Racial Strife, Curfew Continue Over Weekend

Marches, Sit In

Initiate Turmoil

by Brick Miller

An incident between approximately 30 students from Shaw University on a mourning march-for Martin Luther King, Jr. and Raleigh Police units Thursday night on Federal St., has plunged the city into turmoil that is still continuing at this time.

The dusk to dawn curfew issued by Mayor Travis Tom-linson is still in effect and is being upheld by police units and more than 1300 National Guard troops that are still in Raleigh.

According to Dr. James E. Cheek, president of Shaw University, the police halted the marches and then drove them tack to Shaw. He said, "There was no riot up to this point. If we had a riot in Raleigh, it was because of the police."

When the students returned when the students returned of the Shaw campus, Cheek bok the entire student body to the gymnasium to calm hem down. He also asked the olice to withdraw to prevent thimidation of the students.

According to Cheek, when the students left the gym to return to their dormitories, a shot rang out from the direction of the 50 or so police who were lined up across South St. from the Shaw campus and a car was seen on fire in this direction. "The presence of the police only served to keep the situation tense," he said.

The students then tried to charge the north gate of the campus but were driven back by police. They then proceeded to stone Weaver Brothers' Rambler Used Car lot.

Cheek said, "One student was shot at this time, but the was shot at this time, but the received a minor wound and was released the next day." Neither major Wake County hospital—would comment concerning any injuries in the demonstrations.

The Rescue Mission ware-house on South Blount St. was leveled by fire following the in-cidents at Shaw, but the cause of the fire is still unknown.

Friday morning, a group of students from St. Augustine's college staged a march from the St. Augustine campus to Memorial Auditorium when they held a sit-in in memory of Martin Luther King. It was broken up by National Guards with fixed bayonets and tear gas.

"In light of the highly charged situation," stated Dr. Pressel Robinson, president of St. Augustine's, "I have started our Easter vacation early."

"Non-violence has not failed, but this country has a great challenge to meet unless it wishes to face the violence of the radicals. Positive action is needed," he concluded.

Nation Hit By Violence

While Raleigh bit its nails through the weekend's tense truce, the rest of the state and nation was not so fortu-

In Chapel Hill, a group of ack students marched to the downtown area where they purchased six Confederate flags. Some of these were burned in front of Kappa Alpha fraternity house at the Apparameterinty nodes at the compus.

A cross and flowers were arranged in Polk Place by a peaceful group of demonstrators Friday. Late that night or Saturday morning the makeshift memorial was deceased.

Eleven fires were set in Durham Saturday night, all near 11 p.m., which coincides with the local police's change of shift. $250,000 in damage was done to Couch Furniture Co., and the Colonial Store there received heavy damage. Negroes were seen throwing fire bombs from cars, and all available police were at work. Capitol Hill was under machine gunners' guard through the weekend as troops tried to keep order in D. C. Three were killed by a Negro in an Indianapolis. Church yesterday, then police shot the murderer.

A "recommendation to Governor Dan K. Moore from concerned white students and faculty of North Carolina" was presented to George Y. Ragsdale, Jr., legal assistant to the governor, in front of the State House yesterday afternoon by David Campbell, Statefreshman in Liberal Arts. Campbell was representing a group of white students who had assembled at the legislature's chamber following unsuccessful attempts to march from the State campus.

The group originally had asked for a conference with the governor to present the list of grievenees.

Ragsdale told the group, "You must realize that the governor is a very busy man, that he has eriormous responsibilities."

"The governor will see the that he has enormous responsibilities."

"The governor will see the petition," he pledged.
Earlier in the day about 200 students and faculty, some from State, others from Chapel Hill and Durham, had gathered on University Plaza to begin a march which had been planned at meetings Friday and Saturday.

The march was to be an attempt to show the Negro community that concern exists among whites by presenting written grievances to the governor.

Lining up two-by two the demonstrators, most of them well-dressed, were told by their organizers not to speak to anyone outside the group and under no conditions to resist arrest. Above: a group of white marchers organize on University-plaza while Raleigh's second major fire hits a seed warehouse late Sunday afternoon. Below: A burning warehouse, the influx of national guard troops, and empty streets brought racial violence home to Raleigh.

Quiet, Calm, Frustrating

parcipitation. But underneath the reality of empty streets were deep feelings of frustration.

Approximately 200 State students and faculty gathered to march with one purpose in mind: something must be done.

As the line of march formed there was a sense of dignity as well as a sense of purpose. The majority were dressed as if they were on their way to church. Many felt that the march was more important than any church service they had ever attended.

The risk of arrest was in the air. Some felt that if necessary, they would go to jail to show the courage of their convictions. Others decided to disperse if confronted by police.

Conversation was minimal as the march began, Minds were filled with emotions of "Something must be done. Why can't this country realize that a crisis is approaching. Yesterday is gone. The Negro people feel that the death of Martin Luther King is more serious than the death of John F. Kennedy. A white man can only try to remember what he felt when he heard the fateful news—"The President has been assassinated."

A feeling of shock that this is actually happening in Raleigh, N. C. was in the air. Everybody had seen the newareels of armed troops in Newark and Detroit, but that was far away. You realized how wrong the average citizen is who says, "It can't happen here"—and then you think that, "dammit its' happening here." It's a sickening feeling to see armed guards in the capital—complete with bayonets and Mace. A helicopter, probably the same as those used in Vietnam, circled the air. Two buses drive around to be used as paddy wagons. Many marchers realized that perhaps the roman but its right here in Raleigh, Goldsboro, Salisbury, Chicago, Washington, Detroit, Mainstreet, USA—right in front of your own complacent house.

The final feeling of frustration came at the State House. Governor Dan K. Moore did not even come to receive the demands of a group of concerned white citizens. "He sent a minor clerk. HE DOESN'T EVEN CARE."

Governor Moore did not come to the Memorial service at Memorial Auditorium either. It was almost sickening to think that, "this is a service for the man who was almost a God to better than 15% of the people of North Carolina and Dan Moore didn't even show up, When will the people of this state wake up?"

Proceeding from the plaza, behind the library and toward Winston Hall, they appeared headed for confrontation with the National Guard and/or Raleigh police.

A National Guard plane hovered overhead and police "paddy wagons" and other cars and jeeps stood ready for action. Wes McClure, student body president, told the Technician that he had received a call from National Guard Intelligence and that plans were to arrest the demonstrators if they went off-campus. Paddy wagons and National Guard Intelligence and that plans were to arrest the demonstrators if they went off-campus. Paddy wagons and National Guard troops were assembled along with two buses at the Velvet Cloak Motel on Hillsboro awaiting possible alert.

When the group reached the east corner of Winston Hall it was stopped by police who ordered them to disperse. Chancellor John T. Caldwell then took the police microphone and told the crowd that "the University supports fully attempts by the mayor to keep the peace."

"I wept tears when Martin Luther King died; I loved that man. But you don't have to demonstrate by breaking the law. Make your requests and disperse, or you will be arrested."

Runoffs May Be Tomorrow

Run-off elections are scheduled for tomorrow, contingent upon the acceptance of the validity of last week's primary during an Honor Code Board meeting last night.

If the elections are held, 32 positions will be decided. All students will vote on the Alumni Award winner.

Nine executive positions will be decided senior class president, senior vice president, senior womens CCB representative, senior womens CCB representative, senior womens CCB representative, two sophomore Hor presentative, two sophomore Hor presentative, two sophomore womens CCB representative, tw

Leonard Housman, economics professor, spoke for the group and indicated that it would disband.

Following adjournment the demonstrators' travelled by automobile and reassembled in the senate gallery of the State placed to Dan Moore.

When Moore sent his legal assistant, the "compromise" incensed a number of the protestors who wanted to wait for the governor himself.

Bill Coates, a Chapel Hill minister spoke for his faction, telling the group that "You goddamn purists (in Raleigh) can make your lovely demonstrations. I'm interested in the problems of Chapel Hill; I don't want to get arrested and pay bond money to the city of Raleigh. For those of you who want to stay, stay, 1 say let's go down and meet with the governor's assistant."

Janet Covington, a senior sociology student at State, said, "We're down here as a group for a non-violent expression of our grief over the death of Martin Luther King. We've done that and we're going down to the memorial service at Memorial Auditorium. The Chapel Hill group is welcome to join us, but if they want to mach or get arrested, that's up to them. That's not the purpose of our group."

The group assembled outside the State house and Ragsdale accepted the petition but said he did not want to be "a part of any demonstration. I made an agreement to accept the written petition; we said nothing about having it read."

by George Panton

Three thousand persons attended Raleigh's service of Memorial and Contrition in memory of Dr. Martin Luther King yesterday at Memorial Auditorium.

Both black and white paid tribute to the slain leader of the non-violent civil rights movement. There were calls to live up to King's tradition of non-violence.

Governor Dan Moore was not present at the memorial service. He was represented by D. S. Coltrane, Chairman of Good Neighbor Council. He said, "On behalf of the Gov-ernor, I express his regrets on not being here. It was my privilege to know Dr. Martin Luther King, I know he was a man of deep convictions, he believed in non-violence. I hope his sympathizers adhere to this. Dr. Martin Luther King did not believe in violence. Martin Luther King is physically dead, but his spirit lives on."

Mayor Travis Tomlinson said, "America is a poorer nation without him. Martin Luther King was a voice of calm and reason. The nation should take a long hard look at itself so that a tragedy such as this never happens again."

WPAK Offers Relief From KIX

How often have you become nauseated over WKIX?

WKIX?

It happens to us at least twice a day. One can just take so much of the Hi-Lo Game, John Stanton's jokes, the Piggly-Wiggly Quiz, and Marvelous Mark's "Fabulous Funnies." Yechh!

What are the alternatives to 'KIK for those who prefer popular music? WYNA and WRNC are but slightly better fare.

Salvation may lie in our own WKNC's new AM facility, WPAK.

Unfortunately, WPAK which is progressive.

Salvation may be a considered facility, WPAK.

Unfortunately, WPAK, which is programming popular selections, is a carrier-current station. This means that only residence areas having a special secondary transmitter unit can receive this station's secondary transmitter unit can receive signal.

Lee, Sullivan, and Bragaw are the only dorms currently having such transmitters.

We hope a good response from this area to WPAK will convince the Publications Board to appropriate funds for the expansion of AM operation to the entire endure.

Combined with WKNC-FM, the station can offer a program perfectly tailored to collegiate tastes. The FM station is now programming classics, jazz, and broadway from sign-on until 9 p.m., while popular music is heard over AM during the same time period. The two then merge, and the station presents easy listening (read, "studying") music for the rest of the evening.

The campus radio station can entertain every State student, no matter what his tastes. In addition, it can provide on-the-spot, late-breaking campus news_that the Technician can't.

There's more than enough justification to avail this facility to the entire campus. Costs are not prohibitive.

Let's give ourselves a little relief from the self-appointed court jesters of "Kix Kountry."

Inklings...

Perhaps the height of irony during Thurs-day night's riot was the fact that most of the Raleigh police cars were still flying their "green flags of safety."

We hadn't wanted to advocate a retake of the entire general election, as it seemed that only a few were done wrong.

But who knows what's gone on, now that a clump of ballots have been found all folded together, all marked the same way, in one of the boxes?

Apparently, neither the Elections Board nor APO took its task seriously enough.

An interesting letter came across our desk the other day. It was signed "Unknown."

Its author was upset that two of the men's dorms (oops, residence halls) have maids instead of janitors. We agree; and we'd like to print the letter, if only the author will contact us. We will be happy to with hold the name from the paper.

A black Raleigh minister observed, "It would seem that violence is what the whites want."
Certainly the murderer is not typical of white America. But neither was Harvey Oswald, nor can James Meredith's assailant be considered representative of white seciety.

America. But neither was flarvey oswaid, nor can James Meredith's assailant be considered representative of white society.

Yet the white majority cannot be found blameless. How can a culture which allows the Ku Klux Klan to exist wash its hands of this man's death?

So here we are, in the middle of eastern North Carolina, watching our first race riot, saying "I hope they shoot every last one of the black bastards."

If the words aren't on our lips, they're in our actions. Each time we turn down a Negro job applicant, each time avoid registering blacks to vote, we push the black community to violence.

And now, the one man who has exhorted his people to exercise restraint has been slain.

We can expect some dark days ahead.

Look at Raleigh. Here we have collegians, the intelligent students of Shaw University, braving Klan-riddled Eastern Tarheelia to protest, and protest violently.

These are not idle, ignorant ghetto blacks. These are bright, serious-minded ambitious people, trying to better their race and their country through their

A Greek Speaks

God Bless America

Three or four years ago, a handful of concerned individuals, depicted by the press as having long, stringy hair and a generally disheveled appearance, appealed to the public for a change in government policy—just a few outspoken and concerned individuals who were sincere in their efforts and who would not be swayed upon early encountering general apathy and defeat.

And so, the momentum built up. More people began to publicly endorse this protest movement; more people allowed what had been churning in their consciences to come to the surfaced and be aired; more people began to speak out. And soon, as with all just causes, the responsible and respected leaders of the community began to take up where these "disheveled" students and concerned citizens left off, to carry on the cords of discontent.

Lindsay, Kennedy, McCarthy, Spock, Fulbright and Hatfield were all a part of the secondary movement but were nonetheless instrumental in bringing about the final end. And then fifty-thousand students, civic leaders, conscientious citizens marched on the Nation's Capital. Dr. Levy made a stand with the military saying he would not submit to orders that were contrary to his beliefs, and the White House was given poor receptions all over the country—the nation began to ring with discontent.

What does it all mean? I was not particularly keen about the Vietnam War so I attended some protest rallies, but well if I was going to get up and actively support their

Our letter-to-the-editor policy has changed somewhat. We are now accepting only those letters shorter than 300 words.
Longer articles may be submitted as guest-written material but will be considered quite selectively.
Nor will all short letters quality.

The whole idea of going against government policy seemed to me to be absurd, and ridiculous.

and ridiculous.

The government of the United States was just to vast an enterprise to be moved by a handful of demonstrators, so why waste my time, why sacrifice my efforts, for a futile cause? To me, the government seemed to operate like one big political machine that could hardly be influenced by a group of irate students. So why should I get involed with something that just was not, and conceivably would not get anywhere?

So last Sunday night Presi.

So last Sunday night President Johnson announced that because the seeds of discontent were so deeply sown, he was changing his War policy. And I thought, "flow did these seeds get sown?" and I was really ashamed of myself. In a sense, I had sold my country short. A handful of "real" Americans had some three long years back seen a light and had enough good old guts and devotion to stick it out and had continued to make sacrifices for what they believed. But above all, they had faith in the United States government to know that some day they would be heard. They were not vegetables, but citizens, and this was their country and their government and as part of this country and this government they saw something lacking and they were going to do something about it. They had faith where faith was aparently due. The government policy has been changed, the war is being descalated and the possibility of peace talks is becoming ever more promising.

A just cause, a right to assemble, a right of free speech, a right of free press, a representative government, and most of all, a handful of concerned individuals—and lo and—behold, mountains are moved. My skepticism about this government being one "of the people by the people and for the people" has been removed. I feel I have been politically rejuvenated—God bless America!

On Assassination, Classes

Chancellor Comments

Night classes at the University will be cancelled tonight if curfew hours are set, Chancellor Caldwell said this morning. He said the University will continue to plan toward holding the evening classes but that if a curfew is set it would apply to the N. C. State campus also. Many night class students live off campus or outside the city.

The Chancellor also released a statement addressed to N. C. State students regarding Dr. Martin Luther King's assassination.

The Chancellor also released a statement addressed to N. C. State students regarding Dr. Martin Luther King's assassination.

He aid: "There are many ways to commemorate the life and deeds of Martin Luther King, a great and courageous American. Some ways will be a credit to his philosophy. Some a travesty. In this immediate aftermath of his death, every man and woman has his own private reaction, We can be sure these reactions will run the full gauntlet of genuine grief, revulsion, fear for the Nation, and confusion, to the dismal abyas of the satisfied racist.

"What is your reaction as an individual? I beg each of you to probe deeply your conscience. Begin now to root out whatever you find there that would cause you by word or deed to limit the chances of any man, Black or White, to self-respect, dignity, opportunity, freedom and happiness.

"Discover afresh your capacity to love your fellow man. Open your mind to the possibilities it brings to this hour. Then place this best self in the service of an anxious Nation. It needs you and nothing less."

Chancellor Caldwell is a member of the Raleigh's Human Relations Committee and attended the Memorial Services at the auditorium Sunday for Dr. King, Earlier, he had met with a group of University students and faculty to discourage a planned march to the Capitol.

University officials noted this morning that the University is planning to make additional jobs available for Negroes, In a letter dated March 29, a week before Dr. King's assassination. Chancellor Caldwell had written a memorandum to top University administrators outlining a plan to recruit Negroes for office and laboratory positions at the University, the said "It has long been our expressed policy and desire for this campus that we make every effort, genuinely and effectively, to open employment opportunities to qualified citizens of the Negro race without any discrimination whatever."

Peace Corps Director Sees Volunteer Increase

WASHINGTON — Peace Corps Director Jack Vaughn predicts a 10 per cent increase in the number of applicants able to serve this year.

Recruiting figures for the first two months of 1968, he said, were up sharply from a year ago.

The number of applicants will more than meet current plans to put 8,000 persons into training during the program year which ends Aug. 31, he said.

Vaughn said the upsurge in interest in the Peace Corps during January and February contrasts sharply with a 30 per cent decline in applications reported last fall.

"That decline," he said "was inaccurately interpreted as a long range trend. But the figures wer ebased on applications received during November and compared with November of 1966 which was the largest month for applications in Peace Corps his-

Vaughn said the number of applications, which are for the most part received from college students, jumped by 7 per cent in January, compared to 1967 (2,246 vs. 2,994) and increased again by 77 per cent in February (4,222 vs. 2,381). "We can, on the basis of these figures, project some 23,500 immediately qualified applicants by the end of August, compared to 21,332 last year."

Vaughn said. He defined an immediately qualified applicant as a person who meets the Peace Corps general educational and aptitude standards and who is available to enter training during the current program year. Thus in most cases the prime applicant is a college senior.

Although this category represents only a fraction of the total applications the Peace

McLawhorn To Organize Nixon Clubs

Ronald McLawhorn, a State senior, will organize Nixonfor-President clubs in 150 southeastern colleges.

McLawhorn, a history major from Raleigh, is working with such groups in Tennessee, Viraginia, the Carolinas, and Georgia. "Contrary to what it may seem, there is deep support of Nixon in the South. There is a new Nixon who does not have a losers' image," he said.

does not have a loser's image," he said.

Nixon plans to stay out of the Tarheel State until after the primary fight, according to McLawhorn. "In states with personality figures, there will be no activity until after the convention, in the interest of party unity."

"Through May he is committed to the primary, so count on his appearing in North Carolina in the fall. He has a deep affection for this state; he attended Duke for a while."

McLawhorn thinks the former vice president will select a governor from the East as running mate to lend balance to the GOP ticket.

The rent will be refunded leas a $25 reservation fee.

After this date no refund will be made for any reason other than failure to register, withdrawl from the University or transfer to other University housing.

Vaughn said the ratio of male to female applicants is still running approximately 60/40 in favor of men, about the same as it has since the Peace Corps' founding in 1961, and approximately the same ratio as college enroll-ments.

Yeah, Already . . .

"To me this means we are gaining a generation of Vol-unteers who have not only con-sidered their move very seri-ously, but who—thanks to the type of college education they have sought—are even better qualified than ever before," said Vaughn.

Vaughn said he expects nearly 60,000 Total applications this year. The bulk of these will come from college underclassmen and persons off the campus. Last year the Peace Corps obtained 10,000 of its record 71,000 applications from a special direct mail campaign aimed at the nation's collegians. Vaughn said the campaign would not be repeated because of the higher number of persons currently available to fill this year's training programs.

The Peace Corps this year is asking Congress for $112.8 million to enroll new trainees in 1969. The Peace Corps cur-rently counts more than 12,-000 Volunteers serving in 57 nations.

Peace Corps recruiting and training parallels the academic year—from September to August—with the bulk of training occuring during the summer months. More than 90 per cent of its trainees come from the ranks of college graduates.

Special Activities Planned

There are three major events planned for Saturday, all to be held on the Union Mall if the weather cooperates.

At 2:00 p.m. there will be a concert by Little Anthony and the Imperials. The Royal Guardsmen will perform about 6:00 p.m., followed by an outdoor dance. The group playing for the dance will hopefully be the Route 495 By-Pass.

While these specialties are going on, the Campus Chest Carnival will be held in the vicinity of the Union. This is the only part of the week end which will cost the student money in the form of tokens. which can be obtained at money exchange booths. They will be the only tender accepted at the various booths of the carnival.

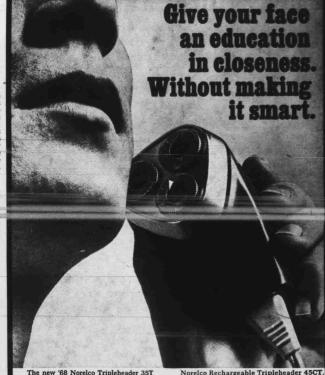

Booths Are Extra-Large

large booths planned for the carnival. The deadline for an organization to contract for a booth is April 5. The only specification is the group must promise to keep the booth open as long as the carnival is open

The carnival will be open Friday, April 19, and Satur-day, April 20. The Friday hours are from noon to mid-night and on Saturday are from 10 a.m. to 8 p.m.

Quite a few unique booths have been planned. Tucker is building a casino. The Union will have a frisbee throw. The students for McCarthy will have a booth. The girls of Sigma Kappa will have Candles on their heads which may be shot out with water pistols. Booths are also being planned by Sigma Pi, the Veterans Administration, APO, and WKNC.

All Campus Week End promies to be three days of fun and fascination for every-one attending.

Toilet Paper Stolen

by Brick Miller

Beneath the grungy exterior every Dorm Rat projects there lies a cruel malevolent heart of stone.

Last Monday night however, this fiendish character reared its ugly head and struck fear into the residents of Syme dormitory.

Somewhere between the hours of five and eleven p.m., a hideous sneak thief stole every roll of toilet paper in Syme. 32 rolls to be exact.

This fact was discovered by a greatly distressed Technician staffer at the hour of approximately 2:30 a.m. when he was in urgent need of relief.

Who would commit such a hideous crime, and more important, exactly what the Hell is he going to do with 32 rolls of single ply toilet paper?

Surely he couldn't have stolen it to use for blowing his nose, the tissues are too thin even under extreme conditions?

What evil lurks in the hearts of men? The Shadow knows, but only on Fridays and Saturdays, for their intended usage.

Unrolled, the 32 rolls of paper will encircle Carter Stadium 19 times, allowing for the partial rolls. Or every door in Withers hall could be completely covered; take your choice.
They could, if stretched end to end, reach from here to the Sav-Half dispenser plant in Durham. This is a possibility suggested by an innocent bystander in the flushed heat of the moment. That's what is called a strained pun.
But then they might have been taken by an impoverished 'off-campus student who had grown tired of Allied catalogues—used only past the stereo section, please.
Will this crime against humanity go unsolved? Are dorm rats safe only if they begin guarding their halls at night and hoarding their dwindling supplies to be used only under extreme conditions?
What evil lurks in the hearts of men? The

All veterans interviewed felt that campus demonstrators had every right to express their views in their own way; but some felt that such ener-gies should be directed toward more practical activities. "Demonstrators should di-rect their energies toward more pertinent activities. They should be working for uni-fication of the country," said Grimaldi.

Williams utilizes "the gym, cultural activities, the hobby shop, and professional organizations, for recreation and social life in addition to the Veteran's Association."

Williams felt "people 18 to 25 years of age, who may be shooting other people and be shot at in return, definitely have a right to express their opinion."

Overall, the veterans interviewed felt well accepted by students, found the G.I. Bill did not provide enough fi-nancial aid by itself, and agreed with the demonstrators' right to express themselves.

Marchers Seek Action

Others called for immediate demonstration on Sunday so that Negroes would know there are whites who support them.

Banks Talley, Dean of Stutudent Activities, called for "calm and obedience to the mayor's proclamation."
This view was not well received by the more militant advocates. Jim Lee, former head of DARE twice rose and called for whites to act now or "it will be too late."
At 8 p.m. the group reconvened and decided to stage a peaceful, non-vilent march to the State capitol. The group pleged not to confront the police and if asked to disband it would do so peacefully.

J. W. Duffield, chairman of the faculty senate, tried to arrange some alternative system. Police told him that the group could ride around capitol square, but could not assemble. This plan was not acceptable to the group.

When all such attempts to secure legal means of demonstration failed, it was decided that it would be best to stage a token march which would disperse upon first request of the police.

We, as concerned White citizens of the State of North Carolina, implore the Governor to act on the attached recommendations. The death of Martin Luther King, Jr. must spur the White community to constructive action. We have tarried too long on issues of vital importance to the White and Negro citizens of North Carolina. We can no longer afford to wait. The crisis now facing our state and nation requires positive and creative leadership from the Government of North Carolina. We, therefore, urgently request that you give your immediate attention to our recommendations.

1. Actions to be taken by the Executive Branch of Government.

2. A The Governor should withdraw the National Guard troops presently patrolling the streets in our Actions to be taken by the Executive Branch of Government.

A. The Governor should withdraw the National Guard troops presently patrolling the streets in our cities. This militarization of the Negro areas prevents any meaningful reduction of tensions. Appeals to calm and reason are futile in the face of people threatened by rifles and bayonets. The National Guard should only be used as a last resort. Until all hope for the restoration of calm has failed the Guard should be kept on aiert but out of sight.

B. The Governor should, as some practical, convene a special sessory and economic problems so long ignored.

1. The Governor should take the lead in directing the Legislature away from the passage of suppressive legislation.

2. The Governor should acknowledge, endorse and act upon the recommendations of President Johnson's Commission on Urban Disorders.

D. The Governor should seek the preservation of law and order by assuring equal justice under the law to all of the citizens of North Carolina.

E. The Governor should appoint a commission to prepare a set of detailed proposals to eliminate the causes of the current disorders.

We recommend the following legislation.

pare a set of detailed proposals to eliminate the causes of the current disorders.

II. We recommend the following legislation.

A. Housing.

1. That open housing legislation to permit those a Negroes with money and jobs to purchase anywhere in North Carolina be enacted.

2. That low income housing legislation, to encourage the construction of housing for low income groups under existing Federal programs, be enacted.

3. That the Legislature encourage the banking and loan institutions of North Carolina to provide adequate loans for Negroes.

4. That current Urban Renewal programs within the state be halted pending a full investigation of the extent to which they are actually meeting the needs of the people involved.

5. That educational programs be instituted to adequately inform the residents of neighborhoods to be renewed the reasons for renewal and their legal rights under renewal programs.

B. Job Training and Education.

1. That comprehensive emergency programs for job training be instituted. The Legislature should cooperate with industry to provide job opportunities, such as the program presently conducted in the State of North Carolina by the National Association of Manufacturers and the Office of Economic Opportunity.

2. That for this summer the state should establish a work program for the low income youth of North Carolina which will provide necessary skills for future employment.

3. That the Legislature enact a minimum wage for all state employees and all others not covered by present Federal minimum wage laws.

That the state take affirmative action to place Negroes in governmental positions of responsi-bility and to advertise this adequately to the mublic

Negroes in governmental positions of responsibility and to advertise this adequately to the public.

That Governor Moore direct the State Department of Public Instruction to eliminate all text books which misrepresent the role of Negroes in American society, beginning with Hugh Lefler's text book, North Carolina History.

That creation of additional pre-school programs take place concurrently with expansion of existing pre-school programs, including day care for working mothers.

Health and Welfare Legislation.

That free-lunch programs in low income neighborhood schools be improved and expanded.

That the Legislature repeal the minimum price level on milk.

That more mobile health units be provided in the poor urban and rural areas of North Carolina.

the poor urban and rural areas of North Carolina

4. That immediate attention be given to improve the continuous and primary and secondary levels in low-income districts, with special emphasis on:

a. a substantial increase of teacher salaries in the State of North Carolina.

b. required certification of all teachers based on proficiency shown in the National Teacher Examinations.

c. aiding Negro colleges to prepare their students to pass these examinations.

d. a positive-attitude towards the establishment of teacher's unions.

e. an extensive decrease of the current pupil-teacher ratio.

f. complet cooperation with the office of Education in speeding the total integration of North Carolina schools. This action should include the dismissal of the law firm engaged by the State to argue in behalf of continued segregation.

by the State to argue in seman or commune segregation.

g. the hiring and training of teacher's aids from within the community to ease the burden of overworked classroom instructors.

5. That the aged in the low-income areas of North Carolina be provided with increased social and medical benefits, including the establishment of community centers to assist these people with fundamental activities such as housekeeping, showning, etc.

6. That a supplemental emergency food stamp program be created to help families in distress.

7. That a complete review of present Welfare programs be conducted in order to:
a. allow more families to receive Welfare payments (AFDC-UP).
b. raise Welfare payments.
c. institute "Welfare-Work Incentive" (income supplement) programs.

8. That a compulsory health insurance, similar to Medicare, be instituted for all residents of North Carolina.

9. That increased effort be made to promote modern of the complex of t income areas.

III. Fiscal Measures to Accomplish the Above:

A. That the Legislature should repeal the sales tax on food because it discriminates against the poor.

B. That the Legislature should enact taxes on luxury items, such as taxes on retail sales of tobacco and "liquor-by-the-drink."

C. That the Legislature revise the present scale of state income tax to ease the burden of low-income North Carolinians.
