Out-of-State Tuition Hike Amounts To $100 Per Year

By Hilton Smith

The increase in out-of-state tuition fees will be from $600 to $700 per year, as announced by the State Board of Education, as reported to the Student Body by President Richard Boggs last week. This will raise the tuition fee for the new academic year to $1,000 for sophomores and juniors.

Regular semester tuition will be increased from $500 to $550 per year for this year. The increase is $100 per year for sophomores.

"I am sure the taxpayers of North Carolina by not wanting the state to pay as much for out-of-state students. If the state [were] to pay as much for out-of-state students, the figure simply means that it is not to teach an out-of-state student on this campus," he said.

Boggs said there are plans to increase North Carolina residents' tuition fees this year and in the future to increase out-of-state fees.

"Affect 229 Students"

"The increase that goes into effect this year will affect 229 out-of-state students," he said.

Rush Week Reinstated

by Larish Pahl

"The chairmen for this week have worked closely with the rush chairman for this fall." He said that the decision came from a meeting of the Interfraternity Council on Friday, September 28, and he also stated that the decision would be announced to the members of the Greek Community.

"The increase in out-of-state fees is not an important increase. Actually, $100 does not mean that much to anyone," it won't really have any impact, it's just an idea of what they're doing," he said.

Deusery: Engineers vs. Design School?

We have never subjected you, the reader, to a massive dose of NCSU internal beauty. Our editorials have usually been no more than a few paragraphs long. This special section of The Technician will attempt to give you a better understanding of why some students at the University are not so happy with the Design School.

For those of you who are not familiar with the Design School, it is the school that has been created to teach the students how to design and create products. The school is located in the heart of the downtown area of Raleigh, NC, and is a part of the University of North Carolina at Raleigh. The school is relatively new, having been founded in 1976.

The school is divided into two main departments: the Department of Design and the Department of Architecture. The Department of Design focuses on the design of products, both industrial and consumer, while the Department of Architecture focuses on the design of buildings and other structures.

The faculty of the Design School is composed of both full-time and part-time faculty members. Full-time faculty members are typically employed by the university, while part-time faculty members are typically employed by businesses or other organizations.

The design school is known for its innovative approach to education. The school emphasizes hands-on learning, with students often working directly with clients to design and create products.

However, not everyone is happy with the design school. Some students feel that the school is too focused on the business world and does not provide enough opportunities for students to explore their creativity.

Another criticism of the design school is that it is too expensive. Many students feel that the cost of tuition and fees is too high, and that the school does not offer enough financial aid to help students afford their education.

Despite these criticisms, the design school is still attracting a large number of students. Many students feel that the school provides them with the skills they need to succeed in the business world.

In conclusion, the design school is a relatively new and innovative institution, with both strengths and weaknesses. It is important for the school to continue to evolve and improve in the future in order to meet the needs of its students.

Vultures, Leeches, And I

by Pete Knowland

This is a tribute to all the now-defunct members of our guild who have attempted the Dungeness River fly. At the time, the water was wet, and in my case, the water was in the fish. It was a dry season and the water was dying and I had a silent tears.

After I had to treat for the injuries I had sustained and accumulated some local by 8:30. This was no mean feat considering I had been out for hours. My main spot was a small stream and my gear was stored by 1:00, the time of my proposed departure. Since my old didn't show up until 10:30 by which time the water at Dungeness was

I was, in my beat, a fifty-gallon barrel. From the Wenzel Brook, with its waxy rhododendrons and stumps, I snuck into the stream. Free feet of the boots broke off and I was at the mercy of the river. It was a long and hard way to the bottom of the padle. I rolled over now and overwound myself down swirling water. Instantly, with a life-jacket on, I was virtually trapped in the current. I lost all control of the boat.

"It's weird, really weird.

If you like to watch the audience getting out of the theater after the first night, you can wait until they have bailed to hear that comment at least three times. But is it really?

The Fire is the story of a triangle—one boy and two girls. The difference comes in the fact that Jill and Ellen love Paul, and Paul wants Ellen.

Dad Burns, the teacher from Up Over Drummond, portrays Jill, the girl who feels passionate love for another woman. Her handling of character is delicate and captivating, like the same sound of a guitar. He also plays the role of an old man.
