Athletics Cost Half-Million; One Quarter From Students

By Phil Gettzen

Athletics is big business at North Carolina State where more than $500,000 a year is spent on sports.

The budget for this year is $402,000 plus, with an additional $200,000 worth of scholarships offered to the members of the athletic teams. Total expenditures for one year by the State athletic department: $600,000 plus for the 11 conference sports.

Where The Money Comes From

According to Roy Clogston, director of the Athletics Department and the man who runs the better than half million dollar a year business, his department is self-supporting like all other business operations.

Revenue for the operation of the athletics department comes from a variety of sources, according to Clogston.

He said $60,000 or one tenth of the entire expenditure, comes from profits of concessions and sales operated under the management of L. L. Ivey, General Manager. These sales include the Student Supply Store, snack bars, and concessions stands at athletic events.

A total of $5,000 comes from the profits of the print shop, which formerly turned all profits over to the Athletic department but now turns two-thirds of the revenue over to other organizations.

Members of the Wolfpack Club contribute an estimated $75,000.

Each student pays a $15 athletic fee and this multiplied by about 7000 students brings the total student revenues to about $105,000 or one quarter of the Athletic Department budget.

Add to these figures the profits from the football games played for one year. Net receipts from the game with UNC this year were $42,000. The South Carolina game netted $19,600. The game with Mississippi had a guaranteed return of $25,000. These figures would not have been nearly as high said Clogston, if the games had been home games. State has 14,600 seats in Riddick Stadium. If each student brought a date to the game there would be only 600 seats left for the public. This fortunately is not the case. The stadium is still too small for a big business operation, Clogston says.

Where The Money Goes

The $200,000 not in the department's operating budget goes to athletes for scholarships. Out-of-state participants receive $1625 a year, while in-state participants receive $1225.

Twenty per cent of the gate take for basketball games in the Coliseum goes to the college for rental. When the gate receipts are low, as is the case this year, this does not amount to much Clogston said.

Visiting football teams receive a portion of the take from the games in which they participate. Wake Forest received $15,000.

Each sport on campus receives an allotment. Track receives $2,200, tennis, $3,000, baseball, $9,000. There are also coaches to pay and other expenses such as equipment, travel, administration, and cleaning. State has the next to lowest number of coaches in the conference and according to Clogston, has a low-budget athletic operation. He estimates that UNC spends between $800,-

SG, Cheerleaders Clash

ON THE DEFENSE

Peter Pund as he stated the cheerleader side of the debate on the pep bill in SG legislature last night. (Photo by Cashion)

By Allen Lennon

The Student Government Legislature passed a resolution calling for sweeping changes in the University pep program, only to vote later in the evening to reconsider the proposal and finally to table the entire bill.

The unusual session was punctuated by some of the most heated and enthusiastic discussion held in the Legislature in recent months.

The proposal was reported out of the Investigations Committee by Senator Beckton James and was amended to provide for election of the head cheerleader by the newly-elected cheerleading squad rather than by the student body, as provided in the original resolution. The bill provides for the election of twelve cheerleaders (seven males and five females) in a special campus election to be held following the spring general campus elections.

The bill would also set up a Pep Board composed of twelve members appointed by the SG president from various campus organizations. The board would be responsible "for matters pertaining to the squad, and for building and maintaining school spirit."

Other provisions of the proposal concern academic qualifications and nominating procedures for cheerleader candidates.

Following a lengthy discussion of specific aspects of the bill and amendments, sparked by exchanges between the sponsor of the bill, Senator James, and Peter Pund, a representative of the present cheerleading squad, the legislature voted to accept the resolution as amended.

Later in the session SG vice-president Lynn Spruill yielded the chair to Secretary Carr to request reconsideration of the entire proposal so as to allow further discussion of particular provisions of the bill. The body voted to reconsider.

Following a five-minute recess, Spruill again yielded the chair to move to table the entire question until the next (See CLASH, page 4)

First Day Nets 5 Nominations

First day opening of nomination books drew candidates for three major offices yesterday.

According to Jim Ferguson, chairman of the Elections Committee, Steve Johnston signed up for SG President, Terry Lowder for Vice president, and Joe McCall for IFC President.

The books closed at 5 p.m.

Two other students, Bill Howle and Robert E. Cole, tossed their hats in the ring for seats in the Legislature.

The nomination books will remain open until February 21.

duce stimuli, according to Dr. Eugene Bernard, assistant professor of psychology. It will be completed in about two weeks, he added.

The room, which is located in Tompkins Hall, features two windows, one of which is constructed for a back-projection screen and one which is visual one way.

Bernard pointed out that since the room will be used for electrophysiological experiments, it has been electrically shielded with copper wire along the walls and across the outlets.

The three-walled chamber is also equipped for sensory deprivation experiments and exercises in which light control is necessary, Bernard said. Short or long experiments can be conducted in the room.

"The room will be available for a wide variety of experiments, primarily those on perception where much control is necessary," Dr. Bernard added.

Theft Case Draws Dismissal By HCB

A freshman found guilty of a theft was dismissed by the Honor Code Tuesday night.

Bob Shearin, chairman of the Board, said a list of items the student reportedly stole included eight books, a drawing board, a compass, a briefcase, a wallet, and a slide rule. The boy also pleaded guilty to having forged a $20 check.

Dismissal means a student can never be readmitted to State.

In other trials during the evening, a one semester suspension, a two semester probation and a not guilty were handed down by the board.

In the suspension case, the student pleaded guilty to a charge of cheating on a history exam. The student reportedly copied an answer from his book during an exam, and, when confronted by his professor, admitted having cheated.

A boy who pleaded guilty to a charge of selling misplaced property received a two semester probation. The student said another person approached him outside the Student Supply Store and offered him $2 to sell a book. The book was stolen.

In the last case of the evening, a senior was found not guilty of selling stolen property without attempting to contact the rightful owner.

CCUN Group Leaves

The State delegation to the Collegiate Council for the United Nations Model General Assembly left last night for a four-day session at Duke University.

State will represent three member countries of the United Nations at the sessions. Delegations from more than a score of colleges and universities in the Middle South will represent other members of the world organization.

State CCUN chairman Steve

Johnston announced the following delegation chairmen this week: Lebanon, Sabir Dahir; Denmark, Allen Lennon; Mexico, Mike Smith.

The State delegations will include Fred Millhiser, John Carr, Cora Kemp, Abdallah Baltagi, Myron Cauble, Nasser El-Ayadi, David Goddard, William Maher, Martin Mainster, Sandy Rogers, Mr. and Mrs. C. N. Nirmel, Mervin Spruill, Manuel Fernandes, Celia Parsons, and Hoyt Lowder.

Lit Critic Crowther To Lecture Monday

By Jim Rea

New York Times film critic Bosley Crowther will lecture Monday night under the auspices of the Triad series.

Born and raised in North Carolina, Crowther attended Princeton University, where he was editor of The Daily Princetonian.

On graduation, Crowther won the New York Times Intercollegiate Current Events Contest.

Midwinter

Class officers have announced that dates for obtaining Midwinter bids have been extended.

Bids may be claimed from 12 to 5 p.m. Friday in the Union.

He accepted a position with the Times in 1928.

Covering the police beat when he started, Crowther shortly worked his way into the drama game, where he wrote features for five years. In 1937 he moved into the movie department and by 1940 he had become a critic.

He now critic about 250 movies a year.

In addition to reviewing movies, Crowther has written two books, a play and a number of magazine articles. The books, The Lion's Share and Hollywood Rajah, were about the movie industry.

Crowther's lecture is open to State students free of charge.

Mitchell Named By SG; NSA Directive Issued

By Billi Darden

Some students on campus will soon find themselves in an isolated booth, but it is hoped that the outcome will not be the same as that in the case of Charles

Van Doren.

For the last two months, the Psychology Department has been constructing a sound-proof room for use in experiments in which it will be necessary to re-divert $200 from the cancelled Climate of Learning project support the Symposium '63 project. A directive to the State delegation to the National Student Association Congress held during the summer was proposed and passed. The resolution instructs the State delegation to prepare, introduce, and support legislation to the NSA National Congress for 1964 which would require member schools to select delegations for future congresses and conventions "in a democratic manner."

The State legislature recently voted to have the NSA delegates elected in the general campus elections.

The Legislature also voted to

Mumbo-Jumbo In Legislature

Last night's session of the Student Government Legislature was, if nothing else, colorful.

It was also more than slightly discouraging.

The discussion of the main points of the Pep Program Resolution was handled well by SG Vice President Spruill, but by eight o'clock it was apparent that personalities were going to slip into the discussion despite all efforts to the contrary.

There were noble words from SG President Bynum urging impartial and objective consideration of the sections of the resolution, but to little avail.

The fact that the present cheerleading squad had not been fully advised of their proposed reorganization apparently incensed a few senators as well as the cheerleaders themselves.

The cheerleaders apparently welcome SG interest but at the same time request that their own opinions be considered in the proposals.

The chair made a conscientious effort to allow contributions to the debate from Peter Pund, a member of the present squad. However, Mr. Pund's non-senatorial status combined with Robert's Rules combined to thwart full presentation if the squad's positions.

In light of the lack of information among the senators about the pep problem, the decision to table the resolution until more thought can be given to it was probably a wise one. However, the tabling of the resolution after its initial passage might bring forth some doubts as to the maturity of the legislature.

The pep question has thus become a touchy issue with the cheerleaders and the legislature as well.

The cheerleaders, while favoring the general purpose of the bill, nevertheless have certain reservations concerning the advisability of certain sections of the bill which they would like for the legislature to know about before it makes a final decision.

In this light it might not be a bad idea for the SG Legislature to meet in a committee of the whole to hear testimony on the pep question from the cheerleaders and interested students.

Perhaps then the legislature may be able to make up its collective mind and hopefully arrive at an intelligent decision.

Foundations Are Going

The Board of Publications voted Tuesday to remove the editors and station manager of The Technician, Agromeck, and WKNC from the general elections ballot.

The Student Union enters its second year of electing its president and officers without the general public having any say so about the choice.

The Judicial Candidate Approval Board will judge candidates for the Honor and Campus Code boards on the basis of "integrity" for the second year.

If you hear a chipping sound, don't worry about it. It's only your freedom.

Students Check Carolina; Find Food Prices Less

Two of the students presenting the petition toured the cafeteria at Carolina Monday. According to Gene Eagles, one of the students, "We found overall prices to be significantly lower."

Eagles cited specific instances in which individual prices at Carolina were lower than Slater's on this campus. "They offer a 40-cent special, and Slater only began to offer a special like this this week, after the petition came out," Eagles commented. "The special at Carolina included a meat, two vegetables, and tea." Slater, according to Eagles, does not offer this.

"Pies were 10 cents a slice for a large slice," added Eagles, pointing out that Slater's pies are 15 cents a slice. Eagles also stated that salads cost less at Carolina.

The cafeteria at Carolina is run by the college. Spokesmen for the petition indicated that they would call for a similar arrangement in removing Slater from campus.

Travel Abroad On 68-Day Tour

Most State students would probably like to go skiing in the Alps, swimming in the Mediterranean Sea, or at least meet students from other countries.

Under the Greater University Seminars Abroad Program, a 68-day tour of Europe will visit 13 countries and 28 major cities. The total cost is about $1400.

Two State students, Zan Smith and Joe Garrell, have previously been on the tour which is composed of coed groups not exceeding 30 students.

A meeting for those interested will be held in Rooms 256-258 of the Union February 13 at 7 p.m.

Letter To Editors

Slater Ousting Not Crackpot Move

To the Editors:

It seems to be quite normal and fashionable to label a person taking a decisive stand on any issue a "crack-pot" and to consider any action taken to present this stand as radical. Realizing this, we, the originators of "the Slater petition" first tried to keep our names in the background while at no time remaining anonymous to anyone who needed to or should know who we are. However, as support and interest grows, this becomes increasingly difficult and it should now be obvious to all concerned that we are serious in our indictment of Slater Food Service.

We have over 1,000 signatures on the petition to rid this campus of Slater and could easily get more. This petition is intentionally strongly worded since we initially decided that if there were any doubt about the feeling of the student body we would proceed no further. We consider 1,000 to be a majority of Slater customers and can see no reason to get any more names on the petition. We have not solicited signatures since registration; the overwhelming discontent voiced at that time is enough.

I am surprised and disappointed that I have not yet been contacted by Student Government. The administration has expressed interest and is making an attempt to cooperate in the only way I asked—allowing us to read and study the contract signed with Slater.

I fully expect service to improve between now and the cafeteria advisory committee meeting and may promises to be made at that time. This should not influence the committee.

The article in The Technician about a banquet that supposedly started the movement was misleading. No single incident was responsible. The petition is a result of continually declining service.

If you can offer any suggestions or are otherwise interested, contact me (828-8067).

Dorm and Fraternity Handball Begins

Intramural handball competition got underway Monday night in the fraternity league and Tuesday night in the dormitory circuit with eight matches in each league.

The handball championship will be based on a double elimination basis with the one-time losers playing in the losers' bracket. The champion of this bracket will play the undefeated bracket's champion for the crown.

Seven of the eight matches in the fraternity league were won by 3-0 scores, one doubles and two singles games make up a match. These winners were Sigma Nu over Lambda Chi Alpha, Sigma Phi Epsilon over Sigma Chi, FarmHouse over Pi Kappa Phi by forfeit, Kappa Sigma over Alpha Gamma Rho, Theta Chi over Kappa Alpha, Sigma Alpha Epsilon over Sigma Pi, and Tau Kappa Epsilon over Delta Sigma Phi. Phi Kappa Tau downed Pi Kappa Alpha 2-1.

Only three contests in the dormitory league were won by 3-0 scores; Berry over Bragaw South #2, Becton over Turlington, and Owen #2 over Owen #1. Tucker #1, Watauga, Bragaw North #1, Alexander, and Bragaw North #2 won by 2-1 verdicts over Welch-Gold-Fourth, Syme, Tucker #2, Bragaw South #2, and Bagwell.

Only one change has been made on the 1963 football schedule to produce the Wolfpack's 1964 slate of opponents. Alabama will replace Southern Mississippi as one of State's non-conference foes. All of the non-conference contests will be played on the road against Alabama, Virginia Tech and Florida State.

ARF!

Benjamin Franklin (or The Louisville Slugger, as he is better known as) said, "A penny saved is a penny earned," and we, the college population of America, have taken to heart this sage advice. We spend prudently; we budget diligently. Yet, despite our wise precautions, we are always running short. Why? Because there is one item of expense that we consistently underestimate—the cost of travelling home for weekends.

Let us take the typical case of Basil Metabolism, a sophomore at UCLA majoring in avocados. Basil, a resident of Bangor, Maine, loved to go home each weekend to play with his faithful dog, Spot. What joy, what wretched smiles, when Basil and Spot were re-united! Basil would leap into his dogcart, and Spot, a genuine Alaskan husky, would pull Basil all over Bangor, Maine—Basil calling cheery halloos to the townfolk, Spot wagging his curly tail.

The results were not all Basil had hoped

But the cost, alas, of travelling from UCLA to Bangor, Maine, ran to $400 a week, and Basil's father, alas, earned only a meagre salary as a meter-reader for the Bangor water department. So, alas, after six months Basil's father told Basil he could raise no more money; he had already sold everything he owned, including the flashlight he used to read meters.

Basil returned to California to ponder his dilemma. One solution occurred to him—to ship Spot to UCLA and keep him in his room—but Basil had to abandon the notion because of his roommate, G. Fred Sigafos, who was, alas, allergic to dog hair.

Then another idea came to Basil—a stroke of genius, you might call it. He would buy a Mexican hairless chihuahua! Thus he would have a dog to pull him around, and G. Fred's allergy would be undisturbed.

The results, alas, were not all Basil had hoped. The chihuahua, alas, was unable to pull Basil in the dogcart, no matter how energetically he beat the animal.

Defeated again, Basil sat down with G. Fred, his roommate, to smoke a Marlboro Cigarette and seek a new answer to the problem. Together they smoked and thought and—Eureka!—an answer quickly appeared. (I do not suggest, mark you, that Marlboro Cigarettes are an aid to celebration. All I say about Marlboros is that they taste good and are made of fine tobaccos and pure white filters and come in soft pack or Flip Top box.)

Well, sir, Basil and G. Fred got a great idea. Actually, the idea was G. Fred's, who happened to be majoring in genetics. Why not, said G. Fred, cross-breed the chihuahua with a Great Dane and thus produce an animal sturdy enough to pull a dogcart?

It was, alas, another plan doomed to failure. The cross-breeding was done, but the result (this is very difficult to explain) was a raccoon.

But there is, I am pleased to report, a happy ending to this heart-rending tale. It seems that Basil's mother (this is also very difficult to explain) is a glamorous blond aged 19 years. One day she was spotted by a talent scout in Bangor, Maine, and was signed to a fabulous movie contract, and the entire family moved to California and bought Bel Air, and today one of the most endearing sights to be seen on the entire Pacific Coast is Spot pulling Basil down Sunset Boulevard—Basil cheering and Spot wagging. Basil's mother is also happy, making glamorous movies all day long, and Basil's father is likewise content, sitting at home and reading the water meter.

Pacific Coast, Atlantic Coast, the great Heartland in between—not to speak of Alaska and Hawaii—all of this is Marlboro Country. Light up and find out for yourself.

meeting of the SG Legislature. The motion passed.

Following adjournment, The Technician questioned Head-cheerleader Rick Ray and Kathy Canaday on the resolution as proposed. The two issued the following joint statement:

"This bill was begun without the knowledge of the cheerleaders and continued in this manner for four months. The bill was brought to our attention only one night before its formal introduction. The cheerleaders were represented in the legislature, but we feel that through parliamentary procedure our representative was not able to present fully the views of the squad.

We feel that the SG Legislature does not have sufficient knowledge of the problems concerning cheerleading, and therefore, we would like to meet with the Student Government committee to fully discuss the proposals. We feel that Student Government should talk with us to find out the problems that we do have and the ways in which it can help us."

John LaCost received his B.S.E.E. from the University of Illinois in 1962. One of the factors which influenced him to join Western Electric was the quick manner in which new engineers become operational.

During the short time John has been with us, he has worked in several areas which are vital to the nation's communications complex. And with his future development in mind, John attended one of our Graduate Engineer Training Centers where he studied the front-line Electronic Switching System. He is currently working as a systems equipment engineer on such projects as cross bar switching and line link pulsing.

John's future at Western Electric looks promising indeed. He knows he will be working with revolutionary and advanced engineering concepts like electronic switching, thin film circuitry, computer-controlled production lines and microwave systems. He is also aware of the continued opportunity for advanced study through the Company-paid Tuition Refund Plan, as well as through Company training centers.

How do you see your future? If you have high personal standards and the qualifications we are looking for, we should talk. Opportunities for fast-moving careers exist now, not only for electrical, mechanical and industrial engineers, but also for physical science, liberal arts and business majors. For more detailed information, get your copy of the Western Electric Career Opportunities booklet from your Placement Officer. Or write: Western Electric Company, Room 6405, 222 Broadway, New York 38, N. Y. And be sure to arrange for a personal interview when the Bell System recruiting team visits your campus.
