NCS Cuban Says

'I'll Be Home Christmas'

By Cora Kemp

"I plan to be home for Christmas," a student commented to The Technician last night.

And his home is in Cuba.

This optimistic attitude over the present Cuban situation expressed the feelings of a number of foreign students who were informally questioned by The Technician.

When asked how he felt about the United States' action against Soviet intervention in Cuba, this same Cuban student said, "I agree with Truman. It is 'wonderful!' It is too bad that it didn't happen sooner. I really don't think that Russia will cause so much trouble. As long as the other countries back the United States, I don't think that Russia will start a war."

A Mexican student commented, "I don't think anything more grievous will develop. Twenty of the Latin American countries, including my country, have already agreed to support the United States. Uruguay is the only one which has abstained."

According to a student from the Caribbean area, "Russia will not go to war for Cuba, in my opinion, because the Communists don't want war. The only way that Communism can spread is through peace and not war. My country is politically unstable right now due to the past Cuban interferences. Kennedy took a wise step."

From a Venezuelan point of view, a student said, "I don't think the situation will become as serious as it seems it will."

A Canadian noted "On the whole, my country doesn't approve of the United States' stand on Cuban affairs. But, at the present, we will go along with it. Kennedy has taken the only positive action that he could in such a situation."

A native of India who has been in the United States only three months pointed out that "war can break out at any time if these countries are not careful in their actions. However, I do not fully understand the relations between Cuba and the United States. In my country, there has been quite a bit of trouble with the aggressive Chinese who are trying to move over our border so I am aware of the Communist threat. I feel that my country will respect Kennedy's policies."

Theater Workshop Plans Production

By Doug Lientz

Rom Linney has announced that he hopes to begin work on his first State College production soon.

At the session of the College Union drama workshop last Friday, he stated that he hopes to start work on two plays, "Oh Dad, Poor Dad" by Arthur Kopit, and "The Entrant," by Norman Bailey, as soon as possible.

He also stated that one of the biggest problems will be obtaining the rights to "Oh Dad, Poor Dad." He said that he hopes that the theater in the Frank Thompson Gym will be ready in time for the production, but that he did not want to wait for it.

At present Nan Ragan, a State College coed, is working on the last scene from "Oh Dad, Poor Dad" for the Drama workshop. Working under Miss Ragan's direction are Doug Lientz as Jonathan and Margaret Cusworth as Rosalie. The highlight of this play comes when Dad's corpse falls out of a closet.

"The Entrant" is a one act

Correction

We wish to correct the statement in the October 17 issue of The Technician that "The School of Engineering is presently installing the first analog computers system on this campus." The Mathematics Department has had a GEDA analog computer for about ten years, and there are other analog computers on this campus.

Japanese Educator Says More Action In Cuba Unwarranted

"I think that any further action, such as firing upon neutral ships would not be warranted by the United States."

This was Dr. Masatoshi Matsushita's comment on the Cuban situation when interviewed by The Technician last night.

Dr. Matsushita who is president of St. Paul's University in Tokyo, spoke to a small group of faculty and students in a program sponsored by the Forum Committee in the College Union gallery last night.

Dr. Matsushita continued, "I don't think Russia will take any action which will lead to war unless it will be a retaliatory action in Berlin, and the United States is prepared to counter this."

He also commented, "Red China has taken the advance in India and India is retreating. . . . It is my belief that some neutral country must supply armaments to India. England is the only logical country."

When asked if Japan could supply war materials to India, Matsushita stated that he felt that the Japanese government would not take a positive action due to the fact that "we have a very weak government, with our major party divided into eight different parts."

morality play which mixes the serious with the ridiculous. It has been read through twice at the drama workshop. The play deals in general with the problems which a dead dictator meets as he tries to enter hell. (See WORKSHOP, page 6)

Everyman Players Present 'Job'

By Doug Lientz

The Everyman Players production of "The Book of Job" will be presented Friday night at 8 p.m. in the College Union Ballroom.

Costumes for the production are designed to make the characters resemble the mosaics with which the walls of churches in the Byzantine Empire were often decorated.

These mosaics, made of small stones and bits of glass, depict the various saints of the Church.

The play itself is adapted from the "Book of Job" in the King James version of the Bible. It is under the direction of Orlin R. Corey, chairman of the Department of Speech and Drama and director of the Majorie Lyons Playhouse at Centenary College in Shreveport, La.

Corey is a graduate of Baylor University, where he earned both his B. A. and M. A. He also did additional graduate study at the University of London and the University of Kentucky.

Mrs. Irene Corey, his wife, has designed all of his productions, including the mosaic cos-

Space For Three Thousand Provided By NCS Shelters

There is fallout shelter space on the State College campus for 3200 people.

According to L. T. Caruthers, State College radiological safety officer, fallout shelter areas with food, sanitation kits, radiological monitoring instruments, and first aid equipment are located in both Carmichael Gymnasium and Nelson Hall.

These fallout shelters were placed at State College as part of a nationwide pilot plan to study problems in construction of outfitting shelters. Caruthers stated that State College

"is very fortunate in having been included in the pilot study."

Colonel John C. Thorn, head of the Raleigh-Wake County Civil Defense Agency commented that even more spaces will be utilized for shelters on campus in the near future. According to Thorn, food and supplies for 800 more spaces are expected after the first of the year.

Col. Thorn also commented that some students on the State College campus have offered their skills and services for use in case of attacks.

According to Col. Thorn, no water is supplied in the fallout shelters at the present time because the original water containers were found to be unsuitable. It has been stated by State College officials, however, that water from the swimming pool and the heating system could be used in cases of emergency.

Thorn stated that there is presently space for approximately 5,000 persons in the Raleigh area and that plans call for over 35,000 in the near future.

Locations and capacities of the fallout shelters on campus are: North and South Basements of Nelson Hall with capacity of 1129, the first floor north wing of Nelson with a capacity of 200, and the handball courts and men's locker room in Carmichael Gymnasium with capacity of 1,870.

History Prof Notes Shift In Policy

By Gene Henriksen

The address to the nation made by President Kennedy Monday night was "the most serious and sound speech" of his term so far according to Dr. Burton Beers, professor of History and Political Science at State College.

This marks a "distinct shift in U. S. policy" said Dr. Beers in an interview with WKNC. The previous policy was to let the Cuban situation fester, Beers stated.

Dr. Beers also stated that there were three lines of action open to the President on the subject of Cuba. These were to do nothing, to pursue the plan outlined by the President Monday night, or to react by launching nuclear weapons. The President chose the most logical in Dr. Beers' estimation.

Unless challenged, the Soviet Union would attempt more audacious moves Dr. Beers believes. Since the Soviet Union backed down in Berlin in 1947 and more recently in the Congo when met with U. S. power, Dr. Beers expects the Soviets to back down in Cuba.

In Forestry School

Seniors Win Rolleo

Attempts to put out cigars with water-filled back pumps provided part of the entertainment at the 1962 Rolleo of the School of Forestry.

According to Harald Blanchard, publicity chairman of the Forestry Club, fourteen competitive events highlighted the annual outing held at Hill Forest, site of the School of Forestry's summer camp.

In the fire fighting event teams made up of four students tried to put out cigars smoked by their opponents, while puffing to smoke their own cigars as short as possible.

The other events included log chopping, bow sawing, diameter estimation of trees, tobacco spitting for distance and accuracy, pole throwing, log rolling, and a tug of war.

Teams for these events were made up from the various classes in the school. The seniors won, with the juniors second, freshmen third, and sophomores last.

New members were initiated into the Forestry Club after the competitive events of the day had been completed, according to Blanchard.

Even Death For What Is Right

Mr. President:

You have made a decision which will go down in history as one of the most crucial and strongest ever made by a head of The United States.

Your speech Monday night once again pointed out that ours is a powerful nation which will strive to the utmost to keep the world at peace, but at the same time has the power of conviction to risk even death for what is right.

It is this outlook of our country and of you, Mr. President, which makes us proud to call ourselves Americans.

Nothing To Fear, But...

Probably the most fearful thing to a person is the fear of dying.

This, more than anything else, explains the hush which hung over the dormitories Monday night, following President Kennedy's speech. Its a reasonable explanation of the half-serious, half-sordid jokes which were being asked, such as "how's your draft status," and "do you know any Spanish?"

What does this mean to the student?

To the student, the Cuban action makes the threats of teachers and the fear of failure pale before the realization that the action which has been taken will affect, more than anyone else, we, the students.

How many times have we heard the words, "you are the future of our country." How many times have we looked at our draft cards when we presented them in a tavern, and wondered if they would ever be used for anything besides buying beer?

Maybe they will. It has become something to think about whenever a crisis rears its head.

At any rate, the fear of war has become an American heritage, and we have learned to live with it. It may make you scared, and it may make you apprehensive. But it is also a source of pride, because it's your the country trusts.

Our Mistake

No credit was given for the article appearing in the editorial column Monday night. This editorial first appeared in The Red and White, the student newspaper of the University of Alabama the week before James Meredith enrolled at "Ole Miss." It was reprinted by The Technician to point out that even the "Deep South" is not one hundred per cent lawless.

A Faster, Better Job

We would like to thank the Student Activities Office for printing the Student Directory this year.

A directory is a must for an institution of this size, and when the College Union stopped printing it last year, we were afraid that one would not be printed this year. The fact of the matter, however, is that the Student Activities Office printed a better directory in half the time that it has taken in past years.

Letters to the Editor:

Comments On Sports, Politics, etc.

To the Editor:

I was surprised and disappointed by your editorial of October 10. Surprised because I thought that editorial opinion was supposed to reflect that of the entire publication and, in this case, the college as a whole. Disappointed by a display of flagrant bad taste which is a direct insult to everyone connected in any way with State.

Throughout recorded history, contests of physical and mental skill have been sponsored by nearly every great institution. Such games have always been considered necessary and desirable forms of competition between men, because men have an innate desire to compete. In addition, public identification with competing groups serves not only as an emotional outlet, but also as a bond among people united in a worth while and enjoyable cause. This bond is often called spirit by those familiar with its meaning.

If a school is to sponsor an athletic program, which State invariably will do, should it not strive for the best of facilities? Will you name any State College athlete who is less deserving of a scholarship than anyone else? Do you think that our athletic program detracts enough from State's academic excellence that we can not attract good professors?

It is my contention that we are striving to be neither an athletic college or MIT, for neither fulfills the requirements of a well-balanced well-rounded society. Perhaps you have forgotten what "all work and no play" does to Jack.

S. Gordon Knowles

To the Editor:

As a Freshman it concerns me when one of my fellow classmates has the audacity to run for two freshman offices such as a senator and a vice-president and expect to fulfill the necessary obligations of his fellow classmates in these two positions. It worries me even more that this person or persons feel an obligation to run for office, (where there is glory), but doesn't feel that obligation when it is time to pay his freshman class dues.

I think that freshmen with any concern for their student government should consider a persons motives before voting. I think it also wise for the candidates running for freshman offices to talk before the freshman class. It is hard to know of or even meet thirty people out of two thousand. I would like to know for whom I am voting since I am entrusting my 'say-so' in the student government to these people.

Donnie Scott

To the Editor:

I have been at State College only a short time, and already I am disgusted with the politics found on campus. It is disgusting how the student body, which consists of over 7,000, can sit by and watch a group of so called cosmopolitan elites—fraternity men, control the student government. I am appalled at the fact that some will use the elections simply as a means for advancement in their respective fraternities. I also wonder why the student body has allowed one certain fraternity, which represents less than 1% of the student body, control the student government. It is admirable that these boys have the initiative to run for office, but I am certain that these do not necessarily represent the best possible candidates... especially when you consider that all the State fraternities represent less than 15% of the student body, and the majority of their members eat and sleep off campus. The students should realize that the people they elect are their most important and direct contact with the school government, and should be easily accessible and available at all times.

I also avidly believe that there should be a Freshman class meeting so the Freshman can at least hear the prospective candidates speak. It should be an election for the man; not the amount of money he can spend, or the amount of handshaking his followers can do. I urge serious consideration on the part of all Freshman in the upcoming elections, and hope they will vote for a person with who's goal lies merely in the service of his fellow students. It is only in this way that we can make the presence of the Freshman class felt in a way that upholds the traditions of State.

W. F. Wilson, Jr.

To the Editor:

Mr. Preston Williamson recently submitted a letter in which he stated: "The 'laws of the land' are the decisions of the Supreme Court." Actually the Supreme Court has no authority to write laws. Article I, Section 1, of the United States Constitution states: "All legislative Powers herein granted shall be vested in a Congress of the United States, which shall consist of a Senate and House of Representatives." No decision of the Supreme Court is the "law of the land"; a decision is binding only upon the particular case in question. Article VI, Clause 2, states: "This Constitution, and the Laws of the United States which shall be made in Pursuance thereof; and all Treaties made, or which shall be made, under the Authority of the United States, shall be the supreme Law of the Land..." No mention is made here of the Supreme Court. How the writing of laws by the Supreme Court, no member of which was ever elected by the people into his position, could possibly be "in keeping with the democratic society of this country" is completely beyond my comprehension.

To a large extent, the people of Mississippi already have the right to govern their own affairs. The Ninth and Tenth Amendments state: "The enumeration in the Constitution, of certain rights, shall not be construed to deny or disparage others retained by the people," and "The powers not delegated to the United States by the Constitution, nor prohibited by it to the States, are reserved to the States respectively, or to the people."

The American people in large part disobeyed the Eighteenth (Prohibition) Amendment to the Constitution, thus paving the way for its eventual repeal.

Maybe if the integration decrees of federal courts are rigidly enforced, there will be a reaction similar to the one in prohibition days. Proposals to revise the wording of the Fourteenth Amendment and to make it possible for the States to deal with problems of education on a local basis might sometime receive serious consideration in Congress.

Frosh Candidates Reveal Platforms

By Doug Lientz

Editor's Note—For the freshman elections this year The Technician is making an attempt to obtain the views of all candidates for class office on a topic relating to the job they are seeking.

In order to do this, a meeting of candidates was held Monday evening in The Technician's offices, at which the potential office holders were asked several questions.

We regret that some of the candidates were unable to attend this meeting.

President

One of the questions which the candidates for president were asked is "What program would you like to see the freshman class carry out this year?" Their answers are given here:

Gordy Eure
"I believe with a heck of a lot of work this class can be the best at State has seen since the last class. We should be able to give at least one formal party and then one combo party."

Jack Sullivan

"All freshman have trouble studying. After a month of living in a dorm, I've found it nearly impossible to concentrate properly on my studies with four hundred boys knocking down the walls that surround my desk. I know that most of you have the same problem and probably feel that something should be done. If elected, I would try to arrange a plan with the administration concerning the operation of evening study halls. Students must have a particular time and place to study if they are to make the average they hope to achieve. Study halls and open studies would be, in my estimation, a great help."

"Another program that I would like to see take hold at State is a closer relationship between students and their advisors and teachers. Your parents aren't sacrificing thousands of dollars for your education only to have you drop out at the end of the first or second term. If the teachers and advisors were in closer contact with their students, much of this problem would be eliminated."

Tommy Edwards

"The Freshman class should have more consideration and recognition from the upperclassmen and their officers. It should and can distinguish itself through able leadership and cooperation from the administration and upperclasses. The freshmen are now considered not college students but, rather, vacationing high school students. A more outspoken approach to student affairs by the president of the freshman class would greatly reduce this unfavorable attitude. It is now time for the class officers to become active, working leaders rather than dormant figureheads!"

Pressly Gilbert

"As far as a definite program is concerned, I believe that there are a few promising doors open to the freshman administration. First of all, it has come to my attention that there are many students who feel that Student Government plays too lax a role in the affairs which it manages, and moreover, that Holladay Hall can be relieved of some of its duties which the students feel they are capable of handling themselves. I do not feel that this is a criticism of either party, but more of a plea for a reapportionment of power, and I believe that the students and their elected officers are quite capable of presenting and carrying out such a program."

Vice President

The candidates for vice-president, like the candidates for president, were asked, "What program would you like to see the freshman class carry out this year?" Their answers are as follows:

Chip Andrews

"It is my belief that the main job of the vice president should be to unite the students with their government. If I am elected to this office, I will establish a freshman council with which I will meet once a month or as often as necessary to discuss the wishes, problems, and thoughts of our class. This council would be made up of students from different housing areas, so as to get a cross-section of the opinions of the student body. Once these wishes are out in the open, and known by the officers, they can be acted upon to change them from wishes to realities."

"I will endeavor to raise the status and participation of our class in three main areas. These are academic, athletic, and social."

"In the academic area, more credit should be given to our freshman honor society, Pi Eta Sigma, for this is the group that truly represents the accomplishment which we should all be striving to attain. More emphasis should also be put on the freshman average as a whole, for our average this year will have much bearing on what we do at State College in all other areas in the future."

"Where we can not all participate in the freshman athletic teams, we can do two things which will show that our class is also well rounded in this field. A strong support should be obtained for our freshman teams, for after all these are the teams which will eventually make up our varsity. I would like to also urge more use of the truly wonderful opportunity we have in the Physical Education Department."

"The freshman - sophomore dance is, of course, the highlight of social activities for our class. Although social activities are not included in the curriculum at State College, I am sure that we would all agree that this is a basic part of our education and should not be neglected. Along this line I urge full participation in this dance, as well as innumerable other social activities which should prove enjoyable as well as beneficial to us."

"I am of the opinion that it is too early for any campaigning officer to make specific and individual promises. The platform on which I stand is a series of general ideas that will, if carried out, create a better representative government for our class."

Ferman Wardell

"The Freshman Class should, I think, unite in group spirit for their school and add a smoother coherence in relations to its class and the upper classes. Each member of our class should in his own way strive to make other schools have an opinion of us of friendliness and combined school loyalty in all intra-school activities. We should make the three upper classes think that we are as much a part of this school and as important as they are."

Walton W. Rogers

"In very simple terms, my platform is for every freshman to learn—learn not only about his curriculum, but about college life and his fellow students as well. Learning about one's fellow students is especially important because it molds their future. This learning can and must go on throughout the entire year. College life would be much more exciting if each freshman could walk across campus and be able to say, "There go two freshmen," or "I met him; he is a freshman." I realize this is very idealistic, but if this project of getting to know each other is carried out only on a small scale, I believe it can be very beneficial to each of us."

"Platforms in the past have been stated, carried out, and have succeeded and failed. This is one platform that will be carried out, and it must succeed if we are to have the best class at State College—our class of 1966!"

LeRoy Honeycutt

"The main program I would like to see carried out by the freshmen is more activity in school functions. The average college freshman carries seven main subjects. He has to allow enough time to study and sleep. However, he still finds time to do many other items. If every freshman went to the football games, played a sport, or had at least one other interest, he would enjoy college life more. The average student has to study a great deal, but he should find some field of interest to become active in. This is not a major program, but it is a simple program that would help the student understand the college and its functions."

Smith Stokes

"The most desirable addition to the freshman class program would be a more active part in the overall State College Student Government. Freshmen make up a large portion of the students at State and should be represented as such. This is why I think that the most desirable addition would be a move toward a more powerful freshman class. This would carry through to make us a more powerful class in '66."

Rex Kelly

"I would like to see the Freshman class carry through more self government. I also would like to see the class take part more in student activities. I think that the class should have more say-so in the way the students are governed. One of the things that should be done is the lowering of the "humps" behind Tucker and Owen dorms. Another thing is to try more at getting more school spirit."

Walter Wicker

"I would like to see our freshman class be the leaders in developing for State a two party system leading to a two house system. Registering in the party of their choice, a person would receive more in the way of a practical education. The two houses of the system I purpose, would be the House of Representatives, composed of elected representatives from all dormitories and off-campus housing. The Senate would be comprised of representatives of the various schools on campus. This would allow more participation in our government by the student as well as better representation, giving the individual student a more rounded education."

Treasurer:

The candidates for treasurer were asked "How do you think Freshman-Sophomore finances could be improved? Their answers are this:

Charles R. Bennett

"The freshman - sophomore class financial matters are at present, I believe, run in conjunction with each other. The money in the freshman treasury is carried over to the sophomore treasury. However, until I look into the entire operation in detail I do not have any definite suggestions for improvement."

Sylvia Williams

"The relationship of the freshman and sophomore finances could be improved by combining their efforts. Since the two classes sponsor a dance, they could work together for the benefit of both classes by joining their finances instead of individually trying to handle their shares."

Jackie Mitchell

"The relationship between freshmen and sophomore class finances could be improved by more co-operation between freshmen and sophomore officers. I also propose that a joint committee be formed between the officers of the two classes to study the present situation and determine steps to be taken in the future."

Secretary

The candidates for Secretary were asked, "How will you keep the freshman class informed of its officer's decisions?" Their answers are as stated:

Theda Bundy

"By putting all minutes of the officers' meetings in The Technician, especially emphasizing the more important points of the meetings.

"By encouraging attendance at freshman class meetings, therefore, keeping the students in touch with their officers.

"By posting minutes at various accessible points around campus so students can keep informed.

"By sending minutes to fraternity houses."

Fran Mayton

"The biggest secretaries duties informing her class matters. This she must make posters and student bulletins. She must see that all projects and happenings are publicised to the fullest extent."

Joy Johnson

"I intend to keep informed of decisions of class officers by keeping a record of them."

Fraternity Football Nears Completion

By Vello Kuskra

Monday's interfraternity football brought smiles and cheers for the top teams of each league and confusion and "gnashing of teeth" to the teams battling for second place. As if spurred by ghosts from the past, the "also-runs" rose to smite panic into the entire play-off system.

Although the four top teams have been determined, even a Houdini with a dozen crystal balls couldn't predict the four teams which will occupy second place in each league.

First the Smiles

In league #1, Sigma Nu looked more and more like the defending champion as they rolled over PKP 34-6. Brock, the Sigma Nu quarterback, had a field day with his pin point passing to Huntsman and Williams. Brock scored the first touchdown on an end run, then passed to Huntsman for the second, and to Williams for the third. Phillips, the reserve quarterback, passed for two scores, one to Huntsman and one to Williams to close the scoring. PKP managed to push across one six pointer as the Nu's line held the PKP's to a total of 28 yards.

Bad News

And now for the "gnashing of teeth." SAM defeated Kappa Sig 7-0 to totally confuse the picture, for now both SAM and Kappa Sig have 2-3 records and PKP is 1-4. Barring an inevitable bad bounce, Sigma Nu will be the favorite in play-off competition, with Kappa Sig occupying the No. 2 slot.

In league #2, PKA surprised a riddled SPE squad 18-6. PKA displayed a smooth offense and a well organized defense to defeat the Sig Ep's and are now in sole possession of first place with a 4-1 record. May passed for two PKA TD's to Morrison and Gray. SPE tallied on a Morton to Steifel pass to close the score gap but could not get its offensive machine out of second gear. TKE virtually passed by Sigma Pi 20-0. Moore passed for three touchdowns; two to Goodnight, the first for forty-five yards, the second for eighteen yards, and then one yard to Frelund. TKE rolled up 131 yards while their defense held Sigma Pi. PKA looms as the champs of league #2 with

When a cigarette means a lot...

Lots More from L&M

more body
in the blend more flavor in the smoke more taste
through the filter

It's the rich-flavor leaf that does it! Among L&M's choice tobaccos there's more of the milder-aged, extra-cured leaf than even in some unfiltered cigarettes. And with L&M's modern filter—the Miracle Tip—only pure white touches your lips. Get more from L&M—the filter cigarette for people who really like to smoke.

...for a life of pride and purpose

Among the young people being graduated from college in these times, there are some who think and feel—perhaps a little more deeply than the others—about the world we live in, the future we face. They ask, "How can I make my career really meaningful? More than just personally rewarding?"

And many of today's most successful young people are finding a fulfilling answer to these questions as officers on the Aerospace Team... the United States Air Force. They can tell you that no career could better combine the opportunity for achievement—and the deep inner satisfaction of knowing that they are helping preserve the very future of America.

How can you become an Air Force Officer?

If you are a college senior and not currently enrolled in ROTC, Air Force Officer Training School provides an opportunity to qualify for a wide variety of career fields. The graduate of this three-month course receives a commission as a second lieutenant. As the Air Force continues its technological advance, officers with college training will move into positions of increasing importance.

For full information—including the opportunity to earn graduate degrees at Air Force expense—see the Air Force Selection Team when it visits your college, visit your local Air Force Recruiting Office, or write: Air Force Officer Career Information, Dept. SC210, Box 805, New York 1, New York.

SPE entering the play-off in the No. 2 spot.

KA Leads League #3

Kappa Alpha locked its claim for league #3 leadership as it defeated a slumping PKT squad 12-6. Delta Sig won its second game in a row, 8-0 over LCA and entered the play-off picture. A nineteen yard pass from Bare to Franklin was the game's lone TD. LCA, Delta Sig, and PKT are all tied for second place with 2-3 records. Kappa Alpha has top spot "sewn up" in this league with DSP the likely second prospect.

League #4 saw the undefeated really taste the bitter pill as Sigma Chi was rudely bounced, first on Thursday by SAE 13-0 and then, contrary to all expectations, soundly beaten by Theta Chi 21-0 on Monday. In Thursday's game, Shotton directed the attack as he scored the first TD on a short run and then passed to Parker for the second score. In Monday's reversal, Dellostrito and Kirkman directed the Theta Chi victory. SAE walloped Farmhouse in the day's big mismatch 53-6. The "thunder and lighting" combination, Shotton and Brown, were the big stars, but the entire SAE squad deserved praise. Shotton and Brown were responsible for seven of the scores while Wooten, McClain and Bone also entered the scoring picture. SAE will be the league's champion, and with a few breaks may enter the winner's circle at the end of the play-offs. Sigma Chi can rebound from its setbacks and be the #2 team, but it will have to play its best to do so.

At the present Sigma Nu and SAE loom as the favorites in play-off competition with PKA and SPE in the 'dark horse' category.

Linney also said that when work begins on the production, a regular schedule of tryouts and rehearsals will supplant the more informal attendance requirements of the drama workshop.
