Kappa Sigs Given Social Probation

The Kappa Sigma social fraternity has been placed on social probation for the remainder of the semester.

According to Tom Covington, Jr., Assistant Director of Student Activities, the Kappa Sigs held an improperly chaperoned party about a month ago. They were put on probation by Covington last week.

Covington stated that the

Christmas Music Slated Sun. Nite On WKNC

As a tribute to the true meaning of Christmas, WKNC will once again present the complete Christmas section of Handel's "Messiah" this Sunday, December 17, at 9:00 p.m. on the program "Your Sunday Concert Hall." The recording of this oratorio will feature the New York Philharmonic, Leonard Bernstein, conductor; The Westminster Choir, John Finley Williamson, director; and featured soloists Adele Addison, Russell Oberlin, David Lloyd, and William Warfield.

policy of the Student Activities Office is to require each fraternity to have a lady who is at least twenty-five years old to chaperone parties attended by girls from the local girls' schools. The Kappa Sigs failed to have a chaperone, he said.

"Social probation" for the fraternity means that it will be allowed only two evening parties and one weekend party for the remainder of this semester.

Leaders Tour West For Food Research

Agricultural and business leaders from North Carolina recently completed a tour of the West Coast in a search for ways to improve State College's food processing department.

The party of ten included Dean James, Commissioner of Agriculture L. Y. Ballentine, State Senator Ralph Scott, Dan Stewart of Carolina Power and Light Co., G. D. Arnot, A. C. Edwards, J. C. Williamson, Jr.,

IFC Holds Christmas Parties

Santa will visit his friends in the eighteen State College fraternities tonight, as Raleigh orphans and underprivileged youngsters are treated with a Christmas party. The project is an annual IFC event.

Wayne Corpening, Dr. W. M. Roberts, head of the food science and processing department, and W. L. Carpenter.

The areas of consideration of the party were fruits, vegetables, and seafoods. These commodities have great potential in the state, and at the present time are underdeveloped in North Carolina.

The group toured teaching and research functions at several universities, and actual processing operations at some of the West Coast processing plants. Dean James said that many practices in the field of food processing that are used on the West Coast can be transferred to North Carolina.

State College is very interested in starting a training and research program in food processing in the state. One man will be added to the food science and processing department next year solely for research in seafood.

Ag Man Selected For Peru Post

Dr. John C. Rice, an agronomist in the School of Agriculture, will become the head of State College's agricultural mission to Peru.

Dr. Rice will replace Dr. P. A. Miller, the present head, for a two-year period. Dr. Miller is to return to State in January, according to Dr. R. L. Lovvorn, campus co-ordinator for the mission.

Since 1955 the School of Agriculture has had a technical mission in Peru. This mission, which is under contract with the International Cooperation Administration, allows State College scientists to help Peruvian scientists establish research programs that will increase Peru's food supply.

Mrs. Rice and the four children, John, Sharon, Robert, and Catherine are accompanying Dr. Rice to Peru. The Rices left Raleigh yesterday. They hope to be in their new home before Christmas.

Dean Of Women Named Here

By Cora Kemp
For the first time, State's 197 coeds have the feeling that someone is looking after them. Their charming advisor, Mrs. Julia Miller, is available at 203 Holladay Hall from 10:00 a.m. until 2:00 p.m. Monday through Friday. She is quite anxious to talk with the coeds and encourages them to come in to discuss their academic progress, housing arrangements, and any personal problems they may have.

Mrs. Miller has had experience working with both men and women students. She has held counseling positions at the University of Buffalo and Pennsylvania State University and qualifies as a professionally-trained and experienced counselor.

Mrs. Miller came to Raleigh six years ago with her husband, Dr. Howard Miller, who is head of State College's Department of Psychology. They have two daughters, Sarah, 10, and Julie, 6.

She received her B.S. and M.S. degrees from the University of Michigan. Early in her career she taught English, French, and history to junior high and senior high school students in Bloomfield Hills, Michigan.

So far Mrs. Miller has been able to meet and talk with most of the freshmen and sophomore coeds individually. The upperclassmen have been informed of her service and stop at random to see her.

At the present time there is no girl's dormitory on campus, and, according to Mrs. Miller and the coeds, housing can be one of the biggest problems a coed can encounter here. Mrs. Miller is currently studying the situation. She has visited in many of the homes where the coeds are living to obtain a better understanding of this problem.

Fraternities To Play Santa For 300 Kids

Santa Claus will make an early visit to State College tonight.

Again this year the I. F. C. is sponsoring Christmas parties for underprivileged children. Over 300 youngsters will be the guests of State's eighteen fraternities from 7:00 to 9:00 p.m. tonight. The children, ranging in age from 4 to 11, will be chosen from the Methodist and Catholic Orphanages as well as the Wake County Welfare Department.

Each of the fraternities will entertain approximately 15 to 20 of the orphans with games and refreshments. However, the highlight of the evening will be the arrival of Old Saint Nick himself. Santa will visit each of the houses during the parties with personalized gifts for each of the tots. The children will all find presents in Santa's cargo which are matched to their own sex and age and with their names on them.

"In addition to brightening Christmas for so many unfortunate children, these parties are a definite inspiration to the fraternity men themselves," said party chairman Paul Humphreys.

Young Republicans Organize Club, Elect Officers

The Young Republicans Club of N. C. State College held its organizational meeting on Tuesday, December 5.

The purpose of this meeting was to organize the club, elect officers and organize a delegation for the State Y. R. C. convention in Greensboro in February.

The newly elected officers are: President, O. T. Hayes; Vice President, Mack Spence; Secretary, Charles Geir; and Treasurer, Gene Meyers.

The next meeting of the Y. R. C. will be held on Wednesday, January 3, at 7 p.m. in the College Union.

Campus Crier

The State of Research will present a program from the School of Textiles Thursday, December 14, at 8:30 p.m. on Channel Four. Mr. Henry A. Rutherford and Mr. William R. Martin, Jr., will discuss and demonstrate their research project into the development of new "sizing materials." This program, "Warp sizing," will be repeated on Sunday, December 17, at 6:30 p.m.

This Saturday, December 16, WKNC will hold its Second Annual Beethoven Festival in celebration of Ludwig von Beethoven's one hundred ninety first birthday. Starting at 6:00 p.m. this festival program will feature the more prominent works of Beethoven and culminate with the playing of his ninth symphony, ending about midnight.

Xmas; Spirit or Spirits

Xmas is the greatest time of the year—laughter, presents, good will. It is the occasion for office parties, school vacation, and Xmas carols.

And don't forget Santa Claus. There are many different types of Santa Clauses, incidentally: department store Santa Clauses, party Santa Clauses, and radio-TV Santa Clauses. All of them are paid.

To be specific, Xmas runs from Thanksgiving to New Year's Day; one of the highlights is December 25, when the gifts are opened. A short lull usually follows until the New Year's Eve party.

Xmas is really an exhausting affair for almost everyone. One of our local friendly merchants was overheard saying, "I wish I could get drunk at Thanksgiving and stay drunk until New Year's." The reason for this poor man's dilemma is that he is so full of the Xmas spirit. After all, he keeps his store open until 9 every night.

A sacrifice of this nature is typical of the Xmas cheer; after all, the shoppers possess a long list of people who will probably give them presents. And they will have to get presents to match somewhere.

It is awfully embarrassing not to have a gift to exchange with one's acquaintances. Maybe I'd better buy a few extras, just in case . . .

Of course, some people can't afford to buy armloads of Xmas gifts. It's a shame.

December is also the season for Xmas trees. Everybody has to have an Xmas tree; you can get them down at the vacant lot on the corner. Nobody goes after their own tree; that's quite a bit of unnecessary trouble.

Oh, yes. You can spot the beginning of Xmas time because of the annual Xmas parade, sponsored by the merchant's association.

"I wanna train," "I wanna sled," "I wanna doll"—these are the happy cries of the children, to whom Xmas has come to mean so much.

No Santa Claus

Christmas last year was miserable for hundreds of Americans who had more to worry about than merely no food, clothes, heat, or Santa Claus. These were the people who were either killed, maimed, or kin to those killed or maimed in highway accidents.

It will occur again this holiday.

Of course, you say, it always happens to other people—people who always thought, until that awful moment, that it happened to other people.

LITTLE MAN ON CAMPUS

"NO MATTER HOW LOUSY HER SPEECHES - YOU'LL HAVE TO ADMIT SHE ALWAYS HOLDS THEIR ATTENTION."

An Ode To The Impatient Ones

From our shelters we wander
In ever-widening circles.
All around us there is nothing
But "nothing."
The Boys had picked up their marbles
And gone home to Mother,
Vowing to get even
With the big, mean guy.
And without consulting anyone
They set to making insults
And making accusations
About each other.
In the east there appeared
The big, bad bear
Snorting about unfair tactics
And poor sportsmanship.

While from the west galloped
The Great White Steed,
Stirring up clouds of innocence
And righteousness.
The two forces clashed
At midstream with a roar
That was seen around the world
As a blinding flash.
And the alarm was sounded,
Sending all those left
To underground holes
With only a slap.
Sarah, in a futile gesture,
Turned around once again.
Only to crumble to the ground
Into a heap of salt.

A Letter From Mike + Criticism

To the Editor:

I followed with interest the student campaign to have the holidays changed for Christmas, but as was stated earlier, one can only cut so much red tape in two weeks.

It is evident that no changes will be made this year because of the time factor, but it is also evident that the scheduling this semester is not as good as it should be.

Now when we have time, we should make sure that the holidays next year will be more compatible with student wishes.

I can hear moans coming from the registration office over a suggestion that their increased time between semesters be shortened, but this seems to be the only answer for next year. It might mean a couple of weeks delay in receiving grades, but if everyone were like me, this would be an advantage instead of a disadvantage.

To the Editor:

I want to express congratula-tion to The Technician for its excellent coverage of the December 16 Movement Petition in the Wednesday night edition of December 6, and give my most critical criticism for printing the utterly false headline in the Thursday night edition of December 7.

The Technician acted promptly with full coverage of the Petition, (to dismiss classes Dec. 16 rather than Dec. 19), for its Wednesday edition. I was amazed at how quickly and thoroughly the staff covered the issue. As for the Thursday edition, I was stunned by the headlines, "Yule Holiday Petition Rejected by College,"—especially when the Petition, at that time, had not even been presented. Despite the fact that the Petition was still being circulated the false headline appeared in print anyway.

Although the introduction to Dean Stewart's Statement, released by the college news service, may have been a little misleading, the article made it very clear that the Petition had not been submitted. A Petition cannot be rejected until it has been submitted. Therefore, the headline that the petition had been

For Your Information . . . Harrelson Hall

(This informative article, written by News Bureau Director Rudy Pate, appeared in the November issue of the State College News.)

NCS's magnificent new classroom building, Harrelson Hall, is receiving wide attention from the press, radio, and television.

The $2,000,000 structure is a great addition to the college's physical plant and will enable the institution to provide better facilities for its students and faculty members.

Under the caption, "An Unusual Building," The Lexington Dispatch, in its editions of Sept. 27, 1961, carried the following editorial:

"State College students are back on the West Raleigh campus and are now becoming acquainted with one of the most unusual buildings on an American campus, or in the world for that matter. It is a circular classroom building capable of serving a maximum of 4,500 students and their teachers at one time. This great building does not even rest on the ground but it is held up by a series of great concrete and steel stilts.

"A brief description of Harrelson Hall appearing in the last issue of State College News omits to say how many stories there are in this curious structure, but it has three levels of classrooms and offices, all reached by ramps instead of stairs or lifts. There are 77 classrooms with student capacity of from 20 to 200 and there are 112 offices for use of 167 faculty and staff members.

"This great classroom building was designed by members of State College's outstanding School of Design which has a great influence upon architecture in North Carolina and well beyond its borders. It rests in toward the middle of the sprawling campus and many visitors have observed its construction in various stages.

"It stands as a memorial to Dr. John Harrelson, the Cleveland county native who devoted most of his life to the advancement of the college and whose career was crowned by his administration as chancellor during the era of greatest expansion. It will rival the familiar Reynolds Coliseum for visitor attraction. From a distance it looks like a great white cake. It is another North Carolina 'First'."

Out of the 197 coeds enrolled this semester, 161 are living off campus in rented facilities, 32 with their parents, and four in the married students' housing. Twenty-eight of these are enrolled in agriculture, 9 in design, 54 in education, 11 in engineering, 2 in forestry, 29 physical sciences and applied math, 8 in textiles, 1 in the Agricultural Institute, 39 in general studies, and 16 unclassified graduates. Of this number, 114 are full-time students and 83 are part-time. They come from North Carolina, many from other states, and 15 foreign countries.

The coeds, who are outnumbered 34 to 1, are active in co-curricular activities along with their academic work. They participate in the Student Government, College Union, band, cheerleading, departmental clubs, and holding class offices. The Women's Campus Code Board, the Sigma Kappa Sorority and the newly formed Angel Flight are the only organizations solely for them.

State Cagers Stop Terps In Overtime

By Richie Williamson
Sports Editor

State's Wolfpack finished up their pre-holiday schedule with a 78-68 overtime victory over Maryland in College Park Tuesday night. It was win number two against one-loss for the cagers who also picked up their first conference win in two starts.

Gabe, Dellinger Sign With Pros

State College's first and second string quarterbacks have signed contracts to play professional football, it was announced this afternoon. Roman Gabriel inked a contract with the Los Angeles Rams for the next season, and Tom Dellinger signed with the Buffalo Bills of the American Football League.

No contract terms were given in the announcements but Gabriel stated, "I got much more than I expected." Gabe was a selection on everybody's All-America teams this year after he wound up a brilliant three year career at State. He will see action in two more games this year, the East-West Shrine Game on Dec. 30 and the Hula Bowl the following week.

Dellinger has been a defensive standout for the Wolfpack, being selected as the best defensive back in the conference last year. Buffalo General Manager Dick Gallagher said he considered Dellinger as being equal to Claude Gibson, a State star last year, who is rated as the best rookie defensive back in the pro league.

KA Wins Intramural Dixie Classic Crown

Kappa Alpha held off a last quarter rally by the Rebels to win the intramural Dixie Classics last night 39-34. Thus, KA replaces Tri-State, three time winners, as the champ of the basketball tourney.

The Rebels, down by as many as 17 points in the second half, closed the gap to 34-33 with two minutes to play. During this time, points in the overtime period to boost State past the Terps. He wound up the night with 25 points to lead all scorers, hitting on 8 of 15 from the floor and a perfect 9 for 9 from the line.

The contest was sent into overtime on a last second basket by Bruce Kelleher. State lead 62-60 with nine seconds remaining and Pete Auksel on the foul line with one-and-one. Auksel's first shot missed, and Russ Marvel rebounded for State. But Marvel's pass was intercepted by Kelleher who raced down the court and popped a 25-foot jump shot at the buzzer.

The overtime period began with Speaks and Maryland's Paul Jelus trading goals until Speaks sent State into the 70-68 lead, which was all that was needed. Auksel hit a free throw and John Pungner added a basket in the last second to sew up the game.

State had four men in double figures as Auksel hit for 15, Pungner 12, and Wherry 10 to go with Speaks' 25. Pungner pulled down 15 rebounds.

Wrestlers At Home Against Virginia

The Wolfpack wrestling team will take on the University of Virginia this Saturday afternoon at 4 o'clock in the new gym.

The State Matmen have lost their first two matches to Maryland and Pfeiffer. The Maryland - Wolfpack match was 30-0, while the Pfeiffer score was 19-11. In the Pfeiffer match, John Yeager, who was a bright prospect, was winning a match in the heavyweight division when he broke his ankle and the match was forfeited. Other stand-outs are Owen Simmons in the 167 pound class, and John Havas in the 157 pound class. The Matmen coached by Al Crawford will meet Carolins on January 6.

their man-to-man defense had kept KA from scoring a basket for eleven minutes. Then KA's Jim Spence hit on a layup and Scott Bowers hit a jumper to pull the game out.

KA held a slim two point lead at the end of the first period. In the second quarter they began to swish the net from all parts of the floor while the Rebels could not find the range. KA took a 28-15 lead at the half.

In the second half KA hit on two more quick goals to increase their lead to 17 points. The Rebels shifted to the man-to-man defense and began closing the gap. KA got only two freethrows during the next 11 minutes as the Rebels whittled the lead to one point.

Spence was high man for KA with 12 points while the high man for the night was the Rebels' Joel Gibson with 15 points.
