

Communists Shell Cambodian Capital; Airstrip In Flames As Citizens Flee

PHNOM PENH (UPI)—Communist forces attacked the Cambodian capital before dawn Friday, hitting the Phnom Penh airport with mortar fire that ignited ammunition dumps there and assaulting naval installations on the Mekong River near the downtown sector.

It was the first major Communist attack against Phnom Penh since the Cambodian war began 10 months ago after the ouster of Prince Norodom Sihanouk as chief of state.

UPI correspondent Robert E. Sullivan, who was at the airport, said almost the entire field was in flames and secondary explosions were continuing from the burning ammunition dumps. He said he counted at least five burning planes.

On the east bank of the Mekong River, opposite Phnom Penh's downtown area, mortar rounds hit a Cambodian naval base and a government ferry dock as well as a bridge linking the east bank with the business sector of Phnom Penh.

Small arms fire crackled along the eastern bank of the river, tracer bullets cutting the darkness in fighting between Allied and Communist soldiers.

The Phnom Penh airport is the country's major receiving point for military supplies flown in daily from South Vietnam by U.S. and South Vietnamese air force cargo planes.

In Saigon, military sources told UPI correspondent Kim Willenson there possibly were American planes parked at the Phnom Penh airport at the time of the attack and that it could produce the first American military casualties in Cambodia since the end of U.S. operations there last June 30.

There were no immediate reports from Cambodian military officials as to the amount of damage or casualties or the estimated size of the Communist force attacking the city. U.S. military sources in Saigon, however, said the attack did extensive damage to the airport.

The pilot of a military aircraft flying from Saigon to Phnom Penh early Friday was forced to turn back and reported to military officials in Saigon that the field was in flames and appeared to be still under continuous mortar attack.

The explosions and fighting in the capital erupted shortly after a large force of Cambodian troops captured the entrance to Pich Nil pass on Highway 4 southwest of Phnom Penh. The Cambodians, backed by U.S. air strikes, pushed back Communist units that had been holding the pass and raised the Cambodian flag over the bombed out summerhome of the ousted chief of state, Prince Norodom Sihanouk.

Teachers Demonstrate Scott Defends New Budget

by Hilton Smith
News Editor

As several hundred school teachers demonstrated outside, Governor Bob Scott defended his record $4.3 billion budget by saying that he chose to place "primary emphasis on all of our people." He spoke at a joint session of the North Carolina General Assembly yesterday.

The public school teachers were demonstrating for higher pay. Scott's proposed budget failed to provide enough increases to bring teachers' pay to the national average.

The teachers consider the ten per cent pay hike over the next two years puny. State teacher salaries presently average 11.8 per cent below the national average. The ten per cent increase in salaries for teachers is also the raise proposed for the faculty of state-supported institutions of higher learning, including State.

"Some basic decisions had to be made at the outset. One such decision was whether our budget should emphasize the well-being of our more than 125,000 dedicated teachers and State employees, or whether our budget should emphasize the continuation and expansion of programs and services to meet the needs of the more than five million men, women, and children of North Carolina," he said.

Scott pointed out that the record $4.3 billion budget for the next two years is still $900 million short of meeting the budget requests submitted by the various state agencies.

"I chose to place the primary emphasis on all our people, yet providing some increases in salaries for those who serve our citizens."

Nevertheless, the demonstrating teachers reminded Scott that during his campaign for governor he promised to seek pay increases which would bring them to the national average by the middle of 1973. The ten per cent increase will not even narrow the present gap.

On higher education, the Governor made practically no reference at all to it. Although over $30 million in capital improvements is being requested for institutions of higher learning, the Governor only mentioned them in relation to the overall $116 million that has been asked for all state agencies.

No specific mention was made of any of the expanded programs requested by the different institutions of higher learning except in a general nature.

Budget recommendations that the Governor did single out included an expanded kindergarden program with over 2,000 pupils, expanded public school programs, an additional $60.7 million as direct aid to local governments, and expanded library services. Scott pointed out that $325 million in new and expanded programs and capital improvements have been recommended and this was done without raising taxes.

Scott admitted that such programs as increasing student

Peggy Duff To Speak At Erdahl-Cloyd Union

Peggy Duff, Executive Secretary of the International Confederation for Disarmament and Peace (ICDP) based in London, will be the speaker at a special meeting Friday afternoon at the Union Theater, Erdahl-Cloyd Student Union at 4 p.m.

In her role with ICDP, Peggy Duff is in close touch with the Vietnamese delegations at the Paris peace talks and as an international, neutral observer, spent several weeks in North Vietnam last year.

Miss Duff, well known in English and European affairs for the past twenty years, was secretary for the Committee for Nuclear Disarmament in England in the 1950s. The CND was responsible for the Aldermaston marches against nuclear testing and stockpiling and the originator of the "nuclear disarmament" peace symbol that is in wide use today.

Miss Duff was organizing secretary for the campaign to outlaw capital punishment in England, which was accomplished in 1962, and in lunch funds, matching funds for the federal crime control bill, more parks, and manpower training were left out of the budget and asked the Assembly, if additional funds become available, to consider adding some of them.

the late 1940s was organizer of the "Save Europe Now" program for aid to war ravaged areas on both sides.

While in Raleigh, she will have an informal meeting Friday evening with student leaders and others who are interested in learning details of the summer's forthcoming Trans-National Workshops in Peace Action to be held in Denmark by the ICDP, August 1-7.

New P.E. Requirements Set

by Perry Safran
Staff Writer

Incoming freshmen in 1971 will face new physical education requirements. After a study spanning two years, the physical education department has overhauled their curriculum.

Freshmen will no longer be faced with the prospect of four semesters of physical education. Under the new system an above average student may complete his requirements after two semesters. To make this possible the department has initiated proficiency testing.

By providing proficiency tests, the department feels that the objective of the program can be more easily reached. "The idea behind the curriculum changes is to provide a physical education curriculum, tailored to the individuals' needs and resulting in the acquisition of essential health knowledge, improved physical fitness, survival potential in water, and proficiency in lifetime sports," noted Drews.

When classes begin next fall, the freshmen will report to Carmichael fully informed of these and other changes.

Another Vietnam?

Reprint from the Raleigh Times

Is America heading into another Vietnam in Cambodia?

This isn't just a rhetorical question. It is entirely valid in view of the growing involvement of American helicopters and war planes in Cambodia. It is also proper to wonder whether American ground forces, at least in the form of advisors, aren't active in Cambodia. The Associated Press produced a picture of a white soldier in camouflage dress sprinting toward an American helicopter in Cambodia.

At the very least, the current Cambodian involvement is contrary to what the American people were led to believe when the venture of U.S. ground troops into the Cambodian sanctuaries was ended, and after that venture had been so roundly attacked in so many areas of America.

At that time, President Nixon assured the American people that "no U.S. air or logistics support" would be used to aid South Vietnamese fighting in Cambodia. In a nationwide TV address barring U.S. ground personnel and military advisers from Cambodia, the President said:

"We will conduct—with the approval of the Cambodian government—air interdiction missions against the enemy efforts to move supplies and personnel through Cambodia towards South Vietnam and to re-establish base areas relevant to the war in South Vietnam."

The President said at that time that South Vietnamese would remain ready to block re-establishment of the enemy's border sanctuaries cleaned out in May and June by U.S. and South Vietnamese troops. Then, he added: "Most of these operations will be launched from within South Vietnam. There will be no U.S. air or logistics support."

Regarding current American operations in Cambodia, the Associated Press reported: "Since June, there have been many indications that the 'air interdiction' Nixon mentioned has been defined broadly to include air attacks by U.S. planes and helicopters on enemy positions and concentrations, thus helping the Cambodians in their battles with the North Vietnamese."

A Defense Department official said that the current operations "fall in the over-all context of our interdiction effort to deal in Cambodia with enemy personnel, bases and supplies which might ultimately endanger the lives and safety of U.S. Personnel inside South Vietnam as we continue the Vietnamization program and the redeployment of American forces."

This fighting isn't on the Cambodia-South Vietnam border. It is around the Cambodian capital, well inside that border.

Congress made it plain that America wasn't to become deeply involved in Cambodia. Senator John Stennis of Mississippi, who has been a hawk on Vietnam, stressed recently that Congress must not permit any more American war without a declaration of war by Congress.

There has been no declaration of war with North Vietnam, either in South Vietnam or in Cambodia. Yet, the fighting is being escalated in Cambodia.

Congress should speak up, and at once.

More pass/no pass desirable Grading needs revision

by Mike Haynes
Assistant News Editor

Last semester's final exams are now history, and most of us have settled back into the grind, relaxing a little until third-week tests begin to threaten our idyllic existence with the necessity of study.

Perhaps we should use this break to consider the usefulness of spending hours poring over notes and textbooks only to be tested on material which will be forgotten in a few days.

Nearly everyone has ruined a high semester grade average by making a low grade in a required course outside his major. The Faculty Senate's Academic Policy Committee is asking for student and faculty suggestions on changes in the grading system. We should take this opportunity to reflect on the purpose of grades, and to alleviate some of the problems.

Grades in modern education are supposedly a yardstick to the student for measurement of proficiency in his courses. In practice, however, we often find that grades are an axe over the student's head, ever threatening his position in college.

Through recommendations to this Senate committee, the student has an opportunity to lessen the pressure of grades, or possibly abolish them altogether.

Some colleges and universities have already gone to an ungraded system, others to a system giving grades only when desired by the student. Although such a system would be most desirable, I find it doubtful that such a policy would meet with the approval of the Faculty Senate.

However, a few revisions in the present grading system would eliminate many of the pressures caused by grades, and would allow the student more free expression and a chance to get an education in the subjects he wants without fear of lowering his grade average.

Perhaps the revision most attractive to the average student would be termination of final exams. This idea would be a good suggestion to the committee, but let's consider some other ones.

What about changing the pass/fail option to a pass/no-pass system? No failures would be recorded, only hours for passing a course would go on the student's record.

The present limit on pass/fail courses in twelve hours, and required courses cannot be taken pass/fail. Why not abolish any limit on pass/no-pass courses and allow any non-major course to be taken pass/no-pass?

Another suggestion, not quite so radical, is to allow a student to drop a course without a grade at any time before the final. This would constitute an A,B,C/no-pass system.

The last three suggestions seem reasonable enough to meet with the approval of most of the faculty. It is up to the students to make known their ideas and opinions on State's grading system.

Murray Downs, Faculty Senate Chairman, assures us that many faculty members are sympathetic toward grading system reforms. Changes are not out of reach, but it is now up to the students to initiate them.

THE HEADLINES BEHIND THE STORIES

The Student Senate—A Chinese fire drill

BY RICHARD CURTIS

I happened to be in Sebring, Florida last year for the 12-Hour Grand Prix of Endurance for sports cars. In this race, all the cars race around this monstrously bad airport/race course for 12 hours, bumping, grinding, tearing and accomplishing little short of flailing hell out of some fine automotive machinery. One in particular, Ferrari, did more than the others to keep everyone happy and smiling by (1) winning the race, and (2) having the world's worst pit crew.

A Chinese fire drill.

That's what most knowledgeable sports car magazine writers call a Ferrari pit stop. A Chinese fire drill. Where everyone is running around, falling down, dropping things, yelling, screaming, making nuisances of themselves and, in general, getting little done.

But somehow they manage to put it all together at the last moment and win the race, their only objective.

State's Student Senate is a lot like the Ferrari pit crew. A Chinese fire drill—doing it the hard way, but still accomplishing their appointed task, although with little efficiency.

Wednesday night, I had the opportunity of attending my first student senate meeting. It started 10 minutes late, with stragglers coming in at all times. Thirteen of our esteemed senators, or their alternates, never even showed up. That's 13 out of 60. Or 59, depending on when you took the roll.

At Sebring, we observed the Ferrari crew chief, a hardened, worried-looking man, sneaking behind the pit wall for a cigarette. He didn't speak to us that night, only glared, as if to say, "I don't want the job, this responsibility; I'd rather be in your place, and you in mine." He spoke only Italian (adding greatly to the confusion in the pits) and, when things didn't go his way, he gestured wildly and screamed and pulled his unkempt hair and rolled his eyes. A man possessed.

And in the halls of our most esteemed student senate there resided a senior engineering senator, duly elected representative last spring of the senior engineering class.

Eric D. Geddis. A student possessed.

Possessed apparently with some wild notion he is the only senator in the senate. Craving attention. Attracting attention. At times, even demanding it.

A bill is read by the very clear-voiced Head Bill Reader. Explanation and discussion follow. About half way through the discussion, our senator Geddis stands and asks a question, one that was answered in the original reading of the bill.

A listener, our senator.

Senator Joe Queen has the floor, reading a bill. Geddis stands and waves his arms. Which isn't enough to attract John Hester's (Head Keeper of the Order) attention. So Geddis picks up a newspaper, and waves that wildly. Which still isn't enough. Queen readson. Geddis has to wait his turn.

And his turn comes. He begins explaining about Jack Cozort's editorial in last Friday's Technician of the "childishness" of the student senate, and he can certainly see why since he has been waving his arms in the most mature fashion for ten minutes and is just now being recognized.

Hester calls him out of order (and rightly so) because he is not speaking about the bill in question.

Senator Geddis puts on his coat and leaves, handing in his resignation as he goes.

Parking problems

To the Editor:

The parking situation on this campus has passed the point of being troublesome and has reached the point of being outrageous. Trying to park on campus from 9 to 12 on Monday, Wednesday and Friday is impossible. Those with 10 o'clock classes can't even find a place to park illegally in Doak Field.

I can't afford to pay $3 a week in parking fines. The school administration smiles and says there is nothing they can do. Something must be done, and soon! I would like to meet with anyone with parking problems and discuss possible solutions with them. If you are interested please call me at 851-3729 or 834-6889 and I will try to arrange a meeting. If we students can get together something can be done.

Trash issue

To the Editor:

Since the quality of our environment has begun to occupy a position of social importance in the minds of most students, and hopefully everyone, it's time to consider our immediate surroundings at this university. We think one area deserves particular attention, and that involves the conduct of certain students regarding littering.

Since plenty of trash cans can be found in the buildings and scattered throughout the campus, there is absolutely no need for trash to be thrown out the windows, on the ground, or anywhere else. A trip through the tunnel or around the dorms should convince anyone of the extent of this problem.

The most obvious disregard for our campus is displayed after certain athletic events when our trees become covered with rolls of toilet tissue. Surely these students can find more appropriate ways of celebrating.

And if nothing else, they should have a little more consideration for the Physical Plant employees, whose duties should not include the clean-up of the ridiculous and unnecessary actions of a certain segment of our student body. We hope students will give this some thought in the future. Thank you.

Population explosion

To the Editor:

I was relieved to read Craig Umanoff's instant reply to Robert McPhail's cliché-ridden and unreasonable attack against any abortion reform. Furthermore, I second Mr. Umanoff's thesis that "... such a travesty of the objective expression ..." should not be condoned, tacitly or otherwise, by the Technician as an article entitled "Common sense."

To begin with, the abortion morality is a two-bladed sword of which each side may be sharpened or dulled by the specific argument or rhetoric employed. Those against abortion generally revolve about whether an embryo is a being and what constitutes murder. In many cases their arguments degenerate along the lines of infanticide or euthanasia, possibly for added shock value.

The other side is quick to offer remarks on the rights of the mother, the immorality of forced parenthood, and the plight of an unwanted child. The discussion runs more or less elliptically without end, each side claiming to be right. Although I lean heavily towards the latter, I would prefer to see both of these arguments shelved, declared a stalemate, at least until a uniform scale or unit of morality can be devised. Without such a scale to measure the worth of each side's views the deadlock will continue unabated. Should this be accomplished, some of the more pressing factors could be considered rationally.

For example, it is a sobering thought to realize that the net increase in world population is close to 70 million per year. This translates roughly to 200,000 new people per day. The world will replace those lost in the recent Pakistan disaster in less than three days, all of those lost in Viet Nam (both sides) in a similar period.

The signs of an imminent crisis are all about: power blackouts or brownouts are becoming as common as summer riots, natural gas for the campus steam plant is available only during the warmer months, it is virtually a necessity to reserve a campsite in many of the major parks of the country during the peak vacation months, and it is perhaps more difficult to buy fresh shellfish as it is to find a parking place on campus.

The fact that many of the current and developing crises are directly attributable to a runaway population growth on a global scale cannot be ignored indefinitely. If man cannot adequately sift out a rational path to follow, all his attempts at a just morality and reason will be solved by default when social and life systems begin to fail. The reform of the existing abortion laws, namely those which deny large segments of the society sound medical care in limiting unwanted pregnancies, should be implemented without delay.

We are coming to a realization that man needs more than food, shelter and clothing; he needs an environment in which to find expression and feel needed. It would be gratifying for history to report that we used reason before no other alternative existed and chose not to carpet the earth with ourselves.

The Doctor's Bag

Address letters to Dr. Arnold Werner, Box 974, East Lansing, Michigan 48823.

My problem is that I can't seem to get out of bed in the morning. When my alarm goes off, I seem to automatically turn it off, put my head under the covers and go back to sleep. I'm late for classes, appointments... everything! Somewhere I read that people who hate to get out of bed in the morning are actually hiding something and don't want to face "reality." Is there any truth in this? I have destroyed three alarm clocks in the last three years. I am a senior.

Oversleeping can be caused by a number of things. Your letter is sketchy on detail and you do not mention what time you go to bed, how well you sleep or whether the condition varies in severity from time to time.

Some people do sleep late as a means of avoiding responsibilities, but in my experience, they usually avoid responsibilities in other ways too.

People may have difficulty getting up in the morning because they sleep poorly or have gone to sleep too late. Paradoxically it would seem, if one sleeps too many hours, it can be very difficult to get up. There are different depths of sleep and rising from a very deep slumber can result in confusion and persistent lethargy. Most people have experienced this when they have been awakened suddenly soon after falling asleep. Deep stages of sleep occur rhythmically throughout the night and if your normal waking time tends to fall in the middle of one of these deep sleep periods it may be hard to get out of bed. As a beginning, I suggest setting your alarm for a half hour earlier than you usually do. If you still have difficulty getting up, I'd try an education.

"America leads the world in cardiovascular deaths. The AMA is constantly concerned with the lack of physical activity in the U.S. Physical education is the first step toward teaching the student the need for physical activity and developing a habit for it, for the rest of his life."

The department plans for the student himself to record his own progress. All students will log his or her own progress. This will enable the student to compete not with others solely, but foremost with himself.

The second semester of the first year will be spent developing proficiency in lifetime sports. According to departmental classification, individual sports will be classed into two main groups: cardiovascular emphasis and skeletal emphasis.

Based on the students classification and progress in the first semester, he or she will select a lifetime sport for the first eight weeks and a team sports in the last eight weeks.

If at any time a student feels he can pass a proficiency test in a lifetime sport, the student can request a scheduled test. If the student passes the test, he or she is through with P.E. at the end of the semester.

Draws projected that 30% of all students will complete their P.E. requirements by the end of the year.

Swimming is still a primary concern of the department.

"Instead of a required aquatics course, students will be required to take a comprehensive swimming test during their first week of attendance, and if we feel the student is unsafe in water, he or she will be required to take a swimming course in the second semester.

"Of course if the student passes the test, he is finished with swimming. A student may attempt the test at a later date, if he or she feels that they can pass it.

"The reason the department has kept the swimming requirement is that we have a professional responsibility to prevent deaths by drowning."

The 70% of students who continue into their sophomore year have more activity choices than they had the second semester of their freshman year, plus the provision that if proficiency is established in onw sport, and a passing grade (A,B,C) is gotten in another activity, the student does not have to continue.

The final semester is for those students who are unable to master a lifetime sport. In their case, a passing grade in two activities will successfully complete their P.E. requirement.

Student Deferments Requested In Writing

As a student, you must be given a II-S if you fulfill the following requirements:

1. You have requested a student deferment in writing (you can use Selective Service System Form 104, available from your local board).
2. You make sure a Student certificate (SSS Form 109) is submitted for you each year.
3. You are a full-time student.
4. You are working toward a degree.
5. You have not reached 24 years of age.
6. You are making satisfactory progress; that is, in a four year program, you must complete 25% of the program for each year in school. If you are in a five year program, you must complete 20% each year.

II-S deferments are usually granted for a twelve month period, but for seniors they are terminated with graduation.

The policy of this university, according to Mr. Grier, in the Selective Service office in Peele Hall, is to inform your draft board of your enrollment as a full-time student and of your progress toward graduation using the SSS Form 109-A, 104-A cards you fill out during registration, and to notify your board when you graduate or cease to be a full-time student. The first is required if you are to get and keep your II-S, and the second, Mr. Grier states, if required by law.

If you drop out of school or drop hours so that you are not a full-time student, you will lose your II-S. If this is because of "illness or some other reason the board considers adequate," you may regain your deferment (Selective Service News, Sept., 1967). I asked Major Waller of the North Carolina, State Selective Service headquarters what constituted "adequate reason" in this state. He replied that a II-S could be reinstated for medical reasons if the request were accompanied by sufficient medical documentation, as well as a transcript of grades up until the time of withdrawal.

All requests to the board must be made in writing, and should be sent by registered mail, return receipt requested.

When you are reclassified I-A, you have 30 days to request a personal appearance before the local board, or after such an appearance, 30 days to request an appeal to the State Appeals Board. You must exercise your right within 30 days of the date stamped on your Notice of Classification. Do not forfeit it while awaiting a reply to letters written subsequent to your I-A classification.

This is not a complete treatment of student deferments, due to space limitations. If you have a problem, consult a draft counselor.

I Love My Wife (R) - Cue says "the raspy tongue-in-cheek title sets the proper mood for this excruciatingly hilarious black-and-blue comedy about sex and marriage...Robert Kaufman's script traces the life of his hero from repressed children until adultery. It misfires occasionally, but nevertheless the laughs come fast and viciously - a more charmingly misogynistic and misanthropic film would be hard to find..." Elliott Gould, Brenda Vaccaro. (State).

Brewster McCloud (R) - "Contemporary satire from the director of 'M-A-S-H' Bud Cort, Waly Kellerman star. It is hilarious, witty, and intellectually wild in its extravagant Houston Astrodome milieu...in form a satirical murder-mystery...with intense creativity and humor..." Cue review. (Village).

NEIGHBORHOOD

The Wild Country (G) - A Walt Disney film about a family of settlers and the fun and danger they faced in the mountains out west. (Cardinal).

Tora! Tora! Tora! (G) - Re-creation of Japanese and American maneuvering leading up to Pearl Harbor bombing and the battle itself. Simplified but interesting script and acting, and expertly filmed fighting sequences with diving planes, of burning ships and over-all impression of authenticity." Cue review. Martin Balsam. (Colony).

Goodbye, Columbus (R) - A frank and revealing film that has something for all a la The Graduate. Ali MacGraw plays a socialite girl that seeks love and it finds her. Also starring Richard Benjamin and Jack Klugman. (Varsity).

State Wrestlers Whitewash Davidson 36-0

by Wayne Lowder
Staff Writer

The State grapplers totally out-muscled the Davidson Wildcats Tuesday night at Carmichael gym, 36-0. The appropriately black-clad Wildcats found frustration at every corner of the mat as the young Wolfpack team exhibited strength and desire.

Sophomore Mike Boroughs again turned in a strong performance in the 118 lb. class by pinning his opponent in 1:40. After finishing second in the statewide AAUs last year, Boroughs is putting his experience to good use.

Larry Carpenter, also a sophomore, pinned his 126 lb. opponent after 3:10 had elapsed in the second match. Carpenter has taken over the weight class vacated by Jim Pace who graduated last year. Question marks early in the season, both Carpenter and Boroughs are maturing into solid competitors.

A pleasant surprise for coach Jerry Daniels has been the performance of freshman Charlie Williams in the 134 lb. class. He won by decision over Davidson's Jeff Dumansky. Sophomore Jerry Brinton won a 7-1 decision over his 142 lb. opponent in the next contest.

Another sophomore, George Harry, won a 7-2 decision as action continued in the 150 lb. class. Bob Reeder, a junior, prolonged the Pack's domination as he won the 158-lb. class by a 6-3 decision.

Davidson forfeited the 167 lb. class to Whitey Clapp.

Steve Rhode, winner of last year's ACC 167-pound title and the tournament's Outstanding Wrestler Award, did everything but pin the Cat's Frank Rader. Rhode, a senior, was also the N.C. Collegiate champion last year.

Paul Pratt, a sophomore, took the closest match of the night by defeating Jim Purcell in the 190 lb. contest. Howard Abbey finished Davidson off in the final contest. The junior from New Bern gained an 11-2 decision over Frank Shinn.

Coach Daniels was enthusiastic as well as cautious over the outcome. "We wrestled well tonight, but the season is much tougher from here on. Friday we wrestle Appalachian at Boone. Last year was the first time we had ever defeated them. After Appalachian, we go to Greenville for a contest with East Carolina. They have one of the strongest teams in the South."

Daniels was confident that State would be well represented in those matches. He commented, "The wrestlers will have to be up to it. We can't have any bad matches from here on."

Swimmers Face Ranked Tennessee

by Perry Safran
Staff Writer

State's tankmen will face fifth-ranked Tennessee in an afternoon meet, Saturday in Knoxville. Both teams are undefeated. State's swimmers carry a 4-0 record, while the Volunteers sport a 1-0 record.

The Wolfpack is coming off a convincing 79-34 win over South Carolina.

The Pack is physically prepared with all swimmers healthy. State's mental attitude will have to be in superb condition to bring the Volunteer's down to defeat. Coach Don

Easterling says, "We're physically prepared. Now, our swimmers must prepare themselves mentally, we can't be satisfied with less than our best effort."

In facing Tennessee, the Wolfpack will meet the nation's fastest freestyler, David Edgar. Edgar is the NCAA champion in both the 50 and 100 freestyle events.

"His reputation, and that of Tennessee, makes us aware that we will have to be more than we have been," said Easterling. Easterling added that "I feel we have a fighting chance to win. And a fighting chance is all we ask."

Swimming against Edgar will be co-captain Eric Schwall and Bob Birnbrauer. "Eric has performed well this season, and has developed into a good team leader. Bob (Birnbrauer) and freshman freestyler Gordon Clark are worthy competitors," Easterling said.

Workouts this week have been fruitful for Easterling. "I've been pleased with our recent workouts, which have emphasized quality and speed, and with our squad's realization that we are going against one of the nation's best teams," noted the coach.

State's strategy will be to push for firsts in events where Tennessee may be weak. "Tennessee has no real weakness, but they are not as strong in the individual medley and the backstroke as they are in other events." The mentor added that "We hope to score firsts and seconds where they are weak and prevent them from getting firsts and seconds where they are stronger."

Easterling feels that this contest could prove the worth of his squad. "Tennessee is talented, strong and deep, but we are prepared and we have an opportunity to prove what I feel—that we have a good dual-meet team," he said. T

This meet is also an opportunity for the motto of coach Easterling to be given fame. For the past two weeks Easterling has been driving home his point about spirit and desire by quoting the words on a plaque that hangs over his desk. Etched into that plaque are the words: "For he who is satisfied, there is nothing; for he who wants, there is everything."

Sloan's Vocabulary Stumps Writers

by Stephen Boutwell
Sports Editor

Not only is Coach Norman Sloan's team causing attention but so is the coach's vocabulary. After giving Clemson credit for their fine aggressive, hustling performance, he stated that it was an "ignominious defeat" for the Wolfpack.

This word isn't usually found in the sportswriter's repertoire of sporting terms. This caused much confusion as many of the writers covering the game either asked what it meant or, for those scholars that found their way into the sporting world, asking how to spell the word.

Remarkd Sloan, "You'll have to spell it on your own. And as to my meaning for it tonight, you couldn't print it!"

After diligent dictionary hunting we finally found what it meant.

Last week the University of Buffalo dropped its football program. Big deal except the Wolfpack were supposed to play the New York team in its season opener next year at Carter Stadium.

"We are losing football games before we even play them now," lamented Coach Earle Edwards, when he heard about the turn of events.

But athletics director Willis Casey isn't having any trouble lining up any one for State's 11th opponent. In fact, the teams are lining up to get on the Pack's schedule. We wonder why.

"We have had 13 solid proposals," says Casey. "We won't do anything for a few days yet, since Earle and I want to review the possibilities. About the only thing certain is that the game will be played in Carter Stadium as our opener. Most of the schools that were on Buffalo's schedule have approached us, as well as a couple of Western teams."

Some of those interested in meeting the Wolfpack are Tulsa, Cincinnati and Boston College.

Speaking of football, State will launch preparations for the 1971 football season with spring practice on Monday, March 15. Returning for the off-season drills will be 28 lettermen along with the upcoming sophomores. Fourteen lettermen, including nine who were starters at one time or another during the course of the season, will be lost from the 1970 team. Right now many returnees are working out on their own in the weight room or on the track.

State's public allotment of tickets for the North Carolina basketball game on February 8 in Reynolds Coliseum has been depleted and only 100 or so tickets remain for the Duke (Feb. 24) and South Carolina (Feb. 27) games.

If the students pick up their allotted tickets, as they should, it appears as if the Pack will be playing before some "packed" crowds this season. Fever will be running high, as all Big Four games are, in addition to the fighting Gamecocks.

Open Squash and Handball Tournament: Entries are now being accepted in the Intramural Office. Play will begin February 1.

Open League Volleyball: Entries are now being accepted for Open League Volleyball in the Intramural Office. There will be an organizational meeting Thursday, January 28th, 7 p.m. Room 211 Carmichael Gymnasium. A representative from each team must be present.

Pack Looks For Win At Pitt

by Stephen Boutwell
Sports Editor

"We weren't ready to play at Clemson and we weren't ready to play at Auburn and Georgia earlier this season," stated Coach Norman Sloan.

"And if we don't cure this problem before playing at Pittsburgh Saturday afternoon, we'll have trouble again," he added.

Thus, sums up the state of the Wolfpack. They will have to be ready to beat the Panthers and also to condition themselves for the tough ACC competition that is looming in the near future.

Pitt has been playing around .500 ball most of the season, but are beginning to show signs of strength that has been expected of them all year.

They haven't had any trouble scoring this season with 6-8 center Paul O'Gorek averaging nearly 18 points, along with 15 rebounds, guard Kent Scott dropping in 17 ppg and forwards Mike Paul and Carl Morris both adding better than 10 points per game.

"The loss to Clemson was an exception," Sloan said, "but 6-9 center Paul Coder has played well for us. Six-seven sophomore Bob Heuts has been most consistent, and guards Al Heartley and Ed Leftwich have done a good job."

"Rick Holdt had an off night at Clemson, but has averaged 10 points, and he can do better than that."

Coder is averaging 16.8 points and 10.1 rebounds while Leftwich leads the team in scoring with a 17.1 average. Heuts is hitting 8.4 points and Heartley contributing 7.0.

Senior Dan Wells, who led with 14 points against Clemson, is scoring 9.3 points and 5.2 rebounds a game.

"Clemson controlled the ball well and played a tough defense," said Sloan. "We were outthusted and outscrapped."

"The way Pitt has been playing of late, very well, we cannot afford to go into this game without wanting badly to win."

Maybe the Pack's pride was hurt more than anything else Monday and nothing is worse than a wounded Wolf as the Panthers will find out.

Free Throws Ice Frosh Victory

by John Walston
Assistant Sports Editor

The baby Wolfpack hit eleven free throws in the last 2:30 to send an aggressive and balanced Louisburg club to defeat, 88-72, Tuesday night.

Coach Art Musselman's Wolflets employed a man-to-man full court press and the deadly shooting of forward Steve Nuce to give the Pack their fifth win.

The final score is quite deceiving as the frosh watched the Hurricanes tie it up at 69-69 on two free throws by Ricky Richardson with five minutes remaining. With 4:21 showing on the clock, the Pack came alive outscoring the tired Louisburg squad 19-3. The spree, which included the eleven free throws, was led by Tommy Burleson with seven, Steve Smoral with six, and Nuce with four. Carl Lile popped in the other two points with :20 left.

In the first half Louisburg, led by Richardson with 17 and Zeppelin with 10 along with the smooth backcourt play of Wes Webb, gave the Pack all they could ask for. As the Wolflets entered the dressing room at halftime they found that their early lead of ten points had been cut to four at 44-40.

State and Louisburg both played well and the game proved to be exciting as the Pack found the Canes nipping at their heels throughout the second half. Louisburg took the lead on three different occasions midway through the half before the Pack concocted the turnaround with four minutes left to play.

State also operated without the services of 6-6 forward Steve Graham who went out early in the first half with a bad ankle.

The Wolfpack shot 60 per cent from the floor, but the biggest difference was from the charity stripe as the frosh hit 28 of 34. While the Hurricanes hit the same number of shots from the floor (though they shot only 38 per cent), they went to the line only 15 times converting 12 of them.

Coach Musselman was pleased with the victory especially after the loss to Duke last week.

"We played pretty good except for about four or five minutes."

Musselman explained this period of play as his only criticism of the game. "We failed to get the ball into Tommy (Burleson) and when we did he brought the ball down and got tied up. This happened about three times, but he learns quick." Burleson didn't get bottled the remainder of the night.

"Louisburg played well, but we pressed them and just wore them out."

The freshmen travel with the varsity to Pittsburgh tomorrow and will play the Pitt frosh in the preliminary beginning at noon. The varsity will play at 2 p.m.

Kennedy Loses; Nixon Tonight

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Sen. Robert C. Byrd, a West Virginia conservative with a satchel full of political IOUs, surprised the convening 92nd Congress Thursday by ousting Sen. Edward M. Kennedy as assistant Democratic floor leader.

The coup, a humiliation for Kennedy that cast a new shadow over his future as a national political figure, was achieved on a secret ballot of Senate Democrats after Byrd telephoned to make sure that Georgia's Richard B. Russell, gravely ill and holding what Byrd thought was the winning vote, was still alive. Russell died about three hours after the vote.

Byrd won, 31 to 24, and Kennedy, confident going into the caucus, was stunned. "When you lose, you lose. If you don't know how to lose, you don't deserve to win," said Kennedy, who himself had upset another Southern conservative, Russell B. Long of Louisiana, for the same job two years ago.

Legislative Goals

Moments later, the gavel fell for the first session of the 92nd Congress, still dominated by Democrats, which will determine the outcome of President Nixon's legislative goals for the last two years of his first term.

Fifty-five Democrats and 44 Republicans were seated in the Senate. Sen. Harry F. Byrd of Virginia, who won election as an independent, was admitted to the Democratic caucus, and Sen. James L. Buckley of the New York Conservative Party was formally accepted into the Republican ranks despite a challenge by Sen. Jacob K. Javits, R-N.Y., that failed on a 36-3 vote.

Standing Ovation

Hubert H. Humphrey, D-Minn., who once presided over the Senate as vice president, returned to a seat on the floor, ranking 93rd out of 100 members in seniority, as his colleagues gave him a standing ovation. But Sen. Hiram Fong, R-Hawaii, piqued by Democratic campaign oratory last fall, refused to be escorted to his oath-taking by his fellow Hawaiian, Sen. Daniel Inouye.

Pennsylvania's Hugh Scott overcame a late, hard challenge by Sen. Howard H. Baker Jr., of Tennessee to win reelection as Senate Republican leader by a vote of 24 to 20. Carl Albert of Oklahoma, taking over as speaker of the house from John W. McCormack of Massachusetts, called on Congress to "move cautiously but also with dispatch" in performing its duty to legislate.

Senate Democratic Leader Mike Mansfield, promptly sounding a partisan note for the Congress that will end with the 1972 presidential election, challenged President Nixon's pursuit of air warfare over Cambodia and predicted that two priority Nixon proposals—welfare reform and revenue sharing—were in trouble.

With legislators awaiting the State of the Union message that Nixon will deliver before a joint session of the House and Senate and a nationwide broadcast audience at 9 p.m. EST Friday, the opening day was devoted largely to ritual and tradition.

But Kennedy's defeat as Senate Democratic whip, the second-ranking position in the party hierarchy, overshadowed the events of the day.

Parlay Favors

Byrd, who ranked just below Kennedy as secretary to Senate Democrats, never declared his candidacy but worked assiduously behind the scenes to parlay the many favors he has performed over the years into a winning majority.

He told newsmen he figured he had a bare majority of 28 "firm commitments" going into the Democratic caucus, including that of Russell, the dean of the Senate who lay near death in Walter Reed Medical Center.

Byrd said he would not have made the challenge had Russell died before the caucus, figuring the loss of one vote would have resulted in a 27-27 tie with the Massachusetts Democrat. He confirmed Russell was still alive by telephone even as Kennedy was being nominated for re-election, and Sen. Herman Talmadge, D-Ga., subsequently cast Russell's vote by proxy.
