Answers Students Senate Responds

by Hilton Smith

After over two hours of After over two hours of debate, a resolution passed and then reconsidered and argu-ments over interpretation, the Faculty Senate passed yester-day a resolution answering the Student Senate's requested im-plementation of October 15 "as a day to examine, appraise and express opinione reserving and express opinions regarding the Vietnam War."

The final resolution, for the most part was adopted pre-viously by the Faculty Senate Educational Policy Committee Monday after a three hour

Session. One change was in para-graph one where the phrase "in no way interferes with normal no way interferes with normal university functions" was dropped between the word "implementation" and "is." One reason given by Dr. Peterson, was the phrase would limit the possibility of working out the problem. The other change was to strike the reference to October striking, the last sentence of the resolution read, "It is the of sense of the Senate that the planning include utilizing October 15, 1969, to focus attention on the particular problem of the Vietnamese con-flict."

15 in the resolution. Before the

One reason for changing the wording given was to dissasso-ciate the program completely from the October 15 national movement.

PROPOSED RESOLUTIONS TO THE FACULTY SENATE

OF THE

FACULTY SENATE EDUCATIONAL POLICY COMMITTEE

Whereas, the Faculty Senate endorses the principle that students have the right and responsibility to be informed about the personal, vocational and academic implications of contemporary problems, such as the Vietnamese conflict, the world food problem, population explosion, and environmental pollution pollution.

Be it, therefore, resolved that

- The Faculty Senate is willing to cooperate with the appropriate student agencies in implementing this principle, provided that the implementation is developed within the framework of University policy.
- The Faculty Senate authorizes the Chairman of the Senate to select members of the faculty who, jointly with student representatives, will plan University activities and functions to achieve this objective. It is the sense of the Senate that the planning include a program embodying the endorsed principle as an alternative to the concept of the nationally advertised October 15 moratorium, 2

Social Action Board Being Organized

ard Freeman-representing APO; Amit Thacker and Bob Matson-members of the Pro-gressive Action Commune;

Bobby Coley – President of the Society of Afro-American Culture; and C. Fredørick Johnson III-Student Services Director.

The group hoped that the board will take care of tradi-tional programs such as food drives, clean-up campaigns, and tutorials, as well as investigate new needs in the community and initiate original methods of combating these needs.

The board will possibly be divided into two main branches. One would co-ordinate the volunteer services main program, and the other would research social problems, their causes, possible solution, and inform the students of their existance

One thing the group empha-sized was the importance of helping people only when help was specifically asked for. therefore advise the board and determine the people that want its services.

Allsbrook Calls For Tax Repeal

RALEIGH-The new taxes on cigarettes, soft drinks and gasoline are necessary and should be repealed, State Sen. Julian Allsbrook said Monday.

Allsbrook, who opposed the taxes in the General Assembly, asked Gov. Bob Scott to call a special session to repeal them. He said the latest figures on the General Fund surplus show the state can provide needed services without the tax increase.

Allst said the surplus would come to within $17.2 million of the revenue the state would get from both the cigarette and providing all the re

Piedmont Case Returned to Lower Court

RICHMOND-A three-judge federal court today sent back to U.S. District Court at Winston-Salem, N.C., the labor dispute between the Airline Pilots Association and Piedmant Airlines. The panel, in an opinion by Judge John Butzner of the 4th U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals, said the district court should first decide whether the issue over the number of crewmen required aboard Piedmont's Boeing 737 jets was a major or minor dispute. The panel let stand a temporary injunction issued by District Judge Eugene A. Gordon at Winston-Salem requiring the airline to assign three-man crews to the jet aircraft until the matter is settled. Piedmont had attempted to reduce the crews to two members, but the ALPA struck on July 21. Gordon ordered the pilots back to work Aug. 15 and told the airline to assign three-man crews to the 737s pending a final ruling.

Nixon Supports Direct Presidential Election

WASHINGTON, D.C.-President Nixon today threw his full support behind a proposal to abolish the Electoral College and provide for direct election of American presidents. Nixon dropped tactical opposition to the plan and urged the Senate to approve a House-passed constitutional amendment "as promptly as possible" so that the states can vote for ratification in time for the 1972 sidential elections possible so that the states can vote for radincation in third for the 572 presidential elections. Nixon sent a message to Congress last Feb. 20-one month after taking office following his squeaker election victory-calling for revision, but not abolition, of the Electoral College. He suggested that Congress replace the winner-take-all electoral system, under which a candidate who wins a state's popular vote captures all its electoral votes, with a plan by which the candidates would split the electoral votes, or a proportional basis. Nixon said at the time he did not believe an amendment providing for elimination of the Electoral College could overcome controversy and be adopted by the required three fourths of the states by the 1972 elections. In a statement insued by the White House Tuesday, Nixon took note of action in the House where Republican leaders ioined with Democrats and pushed through. a plan for electing the President and Vice President by direct, popular vote.

Stokes' fate, political observers agreed, hinged on whether blacks who ide themselves on his achievements over the past two years outnumber nites dissatisfied with Stokes' accomplishments and his race. His opponent in the Democratic primary, Robert J. Kelly, 48, a former eveland service director and traffic commissioner, has based an aggressive mpaign on law and order. But Kelly's race has been a model of disorganization, and it has been ippled by a lack of funds. Kelly himself has aroused little enthusiasm.

If Stokes wins, his opponent in November will be Republican County Auditor Ralph Perk, long popular with Democrats and considered a far more formidable rival than Kelly.

Brandt Slated For German Chancellor's Post

BONN-The Free Democrats indicated today they will use their balance of power in the new parliament to unseat Chancellor Kurt Georg Kiesinger and replace him with Foreign Minister Willie Brandt. Wolfgang Schollwer, editor of the party newsletter, said voters in Sunday's parliamentary elections gave the Free Democrats a mandate to bring about a change of power. "The party is firmly determined to fulfill the mandate of its voters," he said in a special edition of the newsletter. The statement came as the executive committee of the Free Democrats met in a parliament caucus room to decide formally an offer by Brandt to form a coalition. The Free Democrats won only 30 seats in the 406 seat level them.

The Free Democrats won only 30 seats in the 496-seat lower house that chooses the chancellor and government. But neither of the two larger parties won a majority—Brandt's Social Democrats winning 224 seats and Kiesinger's Christian Democrats winning 242.

While the politicians maneuvered, the price of the German mark rose in ree trading in the money markets. The outgoing Kiesinger-Brandt overmment decided Monday to free the mark's exchange temporarily in opes of halting speculation that it might be revalued upward. free trading

Andrews Fills Ballroom With Beauty, Intensity

I might as well go ahead and confess... I am about to review a concert that I missed. What happened was that I rushed out of the paper office Sunday night in such hunger that I had ordered a super-giant steak sandwich, medium well, before I remembered that Joel Andrews' first public concert was already under way without me. The fact that I got to the Union in time to catch only the last few numbers on the new Musician-in-Residence's program, however, illustrates a good point- this artist presents such an intensely beautiful experience with his harp that it takes only a few minutes of exposure to get the listener involved.

that it takes only a few minutes of exposure to get the lister involved. The set, that was my impression. Although I have caugh the end of concerts before, such short exposure generally has the end of concerts before, such short exposure generally has the end of concerts before, such short exposure generally has the end of concerts before, such short exposure generally has the end of concerts before, such short exposure to have the end of concerts before, such short exposure to have the end of concerts before, such short exposure the publicity the end of concerts before, such short exposure the publicity the end of concerts before, such short exposure the publicity original and unexpected sounds out of his instrument. The composition, a 12-tone, free-form piece involving some improvisation and a series of provide the end to be ould expect from no "instrument," exposure that one would expect from no "instrument," or the material included works of oriental, jazz and brouge flavors, as well as some of the "airy" sort of music continually associated with the harp. If nothing else, I saw and heard enough to gather that Andrews is something different and perhaps very special on experimental material and his attempt to "rap" with the adience between numbers makes him an ideal choice as a uscal ambassador to the college comunuity. Mather affiliated group which would like to have fuderwy play or talk to them should contact him through the wadience than Raleigh's unfortunately small nucleus of classic unifs.

The steak sandwich wasn't bad either.

Janos Starker, the famous cellist, will perform Thursday night in the Union ballroom. This is the first of this year's Raleigh Chamber Music Guild series, which is another source of good free entertainment for State students.

George Worth, an artist and, employee of the print shop, called to tell me that he's almost finished on the 28' x 6' mural he's doing for Harris Cafeteria. He hopes to hang the thing Thursday.

Rugby is a game few people know about; a game more people should know about. Played with an oversized, rounder, less inflated, easier-to-kick football, the game involves a 15-player team. Altogether there are 30 players, a referee, and two linesmen crowded on the field.

kick the ball forward. Unlike football, there are no downs. When a player is tackled, he has to drop the ball. When the ball is dropped forward, a "scrum" takes place, in which the two teams interlock and try to kick the ball to the backfield. When the ball is kicked. . . . but to explain all the rules would take too long.

Scoring comes in the form of three points for a touch down, the carrying of the ball over the end-line. The scoring team is awarded a free kick, but unlike football, the kick takes place perpendicular to where the goal was scored. A good kick scores two points for the team.

The final score stood 29-5 Sunday in favor of State. The opposing team was Hampton-Sydney. The game-rugby.

Rugby could be an enjoy-able game whether one knows the rules or not. But it helps to have a good idea of what is going on. After some expla-nation, the main rules can be learned.

The game consists of no forward passing, but only laterals, though a player can kick the ball forward. Unlike

OUR SAY A friend departs

Carroll Mann takes to his new post as head of the Property Control and Construction Division the wealth of experience he has gained over the last six years as head of the University's Division of Facilities Planning and as a former member of the Civil Engineering faculty.

He has directed State's great physical growth over the last six years. He has personally supervised the planning of $75,000,000 in buildings on the campus. Not all of his planned buildings have become reality; however, over $40,000,000 have been built or are now under construction.

Through his years at State, he has been a capable administrator and has not only been open to suggestions and ideas, but his door has been open for inquiry even from the student level.

North Carolina is fortunate in getting a man with Professor Mann's experience to head the Property Control Division. Governor Bob Scott has again relied upon his alma mater for one of his top administrators. He appointed William Turner, former dean of the extension service, as Director of Administration last year

Both of these appointments were based on experience and were relatively free from political maneuvering. State can ill-afford to lose its outstanding personnel to other organizations. However, the University's loss will be more than outweighed by the gain for North Carolina of two of State's outstanding leaders.

Second rate universities

from the Charlotte Obs

from the Charlotte Observer September 29, 1969 Former Gov. Dan Moore said Sunday the creation of so many "regional universities" in North Carolina has cheapened the name university and should recent the state to take a new the name university and should prompt the state to take a new look at higher education. Moore, in a Charlotte tele-vision interview, said the schools designated "regional universities" have not really changed nged.

"They have the name uni-versity, but they're not uni-versities," the former governor siad. "So I think the net effect is we're calling second rate colleges, in many instances, a university, when they're not qualified to be such. The name quainted to be such i the name university has really been cheapened." Moore said a study should be made to determine what role the regional university should play in the consolidated university in the higher educa-tion system. He said he be-lieved there will be a move in the next General Assembly to authorize some of the regional universities to grant doctorate universities to grant determined degrees. "The board of education should make a detailed study and recommend those who are qualified to grant PHD degrees and the General Assembly should follow that recom-mendation," he said.

It may surprise some of my younger readers to learn that once upon a time liberalism was almost as popular as professional football. There were lots of folks who complained about it but their complaints did not prevail. They said liberals had put a maniac named Franklin D. Roosevelt in the White House and they said the liberals wanted to reform the whole world and they said liberals corrupted college students. But they were still thousands upon thousands of the constituency who were proud to declare, "I in the second to declare, the second to declare, "I

Liberals are apologetic today, like men are apologetic for a bad rash. Even the word itself has lost popularity. No one describes politics in liberal terms but more pointedly in terms of moderates and onservatives

No series of beliefs is ever infallible. Liberalism had its share No series of beliefs is ever infallible. Liberalism had its share of imperfectability. There were often occasions when it wasn't dynamic, other occasions when it was not realistic, and still others when it resolutely failed to take into consideration the absolutely corruptible nature of man. There were things the liberals got done, however. What happened? I think what happened to liberalism was the liberals, I think it would be very hard for any political philosophy to survive Lyndon Johnson, Abe Fortas and Teddy Kennedy. Lyndon Johnson poured a Great Society down the drain to finance a war he could never quite explain. As often as we questioned his aims, as often did he and his cabinet insist we were going to win.

We know a majority are cynical, that they cheat, scheme, make intrigue. The least we hold them accountable for is that they register from time to time at a hotel with another woman. Anyone who has ever covered a district convention is aware politicians drink. That they want the glass air-brushed from the photographs is wryly humorous. But we do expect them to deal with consequences which was precisely what Teddy Kennedy didn't want to deal with that night. Admittedly it may beunfair to single out Jchnson, Fortas,

This is a coordinating board for all international groups. It sponsors many different events, such as International Nights, coffee houses, professional entertainment, lectures and films, picnics, and the International Fair.

The first meeting of the International Board was held on Sept. 24 in the Union and was attended by foreign and American students. The immediate plans of I.S.B. are:

1. Gandhi Centennial-Oct. 5, 7:30 p.m. in Union Ball-room. 2. Raleigh Women's Assn. "Open House"-Oct. 5 in Union. 3. India Assn. Social Hour-Oct. 11, 7:30 p.m. in Union. 4. Muslim Student's Assn's Int'l Night-Oct. 26. 5. Indian Divali celebrations and Latin American Int'l night in November. 6. A trip to Western N. C. Nov. 20-22-Contact Mr. Mills or Mrs. Tate in Union Program Office.

I.S.B. will be willing to find you host families in any of the United States' cities. You just arrange your transportation to and from and enjoy the city and surroundings with your host. Now to do all this we need some volunteers for good steady jobs to work in different capacities such as Vice Chairman, Secretary, Editors for International Student affairs, publicity, lectures and films, picnics and entertainment. Interested persons should contact Mrs. Tate, Union Program Office, or Mrs. S. Jeelani, Chairman of I.S.B.

It will offer suggestions for new projects some time in November. November.

Roberts and Flowers both have plans for the future of N.C. State. They envision using the Urban Affairs Center as a "clearing house" for applying the resources of the school to the surrounding community. Roberts said he would like to see students volunteering for work where their talents are computer-matched with the opportunities of the project.

He also suggested an intern-ship program for students. Flowers added that he would like to see students serving on decision-making levels. Both men would like to see students volunteer for expected new projects later this year.

Stang is a highly regarded product of the Chattanooga Tennis Associa-tion, which has produced several outstanding tennis players in the past. Two others are Herb McKin and Bill Freyer, last year's state champs from Wilmington, N. C. Three more players making strong bids are Ben Page of Durham, David Johnson of Winston-Salem, and a home-town boy, Dee Blankenhorn, brother of Jack.

Football A-Go-Go Via Trailways

The redhead at Gaston Lake was the only thing worth look-ing at since we left Raleigh. She was one of the good omens on the way up: a red-head wearing a red-and-white striped blouse and directing traffic on the unfinished bridge.

Our trip was arranged by the athletic department and consisted of riding with the team to Maryland on one of a pair of team buses.

We loaded the bus at 9:30 We loaded the bus at 9:30 Friday morning for the fight with the Terps. The Coliseum on this away game date seemed to be downtown, what with girls letting guys out, wives letting husbands out, and guys letting yous out. letting guys out.

Loading Bus No. 1 we found wer were with Messers. Follwieler, Chesney, Solonoski, Idói, George Smith, Bailey, Medin, Joyce, Wall, McLean, Lewis, Evans, Jordan, Bum-garner, Tharp, Rodgers, Moser, Mason, Altman, Rummage, Wilson, Burgess, Walker, Brad-ley, Mallon, and Jim Smith. Coaches along were Earle Edwards, Bill Smaltz, Ernie Driscoll and Ron Weaver.

Trip Quiet

Imagining the trip, one might think the players would discuss the upcoming game, but such was not the case. When the bus pulled out, the passengers settled down rather quietly and read morning papers, textbooks and slept. The members of the team are students, too, and feel just like anyone else who gets up early anyone else who gets up early for a long bus ride.

From pulling out until the redhead stopped traffic, the ride was like being on a sub-way, no view because of the fog, and not much noise.

After the stop, the riders seemed to wake up somewhat. Don Bradley clowned with Smitty, Marvin Tharp talked to Hal, and about an hour later, Coach Edwards announced lunch was near

We will testify to the fact that ballplayers eat well before a game. Hal summed it up when he said "It's not meal, it's a banquet." Piling into the Holiday Inn in Richmond, we were herded past a great-looking bar (liquor by the dirink, you know) and into the dining room. Placed in front of us was a half-head of lettuce-the salad. The platter sized the salad. The platter sized steak followed, charcoalsteak tollowed, charcoal-cooked and wonderfully medium-rare. Other side orders were the usual potatoes, beans, and pounds of French bread. Whipped butter was consumed by the quart.

Bus No. 2 was somewhat behind ours in arriving, and when the latecomers were seated, Darrell Moody was left standing. Talk about feeling like we were first in line for ejection!

After dinner a go-go girl across the street enticed the team to come into her little club, but got no takers. No one feels like working on a full strength stomach

Players Talk

After lunch came the dis-cussions one would expect: talk about opposing players, previous games, and daily train-ing schedules. This continued, aided with more clowning from Bradley and Mallon-"Hey, Miiike, Miiike" in a girlish voice, and picture passing ôf some interest. But boredom returned and some interest. But boredom returned and silence reighed until Washing-ton. They pity the poor driver, for he got lost. A tractor was beside the turnoff, we went past it four or five times, and each time the team made louder comments. Bradley led the charge with stuff like "Mr. Driver Mr. Driver ture right. the charge with stuff like "Mr. Driver, Mr. Driver, turn right, left, stop and think now," all in that high voice. Alertness followed the last episode, with everyone looking at the D.C. skyline and the city as we passed through it. Col-lege Park was only eight miles up the road, and all of us kep occupied looking at the people and the sights.

We disembarked about 4:00 at Byrd Stadium, and the team changed for a sweatsuit work-out. The gractice lasted 45 minutes, and all adjourned to the Adult Education Center, where the Terps had us headquartered.

where the relps had us headquartered. The building was at the end of a campus which must have been three miles long. After supper, reminiscent of lunch in style, everyone moved out onto the campus to check out the action. It was there, with the Esquires playing for a dance in one of the gyms. Walking around that evening proved the advantage of State's compactness, as there were yards which would absorb the whole Raleigh campus. On first glance Maryland is a beautiful place. The buildings are all Georgian, and well-spread out. Then you notice little things, like the piles of rubbish on the huge yards, and the dirty buildings. huge yards, and the dirty buildings. Coach Edwards passed out bag lunches of chicken and apples, and the bus rolled on. Many players immediately went to sleep, but Marvin and Bob Follweiler again talked to Hal. For the rest of the trip, the bus would hum with talk for a while, and then be silent for a stretch. The driver felt the desire to just 36 hours, but those hours are very seldom viewed by one not with the team. A trip with players will reveal they are students who study, eat and play on a schedule, with very little time for personal fun. A bus trip for an away game is quiet. Ever wonder how a plane flight is?
