State Forestry School Wins At Eighth Annual Conclave

State's forestry school won first place in the Eighth Annual Conclave of Southern Forestry Schools held here this weekend. This is the second year in a row that the State foresters have come out on top in the competition.

State tallied 42 points to win first, followed by Oklahoma State University with 40, the University of Georgia with 39, and Arkansas A & M with 36. Other schools participating were Stephen F. Austin State College, Oklahoma State University, Clemson University, University of Florida, VPI, and Auburn University. There were about 250 students and faculty at the conclave representing the different schools.

Dr. Ralph C. Bryant, who was in charge of the conclave, called it "most successful because the teams were evenly balanced and the winner wasn't known until the last event."

The conclave began at noon Friday with registration at Kilgore Hall. After a barbecue supper that evening the foresters heard a speech by State professor Dr. Bruce Zobel on the problems of South American forestry.

The contests took place Saturday near the Youth Camp at the State Fairgrounds. Approximately 500 people witnessed some of the activities, which began at 7 a.m. and continued into the afternoon.

Saturday night a banquet was held at the N. C. State Faculty Club with state forester Fred Claridge the speaker. The individual and team trophies were presented and second and third place teams were awarded power saws. An Arkansas A & M forester was also presented a loving cup for the best beard.

Placing for State in the competition was as follows: George Disk, first in wood technology; Bill Callahan, first in dendrology; Charles Duckworth, third in pole classification; Glen Harris, third in bait casting; Brian Fiocco, third in knife throw; Al Marcellus, first in bow sawing; Dave McDougal and Al Huehnel, second in log rolling; Al Marcellus and Dennis Curtin, first in crosscut sawing; Al Marcellus, first in log chopping; and Dave McDougal and Al Huehnel, first in scoot loading.

HCB Convicts Student; Drops Judicial Boards

A freshman in History and Political Science was convicted of cheating on a quiz and was given three semesters' probation last week by the Honor Code Board.

The board also passed a recommendation that the school Judicial Referral Boards be eliminated next year. This measure was passed due to what the Honor Code Board termed "the proven ineffectual nature of the boards, and because of their trial basis this past year."

The judicial committees were established in each school to determine if there is enough evidence in each case to warrant their being presented for trial before the Honor Code Board.

Seniors Asked To Tell Plans

The Placement Center in Room 239 Riddick has requested graduating seniors in all curricula to report their post-graduate plans before they leave school this spring. Raymond E. Tew, Placement Center director, stressed that this information will be needed in the near future, but only about 10 per cent of the seniors have reported at present.

Tew again stressed that the Placement Center in Riddick is no longer connected solely with the School of Engineering, but is run for the entire university; therefore, all seniors should report to Riddick no matter what their curriculum.

He noted further that the Agromeck pictures of seniors next year will be used for the permanent placement files, and that all rising seniors have their pictures taken this week.

Poll Shows No Boycott If Gateway Integrated

If the Gateway Restaurant were to be integrated, the N. C. State student body would continue to patronize the restaurant, according to a poll taken Saturday and Sunday.

The campus Freedom Movement leaders conducted the poll in the men's dormitories, in Watauga Hall, and at the Gateway. The questions asked were, "Do you believe that the Civil Rights Act of 1964 is the law of the land, and must, therefore, be enforced?" and "Would you boycott the Gateway Restaurant if it is integrated?"

The response to the first question was that 77 per cent of the 342 students queried said "yes," with 23 per cent answering "no." Of the 99 questioned at the Gateway, 81 per cent said "yes," and 19 replied "no." In the dorms, 73 per cent of the men and 91 per cent of the women marked "yes," with 27 and 9 per cent responding "no" respectively.

The second question showed similar results. In this case, 86.7 per cent of the men, 89 per cent of the women, and 90 per cent of the Gateway customers responded to the question by indicating that they would not boycott the restaurant if it were integrated. The total was 88 per cent replying "no" out of 364 who marked the ballot.

The poll was sponsored by The Technician, the Freedom Movement, and Student Government, as was the one printed in the Wednesday, April 28, issue of The Technician. That poll, however, was not included in the tabulations since it suffered from obvious and flagrant ballot-box stuffing on both sides. Approximately 300 ballots were received in that poll.

The purpose of the polls, according to the sponsors, was to determine whether N. C. State students would refuse to patronize the Gateway Restaurant if it were integrated. Wednesday night, Student Government will debate and vote on a bill recommending that the State students discontinue patronage of the Gateway until it is integrated in accordance with the Civil Rights Act of 1964.

9800 Students Expected Here For 1965-66 Year

Enrollment at North Carolina State will reach a record high during the 1965-66 school year with an estimated student body of 9800 for the fall semester, a 12 per cent increase over last fall's enrollment of 8800.

The greatest increase will be in the number of incoming freshmen. Kenneth Raab, director of admissions, stated that the number of acceptances is up 21 per cent. Of the applications accepted, 13 per cent are from out-of-state. He further stated that 2500 to 2700 applications will be accepted; however, only about 2200 of those will come to State. To date, over 5000 applications have been received.

Raab explained that because of the increased number of applications and because of the limited staffs in the Mathematics, English and Chemistry departments, a May 1 deadline was set on the filing of freshman applications.

State is not the only university affected by large numbers of applications. A recent bulletin from the Office of Institutional Research, Washington, D. C., stated that a survey of 67 state and land grant colleges and universities shows a 34 per cent increase in the number of applications. The South is reported as being the second most crowded section, with the Northeast as first.

Raab stated that a large number of North Carolina colleges and universities have set application deadlines.

Scotfield Named Top Senior By Blue Key Frat

Blue Key honorary fraternity has elected its president, Mike Scotfield, Senior of the Year. The award is given annually by the Blue Key membership to the foremost citizen of the senior class, selected on the basis of both scholarship and outstanding leadership.

Scotfield, as Senior of the Year, will receive an engraved trophy to be presented at the Student Activities Banquet.

When Scotfield, as president of Blue Key, was asked to explain the award, he said, "Anything I say about it will make me sound terribly immodest."

Research Ratings Place State 44th

According to a report in the nationally circulated magazine, "Industrial Research," State ranks 44th in the amount of money being spent on research. The report covers the leading 150 schools doing research.

The ranking is based on the schools' annual research expenditures from all sources—government and private contracts and grants, endowments and foundations, and state and federal funds.

The report lists State with $8,954,362 in research during the past year. This was centered mainly in Textiles and Physical Science. Duke and Carolina were both in the top 50.

Civil Engineers Elect Officers

The student chapter of the American Society of Civil Engineering held its elections Tuesday for officers for the '65-'66 school year. The officers elected were: President, David W. Johnson; Vice President, W. Kenneth Creech; Secretary, William Merritt; Treasurer, Woody Hamlett; Publicity Director, Stan Avent.

Professor Charles R. Bramer was presented an award for outstanding service in the last three years as acting head of the Civil Engineering Department by the Dean of the School of Engineering, Ralph E. Fadum. The position held by Professor Bramer will be taken over by the appointed head of the Department, Dr. Donald L. Dean, September 1, 1965.

"The New South" To Be College YDC Theme

"The New South" will be the theme of the Spring Rally of the N. C. Federation of College Young Democrats to be held in Raleigh on May 7 and 8, at the Carolina Hotel.

Charles L. Weltner, Democratic Congressman from Georgia, will be the featured speaker for the luncheon to be held on Saturday. He has recently been noted in news for his fight against the Ku Klux Klan and for being the only Southern Congressman to vote for the 1964 Civil Rights Bill. In addition on Saturday at 9:45 a.m., there will be a panel discussion. Discussing the topic, "North Carolina and the New South: An Appraisal of Its Future," will be Ed Rankin, Director of Administration, State Senators Robert Morgan and Voil Gilmore, and Tom Lambreth, former Administrative Assistant to former Governor Sanford. As special guests to the rally there will be Al House, President of YDC of America, George Miller, President of YDC of N. C., Mel Broughton, Chairman of the State Democratic Executive Committee, and Reverend W. W. Finlater. "The Effigies" will provide entertainment after the general session which will be held at 7:30 p.m. in the Grand Ballroom. Registration will begin Friday at 5 p.m. in the lobby. Anyone interested in further information should contact YDC President Leonard Farris, 884-6933, 2616 Kilgore Avenue.

White, Anglo-Saxon Protestants

"Tar Heel Owes Us An Apology" from the Syracuse Herald-American, February 28, 1965.

The Tar Heel Senator from North Carolina, Sam J. Ervin (D) involved himself in a dialogue with New York's Senator Jacob K. Javits (R).

Senator Ervin is miffed over pending federal legislation which will allow 166,000 immigrants entry into this country on a first-come, first-served basis instead of the antiquated quota system.

Our Tar Heel said, "White, Anglo-Saxon, Protestants are the people who made America great."

"Why should immigrants from Ethiopia be placed on the same footing as those from England, France, Germany, Holland, and the Scandinavian countries?" the senator asked.

A question like that is termed a "real porch-climber" in North Carolina but in front of Jake Javits, whose parents are from Palestine and Poland, and Senator Ted Kennedy, who was also at the committee meeting and whose antecedents are pure Irish, it fell like a thundering faux pas.

Senator Javits went up in flames.

"I'm not going to sit still for this," he thundered "I know that too much blood and toil was contributed to the building of America from Italy, from eastern Europe, and other places to accept the statement of the senator from North Carolina that only immigrants from northern Europe made America."

Amen and bravo, Jake Javits.

Incidentally, the only Ethiopian we've met in the United States is Haile Selassie. But we are familiar with the work of Enrico Fermi, Albert Einstein and President John F. Kennedy.

What this dialogue did prove, however, is that Senator Ervin has read Hitler's Mein Kampf and retains its tenor to get his own Tar Heel all the way in his mouth.

Senator Irvin should apologize on the floor of the Senate or be roundly censored by his peers.

We count 99 peers of his in the Senate.

To this comment by the Syracuse Herald-American we add one of our own. The statements made by Senator Ervin are perhaps representative of the views held by a considerable number of North Carolinians. Similar speeches were made at the recent Ku Klux Klan rally in Durham and similar language has been recorded on our own "Gateway Poll." We hope that most of this is due to lack of information and not to some more irrational motivation.

There is, however, an attempt being made to introduce the people of North Carolina the more realistic aspects of the social problems now facing this state.

One such attempt is the movie, "One Potato, Two Potatoes," now showing in the Raleigh area. The subject matter deals with racial intermarriage. Raleighites attending laugh irreverently during the initial stages of the film but the power of presentation is such that the audience sits in astounded silence at its termination.

Racial intermarriage is a difficult stumbling block for many individuals, especially those agreeing with Senator Ervin's views. "One Potato, Two Potatoes" is an excellent film; we highly recommend it.

Simple Solution Offered To International Problems

From the University of Virginia Cavalier Daily, April 27, 1965.

By DOUG JORDAN

Almost every day one may read newspaper accounts of embassy bombings, Communist infiltrations, and hardships caused by overpopulation. Moreover, there appears to be no end in sight. As long as there are American embassies in foreign countries, they will remain targets of all people who feel they have grievances against the United States. As long as there are Communists, they will continue to pursue their goal of world domination. And the population will continue to explode as long as there are people to reproduce and a medical profession to keep them alive.

New Solution

Fortunately, however there is a solution to these and other international problems which has previously been overlooked by supposedly far-sighted American leaders.

The solution is a simple one. American military forces have the capacity at present to deliver nuclear weapons to every country outside the United States in a quantity sufficient to annihilate virtually the whole populations of these countries. On a pre-determined day, at a pre-determined hour, all available Strategic Air Command bombers, Intercontinental Ballistic Missiles, and Polaris-armed submarines should be directed against targets around the world.

No warning shall be given in order to avoid retaliation. In this manner, only thirty minutes at most would be available for foreign counter-attack and these attacks could easily be warded off. The minute number of people who survive the attack could be exterminated in the following weeks by specially trained ground forces.

Democracy Triumphs

Americans living in other countries would, of course, be killed, but this is a small price to pay for the solution of the problems which are so pressing today. Members of foreign embassies and visitors to the country would be given the choice of becoming American citizens or of being executed in the most merciful fashion which could be devised. In this way, the world would become free for Democracy, since all other forms of government would perish along with their followers.

The advantages of such a plan of action are almost too numerous to mention and would be quite sufficient to compensate for the minor difficulties it would create.

First, there would be no more problems in foreign affairs since the United States would control all of the rest of the world by default. Embassies would no longer be bombed because they would no longer be necessary. The President could stop worrying about his foreign policy and concentrate on domestic issues. Communist infiltration would also be a thing of the past because there would be no Communists left except for the relatively weak party organization existing in America today.

Economics would be gratified by the cessation of the flow of gold from the American economy since there would no longer be foreign products to buy or foreign people to receive the gold. Senator McClelland could stop worrying about the American money lost to the artful pick-pockets and sophisticated debauchery in Paris because Paris would no longer be as great a tourist attraction. The Senator could then begin worrying more about artful pick-pockets and sophisticated debauchery in New York.

Arms Race Stopped

The National Budget and, consequently, Federal income taxes would be much lower due to the elimination of allocations for defense, foreign aid and the United Nations. The arms race and the race for space could be slowed to a more reasonable pace due to lack of competition, and the House Un-American Activities Committee could be diverted to some more useful function.

One of the main problems this course of action would solve is that of overpopulation. Every year, American housing shortages grow more acute, streets and highways more crowded, and unemployment more common. The spectre of food shortages looms in the not-too-distant future.

Struggle For Existence

These conditions prevail even more markedly in most foreign countries, causing a flood of immigrants to this country which we neither want nor need. Overpopulation problems are also the cause of the imperialistic designs of many countries which threaten the peace and livelihood of the United States. If nothing is done, a struggle for mere existence seems inevitable.

Bombings would solve all of these problems, as the rapidly expanding populations would cease to be a factor in foreign countries, and the dense population of this country could be spread around the world as soon as radiation reached the proper level.

There would be minor problems associated with this project, but they could be easily remedied and pose no insurmountable obstacles. Since fallout might be a problem in bombing the neighboring territories of Canada, Mexico, and Cuba, the new types of nerve gas which our government has now perfected could be used to good effect in these areas.

This method has the advantage of exterminating the population quickly and efficiently while leaving the cities and farmlands in their original state and ready for immediate use. The only reason this gas could not be used on a world-wide scale is that the cost of materials involved would be prohibitive.

No Defense Needed

There would obviously be no need to fear unfavorable propaganda from other nations as to the morality of such a move. And the few finicky individuals in this country who would protest could be quickly reassured of the propriety of such a move by a nation-wide telecast by the President and favorable publicity from the press after the attack. Even the pacifists would be made content by the prospect of peace in the immediate future.

New Unemployed

The annihilation of so much of the world's population would,

SG and Me

by Walter Lammi

Three members of the student legislature introduced in the last session a resolution that many students consider of great importance both to the University and to the Raleigh community.

The Gateway Discriminatory Practice resolution states that Student Government encourages a student boycott of the Gateway Restaurant until it serves members of all races. The reasons given for the resolution are that the actions of the restaurant in defying the 1964 Civil Rights Act and the 14th Amendment of the U. S. Constitution have been "embarrassing and humiliating" to several State students, and that such actions "reflect unfavorably on this University and are detrimental to its welfare."

The resolution was introduced by Student Government Senator Bill Iler, Secretary Jackie Mitchell, and Vice President Terry Lowder, all of the University Party.

Many senators feel that the resolution in its present form is almost sure to fail. When introduced, it provoked a rash of arguments against it. Although this was a direct violation of parliamentary procedure (a piece of legislation is supposed to be introduced one session and debated and voted on the next) the small display of ignorance did provide an interesting insight into the arguments against the resolution.

The negative feeling against the resolution seems to be either that it is unnecessary because the problem is strictly one of law, which would make a boycott meaningless; that it has no value because most customers at the Gateway Restaurant are not students but members of the Raleigh community; that it attempts to infringe upon the personal liberties of the Gateway proprietor; or that Student Government has no business taking such a strong stand in the name of the students on an issue as controversial as Civil Rights.

Proponents of the resolution answer that urging a boycott would at least clarify the students' position, even though as a practical measure it might be unlikely to have much success. Student Government in representing the interests of the students must take a stand, they say; and proposing a boycott is much more meaningful than an "I am for God, the Flag and Motherhood and against Sin" type statement such as, "SG declares itself in favor of integration," which some senators seem to favor.

"We've got a wonderful institution here . . . We function at the heart of what is absolutely necessary to the civilization of the world," said Chancellor Caldwell a fortnight ago about N. C. State University.

The Gateway Resolution, whether it passes or fails, is at least an indication that Student Government agrees with the Chancellor. It is a positive piece of legislation which could affect not only the students but the entire Raleigh community. It shows a refreshing awareness in SG of matters more controversial than cheerleader appropriations and more universally important than name changes.

International Problem Solved

of course, throw certain people in this country temporarily out of work. Diplomats, people in the import-export business, missionaries, and Peace Corps volunteers would find themselves no longer gainfully employed. But these people would be given ample chance to use their considerable skills in rebuilding the destroyed sections of the globe and putting the United States of the World on a paying basis.

It seems clear that a solution to international problems is urgently needed. Extermination of the rest of the world's population would not only solve all of these international difficulties, but would also prove helpful in doing away with our own overpopulation crisis.
