Y. M. C. A. NOMINATIONS COMMITTEE REPORTS

Election of New Officers Will be Held on Evening of April 1

The "Y" Cabinet has received this week the report of the Nominations Committee, recently appointed by President Hall. The report of the committee bears the following names:

For President—
R. J. Peeler
J. M. Currie
J. P. Shaw
F. L. Tarleton

Vice-President to be elected from the remaining three after election of President.

For Secretary—
R. L. Browning
G. D. Humphrey
F. E. Plummer
J. E. Tiddy

For Treasurer—
W. D. Russel
H. M. Weeden
H. H. Diggs
H. K. Platt

The members of the Nominating Committee were: H. M. Bremer (chairman), S. R. Wallis, S. E. Hoyt, C. R. Hoey, E. L. Cloyd (ex officio), C. R. Hall, W. N. Hicks, E. S. King.

R. J. Peeler is a student in the Vocational Education Department. In his first year at College he was President of the Freshman Friendship Council. Since then he has been a Bible Study leader and active in all phases of the work of the Association.

J. M. Currie came from Davidson to State College and has ever since identified himself with the work of the "Y." He has been a Bible Study leader and is the President of the State College Sunday School Class at the First Presbyterian Church in Raleigh. Currie is a member of Sigma Pi Fraternity, and is a student in the Textile Department.

J. P. Shaw is registered in the Vocational Education Department. He has shown an active interest in "Y" work since he came to College. Shaw has been a Bible Study leader and very consistent in his work with the Association. He is a member of the present Cabinet and represented the Association at the Indianapolis Convention.

F. L. Tarleton is an electrical student. Since his first year he has taken an active part in the "Y" work on the campus. He has been a Bible Study leader, and also active in other phases. Tarleton is a member of the Glee Club and plays in the College Band.

All the men nominated for the offices of Secretary and Treasurer are Sophomores who stand out among their classmates and who in the past two years have shown a very active interest in the work of the Association. The men nominated are all interested, and all have been honored in some way by their classmates, either being officers of the class, of Student Government, or in some of the other student activities.

The election of the new officers will be held on the evening of April 1st. All State College men are members of the local "Y," and if they are members of some evangelical church they will be allowed to vote in this election. This is the only restriction put upon voters, and is a rule not made locally, but by the national Association. To retain connection with the national body, the local "Y" must observe this ruling.

Students at Clemson College, S. C., recently struck for more and better food, a matron for the dining room, and reinstatement of half the student body who walked out a week before.

State College Professor Distinguished As Writer

Prof. Hinkle, Head of Modern Language Department, Has Article in "Hispania"

Professor L. E. Hinkle, head of the Modern Language Department here at State College, has recently been honored by having an article written by him printed in one of the leading Spanish magazines of the United States.

This article, entitled, "Some Things We Owe to Spain," was printed in the February number of the "Hispania." Professor Hinkle has received very favorable comment from professors of modern language all over the country on this article.

The Hispania magazine, the leading magazine in the United States devoted to the study of Spanish language and literature, is published at Leland-Stanford University under the editorship of Professor Aurelio M. Esponosa. Professor Esponosa himself has sent Professor Hinkle his most hearty congratulations on the success of the article and the fine comment that has been sent in to the home office concerning the article from other colleges and universities.

The Bureau Pro-Espania, upon reading the article in the Hispania, wrote immediately for permission from Professor Hinkle to rewrite it in pamphlet form for distribution among the schools and colleges as "An additional incentive to the study of Spanish language and literature."

Some of the magazines containing the article will be placed in the College Library in order to give all who are interested a chance to read it.

Several weeks ago there appeared a long article in the Technician written by Professor Hinkle, entitled "The Languages in Technical Education." This article is to be printed in the Journal of Engineering Education very soon. This article has received very favorable comment from the editor of the magazine in which it is to be published.

Dr. Kaupp Is Member Of International Body

Appointed on Committee to Arrange for World Poultry Show in Canada

Dr. B. F. Kaupp, head of the poultry department at State College, has been appointed on the committee to arrange and plan the Third World's Poultry Congress to be held at Ottawa, Canada, in May, 1927. Dr. Kaupp is president of the American Association of Poultry Instructors and Investigators and is also a member of the International Poultry Council. His appointment on the committee that will be responsible for the next great world's poultry gathering was made by Dr. Edward Brown, of London, president of the international body.

Dr. Kaupp was informed by letter yesterday of his appointment. Dr. Brown stated that the appointment was made on the recommendation of the Canadian Minister of Agriculture who wanted Dr. Kaupp to help in planning the congress.

In accepting the position, Dr. Kaupp stated that it would be necessary for him to go to Canada several times before the meeting was held in 1927.

Harvard Freshman Discussion Club voted overwhelmingly not to abolish hazing. To do so, it was felt, would kill the unity of the entering class and cause indifference and lack of spirit.

J. Stitt Wilson Will Visit N. C. State Mar. 23-26

Hon. J. Stitt Wilson, formerly mayor of Berkeley, California, and one of the most effective speakers who has visited State College in recent years, is coming for a return engagement, March 23 to 26, inclusive.

The general theme of Mr. Wilson's addresses is "The Failure of Modern Education, A Constructive Criticism."

Mr. Wilson will speak to the faculty at a dinner in the Y. M. C. A., Monday, the 23d at 6:45 p. m. Tuesday at 10 o'clock he will address the College Assembly. The program for Tuesday night has not yet been fixed. Mr. Wilson will speak in Pullen Hall Wednesday at 6:45, and give his closing address in the same hall Thursday night at this hour.

J. STITT WILSON

The addresses delivered by Mr. Wilson in November, 1923, were very favorably received. The following are a few of the comments made about them by State College and Raleigh people:

An alumnus who entered State College in 1910 writes: "We have never had at State College, since I have known anything about it, a more valuable series of addresses."

A faculty man says: "Mr. J. Stitt Wilson . . . brought to us one of the most significant messages which can be brought to the attention of school interests."

A business man states: "I take pleasure in stating that I enjoyed hearing Mr. Wilson very much indeed and am sorry that I could not have had the pleasure of hearing all his lectures."

One of the leading pastors of the city comments as follows: "In my opinion, Mr. Wilson is making a real contribution to America and to the world through this series of addresses which he is delivering to the student bodies of the country." "I am glad to give voice to my belief that the Y. M. C. A. has rendered a distinct service by bringing Mr. Wilson to State College and to Raleigh."

Another professor gives his estimate of Mr. Wilson in no uncertain manner: "I think Mr. J. Stitt Wilson's performance on this campus was by all odds the best thing that has been brought to the campus since I have been here. He spends no time whatsoever in theological discussions. He understands the business organization of the world. He is thoroughly cognizant with the tenets of science and is abreast the times in every way. He apparently has a passion for justice and rightness and certainly has a unique way of presenting his ideas and convictions. I hope this is not his last visit to State College."

The Y. M. C. A. asks the cooperation of the faculty and student body and all connected with the college in making Mr. Wilson's second visit even a greater success than was the first visit.

CROSS-COUNTRY TEAM TO GET MONOGRAMS

Basketball Monograms Will Be Awarded Soon

Cross-Country Monograms to be Awarded; Mr. Miller's Recommendations Accepted

FRESHMAN NUMERALS, TOO

At a short meeting of the Faculty Athletic Council Wednesday at noon Mr. Miller's recommendations as to the awarding of monograms for Varsity Basketball, Freshman Basketball, and Cross-Country were voted upon and accepted. His recommendations follow:

For Varsity Basketball: Letters—H. Brown, G. Gresham, H. Watkins, and Manager A. T. Slate. Stars—R. Johnson, H. Duls, F. Dickens, and C. Correll.

For Freshman Basketball: Numerals—Spence, Shirley, Williams, White, Bremer, Crum, Ridgour, Edwards, and Brimley.

For Cross-Country: Letters—Wright, Robinson, Sherman, Browning, and Vick. Numeral—Brimley.

Mr. Miller set a precedent when he recommended that Brimley be awarded a numeral for his outstanding work in Freshman Cross-Country, it being the first time that a first-year man has been awarded a numeral in a minor sport at State College. However, it is only just, states Mr. Miller, for a man who took first place in every meet he entered to be rewarded as much as a man who plays on either the football or basketball team. The long delay in awarding these cross-country monograms was due, according to Mr. Miller, to a delay in the coach's recommendation reaching him.

N. C. C. W. ELECTS COMING OFFICERS

We receive news from N. C. C. W. that they have had their Spring elections, and we feel sure some of the State men will be interested to know the outcome:

Student Government officers: President, Miss Kate Hall, of Asheville; vice president, Miss Katherine Sherrill, of Charlotte; secretary, Miss Glen Yarborough, of Cary; treasurer, Miss Ernestine Welton, of Portsmouth, Va. Y. W. C. A.: President, Miss Brooks Johnson, of Portsmouth, Va.

Athletic Association: President, Miss Emily Cate, of Columbia, S. C. "Pine Needles," college annual: Editor-in-chief, Miss Bertie Craig, of Winston-Salem.

"The Carolinian," the college paper: Editor-in-chief, Miss Eleanor Vanne-man, of Greensboro.

Chief marshal, Miss Nellie Irvin, of Greensboro.

Concert Band Organizes

At the regular weekly meeting on Thursday of last week the concert band of State College organized and elected officers for the year. Those elected were: President, L. S. Pridden; secretary, Al Davis; treasurer, Charlie Stone; manager, Tom McRae; reporter, E. G. Moore.

The Concert Band is made up of thirty-five picked men from the R. O. T. C. Band. Thirteen of these men are also members of the orchestra, six of them playing different instruments from those played in the band. Four members of the band are also members of the Glee Club, and two men belong to all three organizations.

At present the band has several probable dates under advisement, and the men are starting to work on a program for the Spring trips.

Under the direction of "Daddy" Price, the musical talent at State College this year is being developed far beyond that of any previous year.

Failure To Award Them In Past Causes Criticism

Director Miller Gives Reasons Why Monograms Has Not Been Awarded

REQUIREMENTS AND SIZE

Ever since the cross-country team staged its last meet last fall there has been a great deal of talk and writing about the awarding of monograms to these men. Athletic Director Miller promised these men monograms before the season started. These monograms are to be awarded now as stated in another article in this issue.

When the present athletic staff came to State last fall they found absolutely no record of requirements for monograms, and of the kind and size of monograms and sweaters to be awarded. Mr. Miller thought that something definite should be decided upon in regard to these things. He wrote to a number of colleges to find out what their requirements were for a man to win a monogram and what they gave him when he fulfilled these requirements. He did not receive satisfactory answers to all these letters until a few weeks ago. Then he drew up a set of requirements for

STATE SOPHOMORES ARE ENTERTAINED BY MEREDITH SOPHOMORES

An observer on the Capitol Square Saturday evening, March 14, would have noticed great numbers of State College men moving intently toward that section of the city where the State students are wont to 'check' the Governor's Mansion. The occasion was an entertainment by the Meredith Class of '27 in honor of the State Class of '27.

Every moment of the two hours was filled with the kind of entertainment that entertains, consisting of comic duets, dancing, songs, and an Oriental magician; also, a varied assortment of refreshments, ranging from peanuts and punch to ice cream and cake.

President Harritt of the State Sophomores, made a short speech of appreciation on behalf of the boys, in which he wished to say more but his heart was too full for words. The only sad event of the occasion was when the girls ended one of their otherwise perfectly good songs with a sad and long-drawn-out "Good night." All men of the Class of '27 who missed this reception have the sympathy of those who attended. R. R. F.

The Glee Club Plans For Extended Tours

Hamlet on 25th, Rockingham on 26th, and Smithfield on 3d of April; Others Pending

The State College Glee Club and Orchestra are getting things lined up for a week's tour and several one-night engagements. The week's tour, it is planned, will take place during the week beginning March 23. For this tour, Hamlet for the 25th and Rockingham for the 26th have already been scheduled, and correspondence with Mt. Gilead, Pinehurst and Sanford, and other places, has already begun, in an effort to fill out the other two or three nights.

After the return from the tour, the club plans several one-night trips to places near Raleigh. Smithfield has already been signed up for such an engagement for April 3. It is also possible that the club will appear again in Raleigh before the season is over.

Was Friday the thirteenth lucky or unlucky for you?

We are on our last lap. Now is the time to do some sprinting.

Nominations have been made for the Y. M. C. A. offices. It is up to every eligible man to vote in this election and help select the men who are best suited for these positions.

How many of you have heard the question, "When do we take off our caps?" It seems that the caps are beginning to bear down rather heavily on the heads of our Freshmen.

Now that exams are over, it is time for the cigars and refreshments. The Juniors are anxious now to get themselves jobs, but wait until they have had them awhile.

We want to congratulate the Rifle Team on the fine showing that they are making. They are leading the Fourth Corps Area. There is a wonderful chance of them winning the match and along with it the Silver Trophy offered to the winner.

The State Sophomores were guests of the Meredith Sophomores last Saturday night. This is an annual affair and is looked forward to by the State Sophomore Class. The present Seniors remember yet the fine time they had when they were entertained by the Meredith Sophomores.

Last week there appeared an article in the paper written by a member of the Senior Class regarding caps and gowns for commencement this year. It is hoped there will be some articles this week discussing the question. The Senior Class is to have a meeting next week, and this matter will doubtlessly be brought up. It would be much better, however, if the suggestion were thought of some before going to the class meeting.

The student body is anxiously awaiting the final decision regarding the ineligibility of Dutch Holland and Red Johnson. This will make a bad gap in the baseball team and one that will be hard to fill. Dutch hasn't found out yet how far he is going to be able to hit them this year if allowed to play. Both of these men were important factors in the winning of the South Atlantic Championship last year. Boys, we truly hope you can play, because we need you and want to see you play.

Do You Want Your Article Printed?

Since the installation of the Journalism Department, The Technician Staff has been brought face-to-face with the problem of eliminating articles for various issues. At times there are many more news articles turned in than can possibly be published; consequently, this necessitates an elimination of the undesirable ones.

If the contributors will take into consideration the following suggestions, I am sure their articles will have a better chance of weathering the copyreader's critical eye:

1. Have the article typewritten, double-spaced.
2. Be careful in punctuation and spelling.
3. Don't elaborate too much; give the facts conservatively.
4. Turn in your article by Wednesday morning.

JOE W. JOHNSON,
Managing Editor.

selves the following questions about them: Is the man popular with the Student body? Is the man a good mixer? Has the man a good scholastic record? In a crisis, would the man be level-headed enough to know what to do? Does the man command the respect, and will he continue to command the respect, of all the men? Last of all, ask yourself the question, IS THE MAN BIG ENOUGH FOR THE PLACE?

Don't forget that the winner of the Norris Athletic Trophy is to be decided at the Student Government election. Don't take someone else's word about the three men who are up, but decide for yourself.

Student Forum

Advertising Religion

In last week's Technician there appeared a small advertisement near the bottom of the editorial page which gave the subject to be discussed by the Sunday school teacher, the hour, and the church where the discussion would take place. This is the first advertisement The Technician has received concerning religion. Those who are behind such a movement are certainly putting religion on a business-like basis.

The time has come when religion must compete with the moving picture show, the popular lecturer, the morning spin to the country club, and other forms of diversion that are far more interesting to people than the present-day methods of teaching religion. With this problem facing the religious people, what must they do to solve it? Are they to sit back and say the world is going to the devil, and let it go at that? I say, no! People are human. If they enjoy an automobile ride along a picturesque country road on Sunday morning more than they do a dry, prolonged discourse on Adam and Eve, human nature is so constituted that they will take the ride. I would, myself.

Then the question arises: "How may people be made to take an interest in religion?" It can be remedied only by the popularizing, if you please, of religion. This may be done by having interesting, instructive, and logical discussions of present-day problems; and not problems that faced the ancients and could not be applied to our complicated society if we would exert our utmost efforts to make them applicable.

When religious organizations recognize the fundamental truths of biology, sociology, and the other sciences and adjust their teachings to them, then people—and especially college-trained men and women—will become more interested in religion and go to church rather than to the various places of diversion.

It is human nature to want to be affiliated with some religious organization, where one may go and worship his God, associate with Christians, and be in an atmosphere of fellowship among men. Folks who stay away from church on Sunday mornings would gladly support it with their money and attendance if the dogmas were eliminated, so that every person could become the other's true friend. There is nothing more satisfying to a person than to know that his Christian friends will stand by him in trouble. Such friendship is true of

A Challenge to State College Men

Now that examinations are over, it seems to be an opportune time to bring before the student body a new problem, which has lately made its appearance here.

This is a question which every thinking man must devote some thought to, for future generations will likely be affected. It concerns our whole State and especially those men who expect to become engineers and agriculturists. Not only are our students debating this momentous question, but rumor has it that faculty members have recently held heated discussions about it.

Some of the faculty members of the School of Agriculture have decided to bring this matter before the student body in open debate and have worded the question as follows: "Resolved, That the Legislature of North Carolina should enact a law prohibiting large Didelphis virginiana from climbing small trees." It is evident that these animals do untold damage to our forests each year by climbing small trees; so the debate should be of interest to every taxpayer of the State.

Among the faculty members who will take part in the debate are: Dr. Z. P. Metcalf, Dr. B. W. Wells, Prof. R. H. Ruffner, Prof. D. S. Weaver, Prof. David Gray, and Prof. W. L. Clevinger. Each of these men has made a careful study of the topic and is well prepared to present his views; then, too, each of these men holds a B. S. degree.

The debate will be held on March 31 at 6:30 p. m. in Patterson Hall, under the auspices of the Agricultural Club. President Brown urges every member of the club to be present and extends an invitation to all who are interested to attend.

Fellows, the only way to settle questions of this nature is by free and open discussion; therefore, I call upon every loyal State College man to see that this matter receives full publicity and that justice is finally dealt out.

E. G. MOORE, '26.

Cross Country Team To Get Monograms

(Continued from page 1.) Monograms in all sports, and for size and kind of sweaters and monograms and sent them to the Faculty Athletic Council to be approved. The council passed upon these requirements only a short while before the end of the wrestling season. Mr. Miller, then, intended to send the recommendation for cross-country monograms in with that for wrestlers. But the coach did not have the recommendation in on time, so it had to wait until a later date. The reason, as stated by Mr. Miller, why the recommendation for cross-country monograms was not sent in with that for football is that this is the first year that monograms have been awarded in this sport, and he wanted to get everything that he could started under the new system.

MEREDITH NEWS

By LEONE WARRICK

Saturday evening at 8:30 o'clock the Freshman Class entertained their big sisters with a dinner in the college dining room. Louie Gordon, president of the Freshman Class, gave a toast to the Juniors, and Mary O'Kelley, Junior president, replied with a toast to the Freshmen. During the evening, toasts were given to St. Patrick, the Dean of Women, and Miss Welch. The dinner consisted of three courses and was served by several members of the Freshman Class who were dressed in white and wore green aprons in the shape of a shamrock. The Freshman president was presented with a lovely corsage of sweet peas by the Junior Class, and another equally lovely by the members of her own class.

Besides the two classes there were present Miss Covington, Miss Carroll, and Miss Welch. Miss Covington replied to the toast to the Deans with a charming tribute to the classes of '26 and '28. Following the toast given to her, Miss Welch told three amusing Irish stories.

This is conceded by all to be a most unusual achievement in the way of entertaining on the part of a freshman class, and the dinner was thoroughly enjoyed by every one who attended it.

At the same hour as the above-mentioned dinner the Sophomore Class entertained their brother class from State College in the chapel. There were three booths around the room decorated in the colors of St. Patrick, State College, and the two classes, respectively. In one of these was served punch and in the other two lollypops, peanuts and chewing gum were dispensed. During the evening the visitors were entertained by a Monsieur Beaucaire Minuet given by Rachel Daniel and Mary Crawford. Later a little musical comedy was enacted by Rachel Daniel, Mary Love Davis, and Ernestine Whittley. Clarissa Poteat, the famous magician of the unpronounceable name, then answered questions handed to her from the audience, amazing everybody by her marvelous powers of clairvoyance and mind-reading. After this, refreshments were served which consisted of ice cream and cake, carrying out the color scheme of black and gold, the colors of both classes.

The Meredith Sophomores greatly enjoyed the occasion, making many new acquaintances among their neighbors at State. It is to be hoped that the boys also spent a delightful evening. The Meredith Sophs wish to express their appreciation to Tom Harrell and Charles Austell, who remained after the party to help put the chapel seats back in place.

Monday night the class of '27 met to elect their president for the coming year. From the three nominations—Odessa Arnette, Maude Bowers, and Geneva Benthall—Odessa Arnette was elected. The class is to be congratulated on its wise choice.

It has been announced that a party is to be given Saturday, March 21, at 7:30 p. m. at Pullen Memorial Church. All the members of the Sunday school are invited, and all the members from Meredith are planning to be present.

The social affairs at Pullen have always proved doubly worth attending.

Copies of the following invitation, hand-somely engraved, have been issued:

"Miss Annie Elkins invites you to be present at her graduating recital Monday afternoon, the 23d of March, 1925, Meredith College, Raleigh, North Carolina. Piano, 5 p. m."

Every calendar at Meredith College has a red mark around the date March 27, for spring holidays begin at that time, or after classes on the 26th. The campus will be almost deserted for a week, the students returning on April 2d. We extend our sympathy to those who must continue work while we are enjoying a much-needed rest.

N. C. State College Quartette Pleases Raleigh Audiences

"Foolish Four" Sing for Civic Organizations; Have Regular Schedule of Church Services

The State College Quartette, familiarly known as the "Foolish Four," has recently had the opportunity of appearing before several Raleigh audiences, in the form of the civic clubs of the city, and the church-goers.

The quartette, about a month ago, arranged a schedule with the churches of the city, whereby it visits a different church every Sunday, until the entire group of the larger churches has been visited.

In the midst of this arrangement it has had the opportunity of singing at the banquets of three of the civic clubs of Raleigh, the Lions, the Kiwanis Club, and the Civitans, and it was only the difficulty of arranging schedules that prevented it from appearing before others.

The quartette is a part of the Glee Club, and has several numbers on its program. It is composed of E. C. ("Early") Smith, first tenor; W. F. ("Willibur") Tew, second tenor; R. E. ("Railroad") Fountain, first bass, and C. E. ("Charlie") Glenn, second bass.

H. M. RAY WINS PEACE ORATORICAL CONTEST

Before a small but appreciative and enthusiastic audience, the local Peace Oratorical Contest was held in Leazar Society Hall on Friday, March 6, at 7:30 p. m. An unexpected counter-attraction, booked only a day before the time for the contest, undoubtedly kept many students from attending who would otherwise have been present.

The winner of the contest was H. M. Ray, a Junior in the School of Engineering. His oration was entitled "Who Profits by War?" It was a strong indictment of those selfish interests which desire war and which make money and glory out of international strife. Mr. Ray was the winner of the 1924 inter-society declamation contest. He has been much interested in dramatics and in the activity of Leazar Literary Society, of which he is now vice president. He should make a strong representative for the college in the State Peace Contest, scheduled for some time in April.

H. W. Taylor, a Junior, member of Pullen Literary Society, was chosen alternate. His oration is on the subject "The Germany of 1925" and points out that America's isolation is the chief obstacle to world peace. He urges active membership in the League of Nations, thereby ceasing to be the Germany of the present time.

Frank Seymour, whose speech was entitled "The Path to Peace," contended that the United States and Great Britain should unite to establish international amity.

E. W. Bridges, speaking on the theme "The United States and the League of Nations," presented a strong plea for our country to join the League as a means of insuring peace.

First Stude: "Your overcoat is rather loud."
Second Stude: "It's all right when I put on a muffler."

She: "How did you become such a wonderful orator?"
He: "I began by addressing envelopes."

He's sick.

No, in the stomach.

SPORT COMMENT

We are endeavoring in this column to give the gist of Campus opinion about sports. Because of man's inherent narrow-mindedness and conceit it is most probably our own personal opinion that we're actually giving. We hope not.

THE SPORT EDITOR.

"ZIPPY MACK" HAS TAKEN up his exalted position beside "Ditty" Ray on the eternal heights of glory. He has written a sequel to "Ditty's" fighting stanza. We're not a good critic of music so we can't vouch for their relative qualities, but, feeling a bit sentimental and as magnanimous as usual, we are inclined toward the poetical ourselves. We take the liberty to present a couple of lines we have borrowed from "Zippy" or one of the other masters.

"Hail to thee, blithe Spirit,
Bard thou ever wert."

And so on.

Yes, we're talking about you, "Zippy," and we hail you, "The Campus Bard."

THE CRACK OF THE WILLOW on the horsehide, among other things, also reminds us of the lines about the young man's fancy in the spring, and that reminds us of the scientific version of that, which runs something like this:

"In the spring the chief activating gland of the kinetic system, the thyroid, shows a distinct enlargement."

---N.C.S---

PERHAPS THAT ACCOUNTS for the results of the two baseball games the Varsity has opened up with. Of course, Freshmen are not supposed to have any (of anything, for that matter), but if that is the reason, what of the thyroid glands of the Mills Tire Co. boys?

State Wins From Mills Tire Company

In First Game of Season State's Nine Again Proves That It Knows Baseball

Down on Riddick Field last Saturday, State's nine, with many new men in the line-up, proved their superiority over the Mills Tire Company team, winning from them by a score of 15 to 3.

From the looks of things in general and the game Saturday, knowing that "Dutch" and "Red" cannot play, the prospects for this year are about as follows:

"Legs" Faulkner will probably handle the receiving, with assistance, at times, from "Whitey" Smith and Walter Shuford. All three are letter men. Finding a regular catcher should not be especially difficult, although Johnson's timely hitting will be missed.

Bolstering up the inner defense is an entirely different proposition. At present Coach Doak is experimenting with Johnny Gilbert, last year's shortstop, at third base, Al Johnston, an outfielder, at short, and W. B. Faulkner, a Sophomore who has had no previous college experience, at second base. Captain "Red" Lassiter, of course, is a fixture at first base. The combination offers real possibilities.

Then, there's "Rat" Austin, who played third on last year's Freshman team, and Johnny Matheson, yearling shortstop. Both youngsters look good, and with the infield all shot to pieces either has a fine chance to break in.

Tommy Harrill, another left-handed first-sacker from last year's Freshman team, will understudy Captain Lassiter. The youngster can hit, and he is learning how to shift his dogs around the cushion. He will be a regular by another season.

With Bob Correll and Charlie Shuford back, the Tech outfield looks strong. Al Johnston played right field last season. If he is moved to the infield, it is probable that Walter Shuford will step into the vacancy. "Croaker" Wade, a husky squad man, who has a hankering to pitch, a sweet hitter, may also be called upon for outfield duty, and exactly the same statement applies to "Dixie" Davis.

There are about a dozen other fly chasers anxious for a regular job.

The game Saturday was very comical throughout. Watson, pitcher for the Mills Tire team, and Arthur, first baseman on the same outfit, being especially qualified, played aerial ball of a very high type.

Those playing Saturday for State: Johnson, Correll, C. Shuford, Lassiter, Holland, Wade, Faulkner, Matheson, McIver, Gilbert, Gladstone, W. Shuford, Morrison, Davis, Austin, Harrell, and Taet.

For Mills Tire Company: Graham, Lazard, Parks, Davis, Henderson, Riddle, Arthur, Ball, Blanchard, and Watson.

THREE PRIZES FOR STUDENT WORKERS

The Nation wants to encourage American college men and women to see capital and labor as they meet in the mills and mines, not as text book abstractions. To encourage this direct understanding, The Nation offers three prizes to university and college students who spend the summer of 1925 at work in some industrial or agricultural occupation. For the best account of experiences in the field of labor and interpretation of the industrial situation involved The Nation will pay a prize of $125. The second prize will be $75, and the third (through the generosity of Jerome Davis), $50.00.

The judges will be: Mr. Jerome Davis, of the Yale Divinity School, Yale University; Mr. William H. Johnston, president of the International Association of Machinists; Mrs. Florence Kelley, general secretary of the National Consumers' League; Mr. Pierrepont B. Noyes, president, The Oneida Community, Ltd.; Mr. Oswald Garrison Villard, editor of The Nation.

Please read the following conditions carefully:

1. The contest is open to graduate and undergraduate students, men and women, who continue their studies in the Fall of 1925.

2. Contestants must have worked for at least two months in the Summer of 1925 in some industrial or agricultural pursuit as regular laborers.

3. It is suggested that each manuscript be a record of the experiences of the contestant together with his personal interpretation of the industrial situation that confronted him.

4. Manuscripts must be typewritten and not over 4,000 words in length. The Nation reserves the right to cut any manuscript printed. The manuscript winning first prize will be published in The Nation, which reserves the right to print the others if desired.

5. The name, class and college of the contestant must be written in the upper right hand corner of the manuscript together with the name and address of the concern or concerns in which the applicant worked and the time during which he or she was employed. Here also should appear the name of a member of the faculty of the contestant's school who vouches for his or her eligibility.

6. Manuscripts must be submitted not later than October 15, 1925. Winners will be announced and prizes awarded in December, 1925.

7. Contestants need not be Nation subscribers.

English Prof.---I say, motion-pictures is a hyphenated word.

Frosh.---Well, Professor, I can't see any reason for that.

E. P.---Did you ever see the motion without the pictures?

Fros.---Professor, that depends on what kind of a show one attends!

Mother: But, daughter, I object to these one-piece bathing suits.

Daughter: But, mother, I ought to wear something.

He: Do you like candy?
She: Oh, yes.

He: Thanks; I'm gathering statistics for Whitman's.

Bald-headed: Well, sonny, what is it that amuses you?

Son: Nothing, but mother put a comb and brush in your room.

?? MYSTERY ??

State College appears to be getting in better focus with the public eye than ever before. We are finding so many unique ways to advertise our college. It certainly pays to advertise. Any modern flapper can assure you of that.

We advertise, as do all schools, through our athletics. This is a very old and approved method of advertisement, provided a school puts out good teams. While we are not the best in the world, we are certainly not at the bottom, by any means.

Another form of advertising is the finished product which we turn out to represent our college in the various walks of business. State graduates rank high in the business circles; both of this State and other States. Our judging teams and debating teams add another important cog to our machinery of advertising. But it is the unusual that catches the public eye now, and in order that advertising may be effective, it must hit the public so they will take note of it.

First, we discovered that novel means of training our entire student body for track: the running broad jump, mound-scaling, etc. Then they placed across the numerous chasms narrow pieces of timber. These were used as substitutes for tight ropes, and tended to develop self-confidence and ability in balancing oneself while maneuvering through a tight place. During this period, the military department let slip a fine chance to advertise themselves as instructors in trench warfare.

The anti-checking law was next in graduation he was commissioned a second lieutenant in the cavalry.

Colonel Gregory has seen service in all parts of the world. He participated in the Philippine insurrection, the Spanish-American war, the punitive expedition into Mexico, and finally the World War. In the latter he took part in four major operations and two major defensive sectors. He was wounded at Montfaucon, France, and after the armistice was signed served upon the shoulders of the men who are specializing in Dairy Husbandry to see that this is done."

The fact that North Carolina stands this near the bottom gives us a doubly hard task to perform.

He—When you told your father that I did not smoke, drink or gamble, what did he say?

She—He said he did not want me to marry a perfect man, but that you were such an accomplished liar he guessed you would do.

"Believe me she'd make some chorus girl."

"How's that?"

"She's got the three qualifications."

"What are they?"

"Well, a good voice is one of them."

THE JACKASS

A woman candidate for political office was making her maiden speech before a mixed audience.

"We don't want any woman in office," shouted a heckler.

"What do you know about government?"

"Quite a lot," answered the candidate.

"But you don't know how many teeth a jackass has," was the retort.

"Come up here and I'll count them," was the gentle reply.

Feeding the Dairy Cow

"Perhaps the greatest drawback to the dairy industry is the fact that the dairy cows in the South are suffering from a lack of sufficient roughage."

Experienced dairymen will know that the ideal condition for a dairy cow is an abundance of sunshine, plenty of fresh air, all the water she can drink, and a stall that is comfortable in which she may rest.

A cow needs a little feeding of grain each day. There is no pasture in this section that will grow a well-bred animal without a small amount of grain each day. If there is any one thing lacking in a feed, the best way to make it up is by the feeding of a number of different feeds.

In closing, the speaker called the attention of the class to the fact that there were thirty states in the Union that had more Holstein-Friesian cows than any other breed.

"When a man chooses dairying as a life work, the greatest problem that presents itself is the choice of feeds and the proper feeding of them so as to obtain the greatest returns per dollar invested," said Mr. Stanley Combs, Field Agent for the Holstein-Friesian Association, in an address to the animal-breeding class Wednesday morning.

The average production of dairy cows in the State of North Carolina is 2,500 pounds of milk per cow each year, which is considerably below the average for the United States as a whole. "I believe this figure can be doubled," said the speaker, "and it is

THEATRICALS

FORMER COLLEGE STARS IN NEW JOHNSON FILM

Two former college baseball stars, motion picture father and son, play the roles of big league pitchers in their respective generations in Emory Johnson's sixth big F. B. O. production, entitled "Life's Greatest Game." They are Johnnie Walker and Tom Santschi, who take the parts of Jack Donovan, junior and senior.

Johnnie Walker is a New York boy, born and bred, and he learned the game on the sand lots in and about the big city. Most of his early life was spent with a ball and glove, and from the time he was a youngster in knee pants he loved baseball. One of the most regular attendants at major league ball games when he is in the East is this same "America's most famous son." He played ball at Fordham College.

Tom Santschi was brought up in the vicinity of Chicago, and played his first baseball within sound of the roar of Lake Michigan. He went to high school there, and strangely enough was for a time a pitcher, the role which he plays in the Johnson opus. But soon he was transferred to the outfield, where his hitting attracted no little notice in local school circles.

Mr. Santschi then went to Purdue, where he pastimed for the college nine, largely in the outfield, but occasionally trying his hand again at work on the pitcher's mound.

In "Life's Greatest Game" Tom Santschi takes a part, therefore, for which he is eminently fitted, both in athletic prowess and in temperament.

Both he and Johnnie Walker love the game which they played in their youths, and each admits that he never was cast in a role which so appealed to him.

NEW HIGHWAY TO PASS STATE COLLEGE CAMPUS

The ancient adage that all roads lead to Rome, could now be, with all propriety, modified to read that all roads lead to State College. This is becoming each day a more evident fact. In addition to the State highway, numerous railroad lines, and other minor roads and car lines that pass it, the college is to have a new highway bounding it on the south.

This highway is in reality a branch of the present Raleigh-Durham State highway. There are two possible entrances into Raleigh. First the Morgan street entrance, passing over the new overpass in front of the State Institute for the Blind, coursing on, south of Pullen Park.

Second, the Boylan Heights entrance coursing back of the State Penitentiary and south of Pullen Park. At present it is debatable as to which of these routes is most feasible. However, one of them will be chosen eventually.

From Pullen Park the road runs nearly in a westerly direction, back of the State College pistol range, over the present State College farm road. The probable closest point of contact with State College campus is in the rear of the college barns, where the road runs approximately four hundred feet from Rocky Branch. Still following the college road on top of the hill, south of the college barns, it shoots in a straight line, passing about three-quarters of a mile south of Method to Charlie's Filling Station, thereby eliminating a very dangerous grade crossing in that locality that must be crossed in approaching Raleigh by the old route.

The approximate length of this project from Pullen Park to where it ties in with the present highway is three and one-half miles. The right-of-way will be cleared seventy feet in width. The roadway will be forty feet wide. The wearing surface will be constructed of top soil and gravel. This will serve the present needs. Eventually the road will be surfaced with cement or a bituminous material.

Their odaw as an idea incorporated in the plans made for beautifying State College. These plans were drawn up by Warren H. Manning, landscape architect, who is employed by State College to develop its campus esthetically. The road was sponsored by the Raleigh Chamber of Commerce. This body appointed a committee to work out this problem. On this committee was Dr. Brooks and Professor Wooten of State College, who have been both industrious and efficient in cooperating with the Chamber of Commerce of Raleigh in effecting the building of this new road. Professor Wooten is supervising the engineering part of the road's construction for the Chamber of Commerce. He ran the locating survey, although the preliminary survey was made by the State Highway.

He is also to see that the road meets the requirements listed in the standard specifications of the State Highway, and in all probability the road will be taken over as a part of the State highway system after it is completed.

The burden of cost of constructing this road will be borne by the city of Raleigh for that part of the road in the city limits, by State College for the part of the road that is on its property, and by Wake County for the remainder of the road. This cost, however, will be insignificant when compared with the economic improvement this road will effect. It will relieve the excessive traffic congestion that is prevalent on the present Hillsboro street route. It will save a distance of 2,000 feet from Capitol Square to a point where the new road ties in with the present highway. And finally it will improve and develop the property along the route, making it valuable real estate, which at present is nearly useless. Aside from the economic considerations this road will be an asset in other ways. For instance, it has been suggested that the space between the roadway and State College be utilized as a park. This park being a continuation of the present Pullen Park.

Then, too, persons using this road when on the summit of the hill south of State College will be enabled to get a wonderful panorama of State College. They will be able to see the whole campus in its true beauty, whereas at the present one is unable to do this from Hillsboro street. About fifty convicts are at work at present clearing the right-of-way. It will be only a short while before construction on the roadway will be begun in earnest.

College Course Really Basic, Says World Flier

Message of Lieutenant 'Smiling' Jack Harding to Youthful Aeronautical Enthusiasts

"A good college education is one of the best foundations that a young man interested in aviation and its allied fields can have," says Lieutenant "Smiling" Jack Harding, of the World Fliers.

It is interesting to note that Lieutenant Harding is a native of Tennessee, the son of an inventor and electrical engineer. His early leaning toward mechanics inspired a two-year course in engineering in Vanderbilt University, and later at the University of Tennessee. He enlisted in the air service as a buck private, trained at the Mechanics' Training School at St. Paul, and then won his flying spurs at Wilbur Wright Field at Dayton. He was rated as master signal electrician and aviation mechanic there. In 1919 he made one of the first Atlantic-Pacific flights.

His sunshiny disposition and genial good nature, in the face of all sorts of adversity, won for him the sobriquet of "Smiling Jack" among his companions on the epoch adventure of the age.

Mr. Harding believes that we are on the eve of a great era of air transportation. "For the young man who has had a standard course in Mechanical Engineering and a specialized course in Aeronautical Engineering, there are great possibilities in aviation and its allied fields," Mr. Harding declared.

Perhaps the path to success in this field may seem long and difficult travel for the average young man. However, a standard course in Mechanical Engineering not only prepares the youth to meet the many and complex problems of this industrial age in which we now live, but it also helps the young man "to find himself," as the immortal Woodrow Wilson said in his book, "When a Man Finds Himself."

"One can learn to fly in a month and a half or less," declares Lieutenant Harding. "For did not the English turn out flying men in eight hours flying time? It is admitted that flying experience will make the aeroplane designer more practical and the chief engineer more efficient. But flying is not all there is to the game. Just think what a great service that person can render humanity who discovers a way to increase visibility through fog, "the aviator's nightmare." Imagine what it will mean when aviation has reached the point when it will not only be the fastest and safest means of transportation, but also the most economical means of the best type of transportation!"

"Finally, let us not forget those who paid the supreme price that aviation might live. For aviation, like all branches of engineering, is 'The science of controlling the forces and utilizing the materials of Nature for the benefit of man.'"

Census of students at William and Mary College disclosed that more men bore the name of William than any other nomicker, and Mary was the most common name among the girls.

Romance Is Not Dead, Says Professor Sledd

Wake Forest Professor Deplores the Present Realistic Epoch in Literature

(From News and Observer.)

"Merely to mention the name of romance now is to put yourself beyond the pale of the elect," declared Dr. Benjamin Franklin Sledd, head of the Department of English of Wake Forest College, speaking last night in the Meredith College auditorium here, on the subject of the romantic period in literature.

"And yet romance is not really dead," continued Dr. Sledd. "Haven't we just had four years of financial romance in which we have been floating on bladders, as it were, in a sea of bondage. I feel that were we to have four more years of such financial romance in which we might cut down all the trees and concrete all the roads we will have committed almost the unpardonable sin."

"Why, we pour out our money in torrents on highways, and yet when a professor wants to say something on romance he cannot find a decent book on the subject in the English language."

Dr. Sledd traced the growth of the romantic movement, describing its different phases in France, Germany, and England. He deplored the present age of realism, branding Masters' "Spoon River Anthology" as "garlic" and speaking of Amy Lowell's "Ragweed" and Vachel Lindsay's "Ragtime."

"If the readers of modern literature really enjoy any of it, they can enjoy anything," stated Dr. Sledd.

Romance was characterized by the speaker as something that "sets your blood tingling and makes you forget that you are a married man."

Despite the present reign of realism in the literary world, Dr. Sledd declared that the world must be prepared for another awakening such as the Renaissance for the Romantic Movement.

"This old earth of ours is still a fertile place," he said. "It's not as old as we think it is."

The speech of Dr. Sledd featured the fifth of the joint meetings of the literature clubs of Meredith, St. Mary's, and State. The speaker was presented by Dr. Thomas P. Harrison, of State College.

A Word to the Wise

I loved two girls,
('Tis very sad, the story I relate)
One was the sweetest little blonde that ever had a date.
To see this girl at half past eight, I went each Friday night,
And there we'd sit in her porch swing
And talk by the bright moonlight.
I never spoke of love to her;
She wouldn't understand,
I just sat there and watched the moon
And squeezed her little hand.
One Friday night (it grieves me sore,
This part I tell to you,
She was so sweet, that little girl
With hair of golden hue.)
I tried to steal a kiss from her,
Oh, fatal impulse that—
She said goodnight with frigid mein
And handed me my hat.

The other girl was tall and dark
A gypsy type brunette,
I thought she was the sweetest girl
that I had ever met.

With her, instead of Friday night,
I had my date on Monday.
She always felt so good, she said,
After a rest on Sunday.
We sat and talked—she was always gay,

I loved her cheerful laughter,
But no advancements would I dare
Forever more thereafter;
For I had learned a lesson from
My sweetheart blonde of old—
I wouldn't give this girl a chance
To leave me in the cold.
One night we sat there by the fire
Talking of many things,
When a stifled yawn escaped her lips,
The yawn that ennuï brings—
"Here is your hat," she said to me,
"So sorry you must go,
You haven't tried to kiss me yet,
My, but you're awful slow."

A moral I would point, young man,
When with a maid you date—
Find out what kind of girl she is
Before it is too late.

Poultry Science Club Elects New Officers

Alexandria Wilson High School
Highly Praised by Prof.
Armstrong

The Poultry Science Club met Thursday night for the purpose of electing officers for the next term.

Before the election, Prof. W. F. Armstrong and Judge Carr gave very interesting talks.

Professor Armstrong told of his experiences, for the past few days, visiting agricultural high schools. He told of the lack of interest at a majority of the places. The farmers were backward in farming and also in asking questions. Poor ventilation of poultry houses and brooder houses was one objection he made of the farmers he visited. He also criticized some of the agriculture teachers of these schools for not helping the community more. He stressed the possibilities of an energetic agriculture teacher in the community.

It seems that he found one ideal agricultural community. This was the Alexandria Wilson High School. Every farmer there seemed to be interested in scientific agriculture. They were organized, and even the boys of the community had organized into a Poultry Club. The women, also, had agricultural organizations.

"Pullets as a Factor in Egg Production" was the subject of Judge Carr's talk. Before he could start on this, he had to add some to the praise of Alexandria Wilson High School. He gave the club some very accurate and valuable data on the different pens of chickens at the poultry plant. It showed that the pullets made a fair profit during the winter, but the old hens had a deficit comparable to Maxwell's.

After a small political campaign and the usual amount of hot air, which seems to be necessary, the following officers were elected:

President—C. F. Parrish.
Vice-President—C. P. Fishburn.
Sec. and Treas.—J. S. Moore.
Reporter—J. F. Bullock.

"Mother," cried little Mary, as she rushed into the farmhouse where they were visiting, "Johnny wants the Listerine. He has just caught the cutest little black and white animal and he thinks it's got halitosis."

THE FLAME THAT FIRES

COLLEGE athletic teams illustrate forcibly one truth—men achieve by inspiration. The bleachers' cry of "Hold 'em! Hold 'em!" has kept many a goal line uncrossed. "Touchdown! Touchdown!" has scored countless victories.

In an engineering organization like Westinghouse, this inspiration comes from engineering executives—men who correlate, organize, administer, and inspire. They are engineers first, but engineers with the power to enlist the best of other men.

Many derived their own first inspiration from the Founder, George Westinghouse himself. He took a contract for electrifying the New Haven Railroad, for example, before the apparatus had even been designed.

"Now I've dropped you into the middle of the pond," he told his engineers. "It's up to you to swim out."

There was plenty of swimming—but Westinghouse knew his swimmers.

As has been true since organization began, the demand for men who can develop into leaders is far, far short of the supply. Westinghouse welcomes them. All industry welcomes them. Organizations lead because men, in turn, lead them.

This advertisement is seventh in a vocational series, outlining the fields for engineering achievement in the Westinghouse organization. A copy of the entire series will be sent to anyone requesting it.
