Alumni Survey Seeks Faculty View

By Ernie McCrary

State alumni in Wake County are trying to find out what the faculty here thinks about the often-discussed (and more often cussed) name of this institution.

The Wake Alumni Club, headed by President James C. Brooks, has sent questionnaires to faculty members asking if they would like the name to be North Carolina State University.

Brooks told The Technician last night that about 700 letters were sent to State faculty members last Tuesday, March 31. The replies have not been picked up from the club's mail box yet, and Brooks says they will not be until late this week. The four officers will then meet and compile the results of the survey.

YDC To Host Election Hopefuls

The Wake County Young Democratic Club has released information concerning its traditional series of "Meet-The-Candidates" barbeques at the Wake County Courthouse.

After gubernatorial candidates I. Beverly Lake and L. Richardson Preyer accepted invitations to address the group, Preyer was set to speak April 11, and Lake's address was scheduled for May 2. Candidate Dan K. Moore expressed regrets that he is unable to attend.

The program will be concluded May 23. Invitations to speak then have been extended to candidates for other offices. Among them are R. Mayne Albright and Harold Cooley, John R. Jordan Jr., H. Clifton Blue, and Robert Scott, and all candidates for the Democratic nomination for local offices.

Tickets for the barbeque, to which the public is invited, are now on sale for $1.50 from YDC members.

'Impetus' Expands, Changes Name

Published in cooperation with the School of Liberal Arts, Impetus, a semi-annual magazine of poetry, will officially become the Southern Poetry Review with its next issue.

The spring issue of Impetus, just released, is now on sale at the Supply Store, according to the editor of the publication, English Professor Guy Owen. Its associate editors are English Professors Max Halperen and A. S. Knowles.

The magazine is national in scope and has included such poets as John Ciardi, James Dickey, Vassar Miller, George Garrett, Charles Edward Eaton, Donald Justice, Hollis Summers, Jonathan Williams—all of whom have published widely in magazines and books.

In changing the name of the magazine Professor Owen said that he scarcely intends to narrow its range. "It will continue

What action the club will take will not be decided until after this meeting, he said.

'April Love' To Be Theme Of Military Ball

By Dwight Minkler

The theme of the military ball is not very military this year—it's called "April Love."

"We chose this theme because we thought it might attract the girls," revealed Robert Vaughn, co-chairman of the ball.

The formal ball, next Saturday from 8 to midnight in the Union, costs $3 per couple. If you're not a couple, you can't get in anyhow, according to Vaughn. Tickets are sold in the Coliseum military offices.

The two entertainment bands will be the Continentals, playing slow-type music in the ballroom, and the Tassells, zinging out their rock and roll in the snack bar downstairs. The total cost of the ball, including refreshments, bands, Union rental, and decoration is about $750, estimated Bob Carnes, executive secretary of the Military Ball Association.

"We're getting off cheap," he said. "We're making all the decorations out of natural stuff—you know—we're chopping down trees and that kind of stuff."

Most of the individual military clubs will have private rooms in the top floor of the Union in which to "fraternize with the girls," Vaughn explained. "It'll be a place to get away from the crowd and do what they want to up there," he said.

"We have selected three girls to be an honorary colonel and two honorary lieutenant colonels," declared Vaughn. "Sometime along in the middle of a dance we will stop everything and give each of the girls a bunch of roses. The honorary colonel will be a kind of queen of the ball," he concluded.

Drive Set For Donations To Library Fund

An organization of college students has been formed to aid in the fund drive for the proposed $10 million John F. Kennedy Library.

The Kennedy Library Corporation established the National Student Committee at the request of college students on many campuses. This national committee will coordinate student activities in late April on 2,100 campuses throughout the nation.

The library, to be constructed on the banks of the Charles River in Boston, will consist of a memorial room and several working components: a museum, an archive, and an institute. The institute of the library will further one of President Kennedy's deepest concerns—the bringing together of the world of ideas and the world of affairs; the world of scholarship and the world of decision.

The drive on the State campus, which will be held April 27 and 28, will be directed by the N. C. State Kennedy Library Committee. John Bynum, student body president, and Chip Andrews have been appointed chairmen of the committee.

Anyone desiring to participate in this drive may contact either of these people at the Student Government office in the Erdahl-Cloyd Union.

Sigma Kappa Has New Chief

Sylvia Williams has been elected to succeed Mary Beth Key as president of Sigma Kappa sorority.

Other officers who will be installed next week are Ann Parker, first vice president, Kay LeNeave, second vice president, Gail Fitchett, recording secretary, Bennie Paris, corresponding secretary, Adele Jones, treasurer, and Linda Connelly, registrar.

Appointed offices will be filled next week when installation of the new officers is held.

University, Deland, Florida. When Dr. Owen came to State, he brought the magazine with him. It has been widely quoted and reported.

Blue Key

Students who wish to nominate new members for the Blue Key Honor Fraternity must contact one of these members by April 13:

Ford Adopts Contest For National Promotion

By Cora Kemp

The winners of The Technician's "Stuff-A-Car" contest tonight will be eligible to compete for a $100 prize.

The newspaper was notified Monday morning that the Gilbert Marketing Company, producers of the Ford CARavan of Music Show, wants to adopt the "Stuff-A-Car" rules and sponsor the contest at the remaining five colleges on the Ford show's tour.

The group that has the most students in the car from all six campuses will win $100. The tour is scheduled to end in May.

At press time last night, The Technician had received official entries from six groups and unofficial entries from two groups. Carter Payne of Welch Dorm had entered an unnamed group, Lambda Chi Fraternity had committed its brothers, Jim Davidson of Becton Dorm had entered a group called "The Winners," Mike Griggs of Braggaw had a group called the "Ford Busters," Steve Johnston had gathered a group which he named the "SG's" and Charlie White of Bagwell Dorm has a group of 30 to 40 students.

Unofficial entries were from the Delta Sig fraternity and the Sigma Kappa sorority.

Winners of the contest tonight will receive free passes to the CARavan show Friday night at 8 p.m. in the Coliseum.

Judges for tonight's contest will be Bill Edwards and Bill Sonner, both members of the faculty. Edwards is an associate professor of social studies and reportedly owns a tape measure. Sonner is an assistant professor of physical education who teaches swimming. In case of rain, Sonner will be in charge of disqualifying students who become waterlogged.

Contest rules require that all students have at least 50 per cent of their bodies under the roof of the car. The car doors will be closed, but the windows may be rolled down. Students will not be allowed to remove any accessories inside the car and no one will be allowed under the hood or in the trunk.

The car to be used is a two-door 1954 Ford from Sanders Ford Company.

Plans to have preliminary television coverage Monday were called off because of rain, but WRAL-TV officials have announced that they will cover the actual stuffing tonight.

AIP Elects New Leaders

The new officers of the American Institute of Physics were elected Monday night.

They are Charles Pratt, president; Tom Horton, executive vice president; Kip Page, administrative vice president; Otis Brown, secretary; and David Goddard, treasurer.

Literary And Art Magazine To Be Out Soon

By Joan French

State's first student literary and art publication, The Windhover, will be put out the first week in May.

The Windhover, which is a paperback magazine, will be free and will be distributed on campus for State students on a first-come, first-serve basis.

Third year design school student Roy Colquitt is editor-in-chief of the publication. Other editors include Virginia Farnell, fiction editor, Irene Gaskins, poetry editor, and Bob Chartier, art supervisor. Faculty advisor is Dr. Guy Owen.

This issue of the magazine is composed mainly of non-student contributions. The editor stated that it was unfortunate that so few State students responded to the plea for contributions for the magazine. "Perhaps," he continued, "after the students read The Windhover, they will be more interested in offering their work and will show enthusiasm for its continuation."

Ag Honors

Twenty-Two Freshmen Chosen

Twenty-two freshmen and sophomores in the School of Agriculture and Life Sciences have been selected to participate in the Freshman and Sophomore Ag Honors Program.

The participants, who must have a 3.0 average, will be given the opportunity to hear three lectures on the following subjects: political affairs by Dr. Burton F. Beers of the Department of History and Political Affairs, animal behavior by Dr.

Morley F. Kare of the Department of Zoology, and religion by Dr. Curtis Fitzgerald, Jr. of the Department of Philosophy and Religion.

Those freshmen eligible to participate are: N. W. Beatty, A. R. McCullen, D. S. Jackson, F. K. Ferrell, L. A. Peacock, G. B. Butler, H. F. Kessler, D. C. Summerlin, Jr., H. L. Jones, and C. H. Womble.

The following sophomores are also eligible: J. A. Jolly, B. J.

Rowley, A. T. Carpenter, R. E. Young, C. G. Bowers, M. F. Bounas, C. F. Abrams Jr., D. A. Newton, L. M. Sykes, A. B. Blanton, J. A. Martin, and R. J. Hines.

Dr. J. N. Young, head of this program said, "The lecturers are outstanding authorities in their respective areas, and we believe the discussions with them will be a mutually stimulating experience."

The Fight Continues

The Alumni Association is a diehard organization, and dear old State is forever reminded of its existence, particularly since the General Assembly gave it a dirty deal last spring.

Perhaps the General Assembly did not realize how severely it was insulting the alumni when it decided to change the name of this place from North Carolina State College of Agriculture and Engineering to North Carolina State of the University of North Carolina at Raleigh. But the alumni and quite a few other people have grown sick of this ridiculous conglomeration of names since the change became official last year.

The new name has done nothing but put this institution up for ridicule whenever it is mentioned. Even the chancellor feels compelled to make a joke about it when he finds himself in a position to identify this institution.

Nor could gubernatorial candidate I. Beverly Lake resist the opportunity to comment on the name last Sunday when he made his speech at the Union. Lake was allowed 20 minutes for his speech, but when he started to address this institution, he paused and admitted he would have no time to present his speech if he took time out to pronounce the full time.

Next year's General Assembly will inevitably be faced with changing the name again, since favorable comment on State's present name is a rare item. But the question is, will the assembly adopt North Carolina State University, as proposed by the alumni, or the University of North Carolina at Raleigh, the original proposal?

Magazine Shunned

Student interest in the new literary magazine, The Windhover, apparently fell flat this spring.

The student magazine will contain primarily the works of faculty members since very few contributions were made by the students.

The magazine has been in the making for some time. In fact, plans were announced last year to publish it, but they never materialized. It appears, therefore, that this institution is not ready for such an undertaking, but since the magazine is now being published, only time will tell who is ready.

The magazine may turn out to be a bigger success since the work will be somewhat professional. But even so, the whole point of the publication is being overlooked. The magazine can hardly be called a student publication if the works are not those of the students.

Most of the schools on campus have their own publications, but The Windhover is not the product of any one school, not even the School of Liberal Arts. Its purpose is to present a cross-section of the entire student body, which is an impossible assignment in the first place. Perhaps if it were tied down to a more specific group, more interest might be created.

This is not to disparage the students who worked on the magazine. In fact, they should be commended.

The success of the magazine will ultimately be determined by student response when it is distributed. The magazine certainly has potential and maybe it will be realized with this issue despite the scarcity of student participation.

Letter To The Editor

PP Coloring Bad

To the Editor:

Last year our campus was plagued with an unsightly blight in the form of "cow pasture" fences, intended to keep the herds of students off the grass.

It was with warm heart and admiration that I watched student concern grow and, when all normal bureaucratic means failed, culminate in instances of mass destruction and "fence burnings."

Many hurrahs echoed around campus when M&O (as the reorganized, efficient, and open-minded PP was then called) announced that all of the wooden hideosities would be replaced with some other, less objectionable type of barrier.

I was again heartened to note that a fairly unobtrusive system of pipes and chains, painted with a brick-red primer, rapidly began to appear. But, in accordance with typical M&O policy of replacing bad with less worse, each pipe and link of chain has been given an expensive hand painting with a cheap-looking and gaudy coat of aluminum paint.

I choose now to lament for one simple reason: it is spring. With the coming of spring, all growing things come forth and bear fruit in kind, and nothing seems to procreate faster on this campus than fences. Aside from asking the Biology Department to investigate this phenomena, which I believe has already begun, I would suggest that the Physical Plant Post Painters (PPPP) consider one of the following as a possible color alteration: either the original brick-red primer (after all, we are a brickbat institution, complete with mortar boards), or a flat black. To be sure, any color, short of day-glow orange, would be less objectionable.

In closing I had intended to relate the aesthetic sensitivities of M&O directly to those of a rhinoceros, and inversely to those of Joseph Koyiefski, but then, who ever heard of Koyiefski?

Friday Night In Coliseum

CARavan Presents 'Folk, Jazz Wing Ding'

By Cora Kemp
Friday night the Ford CARavan of Music will bring Herbie Mann and The Rooftop Singers to the William Neal Reynolds Coliseum.

THE ROOFTOP SINGERS

RON ELIRAN

The performance will also include singers Ron Eliran and The Moonshiners.

The show, called the "Folk and Jazz Wing Ding," begins at 8 p.m. It is open to the public. Tickets are on sale for $1.50 each at the Erdahl-Cloyd Union Main Desk, the Village Pharmacy, and Theim's Record Shop.

As an added attraction, record albums will be given away as door prizes and each ticket holder will become eligible for a national drawing in May for five new Ford cars.

Herbie Mann and his Afro-Cuban 5 have performed not only across the United States but in 15 African countries. In 1960 Herbie Mann was chosen by the State Department to tour Africa as a part of the International Cultural Exchange Program.

The Rooftop Singers, Erik Darling, Willard Svance and

Lynne Taylor, originally got together to record "Walk Right In," but decided to stick with each other to become full time entertainers.

The Moonshiners, a group of three male guitar pluckers, are reportedly well versed in harmonizing and showmanship.

Ron Eliran, "a folk satirist extraordinaire," is a native of Haifa. The 24 year-old has cultivated a sophisticated style that has the earmarks of Mort Sahl in his social observations.

The CARavan is in the last wing of a collegiate tour which has brought entertainers to campuses from the west to the east coast. The tour began last November in Carnegie Hall in New York. It will travel to five more colleges upon leaving State to wind up this season's tour.

The program Friday night is sponsored by the Erdahl-Cloyd Union. It is backed by Ford Motor Company and produced by Eugene Gilbert's Marketing Group. The CARavan has been such a success that the Ford Company plans to back the tour again next spring.

KAPPA SIG HOUSE DAMAGED BY FIRE

A raging fire did extensive damage to the Kappa Sigma fraternity house last Thursday—and this is no April fool's joke.

The damage was estimated at approximately 40 to 50 thousand dollars. The fire was reportedly caused by either the electric wiring or the gas water heater in the building's basement. No one was injured.

The fire completely gutted the first floor, but damage to the second and third floors was confined to paint blistering and extensive soot deposits. Damage to personal property was relative light, a fraternity brother said.

The fire was discovered at 10:55 p.m. and was out by 1:30 a.m.

"We don't know whether we'll build a new house or repair the old one," a spokesman for the fraternity said.

Five Games Begin Open League Play

On Thursday of last week, just one day before the monsoon season hit Raleigh, ten teams began action in the intramural Open League. Another contest was forfeited when one of the teams did not show up.

The Student Supply Store team won by the biggest margin of the day as they downed the Flawless "9", 18-4, in a six inning game. The winners tallied six times in the second frame to take the lead before scoring 10 runs in the sixth inning to ice the game. Owens had the only home run of the game for the winners.

In a game that only went four frames, McKimmon Village topped the Rebels, 13-1. Seven runs in the fourth frame gave the Villagers the lead necessary for the win. In another one-sided contest, the Beattles downed the Black Shirts, 15-5. White hit a home run for the winners who scored in every frame except the second.

The Raiders rallied for six runs in the fifth to come from five runs behind and defeat the Majors, 8-7. The Majors tallied first in the contest, but trailed 2-1 in the third frame; the losers then scored six runs in two innings to take a 7-2 lead before the Raiders rallied for the victory. Yarborough homered in the fifth for the Raiders to aid in the come-from-behind win.

Sigma Phi Epsilon rounded out the day's activities with a 13-6 victory over the Civil Engineers. Both teams scored four runs in the first inning to keep things close until the third frame when the Sig Eps scored once to take the lead for good. Two more runs in the fourth and fifth frames, three in the sixth and one in the last iced the victory. Clark hit a home run for the winners while York and Gidney hit four-baggers for the losers.

A scheduled contest between the Ag. Engineers and Wesley Foundation was forfeited to the Agriculturalist.

Williams And DeAngelis Are 1964 Co-captains

Bennett Williams

Lou DeAngelis

Guard Bennett Williams, a junior in civil engineering from Ahoskie; and Lou DeAngelis, a recreation and park administration junior from Reading, Penn., have been selected by the 1964 Wolfpack football team as co-captains for this year's season.

Both Williams and DeAngelis are twice letter winners and were outstanding in play last year on State's Atlantic Coast Conference co-championship team that went to the Liberty Bowl. Williams played at the guard position while DeAngelis was at center.

Head coach Earle Edwards, commenting on the selection, stated that the team had made excellent choices in these two men. "They will provide us with the leadership—on and off the field—that has been characteristic of our recent captains. Lou and Bennett have been fine players for us and should be equally strong as co-captains," stated Edwards.

... And A Few Are Rained Out

"You win a few, lose a few ... and a few are rained out," is the understatement of the week as far as athletics are concerned at State in both intramural and intercollegiate activity.

The Wolfpack baseball squad has been rained out twice this week, once in a game with East Carolina on Monday and again in a rescheduled contest with the same ECC team Tuesday. The game has been scheduled again for Thursday.

All intramural outdoor sports, softball, tennis and horseshoes, were cancelled which put the opening of the latter two sports into next week.

This will be a familiar sight beginning next week when the fraternity, dormitory, and open leagues resume action in intramural softball. Rains this week cancelled most of the scheduled events.

THE BELL TELEPHONE COMPANIES SALUTE: TOM SAUNDERS

Did you watch the Blue-Gray football game on TV last year? Or the Senior Bowl? Tom Saunders (B.S.E.E., 1962) was the Southern Bell engineer who made arrangements for sending the telecasts of these games by telephone cable to network centers where they were broadcast over national television.

Tom handles many special telephone services—everything from intercity television hookups to data transmission. He coordinates each job from obtaining the circuit design to reserving the facilities called for in the circuit, to seeing that all goes off on schedule. Tom earned all of this responsibility after only six months with the company—a tribute to his ability, and to the willingness of his management to give him the chance to use it.

Tom Saunders, like many young engineers, is impatient to make things happen for his company and himself. There are few places where such restlessness is more welcomed or rewarded than in the fast-growing telephone business.
