IBM Helps Date Bureau

By JOE CLOCKER
What was perhaps State's first blind date bureau got off to a roaring start last week for students in the School of Engineering.

According to Tommy Capps, treasurer of the Engineers' Council, 179 couples were arranged for the Engineers' Ball, which will be held in the Erdahl-Cloyd Union Saturday night. The dates were arranged by an IBM punch card sorting machine after the information from questionnaires was transferred to the cards. The girls from State, Peace, Meredith, and St. Mary's, and the boys from State filled out the questionnaires. Of the 13 questions, some included such items as dance preference, music preference, religious preference, height and age. The boys were given the names of their dates Friday, but will be given the punch cards for the final match-up on the day of the Ball.

Tommy Capps stated further that the Engineers' Council has chartered seven buses to carry the students to and from the Ball. Capps stressed further that it will be mandatory for the students to ride the buses since some of the girls' schools require their freshmen to double-date for the first semester. The State boys are to meet in front of the Union at 8:15 p.m. Saturday to receive their IBM cards and to board the buses.

Apollo Club To Begin Annual Lecture Series

William B. Aycock, former chancellor of UNC and Armistead J. Maupin, a Raleigh attorney, will speak on the "Virtues and Vices of the Speaker Ban Law" Wednesday at the first Apollo Club meeting of the year.

The Apollo Club is an eating club sponsored by the YMCA. All meetings are held Wednesdays at 5:45 in the Erdahl-Cloyd Ballroom.

Other speakers in this year's series, which is entitled "Facing the N. C. State Dilemma," include John Kenfield, tennis coach at State, and Victor Bubas, head coach of the Duke Blue Devils, who will discuss "Big Time Athletics — Asset and Liability." On October 21, Howard Miller, head of State's Psychology Department, and

H. F. Robinson, recipient of a million-dollar grant from the National Science Foundation, will speak on the topic, "Where Does the Emphasis Belong — Teaching or Research?"

The last speaker will be Professor John T. Rule, former dean of students, who will discuss, "Changing Attitudes Toward Sex and Morality."

The first three programs are, not a debate, but the presentation of a controversial subject from two points of view by persons of strong opinions on either side. The fourth subject is presented by only one speaker.

Students interested in joining the Apollo Club may join at the campus YMCA. There are no dues or fees. Members pay only for meals.

Coeds Question Men

The coeds are asking for it. They want to know the male's impression of a State coed. Betty VanDyke, president of the Women's Association, made the request on behalf of the program committee.

Miss VanDyke said the three boys with the most interesting ideas on the subject would be asked to appear before the Association and for a panel discussion. The boys would also be asked to make a five-minute speech on the topic.

Applications may be submitted in the form of a brief outline to the Erdahl-Cloyd Union main desk by October 15.

The discussion will be held during a luncheon meeting of the association at a date to be announced.

Yearbook Name Will Be 'Phase 65'

The Agromeck ceased to exist yesterday and became instead Phase 65.

The new name was for N. C. State's yearbook was approved for one year by the Board of Student Publications yesterday by a vote of 11 to one. The name will be reconsidered by the board after the book is published in the spring.

Two students appeared before the board to comment on the changes Editor Dan Derby plans for the yearbook.

Harvey George stated that he was against both a change in the name and the deletion of class pictures. He said a number of students had expressed similar views to him, personally.

Ron Bowers commented that he liked the new name but was against the deletion of the class pictures.

A proposal to run individual pictures only of seniors, graduates, and professional students was approved by the board May 14.

John Atkins, president of the Student Government and a member of the board, said he felt the student body should have been notified of the proposed name before the board voted. He amended the original bill, which would have changed the name for an indefinite period of time, to be in effect only for one year.

Cora Kemp, editor of The Technician, objected to the bill on the grounds that the name had not been revealed prior to the board meeting.

Derby pointed out that the changes were being made to make the yearbook "symbolize the transient quality of a college year." Some of the changes were based on a report of a Student Government committee appointed to study the yearbook last spring, Derby said.

The changes in format are also reducing the publication cost from $42,000 last year to $34,000 this year. Of the 6,000 copies printed last spring, only 5,200 were picked up. If all class pictures were run, the cost would go up, Derby said.

Also, Derby said only about half of the underclassmen had their pictures taken last year.

The new name, if approved for coming years, will be Phase — plus the last two digits of the year, such as Phase 65.

New Arts Tonight

The 1964-65 edition of the New Arts series will get underway tonight with the Four Freshmen as hosts.

The group will present a program of harmony and humor in the style that was very popular in the late 1940's and early 1950's.

The Freshmen are not strangers to the State campus, having given an afternoon concert in the new cafeteria last year during the Class Midwinters. The performance will begin at 8 p.m. in the Coliseum. Season ticket holders only will be admitted.

The next program will present the Serendipity Singers in an evening concert November 22.

SG Debates Tonight

There is a possibility of some heated debate tonight in the student legislature.

Several "administrative" matters which may evoke controversy among the senators are on the schedule for the second meeting of the year. This week's meeting will begin at 6:45 p.m. in hopes of taking care of all the business on the agenda.

The Promotions Committee has prepared a constitutional amendment concerning the terms of office and the inaugural date for newly elected senators. Another bill governing the handling of legislation in the legislative body is to be introduced.

At the same meeting, presidential appointments are to be introduced. Appointments are to be made to the Freshman ROTC Commission, the ROTC Advisory Board, and representatives to the State Senate.

Fall Election Books Open

Election books for freshman candidates for senators' class officers and graduate senators opened Monday. The books are located at the Student Government office on the second floor of the Erdahl-Cloyd Union.

Freshmen and graduate students interested in running for office may sign up. The books will close at 6 p.m. on October 7.

All candidates who sign up will be required to attend a meeting with the Elections Committee October 8 at 7 p.m. in the Erdahl-Cloyd Union theater. The purpose of the meeting is to discuss rules for the campaign.

They'll Know After The Ball

The members of the Engineers' Council are trying out a clever idea that might be just the thing to solve the problem of matching up blind dates.

The engineers decided to forego the traditional match-making technique of relying on sheer luck and good sportsmanship. Instead, for the Engineers' Ball Saturday, they planned to do it mechanically, the IBM way.

Consequently, 179 blind dates were set up by punch cards. The results? Nobody is saying until after the ball.

Honor System Needs Student Support

The Student Government Honor Code Study Commission undertook a difficult task last year when it began an investigation to determine the effectiveness of the honor system.

The outgrowth of the study was a revision of the honor code and the addition of a review board in each school. Basically the system is the same and the overall objective is still to prevent lying, cheating, and stealing.

There is no reason yet to indicate that these changes have altered the attitude of the students toward an honor system. But the members of the Honor Code Board plan to combat this by conducting a year-long orientation program for the entire student body. There is little to be gained from the changes unless the students are aware that they exist.

Most students probably would be content to ignore any obligations they have to promoting an overall honor system. They would prefer to look after their own affairs and let the other person do the same. The commission took this into consideration and consequently changed the honor code so that it would no longer be mandatory for a student to report a fellow student who violated the code.

Now the code reads, "On my honor as a student at North Carolina State, I will not lie, cheat, or steal, nor will I tolerate those who do."

This was certainly a step in the right direction, since the students apparently had ignored the fact that they were under an obligation to report violations under the old system.

In addition, the review boards will allow a more thorough investigation of individual cases and hopefully will prevent any misjudgments. If there is any doubt about evidence in a given case, it will be referred to the respective board where both students and faculty members will hear the cases.

The honor system has a long way to go before becoming completely effective. However, with the current revisions, it appears to be headed in the right direction. What it needs now is the backing of the individual students.

DELEGATES, STAY HOME!

To the Editor:

Last year, Student Government spent a considerable amount of time and effort deciding on a system which would strengthen NSA on the NCS campus. One of the primary reforms instituted was the student body's election of delegates to attend the national NSA congress. It was felt that elected delegates would go to the congress as representatives of student opinion.

This idea has obviously flopped. In last week's Technician, Celia Parsons reported that only two of the six elected delegates attended the congress.

When these students ran for NSA delegate, they were, in effect, giving notice to the student body that they were able to attend the national congress. When they failed to attend, they violated the trust placed in their hands by the student body.

It could be that all four of the delegates had valid excuses for their absence, but this is not the point of the matter.

The point is, Student Government should determine whether or not these excuses are valid. One suggestion for doing this would be to require any elected NSA delegate who missed the national congress to submit a letter of resignation, along with his reasons for being absent, to the student legislature. The legislature could then hear the excuse at its first meeting and accept or reject the letter of resignation. Replacements for the delegate(s) on the NSA committee could then be either appointed, or the position(s) could be thrown open for freshman elections.

A number of people spent a lot of time and effort in behalf of NSA last year. They did this in the belief that NSA can be a valuable asset to North Carolina State. I cannot believe these people want to see their efforts ruined by any amateur politician who is more concerned with having an activity on his school record than in fulfilling the obligations of that activity.

Theta Chi Fraternity Initiates Deferred Rush

By JIM KEAR

Another step was taken by State's Greeks this semester towards deferred rush for first semester freshmen.

The step was taken by Theta Chi Fraternity when it initiated a policy of pledging only those students who have established an average doing college work.

According to Theta Chi President John Flora, "We conducted our freshman rush as always, as far as rush week activities are concerned. The only difference this year is that we sent bids only to upperclassmen and transfers. Freshmen were sent complimentary bids inviting them back when they had their average. We were well satisfied with rush and have generally found that deferred pledging meets with the approval of most freshmen, as it does with us."

Tom Covington, director of student activities, said, "It was a wise thing for Theta Chi to do; it gives freshmen a better chance to look them over, and then a better chance to look over the freshmen. We hope that more fraternities will adopt such a system soon. Last year, nearly every pledge class average was below the brothers' average for that fraternity."

Covington continued saying much discussion of deferred rush has taken place recently, and that the advantages are best exemplified by Farmhouse Fraternity which has used the system for years and holds one of the finest scholarship records among the Greek organizations.

According to a Theta Chi spokesman, the deferred pledging rule is presently only temporary and it will take at least a year before any conclusions can be drawn as to its effectiveness. Most of the brothers are reportedly satisfied that the new method is workable and sound.

STEAMPIPES

By Bill Fishburne

POLITICS, II

In the preceding column we discussed Senator Goldwater. The reaction to that column indicates that the column was successful; that is, there was some reaction.

This time we shall discuss the Republican candidate for Governor, Mr. Robert L. Gavin. We shall also tread upon Dan Moore's Democratic toes.

The Republican party in North Carolina has never (until 1960) been a real party. This is due to a history of poorly qualified candidates, and also to a lack of candidates. However, in 1960 the Republicans nominated Robert Gavin to run against Terry Sanford. The results were amazing. Gavin polled approximately 45 per cent of the vote. For the first time the people of North Carolina had the feeling that a two-party system was operating in the state. The Democrats had the same feeling.

In 1960 the state lost a congressional seat, and the state was reapportioned. The state legislature did a magnificent job and gerrymandered democratic Representative Paul Kitchin, into the same district as the popular Representative Charles R. Jonas, a Republican. Unfortunately for the Democrats, Jonas won. Unfortunately for North Carolina, years of seniority went down the drain. It isn't that Jonas won that hurts; it is that only one of these capable men could win.

In 1964, the Republicans began to look for a candidate for Governor. Since both Jonas and Gavin had proven vote appeal, these two men were the logical choices. Gavin gave no indication of a desire to run again and Jonas refused to run. So, Gavin agreed to be drafted. Presto, it's 1960!

Gavin is the key to a great opportunity for the Republican party in this year's election. The Democrats are still racked by the rather fierce internal pains suffered in this year's two primaries. Dan Moore has a debt to I. Beverley Lake, and of this there is no doubt. Richardson Preyer apparently became somewhat desperate after Lake gave Moore his support and began to say some things that all Democrats winced at.

More than 400,000 people backed Preyer in the second primary. These people must have felt that their cause was a just one, for surely there aren't that many people in the state who would vote against a man just because he is from the mountains. These people evidently believed what Preyer said about Moore.

True or false, the statements were made and they have not been retracted. A Preyer supporter now has the choice of voting for a man for whom he has little respect, or voting for a Republican. Lake and Moore supporters will no doubt continue to support Moore, but they will not be enough.

If all that Preyer said during the primary campaign is true, then Moore is a scoundrel. If it is not true, it should be retracted, and fast!

So far, in the contest for governor between Gavin and Moore, one must receive the impression that these two fellows love each other. Nary a cross word has been exchanged. Moore has not openly, or covertly, supported Lyndon Johnson. Perhaps Dr. Lake is having some influence (that word again!) here. Gavin, on the other hand, frequently plugs Senator Goldwater.

Due to Moore's hesitancy to support Johnson, we begin to wonder if he is actually for him or against him. Perhaps the situation is that Moore feels North Carolina will go for Goldwater, and supporting Johnson in this year of the strong Republican party will cause him to lose to Gavin. Maybe he just does not approve of Johnson as a Democrat, feeling that Johnson has deserted the South. Or, perhaps he does approve of Johnson, in which case he ought to tell somebody.

Gavin has repeatedly supported Senator Goldwater, in all areas except eliminating farm subsidies. In his platform, Gavin is silent on this area. Moore, in what the Democratic headquarters passes out for a personal platform, is silent on almost all areas. For example, Moore says, concerning agriculture, "... will continue to be the basic way of life which is so important to the true nature of the Old North State."

Gavin at least shows some knowledge of farm problems when he speaks of the low European labor costs and high tariffs against U.S. tobacco.

Monday, speaking in Southern Pines, Gavin said that as governor he would place a banker on every school board. "And surely we should appoint a banker to the conservation and development board." So now we have the Republican nominee putting the government's finger in the county school board's pie.

At the same meeting Dan Moore said, "The federal government is imposing a back-breaking burden on small businessmen." He further promised to supply "... Unyielding resistance to them." (those who would increase the government's role.) "Socialism and big government do not, in my opinion, ease the road to prosperity," quoth he.

This is not exactly an attack on the Johnson administration, but then again it is not exactly not an attack on the Johnson administration.

It seems inconsistent to claim to be a Democrat and yet to not support other Democrats. We applaud Gavin for his stand with Barry Goldwater. We believe he is supporting a lost, and unworthy, cause, but he claims to be a Republican and as a Republican candidate he cannot honestly do anything else. The two-party system is just that. It may not be the best system in the world, but it is the system upon which this country has built, and shall continue to build. If a man will run under a party's banner he must support that party. It takes guts to support a potential loser.

Now, if Goldwater loses and Gavin wins, this state will be in a fix. Gavin says, "We will firmly reject any attempt on the part of the National Democratic Party to impose the program of the 'Great Society' on North Carolina. And we would state that any acceptance of any part of the National Democratic Party, its candidates, or its platform ... we repeat, any part of them, is an endorsement of a portion of an idea which is completely repugnant to every person and every citizen within the state."

Evidently this statement means that if Johnson and Gavin are elected, this state will effectually secede for four years. Some people never learn.

And so we have a choice, not an echo. Either we support a man who will not support his own party, or we support a man who will not condemn the KKK.

And then, how can we ever forget those immortal words, "I'll sell the state's airplane."

Greek Have Four Undefeated Teams

By MARTIN WHITE
Only four fraternity football teams remain undefeated after the second round of action. Next week's games will mark the half-way point in the regular season.

Sigma Phi Epsilon, last year's champions, are undefeated in Section #1 with victories over Kappa Alpha and Sigma Chi. The Sig Eps rolled over Sigma Chi 19-6 in this week's action. The winners scored first in the second period with a 22-yard pass from Doug Monday to Pat Calhoun. SPE took a 12-0 lead in the third period on a seven-yard run by Monday. Sigma Chi then tallied their only score of the day on a 20-yard pass from B. Dhue to R. Wheelless to make the score 12-6. The game was iced for the Sig Eps in the final period by a 28-yard scoring pass from Monday to Truet Martin.

In the other Section #1 game, Kappa Alpha blasted Sigma Pi 34-0. KA quarterback Deaton ran one TD from the two, set up the second one with a 45-yard run to the one, passing to Thompson for the score, and passed to Alford and Thompson for two more scores.

Sigma Nu is the only undefeated team in Section #2 by virtue of a 36-0 romp over Alpha Gamma Rho. Three of the scores came in the first period as Huntsman threw twice to Brisson and ran one over. In the second quarter, Riley scored the fourth TD with an intercepted pass. The third and fourth period scores came on TD passes to Edgar.

Theta Chi defeated Delta Sigma Phi 13-0 in the other Section #2 contest. Pi Kappa Tau remained undefeated Farmhouse 27-2. Harrison figured in the first three PKT scores by running twice, once for 50 yards, and passing 25 yards for the other one. The fourth score came on a 35-yard pass from Propst.

Pi Kappa Phi shut out Lambda Chi Alpha 12-0 to round out Section #3 action.

Sigma Alpha Epsilon, idle this week in Section #4, defeated Sigma Alpha Mu last week to lead the section. In this week's games, SAM took a 14-yard victory over Pi Kappa Alpha. The game ended in an 18-18 tie with the Sammies having 162 yards to 148 for PKA. Kappa Sigma posted a 22-0 win over Tau Kappa Epsilon in the other Section #4 contest.
