Completion Set For Fall Of '63

May Beginning Slated On Fraternity Row

Building will begin in May on the proposed Fraternity row for State College.

This was announced Monday by Thomas L. Covington, Assistant Director of Student Affairs. The new development will be located just South of Western Blvd. and behind the Army Reserve Building. The row will cost approximately 1.8 million dollars.

According to Covington, it is hoped that bids will be let in April and building started by May of this year. If everything goes as planned, Fraternity Row will be finished by fall of 1963.

Concerning the Row, Mr. Covington stated, "I think the row will provide an impetus to fraternities and benefit them and the college as a whole."

At present, twelve of the eighteen fraternities on campus plan to be located on Fraternity Row. Fraternities not participating will be Alpha Gamma Rho, Farmhouse, Sigma Pi, Phi Epsilon Pi, Delta Sigma Phi, and Theta Chi.

Each house will hold approximately 40 students and will be provided with the latest in modern facilities.

According to G. Milton Small, architect for the project, the houses will differ slightly in design, but be furnished with approximately the same facilities. Bids will be taken for the construction of the project as a whole, not for the construction of each house.

Honor Code Board Hears Fourth Case On Stolen Final

The Honor Code Board last night convicted the fourth student in a series of students tried for cheating on a Psychology final examination.

The student was suspended from school for the remainder of the semester and placed on probation through summer school.

All of the four students who have been tried have been convicted of obtaining answers from a stolen instructor's scoring key, according to Merrill Lefler, Honor Code Board chairman.

SG Meeting

The General Student Government will meet at 8 p.m. Thursday, March 1, in room 250 of the College Union. Freshman Senators will meet at 7 p.m. in room 250 of the College Union.

Sanford Speaks To Ag. Council

Governor Sanford arose from a sickbed last night to reaffirm his support of higher education in North Carolina.

He addressed a special meeting of the Agricultural Council in the Ballroom of the College Union. The audience consisted of about 100 students, teachers and others.

Though clearly ill, the Governor kept his speaking engagement, where he said that the lag in educational support in N. C. is due to the underfinancing that has been present since the war. He went on to say that N. C. is 48th in the nation in taxes expended for educational purposes.

The Governor also gave his full support and approval to the Food Processing Program currently being carried on by North Carolina State College.

As to what was going to be done concerning the building of dormitories and other buildings on college campuses, he made it clear that he felt it necessary for the people of North Carolina to understand that this has to be done.

Immediately following the Governor's address, questions from members of the audience were answered. One student asked Governor Sanford when he

Agreeing With Profs Not Always Good Says Diners Club

Should students always be expected to agree with teachers? "No," said a three man panel last night at the Freshman Diner's Club. "Professors should encourage open discussion at all times. This is one of the characteristics of a mature professor. However, students should be able to criticize professors without the professor knowing this. It's all a matter of the art of diplomacy."

This was the answer given last night by a panel of three to a question raised at the Freshman Diner's Club. The panel consisting of Dr. C. H. Hamilton, Dr. L. B. Rogers, and Dr. P. H. McDonald, discussed maturity and college experiences.

Included in the discussion, however, were matters such as lack of ambition in College, and lack of association among the students.

Concerning the lack of ambition, members of the panel stated, "A person goes to a secondary school for twelve years and then is faced with four to six more years of college. It is sur-

Student Legislature Meet Planned Here

North Carolina students will give their elders a preview of their state government of the future when they meet for the State Student Legislature next week at the Capitol.

The State Student Legislature which meets annually, brings together students from throughout the state who carry on mock meetings of the North Carolina Legislature.

State College this year will sponsor a bill before the bodies recommending that the selling of schoolwork to a student be considered a punishable misdemeanor.

State College Senators will be Jim Jones and Floyd McCall. Norris Tolson will be the alternate.

Representatives from State will be Dillard DeHart, Garland McAdoe, Peggy McConnell, Woodrow Taylor, Jack Jordan, Bill Jackson, Tom Taylor, Bill Liles, Lamar Thomas, John Curlee, Mike Lea, John Bynum, John Carr, Jim Cox, and Fred Lindsay. Ten of the students will be regular delegates and five will be alternates.

thought that full time students would become exempt from income taxes. The Governor replied by stating, "If the student is making that much money, he can afford to pay it (the tax). Most students are getting enough other benefits to offset it. I am against creating loopholes in tax statements, although I will admit that there are some situations that deserve special consideration."

The Governor's address was presented at a meeting of the Agricultural Council, a federation of departments of this college concerned with agriculture.

Board Of Trustees Weighs School Crisis

By Bill Jackson
"President Friday's report to the Board of Trustees yesterday was an important report in many respects. The fact that it called attention forcefully and clearly to the crisis in higher education was important, for the full dimensions of this crisis have not yet been faced."

With these words, State College Chancellor John T. Caldwell lauded the statement presented to the Board of Trustees of the Consolidated University by President William C. Friday.

The crisis referred to is the problem of space; Friday mentioned primarily school needs in the areas of student housing, research facilities, and classrooms for special use.

Noting that matters of curriculum and other more specific items are normally presented to the Executive Committee of the board, Caldwell reported that the proposal for a degree in the School of General Studies could possibly see action in the near future. "The Executive Committee has scheduled meetings in March and May," the chancellor commented. "The proposal is in President Friday's hands now, and I hope it will be presented at one of these meetings."

The trustees were told that the state's institutions of higher learning with a total current enrollment of over 75,000 would be confronted with estimated population of 103,000 in 1966. This is slightly more than a one-third increase in only four years.

Money Needs Reported To University Trustees

Almost $4 million of construction work which must be temporarily denied State College due to failure of the bond issue in November was one of the points of concern Monday as the Visiting Committee made its report to the Consolidated University Board of Trustees.

Also mentioned in the committee report is the rising cost of education which the State College student faces. The report pointed out that a survey of 28 land-grant schools places State College costs at the top of the list.

In still another part of the report, the Committee condemned two State buildings as in terrible condition. Pullen Hall, according to the report, has been "rightfully condemned from the standpoint of safety." Tompkins was described as "most unattractive, badly in need of repair, and a real eyesore on the Campus."

In reference to rising student costs the committee stated that ability to pay should never become a condition of admission to the Greater University. The group suggested that it is poor economy for North Carolina to cut corners when a little extra money in higher education facilities can make the difference in education for leadership.

CU To Present College Choir

The fifty-two voice High Point College Choir will present a program of sacred and popular music in the College Union ballroom Sunday, March 4, at 8 p.m.

The High Point College Homecoming Queen, who is singing with the choir, will present her act of Broadway and spiritual numbers.

The program is sponsored by the College Union music committee and is open to the public.

The report also tabbed the University faculty pay scale for further study in order to compete with other schools of higher education for competent faculty members and administrators.

Gas Fire Threatens Sigma Phi Epsilon; Pranksters Escape

The Sigma Phi Epsilon fraternity house faced possible destruction early Monday morning as a gasoline fire blazed across the lawn.

According to Jack Watson, Sig Ep president, the fire occurred around 1:30 a.m. It was started by a young unidentified boy.

Watson said that the fire was first noticed by some of the fraternity brothers who were holding an executive committee meeting in the house. The brothers rushed out into the drizzling rain where there was a streak of fire blazing several feet high across the front lawn. The fire was spreading to the Sigma Chi lawn which adjoins the Sig Ep lawn.

Watson said that he chased the London Fog-clad lad several yards down the street where two boys in a 1961 white Ford were waiting for the fleeing prankster. Watson jumped for the boy and landed in the open door. He was dragged fifteen to twenty yards before the car turned a corner and threw him forward. Watson suffered minor bodily injuries.

Watson and the brothers who had been following close behind then returned to the house and called the police. The arsonists were last seen going down Hillsboro Street.

No serious damage was done to the property of (See FIRE, page 4)

The board later decided that out-of-state students, who now compose approximately 15 per cent of the students registered, will be allowed to enter North Carolina schools in the future.

The visiting committee to the board expressed its sentiment at the conclusion of its report in this way: "to attain excellence requires strong effort, and to maintain eminence once attained requires constant and continuous qualitative growth."

Dream Girl Named

Mrs. Diane Oldham was crowned Dream Girl of '62-63 by Theta Chi Fraternity last weekend at the annual Dream Girl Ball held at the Plantation Inn. Mrs. Oldham, wife of one of the brothers of the fraternity, will go to Theta Chi Regional Mason-Dixon Jubilee in Richmond, Va., on March 17 as Delta Rho Chapter's candidate for Regional Dream Girl.

Not Two --- One

State College will play only one "home" game in Charlotte next year; the other in the two-game series with UNC, USC, and Clemson will be an "away" game.

According to Chancellor Caldwell's statement to the Raleigh newspapers dated February 18, a copy of which we received yesterday (February 27), our administration would prefer to play the home games at our own Coliseum. And this makes cents.

The situation all began when it was learned that the University of North Carolina athletic officials had already signed contracts with the South Carolina schools for the double-double-header. In order to preserve the spirit of good will and cooperation between State and the other ACC schools, the decision was made to go ahead and join the Charlotte project.

This will be a treat for alumni and other friends of the college who live in the Mecklenburg County area. Raleighites will be in a better basketball situation, also, since there will be an increase in the number of games played here next winter.

The word from Holladay Hall is that all home games will be played in Raleigh when the next schedules are made two years from now. Although the Charlotte alumni will have to get their kicks some other way, the players and other students at State will probably appreciate the change.

Home games at home reduce the number of classes missed by the players and the strain of traveling a couple of hundred miles. This may not be considered by our athletic programmers, but it should be. After all, the basketball team belongs almost as much to the players and other members of the campus group as it does to the alumni, even if they do pay for it.

It is nice to find out what conditions surrounded the decision to play again in Charlotte and to understand why the choice was made. It was a very reasonable move, even if little attempt was made to clear up the issue before misunderstandings from different fronts arose.

Thanks for letting us know.

Five NCS Buildings Named

By Bill Bryan

The names of five men and women will never be forgotten while State College stands.

The new gymnasium will stand as a memorial to the late William D. Carmichael Jr., vice president and acting head of the Consolidated University for many years. He was a native of Durham and graduated from UNC. While in school he was captain of the basketball team and later became an ardent supporter of university athletics.

The College Union will bear the names of two men largely responsible for its existence today. The new name will honor the late Jerry Erdahl, organizer and first director of the Union, as well as Edward L. Cloyd, former Dean of Students here.

Cloyd served in this position for 39 years before his retirement in 1957. He is the man who first conceived the idea for the CU.

Erdahl served at State from 1949 up until his recent death. During this time he also served a president of the International Association of College Unions.

The new Married Student Housing will bear the name of Miss Jane McKinnon, who for more than 30 years served the College in the Agricultural Extension Service. She retired in 1946 and passed on in 1957 at the age of 90.

The proposed new Civil Engineering building will bear the name of Prof Carroll L. Mann.

Publication Policy

Material submitted to this newspaper for publications should be typed in 62 character lines and double-spaced. This includes announcements of meetings and other events, which should be addressed to Campus Crier.

Letters to the editor must be typed as stated above and signed by the writer. No materials can be returned with the exception of photographs.

For Next Year Scholarships Available

Scholarship applications for next year are now available at Holladay Hall.

Dr. Kingston Johns, Jr., Director of the Financial Aid Office told of ways students may apply for scholarships today.

Students may secure the new application forms from the Financial Aid Office, 207 Holladay Hall. The completed application must be returned by March 30.

The same application will also entitle a student to consideration for grants-in-aid and/or long-term loans for next year.

Students should apply immediately in order to be considered for all monetary benefits. Most competitive scholarships will be awarded before the end of the spring semester. Grants and loans are usually awarded later.

Students already receiving grants and loans are required to submit new applications each year, Dr. Johns pointed out. Also, rising sophomores who were awarded one-year Talent For Service Scholarships must reapply to receive assistance for 1962-63.

Most competitive scholarships are awarded on the basis of the following qualifications: an average of "B" or better, good records of citizenship and leadership potential, and evidence of financial need. Some of the competitive scholarships available are listed here:

One National Starch and Chemical Corporation Scholarship of $500 for a junior in Chemistry, Chemical Engineering, or Textile Chemistry. Three Texaco Scholarships of varying amounts for juniors and seniors. One Superior Cable Corporation Scholarship of $600 for a junior. Two Radio Corporation of America Scholarships of $400 for seniors in engineering or science. One Collier Cobb and Associates Scholarship of $500 for a junior in Civil Engineering including the construction option.

In the School of Agriculture, some of the scholarships available are:

Several Food Science Scholarships of $200 to $500 for upperclassmen in Food Science and Processing.

The Ralston-Purina Scholarship of $500 for seniors.

The Surtman Foundation Scholarship of $300 for a sophomore in Agricultural Engineering.

Some of the Engineering Scholarships are:

One Trane Company Scholarship of $500 for a senior in Mechanical Engineering.

The L. A. Mahler Scholarship of $200 for a senior in Electrical Engineering.

The L. W. Cartwright Scholarship of $200 for a junior or senior in any curriculum.

The existing Daniels-Mann Hall will be known as Daniels Hall in the future in honor of the late Josephus Daniels.

Those names were approved in a recent meeting of the trustees of the Consolidated University of North Carolina.

ACC Dribble Derby In Coliseum This Weekend

State Clashes With Clemson In Opener

The grueling three day ACC basketball tournament gets underway at 2 o'clock tomorrow afternoon in the Reynolds Coliseum with State and Clemson pairing off for the first contest. The second afternoon contest features Duke against Maryland.

The three day tourney decides the winner of the conference despite what a team may have done in the regular season. The winner also represents the conference in the Eastern Regional Playoffs in the long battle for the NCAA title.

The hoopsters meet continues on Thursday night with another twin bill scheduled. The opener is at 7:30 between Wake Forest, regular season winner, and last place Virginia. The night-cap matches North Carolina with South Carolina.

The semi-finals will be on Friday night with the two Thursday night winners playing the first game. The afternoon winners on Thursday will meet in the second game. The finals will be Saturday night at 8 p.m.

The favorite's role could easily be delegated to any one of the top three teams in the regular league standings, Wake, Duke, or State. Even South Carolina, which gained the reputation of being a spoiler, rates as a darkhorse to win. A lot will be determined on the basis of which team can be up for three straight games.

State has a slight advantage with the home court plus late season spurge on that court. The Deacons were the best against all competition during the season and with Len Chappell on a hot streak, they will be hard to handle. Meanwhile, Art Heyman has recovered from his ankle injury to rejoin the one-two punch with Jeff Mullins to give the Blue Devils plenty of hopes.

South Carolina has been up and down during the season but have constantly been a threat to win on a given night. The Tar Heels started off the season fast but slowed in the finish; they could get their hot shooters going again with the boost from soph Charlie Shaffer who has provided the spark in the last few games.

State will try to resume their pace against Clemson with the shooting of Speaks and Pungler and the play-making of Rohloff. Clemson starts an all sophomore team that has gained a lot of experience through the season paced by Jim Brennan and Nick Milasnovich.

Intramural Open Golf Tourney Begins

The qualifying rounds for the State intramural open golf tournament will begin on Thursday, March 1, at the Wildwood Golf Course. The tournament is open to all State students with bracketing in ten flights for the qualifiers.

Golfers will have from Thursday until the last day of March to play 27 holes for their qualifying scores. These rounds must be played with at least two other people to attest the score although these people do not have to be entered in the tournament themselves.

The ten flights will be paired off for match play in the first days of April for the determining of the flight champion. Trophies will be furnished by the intramural department to the winners in each flight.

In addition, the top three men in the tournament also will be selected to represent State in the Big Four Sports Day to be held later this year.

Entry fee for the tournament will be one dollar per person which will be refunded at the end of the tournament if the player does not forfeit a match. Green fees for the rounds at Wildwood are seventy-five cents.

Players must notify the pro at Wildwood when he is going to play a qualifying round and must turn in his score at the end of each nine holes. Everyone has a month in which to qualify for the different flight bracketing.

All-ACC Team Named

With the end of the basketball season soon in sight, all of the major polls begin selecting their all-ACC team. The Technician sports staff also joins the ranks of the many in sticking its neck out to select what it believes to be the ten best performers in the conference this past season. Also, since the ACC is a grooming ground for great players, the staff selected an all-ACC sophomore team.

Leading the team selection were the two players who received All-America awards in the past season, Len Chappell and Art Heyman. The big 6-8, 240, Chappell again won the conference scoring crown.

Heyman was the runner-up in the scoring honors after an ankle injury dropped him from the top spot which he held most of the season.

Rounding out the first team are Jeff Mullins of Duke, Art Whisnant of South Carolina, and Jon Speaks of State. Mullins is the only sophomore on the first team as the Lexington, Ky., lad teamed with Heyman to provide the two-man scoring title for Duke. Speaks is also from Lexington and together with Mullins form a duo known as the "fish that got away" from Adolph Rupp at Kentucky. Whisnant is the only southern boy on either the first or second team.

The second unit consists of Tony Laquintano of Virginia, Larry Brown and Jim Hudock of Carolina, John Pungler of State, and Jim Brennan of Clemson. This group is made up similarly to the first team in that there are two seniors, two juniors, and a sophomore.

Since Mullins was a first team choice and Brennan a second team member, these two easily led the selection of the best sophomores in the league. The rest of the selections were not so easy, and the staff selected six men for the honor.

Joining these two on the squad of stars to watch are Jay Buckley of Duke, Charlie Shaffer of Carolina, Pete Aukel of State, and Nick Milasnovich of Clemson.

Car Hits Winston Hall

A blue, 1955 Ford rolled down the embankment at the west end of Winston Hall and smashed into the end of the building at about 6:50 p.m. Tuesday night.

At the time, the car was parked in the west side of the parking lot at the end of Winston. It started rolling, gathered speed as it crossed the parking lot, and sped to the wall of room 4 of Winston.

Nobody was in the car at the time. A Raleigh Policeman who was investigating the accident said that the car could be counted as a total loss. There was no visible damage to Winston. The car was pulled up the embankment at 8 p.m.

The owner of the car was Dr. Sidney Louis Kaitz, a resident of Raleigh and retired army doctor. He was on campus as an extension student taking a course toward a degree in business administration.
