Dorm '62 Assignments Will Be Open Soon Slater Chooses State To Train Managers

The policy for room assignments for Dorm 62 has been announced by N. B. Watts, the Director of Student Housing.

Watts said that he has formulated his policy in accordance with the wishes of the Student Government. The procedure for all interested students is as follows:

- (1) Any interested student may visit the Housing Rental Office, Leazar Hall, during a five-day period, Monday through Friday, February 17-21, to place his name, present address and class status upon a housing card.
- (2) The completed card will be left with the Housing Rental Office.
- (3) The Department of Student Housing will verify the student's class status with the Admissions and Registration Department.
- (4) At a convenient time after the end of the five-day period, a committee composed of one representative each of

Student Government, The Technician, and the Inter-Dormitory Council will meet to draw cards from a box in which cards have been stuffed.

(5) Cards will then be numbered consecutively in the order drawn from each class. The assignment list will be prepared by listing the students in the order drawn and continuing with subsequent classes.

(6) The student priority list will be announced. The students on the list may sign up for a room for the Fall semester in Dorm 62 at the appropriate time later in the Spring Semester.

Watts reminded students that completion of a card on the last day of the five-day period will give them the same chance as if the card was completed on the first day. Therefore, there is no need to stand in line at the Housing Rental Office at any time during the week of February 17th.

Watts, in conclusion, said that incorrect listing of class status on the card will cause the card to be excluded from consideration. Students are urged to print their names plainly and to indicate their proper class status. The basis for determining class status is printed on the card.

State has been chosen as a training area for future cafeteria managers by the Slater Corporation.

At the beginning of the semester the Slater Corporation chose State as a training ground for people wanting to become managers of cafeterias or restaurants. According to A. H. Clarke, manager of State's cafeterias, the training programs will consist of two parts. No students have been enrolled in either part yet because there has not been time to set the program up, but it is hoped that they will be operating by the end of the semester.

One of the programs offered is called an internship similar to that of a hospital. It consists of twenty-six weeks of training for a graduate of a food science course. During the twenty-six weeks, the trainee learns everything from running a dishwasher to managing. The last few weeks of the course cover actual managerial work. After completing the course the trainee is sent to a cafeteria where he is given a job as assistant manager.

The other program is a four week course offered to those who have already had experience in the food industry. These applicants are tested before they are accepted for the course. During the four weeks the trainees are familiarized with Slater policies and are introduced to managing.

The participants in these training programs are not required to stay with Slater after completing the program, but they are urged to do so because they were trained to Slater standards.

This program set up at State is one of many set up by The Slater Corporation in different regions throughout the country.

Besides serving many colleges in the country, Slater caters to hospitals, industries, and operates vending machines offering complete meals in many companies. Slater covers eight regions in this country and some abroad.

Slater Petition Result Of Banquet

The petition to eliminate Slater from campus grew out of a banquet recently held by the food service.

Gene Eagles, one of the sponsors of the petition stated last night that the original idea to create the petition stemmed partially from a banquet which the Slater corporation gave for faculty and students last month. "The service was poor, and they ran out of food", Eagles complained.

The petition will be presented at the next meeting of the Cafeteria Advisory Committee, it was stated. Ron Bowers, Gene Eagles, and David Goddard are to present the petition on behalf of the students. Eagles indicated that ten to twelve students were involved in the actual conception and circulation of the petition.

No new signatures are expected to be added to the petitions, Eagles stated, "our intentions were only to get signatures at registration—any other method would have been too much for us to carry through."

Approximately 1,000 students have signed the petition.

NCS Mid-winters Scheduled Next Week

A class mid-winter, scheduled for February 15 and 16 at cost of $3000, will replace the Freshman-Sophomore and the Junior-Senior, according to Ed Bailey, junior class president.

Bailey said the mid-winter, featuring the Four Freshmen and the Billy Kanauff Orchestra, is the result of cooperation between the four classes and a desire on the part of some people to have one large event during the year instead of several smaller ones. Attendance at class affairs in the past has been rather poor, Bailey said.

As the plans now stand, the mid-winter will be extended over a Friday and Saturday. Class officers, however, hope to see the week end eventually cover Friday, Saturday, and Sunday. Bailey explained that the initiators of the week end hope to build unity and tradition.

The Four Freshman will perform for a combo party Friday afternoon from 2 to 4 in the new cafeteria. Dress will be semi-formal. From 8-12 p.m., the Billy Kanauff Orchestra will play for a formal dance in the Coliseum.

Bailey said any class member can pick up bids for the dance in the Union February 10, between 11:30 and 1:30, 4:30-7:30.

Salvation Army Gets SAE Wood

Sigma Alpha Epsilon fraternity has donated all its used furniture to the Salvation Army, according to Bill White, a member of the fraternity.

White said they had little use for the old furniture since their house on Fraternity Row has new beds and desks. The brothers decided that it would be useless to attempt to sell the furnishings and they would be glad to donate it to a worthy cause. The Salvation Army gladly accepted the furniture with the hopes that other fraternities would do likewise.

Italian Quartet Appears Tonight In Triad Series

The Quartetto Italiano will play at the Erdahl-Cloyd Union Ballroom Thursday night.

The group, composed of a cellist, two violinists, and a violist, will appear at 8 p.m. under the auspices of the Triad Series and the Raleigh Chamber Music Guild.

The program for the concert consists of Quartet in E flat major, Opus 125, No. 1, Schubert; String Quartet, Opus 28, Webern; Quartet No. 4, Malipiero and Quartet in F minor, Opus 95 by Beethoven.

The quartet is making its seventh American tour.

NCS Business Office Calls Pre-billing Good

The pre-billing plan initiated by the Business Affairs Office for the spring semester was a success, according to the men behind the idea.

William Styons, director of Student Accounts, said the plan ran into very few problems.

However, he said when the scholarship recipients turned out en masse Friday to collect their due cash, the student bank in Holladay Hall almost ran out of money. But a Brinks truck arrived in the nick of time, Styons added.

Ironically, some students' bills were paid twice, according to Styons. He said about eight students and their parents both paid the bill, but in such cases, the money was refunded either to the student or the parent.

The pre-billing plan was begun this semester in order to anticipate any problems that might arise in the fall when pre-registration is started. The Business Affairs Office encouraged students to pay their bills by mail. About 75 per cent of the students did and Styons said he was pleased with the turnout.

NCS SSL Bill To Deal With Mental Health

A proposal to establish mental health outpatient clinics for college students will top the list of NCS bills to be presented at the State Student Legislature later this month.

According to John Carr, chairman of the campus SSL committee here, the bill states that "30% of the students in some colleges and universities are suffering from some type of mental illness," and that often psychiatric facilities are not available to these students.

State will probably present one other bill at the mock assembly, Carr said. The second bill will propose a change to the North Carolina Constitution requiring all candidates for the office of coroner to be licensed physicians.

The State Student Legislature is a mock general assembly held in the spring of every year in the Capitol. Students from colleges and universities throughout North Carolina attend and convene into a Senate and House to pass legislation which they feel is needed.

This year's SSL will be held February 27-29.

A familiar feature of the Union around this time every semester is the Alpha Zeta Book Exchange at which students may buy or sell used texts. AZ charges a fee for handling the books. The X will be open 12:30-5:30 until Friday.

Not Worth The Price

The events of the past few weeks indicate that everybody wants to get into the act of running higher education in North Carolina.

While interest in higher education is noble and worthy of encouragement, wholesale meddling in the administrative affairs and policy-making procedures can only serve to confuse issues and hamstring those who are qualified, elected, appointed, and hired to guide the colleges and universities of the state.

For example the alumni of this institution appear intent on running the Consolidated University as they see fit regardless of whether the "way they see fit" concurs with the considered, expert if you will, opinions of the duly appointed trustees and administrators.

And of course, the Dixie Classic thorn has again been applied to the sides of Consolidated University officials.

Gubernatorial candidate Dan K. Moore has expressed a view favorable to the reinstatement of the Dixie Classic in the near future. Moore apparently believes that the recent gambling investigations and convictions have removed the evils associated with the holiday tournament which was such a boon to the economy of the Raleigh area. He has apparently decided to ignore the other objections which Consolidated University President Friday, and the University trustees and chancellors have expressed concerning the Classic.

Similarly, Candidate I. Beverly Lake, a Raleigh lawyer, has assumed a typical Raleigh stand favorable to Classic reinstatement. Moreover he has pledged the influence of the governor's office to safeguard the Classic from gangsters if he is elected.

However, the gambling aspect is only one of the factors involving in the Dixie Classic question. As University officials have been quick to point out, the tournament was played primarily as a publicity gimmick for the Big Four and a fund-raising weekend for Raleigh businessmen. More over, it may be argued that the scheduling of the tourney left the students out in the cold in that it was played during Christmas holidays at a cost which was prohibitive to participation by most students.

This injection of the affairs of the state's institutions of higher education can come to no good for the university system. The gubernatorial candidates alumni, and businessmen are backing the Consolidated University into a corner on the Dixie Classic issue. It is therefore in danger of becoming more than a mere question of sports policy. It is rather leading to a test of the University's long-cherished autonomy. The question is now becoming one of whether the University will be required to yield to virtually every gust of wind that blows from the oft non-expert electorate.

If the light of the passage of the gag law by the last General Assembly, the recent turn of the campaign is being viewed with increasing alarm by educators and friends of higher education.

North Carolina can not afford to sacrifice what is left of the autonomy of her university system for a matter as small as the Dixie Classic.

The best thing which may come of all the sand which is being raised about this issue is an affirmative vote from the citizenry for university autonomy, even though the people may not really appreciate the value of the concept.

Free Craft Shop Courses Offered For The Creative

If you feel an artistic urge creeping up on you and you have some free time, the Craft Shop is the place to go.

The Craft Shop agenda includes two new classes this semester, woodwork and oil painting. No formal classes will be taught in woodwork, but the shop has the tools a student would need to build pieces of furniture or to make repairs, according to Arts and Crafts director Carol Johnson.

Mrs. Dale Collins, local art instructor will teach an oil painting class on Wednesday nights from 7:30 until 10 o'clock at the shop. Pre-registration is necessary, Mrs. Johnson said, and the class will be limited to 25 members. Students may register by coming by the shop. No fee is charged.

The ceramics and electronics classes are being continued this semester, Mrs. Johnson added. Instruction in ceramics, the most popular craft at the shop, will be given on Wednesday nights. Ken Freman, a student and employee of Carolina Power and Light Co. will handle the electronics enthusiasts.

The dark room facilities remain to be completed, according to Mrs. Johnson, but she said Colbert Howell, also a student, plans to teach a dark room procedure course on Wednesday nights. All students planning to use the dark room when it opens will be required to pass an examination administered by Howell before receiving permission to use the facilities, she said.

Five students are employed by the shop to assist the hobbyists in their work. At least two are present, one in the woodwork center and another in the general shop, at all times, Mrs. Johnson said. Regular hours Monday through Friday are 2-10 p.m. and on Saturdays from 1 until 5 p.m.

The shop is open to all students and their spouses free and to faculty and staff members for $5 a year. Although it is a function of the Erdahl-Cloyd Union, the shop has been located in the basement of the Frank Thompson Gym for the past year.

When it moved from the second floor of the Union, the floor space of the shop became nearly five times greater. The shop now occupies over 10,000 square feet, Mrs. Johnson said.

Feel Like The Dog?

Girls, music, and dancing will be featured at the IDC-ECU combo party Friday night. A busload of girls from Averette Junior College in Danville, Virginia, will start things off while B. S. Plair will provide the music. The party will begin at 8 p.m. in the Union Ballroom.

Thrift Plans One-Man Show

A one-man art show will be exhibited at the Erdahl-Cloyd Union February 9 through March 3.

The artist, High Point native Walter Thrift, will display 36 works in oil, oil and collage, drawing and collage, and watercolor and collage.

Thrift will appear at a public coffee hour Sunday at the Union from 3 until 5 p.m.

He is a self-taught artist who turned to painting as a full-time profession in 1958.

His paintings already have brought him numerous awards in both national and regional exhibitions. The 41-year-old artist lives in Virginia Beach, Va., and Washington, D. C.

Some of the works exhibited will be for sale, according to Mrs. Carol Johnson, Arts and Crafts director for the Union. Mrs. Johnson may be contacted at TE 4-7310 or TE 3-8537 for additional information.

The exhibit is sponsored by the Union Gallery Committee.

Rush Wishes

Chancellor John Caldwell has expressed a wish for each boy who excel in extracurricular fraternities to go through the upcoming rush.

"Fraternities appeal to many students for many different reasons," he said. "Rush week affords the opportunity for students who hope to affiliate to take a really good look at many houses and to find a spot where they will gain social and intellectual happiness." He went on to wish the fraternities all the success with their new group of pledges.

Expressing similar wishes as the Chancellor was Tom Covington, student activities fraternity director. "Rush is the life blood of the fraternity," he said, "This year is a particular important one, with almost all of Fraternity Row completed. The fraternities are looking for men who excel in extracurricular activities."

Covington added that he would like to encourage all the rushers to get all the facts about the prospective fraternities in order for them to make the very best possible choice.

State Leads Dook, For 41 Sec.

For 41 glorious seconds, the Wolfpack lead the mighty Duke Blue Devils by two points. It happened with 3:26 remaining in the first half when Tommy Mattocks made a three point play that brought State from one point behind and put them ahead by two, 21-19.

The glory was short lived however, as the Blue Devils tied the score at 21-21 and then went to a 25-21 lead at half time. After three minutes of play in the second half, State still had their 21 points while Duke had built their score up to 29. Things went from bad to worse for the next 17 minutes, with the final score 66-48.

All students interested in trying out for the freshman or varsity golf teams should come to the football office in Reynolds Coliseum on Tuesday, Feb. 11, at 5 p.m.

Tom Huck sought scientific excitement

He's finding it at Western Electric

Ohio University conferred a B.S.E.E. degree on C. T. Huck in 1956. Tom knew of Western Electric's history of manufacturing development. He realized, too, that our personnel development program was expanding to meet tomorrow's demands.

After graduation, Tom immediately began to work on the development of electronic switching systems. Then, in 1958, Tom went to the Bell Telephone Laboratories on a temporary assignment to help in the advancement of our national military capabilities. At their Whippany, New Jersey, labs, Tom worked with the Western Electric development team on computer circuitry for the Nike Zeus guidance system. Tom then moved on to a new assignment at WE's Columbus, Ohio, Works. There, Tom is working on the development of testing circuitry for the memory phase of electronic switching systems.

This constant challenge of the totally new, combined with advanced training and education opportunities, make a Western Electric career enjoyable, stimulating and fruitful. Thousands of young men will realize this in the next few years. How about you?

If responsibility and the challenge of the future appeal to you, and you have the qualifications we seek, talk with us. Opportunities for fast-moving careers exist now for electrical, mechanical and industrial engineers, and also for physical science, liberal arts and business majors. For more detailed information, get your copy of the Western Electric Career Opportunities booklet from your Placement Officer. Or write: Western Electric Company, Room 6405, 222 Broadway, New York 38, N. Y. And be sure to arrange for a personal interview when the Bell System recruiting team visits your campus.
