PULLEN SOCIETY MAKES GOOD START

A Hall Filled With Hopeful Student Shows Right Spirit Among State College Men

After two successful initiations, the Pullen Literary Society has got away to a good start in the useful work of developing men in the graceful art of public speaking.

For years it has been the ultimate aim of the society to train those who expect to be experts in the agricultural, textile or engineering fields to express their thoughts in a clear, concise manner.

With this aim in view, members practically filled the society hall on last Friday night; new members getting their first taste of college society work and old members getting inspiration to do greater things in society work.

The opening event was a debate: "Resolved, That Governor Walton, of Oklahoma, was justified in prohibiting the Legislature to convene," being upheld by Mr. Tiddy and opposed by Mr. Whitford in an extemporaneous speech. Next was a masterpiece, mostly from experience at Camp McClellan, by Frank Trantham: "The Army as a Career."

After the program had been rendered, the President spoke at length on the plans which he has in mind for the society to carry out, after which a motion to adjourn was made.

NEW HANOVER COUNTY CLUB HOLDS MEETING

Initiation Was a "Howling" Success; Even the New Members Enjoyed It (After It Was Over)

The New Hanover County Club met Wednesday evening, October 3, 1923, at 7:30 o'clock. At this time eight new members, all from the ranks of the Freshman Class, were initiated. The old members enjoyed the initiation to the fullest extent, and the new members enjoyed it (after it was over). The new members taken in are: Edward Davis, Everett Huggins, Jimmy Allen, Cato Littleton, Dudley Humphrey, Fred Dlugin, Norman Wells, and D. K. Stewart. The number of men entering N. C. State from New Hanover grows each year, and we hope to see the number grow faster in the future than it has in the past.

Many of the boys that hail from New Hanover take an active part in

CONTEST OPEN TO ALL COLLEGE STUDENTS

The American Economic Association Offers a Handsome Prize For The Best Essay

Mr. Roger W. Babson, founder and president of the Babson Statistical Organization, offers a handsome prize to students and graduate students in our colleges and universities throughout the country, for the best essay on the subject, "The Forecasting of the Price of Wheat—of Cotton—or Lumber." The purpose of this contest is to stimulate keener interest in statistical economics, business forecasting, and the stabilization of our economic life.

Two prizes are offered: (1) a prize of $650 for the best essay submitted by either an undergraduate or a graduate student at any American university; (2) a prize of $400 for the best essay by an undergraduate student at any American university.

A full explanation of this contest will be found posted on the bulletin board of the Department of Economics and Business Administration in Ricks' Hall.

Further information in regard to the competition will be furnished by Professor Ray B. Westfield, Secretary of the American Economics Association, Yale Station, New Haven, Connecticut.

"Big" Eller Injured in the First Quarter; State's Defense Stronger Than Ever

Penn State defeated the Wolfpack by the score of 16 to 0, October 6th, at State College, Pennsylvania. Penn State club made a very strong defensive team when they encountered the Wolfpack. They crossed our goal line in the first and third periods, also gathering a field goal during the third period. In the other periods our stiff defense kept them away from our goal line. Wilson and Palm were the only Pennsylvania men who were able to gain ground consistently. Even these backs were many times bowed to the steeling defensive work of Captain Bostian at center, and alertness of our ends, Wallace and Elms.

Our main offensive was in a short forward pass over the line, but it was checked by Penn State's secondary defense, with little gain. The Wolfpack penetrated Penn State's territory once, and that time for five yards in the second quarter, when Sprague shot through the line for fifteen yards.

Game by Periods

First Period—Penn State scored a touchdown early in the first period when Wilson made a beautiful run of eighty yards, but it wasn't allowed, because of offside play, later receiving the ball on the thirty-yard line, Penn State forced it down the field to our

INTERSTATE STUDENTS' CLUB OF N. C. S. FOUNDED

Dr. Taylor Will Deliver Opening Address Before the Club on October 25th

On Tuesday, October 9, 1923, State College students from states other than North Carolina, South Carolina or Virginia, met in the Y. M. C. A. auditorium to discuss the possibilities of forming a much-needed Interstate Students' Club at N. C. State College.

They resolved that the purpose of the Interstate Students' Club at N. C. State College would be: To have a club where N. C. State College students from states other than North Carolina, South Carolina or Virginia could meet their fellow-students from their own respective states and also come in contact with fellow-students from other states whom they might desire to meet but as yet would be unable to do so because of lack of club facilities.

The club members realize that

N. C. STATE STUDENT WINS HIGH HONOR AT CAMP McCLELLAN

The Radio Corporation of America offers a radio receiving set to that young man who makes the highest record in the radio course given at the C. M. T. C. Camps. Mr. W. C. Lane, Jr., an Electrical Sophomore, won this valuable prize for the Fourth Corps Area. The outfit, valued at about one hundred and fifty dollars, was shipped to Lt.-Col. D. D. Gregory, who presented the prize a few days ago.

THE TWIG APPEARS

We were glad to see The Twig of Meredith College appear last week. It is a bit cold for tender shoots to blossom forth, but The Twig is far from being a tenderfoot in the Collegiate Press of North Carolina. We hope the publication has come to stay, and we wish it great success again this year.

THE SPIRIT OF N. C. STATE

Truly the old spirit of A. and M. has come back to the campus of North Carolina State College. Last Thursday night, when the student body turned out en masse and paraded down to the station to see the Wolfpack off to Penn State, was a good example of the revived spirit on our dearly-beloved campus.

The Wolfpack lost the game, no doubt, but look at the score—an indication of some hard fighting done by State's eleven. The fact that the students showed that they were behind the team, helped the players to fight with renewed vigor and enthusiasm for their College.

And Sunday afternoon when the students turned out to welcome home the gridiron warriors was a further demonstration of the old-time spirit that pervades the campus. The players appreciated this support too, fellows.

"Big Dick" Bostian, in a well-worded speech at the station Thursday night, expressed the feeling of the Wolfpack for the spirit shown by the student body. Let's keep it up, men, and stick by that team—they need our moral support, and they shall have it. On to Carolina!

SOUTHERN SPIRIT DEMONSTRATED

Complications set in last Saturday when Washington and Lee refused to meet the football eleven of Washington and Jefferson, because the latter college was playing a negro on its team. Just what this refusal will mean in the football world is yet to develop. Anyway, we believe Washington and Lee was right, and we commend the spirit shown by these sons of the South. We believe in certain rights of the negro—but we do not believe in mixing the races on the gridiron.

NAMES FOR OUR DORMITORIES

In last week's edition of THE TECHNICIAN, under the Students Forum, appeared an article by a progressive State College student, asking why our dormitories cannot be named instead of numbered. The campus welcomes the issue again, and it should be settled this time before we quit.

Last year there appeared an editorial in THE TECHNICIAN pertaining to this vital question. Following is the editorial in full, taken from the issue of December 1, 1922:

SHALL WE HAVE NAMES, OR NUMBERS?

"It is generally conceded that one goes to college as much or more for the cultural training that is to be derived from his associations with men and places as he does for his training in things purely material. Mere mechanical, or mathematical things cannot make a life, as the experience of men down through the long ages has proven. Filled with the idea of making real men of themselves, our students have registered here, expecting to get the proper blending of human and material things to make of them the greatest servants of mankind it is possible for them to become. In spite of the good intentions and aspirations of the men who thus enter, we find ourselves confronted with a series of mathematical quantities, used to designate various of the buildings on the campus. First, second, third, fourth, fifth, sixth, and we might add South, though its designation may, perhaps, be more of a geographical than of a mathematical derivation, are the means used to place the dormitories of the southeastern portion of our campus. As we see it, there is absolutely nothing about such a system that appeals to the esthetic side of a man's imagination. Time and time again the question has been asked, Why can't we have those buildings named in honor of some great man who has been of peculiar service to the College, either as a benefactor or as a graduate who has attained a place of distinction in the affairs of the State or Nation? And indeed, we can see no reason, except perhaps everyone has been only thinking and not starting any real action toward this end. In an elimination contest to see whose names should be used, there could be several aspirants. For example there is: John Bonitz, or Max Gardner, or Stronach Fraps, Ex-President Hill, Governors Morrison or Kitchin, Josephus Daniels, Fred B. Smith, Dr. Weatherford, Dr. Riddick, Prof. Yates, Augustus Leazar, Dr. Harrison, and dozens of others. You men who feel that we should have something in the place of the present repulsive system should begin to take active steps toward a more satisfactory method of pointing out our buildings."

WANTED!—LEADERSHIP!

What kind of leadership? Leadership for what? A leader from where? A leader for whom? What kind of fool questions are these? you are saying Well, as the Old Dutchman says, "Chust vate a minute." Let's look around a little and consider a few things.

In the development of any nation, state, or community at times there arises occasions for great leadership. There arises such crucial points in the stage of development that the future of the group depends upon pointing in the right direction. Whether there is continued progress and development depends upon whether there arises a man or group of men who can see the situation, see the stage of development, can tell when there is a crisis, which if turned in the right direction will be epoch-making. If that leadership is present or developed during the situation, then glory is ahead. If leadership is lacking, no matter how keen the spirit of the people, or how keyed up is the morale, or the willingness to follow, if there is nothing definite to follow, a period of darkness awaits.

We have just such a situation among us at present. We speak of our College spirit, especially as displayed by the student body at athletic events. Let's analyze the situation a minute. We are passing as a school through a period of transition. We are in our re-organization, stirring up a spirit of reaching out for the newer and better things. We all feel it. We are determined to be satisfied with nothing less than the best. But, just what is the best? Who shall discover that and point it out to us? We wait feverishly to see something held up which we can hail as the goal of our ambition. We have our spirits keyed up to the highest point. We are "raring" to support our team. As demonstrated last week we would do anything for our team.

How are we, as leaders prepared to meet the situation? How much are we organizing this spirit? How much attention are we giving to our yells and pepping up our cheer leaders? Who is seeing to it that we have plenty of cheer leaders out and none but the best? Whose fault was it that there were only two cheer leaders at the Roanoke game? We will answer. It was no single person's fault. It was because of the lack of organization in the cheer leading of our student body. We need organized leaders. We need trained leaders. We need a leader of the leaders. This is for whom? We need leadership in forming our new College spirit. This is for what? We need men who can appreciate the situation and who are willing to "put out." This is what kind. We need leadership from any part of the College that can produce the men for the job. This is from where?

Wanted! Leadership! Every man is responsible for seeing this want fulfilled.

E. E. SOCIETY HOLDS ITS FIRST MEETING

New Members Were Solemnly and Successfully Initiated Without Suffering Any Fatalities

The Student Branch of the A. I. E. E. held its first meeting of the year on the 18th of September and discussed the prospects for the coming year. The officers for this year, who were elected last spring, are: A. C. Bangs, President; H. D. Hamrick, Vice-President, and J. C. Richert, Jr., Secretary-Treasurer. The President made a short talk and the coming initiation was then discussed with much enthusiasm. It was decided that the initiation be held on the following Wednesday and Friday nights.

Wednesday afternoon found the Senior E. E.'s busily engaged in preparing the apparatus for the electrocution, and by 7:00 o'clock everything was in readiness for the "victims." Dr. Campbell was there with his stethoscope and examined the eleven victims, and as he found none with a weak heart, the fun immediately started. Yells of the ohm-sifters were soon "floating" over the campus, and the seven Juniors who were waiting for the Friday night electrocution, listened and nervously thought of what lay ahead of them. Colonel Gregory missed a good opportunity of selecting officers for next year because most of the Junior E. E.'s proved that they have strong and effective voices. The physical condition of the victims was closely watched throughout the initiation and the voltage kept sufficiently low to prevent the breaking down of any of the ohm-sifters' dielectric. Every one lived through the initiation and the Friday night electrocution was as successful as the first one. The Juniors who were initiated on Wednesday night were allowed to watch their classmates receive their welcoming into the society. Another initiation will be held at the close of the football season for the benefit of "Dutch" Holland, Al Johnson and "Foots" Beasley, who were unable to report for the regular electrocution.

The first regular meeting of the society will be held next Tuesday night, and the members are looking forward to a successful and eventful year.

Y. M. C. A. REGIONAL CONFERENCE MEETS

Dean Cloyd Will Represent State College at the Conference in Atlanta, October 19, 1923

On October 19, 1923, the Regional Council of the Y. M. C. A. will convene in Atlanta. At this meeting there are a number of items to be brought up for consideration; and the result of these deliberations will in a large measure determine the activities of the Y. M. C. A. in this region for the coming year.

The first item to be taken up is the Quadrennial Student Volunteer Convention, which is similar to the Student Volunteer Convention held here last spring. Then some proposals of the National Council for the constitutional convention will be introduced; and, following this, Bible Study Leadership Institutes will be discussed. The World Friendship Fund will next come up for consideration; and, lastly, the program of the Regional Council for the coming year will be laid out.

This program, briefly, may be divided into five parts: (1) Development of the State Councils; (2) Officers' Training Conference; (3) Regional News Letter; (4) Blue Ridge Conference for 1924, and (5) Financing the Regional Council. These are all matters of not mere interest, but of vital importance to the College Y. M. C. A., as their activities this year will be governed largely by the results of this meeting.

Dean Cloyd will go to the Council as the representative of State College. We all know the Dean, and we know him well enough to know that he will ably represent us and, if there is anything to be brought back, he will bring it. We also know enough about the Regional Council to know that there will be a great deal to come up there which will be of value to the local Y. M. C. A.'s. Therefore, we are expecting Mr.

Cloyd, in addition to representing us, to bring back some of the spirit of the Council that will prove a dynamic force in the Y. M. C. A. program on our campus for the coming year.

One of State's dependable tackles, who got his leg broken in the Penn State game. Eller, we will miss you much.

Wolfpack Holds Penn State Eleven to a Small Score

twenty-yard line, when Johnson broke through off tackle for the touchdown. Shuster missed the goal.

Second Period—In the second period there was no scoring. Gray, of Penn State, kicked out of bounds on our forty-yard line. A double pass gave us our first down on Penn State's forty-five yard line. We punted and Palm, of Penn State, returned the kick to mid-field. Later in the period Palm attempted a field goal, but it fell short. Quarterback Sprague broke through tackle for twelve yards, but Penn State's line stiffened and held as the half ended.

Third Period—In the third period runs by Palm and Wilson put the ball on our thirty-yard line. Wilson went through right tackle for twenty-nine yards, and then Palm scored a touchdown through center. Shuster kicked goal, making the total score—Penn State 13, N. C. State 0. Following the kick-off the Wolfpack, being unable to gain ground, punted to Palm at mid-field. On the fourth down, Palm drop-kicked a perfect field goal from our forty-yard line.

Fourth Period—In the final period Penn State's attack took the ball to our twenty-yard line, where we held them for downs. We punted, but Penn State soon had the ball well in our territory. Palm missed a field goal from our thirty-yard line. Later he missed another field goal, this time from the twenty-yard line. During the last five minutes of play, both teams sent in a number of substitutes. The entire Penn State second team was sent in, and there was no further scoring.

"Big Eller," our two-thirty-pound tackle, has his leg broken just above the ankle during the first period. This was the first game he started as a regular, after having worked three years for his position. Before he was injured he had everything on his side of the line going just as he thought best. His presence in the line will be missed greatly. Eller has been working hard for his place, and every man of the student body is very much upset over him getting his leg broke. There is still some doubt as to who will fill his place in the games that follow. Big Logan, Big Hendrix, and Ripple, are all working hard for his berth. We wish Eller a fast recovery and hope he will be back with us to again fill the berth which he worked so hard to fill this year.

GYMNACROBATIC CLUB HOLDS SECOND MEETING

On last Saturday night the newly formed Gymnacrobat Club held its second meeting of the year, on top of the Textile Tower. The routine business of the organization was soon dispensed with and the infant body got down to a serious discussion of the many serious problems that face the Gymnasts.

Mr. Gentry, Secretary and Treasurer and charter member of the organization, made a very instructive talk on "The Place of Brains in Climbing." One of the secrets of his startling success, Mr. Gentry says, is that he makes it a rule never to let his brains interfere with his exhibitions. It has always been a pet theory of Mr. Gentry that a fellow with a normal brain will never make a success at climbing. He claims that they are top-heavy and therefore cannot stand the pace. In fact, the point of Mr. Gentry's talk was that brains have no place in climbing.

The President, Mr. Ike Summerill, then took the stand and made a brief but instructive talk. He told of many of his camp experiences and recommended the climbing of tent poles for exercise. Mr. Summerill also cautioned the membership against climbing in cold weather, lest they get cold feet. Mr. Summerill is prominent in Textile circles at State College, and it was through his influence that the Textile tower was secured as a permanent meeting place.

It has been reported that Mr. "Dopey" Brown applied for admission to this live-wire organization, but was turned down because he was flat-footed. Mr. Brown is now receiving medical attention and hopes to soon become a full member.

After settling on a purpose and choosing a motto, the club adjourned until the next regular meeting. For a purpose the club decided to "seek the higher things in life." The motto selected was a paraphrase of Horace Greely's immortal saying, "Go up, young man, go up."

POOL SOON TO BE IN COMMISSION AGAIN

The swimming pool has been out of commission for some time because the plug will not keep the water from running out. Prof. Park is now making a new one that is guaranteed to hold.

A spring-board will be installed. Mr. Fred Wheeler is going to get a good one and fasten it so that it will not break.

GYMNACROBATIC CLUB
BIDS NEW MEMBERS

The race is on.

At the last meeting of the Gymnacrobat Club seven men were discussed for membership. "Deacon" Allen and "Dopey" Brown were unanimously passed. Mr. P. B. Little was also passed after a great deal of discussion, due to the fact that he could do things in "three ways." F. S. Trantham, A. W. Green, Tom Lattimore, and C. D. Faucette were black-balled by Mr. Gentry, because they were mentally deficient. However, Mr. Trantham and Mr. Faucette continue to "leg" with the hope of gaining admittance in the near future.

We understand that Mr. Faucette has been a frequent visitor at Meredith, accompanied by Mr. Gentry. We wish Mr. Faucette great success in his desire to gain admittance in the Gymnacrobat Club.

Interstate Students' Club of N. C. State Founded

there are various ways in which the Interstate Students' Club can be of service to the College and the student body. We will grant that each state in the Union would, perhaps, have its own state club at N. C. State College if it had enough students here to warrant such a procedure. The Interstate Students' Club of N. C. State College realizes that such conditions will inevitably come to pass as State continues to progress by leaps and bounds. Therefore, the club believes it will be of unlimited service to those students who might desire to form their own respective state clubs.

The members of the Interstate Students' Club of N. C. State also are willing to co-operate with their chosen college in any movement that the College outlines for their own respective states that will help to make N. C. State College of Agriculture and Engineering the best institution of its kind in the world.

The club feels that it is indeed fortunate in being able to be favored by the presence of Dr. Taylor, organizer of the Cosmopolitan Club at State, during chapel period, October 25. Dr. Taylor has kindly volunteered to address the club on "The Unlimited Field of Service for the Interstate Club at N. C. State College." All the men who have heard Dr. Taylor speak will agree that it is indeed a great event to have a scholar and organizer of Dr. Taylor's caliber to deliver the opening address to the Interstate Student's Club of N. C. State College.

It might be added, the Interstate Students' Club of N. C. State College cannot do its best work unless all the students at N. C. State College who come from states other than

North Carolina, South Carolina or Virginia will wholeheartedly boost their own club, not only by talk, but by action. Yes, red-blooded action, in the proper channel will put your club, the Interstate Students' Club of N. C. State College, in the position to glorify the name of your Alma Mater.

the activities of the College, and when you need some one to help you, just ask a New Hanover man. Some of the men who are prominent in College activities are: C. R. Hall (better known as "Callie" or "Friend") is President of the Senior Class, Student Manager of the Mess Hall, one of the Senior assistants on The Technician staff, and Managing Editor of The Agromeck.

W. S. "Buck" Morris, Editor-in-Chief of The Technician, and Chairman of the Bible Study Committee.

H. T. "Pillsbury" Duls, President of the Junior Class, and member of last year's basketball team.

L. A. Brothers, member of the Y. M. C. A. Cabinet.

H. M. Bremer, Chairman of the Y. M. C. A. Refreshment Committee, and a Junior assistant on The Technician staff.

W. H. "Bill" Shearin is a hard worker on the football field and in the Mitt and Mat Club.

We are looking to hear from Ed Davis and Cato Littleton, who are on Sammy Homewood's wolfet squad.

The upper classmen in the club are as follows: H. M. Bremer, Jr., L. A. Brothers, D. D. Barber, Jr., H. T. Duls, Jr., C. R. Hall, W. S. Morris, R. K. Mathes, P. L. Scott, Robert Sloan, W. H. Shearin, H. W. Taylor, and D. K. Stewart.

The officers of the club are as follows: President, C. R. Hall; Vice-President, H. M. Bremer; Secretary and Treasurer, D. D. Barber; Press Reporter, H. W. Taylor.

The club had as its guests T. J. Toblissen and E. H. Cranmer, both of Southport, N. C. Allen Oldham, who was here last year but is now attending the Atlanta Dental College, in Atlanta, Ga., was also one of our guests.

After the initiation was over, the Refreshment Committee served a swell feed which, needless to say, everyone thoroughly enjoyed. When the delicious viands had gone the way all good eats go, the club adjourned for a season, after which we will have another get-together and feed.

FACULTY TO HAVE THE "Y" ONE NIGHT A WEEK

The N. C. State College Y. M. C. A. is an organization of students and faculty. The faculty help to support the organization, and it is right that they should have the privileges of the building.

For the last two years they have had the use of the building one night a week. This year Friday night will be "faculty night." A supper will be served in the "Y" at a reasonable rate, and then there will be bowling, volley-ball, and swimming. On these nights the entire basement will be reserved for the faculty. The other five nights the students, of course, have the use of it. The small dressing room in the southwest corner of the basement has been reserved for the use of the faculty.

The Athletic Association, fraternities, publications, departmental clubs and literary societies cannot be successfully run without the advice and co-operation of the faculty. This is doubly true in the case of the Young Men's Christian Association. The co-operation of the faculty is needed in order to carry on the work of the Association effectively, and the faculty should avail

A TELEPHONE FOR LOVE?

Certain State College students who are in the habit of visiting with their lady friends over the telephone have been inconvenienced because during the summer No. 558 was put on a duplex with Col. Gregory's office. It is said that after waiting for three hours or more for a chance to use the 'phone, the Colonel sometimes grows impatient, and who can blame him?

Yesterday, the telephone company promised to put No. 558 back on a straight line, which will relieve the situation some. However, there will be need for those who use the telephone to have consideration for others who are waiting to talk.

As soon as the telephone company can furnish it, an additional telephone will be installed in the Y. M. C. A. This 'phone will be strictly for business. This is necessary in order to conduct the work of the Employment Bureau. When this new telephone is installed then there will be less objection to the use of No. 558 for social visits, but it would really be much better to bring car tickets for this purpose and make telephone conversations brief.

PREPARING FOR A WORLD TASK

By L. V. Gogate.

Those of us who take sufficient interest in current literature and try to keep up with the current public opinion, will have found out by this time that the majority of the literary folks think that better understanding between man and man could be brought about only through an adequate schooling of the masses of people of the world. It is because of the absence of such an adequate system of education that the world is being torn to pieces by wars, revolutions, and such other inhuman practices. People in one section of the world have to suffer all sorts of privations, and have to die for want of food, just because people in some other section are fighting wars and cutting each other's throats. Two people fight for pleasure or for gain, but the third party or the spectator suffers. This should not, and will not, occur if everybody understands the laws of social relations and individual as well as collective responsibility. For this reason each individual will have to learn social and political relationships; the relations of man to man, socially and politically; political relations of one nation to another; and relation of one people to another in the sense of the "world fellowship."

Though it is true that there are many more educational institutions in the world today than there were a century ago, still this also is true, that the system of education, or the curricula of study, is universally the same, or with minor changes, as was the curricula of a hundred years ago. Many new lines of study have been added and the scope of education has been widened, but the main object of education has not been achieved. The object of education, as H. G. Wells says, should be to give the youth an understanding which will make him fit for world citizenship. He should possess the general idea of origin of life and the broad outlines of human history, of the leading ideas and methods of physical and chemical science, and of the laws of his own health and happiness. He should know something of mental science, should have been taught to watch the coming of evil-moods and the outbreaks of "temper" in himself and others. He should have learned to be patient and tolerant with others, and the reasonableness of reparations and conciliation, when self-control has failed. He should read literature, and especially history, with a steadily increasing sympathy and understanding, preparing to take part in the general political life of the world and be already turning his attention towards the particular tasks to which his tastes and gifts direct him.

Of course it is obvious that the aim of education described above is noble, but too ideal to be accomplished by the youth of today, not because of his inability to achieve that goal, but because of the inadequacy of the educational system; and, further, the curricula of the colleges and the universities are not large enough to suit the needs of the student who wants to prepare himself to take part in the political life of the world. Yes, there are courses enough, and to spare, for such a preparation, but they are not arranged in a logical manner to suit the needs of the pupil at different stages of his study. The courses of study are disorganized, and need to be brought together and arranged in a manner which can be most effective in preparing a youth for the future responsibility that he will face in solving the world problems.

No one can hope to live the life of a student throughout his whole life, because learning is not the only goal of life. Learning is preparing one's self for the future task, but the task is more important. And if the youth of today wants to succeed in his future life work, which, of course, is of the utmost importance for his own happiness as well as that of others, he should prepare himself for such a task with the greatest care, and in the least amount of time possible.

Most of us realize the importance of the situation and are trying to be as efficient as we can, in our own ways. But any solution of our disorganized school and college curricula is wanted; because such a solution is very badly needed. So many suggestions have been made by great authors and other writers—and they are very valuable—but none of them have proved to be of any great significance in practical matters.

It is not the purpose of this article to deal with any solution of this problem; the writer merely wants to bring to the attention of the students the great need of educating themselves properly for world citizenship. In the next article the writer intends to relate some of his own experiences, and with the help of those will try to illustrate a few ways by which a better understanding might result amongst the different student bodies of the world.

DR. AND MRS. WITHERS ENTERTAIN BERZELIUS CHEMICAL SOCIETY

The Berzelius Chemical Society began the year by having their first meeting at the home of Dr. and Mrs. W. A. Withers. While essentially a social gathering, several highly interesting talks were given. Dr. Randolph lectured on the "Refining and Purification of Cane Sugar." Dr. Randolph spent the summer in research of this subject, and illustrated his lecture with practical experience. Mr. Anderson then gave us a talk on "Society Administration," suggesting several steps that should be taken to add to the effectiveness of the Society. Dr. Withers' talk was based on a bulletin issued by the Department in the summer, showing the success achieved by a number of graduates of the Department.

After these talks delicious ice cream and cake were served by our hostess and Mrs. Randolph. The meeting was a great success, and the Society wishes to express its appreciation of the hospitality sworn by Dr. and Mrs. Withers.

The Berzelius initiation took place Tuesday, October 2d, and eleven candidates were taken into the Society. This brings the membership up to twenty-five members. The men initiated were: Messrs. Merritt, Newell, McFadyen, Monroe, Butler, Womble, Barclay, Enos, Jones, Denson, and Snipes. The initiation was a huge success.

THE "Y" IS TO PUT ON A PROGRAM FOR CLUB BOYS

During the Fair, 150 Agricultural Club boys will be housed at the College. Sleeping quarters will be provided in the basement of South Dormitory, and they will have their meals in the new dining hall.

The Y. M. C. A. has been asked to provide recreation for them during the hours they are not busy at the Fair. The State committee and the city "Y" will help in this. The boys will make the College Y. M. C. A. their headquarters.

From 5:00 to 6:00 in the afternoon the boys will be given the use of the gymnasium, the bowling alleys, and the pool.

On Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday nights there will be short talks by distinguished citizens of Raleigh, followed by moving pictures.

Putting on this program may inconvenience some State College students, but in order to be of service to these boys we can afford to "put out a little." Then, too, we hope to give them such a favorable impression of N. C. State that they will all want to come here when they are ready to go to College.

NOTED PHYSICIAN TO SPEAK FRIDAY

Dr. Eugene L. Swan, of the American Social Hygiene Association, will deliver two addresses to the State College student body on Friday. He will speak at 12 o'clock at chapel and again at 6:30.

This is Dr. Swan's first visit to N. C. State, but he comes with the endorsement of an organization well known to the authorities here. No State College student can afford to miss his two addresses on "Sex Hygiene."

When it comes to automobile parties the machine is only as fast as the people in it.—Ex.
