CE Head Named Engineering Dean

Dr. Fadum Replaces Lampe After 13 Years With CE

By Allen Lennon
Dr. Ralph E. Fadum was today appointed the new dean of the School of Engineering.

The announcement of Fadum's selection was made today by Chancellor Caldwell following the meeting of the executive committee of the Consolidated University's Board of Trustees.

Dr. Fadum, who has been head of the State College Civil Engineering Department for the past thirteen years, will succeed retiring Dean J. Harold Lampe, who has held the post for the past seventeen years.

In announcing Fadum's appointment, Chancellor Caldwell remarked, "Dr. Ralph Fadum's name was recommended to us for top consideration by leading people in engineering literally from coast to coast. In the long and thorough selection process, our own judgment was increasingly confirmed that we already had on hand an engineer-scientist of national stature in whom we could with confidence vest the deanship."

Dr. Fadum, a native of Pittsburgh, Pennsylvania, received his B.S. in Civil Engineering from the University of Illinois, and later received his M.S. and doctorate degree at Harvard. He has held teaching positions at Harvard and Purdue, as well as consulting jobs with many industries and government agencies.

One of Fadum's primary interests has been in the field of soil mechanics. He is the author of several technical papers on the subject, and has done extensive research in this field.

In 1958, Dr. Fadum visited the Soviet Union as a member of an eight-man exchange mission on engineering education.

Fadum's appointment will be effective July 1.

In Nelson Hall

Shelters Postponed

The three fallout areas in Nelson Hall are inoperative at the present time.

According to L. T. Caruthers, State College radiological safety officer, this fact was brought out when a State College engineer from the Planning Department stated that water can not be taken from the new gym to Nelson Hall through the underground tunnels.

Caruthers said that the old style water containers are impractical to fill because they burst after a short time. He added that the federal government is supposed to supply newly designed containers as soon as possible. However, he stated, "I have no idea when the new containers will arrive. Knowing the federal government, it could take a long time."

Caruthers has stated in a previous issue of The Technician that water could be carried through underground service tunnels from the new gym to Nelson. However, the college engineer stated that there are no tunnels in existence that go all the way from Nelson to the new gym. The engineer went on to say that even if such tunnels did exist, the steam pipes would make them too hot for water to travel in.

If an emergency should arise at the present time, the water in the swimming pool could be used for the gym fallout areas, according to Caruthers. This leaves the college with an operating shelter capacity of 1,870 persons.

Campus Board To Try Students In Dorm Scandal

The fate of the students involved in the mystery girl incident in Welch dormitory will be decided Thursday.

According to Tom Covington, assistant director of Student Activities, the boys will be tried by the Campus Code Board.

Last Thursday the Campus Code Board charged three students from Becton dormitory with entertaining a woman in their room, Covington said. One student received a reprimand, another was put on probation through the fall semester, and the third student was put on probation through the spring semester.

Last Chance

Students who have not picked up their Agromecks should do so Wednesday, May 16, at the rear of the Y.M.C.A. from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. This will be the last opportunity.

Run-offs Decide Remaining Offices

John Carr copped the Student Government position of secretary in the run-off elections held last Thursday. He defeated his opponent, Peggy McConnell, in a close contest.

In the senior class elections, Frank Smith and Jim Rhodes tied for the position of president with 135 votes each. Smith, however, withdrew from the race, thereby awarding the office to Rhodes. Joe Carpenter won over Bob Griffith for the treasurer post. Pom Sinnock and Tom Miller became the Honor Code Board representatives while Smedes York and Al Taylor were chosen as representatives for the senior athletics council over Bob Long.

Benny Phillips won the race for junior class president over Tom Lenderink, while Ed Aycoth took the position of vice president from Mike Long. In the run-off for secretary, Lynn Spruill defeated Mike Pope. Rhonnie Smith won the office of treasurer over James Rutledge while Steve Henderson, Tom McConnell, and James Rutledge became the Campus Code Board representatives.

Blending Of Technology, Humanities Proposed

By Jerry Jackson
A long-awaited degree in the School of General Studies approached actuality today.

The Executive Committee of the Board of Trustees of the Consolidated University, meeting in the Governor's office, gave final approval to the measure proposed by Chancellor Caldwell and Dr. Fred V. Cahill, Jr., dean of the School of General Studies.

According to Dean Cahill, the new curriculum leading to a Bachelor of Science degree, which has been in the planning stages for years, has been approved within the administration of the University and by the Board of Trustees and now needs only approval by the State Board of Higher Education. If the measure passes the State Board, the program can begin in the fall.

The degree will require from 126 to 130 credits in addition to those received in physical education and ROTC. A student working towards this degree will acquire a basic engineering training in his first two years. A few surprises which are included in the basic requirements of the new program are a year of modern language and a semester each of botany and zoology.

The last two years of study will provide the student with detailed study in two major areas. These course concentrations will be in both technical subjects and the humanities. Proposed areas for specialization include economics, English, political science, sociology, history, engineering science, physics, chemistry, geology, zoology, botany, experimental statistics, applied mathematics, and genetics.

Commenting on the Board's approval of the new degree, Dean Cahill said, "The installation of a degree in General Studies will increase our usefulness to the state and is an important move toward an even more complete utilization of the capabilities of the faculty of the School of General Studies."

In a statement prepared for the Board of Trustees, Dean Cahill also said, "The graduate of this program will enjoy a wide range of opportunities. He will be excellently equipped for graduate study in either of two fields; he may elect to add to his technological specialty and he would be very well based for either medicine or law, and he ought to find many openings in industry."

Of English Department

Writer To Join Staff

A North Carolina writer will join the State College English Department next year.

The Board of Trustees announced today that Guy Owen, the author of a novel and writer of a number of poems and short stories, will be an associate professor of English next year.

His novel, Season of Fear, which is set in eastern North Carolina, has gain critical approval.

He attended Carolina and received his Bachelor's Degree in 1947, his Master's in 1949, and his Ph. D. in 1955.

He is currently an associate professor at Stetson University in Florida.

Besides his novel, Owen has edited Southern Poetry Today and written Cape Fear Country and Other Poems, a collection of some of his poetry. His short stories have appeared in the Carolina Quarterly, the Stetson Review, and many other magazines. Owen is also the editor and founder of a semi-annual poetry magazine.

Tolson Named Outstanding Senior

Student Government President Norris Tolson was awarded the outstanding senior trophy last Friday night at the Junior-Senior Dance.

This award given annually by the Blue Key leadership honor society, is presented to the senior "who has distinguished himself as the foremost citizen of his class."

Tolson's activities include the following: Alpha Zeta; Thirty and Three; Golden Chain; Blue Key; Student Government Vice-President; chairman of the orientation commission; president of the Student Subdivision Agronomy; Agronomy Club; of the American Society of and the Apollo Club.

In the accompanying photograph, Blue Key President Ervin Lineberger (right) presents the award to Tolson.

Take 1 Giant Step

The news today is big for North Carolina State College. It is the story of a fine institution growing even stronger.

The proposed Bachelor of Science degree in the School of General Studies cleared a big hurdle by meeting approval from the university's Board of Trustees today. The people who are familiar with the tentative program have high hopes that the final go-ahead, from the Board of Higher Education, will be obtained before graduating seniors leave the campus.

The establishment of B.S. degrees in the general studies will certainly be a tribute to both the technical and non-technical education which are available on our campus at the present time.

The project would have had no hope for success if the quality of the General Studies faculty and the level of instruction presented by them were not high. From the student viewpoint, it is amazing that State College has been able to attract and keep, even for a while, the well-qualified and capable personnel in General Studies without the power for them to grant degrees.

Keeping top-level educators on any college campus is at best a difficult proposition; having a bachelor level degree will not solve this problem for the School of General Studies, but it will definitely help.

The development of the planned General Studies curricula will aid today's technically-oriented but often technically-uninformed society. Graduates of this program will be well acquainted with the world of calculus and the slide rule and at the same time will have the abilities of communication and reasoning which are products of the more liberal studies.

The proposed bachelor's degree will be a good education in itself; with ease it can lead to additional training in almost any field—law, medicine, business, the sciences, or the arts. It will not be an easy path to follow, and State College will surely benefit from the top students it will attract.

Some of them might even be girls.

Look No Farther

The Board of Trustees also confirmed another decision which is of special importance to State College: the appointment of Dr. Ralph FADUM, the present head of the Civil Engineering department, to the post of dean of the School of Engineering.

It is certainly no small job to direct the research and instruction activities of the largest of the college's schools, with an enrollment right at 3500. Many top-flight educators were considered for the position; we understand that the selection committee appraised recommendations from coast to coast. Dr. Fadum's reputation, informed sources told us, was as high in many other parts of the country as it is at State College.

We should all be bursting with pride at the confidence shown in our faculty and staff in the Board of Trustees' actions today. The men involved would certainly be proud—if they weren't busy looking ahead to the challenges the future will present.

Letter To Editor

Traffic Problem Aired

To The Editor:

"North Carolina State College—Speed 20 m.p.h.; park in marked places only." That's what all the signs of greeting say at all the main entrances to our campus. What a heart-warming greeting to the campus of one of the nation's most outstanding technical schools! Any yet it is quite in keeping with the traffic neurosis that exists on this campus.

When I first came to State College, having heard so much about its reputation for research and experiment expected to find the ideal traffic organization. Instead, it's exactly the other way around: I know of no situation anywhere that can compare with the confused, misguided, almost malicious traffic organization that exists on this campus.

The examples I could quote to reinforce this viewpoint are many. To satisfactorily substantiate my criticism, I'd like to give a few examples.

The number of one-way streets and their relative positions makes it almost impossible to get to the heart of the classroom section without endless and confusing maze wandering. It must be very confusing for first-time visitors.

There is no yield-right-of-way sign, stop sign, or any other indicator for persons on the wide new entrance from Western Boulevard where that street intersects in a T at Carmichael Gymnasium. I know a student that could have been killed in an incident there.

The speed limit is so unrealistic it's ridiculous. In the old part of the campus with its narrow, twisting streets and heavy pedestrian traffic, 20 m.p.h. is perfectly reasonable, but on most of the streets in the dormitory section such a speed limit is absurd. There is absolutely no reason why a speed limit of 35 m.p.h. should not be allowed.

The four-way stop at Bragg—why? There isn't that much traffic coming from the dorms. There should be a stop sign only for those cars coming from the dormitories while the cross-campus would not have to stop.

Since math and social studies have moved to Harrelson Hall, there is plenty of parking space in the Tompkins-Winston area for faculty in that section, and yet the space behind Holladay is reserved for faculty also. There are not even temporary parking spaces for student who have to pay bills or attend to important matters.

Then comes the arch insult to reason—The Tucker-Owen gate mess. M & O, as usual, has tried to be as bull-headed as possible about the whole affair. The destruction of those gates appears at first hand to have been an act of irresponsibility, but how else can the stupidity of M & O be combated? Now the traffic planning committee plans a new gate system for next year, and several asphalt humps in the road to regulate speed. How silly can you get? I have one question: what next?

A survey conducted by The Technician showed that students in that area preferred having a free flow of traffic at all hours, yet the IDC and traffic planning committee have the gall to claim their efforts are consistent with student wishes and welfare. The actions of the IDC show self-importance more than anything else.

Is this example merely a case of an unfortunate mistake on the part of IDC representatives, or, having seen the similar case of senior exemptions vs. the Faculty Senate and that group's irresponsible failure to heed both student and remaining faculty wishes, is it an indication of a growing trend of flagrant disregard of our campus representatives on councils and boards for the desires and interests of the people they claim to represent?

If there can be any real justification for the fouled up traffic situation on this campus, I want to hear those responsible stand up and defend it. And, on the other side, I'm sure there are many others on this campus who share my views. This isn't just a gripe for the sake of griping: it's an important problem that ought to be corrected.

Panama Canal Obsolete

By Doug Lients

"The present Panama Canal is obsolete, and a new one must be built. Your technicians know this, your government knows this, and Panama's government knows this."

Thus Dr. Cesar Quintero, Panamanian ambassador to the United Nations, stated the primary problem concerning the Panama Canal at the present time, in his lecture in the College Union Ballroom last night.

He clarified the problem by saying that the United States had acknowledged the canal as having been built, in a treaty signed in 1936. He explained that this, along with the treaty authorizing the canal, made a new treaty necessary whenever a new canal is built or a major change is made in the old one.

Continuing, he said that one of the things that Panamanians dislike about U. S. administration of the canal is the state of total socialism which is maintained there. This gives the U. S. owned stores a great advantage over the Panamanian merchants, as the U. S. doesn't pay taxes to itself, according to Dr. Quintero.

As an example of this, he said that the price of a gallon of gasoline is 39 cents in Panama, but 11 cents in the Canal Zone.

Some additional problems which he listed included the difficulties concerning paying Panamanian workers the same salaries as American workers doing the same jobs, and the American importation of cheap, non-American products.

When questioned after his talk, he said that he felt that Panama would not be able to build the new canal, which is to be a sea-level canal, on its own.

He also said that there would be a danger of revolution if the arrangements for the new canal caused excessively great internal changes in Panama. In connection with this, he gave a six-step formula for revolutions, and said that Panama had all of the things necessary except the leaders and a crisis to set it off.

Wolfpack Active In Four ACC Sports Over Weekend

The past weekend was a busy one for the State athletes as they participated in three conference tournaments and played two conference baseball games.

The ACC tennis tourney held on the State courts drew a large crowd for the three day session. The golf team went to Wake Forest for their tourney, and the track team participated in the conference meet at South Carolina.

At the same time the baseball team made its southern trip to South Carolina and Clemson, gaining an even split in the two games.

Sokol Wins

A Carolina sophomore, George Sokol of Bryn Mawr, Pa., stroked his way to the singles championship in the net tourney before 400 spectators on Saturday afternoon. His ground game was exceptionally strong as he committed a bare number of errors in downing Bobby Burns of Clemson 6-1, 6-4.

Another Carolina duo of sophomores, Bitsy Harrison and Ted Hoehn, upset the second and third seeded teams to capture the doubles crown. They beat Bruce Farrell and Dave Dickenson of Virginia 1-6, 6-2, 7-5 in the finals. It was the second time that the Cavalier team had been runnerup in the doubles.

The Tar Heels had little trouble in winning the Kenfield Trophy for top team in the tourney. They totalled 27 points to 17 for Clemson. State finished sixth with 6 points.

The best showing for the Wolfpack was made by the doubles combination of Mustaq Saigal and Jim Hart, who won two matches before being eliminated. Jim Emmons and Chuck Hyatt won their first round match in the doubles.

In singles competition, three of State's eight men won in the first round, but none of them made it past the second round. Hart, Emmons, and Jim Lore recorded singles victories. Saigal was upset in the first round by Doug Stewart of Clemson in three sets. One of the best showings was made by Hyatt who extended Burns to three sets in the opening round before losing.

Maryland Repeats

The Terps of Maryland romped to their seventh straight outdoor track title in the conference meet at South Carolina. They scored 77½ points with seven first places in the 16 events to easily outdistance runnerup Carolina's 48 points.

State finished last in the meet, getting only two points on the basis of two fifth places. Ed Moneyhan tossed the javelin for a fifth place, and Bill Peabody got a fifth in the pole vault.

Golf Tourney

Duke retained its golf title with a winning team score of 587 for 36 holes by their four man team. Carolina was seven strokes back for second place.

State placed seventh in the meet with a total of 629 strokes. Low man for the Pack was Tom Coffey with 75-78 for a 153 score. John Marcum had 157, Jerry Mangum 158, and Hodges Hackney 161 to complete the State scoring.

Conner Stars

Bobby Conner pitched a sparkling four hitter against Clemson as State edged out a 1-0 win. Les Young supplied the winning run with a home run in the eight inning as the Pack only got three hits off Dave Olsen.

Conner silenced a strong batting Tiger team that had scored 38 runs in its last two games. He struck out seven and walked only one in building up his lead in the earned run department.

Young also connected for two home runs against South Carolina, but it was not enough as the Gamecocks won 12-10.

The Gamecocks got to starter John Boughan for seven runs in the first two innings and held off a late Pack rally sparked by four homers. However, three of the homers came with the bases empty.

Our future is in the hands of men not yet hired

At Western Electric we play a vital role in helping meet the complex needs of America's vast communications networks. And a career at Western Electric, the manufacturing arm of the nation-wide Bell Telephone System, offers young men the exciting opportunity to help us meet these important needs.

Today, Western Electric equipment reduces thousands of miles to fractions of seconds. Even so, we know that our present communications systems will be inadequate tomorrow; and we are seeking ways to keep up with—and anticipate—the future. For instance, right now Western Electric engineers are working on various phases of solar cell manufacture, miniaturization, data transmission, futuristic telephones, electronic central offices, and computer-controlled production lines—to name just a few.

To perfect the work now in progress and launch many new communications products, projects, procedures, and processes not yet in the mind of man—we need quality-minded engineers. If you feel that you can meet our standards, consider the opportunities offered by working with our company. In a few short years, you will be Western Electric.

Challenging opportunities exist now at Western Electric for electrical, mechanical, industrial, and chemical engineers, as well as physical science, liberal arts, and business majors. All qualified applicants will receive careful consideration for employment without regard to race, creed, color or national origin. For more information about Western Electric, write College Relations, Western Electric Company, Room 6206, 222 Broadway, New York 38, New York. And be sure to arrange for a Western Electric interview when our college representatives visit your campus.
