Some Gone, Others Going

By Ernie McCrary

Christmas vacation.

Tomorrow.

Yipeeeeeeee!

The mass exodus officially begins at 6 p.m. tomorrow night, but unofficially it has been going on since noon today. Some people are lucky enough not to have Thursday classes—others don't mind cutting them.

We'll be scattering far and wide as fast as we can. Some will venture to Philadelphia and brave the Yankee climate (but can it get much colder than it has been here lately) to watch the Wolfpack tangle in a long-awaited bowl game.

But most of us will head for HOME. There we'll find all the things that make Christmas—home cooking . . . Christmas trees . . . girl friends . . . gifts . . . old high school buddies . . . girl friends . . . time to loaf . . . parties . . . thoughts of finals coming up soon . . . girl friends . . . and a few of us might even remember the real purpose of the holiday.

Unfortunately, however, before it all hardly gets started it will be over.

January 6. Day of infamy. Week of quizzes. Time to start thinking about next Christmas.

Old Smokestack Is Being Razed

By Jim Rea

After standing for about fifty years, the smokestack of State's old power plant is being torn down because it has become a hazard.

A contractor from Charlotte who usually paints water towers was hired to tear down the State landmark.

The ninety-foot stack will be cut down to height of about twenty feet in a couple of days, according to one of the workmen.

The mortar has begun to decompose and lightning apparently hit it a number of years ago, the workman said.

The stack was built about 1911 for the power plant which is now the Industrial Education Shop Building. The stack is used as an exhaust for the kilns in the shop.

To get to the top of the stack, the men had to knock a hole in the side of it about twenty feet from the ground, then climb up a ladder that was built into the inside.

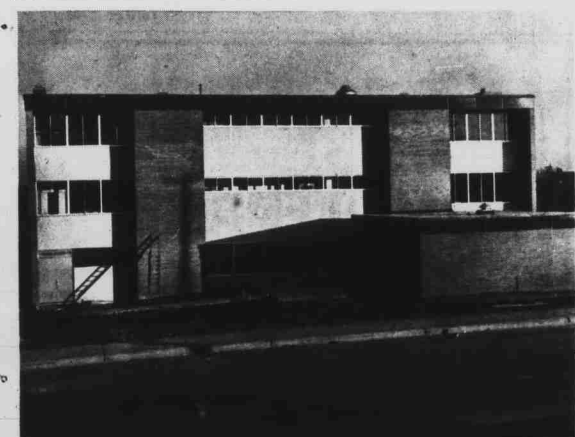

A workman said that the bricks from the stack will probably be sold.

President Misquoted By "Poop"

Mimeographed papers appeared in some dormitories last night.

The unsigned newsletter, entitled "The Inside Poop," was divided into three parts: news, sports, and politics. Among other things, it quoted the president of the Consolidated University as saying "at the biggest pep rally in the history of N. C. State . . . I have absolute proof that basketball . . . at N. C. State is a body-building game as well as a molder of character. Our team deserves a full Christmas holiday just like the regular students."

President Friday, when contacted by The Technician, said the statement was a "complete falsehood and fabrication."

FRATERNITY ROW NEARING COMPLETION . . . by spring? . . .

Christmas Concert

Jim Reid, mayor of Raleigh, reads "The Night Before Christmas" at last night's concert given by State's Symphonic Band and glee clubs.

The band opened the performance with a medley of Christmas music and the grand finale combined the Collegiate Men's Glee Club, the Varsity Men's Glee Club, and the band in "The Legend of the Bells." (Photo by Cashion)

Night School Requires 2.0 QP Average

By Grant Blair

State's classes will extend until 10 p.m. beginning February 3.

This is reflected in the announcement that students who do not have a 2.0 average will be ineligible for next semester's night classes.

This new requirement came about as a result of recommendations made to the Chancellor last spring by a seven-man committee headed by J. B. Kirkland, Dean of Education.

According to Kirkland, "It seemed logical that the same requirements should apply to students going to school from 7 until 10 p.m. as are now applied to students attending from 8 a.m. until 6 p.m."

The committee, stated Kirkland, recommended that the teaching day be extended until 10 p.m. As a part of this change, night classes were separated from the extension department last spring, and placed under the supervision of the individual schools.

In the past, Kirkland explained, the extension division would hire teachers from the individual department. Now, instead of doing this, the teacher's schedule extends from 8 in the morning until 10 at night. Teachers receive no extra compensation for teaching night classes, Kirkland stated. He also pointed out that the present limitation on the number of classes which a professor may teach is still in effect. Professors now teach a maximum of fifteen hours a week.

The committee was appointed by the Chancellor, Kirkland said.

More Liberty Bowl News: State Students, NAACP

Half-Time Show

By Ernie McCrary

State's Marching Band will not be the only representatives from the school appearing during half-time ceremonies at the Liberty Bowl.

About 15 State students will carry flags representing each of the eight schools at the University and the others will have banners representing the Research Triangle and the theme of the program, "On the March," according to Hardy Berry, State's publicity director.

The flag bearers will all be dressed in maroon blazers and white trousers, he said.

Liberty Bowl officials have also asked SG President John Bynum to participate in the pageant. He will escort the Liberty Bowl Queen and will appear with her in the last portion of the half-time entertainment, Berry said.

State's Marching Band will present a six-minute long combination of pageantry and entertainment, according to J. Perry Watson, Music Department director. The band will do a series of its familiar maneuvers and end with the NCS monogram.

The "On the March Theme" will emphasize the progress North Carolina has made in the 300 years since it was founded as the first colony. Mr. and Mrs. John Fox of the "Lost Colony" staff will be dressed as Sir Walter Raleigh and Eleanor Dare, Berry said.

State's share of the program will come immediately after Mississippi State's performance and will precede the presentation of the Queen and music by a Philadelphia band.

HSC Views Honor System

The Honor Study Commission plans to make recommendations to Student Government for changes in the present honor system by the first of April.

One of the recommendations probably will be either to change the Honor Code pledge or not require students to sign it, according to Gerald Hawkins, assistant director of Student Activities.

Another possible recommendation will be to set up specific guidelines to define the responsibility of the faculty in regard to the honor system, Hawkins said.

Pickets

By Dick Paschall

The proposed NAACP picket of the Liberty Bowl in Philadelphia may be somewhat countered if other alumni and students follow the example set by a N. C. State graduate.

A. L. Kirkland of Durham and an employee of the City of Raleigh purchased two tickets to the bowl game and gave them to Wolfpack sports publicist Frank Weedon with a request that the tickets be given to underprivileged Negro children in Philadelphia.

According to Weedon, Kirkland stated that his purpose in giving away the tickets is to demonstrate that people in North Carolina are not, on the whole, extreme segregationists, and to try to take away any meaning of the NAACP picket.

The announced intention of the NAACP is to protest the appearance of Mississippi State in the bowl as that school is segregated, according to the news media.

Kirkland and Weedon have extended an invitation to other Wolfpack followers to join in this endeavor. Anyone wishing to purchase tickets for this purpose can get in touch with Weedon at the Coliseum before Friday.

Cell, Kelly Go To Cleveland For Meeting

Two State scientists will represent this institution at the 1963 meeting of the American Association for the Advancement of Science.

John W. Cell, head of the Math Department, and Harry C. Kelly, dean of the Faculty, will be off to Cleveland, Ohio, the day after Christmas. The meeting will last from December 26 through 30.

PiKA Gifts

The PiKA's are gathering supplies for a needy family.

They are collecting food and clothing for an underprivileged family this Christmas, according to David Oakley, secretary of the Pi Kappa Alpha fraternity. The family involved is a mother and her daughter who live in Cary. They have been notified of the arrangement, they will probably receive the gifts tomorrow.

CORE Members Protested Last Night At Hill

Over a dozen State students went to Chapel Hill last night to take part in anti-segregation demonstrations.

The group, composed of members of the newly formed CORE chapter on campus, was hurriedly formed yesterday evening when news of the demonstration reached members according to Dr. W. F. Edwards, sponsor of the State chapter. Although he was unsure of the exact number of students who were contacted in time to make the trip, Edwards said he was certain that twelve CORE members were present.

The delegation from State joined several other integrationist groups from the area in mass demonstrations aimed at desegregating the university town. A mass meeting was planned for 7:30 p.m., followed by a march into the downtown area. Officials expected a number of arrests to follow as demonstrators used sit-in and stand-in techniques.

Edwards said he had cautioned the students from State who had quizzes today to avoid being arrested if possible.

-Campus Crier-

All musical organizations should meet tonight in the New Cafeteria from 8:30 to 10:30 p.m. The State Stage Band will play for this meeting which will be a Christmas party.

A black billfold containing important papers and I.D. cards was lost between Leazar and Syme Dormitory. The finder is asked to contact Jerry Bergeron in 124 Syme.

A set of costume jewelry has been found behind Owen Dormitory. The owner may claim it upon identification at the Erdahl-Cloyd Union.

There will be an ASME meeting January 7 at 7 p.m. in Broughton 111. The purpose is to plan a trip for later the same week.

A Look Inside

Gratitude, grief, forgiveness, hate, popularity, disrespect . . . the list is endless with words that describe this year that is almost past.

Each American, each human being should pause and reflect on his course and aims in life. Each individual should examine his life, to analyze each action, each accomplishment, to study each defeat, to learn just what he has done, what he could have done, and what he plans to do.

The death of the President a month ago "in the summer of his years" and "under the hot Texas sun" had a sobering effect on the nation—for a few days, at least. But has a lesson been learned from the sacrifice of such a leader? Have we all taken a good look at what happened? Have we all tried to visualize just what effect this action has had and will have on our lives as Americans, as individuals?

Never is there a better time to do a little "soul searching" than at the celebration of the birth of Christ. Many persons celebrate the 25th of December, and for a multitude of reasons. The avowed intent of the holiday is to honor our God on the anniversary of the birth of our Saviour. The teachings of Jesus Christ were many and are followed today by several hundred religious sects and groups. But does each individual who calls himself a Christian actually make these teachings a part of his innermost thoughts?

Getting to the point . . . Do we know why we are here? How do we know what we know? You, the textile major . . . do you really study as you should? Do you really want the education you are paying for? And you, the MEA . . . are you doing the best you can? Are you fulfilling your dreams and ambitions?

And you, the member of the football team . . . are you satisfied with the job you are doing as an integral part of the team and as a student? Could you do better by putting forth a little more effort?

John F. Kennedy was a man for the underdog . . . he was a man who believed in youth. He is dead. Do we die too? Cannot we revive ourselves and aspire to reach never-before-attained heights of achievement? Or are we merely content with our lot in life . . . Is it easier to sit on our posteriors and watch the world go by?

It is a time to discover our purposes in life. In fact, it is high time that each of us examines his own behavior and habits. Each of us must decide if he is doing just what he feels he should do, just what he wants to do.

Let us use this Christmas season to search our souls for answers to the big questions in life. Let us all decide the purpose of our lives and the meanings that recent events carry into our lives.

Let us all celebrate Christmas for what it is. Not just a time to give your girl friend a sweater or blouse, not just a time to give your boy friend a great-looking pair of slacks from the iviest store in town, BUT A TIME TO PRAISE GOD AND ASK HIS GUIDANCE. Let us celebrate Christmas for Christ, not for Santa Claus, for the actual spirit of Christmas, not for the rest each of us hopes to find.

We of The Technician pass our warmest Christmas greetings to students, parents, alumni, and friends of the University which we know so well as State. Please, drive carefully during this long vacation and return on the 6th without any regrets of the 5th, learning from the past but not crying about it, making resolutions to put forth our supreme efforts in the future to make a better life for us and for those to follow.

Letters To Editors:

Guilt, Double-Think Hit

To the Editors:

Certain individuals say that all of us share the guilt for the assassination of President Kennedy. Let each of these persons speak only for himself as he feels led by his conscience. It is nonsense to condemn a whole nation for the crime of a person who once swore allegiance to the Soviet Union.

The assassination of President Kennedy disproves the contention that Communists present no internal threat to America. Oswald was a Marxist working for Castro. He was active in the "Fair Play for Cuba Committee," an organization a few of the students were in who visited Cuba last summer against the orders of our government.

The person who holds the office of Chief Justice of the United States said shortly after the assassination that President Kennedy was killed "as a result of the hatred and bitterness that has been injected into the life of our nation by bigots." I do not know the exact meaning that Mr. Warren has for "bigot."

He might have meant someone who opposed Mr. Kennedy's election on religious grounds, someone who opposes racial integration, or someone who takes some other position. A marxist such as Oswald could be classified as a bigot, although now it seems that "bigot" usually refers to someone of a "right-wing" persuasion. In any case, Mr. Warren passed judgment on the cause of President Kennedy's death before waiting for the facts to be made known. Of all people in the United States, the one who holds the office of Chief Justice would be expected to be the last to prejudice a situation of such serious nature. Regardless of the accuracy of his quick conclusion, the kind of prejudice exemplified by his statements is increasing in America.

Senator Barry Goldwater received a number of abusive letters and telegrams immediately after the assassination of President Kennedy. Senator John Tower also received threatening letters. The abuse heaped on them and other conservatives probably resulted from comments through news media that the right wing element may have been responsible for the assassination. The hasty public statements of Mr. Warren and others certainly did nothing to discourage these hate letters.

President Kennedy's assassination is due to hatred. Marxism is based on hatred—the class struggle. Let us resolve that President Kennedy will not have died in vain, that hatred and prejudice will be replaced by love and fairmindedness on the part of all Americans.

Tom Buchanan

To the Editors:

It would seem that the age of double-think is already upon us. The December 16 issue of The Technician, presents two editorials with opposite points of view. In the first editorial, the editor carries forth his attacks on the speaker ban law, which bans left-wing extremists on University campuses. In the second editorial, the editor states that Americans "are guilty of the President's death) by allowing extremism of the Left and Right. Well, which do you want, to allow extremism or not to allow it?"

The speaker ban bill does not go far enough. It should ban leaders of the American Nazi Party from speaking on University campuses, also.

The speaker ban bill will pass in Virginia, not to take action against any Virginia school professors, but simply because it is a good bill. It seeks to stop political extremists from converting the minds of college students. Freedom is relative. You, don't allow people the freedom to do away with their freedom.

There is a misconception in the second editorial that should be cleared up. The political opposite of the Communist party is not the John Birch Society. It is the political extreme known as the American Nazi Party. The political opposite of the Birch Society is the ADA (Americans for Democratic Action).

Sincerely,
Charles L. Williams

Chain Letters Involve Savings Bonds

A rash of chain letters involving U.S. Savings Bonds have hit the Wake Forest campus.

The letters have been ruled in violation of both postal lottery and fraud laws, according to a recent communication from the U.S. Treasury Department.

At its height, the campus branch of Wachovia Bank experienced a run on its supply of $25 savings bonds.

In the campus operation, only the bonds were sent by mail and the letter delivered by hand. Some students contacted local lawyers, who told them while the Government frowned on the practice, it did not constitute a violation of federal laws.

Under the chain letter plan, a student was told that it would be possible for him to receive bonds totaling $4,800.

According to some sources, the first letter to appear on the campus was brought from Carson-Newman College in Tennessee.

From here the letter was carried to other schools, including North Carolina State, Salem College, Davidson College and Duke.

UNC Students Who Complain About Seats Get Money Back

Students unhappy with their primarily end-zone tickets to the Gator Bowl can refund them, according to Chuck Erickson, UNC director of athletics.

Erickson said UNC had no control over what seats are made available to Carolina fans. He remarked that he understands student resentment over the location of seats but did the best he could.

One student pointed out that the uproar over seating might not have arisen if students had been told where the tickets were located when they went on sale.

Spring Banquets May Be Combined

Several campus organizations may combine their annual spring banquets into one big affair, according to Henry Bowers, director of the Erdahl-Cloyd Union.

Bowers said the IDC, IFC, Student Government, Publications' Board, and the Union have expressed interest in a joint banquet.

However, no formal meetings have been held by the groups to determine the feasibility of the plan, he said.

Bowers expressed hope that such a meeting would be held before the spring semester.

One of the basic ideas behind a combined banquet is the possibility of obtaining a speaker of national prominence, he noted.

Industrial Mag Features NCS Product Design

State's School of Design has achieved national recognition in the recent issue of Industrial Design, the magazine of the industrial designing profession.

In its latest issue, the magazine featured an article called "Education of a Designer" which features the department of Product Design at State. The introductory statement is by Victor Papanek, head of the department, and the article highlights work being done by students in developing surgical instruments and products for underdeveloped countries.

According to Papanek, the British magazine Design will also feature material on the School of Design in a coming issue. The third of the world's three industrial design publications, Ulm, plans to devote half of one issue during the first part of next year to State's School of Design.

Glazener To Head Land Grant Deans

Dr. E. W. Glazener, director of instruction for the School of Agriculture, will be chairman of Agricultural deans and directors of instruction for land-grant colleges in the South in 1964.

These southern deans and directors come from all the land-grant colleges in the states from Virginia south and from Texas east and in Puerto Rico.

As chairman, Dr. Glazener will be responsible for presiding at the southern section meetings, planning the policies and programs for this area, and representing this area to the national Association of Land-Grant Colleges and Universities.

Dr. Glazener's election was announced last November at the annual meeting of the Association of Land-Grant Institutions in Chicago.

SDC To Meet

At the annual meeting of State's Development Council a report on the fund-raising activities of the foundations supporting State's teaching, research, and public service programs will be given.

The Council, composed of presidents of the various foundations, deans of the eight schools, presidents of the Alumni Association, and the Wolfpack Club, and other friends, will be presided over by C. A. Dillon, council chairman.

Experience-Major Factor In Bowl

By Martin White

When the Wolfpack takes the field Saturday in Philadelphia against the Bulldogs of Mississippi State in the fifth annual (and possibly last) Liberty Bowl contest, 16 seniors will be wearing the Wolfpack Red and White for the last time.

Thirteen of these seniors are among the first two units of the squad; eight on the first unit and five on the second. State's talented backfield will lose four outstanding players in QB Jim Rossi, HB's Mike Clark, Tony Koszarsky and Joe Scarpati.

Rossi ended the regular season with 1206 total yards for an average of 4.3 yards per play. Rossi and Roman Gabriel, are the only two State players to gain over 1,000 yards twice. Mike Clark is second in total yards with 325 gained, Mike leads the team in rushing average with 6.0 yards per carry. Clark also leads in kickoff returns with 24.7 yards per run-back.

Joe Scarpati, 1963 team captain, was the pass receiving leader, both offensively and defensively, and the leading punt returner. Joe caught 24 passes for 273 yards and two touchdowns; he also nabbed four of the opposition's passes.

Tony Koszarsky, Scarpati's running mate, lead the Pack in scoring with 30 points on five touchdowns.

Others making their last appearance in the backfield are Dave Houtz, who did most of the Pack's kicking, and Merrick Barnes, alternate unit quarterback.

Losses in the line after the Liberty Bowl game will leave big shoes to fill next season. Don Montgomery, Associated Press Second Team All-American, and Bob Faircloth will vacate the end positions. Both men scored twice during the season.

Bert Wilder and Chuck Wachtel will open both tackle position on the first unit next year. Wilder received the Governors' Trophy from the squad as the most outstanding player.

Bill Sullivan leads the list of senior guards on the team. Others graduating from the squad are Roy Wood, Jack Schafer, and Pat Powell.

Oscar Overcash will be playing his last game at the center position for the Pack. Another senior at this position is Jerry Krecicki.

The invaluable experience of the last ten games will be an important factor in the Wolfpack's success this week end. Experience is an understatement concerning the 13 seniors on the first two units. The nine juniors who round out the first 22 players will have experience equal to that of a senior in a season's opener. Sophomores like Gus Andrews, who booted 19 of 22 extra points attempts and one field goal for 22 points, have proved to be quite capable of meeting any bowl test.

North Carolina State and Mississippi have met three times in the history of the two schools with the Wolfpack having a 2-1 edge. The Pack won in 1930 and 1931 by 14-0 and 6-0 scores, while the Bulldogs won in 1940 by a 26-10 score.

Bowling Finals Begin

The play-off began this week in both the dormitory and fraternity leagues. The finals in each league will consist of three rounds. The first three teams in each section of each league will participate in the play-offs.

In Section #1 of the dormitory league, Syme clinched its first place with a 4-0 win over second place Alexander last week. Turlington took third with one more loss than Alexander. In Section #2, Bragaw North #1 won first with a 4-0 win over Tucker #1. Bagwell took four from Owen #2 for second, and Berry landed in third position.

In the fraternity league, Phi Kappa Tau and Sigma Phi Epsilon have led their sections since the first night of the season. The PKT's lost only two points during the season, one to second place Delta Sigma Phi and one to LCA. The Sig Eps lost three of their last eight points to edge Theta Chi for first in Section #2.

Third in Section #1 went to Kappa Alpha while Pi Kappa Phi was in third in Section #2.

In the first round of the play-offs, Bagwell and Berry downed Turlington and Alexander while Theta Chi and Pi Kappa Phi topped Kappa Alpha and Delta Sigma Phi.

Flunkies Win Classic Crown From Alexander

The Flunkies jumped into a 16-7 lead at the end of the first quarter Monday night and then went on to defeat Alexander 61-39 in the final game of the 1963 Intramural Dixie Classics. The new champions outscored their opponents in every quarter and had a comfortable 32-20 lead at intermission. In the last half of the game, the Flunkies outscored Alexander, 29-19, for the final victory margin of 22 points.

A Merry Christmas

We hope it's the best ever, brimful of the pleasures that come from the joys of family reunion and association of old friends.

We'll miss you during the holidays and when you return, look forward to being of service to you in the New Year as we have in the past.
