Four N. C. State students, Samuel Baugham, Hugh Naylor, Bart Lewis, and Dick Tilley, play firemen in the comedy, "The Firebugs," by Max Frisch which opened Wednesday night at the Frank Thompson Theatre.

A Review

The Firebug: "Compelling" Last Thompson Production

By THOM FRASER

"Compelling" is the best description of The Firebugs, the Frank Thompson Theatre's last production of the year.

On the literal level the play, by the contemporary Swiss playwright Max Frisch, is the story of a businessman and his giddy wife who unwillingly take two shady characters into their home, knowing all along that they are the arsonists who have been burning down much of the town. When they finally admit the fact to themselves, they give the arsonists matches in the hope of keeping them occupied because they feel that acting positively to prevent tragedy is more painful than the inevitable consequences.

On a deeper level the play is a bitter satire on man's complacency and cowardly paralyzing fear resulting in one of the most tragic political and social events in history.

Ira Allen, the director, has taken a significant play and made it vibrantly alive. Two good jobs of acting were done by Charles Tant as the suave Second Firebug and Celeste Bennett as the foolish Mrs. Biedermann.

Lloyd Kay heads the cast as Mr. Biedermann, and Charles Moseley is the vulgar First Firebug. The supporting cast consists of the maid, Mary Kyle Watson; the policeman, Don Stone; the fire chief, Dan Efner; and Junius Grimes and Mrs. Ray Wilkinson.

The play has a "Greek Chorus" in the form of firemen portrayed by NCSU students Samuel Baugham, Hugh Naylor, Bart Lewis, and Dick Tilley.

The play is so written and produced that it takes one some time to orient himself, but when the meaning and reference of the play becomes clear it strikes one like a slap in the face.

This not-to-be-missed satire will run through May 3 and May 5 through May 9. Reservations may be made at the Erdahl-Cloyd Union or by calling the Frank Thompson Theatre.

Scientific Reports Go To Washington

Professors and graduate students from State were in Washington, D. C. this week to present six scientific reports on their recent research programs in the Physics Department.

David H. Martin, assistant professor of Physics, stated the American Physical Society held its annual Washington meeting at the Sheraton-Park and Shoreham hotels on April 26-29 where 786 scientific reports were presented by faculty and graduate students from institutions throughout the country.

In addition to the graduate students participating in research, Martin commented, one undergraduate student, F. T. Rogers, is participating in a research project which was presented at the APS meeting. The graduate students, all doctoral candidates, presenting papers at the meeting were: James L. Cox, Jr., A. Sidney Roberts, Jr., Richard A. McCorkle, Sam G. Beard, Jr., W. A. McClenny, and R. H. Wakefield. The physics professors participating were Dr. Willard H. Bennett, Professor David H. Martin, and Dr. Jasper D. Memory.

CORRECTION

The story printed in Wednesday's Technician concerning Agromeck pictures for 1966 was incorrect in several respects.

Delma Studios will photograph seniors, professionals, and graduates beginning Monday, as stated. However, anyone who is in this group and does not have his picture made now will not have an opportunity to have it made next semester. Only transfer students and those not presently enrolled will be photographed next semester.

Concerning the arrival of the 1966 Agromeck on campus, it is scheduled to arrive between the tenth and thirteenth of May, not on the eighth as reported. Distribution schedules will be announced in a later edition of The Technician.

Golden Chain Taps Twelve New Links

Twelve rising seniors and former NCSU basketball coach Everett N. Case were tapped into Golden Chain, North Carolina State University's highest honorary leadership fraternity yesterday.

The new members will be initiated at a banquet at the Angus Barn Monday at 7 p.m. Dean Fred V. Cahill, head of the School of Liberal Arts, will be the guest speaker.

Special guest at the banquet will be George Dunlap, Placement Director for the School of Textiles, who is retiring at the end of the semester. Mr. Dunlap was tapped as an honorary member of Golden Chain in 1958.

Coach Everett Case will be recognized for his 19-year career as head basketball coach. He retired last fall.

Each spring Golden Chain selects twelve new members who have demonstrated campus leadership and one or more honorary members.

The new members are as follows:

Sylvia Janice Williams of Raleigh who is majoring in applied mathematics. Sylvia is Chairman-elect of the Women's Campus Code Board, secretary-treasurer of Thirty and Three, president of Sigma Kappa social sorority, past treasurer of her sophomore class, and a member of the Science Council. Robert Lee Self of Burlington who is majoring in applied mathematics. He is Chairman of the NCSU delegation to the Consolidated University Student Council, a member of Thirty and Three, Blue Key, Mu Beta Psi music fraternity, Pi Mu Epsilon mathematics fraternity, and the Honor Code Board.

John Adam Mitchell of Guilford College who is majoring in electrical engineering. John is president-elect of Student Government, the current secretary and a former senator.

James Spencer Fulghum, III of Raleigh who is majoring in zoology. He is Chairman of the Men's Honor Code Board, vice-president of Thirty and Three, past secretary of Kappa Alpha social fraternity, former assistant editor of The Fraternity Way, a member of the Interfraternity Council Investigations Board, and Blue Key.

James Rufus Ferguson of Taylorsville who is majoring in mechanical engineering. Jim is vice-president elect and a former senator of Student Government, a delegate to the Consolidated University Student Council and the State Student Legislature.

Paul Pressly Gilbert of Statesville who is majoring in civil engineering. He is managing editor of the Agromeck, and past assistant editor of the fraternity section. Pressly is a member of the Board of Student Publications.

James Patrick Miller, Jr. of Charlotte who is majoring in mechanical engineering. Jim is president-elect of the rising senior class and was vice-president of his sophomore class. He is treasurer and past senator of

For First Summer Session

Preregistration Ends A Week From Now

Pre-registration for the first session of State's 1965 summer program will continue through May 7.

"We are expecting a record enrollment for both sessions this summer," Summer Sessions Director Dr. Jack Suberman said of the program, which will offer both regular courses and a number of special credit and non-credit courses.

The special courses will include three industrial arts workshops, including a course for teachers of the mentally retarded, a course to improve reading speed and comprehension, a program for extension workers and adult educators, courses for high school teachers and college instructors of biology and genetics, and a program for foreign students. This latter program is an acclimatization course, set up to help foreign students learn both English and something of the area in which they will study.

A complete listing of all courses offered is available in the Summer Sessions edition of the "Continuing Higher Education" catalogue. This catalogue is obtainable from the Summer Sessions office at 236 Daniels Hall or from the Division of General Extension in the 1911 Building.

Social Sponsored Tonite By Liberal Arts Council

"So far we have a pretty good turnout, but I would like to see a lot more," commented Mary Anne Weathers on the response so far to the Liberal Arts social to be held tonight from 8 to 12 in the Carolina Hotel. Miss Weathers is the chairman for the affair. "At present we have approximately 200 signed up to attend the dance, but I would like to see 300," she added. Miss Weathers also pointed out that tickets are free to liberal arts students at the information desk in the Union.

The "Jetty Jumpers" will provide music for the dance and there will be refreshments available.

The social is sponsored by the Liberal Arts Council which is composed of representatives from the ten departments in the School of Liberal Arts (Economics, Psychology, Politics, History, Modern Languages, Philosophy and Religion, Physical Education, Social Studies, Sociology, and English) and the liberal arts senators.

Miss Weathers said that this is the first year the Liberal Arts Council has operated and a constitution was established as the first order of business. The Council also endorsed the name change and established a teacher and student of the year award for the School of Liberal Arts.

The Council elected officers for the '65-'66 school year at its last meeting. The new leaders are: President, Whitfield Lee; Vice President, Lewis Murray; Secretary, Annette Ferguson; Treasurer, Rosina Coburn.

Golden Chain Forges On

For the third time in the past two weeks, Honor has come to N. C. State. Another of the honoriferous honoraries has selected what is to be recorded for all time as the "best of the bunch" for 1965. The Golden Chain has forged its latest links.

The in-fighting is all over; the struggling for favor and the need to be liked are past; the deserving individuals who have contributed something to the campus welfare are now joined in brotherhood with the well-known but ineffective hangers-on of student activities.

The pity of it all is that there couldn't somehow be a separation of the hangers-on from the "good guys." It would be nice to have one honorary group at which the student body could look and find that quality is rewarded, that nice guys don't always finish last. Or see that the selection board has taken into consideration other factors besides the familiarity of the candidates' faces.

And how much of an honor is it to be chosen for membership in an association with such inconsequential requirements for selection? How can the campus leader react to being placed in the same category as someone who has been "active" in various committees, organizations, and delegations, but who has actually accomplished very little in his "activity?" Should he refuse to be honored by his school? Should he decide that, since he is not of the same category as the others tapped for recognition he cannot willingly be associated with them? Or should he look to how his refusal may affect his future? On some campuses honor societies are not the farce they have tended to become here. Awards are a mark of earnest endeavor. Can he afford to not have signs of achievement on his record? In a political sense, such refusal would be nonsensical; and yet, how far does one sacrifice integrity for future benefit?

The decision to accept their "honor" has presumably already been made by the nominees to the "Golden Chain" for 1965. The ones whose consciences were bothered about the fact that their selection is made insignificant by the system under which they were chosen have set aside their concern. They will try to "do something" when they "get in" to "straighten out" the situation. But the majority probably are not bothered about reaching into the campus "goody-bag" and finding something to pin on their sweater or wear as a charm.

With more than 19 "honor" societies now on campus for dressing up the records of the extra-curricularly-minded student, the chances are pretty good that anyone who wants "honor" badly enough can get it.

Perhaps a concentration on quality instead of quantity could restore the idea of "honor" to its original stature. One might find "honoraries" drawing more than just cynical comment or amused contempt then.

GATEWAY 'POLLED'

To the Editors:

As a senior in Experimental Statistics, I am curious about the "Gateway Poll" (The Technician, April 28, 1965). I have always assumed that a questionnaire of this type was a sampling device designed to determine the trend of student opinion. However, I fail to see how results of this poll could accomplish anything.

The first question is actually two questions and is somewhat loaded; the first part has only one possible answer, and the second part calls for an opinion (which is difficult to express in one word, yes or no).

The second question seems also meaningless. It can be assumed that a large percentage of the student body is already boycotting the Gateway, in essence, because a relatively small percentage eats there, without any regard to the civil rights issue. Answers from Negro students should all be "yes" since they are now seeking integration.

I simply can't see the value or validity of the "poll," and am curious as to why it seems invalid. Is it my ignorance, the Technician staff's ignorance, or is the poll intentionally biased (or rigged)?

While I'm writing, let me also ask if it was necessary for Mr. Fishburne to include, or allow the inclusion in the caption under his own excellent photograph the fact that photographers are unwelcome at KKK rallies (Technician, April 26, 1965), implying some sort of danger or heroism. Whether or not heroism or danger was involved, it was not Mr. Fishburne's place to call attention to the fact.

Finally, I must expose my humble ignorance again in asking, what the Hell is the cartoon (Technician, April 28, 1965) supposed to mean?

In conclusion, I would like to see the results of a campus-wide poll answering the following questions:

(1) Given all other factors equal (food quality, prices, service, etc.) I would prefer to eat in a(n) [integrated, segregated] restaurant. My race is [white, non-white].

(2) I [do, do not] think that a businessman has the right to discriminate against any individual because of his race, whether he is simply prejudiced or concerned about his business.

Thank you for allowing me to express my opinion.

Thomas L. Johnson

PO'OLE GATEWAY

To the Editors:

The student "poll" (note quotes) in the April 28 Technician concerning the Gateway Restaurant was inexcusably incomplete. Obviously, the reason for the poll was to determine the students' feeling about boycotting the Gateway Restaurant if it is not integrated. At least that is the reason Technician implicitly gave for it. Yet, the abhorrent "poll" did not ask student opinion of this subject, but rather asked if students would boycott if the Gateway is integrated.

It is conceivable that you were attempting to show the owner of the Gateway that State students will not be among those who boycott him if he does integrate. You must realize, though, that Mr. Wilder has customers other than State students. It is these about whom Mr. Wilder worries if he integrates. This is certainly understandable. Mr. Wilder operates his restaurants for the same basic reason that we are attending State. He is in business to provide food for his own table. While we have chosen the arts or technical work, he has chosen business.

This man is in a terrible position—a real nightmare. He sees that if he integrates, he will lose customers. Since he is in business to make a living, this is a threatening consequence. If he does not integrate, he faces Federal action and now—a possible loss of business from students. Either way, this man will lose.

But getting back to the "poll." Just why did the "poll" fail to ask opinions about the resolution in Student Government concerning the boycott—the supposed reason for the poll. My guess—and I solicit proof to the contrary—is that the people who pull the SG puppet strings around here fear the students' opinions. My argument is not for or against integration—it is against the quasi-autocratic movement which is attempting to corrupt our student government (if it hasn't done so already) with a headstrong extremist strategy.

Movie Title Contest Open

Columbia Pictures is now conducting a contest for the title of a movie which is open to State students as well as any other college students.

Film rights have been acquired for Winston Churchill's autobiography, "My Early Life: A Roving Commission," and a more suitable title is needed. The corporation feels that the adventurous life of Churchill is not fairly represented in the scope of the title. A prize of a round trip for two to Europe is now being offered to the student whose title is selected.

A basic criteria for consideration of a suitable title will be the spirited and adventure-filled life of Churchill which must be clearly shown in the title. The cut-off deadline date for the contest is June 1, 1965 and any titles offered after this date cannot be considered eligible for the prize. If more than one person enters the title chosen, an essay will be required to decide the final winner.

All contestants are to send their entries to: Churchill, Columbia Pictures Corp., 711 Fifth Avenue, New York 22, New York.

Campus Comments

By THOM FRASER

We are all aware that the front page of a newspaper is not the first place to look for fascinating and witty things. This little quickie is one of a number of Daily Tar Heel exceptions to the rule:

DI-PHI HAS SEX AS TOPIC

"Amateur sexologist" Otelia Conner and Department of Sociology Professor Dr. Hollowell Pope will lead a verbal battle on the subject, "Should Pre-marital Relations be Tolerated by Society?" when the Di-Phi Senate meets tonight at 7:30 on the third floor of New West.

Mrs. Conner will speak in favor of pre-marital relations.

Dr. Pope, who recently wrote a book on the subject, will speak against Mrs. Conner.

Di-Phi Query and Publicity Chairman John Harrison said yesterday that he has sent invitations to almost every girl on campus in order to entice them to come to the debate.

Harrison is confident that male students will be well represented.

President Baxter Linney has invited all interested persons to attend, join in debate, and have refreshments afterwards.

It seems that everyone has something to say about university apathy. This is the Daily Tar Heel's contribution to the poetic discussion:

BITTER CITY

by Randall Roden

The carolina gentleman puffed himself up like a hog-nosed snake

And stalked through the forest of tinkler toys—

Infatuated with his two point O his frat an' his GTO

inclining his head slightly and speaking reverently to the eye-dot painters in the Mickey Mouse factory—Yes, sir, yes sir!—three bags full—

Scowling at the silly freak the dirty beat-nik:

reading writing philosophy poetry

God, what a phony!

Disdainfully he turned his head from the hideous sight—ignoring the night,

He regained the coveted warmth of the frat house—complete with its built-in defense mechanism of group guts.

He was a tarheel—born and bred,

He had a V-Neck blanket on his bed,

With a pin—striped pillow and a madras sheet.

He sleeps with his scotch-grains on his feet.

Easy boy, don't call him grit!

Competition Begins In Last Intramural Sport

Action began this week in the last intramural sport of the year, horseshoe pitching. Only five matches were played in the fraternity league while the dormitories reached the semi-final round of play.

In fraternity action, Kappa Sigma topped Alpha Gamma Rho, 3-0; last year's champion, Sigma Phi Epsilon defeated Kappa Sigma, 3-0; Kappa Alpha downed Sigma Alpha Mu, 3-0; Phi Kappa Tau beat Farm-House, 3-0; and Lambda Chi Alpha defeated Sigma Pi, 2-0.

Turlington, Lee 1, and Bragaw North 1 won victories in the first two rounds of dormitory action to advance to the semi-final round. The fourth berth in the round will be filled by the winner of the Berry-Welch-Gold vs. Owen 1 match. The nine teams remaining in the loser's bracket are Bragaw North 2, Bragaw South 2, Becton, Owen 2, Bragaw South 1, Alexander, Tucker 1, and Lee 2.

Tennis Action Continues

Three teams in the dormitory and fraternity intramural tennis playoffs have reached the semi-final round of play with one quarter-final match remaining in each league.

In dormitory action, Alexander, Owen 1, and Bragaw North 1 are the semi-finalists with the fourth team being the winner of the Turlington-Lee 2 match. Last year's champion, Alexander, defeated Lee 1 and Tucker 1 while Owen 1 downed Lee 3 and Tucker 2, and Bragaw North 1 stopped Bragaw South 1 and Becton. Still fighting it out in the loser's bracket are Syme, Tucker 2, Tucker 1, Lee 3, Bragaw South 1, Becton, Owen 2, and Lee 1.

Kappa Alpha, Sigma Alpha Mu, and Pi Kappa Phi are the three teams remaining in the fraternity winner's bracket action, along with the winner of the Sigma Alpha Epsilon-Delta Sigma Phi match.

Sigma Phi Epsilon, Sigma Pi, Tau Kappa Epsilon, Sigma Chi, Lambda Chi Alpha, Phi Kappa Tau, and Kappa Sigma are fighting for the loser's bracket crown.

NOTICES

In two baseball games here this weekend, the Wolfpack will be host to the University of South Carolina and Clemson College. The Gamecocks will meet State this afternoon at 3 p.m. and the Tigers will play tomorrow at 2 p.m.

There are still openings for membership on the Big Four Day intramural teams. Anyone interested should contact the intramural office for tryout dates and further information.

Anyone interested in participating in the Big Four Rod and Gun meet should contact the intramural office. Any student is eligible to participate except members of the ROTC and Varsity Rifle teams. Any number of students may enter the competition as only the top score will be taken. The events will be Skeet, Target Rifle, Archery, and Skish.

Parks anywhere

You can stand on your head to park on most campuses. And all you end up with is a headache. But not if you ride a Honda. It needs only as much elbow room as you with an armload of books. So you can squeeze in a little closer to that 8 o'clock class than your 4-wheel competition.

A Honda helps keep you solvent as well as sane. Prices start about $215*. You'll get up to 200 mpg, depending on the model. And practically never need service. The star performer above is the CB-160. Just one of the 15 Honda models. With its 4-stroke, twin cylinder engine and 16.5 HP, this showoff does better than 80 mph. Look into a Honda soon. No more headaches.
