WAKE FOREST WINS EASTER MONDAY GAME

Twelve Hard-Fought Innings
End With Demon Deacons
Leading 5 to 4

SORRELL'S PITCHING AN OUTSTANDING FEATURE

First One Team Ahead, Then the
Other; Hitting, Errors, and Good
Fielding All Mixed Together
in Heartbreaking Game

Last Monday afternoon on Riddick Field Wake Forest, after 12 innings of haggling, won the annual Easter Monday argument from State College by the score of 5 to 4. The game was replete with excitement and thrills, the advantage swaying back and forth between the two factions from the opening inning straight through the last of the twelfth. Holland's homer, Timberlake's tripple, Sorrell's pitching, State's fielding and base running were the features of a very feature-full game.

Sorrell's pitching was perhaps the outstanding feature of the whole game. He and his fast ball together were the deciding factors of the game. He stayed in 12 long gruelling innings, fanned 9 State sluggers, walked none, and won the game. Meanwhile State had to use three pitchers, trying Hill, Morrison, and McIver.

Wake Forest should have scored in the first frame, for the first three men up got safe hits. But Timberlake died at second trying to stretch his and Greason was caught asleep at first. Small died on base.

State Opens Scoring
State opened scoring in the third when Wake Forest's infield went to pieces. Hill was safe on Riley's error. Correll sacrificed him to second. He scored when Timberlake couldn't seem to get hold of Gladstone's hard-hit ball. Gladstone stole second and crossed the plate as Timberlake muffed Johnson's infield hit.

Wake Forest came back and tied the score in the fourth when Small, Armstrong, Simmons, and Matsinger all hit in succession. Hill shut down then and good fielding added to his pitching prevented further scoring. The Deacon's took the lead in the fifth when, with bases full and one down, Timberlake was forced out at home by Lassiter's fast-fielded bunt from Simmon's bat and Catcher Johnson's attempt to double Simmons at first. Simmons ran into Gladstone, who had come up to cover first, and he dropped the ball. Greason, who was on second, scored, placing Wake Forest ahead, 3-2.

In the seventh Greason doubled, took third on an infield out, and started fast for home on the squeeze-bunt play. However, Armstrong's bunt popped up and into Morrison's hands. Morrison tossed it to Holland at third for an easy double play. In the eighth Wake Forest again threatened but to no avail. Good fielding and sorry base-running left the score as it was.

Holland's Homer
In State's half of the ninth "Dutch" Holland took matters into his own hands, and, with two out and Gladstone on third, he leaned on the horse-

AG. ECONOMIC STUDENTS BACK FROM EASTERN TRIP

Dr. G. W. Forster, agricultural economist at State College, has just returned from an important trip made during the Easter holidays. He had with him seven students specializing in agricultural economics. Agricultural conditions in the New Bern area were investigated for the purpose of helping the farmers adjust the agriculture of that area, and to develop methods whereby farmers may make internal adjustments on their farms. The objective is to secure larger profits.

Those accompanying Dr. Forster were: Messrs. Sheffield, Kiser, Crisp, Eagles, Shaw, Palmer, Hill, and Prof. Saville.

Frosh Win Finally By Score Of 10 To 9

Come From Behind to Defeat
High Point College in a
Ragged Game

Overcoming a big lead in the closing innings, the State College freshmen defeated High Point College, 10 to 9, here yesterday afternoon in a free-hitting game marred by the erratic fielding of both teams. The High Point collegians scored seven runs in the fifth inning by hitting Bigger hard and taking advantage of loose play in the yearling infield. The wildness of Pitcher McDowell, who walked four men, coupled with a comedy of errors, gave the Freshmen three runs in the sixth, and they put the game away in the eighth by scoring three more on singles by Jack McDowell and Hennessee, and a double and a triple by Rowe and White.

Score by innings: R. H. E.
H. P. C. 000 270 000—9 11 10
State F. 102 013 03x—10 10 6
Batteries: McDowell, Hedrick and Wood; Bigger, Rowe and Baggett.

Unpaid Student Pledges Handicap "Y" Officers

The newly elected officers of the Y. M. C. A. find that they are very much handicapped because there is about $1,064 outstanding in student pledges which have not been paid. We shall appreciate it if those who have not made a settlement will either pay up in full or a part of the amount due as early as possible.

H. K. PLOTT,
Treasurer.

TAL STAFFORD WILL ATTEND CONFERENCE ALUMNI SECRETARIES

Tal Stafford, Alumni Secretary for the College, will attend the twelfth annual conference of the Association of Alumni Secretaries. This conference is to be held in Bethlehem, Pennsylvania, upon the invitation of Lehigh University, April 23-25.

The Blue Ridge Conference

Plans are being perfected for taking a representative delegation from N. C. State to the Blue Ridge Student Conference, which meets this year June 15-26. The Y. M. C. A. has practically no funds available for sending delegates but it is expected that the ing, tennis, and baseball are good for the "first dimension"—physicality." The classes and discussions groups on campus, industrial, racial, and world problems contribute to the growth of the "second dimension"—"understanding." The inspirational addresses of such men as John R. Mott, Robert E.

ROBERT E. LEE HALL
Y. M. C. A. Conference Grounds, Blue Ridge, Va.

churches in Raleigh and the home churches will help in this undertaking. The ten days spent at Blue Ridge are good for all three dimensions of a man, to use Stitt Wilson's terminology. The pure mountain air and water, the good food served at Blue Ridge, the boating, swimming, mountain climb-

Speer, and J. Stitt Wilson will tend to develop a man in the "third dimension"—increase his feeling of "moral responsibility for human welfare."

Any men who are interested in joining the delegation should talk it over with the president of the Y. M. C. A., J. M. Currie.

Dr. Brooks Absent On An Important Mission

Methods of Expending the Funds
Provided by Purnell Act
Being Considered

President E. C. Brooks will attend, on April 20 and 21, the meeting of the Land Grant Colleges at St. Louis, Missouri. The main business of this conference is to consider the ways and means of expending the funds provided Land Grant Colleges under the Purnell Act.

This act endows the Land Grant Colleges to the extent of $20,000 each for 1925, $30,000 for 1926, $40,000 for 1927, $50,000 for 1928, and $60,000 for 1929, and $60,000 annually to each college thereafter.

The object of this congressional legislation is to develop the economic phases of agriculture, such as studies in the economics of production, marketing, rural sociology, and home economics. The bill provides, however, that the money may be expended for other purposes than those stated in the foregoing.

It is to determine or formulate a wise program looking to the advancement of general agriculture, through the expenditure of this money, that this conference is called. Its results will have a very decided effect on the future of State College.

In addition to attending this conference, Dr. Brooks has several other stops on his schedule. His itinerary includes New Orleans, where he attended meetings of the American Manufacturers' Association, and Macon, Georgia, where he spoke twice before the Georgia Education Association.

Intramural Boxing Finals Monday Night

Kellum vs. Robinson Should be a Good Bout; Fighting For the 145-Pound Championship

Monday night in the Gym, Kellum and Robinson, the only two men left in the 145-pound class, will battle for the championship of the campus in that weight. There will be several other bouts in other weights, but the one championship match is the drawing card. Robinson and Kellum have each battered their way up through the preliminaries by means of their superior skill and punch and now the eyes of the campus are on them, expecting a good fight.

Preliminary fights in the 158- and 175-pound classes will be held at the same time. Some of these should prove interesting, to say the least. Several of the men entered are known to have some little ability and there's no way of telling about the others. The men entered are as follows:

158-pound class: W. E. Kendall, W. J. Boswell, and T. A. Grant.

175-pound class: T. T. Stanford, R. L. Fountain, W. A. Davis, Gheesling, and R. Edwards.

N. C. HISTORY REPRINT MAY NOW BE OBTAINED

The reprint of Wheeler's History of North Carolina will be ready for distribution early in May, as announced by the New York publisher, Frederick H. Hitchcock. The book, which contains valuable information of the early days and families of North Carolina (much of which is found nowhere else), will be a fac simile of the original volume as published in 1851.

It will also have some new and interesting matter, including a list of the present state officers and members of the last Legislature, both House and Senate, State Judiciary, U. S. Congressmen and Senators, Governors from 1851 to the present time, and names of counties added since 1851.

There are still 200 copies available for advanced subscribers at $4 each, for which write Mrs. E. L. Shuford, State Historian D. A. R., Hickory, N. C. When these are exhausted, the regular booksellers' price will take effect at $6.50 each.

TECHS WHIP WILDCATS FOR SECOND TIME

Game Was Filled With Hits,
Errors, and Sensational
Fielding

STATE TAKES LEAD IN FIRST FRAME; SCORE 9-4

Gladstone Got Four Hits Out of Four Trips to the Plate; S. Alford for Davidson Hit Safely Three Times in Four Trips

In a loosely played game the Raleigh Techmen defeated the Davidson Wildcats for the second time this season on Riddick Field last Thursday. Many errors, mixed in with hits, on both sides, fair pitching on both sides, with the Presbyterian's errors costing them the most, tells the story fairly well.

State jumped into the lead with four runs in the first inning and was never pushed. Gladstone batted out four out of four for safeties and S. Alford from Davidson hit three-fourths as well. Several pretty catches were made in the outer gardens, while some snappy infelding took place between errors. Wells' long running catch of Charlie Shuford's long foul to left, and a smashing double-play, Gilbert to Faulkner to Lassiter, at the close of the game, were the features.

McIver and Morrison did mound duty for State, while Laird and Vance did the Wildcat hurling. McIver won the game, staying in six innings and coming out to let Morrison warm up in the box. Laird did well also, but relinquished to Vance, in favor of future games, when the outcome of this one became a certainty. Another feature of the game was the fact that Holland and Captain Lassiter occupied positions on the bench and on the coaching lines until after the fifth. Al Johnston held down the hot-corner, while Tommy Harrill, who has been under-studying his red-headed chief-tain thus far, took care of the first sack. This hustling youngster from last year's Frosh squad, seems to have made a good job of his study.

Davidson scored in the opener, when Woodham reached third by errors and home on S. Alford's double. State came back with four runs, resulting from two doubles by Gladstone and C. Shuford, an infield scratch by Al Johnston, a walk and Vance's double of Harrill's long slam to left.

A single and a triple in the second by Simpson and Wrenn gave the Wildcats another run. But State came through with three more in the third and Davidson about resigned themselves to lose. This little party was featured by two errors by Covington, Davidson third-sacker, singles by Glad-

N. C. STATE ALUMNUS WINS SIGNAL HONOR

The April issue of the official organ of the General Electric Company carries a list of names of those in the employ of the company who have done meritorious or outstanding work during the past year. Those named were the recipients of the Charles A. Coffin awards, given to those workers each year who by some contribution have helped to increase the efficiency of the system.

Fifteen of these men were engineers. One of them was a former State College student, a member of the Electrical Engineering Class of 1917. Jacob W. McNairy, now with the General Electric Laboratory in Schenectady, is the man who has reflected honor on his college by his work. With another engineer he invented and developed an electrically operated flow meter for measuring the flow of steam, air, or water. The flow meter formerly made did not harmonize with the general line of products made and put on the market by General Electric. With this in view, the two men set about to improve on the old type, and have greatly aided G. E. by their invention.

We never did see so many visiting girls as we did at the Easter Monday dance given by Pi Kappa Alpha. It looks as though we're getting to be quite cakey nowadays. But it was a fine dance, and the "Pikas" are to be commended for their efforts to make it the best possible.

After the Wake Forest game Monday we noticed that the dust on the campus had an awful habit of sticking to any one who walked along. Now we believe that a few cement sidewalks would help a lot. And if they would help in good weather, just think what they'd do in weather like we had in the first months of this year. We want sidewalks.

Elsewhere in this issue there is a statement made by the new treasurer of the Y. M. C. A. This should be read and considered carefully, especially by those to whom it applies directly. Fellows, if you expect the Y to do its best work, you must stand behind the association, at least to the extent of fulfilling your promises. Make this week a pay-up week for the Y, and let's finish what we have started.

During the holidays the acting staff of the Technician made a "know your college" excursion about the campus. Everything was inspected thoroughly, from the workings of the new power-house to the newest litter of pigs at the swine foundry which Mr. Gray runs, out toward Method. And it was found that we have a real school here. Some time, men, when you have a few spare moments, take a look over the place and see if it doesn't surprise you to find out what a big school you're attending.

DO YOU KNOW ALL THIS?

Being in a financial situation which some people would call embarrassing caused us to spend the Easter holiday here on the campus. Even though we have been around here for four years, we found out that our knowledge of things on the campus is lacking. For instance, we did not know that over in the hot-house they have some of the prettiest flowers that we have seen in a long time, even better looking than those you gave your girl, because they did not cost us anything. Not only do they have flowers of all descriptions but also some very peculiar and interesting plants, two types of cactus plants being especially interesting.

The architectural exhibit was also a great surprise to us, and any of you that missed it cannot realize what beautiful as well as wonderful work the boys in that department are doing.

Over in the college barns they have some real interesting things. The fact that interested us most was how the mess hall got such sorry drinking fluid out of the really good milk that they get over there. Any student in whatever department would do well to go over and look at the college dairy department.

And now about what they are doing to Fourth Dormitory. Some of you have noticed that the inside has been torn out and must have thought they were tearing it down, but such is not the case. In fact, we have it from Mr. Kennedy, the man who is in charge of the work, that Fourth is to be the dormitory on the campus. Everything is to be done over. The chimneys have been torn down, and in their place will be put a clothes closet for each room. New floors are to be laid and the walls will all be replastered. Of course there will be new wood-work in the building throughout, and a tile bathroom will be put in on the second floor. The outside is to be cleaned and painted and a real colonial entrance put on both front and back.

Also, we have it from Mr. Kennedy that Watauga is to be done over this summer in a like manner, a steel stairway replacing the old wooden one on the outside—this to give fire protection.

After stopping in Fourth we next went to the New Library. Here State College has her masterpiece in the way of buildings; it is the one building on the campus that every man can be proud of. If you haven't been over to see the inside as yet, by all means look it over as soon as possible. The plaster work on the inside, both in the dome and reading room (and all the rest for that matter), is fine beyond description. The whole thing is a "knock-out," and we are more than proud of it.

Our wanderings ended in the new power-house over on the railroad. After all the delay, it is now about to get in operation at full tilt. Things are rapidly taking shape and functioning as they should; all of which is very welcome to us all.

In your tour of the campus, look at these things over and we are sure you will not regret the time spent.

On the shore of Euralyptol,

Aunt Jemima with her Kodak
Stood and pointed to the Crisco;

"Yonder dwells the Locomobile,
In the forest of O' Cedar;
He it was who killed Van Heusen,

Boldly then the Instant Postum
Seized his trusty Biflex Bumper,
Gave his bride one last fond Djer-Kiss,
Kissed her by the Coca-Cola.

Tom Writes About Easter

DEAR FOLKS:

After looking around the campus we see that everybody is back and from the best that we can learn, a big time was had by everybody. Some went home, others started, and some stayed here. We don't know but we think that those who stayed here had most fun. Not to mention the days that took place, other than Easter Sunday, there was some big doings about here.

Ye Editor took in the most of the events, but they were happening so fast that it was impossible to go to all of them. There was an Easter egg hunt over in the park, and not having very good use of the eyes and wanting to win the egg-finding championship, we went over and borrowed a man's dog. This aforesaid dog had a special liking to eggs and was very good at finding them. As fast as this dog found the eggs we took them away from him before he compressed them. When the final count was made, we and this dog won the prize, and we was duly accorded the Long Distance heavy weight egg-finding champion.

Nearly everybody was gone from the mess hall and there was a lot of stuff left over. We ate so much every day that before the holiday were over we were ashamed to look a biscuit in the face. We heard one of Jessie James' Cafe boarders say that he gained ten pounds over the holidays. Personally, there was so much to do about here that we would wager or bet that we lost about 8½ perfectly good pounds. We went go into details as to how it was done.

The biggest thing that happened during the holidays was the parade. Oft times we had heard it sung on different occasions about the flowers that bloom in the spring and the effect that it had in the case, but we never fully realized just what it meant until we saw what we saw Sunday. There was the most good-looking girls out astirring that day than we had seen since the last Sunday School picnic that we attended en masse. We didn't have no special girl to look after that day, so we just looked at them all. Every one had on the best looking dresses that we had seen in many a moon. They ranged from the prettiest blue azure to the loveliest eye-improving red. There were all sorts of girls, some were fat, some short and fat, some slim, some stout, some well built, others better built, and still there were some that were so good looking that our dictionary of cross-words could not tell about them, and then do a good job of it. And we aint mentioned the flowers as yet.

Well, there were flowers of all kinds. All of them had a beautiful corsage of roses and lilies of the valleys and a lot of other flowers that we don't know the name of them, but we do know that they are some of the kind that are said to bloom in the spring. In lot of cases they had something to do with the cases. Every girl and her sister had some. If all of the corsages were put end to end they would stretch for a considerable distance.

To top matters off, the best looking girl in the whole shooting match asked us to have dinner with her. Well, we did, and if anybody ever asks us what our conception of heaven is we are going to tell them that it is a case where we are sitting at the table with a fork in one hand, a sharp knife in the other, plenty of Et Cetera on the table, a good-looking Easter lily sitting on either side, and a rare aroma of Roses from Sharons plain penetrating the immediate ozone and pleasuringly inciting the touchous portions of our alfalytary apparatus.

And then, that night. Well, I reckon this is just as good a place to stop as anywhere. Your'n.

TOM.

"OLD STUFF"—AS EVERY COLLEGE STUDENT KNOWS

Because, while a student in college, he had bolted too many greasy fried potatoes and cold baked beans, doubtless under the impression that his insides were constructed with the sturdiness of a concrete-mixer and the durability of a hydraulic ram, many a man of forty-five is obliged to go about with his pockets full of zwieback and pepsin wherewith to pamp a spoiled stomach that requires more attention that a six-weeks-old infant.

Having taken all of his exercise in the bleachers, and practiced deep-breathing only while smoking, there comes a day when all his steep grades must be taken at low gear or at the end of a friendly tolope.

At the very time of his life when he ought to be concentrating all of his attention on his task of moving forward, rapidly, toward the destination he had picked as his chief objective, he spends most of his time getting out and under to see what ails the machinery.

Of course, this is old stuff. It makes one yawn. Everybody knows that these things are true—so why repeat them? Just because a generous percent of every annual crop of college graduates go out to fail for the reasons indicated above.

Because, while a student in college he had never learned how to think rapidly, clearly, and independently, being under the impression that his chief mission, as an undergraduate, was to cram himself to the gunwhales with a miscellaneous cargo of unclassified facts, many a man of mature years spends his time sharpening tools for other people, collecting data for other men's books, and holding the lantern, and murmuring, "Well, what do you know about that?" while his comrades unearth discoveries.

Having seen nothing in his college course but "credits," and no brighter prize at the end of it than a diploma, there comes a day when he is glad to carry the waterjug and trot errands for the men higher up who may have only half his brains but twice his mental training.

This, too, is old stuff. How can anyone be so stupid as to write it—much less expect anybody to read it?

Nevertheless, every institution of higher education annually hatches a new flock of birds whose wings have fledged no feathers. About the time they ought to fly, they are inquiring for the latest quotations on crutches.

Because, while a student in college he had hooted at every serious agency that tried to coax his soul out into the sunlight where it might grow, many a man of middle age finds that neglected organ a shriveled, ugly thing consisting only of a troublesome conscience and an assorted lot of unpleasant memories—memories of neglected opportunities to enjoy life's best legacies.

He has "no ear for music," and it bores him; he has "no interest in pictures" for he does not understand them; he can't see anything in poetry," most of which he considers stupidly sentimental.

Having arrived at a time of life where the rewards of his own industry provide him with leisure, his jaded senses—the five—the same five that his Alredale terrier has—must be depended upon for all perceptions. He has lost his soul, and it is too late to sprout another.

This, likewise, is old stuff. So is breathing, old stuff. The mountains and the sea; the sky and the rivers; human hopes and fears; the bright dreams of youth, and handfuls of ashes—all are old, old stuff!

Apropos of this last consideration, religion, which has been mankind's "chief concern" from the beginning, is to the development of a soul, what food and exercise are to the body and mental discipline is to the mind.

The college student should avail himself of what the churches have to offer.—The California Aggie.

When enthusiasm runs away with judgment the grafter runs away with the pocketbook.

TRACK TEAM GONE TO WASHINGTON AND LEE

The varsity track team left Friday afternoon for Lexington, Va., where they meet Washington and Lee in a dual meet this afternoon. Coach Shaw took a strong team with him and should garner in quite a number of places. Carolina whipped Washington and Lee pretty badly over at Chapel Hill several weeks ago, but that was at home for the Tar Heels and this is at home for the Generals. Due to the fact that track teams are so large in numbers it is difficult to take enough men to win, as a general thing. However, the Generals will have to be good to send State away defeated.

The team left Friday at 3:30 and the trip was made by Greensboro and Lynchburg. The return trip will be made the same way. The men accompanying Coach Shaw and Manager Jimison are: Captain Byrum, Tucker, Sides, and Brown, in the dashes; Bremen and Sherman in the middle distance; Wright and Schrader in the distance runs; Clarke and Currin in the hurdles; Pridden, Morris, and Matthews in the jumps; Lambe, Cooke, and Ripple in the weights. The team will return Sunday night.

Case Tractor To Be Used In Work on State College Track and Athletic Field

Through the kindness of Mr. Lewis, of Atlanta, district manager of the Case Tractor Company, State College Athletic authorities have procured the use of one of the Case tractors, which has been used here for exhibition, and actual construction by the Case people, for maintenance work on Riddick Field. The use of the tractor was made possible through the untiring efforts of Mr. Stewart, of this city, who was formerly connected with the Case Company on construction work here.

The tractor is not being used at this time by the owners. It will be used in keeping the track and baseball field in shape and especially in preparing them for games or meets.

TENNIS MEET WITH DUKE POSTPONED ACCOUNT RAIN

The tennis meet scheduled for last Friday with Duke University was rained out. Although not raining in the afternoon the morning's rain put the court out of commission for the afternoon. The meet will probably be played off sometime in May. The next team on the schedule is the Greensboro County Club. The meet will be held tomorrow in Greensboro. This team is made up of former college stars and should make State's team extend itself to win.

SPORT COMMENT

We are endeavoring in this column to give the gist of Campus opinion about sports. Because of man's inherent narrow-mindedness and conceit it is most probably our own personal opinion that we're actually giving. We hope not.
THE SPORT EDITOR.

EASTER MONDAY HAS COME and gone. Wake Forest came and went—with the game. We regret that Governor McLean's conservative administration has so pervaded the atmosphere hereabouts that State College must lose games because we cannot afford the proper officials.

—N.C.S.—

PERHAPS ANOTHER UMP would not have changed the result of the game any but at least there would be no uncertainty in our minds now, and there would have been no dispute then. Is not peace of mind worth that price?

—N.C.S.—

TO NON-PARTISANS MONDAY'S game must have been entirely pleasing. Lots of baseball, of varied quality, yet a fast game and not monotonous.

—N.C.S.—

AND THE SECOND DAVIDSON game was like unto the first, only easier.

—N.C.S.—

THE TRACK TEAM HAS enjoyed a pleasant and profitable season thus far, and we wish them a continuation of success—especially this Saturday, against old Washington and Lee.

—N.C.S.—

THE FRESHMEN SEEM AT LAST to have entered their schedule in earnest. And they are winning their games although playing rather erratic baseball.

—N.C.S.—

THE BASEBALL FANS of Asheville were not a little disappointed at not being able to see "the Bambino" play ball up there the other day. Too bad for them that his slight attack of "the flu" (?) had to happen before the game.

—N.C.S.—

WE HAVE AT LAST managed to get a glimpse of that wonderful gym over at N. C. College. We have to hand it to 'em on the swimming pool, but, as for the rest of the gym, we still extend our invitation to them to come over and have a look at Frank Tom.

ANNUAL EASTER DANCE PI KAPPA ALPHA FRAT

One of the outstanding social events of the past week was the annual Easter dance given by Alpha Epsilon Chapter of the Pi Kappa Alpha Fraternity in the new Frank Thompson Gymnasium at State College last Monday evening, from 9:30 to 2:00.

This annual dance has been given on Easter Monday night for the past fifteen years and is looked forward to with great pleasure by young people of the entire State. This year the Fraternity sponsored, in all probability, the best dance that has ever been given at State College. The garnet and old gold colors of the Fraternity and the red and white colors of the college were followed out in the scheme of decorating, the results of which gave a most beautiful effect to the interior of the Gymnasium. At the entrance to the hall and just below the balcony, was suspended the large garnet and old gold banner of the Fraternity, while at the opposite end the electrically lighted pin of the Fraternity was conspicuously placed. During the special waltzes given all of the lights except those in the huge pin were extinguished. This feature gave a most desirable effect, while the Dream Girl of Pi K. A. was played by the orchestra.

From the center of the ceiling was suspended a large crystal ball, which revolved continuously with spot lights casting their beams upon it from different parts of the hall.

Approximately seven hundred people attended the dance. Tal Henry's orchestra (of Greensboro) performed brilliantly in rendering the most desirable selections of dance music.

The following members of the Fraternity were hosts of the occasion: Samuel Pierson, Jr., Lloyd H. Cook, W. O. White, Jr., W. W. Studdert, M. C. Comer, E. A. Feimster, Jr., W. H. Puckett, B. Lattimore, G. F. McBrayer, F. G. Logan, J. B. Dunn, Henry Roane, Jr., D. T. Scales, H. E. Kendall, Jr., G. E. Jones, H. R. Fields.

hide for the circuit. A hard-hit ball over the center-fielder's head turned the trick and with cap in hand Dutch galloped across the plate to place his team in the vanguard.

Timberlake, in the ninth, slammed out a three-bagger and bided his time 'till Greason's sacrifice fly to deep-center brought him in. He just did make it though, for Correll's beautiful peg from center and Johnson's futile tag missed only by inches, or the ump's decision, as-you-like-it.

State's half of the ninth, the tenth, and the eleventh passed with alternate threats, but no scoring. In the twelfth, however, Wake Forest did more than threaten. Small, first up, was safe on Gilbert's error. He took second on Armstrong's sacrifice. Simmons hit to Gilbert, who caught Small half-way between second and third and tried to run him down in preference to taking Simmons at first. He threw to Holland who tagged at Small as he slid to third. The umpire called him out but Holland tried to tag him as he over-slid, so Mr. Ump called him safe. Matisinger's bump scored Small for the winning run.

State's Rally That Failed
State's half of the twelfth provided enough excitement for a whole game, all by itself. Wade, pinch-hitting for McIver, singled, took second on Correll's sacrifice. Gladstone and Shuford each beat out infield hits, filling the bases, with one out, and "Red" Johnson and "Dutch" Holland on tap. A hard-hit ball would tie the score, at

INTER-COMPANY TRACK MEET POSTPONED TO 24th

The inter-company track meet, which was scheduled to be held April 17, has been postponed to April 24th. This was deemed necessary in order to allow the men to get back in shape after the holidays. Since the men have returned to classes all P. E. classes have been turned into training classes for the various events. Other men are working daily with the Varsity and Freshman squads.

least. Instead Johnson bunted to Armstrong, whose throw to home beat Wade by a mere fraction of a jump. Holland hit hard to Greason, but he stopped it and trotted across the second for the game.

VIEWS OF A LOCAL EDITOR ON STUDENT GOVERNMENT

The following editorial appeared in the News and Observer of Thursday, April 9, 1925:

STUDENT SELF-GOVERNMENT

Suppose our grandfathers could wake up some fine spring morning to find all activities at a big state educational institution suspended while the students install a president of their student council! Our forefathers would have speedily struck down any such movement as being the first step toward anarchy. They would at once have asked: "What does a college student know about government?"

Yet it did happen yesterday that at State College a thousand students did knock off from their studies for an hour and a half to inaugurate their newly elected president for another year. The inauguration wasn't run as a side line of the college activities but as the main show. President Brooks graced the occasion with his presence and delivered the principal oration. He did it upon the invitation of the students and not of his own volition. Yet he is none the less president of the college.

Is there any danger of State College becoming an institution without law or order? Not much. In the first place, the students are fully cognizant of the problems they have to solve and the honor they have to uphold. They know that an enlightened public opinion will not permit such an institution to be run otherwise than in an orderly way, even if the students did not want to run it the same way.

Here, then, is one hope in this modern age for better government. Will not these young men by actual contact with the problems of government learn much that will help them in future years in performing the duties of citizenship? It is a hopeful movement.

The Physics

(With apologies to Mr. Kipling and his "Ladies")

I've taken my course at State College, I've raved and I've sworn in my time,

I've had my pickings of teachers, And three of the lot were prime.

One was Professor of Physics, One was Assistant in the same,

One was Associate Professor, alike, And they all ran me nearly insane.

I was a young one at Raleigh, Green and unlearned at the start,

But Heck took me in on his Physics, The subject that's nearest his heart.

He taught of machines and of weather, Told of travels to France and Quebec, To Japan, South America, Holland, and Spain,

Thus I learned about Physics from Heck.

I set sail on a course in "Soph." Physics,

With Dixon in charge of the ship, Young's Modulus, Torsion, Inertia,

Made it anything else but a "crip." I tolled and sweat for a season,

And pulled through by the length of a neck,

I conquered the formulae, problems, and "lab,"

But I learned about Physics from Heck.

I then took up "research" the next year,

With Derlex now at the wheel, He found that my love for Mechanics,

Was as tender as Achilles' heel. He pounded on Forces of Tension,

And, "of course," Stress and Strain by the peck,

He flunked me at last, with the rest of the class,

'Cause I learned about Physics from Heck.

At last I am through with these courses,

And I leave with a sigh of regret (?), Classrooms where I struggled and suffered,

The "lab" where I labored and sweat, My future's now bright and inviting,

Where it formerly looked like a wreck. But, no matter what happens I still can affirm

That I learned about Physics from Heck. "DIBBY" RAY, '26.

Man (who had fallen overboard a ship unnoticed): "Well, boys, drop me a line sometimes."

"Where from?" "Date."

"Who with?" "Co-ed."

"Here, friend, take this five-dollar bill."

To fall in love is awfully simple, To fall out of love is simply awful.

How did you keep your donation to the Welfare League a secret?"

"Sent an anonymous check."

He: "Did you ever study a blotter?" Date: "Why—no. Why?"

He: "Oh, it's a very absorbing thing."

Abie: "If you won't kiss me I'm going away."

Rose: "Go as far as you like."

I call my sweetheart hinges, for she's something to adore.

The modern girl does not want a chaperone. She wants a chap alone.

University of Oklahoma women have started the idea of flavored lipsticks, and this weapon of woman-kind, in flavors ranging from lemon to tutti-frutti, has literally swept the university town.

"The cops are looking that guy over." "Do you think he'll pledge?"

The reason you shouldn't hit a man when he's down is because some day he's going to get up.

Variety may be the spice of life, but too much spice ruins the cake.

Leon Emory Cook was born in Greenwood, New York. His parents moved to Andover, New York, and here he received his secondary education. He entered Alfred University but later changed to Cornell, where he graduated with an A.B. degree in Arts and Sciences and a B.S. degree in Agriculture. He taught agriculture for a short time at Worcester, New York, and then returned to Cornell for graduate work. At the same time he served as assistant in the department of Rural Education. Upon the completion of his work he received the M.S. degree in Agricultural Education. Later he did graduate work in education at Harvard and Columbia universities.

In 1917 Professor Cook came to State College as Associate Professor of Vocational Education. In 1919 he was made head of the department. At present, besides his teaching work, he is carrying on work in Professional Improvement of Teachers. This supervision is for the new teachers especially.

Professor Cook is a member of the National Education Association, of the American Association for Advancement of Agricultural Teaching, of the National Vocational Guidance Association, and Phi Delta Kappa, Honorary Educational Fraternity.

Big Fight Spectacle In "Little Old New York"

Marion Davies Received Lashes From a Whip on Bare Back in the Cause of Art

One of the most spectacular scenes ever filmed in motion pictures is the big mob scenes in the Cosmopolitan picture, "Little Old New York," starring Marion Davies, which opens at the College "Y" Theatre on April 23. Miss Davies, swung on the shoulder of big Louis Wolheim, is rushed through a mob of a thousand howling men to the whipping-post to receive the punishment which the crowd demands because she rang the firebell and stopped the prize-fight.

The scene occurs in the streets surrounding Bowling Green and the Battery of New York as they appeared a century ago. Over sixty thousand feet of floor space was covered by the pounding feet of the mob and forty-five immense sunlight arc lights shot down a brilliance which rivaled the sun and made it appear as though it were really outdoors. Director Sidney Olcott and his assistant, Saul Harrison, shouted themselves hoarse directing the great mob which followed Wolheim down the streets. The slender little figure of Miss Davies, perched on the shoulder of Wolheim as she is hurried to her doom, is silhouetted against the sky above the heads of the crowds.

Cameramen cranked madly as the mob swirled around the platform upon which the whipping-post was stationed. The cruel, avenging faces of the mob; the huge, brutal appearance of Wolheim is contrasted with the fair, fragile delicacy of Miss Davies as she is lashed to the whipping-post—all combine to make of the scene a most thrilling one. Refusing to employ a "double," Miss Davies insisted on taking the lashes inflicted by the cruel whip herself. The star insisted it would make the picture much better if she took the lashing herself. As a result her beautiful shoulders, which have been painted by some of the most famous artists in the land, still bear the marks of the cruel blacksnake whip. Although Wolheim tried to lay on the lashes as lightly as he could and still register the proper effect, it was impossible to spare the dainty little star entirely.

"Unseeing Eyes" Is Thrilling Drama Of Canadian Rockies

Cosmopolitan Features Lionel Barrymore and Seena Owen in an Arthur Stringer Story

Following the war, the "Pair o' Dice" Mine, one of the richest in the Canadian Rockies, is to be reopened by Dick Helston (Walter Miller) whose father had won it over some years before in a Northwoods game of craps. During the time the mine had been officially closed; however, it had been illegally operated by "Frozen Face" Laird (Louis Wolheim) and a crew of cut-throat half-breeds. When Dick reaches the mine to open it officially and take over its operation, he and his companions are attacked by Laird and the outlaw miners. A thrilling fight ensues in which Dick is wounded and later secreted in the cabin of Singing Pine (Frances Red Eagle), squaw of Laird.

Meantime, Miriam Helston (Seena Owen) is enjoying a mid-winter carnival near Quebec, accompanied by a party of friends, including Conrad Dean (Lionel Barrymore) who was a flying ace during the war. She receives a message telling of her brother's plight and prepares to go to him immediately. Heavy snows make the journey by train impossible and, as a last resort, Dean suggests that they make a dawn to dusk dash in an aeroplane. Miriam readily agrees to take the chance. They are near their destination when the engine breaks down and they are forced to alight on a frozen lake.

While on his way to a curl of smoke in the distance, Dean loses his way. Meantime a blizzard bursts and Miriam starts out in search of her escort. She finally seeks refuge in a deserted cabin, while Dean is cared for by two prospectors who find him exhausted in the snow. The following morning Miriam again starts out to find Dean and is attacked with snow-blindness. She falls down an incline and is found by two half-breeds who bring her to the headquarters of Laird. When the half-breeds and Indians begin to fight for possession of her, Miriam, in a moment of despair, consents to marry Laird if he rescues her.

Before Laird has time to take the girl away with him, Dean stumbles upon the mining shack. He and Laird engage in a thrilling fight, the latter and some of his cohorts finally succeeding in binding and gagging the aviator. Dean is strung up by the wrists to a beam. Laird leads Miriam out from a rear room. However, she is unable to see Dean, and the latter cannot cry out when he sees her.

Before leaving with the girl, Laird sets fire to the shack and also fires the cabin in which Miriam's brother lies wounded. Dean and Dick are saved, however, by Singing Pine, who later loses her life in the burning shack. Her father, Eagle Blanket, swears vengeance and starts out on the trail of Laird, who, with Miriam, is cutting across the wilderness on a dog team. Dean and Dick take up the chase in the aeroplane.

Laird is finally overhauled just after he shoots Father Paquette for refusing to perform the marriage ceremony. Dean and Laird again engage in a furious no-quarter fight which terminates when Eagle Blanket, who has caught up with the dog team, shoots the outlaw miner. Meantime, Miriam's snow-blindness passes as suddenly as it had come, and she returns to New York as the bride-to-be of Dean.

Alumni Notes

Observations & Communications of Zippy Mack

The Easter holidays are over, and the last lap has begun. We almost said it had begun with a rush, but on second thought we decided that it hadn't started so speedily after all. But, anyway, it has started, and we trust every one will come to the tape with a vigorous burst of speed.

The Wake Forest game, while not all that could be desired from the standpoint of the score, gave an excellent opportunity for picking out the faces of many of the old fellows among the several individuals going to compose the surging mass of humanity, as the editor would say, which witnessed the game. Those we saw were: C. D. Lemmond, '24; J. B. Crater, '24; H. B. Summerell, '24; J. K. Wells, '24; Mr. and Mrs. R. M. Kimzey, '21; W. M. Corkill, '23; Nat Pierson, '21; S. R. Workman, '24; J. H. Bonitz, '20; A. M. Williams, '21; H. D. Crockford, '20; C. H. Faucette, '24; Mr. and Mrs. R. E. Smith, '23; W. J. Carter, '24; T. M. Harris, '24; T. W. Bridges, '24, and A. P. Cates, '22. In addition to these there were several men who make their homes in and around Raleigh, whom we were not glad enough to see to take down their names.

Mr. R. M. Proffitt, of the '24 Horticulturalists, was on the campus Monday. He was handicapped by a Chevrolet car and two young ladies. "Happy" says he is farming at the old homestead at Balu Creek, "The Land of the Sky."

Mr. E. R. ("Bub") Commander, '23 Electrical, is with the Alabama Power Company at Birmingham. He formerly taught in Norfolk.

Mr. F. G. Elliott, '22 Vocational, stopped for a few moments as he was passing through here Thursday.

11. Conferences. The State College "Y" sent two representatives to the meeting of the National Council of the Y. M. C. A. held in Buffalo, N. Y., last December.

Five men attended the State Convention, held in Charlotte, February 2-3.

Three men represented us at the State Student Volunteer Conference, held in Chapel Hill.

Seven men represented us at the Officers' Training Conference, held at Duke University.

The prospects for the Blue Ridge delegation are good.

12. Hospital. Mr. W. L. Adams, the chairman of the hospital committee, has done all that one man could do for the boys who have been in the infirmary. However, next year there should be a strong committee to help him.

The daily papers and several magazines have been sent to the hospital regularly. Recently a supply of stationery was sent up and some potted plants.

13. Freshman Friendship Council. The work of the Freshman Friendship Council was conducted last fall by Messrs. G. D. Humphrey and S. L. Homewood. Beginning with the opening of school in January, Mr. W. N. Hicks took over the leadership of this organization. The men in this have received training which will be of permanent value to them and which will make them valuable men to the Association next year.

The Song of a Sheik

We wear pink pajamas in the summer when it's hot,

We wear woolen nighties in the winter when it's not.

Sometimes in the springtime, Sometimes in the fall,

We jump right in between the sheets

With nothing on at all.

"God bless woman!" said the philanthropic optimist. "She is like the ivy on the ruined wall. The more dilapidated you become, the more she clings to you."

"Yes, God bless her!" grunted a misanthropic pessimist. "The more she clings to you the more dilapidated you become."

Mr. Nulywed: "What an enormous pie; it looks like a football."

Mrs. Nulywed: "But, Arthur, that was the smallest pumpkin I could find."

First roommate—What was the denomination of that bill you loaned me? Second roommate—Episcopalian, I guess. It keeps lent.

"Stick 'em up, kid," ordered the thug. "Where do you think you're going?"

"Home," murmured the student.

MEREDITH NEWS

By LEONE WARRICK

The famous composer, Charles Wakefield Cadman, gave a recital of his compositions in the Meredith auditorium Tuesday evening, April 7th. He was assisted by Miss Constance Eberhart of our own music faculty. She is particularly well fitted to interpret his songs because the words to a great number of them were written by her mother, with whom Mr. Cadman has worked for a number of years.

The program consisted of alternate groups of songs and instrumental numbers. Mr. Cadman is especially well known for his compositions taken from the songs of the Omaha Indians, and the program contained some of these, such as "From the Village," "I Found Him on the Mesa," "From the Long Room of the Sea," and the ever-popular "Spring Song of the Robin Woman." A new feature was the group of piano solos "From Hollywood." Miss Eberhart sang "At Dawning" by request. This song is known and loved everywhere. On account of the small size of our auditorium no one was admitted except students of the college, the faculty, and some of their friends, and the student body of Peace Institute.

A debate between Wake Forest College and Furman University took place at Meredith April 8th at 8 p. m. The query was: "Resolved, That the United States should adopt the Cabinet-Parliamentary form of government." The decision was rendered in favor of the negative, which was upheld by Wake Forest. The Furman debaters were J. A. Gathings and L. H. Fowler. Those from Wake Forest were L. B. Mosely and D. D. Lewis.

The annual play of the Philaretian Literary Society is to be given April 25th. The name of the play is "Honor Bright," and from all reports and rumors it is going to be exceptionally good. In spite of the Ag. reception, which is scheduled for the same date, we are looking to N. C. State for the larger part of our audience.

"A man should never marry a brunette."

"Why not?"

"They're too much like blondes."

S. S. Teacher: "Sonny, was Adam the first man?"

Modern Child: "Nothing previous."

A run in silk stockings will attract more attention than any track meet.

"THE PLAY'S THE THING"

JOHN BARRYMORE himself would "get the hook" if he did not know his cues, or read his lines as called for by the action of the play.

Engineers get cues, too—from the industrial drama of which they are a part. Like actors, their performance must fit the action of an economic play.

Thus the reason that the journals, the societies, the schools, colleges, teachers, and well-known public men are urging engineers to study economics—to learn the nature and effect of economic laws.

To build the largest generator or the smallest meter, for example, is not always in itself a great engineering feat. The feat consists in having it ready at a time, a price, and with such features as the prevailing economic situation calls for.

In this sense engineers—and particularly Westinghouse engineers—must be "practicing economists". They must follow closely the "action of the play"—analyzing fundamental conditions in every field, and calculating their causes and probable effects.

All this, so that when a cue is spoken in factory or home, on farm or railroad, on the sea or in the air, they may be ready.

This advertisement is eighth in a vocational series, outlining the fields for engineering achievement in the Westinghouse organization. A copy of the entire series will be sent to anyone requesting it.
