered to freshmen. Freshmen who haven't picked up their passes may do so now by going to the C. U. Activities office with their pink registration cards. These passes must be used before November 15.

The Leopold Wildlife Club will meet Thursday, November 26 at 7 p.m. in Room 149, Gardner Hall.

What with Pumpkins and the Underworld threatening to take over campus, I'm ready to pack up and leave.

There are two books that have recently been published that are really worth mentioning. One of them ought to start a pretty good controversy. It's entitled The Goddam White Man written by a South African Negro. Enough said!

The other one is by far the funniest book I've read in the past few days. The title is Say Uncle, "A completely uncalled for history of the U. S." Written by two Canadians the book contains such choice bits of history as, "Chap II Prehistoric America (before Lawrence Welk)." This chapter states, "The Indians were broken down into tribes. Some tribes were more broken down than others . . . Famous American tribes of Indians include the Blackfeet, the Sioux, the Cleveland and the Wooden. The Cleveland Indians were the ones that used finger language for words like 'run', 'walk', and 'steal second'."

The chapter entitled The War of 1812, '13, etc. starts with the sentence, "Very little is

THE DEVIL'S EYE

By J. W. Williams

"A young girl's virtue is a sty on the devil's eye."

From this old Irish proverb, Ingmar Bergman has created his latest movie, a comedy. THE DEVIL'S EYE is an amusing and well-done film revolving around the idea that to remove the sty it is only necessary to remove the virtue.

When Satan awakens one morning to find his right eye blemished by a sty of unnatural size, he decides to take immediate action to remove it. "Sire," his advisors whisper, "Who could be more experienced at this type of work than Don Juan?"

After explicit orders stating how he is to go about his work, Don Juan reaches Earth. He soon finds that although it is possible for him to seduce the girl, he cannot bring himself to do so. Why? Because she doesn't love him, but he loves her. So, he returns to hell for eternity, and the sty remains upon his master's eye until the girl marries.

Filled with amusing characters and ideas, this movie seldom lags in any way. The few times the plot becomes weak is insignificant in the face of the acting and camera work. Both are very well done and contribute much to the picture.

Taken in entirety the film is worthy of praise. It contains some very good characters, especially one fat and leering demon who considers himself "the wickedest old demon in Hell." Bergman, whose movies usually evoke high praise from critics, has again created a movie of higher than normal calibre.

Letter To Editor

Freshman Politicians

To the Freshmen:

In response to a recent letter from a freshman wishing to know the platforms on which the multitude of candidates are running in the Freshman class elections, we would like to make our platform known.

Our platform contains those improvements and changes which we feel you, the Freshman class, would like to see. The platform consists of five major planks which are the following: (1) an increase in Freshman participation in athletic and other college events, (2) events and activities solely for the Freshman class, (3) a campaign for an increase in STATE spirit, (4) a more organized and instructive orientation program, and (5) a campus visitation day by the freshman girls of Peace, St. Mary's Rex Hos., and Meredith colleges. This visitation activity is expressly for the freshmen; and, we have already begun working on this part of the platform. Plank #3 we feel is a vital necessity. There is too much "engineer, ag. student, etc." spirit, and not enough STATE spirit, as evidenced by the weak cheer-known about the War of 1812 because the Americans lost it."

And with regard to inventions they say, "First of these was Eli Whitney's cotton gin, a device for making gin out of cotton. This machine was later replaced by the bathtub."

I'd hate to see what kind of book Russia would write about us.

ing at our football games. Also, we believe that, while it is of no consequence to you personally now, you would like to see a reorganization of the orientation program. A new orientation program would make the incoming freshmen class more cognizant of the college and make them know that they are an integral part of N. C. State College.

We cannot promise that all of these plans will be completed, because no two people could hope to accomplish everything in the short space of time that they are officers, but we will have at least started the ball rolling on these matters. However, let us promise you that we will do our extreme best to bring as many of these plans to completion as is possible in the time that we are to be officers, if you, the Freshman class, see fit to elect us.

The Music Committee

By Phil Kropf

Have you relaxed in the music lounge lately?

Or are you planning to enjoy the music of the Lyric Trio tonight?

If the answer to either of these questions is yes, then you are one of the many students on campus who benefit from the services of the CU Music Committee.

The Music Committee, led by Chairman Willard Barbee, is responsible for 13-14 events on the CU calendar per year. Among these events are the Lyric Trio concert, Christmas programs, and band and glee club programs in the fall and spring.

The committee has in its possession approximately 250 tapes, mostly of classical nature. The committee has and records several musical programs such as the Christmas concert.

The Music Committee spends much time and labor in planning programs of interest to the students. They work with the Friends of the College in planning programs sponsored by this group.

The Music Committee is tentatively planning a Chamber Music program led by Jorgen Jorgenson and his group would hold open practice sessions that any student could sit in on.

The committee is responsible for all tape-recorded programs. However, they are presently without a turntable because it was recently stolen.

In addition to scheduled activities, the Music Committee helps arrange music for special events such as the Sadie Hawkins Dance last Friday.

Wolfpack Wants To Make Turtle Soup Saturday

By Benny Pearce

The Wolfpack will travel to College Park, Maryland, this weekend to meet the "Terrible Terps" of Maryland. Maryland has proved a Pack nemesis in the past, defeating the Wolfpack in eight of 14 meetings.

Maryland will be especially tough in this meeting because there are reports that the Terrapins may be invited to a post-season bowl. Maryland has completed its season with non-conference foes, winning all four games. The Terps defeated S.M.U., Syracuse, Air Force, and Penn State.

Another reason for the Terps being in readiness for State is the fact that another loss in the conference would drop them out of the ACC race completely. The Terps have already lost two games and any team with three losses would be out of the race.

State is also a possible contender for the conference crown. The Wolfpack has a 2-2 record in conference play.

The Wolfpack has been an "every-other ballgame" team for the last six games. The Pack lost to Carolina, beat Virginia, lost to Alabama, beat Wake Forest, lost to Duke and beat Miss. Southern.

In every game that the Wolfpack has come up with any type of running attack, they have won. In the Virginia, Wake Forest and Miss. Southern games the Pack has run consistently with the ball. In the other games the State team has been unable to get going on the ground at all.

Coach Earle Edwards hopes that the Pack can continue its trend of improvement in the rushing attack. In the last game, with Miss. Southern, the Wolfpack gained 246 yards rushing. This was the best team effort at rushing since 1958.

The defense also showed a marked improvement. Southern was only able to gain 19 yards rushing, after the intermission.

In the past, Roman Gabriel has been at his best against the Maryland Club. As a sophomore in 1959, Gabriel completed 23 of 38 passes for 279 yards and two touchdowns. Last year "Gabe" led his team in a come-from-behind effort in the last four minutes of play to defeat the Terps, 13-10.

Barring any practice injuries, Coach Edwards should start the same "starting 22" that he has used in previous games. The only injury sustained in the Miss. Southern game was an ankle injury received by Tom Dellinger. Dellinger should be ready to play by Saturday. Game time will be 2:00 p.m. EST.

Is ACC A Weak Sister?

By Benny Pearce

Many sports followers throughout the nation are saying that the ACC football teams "just haven't got what it takes". A look at the records of the eight conference teams against non-conference opponents will justify those criticisms of ACC football.

Looking at the statistics, we see that ACC teams have a 9-12 record against outside opposition. These figures are somewhat misleading because the Maryland team has a 4-0 record against "outsiders". Not including Maryland, the record would be 5-12, which is a very poor record.

Gabriel Gains Lead In Total Offense

Roman Gabriel has taken over the lead in the individual total offense race. "Gabe" picked up exactly 100 yards against Miss. Southern to vault him into the lead. He had only 41 yards passing, but gained 59 yards via the ground route. Gabriel has gained 760 yards rushing and passing, 32 more than his opponent this weekend, Dick Shiner of Maryland. "Gabe" also leads in passing with 69 completions in 131 attempts for 649 yards. He has passed for six touchdowns and scored two himself.

In the team statistics department, the Wolfpack has not done so well as Gabriel. State is last in rushing defense, last in rushing offense and last in total offense. The Pack has managed to garner sixth place in total defense. The bright spot in the team statistics is the fact that the Wolfpack is #1 in the conference in pass defense. This has been a pleasant surprise because the Pack was supposed to be weak in the defensive secondary due to losses through graduation.

Carson Boshier leads the Wolfpack in rushing after seven games. Boshier has gained 134 yards in 27 carries for a 5.0 average. Boshier is also the team leader in scoring with 18 points.

Jake Shaffer has proved to be a valuable asset to the Wolfpack with his point-scoring kicks. Shaffer has kicked 9-9 extra points with his latest being the deciding factor in the 7-6 win over Miss. Southern. Shaffer has also kicked a field-goal giving him 12 points for the year.

Dave Houtz continues his sensational punting for the Wolfpack, maintaining a 38.7 average for 43 punts. In the game with Miss. Southern, Houtz twice kicked the ball out of bounds inside the Southern 10-yard line.

Running down the list we find that the ACC leader Duke is 0-2 against non-conference foes. Other teams' records are Carolina, 1-1; State, 1-2; Clemson, 1-2; South Carolina and Wake Forest, 0-2; and lowly rated Virginia, 2-1.

Let's look at the Southeastern Conference. The top four teams in this conference are Alabama, LSU, Mississippi and Georgia Tech. All of these teams are rated in the top twenty in the nation. In the ACC only one is rated in the top twenty (Maryland, which is thirteenth).

A look at the Big Ten Conference will give us another striking comparison. The Big Ten has Ohio State, Minnesota, Michigan, Michigan State, Purdue, Northwestern and Iowa all receiving national recognition. In fact, the only teams in the Big Ten with losing records are Indiana and Illinois.

Although the ACC does not receive as much national recognition as some of the other conferences, there has been a definite trend of better balance within the conference. This was pointed out last Saturday when Virginia topped South Carolina.

In a conference in which any one of the teams is liable to knock off the others, it is no wonder that the ACC teams lose to outsiders. It is hard for a football team to be "up" for every game, but this is necessary to have a winning record in a conference so well balanced.

Runners Finish Sixth In State Meet ACC Meet To Be Held Here Monday

In a State cross country meet held here Monday, the Wolfpack cross country team captured sixth place. Ten teams were entered in the event including teams from the Big Four and several other colleges in North Carolina. Jerry Neurse from Duke won the event, but the team from Carolina walked away with team honors. Other finishers in order were Duke, Wake Forest, Catawba, Davidson, State and Atlantic Christian.

A freshman meet was also held with the frosh from Wake Forest taking the laurels. The State frosh were greatly hampered by the inability of Mel Woodcock to run in the meet. Woodcock, who had broken the course record for two miles earlier this year, had a hip injury which kept him out of the meet.

Next Monday, the ACC meet will be held here. Coach Paul Derr has high hopes that the Wolfpack harriers can improve over their sixth place finish in the State meet.

how quiet is quiet?

Cats are notoriously silent in their singularly feline way. But even the most stealthily treading tomcat could take lessons from the men at Ford Motor Company whose job it is to track down and suppress unwanted noise in vehicles.

At our Ford Research and Engineering Center in Dearborn, engineers have created a unique room without echoes, virtually duplicating the perfect stillness that exists miles above the earth's surface.

The "Silent Room", as we call it, is a chamber utilizing fiber-glass wedges as sonic "blotters" to soak up noise emanating from subjects undergoing developmental tests. In this acoustically sterile environment, electronic instruments seek out the source of vibrations, rattles, rumbles and squeaks so that they can be eliminated in production.

This scientific approach to silence is but a tiny facet of the many-sided program of pure and applied research which goes on daily at Ford Motor Company. It is another example of Ford's leadership through scientific research and engineering.

Memorial Auditorium Features Violinist

"He is the most exciting young violinist I have heard in years." These were the words used by a prominent Washington, D. C., reporter to describe Erick Friedman.

Friedman will appear in Raleigh for the Raleigh Concert Music Association presentation on Sunday, November 12, at 3 p.m. in the Raleigh Memorial Auditorium.

Friedman has been widely acclaimed by music critics as a great new talent. His handsome appearance adds to the vitality of his performance.

At the age of ten, Friedman made his orchestral debut with the Center Symphony in Newark, New Jersey, and was engaged by major orchestras throughout the country. At twelve he appeared with the New York Philharmonic and at fourteen with the Little Orchestra Society of New York. At seventeen he triumphed at his Carnegie Hall recital.

Friedman has received many national awards and has been guest soloist with several outstanding orchestras. He has received unanimous acclaim wherever he has gone.

Maltese Gives Fund For Financial Aid To Worthy Students

By Phillip Kropf

The School of Textiles has a new scholarship fund for students in financial difficulty. Mr. G. H. Dunlap of the Textile Department announced today.

The fund was presented to the School by Anthony J. Maltese, Jr. of Glen Rock, New Jersey and will be called the Anthony J. Maltese, Jr. Scholarship Fund.

Maltese is a 1960 graduate of N. C. State College; and while in school, he experienced financial difficulties. The scholarship fund is the result of a promise made by Maltese to Mr. Dunlap.

The fund, presented on October 28, is open to all textile students. The only stipulation that Maltese made is that the student who receives the award must exhibit a genuine need for financial aid.

Any textile student who wishes to apply for this scholarship may pick up application blanks from Mr. Dunlap in Nelson Hall.

but the proposed 1963 dorm is out." Mr. Watts, citing an example, said that: "this was the first year that freshmen had lived off campus in large numbers. Rocky Branch, behind Owen-Tucker, was to be filled and a street paved over it, which would remove traffic behind these dorms. The proposed renovation of Frank Thompson Gym is also out. I was disappointed, because I thought it would pass."

I. T. Littleton, assistant director of the D. H. Library, stated that "We are extremely disappointed in the results of the Bond Election."
