SG leaders praise, criticize Technician

by Jim Pomeroy
Associate Editor

A growing concern evolving out of Monday's temporary halt in the publication of the Daily Tar Heel is the direct influence of individuals in college student governments over the newspapers at their respective campuses.

The situation at the University of North Carolina at Chapel Hill is that the student body treasurer, appointed by the student body president, is the caretaker of the fiscal responsibility that each student organization should have. By law at the Chapel Hill school, student organizations receiving student fees must have money in the bank prior to spending it.

On Monday, there was no Daily Tar Heel due to the fact that one individual that was not satisfied with the financial affairs of the Carolina student newspaper. He decided that instead of the usual lump sum of student fees allocated at the start of each semester, the DTH would receive monthly installments in order to make the paper pay attention to their financial affairs more closely.

STATE STUDENT LEADERS AGREE that student publications should not be directed by student government.

While two though are emphatic about their belief, the other would like a closer tie between the Technician and student government through the Publications Authority.

At State, the student government has no direct control over the publications. Policy is set by the Publications Authority, and Student Senate President Lu Anne Rogers is in favor of that arrangement.

"It is better if things are set up like they are here," she stated. "Student Government should not have control over the newspapers."

Rogers also stated that if the students at Carolina needed to know what was going on concerning the Daily Tar Heel and if distributing the Technician in Chapel Hill was the only way to do it, she was in favor of the action taken by the Technician Monday.

Student Body President Mary Beth Spina does not want direct control over the publications by one person. "One person, especially someone that doesn't know about publications, should not be able to single-handedly stop publications," she stated.

But what she would like is what she feels would be a more responsive governing body. While she is in favor of the present system of publication and non-publication members making up the Pub Authority, she feels that certain groups, such as Student Government and the Student Center, should have appointed members with votes. She says that these members may have closer ties with the Technician than those elected at-large.

"THE ONLY FORM OF CHECKS and balances on the Pub Authority are the people on it," Spina stated. "The students at-large probably don't know what's going on. The editors usually stick together on matters, as a rule. If the students on the board knew more about the complete workings of the newspaper it would be better."

Spina is most concerned about the money spent by the Technician for the papers distributed on the Carolina campus Monday. She said she had spoken with Assistant Dean of Student Affairs Don Solomon about the legality of it.

"He said he wasn't sure about it if it had to go through the Publication Authority," she stated. "But he told me it was a legitimate question to be raised, whether it was up to the Pub Board to decide. Does Kevin (Fisher, Technician Editor) have the authority to do what he wants with student fees?"

"I'm sure Kevin was acting in what he thought was the best interest of the Technician," she continued, "but maybe he should have come before the Pub Authority first."

"There are really two sides to that story," Spina explained. "My initial reaction was that it was a nice gesture, that you cover for someone in need. But what bothers me is spending student fees for another campus."

It is believed that Spina would like to see the student fees allocated from one central point, especially the Publications Fee and the Student Center Fee.

CONCERNING THE STUDENT CENTER being placed under the authority of Student Government, Spina stated that the possibility had been researched, but that there "hasn't been enough research to make a decision."

"I see advantages of putting them back together," she continued. "The more students we have working together, the better it would be. Even though Student Government knows little of the workings of the Student Center and the Student Center people probably know little of the workings of Student Government, I think putting them together would strengthen those groups."

Spina also contends that in theory, a single group controlling all student fees would be to the benefit of the students. "Theoretically it would be good to have all the money put through one source. It would be good to have students control their own fees."

Spina makes it clear though that it must be a group and not an individual. "The problem at Chapel Hill is that no one person can stop the flow of money."

JERRY KIRK, STATE'S STUDENT Body Treasurer, feels the system here is "better because no one person can control the fees."

"If someone does not like what is being said he can't just cut out the fees," said Kirk. "It gives the editor the ability to print what he wants to print as long as it does not damage anyone's character and the university."

Kirk, though, believes that UNC Treasurer Mike O'Neal "was right in what he did...his foresight that is, but not the action he took. He was smart to recognize too many outstanding debts."

He stated that the matter of distributing the Technician on the Carolina campus was "controversial," but that it was "good." And while he thought it was nice that students at UNC were able to pick up a newspaper Monday morning and read about their campus troubles, Kirk feels that the Technician "will have to answer to the Pub Board about it later." He also opposes any control by Student Government on the Technician.

O'Neal frees DTH operating funds

by Ginger Andrews
Assistant News Editor

The University of North Carolina Student Government Treasurer Mike O'Neal released the remaining semester appropriations to the editor of the Daily Tar Heel, UNC's student newspaper, last night after strong student protest, a recall petition, and the circulation of the Technician on the Chapel Hill campus.

"We got our money last night at 10 p.m.," said Cole Campbell, editor. "Mike O'Neal came down to my office and gave me the money and two letters."

According to Campbell, the letters indicated that Bill Bates, Student Government President, and O'Neal "thought the Media Board could take care of financial matters for the DTH."

IN A TELEPHONE interview with O'Neal, he said, "The Media Board would start enforcing the standard operating procedures for the Tar Heel."

O'Neal reported the agreement had been reached between Campbell and himself last Friday.

However, the student newspaper could not print Saturday and Monday because O'Neal had refused to release the student fees in a lump sum and the ad staff was unable to collect enough of the account receivable from the advertisers.

O'Neal maintained, "We feel the DTH has not followed the more accepted accounting procedures."

He said that the Media Board chairman had presented a list of 103 violations of accounting procedures to the paper.

HOWEVER, HE ALSO feels that some of the violations could be cleared up without much problem.

Campbell was just pleased to be printing again.

"We are going to continue our search for financial independence," said Campbell, "but now we are just putting out a newspaper and ending this financial mess."

Campbell was also appreciative of the part the Technician played in the hassle between the paper and the student government.

On the other hand, O'Neal responded that he felt the editors of the State student newspaper were "irresponsible" in sending 20,000 copies of the State newspaper to Carolina.

He charged that circulating the Technician on campus was a violation of the solicitation policy because "no permit was secured."

ANOTHER VIOLATION involved the policy of placing the papers in the DTH boxes without consulting the Media Board and obtaining a bill for renting the boxes.

O'Neal assured that the Technician would be properly billed by the Media Board at the rate of eight dollars per 1,000 copies.

However, Reynolds Bailey, the DTH's Business Manager felt that O'Neal was "Swinging at everybody in sight."

"This summer, student government put their publications in the boxes and I went and told them that they would have to rent them," Bailey said. "I think it would be in order for me to write a letter to the Technician and warn them that if they did it again they would have to pay."

He continued, "From my point of view, they (State) did nothing wrong. They did clear it with me."

On The Brickyard: State students view Technician action

by Greg Rogers
Staff Writer

As was reported in Monday's Technician, the University of North Carolina's student newspaper, The Daily Tar Heel, ceased publication on Saturday and Monday as a result of student body treasurer Mike O'Neal's decision to impound the funds that are appropriated for the student newspaper. On Monday, the Technician sent 20,000 newspapers to the UNC campus at an additional cost of $500 to express its support for the DTH. On The Brickyard asked several students their opinions concerning the recent development on the Carolina campus.

Cynthia Tice, a junior from Currituck, said that she did not like the idea of O'Neal cutting off the funds for the student newspaper. "I don't see why it should be up to one person to control all the money," said the pre-veterinarian major.

State has a Publications Authority which controls the money which the Technician uses to print its paper whereas UNC's money is controlled, in essence, by the student government. She prefers State's system. "I think that a number of people should have something to do with it, not just one person," Tice said.

She considered the extra money spent to print the newspapers on Monday well worth the time and money spent. "I think it served the purpose of letting the students know what they're into," she said. She stated that if State's newspaper had stopped printing, she would have appreciated the DTH bringing removes the control from the government. That is the object of the press," said the agriculture major.

Webb said that he thought it was well worth the money and effort to print extra copies of the Technician and send them to Carolina. He said that "the students have a right to a newspaper" and needed a way to express opinions. He said that if the DTH had sent newspapers to State, "I would appreciate it."

Mike Rhyne, a freshman in Engineering, thought that the halting of the DTH was "an injustice to the students." He said that State's system was better than Carolina's. "It gives our students more say so," he explained.

Rhyne, a Greensboro native, thought it was worth the effort and money to send the Technician to the Carolina campus. He thought it helped State and said that if a similar situation occurred here at State, he would resent not having a newspaper.

David Howerton from Durham thought that the newspaper and student government should be separate. "I think that the newspaper should be independent of the school. Student government should not try to limit the newspaper," said the freshman engineering student.

Howerton said that from the circumstance alone, it proved that our system was better than the one at Carolina. However, he wasn't sure if it did any good to spend the extra money to send the paper to Carolina. "I'm not sure if it did any good. All it did was give our opinion," he said.

Howerton said he would be frustrated if we didn't have a newspaper. "It's about the only thing that the students have to read," he said.

Shelia McAllister, a freshman majoring in Pre-Med from Richland, N.C., didn't think what the student body treasurer did was right. "It's just not fair for the paper," she said. She said that State's system of obtaining money for its paper was superior to the one at Carolina.

She thought that it was "pretty nice" that the Technician sent the extra copies to the Carolina campus and thought it was a good idea. "They didn't have a newspaper and it was worth it," she said. She said that if the situation had been reversed and the DTH had sent newspapers to the State campus, she wouldn't mind it at all. "I'd probably like it," she said.

Creel scholarship

The W. C. "Billy" Creel Memorial Scholarship Fund has been established to aid college students interested in pursuing careers in safety and health engineering.

Announcement of the new fund was made jointly by the family of the late W. C. "Billy" Creel, Commissioner of Labor, who died on August 29, and the N. C. Engineering Foundation of State.

The scholarship will be awarded annually to a student interested in the safety and health field. It will be administered by the foundation, and will be solely for study at State.

The late Commissioner Creel, a 1936 State graduate with a degree in education, last year was awarded the National Safety Council's highest recognition, the "Distinguished Service to Safety" award, for his life-long career in promoting employee safety and health.

Friends of the late Commissioner and of State may make contributions to the scholarship fund, which are tax-exempt, by sending them to the following address: W. C. "Billy" Creel Memorial Scholarship Fund

Registration books for fall elections close today at 5 p.m., and if the number signed up as of late Tuesday afternoon remains the same, there will be a great deal of space for write-in candidates.

And with elections scheduled for September 18 and 19, there has not been a bid by a campus group to run the elections. Groups wishing to man the polls those days should send a sealed bid to Student Body Treasurer Jerry Kirk stating the amount of money the group thinks it will take to run the polls.

Only one graduate student has signed up for the nine available senate seats. And just seven freshmen had signed up for the 15 various seats in the Senate.

There are two at-large freshmen judicial board seats open and only two have signed for that race. In the case that no more people sign up, these two do not automatically win, for there can be write-in votes.

No graduate students have signed up for the two judicial seats.

The seats available are listed below:

In The Pit:

Carolina students react to Technician in Chapel Hill, sound off on Daily Tar Heel's financial predicament

by Ted Simons
Staff Writer

CHAPEL HILL — As most students now know, the Technician was distributed on the University of North Carolina campus Monday because the Daily Tar Heel was unable to publish due to actions of UNC Student Body Treasurer Mike O'Neil and the Campus Governing Council (CGC) of UNC retaining funds allocated to the Tar Heel.

In light of this unprecedented occasion On The Brickyard went to Chapel Hill to ask Carolina students at-large how they felt about the missing Tar Heel and the confrontation with O'Neil and the CGC.

Journalism Sophomore Will Jones said, "I don't see how their (O'Neil and the CGC) actions are justified. I've seen problems with Student Government ever since I've been here. They've been trying to set editorial policy. The temptation is always there as long as the control is there."

Jones continued when asked whether Student Government should retain control over the Tar Heel, "I think State's system is better (separate authorities)."

HISTORY SENIOR Randy Penry took the opposite view on the matter of the confrontation. "I agree with O'Neil," he said. "I think he's right. If they (the Tar Heel) can't collect their accounts receivable they shouldn't be allowed to publish."

Penry did agree however that Student Government and the publication should be under separate authorities.

Chemistry Senior Bob Davis was obviously appalled by the loss of Monday's Tar Heel. "I think we need a recall election," he explained. "I think we ought to demand a referendum on the separation of Student Government and Publications similar to what they have at State. And also a recall election on the treasurer (O'Neil). I haven't decided yet whether Bill Bates (Student Body President) has to go. The whole thing is a bit too much." Dana Page, a Junior in Pre-Med Biology, was also extremely upset. "It's sort of a case of somebody trying to exercise authority when they don't really understand the issue," he said in reference to O'Neil. "There's too much of the Student Government trying to control it (the Tar Heel) when they shouldn't have any say in it. Mike O'Neil has a long history at Carolina of not being too good."

Referring to O'Neil's actions on the basis of good business practices he said, "He has no right to do that because he doesn't know what he's talking about. His only experience with economics is like one course he's taken. He's hardly a business major. He's a pompous ass."

LARRY BRANCH, an unclassified sophomore, said, "I tend to agree with the Campus Governing Council that if they (the Tar Heel) can't be financially self-sustaining they ought to be allotted funds on a monthly basis."

When queried about what should be done to resolve the situation of uncertain publication days Branch continued, "Publications should be held to a minimum until an investigation can be held into what the real problem is."

When asked whether the Tar Heel should remain under the auspices of the Student Government Branch stated, "When it's supported by student fees and students are represented by the CGC you get a real slap over situation where you really have to be careful to say which is best."

SENIOR Psychology student Bobby Slater at first expressed surprise upon finding a Technician in the Tar Heel distribution box. "I was shocked," she laughed. "I thought it was a joke."

After she was reassured it was not, she stated that she wished Student Body President Bill Bates would intercede in the situation as she values her Daily Tar Heel well above the politics of Student Government. When asked if Student Government should retain control over the Tar Heel Slater said, "Certainly not. They may not say anything about editorial comments, but cutting off the funds to publish has the same effect as censorship."

When asked if Student Government should retain control over the Tar Heel Slater said, "Certainly not. They may not say anything about editorial comments, but cutting off the funds to publish has the same effect as censorship."

UNC students Dana Page and Paul Browne look over the Technician which was delivered to Carolina's campus Monday morning to explain the Daily Tar Heel's troubles.

Petition circulated at UNC

Another conflict that has arisen from the situation is a petition for a recall of Bates.

DAVID FLAGER, WHO began circulating the petition Monday, has stopped after 1,000 names and the money was released.

However, the petition was still being circulated Tuesday.

Both Bates and Flager believe that the 3,000 names needed for a recall will be obtained by the end of the week.

"If the people want a new student body president—so be it," Bates told the DTH. "I was talking out of it."

Bates signed the petition.

Bates also said he would support the

the student government.

Asked what he thought of the Technician's presence in Chapel Hill, Carolina Media Board Chairman Dick Pope said, "Pure, unmitigated crap."

"I think it would be nice if someone got the whole story. We had an agreement worked out; I don't know what has happened to that agreement. I have no idea. It's really very strange. There was an agreement worked out between Mr. O'Neil and Mr. Bailey which gave them the cash flow which was essentially needed and I don't know what's happened since then. Student fees can be allocated on a cash flow basis."

John B. Adams, Dean of the UNC School of Journalism, offered these comments: "I think it is a sad loss for the students who have had this paper at regularly scheduled intervals for however many years it is, and suddenly it is no longer available for what seems to be a fairly easily remedied reason. There are some barriers being put in the way of the paper going on the street that have nothing to do with journalism."

"I haven't been able to stretch it to a first amendment violation, I think it is too low level for that. At this stage it is simply a bureaucracy, for reasons known best to the bureaucracy, being stubborn about something."

"You get the feeling that maybe the present problem comes from things the Tar Heel may have said in the past about the people who now control the money whether or not there may be the revenge motive there."

Speck to speak on 'Acidophilus' milk

Dr. Marvin L. Speck, William Neal Reynolds professor of food science, will be the first speaker in the 1975-76 series of Thursday Luncheons for graduate students and faculty.

Dr. Speck will speak on "Acidophilus Milk" on Thursday, Sept. 11 at 12 noon in the Brown Room in the University Student Center.

Dr. Speck was the project leader of the research program that resulted in the development of "Sweet Acidophilus" milk. The product is being marketed in Raleigh under the trade name "Nu-Trish." It contains beneficial bacteria which aid in relieving intestinal disorders, but tastes the same as regular pasteurized milk.

Reds ready, A's to repeat, Lynn MVP?

It's only Sept. 10, but the Cincinnati Reds have already wrapped up the National League's West Division. That came on Sept. 7, the earliest any division has ever been clinched. As of Tuesday morning, the Reds held an incomprehensible 20 1/2-game lead over the Los Angeles Dodgers, last year's league champions.

For the Reds to have that much lead over a team like the Dodgers is so close to impossible that it's difficult to accept, and that's why it's a real tribute to the Reds.

On paper, Cincinnati isn't as good as its accomplishments this season. The Reds don't have the sheer baseball talent to attain such a lead and that's a tremendous tribute to their mental attitude. Last season, the Dodgers held off a closing charge by the Reds in the final weeks to capture the division. It was another in a long line of near misses by the Reds. In World Series play, the Reds have lost their last two, to the Orioles and A's. Losing the division title last year really irritated the Cincinnati players, who probably want to win a World Series more than any other team.

Therefore, coming into the 1975 season, the Reds made up their minds that they were going to win it.

Jimmy Carroll

The first step was the division, which they have already made shambles of, now the Reds have to keep their momentum going into the playoffs. If they merely sit back and wait to see who they play, they'll be complacent entering the best-of-five series, and they'll be out of it before they know it.

At present, the Pirates appear to be holding on in the National League East although with their pitching, they could lose every game the rest of the season. If the Phillies, Cards or Mets get hot, they could overtake Pittsburgh and be in the playoffs. The Mets have a shot with their pitching, but their fielding has been off lately, and their hitting has slumped badly in the last month. The Cards are well balanced, and holding second place seven games back leaves them with a shot. The Phillies rely on good defense up the middle and a string of heavy bats.

Pittsburgh and Cincinnati would be an even match, as would the Phillies and Reds. The Cards or Mets would probably give the Reds the most trouble with their pitching prowess, which is so important in a five-game series.

In the American League, the world champion Oakland A's are involved in the closest race of all, holding a six-game lead over the Kansas City Royals, but there is little doubt that Oakland will hold its lead.

In the East, Boston fans have been keeping their fingers crossed all year that a last-minute Baltimore surge wouldn't be successful or that their Red Sox wouldn't collapse like they did last year.

With the addition of rookies Fred Lynn and Jim Rice plus outstanding pitching performances from Rick Wise and Bill Lee make the Sox a much better team than last year. They still have two games remaining with Baltimore, and they need to take one of those. Look for the Red Sox to hang on.

Oakland has too much talent for the Red Sox, and the Reds have their heads together, so the A's and Reds will battle it out in the World Series with Oakland winning its fourth title in a row.

Individually, if Lynn isn't chosen Most Valuable Player in the American League, there is no justice. The only reason he wouldn't be is because he's a rookie. In the NL, Greg Luzinski is the MVP choice and Gary Carter of the Expos should be rookie of the year pick.

The Cy Young award winners should be Tom Seaver in the NL, with Al Hrabosky of the Cards and Randy Jones of the Padres not far behind. Jim Palmer of the Orioles should take the AL honors, but don't count out Catfish Hunter.

Dedication paying off for Bateman

by Drew Kapur
Staff Writer

Tony Bateman is not necessarily a household name, and if Tony Bateman can help it, it will never be.

He probably will not be able to prevent the inevitable, however, because the quiet and unassuming sophomore standout of the State cross country team stands to rewrite the Wolfpack record books.

TONY CAME TO State last year on an athletic grant-in-aid and quickly established himself as the Wolfpack's premier distance runner.

A relative newcomer to the sport, Tony has only been running for five years. He began running for conditioning purposes, with no intent of racing. Tony caught the competitive fervor however, and it wasn't long before he ran his first race.

Says Tony, "Besides conditioning there is always the added attraction to win." An individual spotlight, though, is not what he wants. Instead, Tony emphasizes the importance of teamwork, yes teamwork, in cross country.

"People don't understand that cross country is a team sport. It isn't five or 10 individuals on the team, it is five or 10 individuals striving to work together, to help each other out. You can't win a meet with only one man."

Track coach Jim Wescott, has noticed Tony's involvement with the team.

"TONY IS VERY concerned with other members of the team," he said.

As an athlete, Tony doesn't come by natural talent.

"Many people are blessed with a lot of talent, Tony wasn't. He is, however, quite skilled and has managed to overcome not being a true natural athlete," said Wescott.

To overcome such a disadvantage, and work oneself into a class athlete, takes a lot of time. So while many of us are safely tucked into bed, Tony (and the other members of the squad) is out running.

"I'm usually out by 6:45 a.m. and put in six to eight miles before breakfast, and then in the afternoon about another 10 or so."

He is quick to point out though that his studies come first.

"Running fits into my schedule and not the other way around."

A student of meteorology, Tony takes his studies very seriously. He is here "as a student first."

"I really have to admire

Dave Buckley. He is a good student and a good athlete. He really seems to know where he is going," he said.

AS THE CURRENT record holder of the school record for the 6-mile run, Tony tends to de-emphasize winning as an individual.

"When I win I feel as high as a Georgia Pine, but then I don't die if I lose. I guess it is just that I don't want to get to the point where winning is everything."

That line of thinking carries over into the way he lives.

"I'll just do my best and take whatever comes along. I don't want to be something I'm not." Coach Wescott feels that he gets Tony's best.

Says Wescott, "He is as motivated as anyone I've ever coached. Last year he placed second in the Atlantic Coast Conference meet as a freshman. I'd definitely say he is a conference contender again this year, with the possibilities of later becoming nationally recognized."

Possibly the biggest compliment comes from a former teammate.

"Tony is the most dedicated athlete I've ever met," he said.

That is a pretty big statement considering the interaction of talented athletes on the campus today.

Wolfpack cross country star Tony Bateman runs six to eight miles each morning before breakfast.

Contest winner

The inaugural $10 Technician Pigskin Predictions contest last week was won by Michael Stafford of 2406 Wesvill Ct. Michael just missed one of 15 games last week, and his pick of Missouri over Alabama was the deciding factor. His lone incorrect prediction of the week was the Georgia-Pitt game in which Michael chose Georgia. There were 85 total entries.

WIN $5000!!!

As Gerald Ford Used to Say

A.C.U. wants a new name!

(A Cooperative University)

WIN $500 BY COMING UP WITH THE NEW NAME
WHAT IS A.C.U.? WELL...

"A Cooperative University" is a program sponsored by the Department of Residence Life which offers non-credit, interest courses such as food preservation, auto maintenance, yoga, cartooning, needlepoint, houseplants, etc. The purpose of the program is to provide a mechanism for getting people together who want to learn about a particular subject with those who have the interest and knowledge or skills to teach a course on that subject. The courses may be taught or taken by residence hall students, students living off campus, faculty members and their families, and residents of the Raleigh community.

The program began last year and is based on the 'free university' concept which exists on many other campuses. The word 'cooperative' was used in the name because the program is designed to function cooperatively within N. C. State University and because each course is a cooperative learning venture for teachers and learners.

However, we have found that the name 'A Cooperative University' does not effectively describe the program. Please help us find a catchy, descriptive title for this program.

*Entries will be judged on originality, how well the name conveys the Philosophy of ACU and ease of identification to a wide variety of people.

*All entries should also include an explanation of why the new name is appropriate to ACU

*All entries should be turned into the Dept of Residence Life before Wednesday, September 24

Volleyball club wins

The State power volleyball club opened its fall season on a positive note Saturday with a resounding win over the Pickwick Volleyball Club of Greensboro.

In a hard-fought first game, State defeated Pickwick 15-8 with the lead changing hands seven times before State could gain full control. The second game of the best of three match saw State rally from a 10-0 deficit to record a 15-11 victory.

State was led by Rick Wiggins one of the teams most powerful spikers. He, along with George Bardvarson, Charlie Sloop and Jim Garner provided State's power above the net. The team's two setters were David McManus and Tim (Snake) Adams. Wiggins and Garner showed Pickwick some spectacular net play while McManus set them up with strong ground moves. When Bardvarson, another strong spiker, was injured during the first minutes of the match, Jeff Carter came on and was a steady replacement.

$10 Football Contest

Don't be discouraged if you didn't win the Pigskin Predictions contest last week, you'll have 10 more chances before the year's over, beginning right now.

Starting this week, there will be 20 games to pick. Last week's light schedule allowed for only 15. The rules are the same as last week:

- 1) Entries must be in by 5 p.m. at the Technician office, Suite 3120 of the Student Center. There were a few late entries last week which had to be thrown out so get them in on time!
- 2) Entries must be on an official Technician entry form.
- 3) Only State students can enter, and only one entry per student.
- 4) Staff members of the Technician are not eligible.

We serve better than anybody in town.

And we have some of the very best serves in the business.

At love & love, we hit a boomer that will knock your strings out. But don't worry, our Professional stringing service (with top quality gut or nylon) is done in 1 day (and quite often, while you wait).

At 15-love, it's the Pro Shop twist — wrapping your racket with the best in cowhide grips within 5 minutes of your walking through our Hillsborough Street door.

At 30-love, it's our kick serve (and that means prices better than just about anybody in town). Like Wilson Kramer & Smith Autograph rackets for $26.95. The Cris Evert Wilson at $28.95. The very popular Dunlop Fort for $29.95. The Yonex T7500, $46, and the T8500 at $48. The complete Head line, from the Master at $36 to the new Arthur Ashe Comp II for $64. Also the complete Bancroft line including the Billy Jean King and the Bjorn Borg Autographs for only $29.95.

At 40-love, it's the Pro Shop Slice, and that's where we slice the prices on many items in the shop. Like right now, the Seamco Rosewall and Liberator rackets, regular $45 values for only $29.95. The new Hart AR-1, also a $45 racket for $29.95. And the Hart Powerplay, a superb racket valued at $74.95 for only $42.

And in case a Service Ace is needed, we are now featuring ALL men's shorts and shirts at 1/2 price. All dresses, valued up to $45, for only $14.99. And for All Students, 1/2 off on quality nylon strings. (Through September 30th only).

At The Pro Shop, we feel we've got the best serve in town. And we hope you'll give us a chance to prove it.

It Sounds Incredible

BUT EVELYN WOOD GRADUATES CAN READ

THE EXORCIST IN 58 MINUTES

At That Speed, The 403 Pages Come Across
With More Impact Than The Movie.

You can do it, too. So far over 550,000 other people have done it. People who have different jobs, different IQs, different interests, different educations have completed the course. Our graduates are people from all walks of life. These people have all taken a course developed by Evelyn Wood, a prominent educator. Practically all of them at least tripled their reading speed with equal or better comprehension. Most have increased it even more.

Think for a moment what that means. All of them, even the slowest, now read an average novel in less than two hours. They read an entire issue of Time or Newsweek in 35 minutes. They don't skip or skim. They read every word. They use no machines. Instead, they let the material they're reading determine how fast they read. And mark this well: they actually understand more, remember more, and enjoy more than when they read slowly. That's right! They understand more. They remember more. They enjoy more. You can do the same thing: the place to learn more about it is at a free speed reading lesson. This is the same course President Kennedy had his Joint Chiefs of Staff take. The staff of President Nixon completed this course in June 1970. The same one Senators and Congressmen have taken.

Come to a Mini Lesson and find out. It is free to you and you will leave with a better understanding of why it works. One thing that might bother you about your reading speed is that someone might find out how slow it is. The instructors at the Evelyn Wood Reading Dynamics Free Speed Reading lesson will let you keep your secret. It's true we practice the first step to improved reading at a Mini Lesson and we will increase your reading speed on the spot, but the results will remain your secret. Plan to attend a free Mini Lesson and learn that it is possible to read 3.45 times faster, with comparable comprehension.

SCHEDULE OF FREE MINI-LESSONS

You'll increase your reading speed

MAC's booking is off to a good start

by Richard Stevenson
Staff Writer

Three and more years ago there were some really top name bands on campus: The Fifth Dimension, Chicago, The Guess Who, The James Gang, Leon Russell, and Stephen Stills and Manassas to name just a few.

In more recent years, however, the number and stature of concerts at State has dwindled considerably leaving students to wonder if the Major Attractions Committee is really on the ball.

It is really hard to grasp why Duke and Carolina have enviable concert series and State has not. Student Center Program Director Lee McDonald gave this explanation as to State's concert problems: "It's not because the committee doesn't try to get the big bands. Many fail to recognize the entertainment business is a multi-million dollar industry, one of the largest in the United States."

A FEW YEARS ago groups and artists, especially the newer ones, needed the university campuses to gain recognition. Now, however, due to the tremendous growth of the entertainment industry, the majority of them can easily get by without the university circuits.

McDonald added, "The great demand for more group appearances has also contributed to the decreasing number of concerts. The industry seems to feel that numerous appearances of a group, especially on campuses close together, will water down the market for the group. As a result of this, one college in an area will get the better concerts. The others will have to do the next best thing, get the bands that are available to them."

Last year was MAC's first year having succeeded New Arts, Inc. as the student booking organization. In its first year MAC presented the The Climax Blues Band, Renaissance, Billy Joel, Tim Weisberg, and the Nitty Gritty Dirt Band which is actually a pretty good schedule, though it was not actually well received.

THIS YEAR two concerts have been booked to date for October: John Sebastian and Chris Hillman. More concerts are in the planning stages, but they will not be announced until plans have moved farther along.

Perhaps MAC can't book the biggest headliners of the state industry, but John Sebastian, formerly of the Lovin' Spoonful, and Chris Hillman, formerly of the original Byrds and Manassas, are a pretty good start.

Monty Python review

The longing to see Monty Python builds month and month, fed first by the question "Monty Python?" and then by rave reviews from folks who have found out. At last their And Now for Something Completely Different is showing at the Valley II. As the lights dim, one waits breathlessly to see what the six English gentlemen who "rival Porgy and Bess" will have to offer. Violence, for one thing. Yellow Submarine style ladies are sliced in half as the credits reveal why Playboys was so enchanted. Playboys and Columbia Pictures are co-producers. OK, on with the show.

Roughly ten people are shot down and blown up in the opening segment, "How Not to Be Seen." Some skits rise above the rest in the TV-like sequence that follows, notably the petshop owner who won't believe the parrot is dead. "It's just resting you see." Hell's Grannies, the senile delinquents are also good for a chuckle. But by and large, I have to disagree with the man that appears every fifteen minutes to say with great wit, "And now for something completely different."

THE IDEA THAT gave, partially unclad women and the retarded are funny on sight is an old one.

Topics such as tape recorders up the nose and a love affair between cancerous spots seem sophomoric.

Explicit violence, such as a man plummeting off a high building and hitting the pavement below lacks the shock of Jaws style gore and the self-parody of slapstick.

The outlook of Monty Python is typified by the scene where a spineless and unattractive man hears a voice from above and resolves to change from an insect to a Real Man. As he steps forth boldly, a sixteen ton weight smashes down on him as the credits smirk, "so much for pathos." So much for Python.

PLAYBILL

Today is the first presentation of the Technician, "Playbill," entertainment calendar. Its purpose is to inform you on a day to day basis of the various aversions found in the Triangle Area.

Some events are free and will be noted as such beside the listing and concerts for State, UNC, Duke, Greensboro, and Charlotte as they become available.

Cut Playbill out and tack it to your favorite spot. Then, when you get an unexpected night free from studies you can find something entertaining to do at a glance.

Playbill will appear every Monday in the Technician with the exception of holidays when it will appear in the following edition of the paper.

Additional listings are presently in the gathering phase and should appear in Monday's edition of the "Playbill."

Every effort has been made to make this calendar as accurate as possible but it is suggested that you check with the establishment carrying your particular choice until all possible bugs are worked out of the data collecting system (hopefully before Monday's calendar).

Playbill is intended as a service to you, the student, and, as with all aspects of the Entertainment Department, is open to your suggestions.

First in Freedom?

Sometimes it looks like North Carolina is finally about to emerge socio/politically from the 19th century. But then again it seems that something is always coming up that leaves no doubt that the state still has a long way to go.

The case in point this time is the prosecution of a man for covering over the slogan "First in Freedom" on his North Carolina license plate.

Walter Williams III, a Raleigh resident, has been arrested twice this year by the Smithfield police for having the slogan taped over. Walter Williams is black—and Smithfield is red.

It cannot be definitely said, of course, that racism had anything to do with Williams being arrested, although it is, to say the least, within the realm of possibility.

At any rate, the prosecution of anyone for covering over the "First in Freedom" slogan on their license tag is pure harassment. The slogan serves no purpose, and is merely Bicentennial advertising that has no business on automobile identifying plates.

Moreover, many scholars of North Carolina history express doubt as to the tag slogan's factual accuracy. (It relates to when Mecklenburg County declared independence from England.)

North Carolina's courts, like those of every other state, are massively overcrowded and overworked by their astronomical case load. And last April, Attorney General Rufus Edmisten issued an advisory opinion that blocking out the "First in Freedom" slogan was not against the law.

Those things notwithstanding, District Judge W. Pope Lyon and Superior Court Judge Donald L. Smith both ruled that the trial of Williams proceed.

They should both go somewhere and polish their necks.

Hinton forever

To the Editor:

For those people who did not read the comments of Bill Hinton on Page 3 of Monday's Technician it would be worthwhile to read them. Bill, the printer of the Technician and Daily Tar Heel, is very much an asset to this area. Through their stand on freedom of the press, Bill Hinton and the staff of Hinton Press have manifested themselves as consistent leaders in the advancement of civil liberties. On behalf of the students at these two schools, as well as all North Carolinians, thanks Bill — you're a gentleman and a scholar.

Technician...

To the Editor:

Thank you for making our newspaper our newspaper on Monday. Having suffered the initial embarrassment of reading a rival campus's newspaper for our daily diet of news, the Technician's mere presence made us realize that we should be suffering far greater embarrassment and outrage against Mike O'Neal for his action against the Daily Tar Heel. We think we are expressing the sentiments of the greater part of the Carolina student body in feeling great appreciation for the actions of the Technician and Hinton Press, Inc.

Your support for freedom of the press on this campus will long be remembered.

praised

To the Editor:

I would like to express commendation to you and your staff at the Technician. First I think that you did a very considerate and correct act by distributing Technicians at Carolina. Good memories are made of the little zany things like "the time the Technician appeared at UNC." Also you did a great service to the UNC students by giving them insight while their voice was being attacked. To further help them you might consider kidnapping O'Neal and enrolling him in an Econ. 201 class.

Secondly, I would like to say that all things considered (i.e. this is a college newspaper concerned with entertaining college students and covering events pertinent to them) you ran a good paper. Thank you.

Security...

To the Editor:

This is a letter to inform Mr. Williams as to exactly what function his Campus Security Force performed in the fire at Lee Dorm, Wednesday, September 3. The fire was first reached by James Allgood and Marc Bounds, both residents of

Lee. Two other residents of Lee, whose identities are unknown to me, joined them soon afterward to extinguish the flame completely before Campus Security and the Raleigh Police Department even knew where the flame was. Far be it from me to criticize such a group of high esteem as our Campus Security Force whose expertise at parking tickets is famous city wide. I am simply trying to place the credit where the credit is due. According to eye witnesses Campus Security was sure the fire was in 504 Lee, while you and I both know it was located in 505 Lee. After informed of this fact an officer whose name I will not mention was quoted as saying nonchalantly, "When the Fire Department gets to 504 they will see that the fire is in 505 and come over."

blasted

To the Editor:

This, as will become apparent, is a letter of indignant protest, based primarily on emotion, with some supporting facts.

Point 1. I would like to pose the following question to anyone of authority at this University. Why, as an off-campus resident, duly registered student, am I offered for sale ($35.00, and subsequently purchased) the privilege of parking in 'C' parking spaces, when none are available? This problem offers several alternatives. First, I can park illegally, get towed, and pay an additional $15.00 for the privilege of parking. Second, I could walk to school, thus creating some doubt as to my sanity for purchasing a decal in the first place. Or third, I could drive around the parking deck, not find a place to park, miss a class, thus degrading my $1085.56 per semester education.

Point 2. As to the reference of my 'cheap' education, I would like to pose another question to the same authorities. Why, when economic times are as they are, am I financing the construction of brick walls (i.e. Nelson Hall), Chinese Wind Tunnels (i.e. University Center and Price Music Hall), and the elaborate, artificially 'beautiful' University Center Lawn extravaganza? As a red-blooded all-American, I am proud that I can assist the unemployment situation in Raleigh, but find it hard to justify my working two jobs in order to do so.

Tell me, is it my imagination?

Bike problems

To the Editor:

If you are one of the many bikers who enters campus each day through the east traffic gate by Lenz Hall and Riddick parking lot, then you may be interested in reading this letter. If you have not come very close to having a serious accident there yourself, I am sure you have at least noticed the potential danger caused by the fact that this gate is too long. There is barely room between the gate and the curb for a bicycle to squeeze through.

It is my understanding that the physical plant issued an energy conservation statement saying that to encourage more bicycle riding to campus, all traffic gates would be kept short enough to allow easy passage to bicycles. Well, this is a fine policy to have, but unfortunately it only exists on paper. In the past year I have called the security office repeatedly to bring this problem to their attention. They say yes, they will issue an order for a short gate to be put on right away, but it is never done. Recently another person I know also called security to complain about this gate and was told that the reason a long gate was there now is because they ran out of short gates. I, for one, certainly hope that someone in the security office can figure out how to make a short gate from a long one. Until that time, the problem will remain unresolved. If you also see this as a problem, call Bill Williams at 727-2157 and let him know.

TJ's quote

To the Editor:

The quotation in the editorial page heading of the Technician omits a vital portion of Thomas Jefferson's statement on the role of newspapers in governed society. From his letter of January 16, 1787, to Colonel Edward Carrington, the correct quote is: "The basis of our government being the opinion of the people, the very first object should be to keep that right; and were it left to me to decide whether we should have a government without newspapers, or newspapers without a government, I should not hesitate a moment to prefer the latter."

From this context it is evident that Jefferson believed the purpose of newspapers is to keep the people's opinion informed and correct, thus strengthening the governing process. Without newspapers, Jefferson feared, government would be unaccountable to the citizenry—an intolerable situation in a democracy.

In another letter, this dated August 19, 1785, Jefferson noted an aspect of human nature which remains true as proven recently: "He who permits himself to tell a lie once, finds it much easier to do it a second and third time, till at length it becomes habitual; he tells lies without attending to it, and truths without the world's believing him. The falsehood of the tongue leads to that of the heart, and in time depraves all its good dispositions." Persons holding positions in newspapers as well as government would do well to be guided by Jefferson's observation.

Two questions

To the Editor:

Two questions for the editor:
1. What is the difference between a volunteer and someone who is getting paid?
2. If the editor of this paper had to find 89 volunteer writers before he could publish, how long would we wait for the first edition?
