Coeds Voice Approval With Dorm Regulations

By Jim Kear

Although the coeds seem to be satisfied with the rules and regulations for next fall's girls dormitory, apparently none of them are planning to live there.

In talking with The Technician this week, several coeds voiced only occasional disapproval of rules or requirements. Not one of them said she planned to live in Watauga next September.

Each girl was asked, "Do you favor the requirement that all single, undergraduate females not living with their parents must live in university housing or be approved to do otherwise?"

The second question dealt with curfew hours: "What is your opinion of the curfew hours announced by the administration?"

Joyce Warner, sophomore, mechanical engineering: "It (the first requirement) is to be expected. The hours look rather normal for a girls dorm, but I don't see the necessity of putting rules on girls and not on boys. That's to be expected too, I guess."

Lynda Smith, junior, textile chemistry: "The requirement is good except for the high cost of living in the dorm. The girls should be able to exceed the curfew for special reasons, to work in labs, the design school, things like that."

Margaret "Peepsie" Smith, freshman, agriculture: "I don't think the girls should be required to stay in the dorm. I do now, (Rex Hospital) and I don't like it. The hours are good to start out with, but it depends on how they're enforced."

Joan Stredler, senior, applied math: "Until a girl is 21 she needs the privilege of staying in the dorm. Dorms and rules are a help rather than a hindrance. Although the hours may be hard on the girls in design, I think they are fair."

Celia Parsons, freshman, liberal arts: "The requirement is fine, that way the college will know where the girls are. The hours are in keeping with the most liberal college in the South, Carolina, and in keeping with the popular opinion of the community." Celia lives at home.

Golden Chain To Honor Twelve

Nominations for membership in Golden Chain, the senior leadership honorary society, are now being accepted in Room 204 in Peale Hall.

Golden Chain recognizes 12 members of the rising senior class each spring for outstanding contributions to the university community.

Students and faculty who wish to nominate a member of the rising Class of 1965 for active membership or members of the Class of 1964 for honorary memberships should write a letter to Golden Chain in care of the Students Activities Office, stating the candidate's qualifications for membership.

The deadline for nominations is 1 p.m. on Wednesday, April 29.

Wanted: Dirty Cars

"We want old dirt."

So say the girls from the Meredith College Baptist Student Union who are to hold a car wash this weekend to raise money for the BSU LISTEN program. The soapy suders will make their debut on Saturday from 9 a.m. until 4 p.m. at the Esso Retail Training Center on Hillsboro Street opposite Meredith.

The proceeds will support a summer Korean mission program. All State men and their dirty cars are invited to come out and let the girls do the work.

Ike And Tina, The Four Preps Featured During IFC Weekend

By Charles Wood

Fraternity men will have their annual springtime blow-out this weekend.

The two name groups featured will be Ike And Tina Review Saturday afternoon on Kidd Brewer's front yard "hill" and The Four Preps, nationally known vocal quartet, will appear in the Rose Garden Sunday afternoon.

Ike and Tina have been responsible for a number of million-seller disks. Their review contains the Ikettes, a back-up group and an eight-piece orchestra.

The Four Preps have been in the national spotlight since 1958. They have been recently successful with their album recorded live on a college campus in California. Most of their act is made up of comedy and song.

The seventeen participating fraternities will party separately Saturday night and go together again Sunday afternoon. Allen Tothill, vice-president of the IFC, has predicted this will be the best spring IFC ever. "We have tried to select a variety that should appeal to each fraternity man."

Cafeteria Demands Clothed Bodies

You can lead a student to Leazar but you can't shoe his feet.

According to the latest minutes of the Cafeteria Advisory Committee, the Cafeteria has the right to refuse service to any student who is barefoot, dressed in a swim suit, has his shirt unbuttoned, or is in any other mode of dress which is not conducive to pleasant dining.

The committee stated that while many schools have minimum dress rules, State has none at the present. It is, however, highly recommended that students dress as if they did have these rules.

The Committee will have a bill proposed in the Student Government concerning dress in the cafeteria, according to Peggy Hollingsworth, a committee member.

Blue Key Selects Seventeen Students

Seventeen students and three non-students were tapped into Blue Key yesterday.

Members of the national honorary fraternity caught the new members in class and on the run yesterday to perform the tapping ceremony.

Students tapped were Frank Briner, Mike Scofield, Curtiss Moore, Carlos Williams, Bob Dobbs, Glenn Chappell, Dan Derby, Herb Goldston, Ed Bailey, Darrell Steagall, Dave Stuart, Joe McCall, John Atkins, Ron Stinner, Jim Braddock, Terry Lowder and Willard G. Preussel.

Honorary members added to the rolls were: G. H. Dunlap, Textile School placement director, Allard K. Lowenstein, associate Social Studies professor; and Henry Bowers, Erdahl-Cloyd Union director.

Students are selected to Blue Key on the basis of campus leadership.

Union Reception

The Erdahl-Cloyd Union is holding a reception honoring the old and new Board of Chairmen and Board of Directors April 23 from 7:30 until 9 p.m. in Room 256-258. Various Union awards will be presented. Union club and committee members are invited.

Campus Crier

The North Carolina Symphony Orchestra will present a concert Thursday at 8:30 p.m. at the Memorial Auditorium. Free tickets are available at the Information Desk of the Union.

The IEEE will hold its annual spring picnic April 25 from 2 to 5 p.m. at Dean's cabin. All EE freshman and branch members are invited. Those planning to attend may sign up in the EE office. Transportation will be provided.

A reward is offered for a Post slide rule which was lost by Stewart Stoudemire. His name is in the case. He may be reached at TE 2-9369.

Thirty And Three Takes In Eleven Sophomores

The Sophomore honor society, The Order of Thirty and Three, tapped eleven new members, including two coeds, this week.

The coeds, Sylvia Williams and Joy Johnson, are the first girls to be inducted in the society.

The other new members include Jim Fulgum, Bob Self, Ed Scott, Jack Mitchell, Jim Miller, John A. Heitman, William C. Schwartz, Charles Biggs, and Mike Smith.

Members are selected on the basis of character, satisfactory scholastic averages, and demonstration of leadership in extra-curricular activities.

Membership in Thirty and Three is the highest honor sophomores here may receive. The organization is a local society founded in 1933.

There are no more than thirty-three members in the organization at one time. Eleven new sophomores are tapped each spring.

The Rule Still Stands

The senior exam exemption controversy has once again been settled by the Faculty Senate. The negative decision of the Senate should come as no surprise, however, to the students who have been concerned with exemptions in the past.

About four years ago, the Senate decided that exemptions were a rotten apple in the academic system and suggested that the administration dispense with the practice of exempting seniors from their final exams.

Since this time, the students have tried just about every trick in the book to get this privilege back. But it seems that the faculty remembers all these attempts and during that period of time, disagreements have risen between the students and the faculty.

Educational Policy Chairman H. W. Garren was on the right track when he said he expects the controversy to come up again. The subject is far from being a dead issue, regardless of the fact that the Senate probably won't change its mind, if it ever does, until the controversy simmers down.

The seniors who represented the students before the Faculty Senate committee asked that exemptions be made at the discretion of the professor. This plan appears to be the most feasible since it would allow the professor to determine whether his course did or did not require an exam, but the Senate objected on the grounds that professors would feel obligated to conform with the trends of the other professors which seems to be somewhat absurd.

Surely the faculty can afford to stand up for what it thinks is right on an individual basis without feeling any obligation to conform.

But since the Senate has delivered its ultimatum, despite opposition from the students, the faculty as well as the students should abide by the rules. No doubt there will be even more conflict if some professors take the prerogative of exempting seniors in spite of the Senate ruling.

After Six Formals, By Slater

Aside from the opinions handed down on the food served by the Slater Food Service, the Cafeteria Advisory Committee has moved into another important area of general concern.

Recommendations have been made by the committee on the proper dress for students who "dine" at the Slater establishments.

The general level of dress at State has been for some years a subject of jest among our peers at other universities. And no wonder. But it is neither the duty nor the responsibility of the Advisory Committee to demand Student Government action for breaches of suggested dress.

To be sure, it is the right of Slater Foods to refuse service to any poorly dressed students, but should it be the prerogative of the Student Government to dictate student dress anywhere at any time? It is detestable to think that one might find barefoot students eating in a University cafeteria, but it is equally distressing to think that the Student Government could even consider discussion of such rules much less legislate such asinine regulations.

What students wear to meals is their business. If kilts, wingtip shoes and red bandanas happen to be the fashion for dinner with Slater, that is entirely up to the students. If Slater does not like it, Slater can say so. They have not hesitated to speak their mind so far.

COED HOUSING

To the Editor:

As an "unmarried undergraduate woman" of N. C. State, I was both appalled and amused at the article in Monday's Technician concerning the regulations set up for those of us who wish to maintain our sanity, freedom, and individuality by continuing to live off campus next year.

It would seem that Mr. N. B. Watts, director of Student Housing, has overlooked a small but very pertinent fact in his statement that coeds must have "University approval for rooming off campus": Since there are only approximately ninety spaces available for occupancy in the present dormitory, and since these spaces will undoubtedly be filled by incoming freshmen and those coeds desiring the privilege(?) of living in a dormitory atmosphere, why is it necessary for the remaining number of coeds to seek permission to live outside the dormitory when there is no room for them there in the first place?

I have watched with increasing concern the series of articles issued from Peele Hall on the subject of coed housing, and while I hold the Technician blameless for this lack of clarification, I feel that some explanation is in order as to just whose neck is slated to fall under the axe of the executioner of Peele Hall, and who will be allowed the privilege of continuing to live in the peace and tranquility to which they have been accustomed for the past several years. Does the administration intend that women who have led a responsible, purposeful existence up until now be reduced to the status of "little girls away from home" who must be told where to live, with whom to live, and even how to live? I should like to think not!

Having been unfortunate enough to live in a dormitory for one year, I can speak from experience in saying that to be removed from such congenial surroundings as I have lived in for the past two years, and to be deprived of the invaluable experiences which I have derived from them, would be nothing short of traumatic. I realize the need of adequate coed housing to accommodate the influx of women on this campus, but the fact remains that there are many of us who feel that we have earned the right to live as we have been living, and to set an example for those who come after us to follow. I respectfully request, therefore, that those responsible for coed housing make it clear who will be affected by the new dormitory and who will not. It means a great deal to many of us who have thus far found life at State much to our liking, and who would like for it to remain that way. In view of the way we have deported ourselves thus far, is this too much to ask?

MOVIE CHANGES

To the Editor:

As the manager of the Erdahl-Cloyd Union Weekend Movies Theater, I would like to offer apologies and a brief explanation of what happened last weekend.

Operation Petticoat was cancelled and replaced by Duel in the Sun because United Artists owns right on Operation Petticoat and drew it out of circulation in order to re-release it this spring. The same thing happened to That Touch of Mink. This movie will be replaced this coming weekend by The Honey-moon Machine.

DECENCY

To the Editor:

Some of the pictures that have appeared in The Technician recently have been somewhat less than decent. I object. It should be the goal of The Technician to improve the minds of State students, not destroy them.

Scholarships Restricted

Two textile scholarships for students at State, which have formerly been available to graduates of any high school in North Carolina, are now restricted to graduates of high schools in Bertie, Chowan, and Perquimans counties.

The George C. Moore Company scholarships, $500 a year each, were restricted in conjunction with the establishment of the company's new textile plant in Edenton.

Commander Visits State ROTC Unit

The XII Corps Commander of the 3rd U. S. Army, Colonel James H. Reeves Jr., was here Wednesday to pay a courtesy visit to the State ROTC unit.

Colonel Reeves inspected the facilities, visited with PMS Colonel Robert Summers and Dean of Student Affairs James J. Stewart, and lunched at the Union with Stewart and Col. Summers, and other ROTC regular officers.

WHAT EVERY YOUNG BRIDE WANTS

What does the average young woman want in her first home?

Bride's Magazine asked this question at UNC, and it was up to the Architectural Design class at the University to come up with a suitable design for a young bride's home.

The magazine's only requirement of the house plan was that it reflect a contemporary way of life. The two-story house designed by the class will be built in Sedgefield, near Greensboro and is to be purchased by a Greensboro family.

The budget for the construction is $27,000.

The house will be featured in the January issue of the magazine. An Open House will be planned for next fall when construction is completed.

ST. MARY'S PREFERS LODGE, PREYER

In a poll taken by The Belles, students at St. Mary's chose Henry Cabot Lodge as their Republican presidential preference.

Barry Goldwater, Nelson Rockefeller, and Richard Nixon were next, in that order.

Gubernatorial preferences showed Richardson Preyer well ahead of Moore and Lake.

Dan Gurney Didn't Win

By Bill Fishburne

The signs read, "DAN GURNEY for PRESIDENT", and if he had been there he would have won.

He wasn't, however, so Ed Lowther won in a Genie-Ford. The event was the Virginia International Raceway SCCA National Sports Car race. Every one was there, and I didn't win either.

The main event was a 45 minute race for all modified cars, except class H.

The best races were in the production category, which featured Bob Tullius in a D production TR-4 walking all over the gentlemen who also ran. Bruce Jennings, in a C production Porsche Carrera, was one of the also rans.

Graham (Tombstone) Shaw demonstrated the art of being a gentleman by helping a competitor repair his car on the eve of the race. (Fish 'Foto)

The Cobras won A production as expected, but Dick Lang led the race for 5 laps in a Sting Ray. Mark Donahue won, followed 18 seconds later by Tombstone Shaw. Harold Keck finished fourth in a third Cobra, after Shaw sent his private plane to Columbia Saturday night to fetch an axle for Keck.

Deacons Come From Behind To Top Pack

The Wolfpack lost a two run lead in the sixth inning Tuesday afternoon after two outs when Deacons Billy Scripture and Mike Budd blasted back-to-back home runs, good for four runs, to put Wake Forest ahead for good at 6-4. The Deacons won, 7-6.

The Pack began the game by getting three runs in the first frame on three Deacon miscues, a walk, singles by Warren Lineberger and Larry Clary, and a sacrifice fly by Robert Young. The Deacons, once ranked third in the nation, scored once in the second to cut the Pack lead to 3-1.

The two teams traded runs in the fifth frame to keep the State lead at two runs, 4-2. State scored in the inning on singles by Willard Dean, Larry Clary, and Mac Kelly. The Deacon rally in the sixth inning put the home team ahead at 6-4. The Deacons added one more in the seventh frame for a 7-4 lead. This run proved to be the winning tally, it was unearned.

State bounced back in the ninth with two runs, but the rally fell short by one tally. The runs came on a single by Dean, a double by Lineberger, and sacrifices by Wendell Coleman and Ron Erb.

Both teams collected 10 hits in the game with Bobby Hicks taking the loss for State. The Pack used three pitchers in the game with Frank Perkinson and Ray Barlow following Hicks.

The loss gives State a 2-2 Atlantic Coast Conference record and a 6-8 overall score. Wake is 15-4 overall and has a 3-1 conference mark.

The Pack meets Virginia in Charlottesville this Friday and travels to Maryland for a game on Saturday.

Big "4" Sports Day To Be Held May 5

The Big "4" Sports Day and the Big "4" Rod and Gun Meet are scheduled for Tuesday, May 5. This is always a big day for the boys who have participated in Intramural Athletics at Carolina, Duke, Wake Forest, and State throughout the year. The event will be held in Chapel Hill this year.

As in the past, interest is running high with keen competition expected at all try outs. State is the winner of four out of the past five Big "4" Sports Days and champion or co-champion of five of the last seven Big "4" Rod and Gun Meets.

State is looking forward to another fine day and Carolina, winner of only one of the last seven Big "4" Sports Days, has all their big guns loaded and have high hopes of derailing the Raleigh Express.

Competition will begin at 1:30 p.m. Tuesday, May 5, and all participants will be excused from classes after 11 a.m.

The events, team captains, and time for try-outs are listed below.

Open League Teams Continue Softball

Six games were scheduled for play last week in the Open League softball circuit. One of the six was forfeited and another ended in a tie after eight innings of play due to the lack of light.

The Swampers led the hitting attack for the day with 17 runs against the Ag. Economics team. The Swampers scored seven runs in the second to take an 8-0 lead on the way to a 17-3 victory. Andrews and Blakely each had home runs for the winners.

The Beatles were second highest for the day with 16 runs against the Rebels, the final score being 16-3. The winners scored 10 runs in the first frame and six in the second to complete their scoring in the four inning game. Donaldson homered for the Beatles.

The McKimmon Village was close behind the leaders with 15 runs against six for the Flawless "9". The winners broke open a 7-5 game in the last inning with eight tallies. Boone had a home run for the losers.

The Civil Engineers scored nine runs in the last two frames to come three runs behind and win 11-5. Six runs in the seventh broke a 5-5 tie.

Dormitories Begin Badminton Action

The dormitory intramural league began action in the badminton play-offs Tuesday night by completing the entire first round of action. Competition in the fraternity league began Wednesday night.

Sixteen teams played in the first round which divided the field into two groups. Those teams in the winner's bracket and those in the loser's bracket. Badminton, like the other minor sports, is a double elimination play-off. Undeclared teams continue in the winner's bracket until a defeat. That team then drops to the loser's bracket undefeated, two losses drops a team from competition. The winner of the loser's bracket must defeat the winner's bracket champion in two separate matches to win the title.

In Tuesday night competition, Alexander was the only team to win by a 3-0 score in defeating Watauga. Bragaw North #1 and Bragaw South #2 both won by 2-0 scores over Owen #2 and Bagwell. Winning by 2-1 margins were Turlington over Bragaw North #2, Bragaw South #1 over Syme, Becton over Owen #1, and Welch-Gold-Fourth over Tucker #1. Tucker #2 won by forfeit over Berry.

IFC Weekend Begins With Field Day Friday

The Spring Greek weekend gets underway tomorrow on the fraternity intramural field and at Carmichael Gymnasium with the annual IFC Field Day.

The day's events will consist of a putting contest, a volleyball throwing contest, a three-leg race, a relay sack race, an egg toss, a gladiator fight and a tug-of-war as the grand finale.

The putting contest will begin at Carmichael Gym at 3:00 while all other events will start at the same time on the fraternity intramural field across from the Sigma Chi and Sigma Alpha Epsilon houses.

The base rules of the event are as follows:

- 1) Designated officials will be in charge of determining a 1st, 2nd, and 3rd place winner in each event and reporting results to a scorer's table as soon as possible. Scoring will be 5 for first, 3 for second, and 1 for third in all events except the tug-of-war which will be 15-9-5.
- 2) Houses with 100% participation will receive 5 bonus points.
- 3) First, second, and third place overall awards will be made at the intramural field immediately following the activities.
- 4) A man may participate in only one event.

The putting contest, volleyball throwing contest, egg toss, and tug-of-war are self-explanatory events. The three-leg race, relay sack race, and gladiator fight might need some clearing up.

The three-leg race consists of teams from each house, each team being composed of one brother and a date (anyone's). The right leg of one team member and the left leg of the other are tied together, then in the best manner possible, run or walk 50 yards.

The relay sack race also consists of teams made up of a brother and a date. The date races 25 yds in a sack and then gives the bag to the brother who races 50 yds to the finish.

The gladiator fight will be held between teams from all houses. Teams will be made up of one man on another man's shoulders, last teams to remain mounted win.

Valentine Pringle Ends New Arts Series Here Friday Night

In the Harry Belafonte style of singing, Valentine Pringle will appear as the last of the New Arts Series Friday night at Reynolds Coliseum.

Some years ago Belafonte heard through a member of his cast that a young vocal singer was appearing in a small night club in Washington. From this point began the career of Valentine Pringle.

Pringle's voice ranges from deep bass to high tenor. He has never studied voice and does not even read music. His only professional activities during Belafonte's training period was a role of Porgy in the Readers Digest "Treasury of Great Operettas" . . . and it has been released as his debut album, "I Hear America Singing."

NCS Keramos Is Best In Nation

The State chapter of the national professional ceramic engineering fraternity Keramos has been declared the most outstanding one in the nation.

The group received the Distinguished Chapter Award at the biennial convocation of the fraternity this week in Chicago.

Representing the State chapter at the meeting are Dr. W. W. Kreigel, who is in charge of the ceramic engineering curriculum here, Jack Smithwick, Marvin L. Huckabee, and Tommy Miller, students in the curriculum.

The chapter received the award for its outstanding activities this year. Its two major projects included a committee on student enrollment, headed by Elmo Scott and Billy Gay, that has been instrumental in developing a program to introduce North Carolina high school students to ceramic engineering as a career. The other project was sponsoring the Explorer Scout Post 382.

The State chapter has 17 members headed by President

Robert F. Davis, Vice President Billy Gay, Secretary George Morelock, Treasurer Marvin L. Huckabee, and Gerald T. Lester, herald.
