State Prof Edits 'Bible Of Textiles'

Professor Dame S. Hamby, professor of textiles at State College, is editing the New American Cotton Handbook, to be published in 1963.

Four other professors from the School of Textiles are contributing chapters to the handbook.

The American Cotton Handbook is considered to be the "bible" of the cotton textile industry by most American manufacturers and many foreign manufacturers.

Interscience Division of John Wylie asked me to edit this book. "We believe this was due in part to the Handbook on Testing and Quality Control which we published last year." He also stated that the publishers expect an initial circulation of 10-12,000 copies.

Hamby is being aided in this project by a seventeen-member advisory board, which includes Dr. Malcolm E. Campbell, dean of the Textile School, and Dr. H. Y. Jennings of the Textile School.

According to Professor Hamby, there will be an "almost complete revision" of the book. Thirty-one experts in the textile field are contributing to the twenty-six chapter book said Hamby. Four of the contributors, Professor J. F. Bogdan, Prof. W. E. Shinn, Prof. K. S. Cambell, and L. L. Heffner are from the State College School of Textiles.

Hamby pointed out that the handbook has not been revised since 1949. "The publishers, the

IFC Pledges Campus Chest Full Support

IFC last night pledged 100 per cent support to the Campus Chest Drive.

"In the past we have always supported Campus Chest 100 per cent," according to Fred Millhiser, IFC representative to the Campus Chest. "IFC hopes the fraternities will do this again."

Campus Chest is seeking $5,000 among State College's students. Its drive opens Sunday with students as solicitors.

Work Finally Begins On Fraternity Row

The nine year-old Fraternity Row project is finally becoming a reality.

The fraternities expect to move in during September, 1963. All roads are now in and some foundations have been laid. No serious delays have occurred yet.

At present, space is available for twenty-five houses.

The project was started in 1956 because of the condition of most of the houses at that time, according to Tom Covington, assistant director of student affairs.

The off campus houses, in many cases, failed to meet the standards of the Raleigh Fire Department and the Raleigh Board of Health. This, according to Covington, was not the fault of the fraternities. They were faced with the problem of living in houses designed for one or two families, and they had no new locations to which they could move.

In 1956 the Interfraternity Council began planning the project in order to obtain better facilities for eating, sleeping, studying and recreation.

Each of the twelve houses now under construction will cost about $100,000 each. They will include sleeping facilities for forty men. Fraternities participating in the project were selected on the basis of membership and available cash.

The project is being financed through a loan from the Federal Government. It will be repaid by the monthly house rental payments over a period of forty years. After the loan has been paid off, the fraternities will continue to pay rent to the College.

The houses will remain under the control of the fraternity as long as the chapter remains in good standing with the College and the IFC, and is able to meet its payments.

If the charter for the chapter is revoked the lease for the house will be cancelled. Any furniture purchased by the fraternity may be sold by the fraternity, and the funds thus obtained used to pay the outstanding debts of the fraternity. Anything left from these funds will become the property of the IFC.

Each fraternity will be expected to buy the furniture for its own house.

The estimated cost of running one of these houses for one year is $38,000.

The College will exercise the same control over the new houses that it has over the off-campus houses at the present time. Housemothers will be required for all of them.

After years of breathless expectation on the part of students, work on Fraternity Row is finally getting under way. This is the site of one of the twelve houses now under construction.

Study Rooms Unassigned For General Night Usage

Study rooms for the general use of the students have not been made available this year.

According to Charles P. Greyer, Assistant Director of Registration, the rooms which were assigned last year were not used by a sufficiently large number of students to warrant reassignment this year. The rooms in Page Hall were for the use of the student body to study for mid-term exams. Study rooms for the fraternities have been assigned in Harrelson, however. Also, the College Union has several rooms in Harrelson which can be assigned for special group meetings if space in the CU runs out.

Mr. Greyer said, however, that rooms will be assigned in Harrelson for student study if there is a sufficient demand and this is made known to Thomas L. Covington, Jr., assistant director of student activities in room 206, Holladay Hall.

All Evening College classes except chemistry labs and physics labs have been moved to Harrelson, according to Mr. Greyer. The labs are being held in Withers and Daniels Halls respectively.

The reason for this change is the lack of janitorial service in all buildings except Harrelson. M&O has made special arrangements to have janitors on duty to clean up after the classes and fraternity study, Greyer stated.

Bag-pipes Well-Received

By Jim Massfeller

Last night, The Royal Scots Greys and The Argyll and Sutherland Highlanders performed before a packed Coliseum.

The two regimental bands are composed of 30 bagpipe players and 70 military players. The two bands began to play together last spring. They have been touring England and Scotland and, this September, they started a tour of Canada and the U.S. They performed at the Seattle World Fair, the Hollywood Bowl, and in many large cities in the U.S. and Canada.

In a personal interview with William Miles, the traveling manager of the combined bands, this reporter learned many interesting things. For instance, it is almost impossible to take bagpipe lessons or buy a bagpipe. If a person plays the bagpipes, the chances are that his father and grandfather played the bagpipes and that his pipes have been in the family for many years.

Mr. Miles said that "It is a grueling experience and minor crises arise along the way". At times a bandsman will forget some small item such as his glasses or his uniform and so forth. Miles also said, "The men all liked what parts of the U.S. that they have seen and several would like to come back again."

The selections that were played were all traditional Scottish songs that have been handed down from year to year. There is very little written music for the selections and the men have memorized all of them and when to play them.

The concert finished with Dixie and Auld Lang Syne.

Band Plays In Cafeteria

The Stage Band will give concerts in Leazar Hall Monday and Thursday nights during the evening meal. The musicians, under the direction of J. Perry Watson, are members of the regular State College Band. (Photo by Andrews)

Indians To Observe 'Festival Of Lights' Here This Weekend

Sunday night there will be an "India Night" in the College Union ballroom celebrating Deepavali, the Indian "Festival of Lights." Tickets are 75¢ each and will be on sale in the College Union through Thursday night.

Indian decorations, Indian food, and an evening of entertainment will highlight the affair. India Night is a part of International Night, which will be sponsored by the College Union International Committee.

Humps Not Isolated

The cartoon from Tempo, the undergraduate magazine of the University of Miami proves that humps, or bumps, are not restricted to State College. Fortunately, however, State students will not have to be like the boy in the picture for much longer. A bill, submitted to Chancellor Caldwell by the College Traffic Committee, was approved yesterday by the Chancellor. This bill called for the lowering of the humps, but not for their removal.

Why Is SG Ignored?

Student newspapers historically are opposed to student governments. This split is probably caused by the desire of student editors to have a big issue on which to comment. When old stand-bys such as food in the cafeteria or administrative controls becomes stale, there is always the student government to criticize.

We have always tried to stay away from the idea that any organization is basically wrong and that "no matter what they do, we will fight it," but now we have a criticism of the State College Student Government which strikes directly at its base—the legislature.

Overall, legislation passed by this body is not acted upon by the administration or parties to which it is directed. If State College had the sort of administration which was unreceptive to student opinion and went its merry way without considering effects of its actions upon the student body, this would be understandable; but anyone familiar with State College knows that this is not the case. An example of this was found when the recent assignments for fallout shelters were made. The Chancellor called a meeting to discuss campus fallout shelters and it was interesting to note that more students were present than administrators, staff, or faculty.

On a broader scale, President Friday has talked to the Consolidated University Student Council on topics of interest to students at the three universities twice during the year and has asked for students thoughts on different subjects.

Therefore, we have to place the blame for the impotency of Student Government on the Student Legislature itself.

Bills coming before the Student Legislature usually originate in committees, and this is where the major weakness of the body lies.

The fact is that a large percentage of the bills passed by the legislature do not warrant consideration by parties to which they are directed because they are hastily put together and do not take all enough factors into consideration. More than once, we have seen a bill which is passed by the Legislature be rejected for valid reasons by a responsible person. In fact, a study of legislation forwarded to the administration in the last two years will show that more than half was not acted upon.

Bills coming before the Student Legislature usually originate in the various committees, and this seems to be the place where the weakness of the body lies.

If the drafters of the bills would do more than put down on paper their first thoughts on a subject and would do research to find out all ramifications of the problems they are trying to alleviate, much better legislation, increased respect for Student Government, and more acceptance of their ideas would result.

To Complete A Call...

One thing which came to light while investigating a story in the College Union Tuesday is that there is no possible way for a student to call into or out of the College Union, or to have a student paged in the College Union unless you "know the ropes".

To have a student paged, you simply tell the main desk that he is a professor.

To call in or out, you use the Activities office phone. The phone at Main Desk and the Games Desk is "no longer available to students"—the group which pays for them. GB

Candidates Criticized; C U Telephones

To the Editor:

There have been some comments concerning the new telephone system recently installed at the College Union. If you feel that a printed explanation would be helpful, one follows herewith:

The College Union has for many years provided the only telephone directory service for students on campus. An attempt is made to keep an up-to-date card file of all students' current addresses and telephone numbers. With the considerable increase in the size of the student body in the past few years, the requests for directory information began to swamp the building phone system to such a point that normal use for other business purposes often became impossible. Many complaints were received from all over the campus. Telephone service had become most unsatisfactory for students, faculty and staff.

In an effort to improve this situation, a survey was made by both the telephone company and the college telephone office. Two alternatives were suggested. One was to install a complete telephone switch board and to employ operators to man it. This, of course, would be extremely expensive—more so than our budget can handle at the present time.

The other alternative, and the one which we have adopted, is to reserve two direct lines for directory service and to add two college switchboard extensions. One number, TE 4-7310, is reserved for non-directory calls into the building after the college switchboard closes at 5:30 p.m.

Students using the building for college activities have a number of building phones for business purposes. Student Government has its own direct line, and students engaged in any other activities may dial outside on any of the extensions. Students working in the building may be reached if called on TE 4-7310 after 5:30 p.m. or, if the call is being placed from a college extension, by dialing extension 378. If students need to be contacted before 5:30 p.m.

they may be reached by calling extensions 378, 621, 622 through the college switchboard or TE 4-7310.

The best advice we can get from the telephone company, is that this system will improve the service, and although it has been in operation for only a short time it appears to be working much better. It will, however, take a while for everyone to become familiar with the new arrangements.

Unfortunately, for many years we have been unable to provide free service for faculty or student personal calls. There are several pay stations in the building available for this purpose.

We are eager to receive suggestions as to how we can improve the system and hope that any problems will be brought to our attention as soon as possible.

To the Editor:

For an election to be effective, the voting public must be informed of the qualifications of each candidate. But does this education have to be carried out with the complete disregard of your fellow students?

A good candidate should show respect for his prospective voters and the group in front of Alexander Dormitory Tuesday night certainly did not demonstrate this quality. I believe that I have the right to study in my room any time during the day. Studying can not be done with a loud-speaker and record player blaring in your window.

When the President of the Interdormitory Council asked them to leave, they were uncooperative. I do not believe this equipment was intended to be used this way. If the candidates can not use a little more discretion, the Student Government should use a little more control.

What Is Under Scotsmen's Kilts?

When asked what Scotsmen wear under their kilts, Major Gerald Hadow, commanding officer of the Argyll and Sutherland Highlanders, said, "That is a professional secret."

The members of the band are not part of a show, according to Major Hadow, they are regular members of the army and are subject to active duty.

A large majority of the men in the band joined the army to get an education in music. Most of them are career soldiers having served anywhere from 6 to 22 years.

Although this is their first appearance in the US, some of the men had appeared before in Madison Square Gardens.

Major Hadow said that they had been very well received everywhere they had appeared in the US.

IA Convention Slated For State

By Jim Cox

On November 9 and 10, representatives from industrial arts departments of many Southeastern colleges and universities will convene at N. C. State.

The purpose of this convention is to consider organizing an Industrial Arts Conference of the Southeastern states. The aim of the proposed conference will be "to promote and improve industrial arts in the Southeastern states," according to Dr. Ivan Hostetler, head of Industrial Arts of N. C. State.

A panel discussion is planned for Saturday morning at the CU. Also on Saturday, each representative will present the nature of the industrial arts program at his respective college or university.

To the Editor:

I have just finished reading your "space filling" editorial in Wednesday night's Technician. I am referring to your editorial headed "IDC Over SG?" Since When!

It would appear to me to be an attempt to create a controversy between the Student Government and the Inter-dormitory Council. In my opinion, the Inter-dormitory Council was not even involved in the incident. That Gerald Robertson is IDC president has no bearing on the incident whatsoever. Gerald was acting in his capacity as dorm counselor of Alexander Dorm.

In my opinion, Gerald had every right to interfere with a rally that was obviously in bad taste and much, much too loud. I offer as his license two quotes from a notebook given to all dorm counselors at the beginning of the year. It states, "Your duties are many and varied but your primary responsibility is the welfare of the students in your dormitory. You are employed to assist in making their stay in the dormitory as pleasant and profitable as possible."

It further states, "You are to assist students and to correct situations which tend to make the dormitory less desirable as a place to live."

I know that the rally made it impossible for me to sleep or study in my room, and Tucker Dorm was the least affected of the dorms. The racket in the Alexander—Turlington area was almost unbearable, as dorm counselor of Tucker Dorm, I can safely say that if such a rally were held in front of my dorm, I would make every effort to break it up as quickly as possible. This would be my duty as dorm counselor as it was Gerald Robertson's duty.

In conclusion, I state that Gerald Robertson is not guilty of usurpation of power but should be commended for exercising his powers as a responsible dorm counselor in stopping a rally that was obviously an abuse of the privilege granted to the candidates by the Student Government.

Profile . . . The Four Preps

Saturday, at 1:00 p.m. the IFC will present the Four Preps in the Coliseum.

The Four Preps started their career in a talent show at Hollywood High in 1955. They were well-liked and soon were asked to perform at every free entertainment.

The Preps' first hit was "Dreamy Eyes" and the next year, their "Twenty-six Miles" became their first million seller. They followed over the years with many more big hits.

It was mid-summer in 1961 when their first best-selling album, "The Four Preps on Campus" was released. Since that time they have played at every well-known campus in the country and have appeared at many top night clubs.

Bruce Belland, Glen Larson, Marven Ingram, and Ed Cobb make this one of the most popular vocal groups in the nation. They have broken an attendance record in almost every appearance they have made on college campuses.

Student Creates Toad

By Cora Kemp

A toad wandered in the The Technician office one night this semester.

And with him came The Technician's new cartoonist.

Herb Allred, a sophomore in EE, has kept the office hopping with toads since that night.

Herb began sketching pictures of toads on homework papers in high school. "But," he told a Technician reporter, "I didn't start putting them in cartoons until last fall."

Herb went on to say, "I tried to get them published in Playboy and The Raleigh Times, but all I got were big, impressive rejection slips."

Heeding the advice of his ex-roommate, Herb brought the toad cartoons to The Technician wonderful," he commented. "I was so glad that somebody liked them."

"The biggest objection by the others was the fact that my cartoons were not syndicated, but they probably just didn't want to hurt my feelings," the young cartoonist remarked with a slight grin.

At this stage, the warty little toad had no name. But the problem was soon remedied by The Technician staff as they a toad because the toads always seem to be the underdogs."

Herb became interested in toads as a result of his "terrible desire to create."

"I began wondering how I'd draw a toad if I had to," he said.

start a humor magazine but he could not get any help. "I lost interest in it and the whole thing fell apart," he added.

He was selling Bibles in Indiana at this time. "But that didn't work out either. I broke out in measles in July and after that I met a girl. Somewhere along the line, the Bible selling job ended," Herb recalled.

"At the present time, I'm writing a short novel, A Race of Blue Toads. I don't know when I will finish it: I'm in no hurry. I started it two summers ago," he continued.

Besides this, Herb is a ham radio operator, plays a guitar, and occasionally tries his hand at song writing "when I don't have anything else to do."

Herb lived in several towns in North Carolina and Tennessee while he was in high school. His home is now in Asheboro, North Carolina.

The Bookstacker serves the cause of classical literature in various ways. Perhaps the least of these is in keeping the rows of books properly aligned and the jackets free of dust.

Her most important contribution is in improving the environment for study, enhancing the halls of learning with her own classical form. Many a college man has discovered a previously unmet craving for knowledge simply because he received his copy of Homer from the hand of a deep-breathing redhead who sighed, "I think Homer is the most!" Yes, it pays to take a good look at the classics now and then.

'Immovable Object' To Meet 'Irresistible Force' Saturday

State, the Atlantic Coast Conference's top defensive team against rushing, and South Carolina, the leading rushing team, will battle it out in Columbia, S. C. this Saturday.

Something will have to give on the ground unless the teams resort to passing for their major offensive punch. South Carolina has averaged 199 yards rushing per game while the Wolfpack has an average of 120 yards in each of its seven games. Both figures are conference leading marks.

The passing records of the two teams are also noteworthy of contrast. The Gamecocks are best in pass defense, but Earle Edwards' Wolfpack is last in pass offense in the ACC.

State's sturdy defense against rushing will be tested to the ultimate this week with speedy and elusive Billy Gambrell running behind what State scout Ernie Driscoll calls the "most aggressive blocking line in the ACC".

Gambrell leads the ACC in rushing with 452 yards and a 6.2 average gain per attempt. Sophomore quarterback Dan Reeves also ranks among conference rushing and total offense leaders, with 235 yards of his 814 total coming on the ground.

State does not have a man listed among the top rushing leaders, but junior quarterback Jim Rossi ranks fifth in total offense. Rossi has gained 479 yards passing for the greatest part of his 611 yards. Halfback Tony Kozarsky leads the Pack in rushing with 170 yards and a 4.0 yard average.

For the Gamecocks, "Jim Moss, Joel Goodrich at the tackles, ends John Caskey and Ken Lester, and guard John Jones are all outstanding linemen," said Edwards. He added, "South Carolina has been getting better each game, and after their showing against Virginia, it looks like we are going to hit them at their peak."

State is expected to counter these strong Gamecocks with the same two-unit team that has been doing most of the playing all season. Edwards substitutes by individuals rather than by team most of the time.

Since North Carolina State and South Carolina resumed their football rivalry on a yearly basis in 1956, the series had been closely contested until State's 38-14 win last year. State leads the recent revival with three wins, two losses and a tie.

Two of the games, both played in Columbia, proved vital in Atlantic Coast Conference championships. In 1957, the Wolfpack and Gamecocks were tied 26-26 at the games end, but a penalty against South Carolina on the last play of the game gave State one final play. That was Dick Christy's 46-yard field goal that won the game 29-26, and gave the Wolfpack its only ACC football championship. All-America Christy got all 29 points that day.

The Wolfpack came close to another ACC title in 1960, but this time the Gamecocks foiled State. The teams tied 8-8. A win would have given the Wolfpack a share of the ACC championship with Duke.

Currently, South Carolina is 2-3 in the ACC with a 2-4-1 overall. State's record is 1-3 in the ACC with a 1-5-1 overall. Both teams' ties were to Georgia.
