New IFC Rules Drawn

The Interfraternity Council Executive Committee has drawn up a proposed answer to the inadequate social policy that now exists in the State fraternity system.

Campus leaders, administrators and fraternity men alike have clamored for a change, following the recent semester probation levied on Sigma Alpha Epsilon fraternity.

A synopsis of the impending policy is as follows:

(I) All fraternity parties held during certain hours will be approved by Peace, St. Mary's, and Meredith. On Friday from 5 p.m. to midnight, on Saturday from 11 a.m. to midnight, on Sunday from noon to 11 p.m.; and on Mondays through Thursdays from 5 p.m. to 7:30 p.m., the houses will be approved as long as there is a woman 25 years of age or older to chaperone.

(II) No girl, with the exception of the housemother, will be allowed in fraternity housing from 2 a.m. to 7 a.m. For girls who are not from St. Mary's, Meredith, and Peace, the fraternities shall be approved by the Interfraternity Council only from 7 a.m. until 2 a.m.

(III) Women guests will be allowed in the dorm areas only when an open house is announced and approved by the IFC Investigations Board one week prior to the event.

The remainder of the proposed policy merely defines the duties of the IFC Investigations Board and the procedure the board follows in the event of violations.

"I think this is an excellent policy and would like to see it overwhelmingly adopted," said Frank Briner, Secretary of the IFC.

"Once a definite policy has been adopted and ratified by the administration, there will be no need for such misunderstandings as occurred recently," he said.

Golden Chain Takes In Twelve

Twelve rising seniors and three honorary members were tapped into Golden Chain Honor Society today.

The students are John Atkins, Ed Bailey, Frank Briner, Dan Derby, Herb Goldston Jr., Bill Howle.

Steve Johnston, Cora Kemp, Terry Lowder, Curtiss (Andy) Moore, Mike Scofield, and Allen Tothill.

The honorary members tapped are Arthur M. Hoch, PE instructor and intramural director; David W. Phillips, program director of the Erdahl-Cloyd Union; and Donald W. Shriver, campus pastor for the West Raleigh Presbyterian Church.

The new members were tapped in classes today and will be honored at a banquet at Balentine's May 13.

Honor Board Rules Craven Disqualified

There has been a mix-up in the recent election of junior class representatives to the Campus Code Board.

John Allen and Ed Craven were both elected to the CCB in the spring elections. But both are members of Sigma Chi Fraternity.

The Honor Code Board met yesterday to decide the constitutionality of the election and has ruled that Craven should be disqualified. According to the constitution of the Judicial Candidates' Approval Board, only one representative from a single fraternity is allowed on the CCB. The HCB based its ruling on this provision.

Everett Chesley, who finished third in the election, will take Craven's place. Allen was allowed to retain his position because he had the greatest number of votes.

In other election action, the Honor Code Board mandated the Judicial Candidates Approval Board to meet and to either approve or disqualify William Fletcher as a sophomore representative on the Campus Code Board. Fletcher was elected by write-in vote, and therefore was not approved by the JCAB before the election.

To prevent a recurrence of this situation, the HCB will propose to the Student Government Legislature two amendments to the constitution of the JCAB.

The first resolution would require the JCAB to meet between the primary and general election to approve or disapprove of any write-in candidates for judicial board positions.

The second resolution states that any candidate written-in for a judicial board position during the run-off election is not valid.

Case Chosen For Sports Hall Of Fame

Head basketball coach Everett Case was inducted into the North Carolina Sports Hall of Fame in Charlotte Monday night.

Case was not able to attend due to a recurrence of the gout that bothered him during the regular season. Athletic Director Roy Clogston accepted the honor for Case, and presented to the Hall of Fame the trophy won by Case's team in the first Dixie Classic tournament in 1949.

Also inducted were Enos Slaughter, Wallace Wade, and Fred Crawford.

Case is known in the South as the father of "Big Time" basketball. It was due to the quality of the State teams in the fifties that the other schools began to emphasize basketball. For 10 straight years Case's teams won 20 or more games each year.

Digging into the history of Coach Case disclosed that since he started coaching in 1919 at the age of 18, he has achieved a lifetime record of 1,160 wins versus only 213 losses. This gives a remarkable average of 26 wins each year since then.

Case will serve as head coach at State until after next year, when Press Maravich will take over the job.

Aycock Defends Positions; Won't Talk About Poll

By Ernie McCrary
Edmund Aycock, president of the State Alumni Association, has thrown a blast at claims that he is trying to split the University, but still isn't saying much about the poll of State faculty taken by the Wake County Alumni Club.

The questionnaire concerned feelings about the name "North Carolina State University."

The Board of Directors of the Alumni Association met last weekend to discuss the results of the poll. But regarding its decisions on the matter, Aycock only said, "I just can't say now. I will say, though, that the response to the poll was better than expected—much better."

However, he did have a comment on charges that the Alumni Association is trying to make State a separate university, as Ralph Scott, former Alumni Association president, claims.

"We've been accused of trying to deconsolidate the University," he stated. "This isn't right. Some people have misinterpreted our actions and think we have ulterior motives about deconsolidation. It simply isn't true. The people saying this are being entirely unfair."

Band And Glee Club To Perform

State's music talent will really be on display Thursday at the Erdahl-Cloyd Union.

Not only will the Symphonic Band and the Glee Club perform, but three selections arranged by the director of the Music Department, J. Perry Watson, and director of the Fanfare Band and Collegiate Men's Glee Club, Milton C. Bliss, will also be performed.

In addition Ken Mills will set a dreamy and misty mood with his saxophone solo in "Nightfall." The traditional "Fight Song" will be played with a new twist each time it is played. The new rendition for the Band was arranged by Bliss and the choral variation was arranged by Watson.

This 7 p.m. performance will also feature the premier performance of "Nobody Knows," a Negro Spiritual arranged by Bliss. "We are all looking forward to this performance and we feel that anyone who comes will enjoy this concert," said Donald B. Adcock, director of the Symphonic Band.

Who Made The Boo Boo?

By Phil Gietzen

Students who have not yet picked up their commencement announcements may be in for a shock.

Invitations to the commencement exercises on May 29 were printed incorrectly.

Dean of Student Affairs, Dean Stewart said last night that due to the change in the date because of a conflict with the primary elections to be held on May 30th, the invitations were erroneously printed. An erratum has been placed in the invitations correcting the date to May 29 for commencement exercises.

L. L. Ivey, manager of the Student Supply Stores, said last night that he had not been authorized to make refunds to students who do not wish to send the corrected invitations. Ivey said that the change came through the student affairs office.

Stewart said last night that the change was made after contacting student and faculty and that an announcement of the changes was made in the weekly bulletin to faculty and students.

Professor Doolittle, chairman of the faculty committee on commencement exercises said last night that he was unaware of the change to be made in the invitations by placing the erratum in them. Doolittle said that the faculty committee does not handle the invitation orders and was not consulted about the change.

Dean Stewart said he thought members of the Student Government were contacted regarding the erratum correction. President of the body John Bynum could not be contacted at press time last night for comment.

Stewart said that he did not believe that the mistake was serious since the erratum did give the corrected date. He said that the important thing was to have everybody there on the right date.

The professional class of the School of Design has escaped the use of the incorrect invitation by supervising the printing of a special invitation with the correct date at the North Carolina State Print Shop. The invitation printed at State's own print shop cost one-third less than the engraved invitation ordered by the Supply Stores.

Scott Makes A Point

Ralph Scott had a point to make last weekend and he didn't waste anytime making it.

Scott is a man who probably knows as much about this institution as anybody. He was graduated from State 40 years ago, was chairman of the Board of Trustees a year ago, president of the Alumni Association two years ago, and he has served in the North Carolina Senate.

So when Scott speaks, it pays to listen.

Last weekend Scott claimed that the association is out making trouble in its efforts to have the name of this institution changed to "North Carolina State University."

He admits that nobody is satisfied with the name. However, he feels that the association is hardly the group to attempt to legislate a name.

Scott recommends that the association stop wasting the valuable time of the administration and faculty and leave the decision up to the Board of Trustees.

After all, the fact is that the Faculty Senate, which is supposedly the voice of the faculty, has already told the Executive Board of Trustees that it prefers the name "North Carolina State University," but it will accept the name "University of North Carolina at Raleigh."

Another fact is that the Alumni Association has had the same opportunity to voice its opinion on the name "North Carolina State University" and to tell the board that it will endorse no alternate name.

Scott's argument is that the Executive Board by now knows what everybody, except maybe the students, want in a name. So, he asks, why not let the board do its job and handle the name change, if there is one.

Scott is afraid that the legislators are going to get sick and tired of the alumni and their constant harassment.

But he thinks the legislators are not the only ones who are going to get sick of the alumni. Sooner or later, the faculty will too.

Scott specifically cited the recent poll by the Wake County Alumni Club to give the faculty a chance (as if they wanted one) to say "Yes, I think NCSU is a lovely name," or No, I don't think NCSU is a lovely name."

Scott figures these alumni should know by now what the faculty wants.

But they took to the poll and what happens? Mum's the word. Ed Aycock's (President of the Alumni Association) vocabulary on the subject is limited to such trite statements as the results were "very favorable," or they were "very, very favorable."

Apparently the results were so favorable that the association doesn't wish to share the intimate details of its poll.

Scott also claims that the Alumni Association's activities will ultimately lead to the deconsolidation of this university if they are successful in isolating State from the Consolidated University system.

This all leads back to the fact that the legislators control our budget and if there is one thing this institution needs more of, it is money.

We agree with Senator Scott that the hanky-panky of the Alumni Association is leading us nowhere. The association has made its position clear and we realize they can be influential in determining the University's name. But, as the senator suggests, why don't they leave the decision up to the Trustees?

If the Alumni Association is looking for ways to help this institution, why don't they take on something of more significance to the campus, like the D. H. Hill Library?

To the Editor:

For fraternity men who would regard themselves as valiant guardians of fraternity freedom and "individuality," the recent action of Student Affairs towards SAE fraternity was but support to constant cry "Look, the administration's usurping power and interfering in fraternity affairs." To others, myself included, the final decision came as inevitable effect of weak IFC (aggregate representatives and house officers) and fraternities whose slogan rises "self government unaccompanied by responsibility."

The IFC has thus far proven itself wholly opposed to accepting responsibility for its own actions. Neither does the lethargy of the IFC toward any legislation giving rise to a higher level of brotherhood and educational environment, nor the lack of cooperation among fraternities make this body any less like an ostrich with its head in the sand. When today's life and educational system demands progress and creative thought, the inert condition of State fraternities is equivalent to retrograde movement.

Why did the IFC Investigation Board not handle this matter? Part of this is answered in that IFC has established no rules regarding appearance and cleanliness of houses, much less authority to enforce such a dictate. Yet, SAE could have been given social probation by the Investigations Board. Why was the Board not given this opportunity? One can surmise, and well attribute this to inability of the Board to mobilize for trials and to questionable serving of justified punishment on SAE had the Board handled this matter. When several of the present and past members of the I.B. regard the position as but another activity to place beside their name in the Agromock, then it does not matter that IFC has created a rocket without any engine. Nor does lack of a complete judicial system matter when the fraternities electing board members so desperately want one of their own brothers on the board in order that they might have aegis for their own constitution violations. But even should one have a conscientious man on the board, (there are several) he is in all likelihood confronted with violations and flagrant disregard for his responsibility by his own brothers. This man, by silence, becomes a hypocrite or, by action, the instrument of harm to the fraternity which has his allegiance. Because of these factors affecting the board, it is conducive to justice (not necessarily judicial process) that the matter was handled by Student Affairs.

What of SAE fraternity? The only event more amazing than SAE's blatant violation of school authority was the hypocrisy of the Chapter letter in The Technician. SAE's actions have actually been no worse than those of any other fraternity, and their only crime, in the present system, might be considered too ostentatious a show of irresponsibility. With reference to SAE's "past and present" record as a "responsible organization," while it is true that a list of individual activities would prove impressive, I am certain that the active attitude and inner-fraternity actions of the fraternity are as remote from fostering goals of higher education as anything could be. With practically all fraternities, "past and present" records are a list of perfunctory activities with only lip-service to meaning and purpose. With most fraternity men regarding the purpose of their house as primarily social, let us be honest and open about this aim and not allude to that which does not exist. The example is SAE, but its application is the member fraternities of IFC.

Art Show

Any artist in the area who would like to exhibit and/or sell some of his work is invited to participate in the sixth annual Sidewalk Art Show to be held May 8-10 next to the University Methodist Church in Chapel Hill.

Contributors are asked to bring their work to the Graham Memorial Student Union building May 6-7 between 1 and 6 p.m. The entry fee is $1 for up to 10 works, and entries may consist of paintings, sculpture, prints, drawings, pottery, all (except pottery and sculpture) suitably framed or matted.

Purchases in the 1963 show amounted to over $1,500, and the University Art League expects this year's show to be an even better success.

SEX REPORT HEADS TO SUSPENSION

The newly appointed editor of the Oakland University student newspaper was suspended Monday by school officials for his refusal to suppress a campus "Kinsey Report."

Wolf Metzger, 20, a native of Germany was notified of his suspension as editor of the student weekly, The Observer, by Chancellor D. B. Varner.

The chancellor also ordered copies of the newspaper's May 1 issue, which headlined Metzger's story about the survey of student sexual conduct and an editorial critical of the administration, destroyed at the printing shop.

The action was brought about as the results of a three-part questionnaire inquiring into the sexual habits of the 290 students living in the branch's three dormitories. About 150 male and 140 female students were polled.

Metzger said results of the survey have not been tabulated, but that "80 per cent" of the students polled filled out the questionnaires in early April.

He said the idea for the survey began last semester because of student concern over rumors that "the coed pregnancy and dropout rate at Oakland University was skyrocketing."

Metzger's story and editorial did not list survey findings but reported the fact that he had been ordered to suppress any such findings by Varner.

The story said Varner, in conference with Metzger last Monday and Tuesday, "stressed his belief that whatever the outcome (of the survey) it would be detrimental to the university and every girl living in the dormitories."

Poetry Reading Held

By Dwight Minkler

"I think of a poem as a celebration more than anything else."

"Sometimes a poem is a prayer, a dance, or just a joyful or angry outburst."

These definitions of poetry were offered last night by Jean Garrigue, after her poetry reading here. She is the first woman poet to appear on the North Carolina Poetry Circuit.

Miss Garrigue read from her three published volumes as well as from her book to be published in the fall, The Country Without Maps.

Having traveled much — France, Spain, Italy, England, Denmark — she has a propensity for writing about foreign scenes and animals.

When asked if she knew why she became a poet, she answered, "No. That's one of those unanswerable questions." She has been writing for more than 25 years.

A native of New York, this was her first time in the South. "I've met a lot of Southern charm. The South is very different. I hope it stays that way," she concluded.

Palestine Lecture

A program on the international problems of Palestine will be presented at 7:30 tonight in the Union.

The program, sponsored by the State Lectures Committee, will include slides, a short film, and reflections on the Palestine problem.

Mary Lou Jones, Raleigh's Community Ambassador to Israel and Sabin Dahir, a native of Palestine, will present the program.

The public is invited to attend the program which will be followed by an informal get-together during which refreshments will be served.

semi-final action last week.

Tucker #1 and Berry join Bragaw North #2 and Turlington in the loser's bracket competition.

Dormitory tennis is the only one of the minor sports to have only one undefeated team. Bragaw North #1 defeated Alexander last week for the championship of the winner's bracket of that sport to keep its record clean.

Bragaw North #1 and Alexander had won previously over Bragaw North #2 and Owen #1 in semi-final competition. Alexander will play the loser's bracket champion for the right to meet undefeated Bragaw for the tennis crown. Battling it out for the loser's crown are Bragaw South #2, Bragaw North #2, Owen #1, Owen #2, and Turlington.

Open League Softball

In last week's open league softball games, the Majors, Agriculture Economist, the Agriculture Engineers, and the Student Supply Store team added victories to their records.

The Majors scored eight runs in the fourth frame to break open their game with Sigma Phi Epsilon and win 14-6. Christy and Anderson each had home runs for the winners.

The Ag. Econs scored in all but two frames to rout the Civil Engineers, 11-0.

The Ag. Engineers scored one run in the bottom of the last inning to break a 14-14 tie and defeat the Raiders, 15-14. Stout of the Raiders homered.

The Student Supply Store team took high scoring honors for the week by scoring 21 times to beat the McKimmon Village team, 21-18. Bullington and Watson of McKimmon Village had one home run each while Sabatis of the Supply Store team had two.

We'd like to say some nice things about America's young adult drivers

And we think we've got good reason! Last January, we selected twenty 18- and 19-year-old young men and women through the Junior Achievement program to drive our team of Chevrolets in the Mobil Economy Run, April 3-9. It was the first time any company had relied entirely on drivers with limited experience in this exacting competition.

We brought these young adults—most of them college students, some from the business world—to Arcadia, California, in late February. For six weeks, our expert teachers trained them in the skills of economy driving.

Then, on April 3, they set off on the Run, 3,243 miles from Los Angeles to New York.

We were going against the grain. It takes high proficiency to win the Mobil Economy Run. Competition is tough. Why did we rely on drivers with such limited experience?

Chevrolet wanted to give the Chevy Teen Team a chance to prove in front of the nation that they and the 6.5 million licensed drivers in their age bracket are safe, sane people behind the wheel. We felt the Run offered a splendid chance.

The Corvair, Chevy IIs, Chevelles and Chevrolets driven by the Chevy Teen

Team in the Mobil Economy Run did remarkably well compared with the class winners in overall miles-per-gallon figures. The final results are a tribute to the high degree of driving skill displayed by the Chevy Teen Team representing the youth of America.

No wonder we're proud of America's young adult drivers. We couldn't have a better reason.

Students Must Register By End Of Week

All unregistered students who want to vote in the coming state and national elections must register by the end of this week to be eligible to vote.

State Students for Preyer are sponsoring a booth containing registration and voting rules in every county in North Carolina, according to Bill Peabody, chairman of State "Students for Preyer."

Any student or faculty member is welcome to visit the booth between the hours of 12 and 2 p.m., Peabody said.

Since rules and procedures vary from county to county, each counties rules will be presented. Some counties allow voters to register as late as next week.

Those selected for Georgia are: Mary Blessin, Roderick Jordan, Larry Dewhurst, William Caudle, Larry Byrd, Danny T. Allen, Gerald Mitchum, and Edwin Perkins.

Why pay less than $10 for a canvas shoe?

Frankly, the Sperry Top-Sider canvas oxford is the most expensive you can buy. But it's worth every penny. The famous, exclusive anti-slip safety sole has made it the only shoe for men and women who know boats. (Great tennis favorite, too.) And the rest of the shoe makes it perfect for all casual wear: The non-chafe loose lining, that relaxes your foot. The double-deep heel cushion. The tailored looks. So why pay less, when you could wear fashion's famous Sperry Top-Sider canvas oxford for $9.95?

SAM Takes In Twenty Guests

Due to the courtesy of the SAM fraternity, twenty high school sophomores were allowed to visit at State this weekend.

According to Mrs. John Kronenfeld, acting PTA chairman of the college PTA program for East Henderson High School, the trip had been planned all year for the students in the tenth grade who showed the most college potential.

Last Monday, however, the high school bus broke down. The trip was cancelled, and the reservations the colleges had made for the students were broken.

Thursday, however, the PTA ladies had managed to raise enough money to charter a bus, so the colleges were contacted to see if they could still house the students. State could not.

Mrs. Kronenfeld then called her son at the SAM house. However, he was in the hospital with measles, but Frank Pomerance took the call and said SAM would house the boys.

Well, it all happened, and everyone lived happily ever after. Especially the students who went back with impressions not only of College Life, but of fraternity life, and friendship.

Want to work for a great outfit?

Great, it is. And profitable to work for. And fun to work for. The outfit is Tupperware, makers of the famous plastic food containers of the same name. You could earn $50 a week or more as a part-time dealer, demonstrating and selling Tupperware at home parties. Truly, a wonderful way to beat the High Cost of Living-on-Campus. Ask your Financial Aid Director about it and call your local Tupperware distributor, listed in the Yellow Pages under Plastics or Housewares. Or send in this coupon . . .

HIGH-RIDING MILES WIENER WEARS CRICKETEER

At 23, Miles Wiener is one of L. A.'s top design consultants, pioneering in a new field called Space Utilization. Despite a 12 hour work day, he still sneaks in an occasional canter along the beach. Not the jodhpurs and ascot type, Miles rides in dungarees and an old poplin shirt. And his weekend clothes are just as understated: natural shoulders, pleatless trousers, low key but individual colors. How about trying this one on for size yourself. The big, clear colored, checked or striped jacket with daring solid slacks. By Cricketeer.
