Josh White Sings Of Sex, Integration Here Saturday

By Gene Henrikson

Sex and integration were the main themes of Josh White's concert in the Coliseum Saturday night. "Apples, Peaches and Cherries," "Foggy, Foggy Dew," and "What Are You Going To Do When Your Meat's All Gone" exploited sex. Applause interrupted several songs during the evening.

"Strange Fruit" and "Free and Equal Blues" were both concerned with racial prejudice and received tremendous applause.

Larry "Bashful" Riddle accompanied Josh with a bass fiddle. Riddle has been in only two concerts with Josh, without rehearsal, but as Josh said, he has "big ears" and is able to catch tunes quickly.

Beverly White, Josh's daughter, was introduced to the crowd and she sang several songs, of which "House of the Rising Sun" was one. There may be some question as to who received the loudest applause, Beverly or Josh.

Among the other songs Josh sang were "Frankie and Johnny," "Jelly, Jelly," "Outskirts of Town" and "Sam Hall."

Josh gave two encores to an enthusiastic crowd of over 3000 people. Josh received a standing ovation.

The concert was the second presentation of the New Arts series.

Noted Critic, Author Discusses Modern Authors And Themes

Granville Hicks, critic, editor, and author, told a College Union audience of a number of contemporary novelists, who are searching for salvation—that is, salvation on earth.

Hicks, who opened the Contemporary Scene lecture series Thursday night, discussed a number of novelists. To emphasize their earnestness, he asserted: "Artists do not choose their themes; the themes choose the artists."

Pointing out specific instances of the "search for salvation," Hicks spent time on

Student Leaders To Attend Meet

Young men and women who will help lead the South into the future will meet here next semester to discuss that future.

A conference, sponsored by the Young Adult Council, will be held on the State Campus February 28-March 2 and will bring together student and youth organizations leaders. The Young Adult Council is an organization composed of twenty-eight student and youth groups.

This conference will pass no legislation and will consist of lectures and seminars. Areas which are scheduled to be covered in the seminars include political, economic, educational, sociological, and religious factors in the South and their impact on the national and international scene.

Approximately 250 Southern youths, including representatives from the major colleges of the South, Young Adult Council member organizations, youth labor groups, and Southern rural groups are expected for the conference, according to Eddie Elkins, who is in charge of the arrangements for the meeting.

According to the Young Adult Council, this seminar is being held to "examine the conditions in the South and explore their relation to the nation and the world."

Representatives from the Atlantic Coast to Oklahoma and Texas are expected for the conference.

Arrangements for the conference are being handled by a Steering Committee composed of representatives of the Young Adult Council and students from the Consolidated University. State College students on the Steering Committee include Eddie Elkins, Floyd McCall, Carlyle Franklin, Garland McAdoo, Mike Lea, and John Bynum.

Speakers and programs for the conference will be decided at a meeting of the Steering Committee to be held in Chapel Hill November 10.

Famed French Film To Be Shown Here

The Red and the Black, will be shown in the College Union Theater on October 24 at 6:00 p.m. Based on a novel by Stendhal, it is being presented by the C U International Committee as one of the two films being brought by the committee this year. In color, the movie has French dialog with English subtitles.

SG To Discuss Classics

Resolutions calling for the revival of the Dixie Basketball Classic at State and asking for removal of the state sales tax on textbooks will be presented to the Student Legislature this Thursday night.

The Dixie Classic bill, which is being presented by the Campus Welfare Committee, is slated as a first step in the student government program to have the holiday classic restored, according to M. C. Howell, committee chairman. Through a policy statement of the Greater University of North Carolina, the Dixie Classic was discontinued in the spring of 1961 as a result of the numerous game-fixing scandals which were exposed at that time. If the resolution is passed Thursday night, it will be sent to the Chancellor as a statement of student opinion on the matter.

The Rules Committee will present the bill calling for removal of the state sales tax on textbooks and academic supplies, according to Chairman Bill Isler. Pending passage, copies of this resolution will be sent to each member of the North Carolina General Assembly for consideration in the next session.

Student Government President Floyd McCall urged today that student opinion on these matters be voiced to the SG senators this week, prior to the Thursday night session of the Student Legislature. All legislative meetings are open for attendance by interested students.

Homecoming Queen Entries Must Sign Before November 13

The contest for homecoming queen is again being sponsored by Blue Key honorary fraternity.

Contestants for the contest, according to Frank Smith, Blue Key president, must be single and between the ages of eighteen and twenty-five. They need not be students at State.

Contestants may be sponsored by organizations or individuals. Anyone wishing to enter a contestant must take a full length photograph and an eight and one half by eleven portrait, along with the girl's name, and his name, address, and phone number, to Mrs. Shirley in room 206 Holladay Hall by 5 p.m. on November 13.

The pictures may be picked up at 206 Holladay Hall after the contest.

Blue Key will select the finalists for the contest. The finalists will then be judged during the morning of Saturday, November 17.

Eighty Participate In Honors Group

By Doug Lientz

Eighty students are participating in the Engineering Honors Program this year.

According to Dr. James K. Ferrell, head of the Honors Program Committee of the School of Engineering, this is the largest number that has ever participated in the program.

The purpose of the program, according to Dr. Ferrell, is to provide an opportunity for the more capable students to take more advanced courses along the lines which they want to follow.

This is done by permitting the student to take special honors courses, substitute other courses for those required in his curriculum, and take 500 level courses.

The requirements for the program are that the student complete six honors program courses and participate in a research program. The honors program courses may be either honors sections of regular courses, or special courses set up for the honors program.

Selections for the program are based primarily on the students' scholastic averages. Those who have the highest quality-point average are considered by the Honors Program Committee. Those accepted for the program are notified during the summer prior to their junior year.

The group participating in the program includes thirty students from electrical engineering, seventeen from nuclear engineering, nine from civil engineering, eleven from chemical engineering, eleven from mechanical engineering, and two from industrial engineering.

Library To Add Sunday Hours; Hikes Fines

The D. H. Hill Library will be open four additional hours on Sundays beginning October 28.

The new schedule will keep the library open from 2 until 11 p.m. In the past it has been open from 2 until 6 p.m.

According to Donald S. Keener, circulation manager of the library, no desk service will be available after 6 o'clock, but students who check out books that can be used only in the library may keep them out until 10:45. A student assistant will be on duty to act as supervisor of the library from 6 until 11 o'clock. The stacks will be open after 6 only to people with stack privileges, and the Reserve Room will continue to close at six o'clock.

Keener also announced that the overdue fine on books to be

Trash Thrown In Tucker

By Jim Massfeller

Late last night and early this morning several students of Tucker Dorm turned the first floor of the dorm into a shambles which closely resembled the city dump.

The whole thing apparently started when a Sunday paper was left on the floor. This paper was slowly kicked along the hall and some students added the contents of their trash cans to the mess.

The entire length of the hall was covered from wall to wall with newspapers, paper cups, cans, toilet paper, and other items. Several students walked up and down the hall and tried to ignore the mess, but some added more trash to that already present.

William (Monk) Myers, the dorm counselor, had this to say concerning the incident.

"It is regretful that we have people in the dormitory irresponsible enough to carry out such vandalism. It is even more regretful that the occupants of Tucker allowed their home to be turned into a pig sty. It is most certainly a black mark on Tucker and even more certainly a black mark on every student in the dorm.

"I won't pretend to believe that any student will confess his part in this incident. I am not foolish, but I will now advise you that persons who would clutter a dormitory in this manner are not suited to live in a dormitory, and if they are caught they will be treated in this manner."

Monk also stated that 200 copies of this statement would be distributed to the students tonight. He also put guilty students to work cleaning up the trash.

A Bell Rang In Oxford Mississippi

If I had a bell,
I'd ring it in the morning,
I'd ring it in the evening,
All over this land.
I'd ring out justice,
I'd ring out freedom,
I'd ring out love for my brother and my sister,
All over this land.

... American Folk Song.

A bell rang this week in Oxford, Mississippi.

It tolled not the ending of segregation as some had thought it might. Its message was rather the seeming success of Gov. Ross Barnett, who literally "stood in the schoolhouse door" and denied admission to James Meredith, Mississippi Negro.

We are concerned that Meredith did not gain access to the University of Mississippi. We think he should have been admitted.

Morally, there is no justification for this rejection.

Legally, there can be no doubt he is entitled to become a student at Mississippi.

But this is not our prime concern.

James Meredith's rights have been denied before and will, no doubt, be denied again. This is not to suggest that these denials are justified, for they are not. But it is to suggest that he probably has been forced to rationalize his existence in the society to which he was born.

We are more concerned with the precedent that has been set at Oxford, and the trend that may have been established.

People say that Meredith should not be allowed to attend the University of Mississippi if a majority of the people there and throughout the state do not want him.

This argument has frightening implications in terms of where it might lead. Does freedom of speech mean that the majority is to vote to determine whom they wish to hear? Is freedom of religion to be extended only to those persons whose beliefs conform to what the majority has decided is orthodox?

More specifically, if the bigot or the demagogue can muster a majority to turn on the Negro, will he necessarily stop there? Or will he next turn to the Catholic, and the Jew, or the member of any other minority group?

People who have studied prejudice attribute much of it to the necessity of the individual to have a tangible scapegoat upon whom to vent his wrath. The Federal Government makes a mistake and it's because the damn Catholics are in control.

And the sheer necessity of having to have someone to look down upon forces the element closest to that of the Negro to oppose any betterment of the Negro's lot.

P. D. East, editor of the Petal Paper and author of the Magnolia Jungle, puts it this way. "If I were a Catholic in Mississippi, I'd be worried. If I were a Jew, I'd be scared stiff. If I were a Negro, I would already be gone."

This is our point of prime concern. The basis of the democratic system is equality before the law, and the system is but a mockery if the laws are only to extend to a portion of the citizenry.

Every time the rights of one citizen anywhere are denied, every citizen is harmed.

Every time we trim our legal sail to meet the whirlwinds of the times, the course of the Ship of State is altered, and the destination toward which we have steered for 170 odd years grows more remote.

Bias is a force that strikes at one and all. We have come much too far, and fought far too long, to abandon our democratic system to appease the great god, Expediency.

We lost something American in Oxford this week, and every American citizen is the less for it.

John Donne said: "No man is an island, entire of itself; every man is a piece of the continent, a part of the main; . . . I am involved in mankind; and therefore never send to know for whom the bell tolls; it tolls for thee."

There was no need to send to Oxford this week to see what bell rang. It wasn't the bell of justice and freedom; it rang for you and me.

Although it is regrettable that so many former Boy Scouts have objected to the comment that the new type Army ROTC cap makes Army cadets look like "over grown two tone Boy Scouts," this paper will not apologize for printing it.

Besides, there are many things about ROTC which make that particular comment a compliment to the Boy Scouts, although no former Boy Scout whom I have talked to has admitted it.

All Army ROTC cadets become proficient enough in drill to make almost any Boy Scout Troop look second rate. Also, how many Boy Scout units would be able to stack their M-1 rifles when they surrender?

ROTC cadets know just how to stack their pieces so that the stack will not fall over till some one breathes on it.

There are also some features about the ROTC uniform which make it look 'sharper' than the Boy Scout uniform. During the summer many Boy Scouts switch to shorts and knee length stockings in order to have a more comfortable outfit to wear.

ROTC units would never think of this. It would make their uniforms look sloppy compared to the heavy, green, wool trousers that cadets wear the year round.

Yes, it is very obvious that, in several respects, the ROTC units are much sharper than Boy Scouts. And they have much talented leadership to thank for

Honey Lucas playing Ella Peterson in the Raleigh Little Theater production of "Bells Are Ringing."

A Review

'Bells Are Ringing'

By Doug Lientz

An exceptional musical accompaniment highlights the Raleigh Little Theater's production of "Bells are Ringing."

The best of this music included "It's a Simple Little System," "Salzburg," and "Is it a Crime." Also, the Choreography, under the direction of Jon Kovach, was very good.

Honey Lucas, as Ella Peterson came across very well. This is her first Raleigh Little Theater performance, and local audiences can hope for many more. She does extremely well at singing, dancing, and acting.

Bill Morgan, as Sandor, and Merle Kelly also gave excellent performances. Jack Robertson's (Jeff Moss) singing also added greatly to the show.

The sets used in the show are many and excellent in their contrast. The stage crew changes these sets very rapidly, which adds to the continuity of the show.

State Fumbles to Miss.

by Carlos Williams

Having been favored for the first time this season, the Wolfpack fumbled their way out of their fifth annual meet with Mississippi Southern University last Saturday to the tune of a 30-0 "upset."

State managed to fumble eight times in all, losing four of them. In addition, the Pack gave up two interceptions, one of which would have been a State touchdown if completed. Southern Miss scored three times after fumbles and once after an interception, all in State territory.

Mississippi's first TD resulted from a fumble on the State 49 when Rossi lost the ball as he attempted to throw. From then the score remained 7-0 until the fourth quarter as State blew three chances at the end zone.

In the second quarter with fourth and one, Rossi was hit for a loss having no one to hand the ball to. In the third quarter Rossi passed from the 13 into the hands of MSU's Walters on a first down pass which was intercepted in the end zone and run back to the 20. Again in the third, Rossi fumbled the snap from the 19 with second and seven and Miss once again took over. State never came close again.

From then Miss heaped insult to injury as they continued to score. A fumble by Koszarsky on a punt return in the third quarter led to the second Southern TD. State then fumbled on the kickoff giving Miss the ball on the 18 and a third touchdown. The other 3 came as USM intercepted on the 34, followed by a successful field goal try.

The Wolfpack, beaten three times in a row by a margin of one touchdown previous to the Miss game, was expected to top USM by the same margin. The record for the State-Miss series stands 2-2.

In the words of Dick Herbert, "There is no intent to insult the fine people at Southern Mississippi, but State's having to play that institution's very strong football team is based solely on the fact State picks up a check of $25,000 for doing it. A victory means little to the Wolfpack and a defeat is a blow to the team's prestige. This is not an enviable assignment. Except for the money, there is no reason why the game should be played. Some day those who control our state institutions will provide the funds necessary to permit the conduct of an athletic program in the manner it should be conducted."

State is currently ranked fifth in the Atlantic Coast Conference.

State Soccer

The State Soccer squad lost to UNC Thursday by a score of 9-1. The Wolfpack record for conference play thus far this season is 1-3 with one conference meet yet to come.

Frosh Fine Baby Deacs, 7-0

The State Wolflets found their second victory in Winston-Salem Friday as they beat the Baby Deacs of Wake Forest by a score of 7-0.

State's 187 pound quarterback Charlie Noggle set up the game's only score with a State 68 yard attack late in the first quarter which led to a touchdown plunge by Gary Rowe. Gus Andrews kicked the extra point.

The rugged State frosh line held the Baby Deacs without a first down and a total yardage of minus three in the first half. Wake dominated the ball in the second half but could never get its attack underway as the State linemen rushed the passers for heavy yardage loss.

Wake dropped their first three outings to Clemson by 33-13, Duke, 27-7 and North Carolina, 35-7. N. C. State lost its opener to North Carolina by 16-12, but toppled South Carolina, 7-0. Their record is 2-1.

The Deacs had their only scoring chance late in the third quarter when a Wolflet fumble gave the Baby Deacs the ball on the State 6. Four drives into the line fell one yard short of a score on the fourth down and State quickly moved out of the danger zone. The two lines waged defensive exhibitions outside of the one TD drive. The Baby Deacs have scored only four touchdowns in four games.

Student Drowned In Auto Wreck

John Archie Long III, a State student enrolled in recreation here was killed this weekend when his 1962 Ford convertible ran off Highway 211 into a canal.

Long, who was traveling alone, apparently was trapped in the automobile when it ran off of the road. According to Coroner J. B. Long of Haw River, the boy was wearing his safety belt and the soft top of the convertible collapsed on him, trapping him under the water.

Long, who was a junior here in recreation roomed with four other students at 2402 Hillsboro.

Pall Mall Presents~ GIRL WATCHER'S GUIDE

CAMPUS TYPE II

Don't let this girl's costume fool you. She's not really a mad scientist. She's a girl—a real, live girl. It's just that she has to prove something—to herself and to her family.

She has to prove that she has a brain and that, if she ever has to compete with men on their own terms, she can do it—and win. But she really doesn't want to compete with men. In her heart she wants to attract men and eventually, marry one. The girl watcher should not let this situation disturb him, however.

If the girl is watchable, she should be watched, no matter what her motives or ambitions may be. The same thing is true of a cigarette. If it's smokeable, it should be smoked—and Pall Mall is the most smokeable of all!

Pall Mall's natural mildness

so downright smokeable!
