Jack Barger Upsets Hobbs For President By 9 Votes

by George Pantan
Jack Barger, cinderella Presidential write-in candidate, upset favored Jim Hobbs by nine votes to become President of the Student Body in the closest election in campus history.

The election was so close that it was in doubt until members of the Honor Code Board made the third and final recount of ballots yesterday morning in the Student Activities Office. Barger tallied 1393 to Hobbs' 1384 to win the closest victory since Wes McClure won the treasurer position in 1966 by 25 votes.

Rick Rice won his runoff in the Treasurer's race against Maynard Ernest by over 200 votes.

Barger, sworn in yesterday at the Executive Cabinet meeting, called for support and unity from all areas of the campus to help him in his new position. He said "We have no hard feelings of people in Student Government or the Student Party or any other group. My primary purpose now is to get away from politics and to get the most qualified and dedicated people to fill the many positions in SG."

He added, "Although we went to the residence halls primarily to win the election, I felt that as long as you can reach half of the people of the University with your ideas and programs you have half of the University on your team. We realized that we laid ourselves open by trying to win in the residence halls to the charge of sectionalism. I want to unify Student Government, unify the campus and unify all students and faculty members and work toward the betterment of the University. I would very much like to see Student Government work hard for the University. I place student government second and will place work for the betterment of the Student Body first."

Said Barger: "I hope to get in touch with all the people who are in Student Government now and learn as much as possible about the mechanics...hopefully we can have the major appointments before the year is out and have them to work with counterparts.

The three most important appointments he sees are the Attorney General, Services Director and the Campus Stores Committee Chairman.

Barger's Presidential campaign was one of fighting an uphill battle. In the election he polled enough write-in votes to give him second place out of four candidates. His campaign was mainly concentrated in the residence halls.

"There is just no way to express my appreciation to everyone who has worked so hard on this campaign. I want to especially thank the

by Dennis Osborne
"This is obviously a very happy time for me. This is a position that I have dreamed about having sometime, that I hoped to have, that I have tried to train for under Roy Clogston, the present Athletic Director, and I am looking forward with a great deal of enthusiasm to trying to fulfill the duties of this job."

With these words Willis Casey, Assistant Athletic Director and Business Manager of Athletics accepted the position of Athletic Director vacated by retiring Roy Clogston.

The announcement was made Wednesday at a press conference at the State faculty club. Chancellor Caldwell made the comment previous to the presentation of the new AD that "...It wasn't a difficult judgement to make; I want to tell you right now, I have nominated to President Friday, and he by telephone ballot has received the approval of the Executive Committee of the University To Expand

Asheville-Biltmore College and Wilmington College will become part of the Consolidated University of North Carolina July 1.

In final action Wednesday, the Senate of the North Carolina General Assembly enacted the legislation with only one dissenting vote.

The Board of the Consolidated University earlier had conducted hearings on the proposal. They then endorsed it and it received the backing of Governor and the the qualified endorsement of the State Board of Higher Education.

The Higher Education Board recommended that the two new campuses be restrained from offering the doctorate degree before 1975 and that care be taken not to divert financial aid from other established institutions of higher learning.

The four current branches of the Consolidated University include State, the University of North Carolina at Chapel Hill, UNC at Greensboro, and UNC at Charlotte. The Charlotte branch was added in 1967.

There was some opposition to the measure, particularly from persons who felt that the expansion of the University was moving too fast.

Senator George Wood of Camden County, who did vote for the bill had reservations. He favored the principle of expanding the University to Asheville and Wilmington but felt the word "University" had been degenerated in North Carolina over the past few sessions.

"We have tried to make universities at the stroke of a pen, but the making of a great university takes time and a great deal of money. I think we are moving too quickly with this bill," he said.

Senator John Burney of New Hanover County, where Wilmington college is located, was sponsor of the bill in the senate.

"We in Wilmington have been waiting for this moment since 1962, when we first petitioned to enter the Consolidated University."

Students On Trustee Board In Future

by Hilton Smith
The bill to place voting student members on the Consolidated University Board of Trustees moved out of the Senate Higher Education Committee Tuesday in a new and expanded form.

An amendment was added which would place student body presidents of all state supported senior institutions of higher learning on their respective governing boards. The bill was then reported out favorably by the Committee with only one dissenting vote and will now go to the Senate floor.

In its original form the bill, sponsored by Senator Ralph Scott of Alamance County, would have put only the student body president of the four branches of the Consolidated University on the Board of Trustees.

Now every state supported senior institution of higher learning would have its student body president as a trustee on its governing board. This is the present form of the bill.

According to Senator Scott, he got the original idea for the bill as head of the N.C. State Visitation Sub-Committee of the Board of Trustees after meetings with students, faculty and administration.

If the bill is passed by the Senate it would then go to the House before it could be enacted into law. According to Scott, the chances look good for passage.

New Athletic Director

Board of Trustees, that Willis Casey will be our next Athletic Director."

He continued with praise of Casey's qualifications: "It was obvious to me from the outset that Willis Casey was the man to beat. I am exceedingly proud that this man is now going to be my colleague in athletics for a least the duration of my tenure here, however long that is, and that he will be in position with his age, to guide this program for a number of years."

During his acceptance remarks, Casey said, "I want to see us have an athletic program here at State that everyone can be proud of, not only administration, but students, alumni, faculty and friends of the college and I think that we have had a program here for the last 10-15 years that they have taken pride in. I think that we have the finest group of coaches of any school in the country."

Casey remarked that he did not distinguish between major and minor sports, only between revenue and non-revenue sports. When asked if he foresaw an expansion in State's athletic program, he replied that the only expansion possible would be to add lacrosse, and he didn't see that for four or five years.

Casey left for Paris Thursday morning and Caldwell joked that "We are making the announcement early to help Willis enjoy his trip more." He also added that "he would have made the decision earlier but there have been some things on campus keeping him busy."

Willis R. Casey brings a wealth of athletics administrative experience to his new job as Director of Athletics and Director of the Coliseum at State.

Casey has been on the athletics staff for 23 years as swimming coach and in-administrative capacities.

He was named assistant athletics director to Roy Clogston in 1949, handling tickets, finances and team travel arrangements. The duties and title of business manager of athletics were added in 1967. In this capacity he did the scheduling for the Wolfpack's 13-sports athletics program, and established the operating budget for the department.

Casey, was manager of 19 consecutive conference basketball tournaments, including the Southern and Atlantic Coast Conferences. He also managed the 13 Dixie Classics that were held in the Reynolds Coliseum.

Other activities that were planned and organized under his direction have been three NCAA Eastern Regional basketball tournaments, and NCAA national championship events in swimming and fencing. He also was game director for the East-West Shrine Bowl games played in Carter Stadium the past two years.

He was responsible for the maintenance operations of old Riddick Stadium and has worked closely with the operations of Carter Stadium. Willis also supervises the overall physical facilities of the athletics department.

He has coached track at State and started the AAU track championships, which have been run over the State track.

In 21 years as swimming coach at State, Casey has never had a losing season. And, in seven seasons, his Wolfpack teams swam their way to unbeaten records in dual-meet competition.

In all, Casey's won-lost dual meet record at State is 182 victories and 25 defeats, for a phenomenal .879 winning percentage. During a span in 1952-56, his teams won 34 consecutive dual meets. His teams have a current 25-meet victory streak in the ACC.

His Wolfpack swimmers have won or shared 11 Atlantic Coast Conference and Southern Conference championships. They have won clear title to the last four ACC crowns. State swimmers have won 114 individual titles in the ACC, with nine current conference swimming records held by Casey-coached swimmers.

Wolfpack swimmers have won four NCAA and nine national individual AAU titles, and the team won the men's outdoor National AAU championship in 1954. Swimmers from State, wearing N.C. Athletic Club colors, won the national AAU team titles in 1956 and 1962.

Agromeck Portraits To Be Taken

by Hilton Smith

Agromeck and placement interview portraits for 1970 graduates, including those for Ag. Institute, Bachelor, Masters and Doctoral candidates will be taken between April 28 and May 9.

All persons eligible should sign up at the Union Information Desk between now and next Monday, April 28. There will be no cost to the student and there will be no high-pressure selling.

According to Tom Canning, editor of next year's Agromeck, this will be the only time pictures for the yearbook will be taken and only those from Steven's Studios, the photographer, will be used in next year's book.

"Concerning undergraduate portraits, a very conservative estimate of the cost in next year's book would be $35,000 to include them and the total printing cost for this year's book was $35,000," said Canning.

"The Publications Authority is studying the matter of undergraduate portraits and there is a chance that several years from now everyone's picture will be put in the Student Directory because of cheaper printing costs."

According to Canning, the graduate pictures are very important because they will be used by the Placement Office also, for personnel data sheets in interviews.

Golden Chain Open

Nomination blanks for membership in The Golden Chain are now available to rising seniors at the Student Activities Office (204 Peele Hall) or the Union Information Desk.

Membership in The Golden Chain, a senior honorary society, is the highest honor that a State student can achieve.

Golden Chain recognizes students for their over-all contribution to campus life. Its object is to promote better citizenship, higher scholarship, cleaner athletics and a greater fidelity to duty in all campus organizations.

Years Of Hard Work For The University

Wes McClure Reflects On His Career

by Janet Chiswell

In an interview last Sunday, student body president Wes McClure cited an increased role of the student in University affairs as one of the major accomplishments of the student government in the past year.

Wes' work in the Student Government began with the office of freshman Design senator. The following year he again held a seat in the legislature and became a committee chairman. In this office he was instrumental in work on the Speaker Ban Law.

In his junior year, Wes was elected Student Body Treasurer. During this year he revised the budget procedure, which has since been revised again, and formulated statutes for the protection of the student body finances.

The office of student body president followed. Here Wes began work on a new constitution. Although the document failed in a student referendum, important ground work had been laid for a more successful attempt to come in the following year.

Being in a five-year school enabled Wes to acquire an unprecedented second term as president. Again he tackled the task of constructing a new constitution. The results, as we know, were successful; and a new constitution, which added to the strength and responsibilities of the student government, was put into operation.

In his summary of this last term, President McClure stressed the importance of the report and session with the visiting committee of trustees, describing it as "the best example of working within the system." Wes stated the report "directly led to the establishment of the Consolidated University on a calendar," and added that work would be received by the end of this semester concerning the calendar changes.

Wes pointed out the increased involvement of the student in faculty ratings as an important achievement for the Student Government. After three years work in this area, he said that in certain instances faculty ratings would be released and in the case of department heads they would always be released. Also an achievement in this area is the revision of the faculty evaluations.

McClure also cited an increased role of the student on administrative matters, specifically appointment of students to full-voting power positions on six different chancellor's committees. He commented such a move as Senator Scott's bill for more student voice in the university "heralds a whole new dimension in policy-making on this campus."

The president noted the push for more student participation on school councils and committees, predicting that "in the future these (the school councils) will become stronger and stronger as independent political entities."

Concerning the new constitution, Wes described the work in publications as "creative reorganization" and added that although there had been relative success in this area, there was still much work to be done. Concerning services, he remarked that "student body programs are going to be more what the students desire."

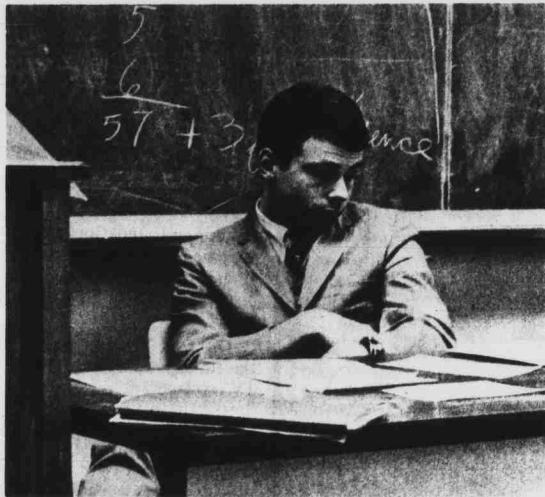

Wes took this opportunity to commend some of the people who have worked with him in the Student Government. "I have learned you can't underestimate the need for a good executive department to work with," he commented. In the present executive branch of the student government, Wes cited the "splendid job" of Ronnie King as vice-president; the smooth take-over of Larry Hancock as he assumed the office of secretary in the middle of the year; and Don White, "an extremely good treasurer" whose stability will be important in the upcoming budget meeting.

Others commended were Jim Hobbs, presidential assistant; Bernard Keele, traffic committee chairman; Paul Hollis, special assistant for academic affairs; and numerous individuals on the chancellor's committees.

And with the victories came quiet moments...when the constitution failed last year...when the long hours in the little office on the second floor of the Union were spent with little reward. (photo by Overman)

Shape Up!

As Richard Nixon said "It's time for a change." It's time for the new and the old Student Government members to get down to the business of effectively governing a community of 12,000.

The campus has undergone the closest and one of the hardest fought elections in history. Bitterness still exists on both sides; however, this bitterness must be put aside. The students who supported Jack Barger and Jim Hobbs as well as the other candidates must unite around our new President.

Too often in the last 24 hours students have expressed their disillusionment with campus politics. Too many responsible student leaders have thrown their hands up in the air and said "Well, there goes all that we've worked for the past three years."

If the new Constitution and the other reforms in Student Government over the last few years are so fragile that they will fall apart the minute Wes McClure is not in charge, then we need reforms that will last.

Jack Barger has the most difficult and time-consuming job on this campus. If he does not receive the support of the present Student Body leaders at all levels, the campus is in for a mediocre year of petty factional in-fighting. We do not need this type of political activity on this campus. What we do need is a concerted effort on the part of all students to make the new Constitution work and to show that State has a student body that can put aside in-fighting and to work for the betterment of the entire Student Body.

Jack has our support in this effort.

The Wes McClure Era

The two-year administration of Student Body President Wes McClure has been the most significant era to-date in the history of student government at State.

Now that Wes has left office, he can rest assured that he has left an indelible mark on the University.

First as treasurer, and later as SG's top man, McClure has affected changes that have altered the basic concepts of student government here. Five years ago as a freshman design senator he became aware of challenges facing student representatives as a result of unprecedented growth within the University. Wes was one of those few who recognized the urgency of studying the student body constitution and in general reassessing the role of student government. And now after several years of determination there is indeed a new constitution, and the trends in student government are pretty well defined.

McClure has always believed that because of the representative structure of the Student Senate (i.e., the fact that senators are elected from academic units such as schools rather than residence units, such as the system at most colleges in the area) with increased student involvement, the goals of student government should necessarily become synonymous with the goals of the University. For this reason the major thrusts of his administration have been toward establishing an expanded student role in University policy-making. Almost entirely as a result of impetus from Wes students are now sitting on curriculum committees in each of State's eight schools.

That of course is but one example of the type of contribution McClure has made to the school. But rather than listing all the accomplishment of his two years in office (and they are many) it is more important to note that the outgoing president has brought to student government (and indeed everyone he has met) an atmosphere of progress and sincere desire to strengthen a student-faculty-administrative team of policy makers for the advancement of the University.

That type of approach is of course a lot different from that most students expect a "student government" to take. There are still hundreds of State students who poo-poo student government because it doesn't undertake lots of nice little projects like a high school student council might do...or because it doesn't work for "the average student" or something like that.

And of course that's where the new student body constitution comes in, for it provides for de-centralized handling of dorm problems and other matters of grave concern to the "average student." Because the University is so large now it is rather short-sighted to think a school-wide student government could handle such localized affairs without the help of lower agencies such as the Inter-Residence Association. And hence the notion that the Student Senate, for all its shortcomings, is the place to deal with those problems affecting the entire student body.

That approach, is almost entirely the product of Wes McClure's efforts. We salute him.

Shoffner, Porter In City Runoffs

Two State people did rather well in the city primary election here Tuesday. They are now among the 14 candidates that will fight it out for seven seats on the Raleigh City Council in the May 6 municipal election.

Robert W. Shoffner, State director of foundations and development received 4,855 votes to be one of the strongest challenges to the incumbents.

Dr. Jack Porter, director of the Raleigh studios of WUNC-TV received 3,993 votes to also "make the cut."

Twenty-two candidates were on the ballot which attracted 12,368 of Raleigh's 49,887 registered voters to the polls. Only in the general municipal election in 1965 have more Raleigh voters gone to the polls for a city election.

The total turnout for the May balloting that year was 17,191.

A primary is necessary here when the list of candidates exceeds by at least twice the number of seats to be filled.

Shoffner and Porter now have a chance to occupy two of the seven seats that are up for grabs in the May 6 election.

Fashion, dances and songs from other nations will be highlighted at an International Festival at State on Sunday.

The International Committee of the Union is sponsoring the festival at 7:30 p.m. in the Union Ballroom.

Men's and women's clothes from all parts of the world—China, Latin America, Pakistan, Scotland, Sweden and Thailand—will be featured in an international fashion show.

Dancers from Nigeria will perform to the accompaniment of authentic African drums, and the campus Scotsmen will play the bagpipes.

The Indians will present songs and a performance on the sitar, a native Indian musical instrument.

Latin America will be represented by lively dancers and music.

Tickets are 50 cents. The public is invited to attend.

do this weekend as you are. If you don't intend to study your weekend away, take off to the beach, or go to VIR there is very little to be offered, though what is offered is well worth the attendance.

"Clickstop" will end its run at Thompson Theater this weekend with two performances on Friday at 7 p.m. and 9 p.m. and the final show at 8 p.m. on Saturday. The end of the season will be marked by a backstage dance and light show (originally announced for last weekend) which will be presented by the 65 students who worked with the inter-media productions during the year at 10 p.m. on Friday.

There will be a jam session on Friday night at the Bar-Jonah. Four bands are scheduled to play, but others are invited to perform. So hurry on over with your group and play under the lights by "Me & Cecil," "Tomorrow's Children," a hard rock group, will perform Saturday night. The Bar-Jonah opens both nights at 8 p.m.

"Conflict & Hope A Celebration," a non-denominational experimental worship service, will be presented again this Sunday at 7 and 9 p.m.

For those who did not read the reviews, may I add that it is well worth the viewing.

This week's Sight and Sound movies are "World Without Sun," the Jacques Yves Cousteau Academy Award winning film, and "Marilyn Monroe" a short documentary film. They will be presented at 6:45 and 9 p.m. Friday in the Union Theatre.

"The Music Man," Meredith Wilson's smash musical is this weekend's Free Flick. Showings at 6 and 9 p.m. on Saturday and Sunday in the Textile Auditorium.

Swami Ranganathananda, the famous Indian lecturer will speak on "Religion in an Age of Science" Friday at 8 p.m. in Riddick Auditorium. The talk should be interesting.

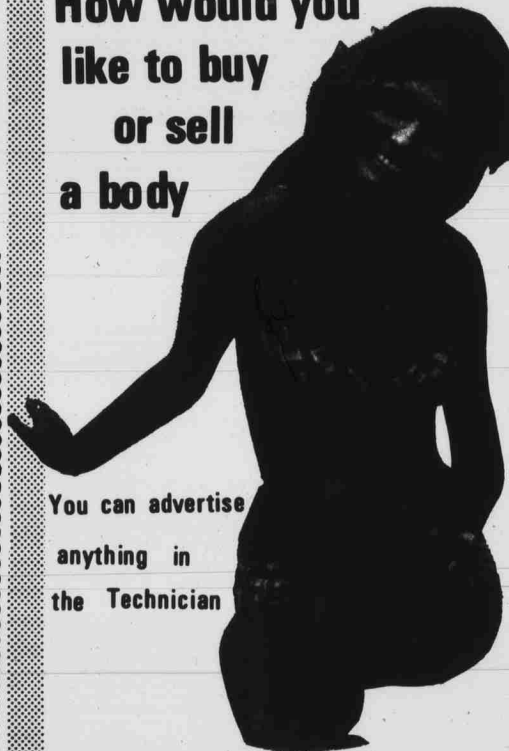

Have a happy weekend and remember to watch out for gerbals.

Neuse River Drown-in Soon

by Rick Curtis
 O.K. all you honest-to-god, would-be boat builders, craftsmen, river men, sojourners, wily-sneaky hornin-on-the-action engineers—here it comes—the NEUSE RIVER DERBY '69!!

 "Hey, man, what's the Neuse River Derby?"

Only you would ask that question.

The Derby started off as a Design School first (most things of this nature are initiated by the Design school...ever notice that?). All the students will build crafts, see, really using the old bean to come up with something original, and watertight, and race down the Neuse. First guy-down wins. Simple, 'huh? In the words of Bill Cosby—RIGHT!!

On May 3, 1969, starting at Raleigh Beach around 11 am, the State Armada will weigh anchor and haul keel for the bridge somewhere downstream on Highway 64 East.

Barring a major disaster(s), one of those superb crafts will finish intact and State's candidates for the America Cup series will have been chosen by the process of elimination.

Coolers full of ice are the only items prohibited in the race, along with outboards and inboards less than 400 cubic inches. Anything over 400 c.i. must have the smog pump hooked up and be approved by the judges.

Come on out—and do your part in littering America's waterways and enjoy the fun. The Derby should begin the annual sink-in around eleven a.m.

Maybe the engineers will get lucky THIS year.

Apply For Money Before May 15

The University Financial Aid Office has set a deadline of May 15 for the filing of financial aid applications by enrolled students for the academic year of 196970.

A firm deadline is necessary this year so that equitable consideration can be given to applications in the face of shortage of funds to meet the total demand.

Students are reminded that a reapplication each year is required to receive renewal of aid, with the exception of a very few name scholarships.

The reapplication requirement applies to scholarships, long-term loans, and jobs under the College Work-Study program.

Considering all applications at one time will enable the office to more fairly apply the criteria of need and deservingness. As it now appears, these criteria will have to be examined rigorously.

Many who would have qualified in previous years very likely will not qualify this year. Even so, it is not clear that there will be enough funds to meet the need.

The principal reason for the fund shortage is the imminent federal cutback in student aid funds. Already the University has been notified that its allotment of National Defense Student Loan money will probably be thirty percent less than requested (which makes it less than last year's allocation).

This estimate is based on the severe cut this item received in the Johnson budget passed on to the new administration.

It is possible for the present administration and the Congress to restore funds to this program, but there is great doubt that they will do so, at least in sufficient amount.

Likewise, the other major student aid programs, Educational Opportunity Grants and College Work-Study, are threatened with leveling off if not severe cuts.

In the face of greatly increasing need, caused by increased costs and increased numbers of students headed toward college, and the increasing number of institutions of higher education participating in the programs, even leveling off means inadequate support for these programs.

Hatfield To Speak

Senator Mark O. Hatfield, who left a job teaching political science to practice the art in Oregon and across the country, will deliver the principal commencement address at State May 31.

Chancellor Caldwell announced the selection of Hatfield Saturday.

The 46-year-old Hatfield has made a meteoric rise in Oregon and national politics since winning his first political office in 1951. He served as a state representative in the Oregon Legislature from 1951 to 1955; as a state senator from 1955 to 1957; and as secretary of state from 1957 to 1959.

He then was twice elected governor in a state that is closely divided between Republican and Democratic voters.

In 1966 he was elected to the U.S. Senate, from a state that has a tradition of electing educators, including former Sen. Wayne Morse and Congresswoman Edith Greene.

Hatfield's first major national exposure came at the 1960 Republican National Convention when Richard M. Nixon tapped him for the nominating speech.

At the bitterly contested 1964 Republican Convention, Hatfield served as keynoter. He was frequently mentioned as a vice presidential possibility on the Nixon ticket at Miami Beach in 1968.

Hatfield started his political career as a teacher of political science at Willamette University in Salem, Oregon from 1949 to 1956. He also served that campus as dean of students.

A long list of honors bestowed on him range from honorary membership in the United Steelworkers of America to the Robert A. Taft Memorial Award from Young Republicans at American University.

Other dignitaries taking part in the commencement ceremonies will be Governor Robert W. Scott and consolidated University of North Carolina President William C. Friday, both State alumni.

Time Out

by Dennis Osborne

Congratulations to Willis Casey. He was our pick as well as the pick of the Exec Committee of the Board of Trustees, and we are looking forward to working with him.

Sam Esposito may have found the secret to get his Wolfpack out of batting slumps. Due to the wet field, State did not take batting practice prior to the doubleheader with Wake Forest Tuesday. So, the Pack came up with its most explosive hitting in two years with 31 hits and 19 runs in sweeping the two games; 9-1 and 10-4. There were also three home runs, one more than the Pack had hit in 13 previous games.

Dennis Punch, Wolfpack first baseman, is making his hits count. He has 12 base hits, including two home runs, and has driven home 13 runs to lead the team in that department.

Frank Howard joining the Wolfpack Club? Well, not exactly, but the unashful Bron of Clemson football did join in on a recent N.C. State Wolfpack club meeting in Greenville, S.C.

The announcement in the papers said it was open to all interested persons, and I was interested in how Old Midnight (Earle Edwards) won that ACC title last year after we beat him," said Howard.

Howard didn't join the Wolfpack Club or pay for his dinner!

When the Wolfpack baseball team beat North Carolina in Chapel Hill, 6-3, it marked the first victory for a State baseball team at Chapel Hill since 1958.

A State fan asked Coach Edwards if his final scrimmage of the spring drills would be an open practice:

"Oh yes, we wouldn't want to miss a chance to confuse anyone," said Edwards, whose 1968 team confused enough people to win the ACC title.

Mark Balbach, 6-3, 180-pound guard from Pittsburgh's Edgewood High, has signed a basketball grant-in-aid with State.

Balbach was all-State and most valuable player in the Western Pennsylvania Interscholastic Athletic League (WPIAL) last year. The lefthander averaged 37.4 points per game as a senior and 23.7 points in his three year varsity career at Edgewood.

Balbach is the second signee for the Wolfpack's Norman Sloan. Rick Holdt of Paramus, N.J., a 6-7 forward who accepted an N.C. State grant last month, was named to Coach and Athlete's 1969 prep all-Amer ca team.

Darrell Moody, who hit on two home run touchdown passes in football last year, got his first home run in baseball against Wake Forest, a 380-foot solo blast over the left field fence. Moody, the Pack's shortstop in baseball, will be State's starting quarterback this fall.

State Converts Deacs

Tuesday State beat the "deacons" out of Wake Forest, both literally and figuratively.

The diamondmen banged out 31 hits against Wake to win both games of a double-header, 9-1 and 10-4. The wins pulled the Pack into a tie for the ACC lead with Clemson, at least percentage-wise.

Esposito's men got 12 hits in the first game, while Mike Caldwell was yielding six singles, and winning his fourth against one loss.

Clem Huffman belted a two-run homer 370 feet over the left field fence to cap a three run second inning rally, after a single by Dave Boyer, a grounder and Caldwell's run-producing single.

Wake had taken a 1-0 lead at the top of the second when Bob Blanton singled in Digit Laughridge.

State went on to stage a six-run outburst in the third. Two walks, an infield hit by Darrell Moody, a wild throw, a fielder's choice, singles by Boyer, Francis Combs and Huffman, a wild pitch and a ground-rule double by Chris Cammack figured in the scoring.

Cammack's hit was first ruled a homer, but Deac Coach Neil Johnston appealed and had the ball brought to the umpire to show marks where it went through the fence instead of over it, and Cammack was sent back to second after Steve Martin had faced one pitch.

Another appeal and unusual ruling came in the third, costing Wake a run when a runner was called for tagging up and leaving third base too soon to score on an outfield fly.

State staked Tommy Smith to an 8-0 lead the first three innings of the second game, and he went on to record his third win in four contests.

The Pack got 19 hits that game. State scored twice in the first as Martin tripled home and Cammack who had singled came in on a single by Moody.

Dennis Punch smacked a two-run homer over the center-field fence, and Moody hit a solo home run to spark a four-run State fourth. Two more runs made the 8-0 lead in the third on a single by Huffman, double by Martin and single by Punch.

Wake bunched six of its nine runs in the fifth to score all four runs, unearned due to an error that produced a single by Callison, doubles by Jim Escher and Laughridge, and singles by Bill Heitman, Bruce Bergman, and Bill Blanton.

Tied With Clemson

State Has High Mark In ACC

North Carolina State's baseball team, tied percentage-wise with Clemson for the lead in the Atlantic Coast Conference race, starts a six-game road schedule with a doubleheader at Maryland, Friday.

"We are in the vital part of our schedule," says Wolfpack coach Sam Esposito. "Each game is important in the loss column, so we have to do well in these next six games or forget about any title aspirations."

An encouraging sign, was the outbreak of hits in State's two wins (9-1 and 10-4) over Wake Forest, Tuesday, as State ran its conference mark to 4-2 and overall record to 11-4.

"I had been disappointed in our hitting, but the boys had a good day against Wake Forest with 31 hits. I know we'll need a few of those at Maryland and Virginia (Saturday)," added Esposito.

Especially pleasing to the State following were the performances of Steve Martin, Dennis Punch and Clem Huffman, who had a total of 14 hits in the Wake Forest games, with Punch and Huffman hitting home runs.

Martin, with five hits in seven at bats, raised his batting average to a healthy .333. The all-America rightfielder had been sidelined with a pulled leg tendon.

Girls' Games

By beating Sigma Kappa to win the volleyball title, Alexander 2 captured another championship Thursday night.

Just previous to this they had beaten SK to win the bowling title. Alexander 2 won the first two volleyball games 15-3 and 15-10. Some spectacular plays and good volleys highlighted the match.

Players for Alexander 2 are Janet Blanchard, Hope Allen, Suzanne Hayes, Doris Paige, Marcia Johnston, Betty Arnold, Betsy Edwards, and Sue Avery.

"Steve just need his confidence back, and I'm sure a day like that will be a big help to him and to us. Dennis (Punch) showed us a little power and came up with some runs-batted-in," added Esposito about his third and fourth place hitters who had five hits each, Tuesday. "Huffman had been hitting the ball well, but they weren't dropping for him. We need him on base as our lead-off man."

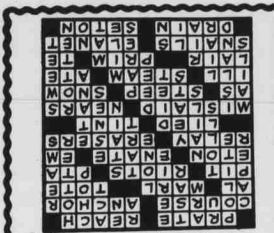

Huffman is the Pack's leading base stealer with seven in seven tries.

The Pack has also gotten complete games out of its pitching staff in six of its last seven contests, with Mike Caldwell (4-1) and Tommy Smith (3-1) each finishing their last three starts. Freshmen Robbie Wilson has completed and won all three of his starts this year, also.

Wilson, Smith and Caldwell will pitch the three games this weekend, but Esposito is not certain as to which order.

Tourney

Due to several rainy days within the past two weeks, the dates for the student-faculty golf tournament final rounds have been moved up one week. The second round should be completed by May 2, the third round should be completed by May 9, and the fourth round by May 16.

Max And Robbie: Mound Team For State

Their dad introduced them to baseball "as soon as they were big enough to carry one," and Max and Robbie Wilson are glad he did.

Max and Robbie are pitchers on North Carolina State's defending Atlantic Coast Conference championship baseball team, and their dad is Max Wilson, who pitched for the Washington Senators more years ago than he likes to recall.

Both sons agree that their father has had a tremendous influence on their athletic careers, and both admit that having him on hand for a State game (he seldom misses one in North Carolina) helps a lot, particularly Robbie.

A southpaw like his father, Robbie, who's a freshman from Greensboro, said, "He helps me out a lot because during a game he can spot what I'm doing wrong. Besides that, knowing he's in the stands makes you think about what you're doing out there on the mound."

Robbie—who currently carries more sparkling diamond credentials than his right-handed brother, a relief pitcher—has been a tremendous addition to the Wolfpack mound corps, which was seriously depleted by the loss of two standouts after last season in which

State finished third in the NCAA College World Series.

The 5-10, 180-pounder, whose stature matches his older brother's, has completed all three of his starts, won all three, and owns a 1.44 earned run average. Robbie's biggest thrill heOe "was winning the first game I pitched (4-0 over Dartmouth)."

But his biggest victory so far was a 5-2 decision over Duke, State's first in the ACC after two league losses.

Max, a dean's list student in mechanical engineering who graduates next month, started out in baseball as a pitcher, but he played the outfield as a freshman at State, then filled in at third base as a sophomore and batted .262. Last season, Max moved into the bullpen, and he's there again this spring.

Both Wilsons have always been good hitters, and Max rates "going 5 for 6 against Duke as a freshman" right up there with being a member of the 1968 team that went to the College World Series.

Looking ahead at the rest of the ACC race, Max said "games this week will tell a lot" about State's chances of repeating as champion. "Each game from here on out is a big one," he pointed out.

Relays On Saturday

CHAPEL HILL—More than 20 teams and some of the best trackmen in the nation will converge on Chapel Hill Saturday for the 10th Annual Carolina Relays.

The annual event has come to be one of the most prestigious spring meets in the southeast and always attracts a championship field. This year is no exception.

Competition begins Saturday at noon on Carolina's Fetzer Field. It will be the first meet run on the University's new Uniroyal all-weather outdoor track.
