INSTALLATION OF EQUIPMENT IN NEW GYM ALMOST COMPLETED

Frank Thompson Gymnasium Has Ample Floor Space, Large Pool, Complete Equipment, Suitable Offices, and Dressing Rooms; Will Cost $250,000.

(By Joe W. Johnson.)

With the installation of a complete equipment for the large recreational room, faculty and medical offices and dressing rooms, and with the finishing touches being put on the building itself, the new Frank Thompson Gymnasium will be informally opened for physical recreation and training in a week or ten days at latest. The date of the formal opening will be announced later.

The opening of our new gymnasium is an important step in the long forward strides that have recently characterized State College, not only in the intellectual and spiritual training of young men of the State, but also in making adequate provision for the development of the physical side of college education. The idea in State's physical educational program is to make a well balanced man by both intellectual training and physical development of all men entering college life, rather than furnish athletics and physical training for a favored few. In introducing this program, State College is starting a new system of recreational development in the South, but one that is in line with the practices of the leading universities and colleges in this country.

Location and Exterior
The new Frank Thompson Gymnasium is located in an almost direct line south of South Dormitory, on the southern side of the railroad that passes through the campus just below Riddick Field.

As one casts his eye upon the general view of the exterior, his attention is caught by the beautiful, gray granite vases that are on either side of the entrance, with a background of dark, blood-red brick. Another at-

N. C. State College Band Entertained

Woman's Club at Apex Gives the Boys an Appetizing Dinner

The N. C. State Band, known unofficially as "Daddy Price's Band," was royally entertained at the West Wake Fair, held in Apex, by the Woman's Club of that city. The boys left at five in the afternoon and returned, following the two-hour concert staged in the public square. The audience was of a very appreciative nature and showed their approval by continual encores, so much so that the veteran musicians were nearly exhausted long before the crowd would allow Capt. Price to rest his band.

A fine spirit of co-operation was manifested throughout the evening, and the High School boys and girls, besides giving a play, during the intermission rendered the band their undivided support, except their partiality which excluded "Lex" Davis. As a precedent to the opening concert, the ladies of the city entertained the boys with a dinner, majoring in chicken and electing all of the supplements thereto. The extent and quality of the feed can be, in part, conceived when consideration is given to the fact that "Tubby" Stone, weighted down by his recent meal, nearly went through the concrete stage of special reinforcement.

The band left Apex under protest, and only after promising that they would come back as soon as possible would the bevy of girls turn Worthington loose.

State "Y" Is Host To Representatives From Other Colleges

Dr. A. Bruce Curry of New York Here Friday, Saturday and Sunday, October 3-5

State "Y" had the honor and pleasure of playing host to delegations from N. C. College, Trinity, Meredith, Peace, Carolina, and Wake Forest, which came here to attend the Bible Study Institute conducted by Dr. A. Bruce Curry of New York, Friday, Saturday and Sunday, October 3, 4, and 5th. This is the first time in two years that State College has had the opportunity of entertaining other college people, officially. Her only regret is that she can't have more of 'em (meaning conferences and people at the conferences).

One of the most impressive things about this conference or institute, as you will, was Dr. Curry, the man who was the conference. Dr. Curry is a former Davidson man and is at present a member of the faculty of White's Bible School of New York. For the past eighteen months he has been traveling among the colleges and universities of the country holding these Bible Study Institutes. Dr. Curry acts as discussion group leader, and yet brings out of his group, one of the greatest and most radical line of thought, North Carolina college people have ever run into. Dr. Curry is essentially a man. Then he is a young man and

TOMPKINS SOCIETY INITIATES MEMBERS

The Thompson Textile Society held its initiation Tuesday night. The initiation was very good in every respect and thoroughly enjoyed by all, especially the incoming Sophomores.

As usual the candidates were shaky but as the initiation was inflicted the knees of many were playing home-sweet-home as the lengthy boards were put into action and the high but short jumps were performed.

There were twenty-three men taken in, they can be distinguished thus: One good thorough shower bath, hands of different colors and by close inspection, slightly rub your hand across the seat of their pants. Those who were taken in are as follows:

F. R. Love, L. W. Allgood, C. F. Knight, H. P. Dixon, S. B. Carson, J. L. James, F. E. Plummer, N. N. Harte, A. H. Thomas, H. L. Brown, J. H. Dulan, M. B. Mahaffer, J. F. Matheson, Carter Hudgins, M. C. Conier, G. E. Michall, J. D. Cassada, D. H. Purcell, J. B. Griffin, E. A. Filmeister, S. W. Davis, F. R. Barlowe, A. V. Carr.

Professor Hilton, new member of the Textile Faculty, was taken in as an honorary member, without initiation, which the society voted on unanimously.

HALIFAX COUNTY CLUB ELECTS NEW OFFICERS

The Halifax County Club held its first meeting of the year Friday night, October 4, for the purpose of electing new officers. The meeting was called to order by former vice-president, F. L. Hargrove.

The following officers were elected: F. L. Hargrove, president; E. L. Mountcastle, vice president; J. D. Cassada, secretary and treasurer.

After discussing plans for the coming year, the club adjourned to meet again next week, at which time the new members will be taken in.

H. B. Keen Is Named As Successor to Hedgepeth

New President Pullen Literary Society Has Been Very Active In Its Work

At the regular meeting of the Pullen Literary Society held Friday night in the society hall, President Hedgepeth formally tendered his resignation as president of the society and Mr. H. B. Keen was unanimously chosen as his successor.

Mr. Hedgepeth explained that his work as editor of the Agromeck had become of such a nature as to require all of his time, and that he did not feel that he could do justice to the society by remaining as its head. He promised, however, to remain as active in the work of Pullen as his limited time would permit.

The resignation of Mr. Hedgepeth was a great shock to the society, and with Mr. Taylor, the vice-president, occupying the chair, it immediately set about finding a man worthy of taking his place. Several men were nominated for the presidency, but when a vote was taken the society turned unanimously to Mr. Keen as the one man capable of assuming the re-

ALL OUT FOR N.C.C.W.!

Fellows, there is to be a State Baptist Students Conference at N. C. C. W. THIS WEEK-END, October 10, 11, and 12. All men who are interested in Baptist Student Activities, and who possibly can be urged to attend. There will be a "get together" meeting or dinner in the college dining hall Friday evening and Saturday evening. Rooms will be free for delegates. Saturday morning and Sunday morning breakfast will be served free.

Special conference bus will leave "Y" at 1:30 Saturday p.m. Tickets are on sale by D. O. Price and E. A. Davis, round trip tickets are $2.50. Registration fee $1.00. The bus will leave Greensboro Sunday night at 10:30.

Twenty-five North Carolina colleges are to be represented.

Others interested in making the trip see the above men.

ALAMANCE COUNTY CLUB

The Alamance County Club was organized last Saturday at the Y. M. C. A. There were thirty-four members present, an increase of almost one hundred per cent over last year. Mr. J. E. Williams was elected president. He outlined his plans for the coming year—to put "Alamance First."—Other officers elected were: J. M. Potter, vice-president; Carl Webber, secretary-treasurer; and R. A. Isley, reporter.

STATE HOLDS HER OWN IN FIRST QUARTER WITH PENN.

Buncombe County Club Is Stronger Than Ever

Seventeen New Men Initiated Into the Club This Year

More freshmen were initiated into the Buncombe County Club at its last meeting than at any one time in the history of State College, seventeen new men coming in at once. This more than doubles the number that entered last year and shows how State's popularity is growing in "The Land of the Sky," forty-three men now being our total for all the classes.

After the initiation, which was rather hard on the freshmen but thoroughly enjoyed by everybody present, officers for the present year were elected, a program adopted for getting still more fellows down next year, and last, but not least, came a real feed. As part of our advertising campaign the Technician will be sent free to every high school in Buncombe County all this year, the copies being paid for by the club. Sandwiches, cakes, drinks of different kinds, peanuts, and smokes helped round out the evening and made it one of the best meetings ever had here by the club.

This year's officers are: President, Mark Sumner; vice-president, J. G. Weaver; secretary and treasurer, Elmer Moody; reporter, F. M. Chedester; and the members by classes are as follows: Post-graduate, Horace Overall, Asheville; Seniors, S. R. Wallis, Skyland; Robert Brown, Democrat; C. J. Roberts, West Asheville; R. G. Fortune, Asheville; Francis Carr, Asheville; Eugene Wilder, West Asheville; Juniors, J. G. Weaver, West Asheville; Jas. Fletcher, Candler; Elmer Moody, Biltmore; Maurice Jarrett, West Asheville; Mark Sumner, West Asheville; Flunoy Griffin, Biltmore; W. W. Shope, Weaverville; R. B. Morris, Asheville; Robert Luther Asheville; Charlie Shuford, Arden; Walter Shuford, Arden; Harry Logan, West Asheville. Sophomores, Stewart Gaston, Candler; Albert Dougherty, Asheville; Jas. Campbell, Asheville; Edwin Wilson, West Asheville; M. W. McCulloh, Asheville; F. M. Chedester, Asheville; K. K. Griffin, Biltmore. Freshmen, H. L. Sullivan, Asheville; Arthur Taylor, Asheville; Ashworth, Moore, and Ledbetter, Fairview; M. A. Casco, Asheville; Percy Blackman, Asheville; John Guerdar, Asheville; W. L. Roberts, Leicester; John Taylor, Candler; Bill Fitzgerald, Asheville; Ray Bostic, Biltmore; Verge Stevens, West Asheville; Hillard Carr, Asheville; Howard White, Asheville; Charlie Baughman, Asheville, and Leon Johnson, Asheville.

MARS HILL CLUB HOLDS FIRST MEETING OF YEAR

The Mars Hill Club met for the first time since last spring for the purpose of initiating all new men. Mr. Eller, the president, first made a speech of welcome to the men and he assured them that the club would do its part in making their stay at State College pleasant. The following men were received: Bill Pondexter, C. H. Revelle, W. A. Davis, T. Bollenger, Thomas Nelson, Bill Niel, D. L. Young, Prof. Hugh Thompson and J. W. Rodwell.

The club then enjoyed the evening in a social way, drinks and sandwiches were served by the refreshment committee.

Johnson Crosses Line in Last Five Minutes of Play

True to her style of piling up a heavy score every other year, the Penn State eleven defeated the Red and White grid team by a score of 51-6 last Saturday on Beaver Field, State College, Pa.

Although the Wolfpack did not enter the game in the best condition and probably did not come up to her usual standard, yet it must be conceded that it was well outclassed by the Penn State eleven.

State showed but very little tendency to star, either individually or collectively; on the other hand, the Lions made brilliant work out of their line plunges, end runs, and kick-offs.

During the first quarter both teams appeared to be evenly matched. The ball went first up and then down the field, with neither team showing superior playing. Penn State's only touchdown for the quarter was chiefly due to a fumble.

During the second quarter the Wolfpack was severely crippled by the loss of Wallis, Beatty and White. Student substituted for Wallis, Logan for Beatty and Donnell for White. During the second period the Lions opened up on their deadly line plunges and continued them through the third quarter.

In the third period, State suffered more losses. Eller substituted for Cox, Charlie Shuford for Walter Shuford and Jennette for Sprague.

In the first quarter State rallied and staged a come-back, due to the pushing of Captain Beatty and the addition of new men. Austell substituted for Shuford, Austin for Ripple, and Summrell for Lassiter.

Game by Quarters

State opened the game with a kick-off well down the line and forced the Lions to kick on the fourth down. State kicked on the second down but recovered the ball on an intercepted pass. However, her advantage was quickly lost by a fumble which gave

Coach Tebell Issues Call For Basketball

Forty Men Answered and Will Begin Work At Once

Forty men answered the call for basketball issued Tuesday, October 7th. Coach Tebell met the men who responded to his first call in Leazar Literary Society Hall, in the Y. M. C. A. Building, Tuesday night at 7 o'clock. In his characteristic manner he brought the issue before them briefly and forcibly. He stated that practice would begin immediately and that drills on the fundamentals of basketball would constitute the early work which will be three nights a week until November. The nights selected are Monday, Wednesday, and Thursday. Beginning early in November, daily practice will be held.

Coach Tebell wants a lot more men but only those who want to work hard and steadily. He wishes to discourage irregular practice. Let's go now, men, and drag old State's basketball record up from the depths to the place of distinction and honor it deserves. The 1924-25 basketball championship banner will look fine alongside the others.

Editorials

Attention should be given to the fact that this week our joke editor has been given the more dignified title of exchange editor.

As usual, the three officers of the Freshman Class are football men. It is a general rule that football men are elected by the Freshmen Class for their class officers, but when we get down to the bottom of the matter football is the only thing that gives a man distinction by the time the elections are held in the fall. We know very little of the men elected, therefore no comment could be made as to whether the freshmen have made a wise or otherwise selection—only time can tell.

Last week we were indeed glad to have visitors on our campus from N. C. College, Trinity, Meredith, Peace, Carolina, and Wake Forest. We always like to have people visit us, and especially do we like to have visitors from other North Carolina institutions, because it gives them a chance to see our school and a chance to realize just how big we really are here. No matter who may be visiting our campus, whether boys or girls, whether friend or foe (rivals in games, etc.), let's always treat them with the greatest hospitality so that they will want to come back some time.

Traffic on Hillsboro street must be getting very bad indeed. Since the beginning of the school term there have been upwards of five students hit by cars out in front of the campus. Something is the matter. Whose fault is it? Someone is to blame for all the accidents which have been occurring. The matter should be looked into and if it is the fault of poorly lighted streets we should try and get more lights; if it is carelessness on the part of the persons driving cars, measures should be taken to make them more careful. On the other hand if it is due to the carelessness of the students themselves they should be warned of the danger. Whatever be the cause, it should be found, in order that we might stop the accidents.

"Where is the Student Forum this year?" We would like to know ourselves. Is it true that our campus has reached such a degree of perfection that no one finds fault with anything? The purpose of the Forum is to turn the opinions of the student body against issues, or actions upon the campus. We know we are not perfect; therefore it must be that the students are so self-centered and so self-satisfied that they do not want to take time and effort to write for the Student Forum, and try and get the opinion of the student body against all measures on our campus that are detrimental or on the other hand to get them started toward something that will help us. If there is anything on the campus in any way, shape or form you don't approve of, tell the student body about it in the columns of the student forum.

The Curry Institute was held last week and was beyond a doubt the biggest thing that the College "Y" has put on in quite a while. The only regret is that more couldn't attend the meetings. In a few weeks, however, the entire student body will begin reaping benefits of this institute when the Bible study courses begin. Those who did attend will try to give to those who did not attend the substance of what was discussed and brought up at the meetings. While this won't be as good as the "real stuff" itself, still every man on the campus should be enrolled in the Bible study and learn some of the principles learned in the Curry Institute.

The call for basketball men has been issued. The coach wants as many men in the sophomore and junior classes as can possibly come out, and as many men in the senior class who have had experience in basketball. It would be useless for the coach to spend his time working with a senior who has never had any experience in the game, but with a sophomore or junior it is different. With the new Gym to work in the basketball squad should be much larger this year than ever before. It will be a pleasure for men to work under as fine a man as we have for coach and to work in the best gymnasium in the South.

We should feel indebted to the Grand proprietors for the free show last Thursday night, but fellows, we should act like gentlemen instead of a drove of cattle when we go down there. What kind of a reputation do you think you are giving State College men when you go down Fayetteville street in a mob and crowd around the Grand until passersby have to go out in the street in order to get by? This in itself is not so bad, but after they had given us the show we rushed in and broke the glass. This, of course, was paid for by a collection which was taken up. Still, it leaves a bad impression on the proprietors of the show and upon the people of Raleigh. Let's be a little more thoughtful after this and act like men and not beasts.

State College should be through playing big teams like Penn State at the beginning of the season. There is nothing to be gained in playing a large team like this, but there is much to be lost, and this year, as well as last, we did lose more than just the game. To play Penn State at the beginning of our season is to throw away the rest of our football season. Instead of playing Penn State we should copy after her, in so much that she plays weak teams for the first two or three games, until her team is in condition to meet stronger teams. This is what we need to do, and it is believed that from now on this is what will happen.

Football in the Northern colleges and universities are much more professionalized than they are in the South. For instance: at Penn State the team's schedule or classes is so arranged that they can be out every afternoon at about 3 o'clock and they practice until 8 o'clock, by electric lights. The varsity and freshmen members of the football squad are able to secure, without much difficulty, scholarships that carry free tuition, free board, free room rent, and all college dues. Is it any wonder these schools put out the very best teams and is it any wonder when our Southern teams go North to play them that they usually get the smaller end of the score and the larger number of knock-outs?

The new system of taking one point off of graduation for every three classes missed seems to be meeting with much disapproval among the students. There are no excused absences except in a case where a man is excused by the college. For example: when a man is off on an athletic trip. As a rule the majority of the students agree that this is a fine system when a class is deliberately cut, but, on the other hand, when a man is sick for several days it is a different matter. It seems that this is rather unjust; because it means that if a man should be sick for about a week or more he might as well drop out of school for that term. If possible some change should be made or some provision made in case of sickness, death at home, etc.

It is believed that the faculty had not considered this system from every angle before they adopted it, and we hope that they will see fit to make some changes which will allow a man a chance to retain all the points which he deserves when he is absent from class due to sickness, etc. Under such a system it would be possible for a man to stay at State College for four years, pass on every subject he took, average over 70 per cent, and still not have enough points to graduate. Is this right?

This same student could go to some other similar college, but one which did not have the point system and get his diploma there. In other words we would educate a man here and then some other school would get the credit for it. Again, is this right?

There is much controversy at the present time about who shall and who shall not wear the freshmen caps among the members of the freshmen class. All this trouble is foolish and should not be. It is in the first place hurting the court of customs and student government. Either every man registering at State College for the first time and carrying over one-half freshmen work should wear the freshmen cap, regardless of course (whether special or otherwise) and age, or none of them should wear the cap.

The wearing of the freshmen caps by the freshmen class has helped lots towards doing away with hazing, and hazing is one evil that we can get along without; therefore the freshmen should wear the caps, and if one wears it, the whole class should.

Any freshman who is ashamed to wear the cap and is so yellow that he will change his course to the so-called Special Course should be looked down upon by every member of the student body who has an interest in our own State College.

The cap signifies that the man bearing the cap is a member of our student body and he should be proud of it and want people to know he is a student of State College.

MISHAP

Mr. William Bill Door and Mr. Fatts Tubby McKinnon announce the arrival of three of the cutest little pups that the writer has ever seen.

The triplets include one little boy, the bigger looking of the three and two little girl dogs. Bill Door puffs his chest to the extent of his buttonless vest and says with the most emphatic accent that they are the best looking dogs that he has ever raised, and he has raised quite a few of them, too. Bill says that the dogs are of a very high pedigree and that their ancestry dates as far back as the dogs that licked the sores on the worn-out frame of poor Lazarus of Bible fame. One of the dogs ancestors was carried into Noah's celebrated ark. Another one of its ancestors, Doggawn, came over on the Mayflower. Another of the tribe won fame and distinction in world war as member of the A. E. F., General Staff, and Kitchen Police. Reference was often made to him in unofficial, two-party conversation.

At a christening ceremony, held in No. 26, Watauga, the elder daughter was officially named, and accordingly sanctioned, Alice Bluegown, the milked canine of Bill's colorful sanctum. The second and last little blushing maiden was cognomened Britania Clossodorbis Leaganations, the pride of Fatts McKinnon's unswept Green and Gold Emporium. The little son was named with the handicapping affix of "Dairy-ox," the disqualified bull of South Dormitory. He is the ox of this three-party dairy, and bears a very significant name.

Bill says that he will have all of them, including the fond mother, Kathrine, on display during Fair Week.

Expressions of Sympathy

The friends of James L. Campbell wish to express to him their most sincere sympathy for the serious illness of his mother which made it necessary for him to return to his home in Asheville last Tuesday. It is not yet known when he will be able to come back to college, but it is hoped that this will be real soon.

LETTER FROM EDITOR OF 1923 TECHNICIAN

"Buck" Morris Is Working Hard in the Oil Fields of Southern Oklahoma

As the fellows from this institution go out into the world and start their life's work, we appreciate their remarks about their experiences more than they expect when they send in their letters to their various old friends.

The other day our friend, Mr. Cullins, proprietor of the College Laundry, received a letter from "Buck" Morris, who is located in one of the western states, and with his kind permission we are more than glad to publish part of it in The Technician in order that his old friends may know what he is doing and how he is getting along. Below is the letter that "Buck" wrote to Mr. Cullins, in part:

Dear Mr. Cullins:
Your letter of September 23rd reached me here through the Bartlesville office. I am now in the oil fields of Southern Oklahoma, about 35 miles north of the Texas line. I have been here since August 17th.

To be real frank with you, I am catching "pluperfect H—" at present. We work ten hours a day—Saturdays, Sundays, and all—holidays are unknown out here. Of course, I get crude oil all over me every day. It is a great life. We have 11 oil wells and 1 gas well here. The oil wells are 2,700 feet deep and the gasser about 900 feet. We get about 350 to 400 barrels of oil a day.

I am very sorry that you are misinformed about my marriage. I wish it were true, but I am still a bachelor—even more now, because I have to cook my own meals (three of us together). I am going to attend the

IREDELL COUNTY CLUB

The Iredell County Club met October 1, for the purpose of reorganizing. Most of the old men were back, as well as a great many Freshmen. This year we have one of the largest clubs on the hill, an increase over last year of nearly fifty per cent. We now have thirty members.

The officers who were elected are as follows: G. A. Morrow, president; J. F. Long, vice president; A. M. Woodsire, secretary; and M. F. Fairchilds, treasurer.

This year the club is planning to keep in close contact with all high school boys from home and try to interest them in State College.

VALUE OF THE COLLEGE PAPER TO COLLEGE LIFE

(H. Ellsworth Brushwood)

The following article appeared in The Yellow Jacket Weekly, the publication of Randolph-Macon College. With apologies to Mr. H. E. Brushwood and The Jacket we publish it in the Technician as it applies to all colleges and college publications.

A school paper is more than a panacea for the mental indigestion of youthful scribblers. It should be nothing less than an organ of school spirit and student opinion. This is the idealistic conception of a college newspaper. When any such paper serves only as an outlet for youthful talent it is failing to perform its most vital duty and its right to existence is questionable. This is especially true of the college or university newspaper.

As a medium of expression the college newspaper reigns supreme. Thru its columns the student editor and his staff of representative students have the opportunity of referring to the student body for their consideration such matters as are pertinent to college life in that particular institution. It is to be feared that in many of our school papers the importance of the editorial department has been minimized to such an extent that those subjects that should be discussed there give place to thoughts on spring, vacation time or Christmas holidays. A powerful agency for constructive criticism and possessing as it does that capacity for moulding student opinion: for arousing the pride and interest of all concerned, the college newspaper is a valuable asset to any college community. Nothing less than a live-subject college paper will do this however.

Topics so discussed may range from intercollegiate debates to keeping the campus clean. More enthusiasm and renewed interest in athletics, literary societies and the hundred and one other campus activities comes as the result of a well conducted college newspaper properly treating such matters. The judicious treatment of some college problem by a thinking editor has often revolutionized the conduct of those within the precincts of the college and added zest to their activities. Again it has awakened slumbering alumni, imbuing them with a greater sense of duty to their Alma Mater. To fire the school spirit and patriotism of undergraduates and alumni alike use the columns of your college newspaper. Students like to see the achievements of themselves and their fellow students on the athletic field, in the literary halls and other fields of endeavor, written and published. It is a source of never ending pride to have the written achievements of that body, of which one is a member, find its way to other schools and back home to parents and friends. Thus a spirit of community interest prevails and this is one of the most valuable contributions of a college newspaper to college life.

This unifying and unifying effect that the college newspaper has on a college constituency but especially the student body is most commendable. When diverse personalities of many climes unite for the progress of specific aims and ideals of higher value the effect is ever afterwards apparent in the morale of that body. Another great contribution of the college newspaper to college life is the permanent record of events that a file of such papers afford. Many institutions possess files of its publications for years back and have a fondly cherished way of occasionally delving into the distant past and bringing forth the reminiscence of some epoch-making event in the school's history. This adds to the prestige of that institution so fortunate as to have preserved these daily, weekly or bi-weekly chronicles of its life time.

Many of the larger university and college newspapers recently have attempted to assimilate for their readers digests of thoughts on great world problems, viewing them from the standpoint of the student. This was done to a great advantage during the Reparations Conference. Other movements of like magnitude might be followed by the college newspaper and thus serve to connect up the student with the pulsations of the outside world.

The few in every college who serve the publication of their college so faithfully and without recompense gain much from their experiences. They learn to see thru and look beyond the sham and glitter of men and things; to see every thing as it really is, and find happiness in asso-

Dr. Brooks Present At World's Series Opener

While in Washington attending a meeting of the advisory committee of the National Cotton Growers Association, of which he is a member, called by Mr. Hoover, who is chairman of the committee, Dr. E. C. Brooks, President of the College, had the pleasure of witnessing, along with other distinguished visitors, the opening game of Washington's first world series. Despite the fact that the game was a twelve-inning pitchers' battle, and that Washington lost, Dr. Brooks stated that it was enjoyed by every one and that no one thought of leaving before the whole twelve innings were over. Dr. Brooks is still college boy enough to get excited when he sees a close game, and it is our opinion that he thoroughly enjoyed this one.

Because Dr. Brooks is Dr. Brooks, he remembers especially the little anecdotes and side plays of the game even more so than the big points, just as in life he takes time to enjoy the little humorous happenings, both at his own expense and at the expense of others. He said that President Coolidge, who was to toss the first ball across, was delayed for a few minutes and thus held up the game. The crowd went wild when the umpire called to them, "Who is this fellow Coolidge who thinks he can hold up a world series baseball game?" Another humorous thing which Dr. Brooks mentioned, and which was just a little deeper than all fun, was the way the people idolized Walter Johnson, calling him Sir Walter. He received more of an ovation than President Coolidge.

LEAZAR LITERARY SOCIETY

The Leazar Literary Society held its first initiation last Friday evening. There were a total of thirty-three men taken into the society at that time. These men came from different classes with the greater number from the Freshman Class.

The initiation was as short as possible to make it impressive. Every man that took the initiation is very interested in society work and they are going to put every effort possible to win in the contest and help to build up a literary society that will be second to none in the entire state.

There were several old members present despite the conflicting meetings and every one of them were pleased with prospect for the coming year.

The society is planning to put on some real good programs this year and we feel sure that we will all be benefited by the short time we give to the literary work each week.

Realizing the value of the literary society the Leazar Literary Society aims to hold another initiation Monday evening, 6:30 o'clock in the "Y," and we want all men that are really wanting to accomplish something while they are at State College to come and be with us.

The old men and the men that joined last Friday evening having in view no less an object than that of our mutual improvement by friendly disputation, and believing this end most efficiently attained by society and interchange of thought have united themselves to represent the Leazar Literary Society.

Our idea of a true society can only be realized by a close union in friendship. We want you to come and join us Monday evening!

MONTGOMERY COUNTY BOYS ORGANIZE CLUB

(By E. T. Monroe)

The boys of Montgomery County met Thursday night in the Y. M. C. A. to discuss the possibility of organizing a club at State College. The meeting was called to order by W. L. Horne who introduced Mr. L. L. Hedgepeth, a prominent young man among the boys of State College. Mr. Hedgepeth gave a brief talk outlining the benefits derived from county clubs.

At the close of the meeting the question of organizing was left to the boys present and was passed by a unanimous vote.

The officers elected were: J. L. James, president, W. L. Horne, vice-president, E. T. Monroe, secretary and treasurer. With these enthusiastic young men at the head of the club we hope to see it move forward and accomplish great things toward the advancement of State College and the upbuilding of Montgomery County.

ROWAN COUNTY CLUB HOLDS FIRST MEETING

The Rowan County Club of N. C. State College held its first meeting October 4, 1924, for the purpose of electing officers for the ensuing year. J. J. Wright, Jr., was elected president; J. E. Beaver, vice-president; R. J. Peeler, secretary, and T. J. Bell, treasurer.

All the members of 1923-24 are back for this term's work with the exception of three, who graduated last year. The club was pleased to see so many high school graduates matriculate for this term's work and welcomed them to N. C. State College.

The members of the club are: H. E. Ruffy, J. P. McAdams, Jr., R. J. Peeler, D. F. Ritchie, J. F. Beaver and J. J. Wright, Jr.

The new members are: T. J. Bell, J. R. Daniels, George Burke, E. L. McCarnie, W. F. Owen, N. L. Hendricks, W. R. Sechler, B. C. Coble, M. B. Pouncey and H. B. Corriher.

Agricultural Students Act As Judges at County Fairs

Many agricultural students have been called upon to be judges along their respective lines of specialization at various county fairs in North Carolina. State College Agricultural Seniors at fairs this week are: H. G. Moore of the Animal Husbandry Department to judge livestock, and W. H. Rankin, taking post-graduate work in the Agronomy Department, to judge farm crops at the Roanoke-Chowan Fair, Woodland, N. C. C. F. Parish, who is specializing in poultry, is at the Forsyth County Fair, Winston-Salem, N. C., judging poultry.

These fellows have been well prepared for judging in their particular fields. H. G. Moore is a member of the 1924 N. C. State Livestock Judging Team, winning third place in the South, at Memphis, Tenn. W. H. Rankin is a member of the 1923 N. C. State Farm Crops Judging Team which won first place in the United States at Chicago, Ill. C. F. Parrish made the trip with the 1923 N. C. State Poultry Judging Team to Madison Square Garden, N. Y., which was crowned with many honors.

Criterion Quartet Pleases

Last Saturday evening, in Pullen Hall, the Criterion Male Quartet began our annual lyceum series by winning their way into the hearts of those who heard them. With songs of all kinds, humorous, popular, and also the opera type, they pleased the crowd gathered to hear them. All too soon, it seemed, the end came. Visitors here from other colleges, attending the Curry Bible Institute, heard the quartet and expressed great delight concerning this pleasing side of our campus system.

The members of the quartet were

Traction Tom Says:

"The thrill isn't only in getting fares"

Dear Folks:

A passenger whose mind runs chiefly to money said to me recently:

"You must get a thrill out of handling so many fares every day."

Certainly, I collect fares, and it's nice to see the fare box counter run up a big total, but that isn't the real thrill in this job. Here's the thrill:

It's taking a kiddie safely to school and knowing that its mother trusts you with its precious life.

It's helping women get home comfortably when, after a hard day's shopping, they get on my car with their arms full of bundles.

It's getting men and women to the factories, shops, stores and offices and home again every day, so the wheels of industry may turn regularly.

Sometimes I feel that possibly nobody, except a doctor, or a school teacher, or some other public servant, gets as many thrills out of his work as a car man.

—I thank you.

Coach Miller Wants Monogram For The Cross-Country Team

Suggests That All Minor Sports
Should Be Awarded
Letters

(By H. Baum.)

For some time there has been a rumor around the campus that Coach John F. Miller has made statements regarding the awarding of monograms to cross-country men.

When interviewed on the subject, Coach Miller made the following statement: "Any student who represents N. C. State College in any intercollegiate contest on a schedule arranged with other colleges should surely be awarded a monogram in that sport." Coach Miller explained that he was in favor of awarding this monogram to men who show sufficient ability in any of the minor sports to deserve such an award. These minor sports include cross-country, tennis, and wrestling. "Of course," continued Coach Miller, "final action on such an award will have to be taken by the Athletic Board of Control."

The major monogram is awarded only in football, baseball, basket-ball, and track. The minor monogram would necessarily be different in design or bear some distinguishing mark.

Of course it must be understood that there is no promise made to any participant in minor sports that he will receive a monogram even should he display marked ability in a minor sport. The Athletic Board of Control will have to decide this, but Coach Miller is in favor of making the award, and it is our belief that Coach Miller's opinion will have a very strong bearing on the action taken by the committee.

It is a very good opportunity for a man who is good in cross-country running to make his letter, and it should increase the number of men trying out for the team. We are very glad to see that Coach Miller has taken such action as it will be remembered that last year the Technician favored such an award.

Wolfpack and Gamecocks Meet Saturday Afternoon

Saturday while the Tar Heels and Blue Devils battle at Durham, and Wake Forest and Washington and Lee lock horns, the Wolfpack will journey into the wilds of Columbia, S. C., to give battle to the South Carolina Gamecocks.

From all advance reports the game will be a corker. The Gamecocks have practically the same team this year as they did last year. Those that remember the game with South Carolina last year remember that South Carolina presented a fast, well-coached, hard-fighting team. It was only after a bitter struggle that the Wolfpack battered the Gamecocks into submission to a tune of 6-0.

The following is an extract of the "Gamecock": "At the present writing it seems to be the best squad in point of experience, morale, and fighting experience that has been assembled on University field in years." So far this year South Carolina has won from Erskine, 46-0, and lost to the strong University of Georgia team, 18-0, when many passes attempted by the Gamecocks failed. This shows that not only on paper are the Gamecocks strong.

On the other hand, the Wolfpack also has practically the same team back that we had last year. The squad and students are encouraged by the fact that for the first time in history the Wolfpack scored on Penn State this year. Believing that a strong offense is the best defense, Coaches Shaw and Tebell have whipped the Wolfpack into a strong offensive team that will make any team look to its laurels. The squad received a few bruises and scratches in the Penn State game but they are all expected to be sufficiently healed for the South Carolina game.

Summing it all up, the game should be a good, close, hard-fought game, with the odds slightly on State.

A bunch of State students have chartered a bus to carry them to the game. With this bunch of students and with the hobo special in operation, a fair crowd of State boys are expected to make the trip with the team.

The probable line-up follows:

N. C. S.	U. S. C.
Wallis or Studdert	Meyer, Capt.
Left End

Freshmen Whip Scrubs

All-Americans Show Fight and Defense But Wolflets Prove
Too Much for Them

Old man Dope received a hard jolt Saturday afternoon when the All-American scrubs did the unexpected and held the Wolflets scoreless during the first half of a game which was predicted to be a freshmen track meet.

In the first half both teams made several fumbles and as neither side could gain any yardage, were compelled to turn the fracas into a punters' battle. The scrubs gained a newspaper decision for the first half over the Wolflets due to their brilliant defensive work. The entire scrub team worked smoothly on the defense.

Between halves Coach Hammond completely rejuvenated his charges and it was an entirely different team that came back on Riddick Field at the beginning of the second half. The Wolflets opened an offensive that would not be denied and started to pile up a score by a combination of brilliant end runs and forward passes. Every freshman who had ever been guilty of reporting for practice was given a chance to show his stuff, but even this failed to slow up the Wolflets and they continued to score until the timekeeper announced time up.

The final score was 22 to 0.

Davidson Whips Richmond; Trinity Defeats Guilford

Carolina Holds Yale Bulldog to 27-0, While Elon and Lenoir Lose

Davidson continues to win and begins to loom up as more formidable than was at first thought she was. By her victory in Winston-Salem last Saturday over Richmond University, by the score of 7-0, Davidson seems to be proving that she has the stuff this year.

Trinity came up to expectations when she sent Guilford back home with the small end or a 33-6 score. Although defeated by State to the tune of 14-0, we predict that Trinity is still to be reckoned with before the State championship race is over. Guilford scored—which is something.

Carolina played a good game against Yale, showed the old push once when she carried the ball to Yale's two-yard line, but failed to score and came home defeated, 27-0. It is of interest to note that 25,000 people witnessed the game—perhaps the largest crowd to witness a football game this year. All of which speaks well for North Carolina.

Elon continued her losing streak when she went down before Lynchburg, 16-0.

Lenoir lost to Roanoke, 26-7. Roanoke had the advantage of a veteran team while Lenoir has a new coach this year.

Raleigh High School Is Defeated Again

Sanford defeated Raleigh Hi 25 to 3 last Friday. Raleigh's only score came in the first quarter when Burrus dropped a beauty through the uprights from the 33-yard line. Sanford showed some class, scoring one touchdown in the first half and three in the second half.

sponsibility of guiding Pullen Literary Society to the high degree of development and service to the college that it has set as its goal.

Mr. H. B. Keen, a senior in the School of Electrical Engineering, has been very active in the work of the society since his freshman year. Extra work which he was taking prevented his taking a very active part in the inter-society contests, but he never failed to show his ability at every opportunity in events within the society. Keen has always been one of the most progressive members of the society, as when interviewed after his election he said, "Tell them that we are determined to win every inter-society contest as we did in '23."

Mr. Hedgepeth's resignation was a great loss to the society but they feel that they have in Mr. Keen a man fully as competent, and under his guidance they are planning a very extensive expansion.

Because of the resignation of Mr. Hedgepeth and the fact that several other meetings claimed the attention of men who were anxious to make application for membership into Pullen Literary Society, the initiation which had been planned to take place at this time was postponed until the following Wednesday night when a form of initiation which will be a new feature of the society and in keeping with its progress will be inaugurated.

Another feature of the Institute which was particularly pleasing was its co-ed nature. The "furriners" on State's campus last week-end were especially welcome, both the boys and girls. You Have An Old Man In Your Care .

—He is with you all the time, though you have never seen him. But not so many years from now you will look into your mirror and meet him face to face. He is—you!

There is great satisfaction in looking after this old man—a sense of mental comfort in knowing that his declining years are provided for. And it is so easily done; sums laid aside at regular intervals to accumulate at interest will pay him an income when he needs it most—that it, when he can no longer earn for himself. If death intervenes before the date which he has set for this income to start, payments are made at once to his—to your dependents.

Provident Mutual old age endowment policies are bringing comfort to thousand of elderly people, and it is gratifying to see how popular this excellent form of Life Insurance is becoming. Consult your nearest Provident Agent concerning a plan of old age endowment insurance for you today. If you do not know his address write to the company itself.

"Working Your Way" Made Feasible

Writing life insurance has enabled many a man to pay his way through college. It is a dignified calling and a true social service.

To induce your fellows to form habits of thrift—to obligate them to put by a little of the income—to safeguard them against future loss of earning power—is a form of effort that brings keen satisfaction as well as profit.

That is only one of the reasons why the insurance business today is attracting some of the very best brains of America.

FRESHMAN CLASS MEETING

The first meeting of the freshman class was called Friday night, October 3, in Pullen Hall, at 6:30, in order to elect class officers. Due to the absence of many members, and especially the football men, it was voted to postpone the election of officers till Tuesday night, October 7, in the Y. M. C. A. auditorium, at 7:30.

The meeting was held last Tuesday night, with all members present, and "Cigar" Hoey acting as chairman. The class sang "State College, Keep Fighting Along," and gave a few yells for the Wolfpack. "Cigar" then read and explained a few rules that had not been observed.

Officers were elected as follows:
President—W. I. Bigger.
Vice-President—G. H. Fontain.
Secretary-Treasurer—Wilson Uzzle.
Poet—O. G. Williams.
Historian—John Morris.
Class Leader—L. A. Taylor, with W. Y. Warren and George Dudley as his assistants.

The election was closely contested throughout, and the speeches given showed real ability for the class of '28.

New Lois Wilson
Role DelightfulThis Charming Actress Portrays Molly Winsate in "The Covered Wagon"

One of the greatest roles she has ever had! That is what Lois Wilson has in James Cruze's production of "The Covered Wagon," a new Paramount picture which will be shown at the Superba Theatre next week.

The picture is said to be one of the finest ever screened.

Molly Wingate—if you have read Emerson Hough's novel, you'll never forget her. Pretty Molly! A daughter of the pioneer days—forced to face the terrific struggle against the wilderness and its untutored inhabitants when the West was still unwon.

Miss Wilson is ideally cast. She is Molly Wingate to the life in temperament, appearance and character, and her portrayal will be hailed as one of the real artistic achievements of the screen.

Miss Wilson rides a spirited horse which runs away with her and later is caught in a prairie fire from which she is rescued by the hero, the incident being one of the most thrilling in the action of the picture. There isn't a dull moment in Miss Wilson's scenes in the photoplay.

J. Warren Kerrigan plays the role of Will Banion "major under Donphan" in the Mexican war, easy of manner, courteous and brave. The other roles are filled by players of genuine ability.

CHATHAM COUNTY
CLUB IS ORGANIZED

Last Saturday, October 4th, there was a call meeting of all the students at State from Chatham County. During the meeting there was a club organized which bears the name of Chatham County Club.

This is the first time in the history of the College that Chatham has had enough students at State to organize a club. The club was organized as an attempt to bring about a friendlier spirit among the students from Chatham County and to do all we can to make a bigger and better State College.

We hope to create an undying interest in our club meetings and are going to do things for State College and Chatham County that will awaken those that sleep so peacefully on Chatham County has never had many men here to represent her but we realize that she has young men, probably hunting the "Famous Chatham Rabbit" today, that have the ability to make capable leaders like our state is demanding today.

Watch this newly organized club bring them to State because we know of no other college that will develop Chatham's boys as State College will.

Two-Mile Race At The State Fair Next WeekMany Attractive Prizes; Any State College Man
Eligible

The first race of the college year will be run fair week. This race is for a distance of two miles over the fair grounds race track. The race is open to all State College men. Several attractive prizes have been secured for the men who place in the race. All men not on the cross-country squad and who wish to enter this race see Manager Jameson some time before the race.

The cross-country squad now numbers about thirty-five men. These men are working out daily under Coach Saville. Coach Saville says that prospects for this year's team are fairly bright. The team has special training tables. Any new men will be put on a training table as soon as they show that they have possibilities as a runner.

So far the following stores have donated prizes for the fair week race: Students Supply Store, College Laundry, Branch's Pressing Club, and West Raleigh Electric Shoe Shop.

INGRATITUDE

(By T. M. McCrea.)

Ambition killed Caesar; money made Croesus kick the bucket; love killed Anthony (and he died happy), but the death toll of ingratitude is only measured by the number of old frames that are pushing up daisies this spring.

The writer in a recent interview with two of the most prominent business men on the campus learned that they had adopted a system whereby parties borrowing articles of any significant value were required to give a receipt in exchange. This receipt is filed and later returned to the giver on the return of the goods. This eliminates the doubt in the minds of the lender, whenever valuable articles are not returned. Unappreciative friends are in a bad habit of borrowing things and not thinking enough of their benefactor to return the goods. The lender, too often, is busy and takes no notice of the transaction, leaving it to the honesty and integrity of his friends to return the things that he apparently needed at the time.

There have been several cases of this nature on the campus recently, and the extent of the time of the loan, under advertised request that the lender return the goods, has caused the case of a simple loan to approach that of diabolical thievery. Turning the trust of a friend into a case of "Big Road" robbery is criminal; and "It is better that a mill-stone be tied around his neck and that he be dropped into the depths of the sea." A professor in college once remarked that "There are more thieves in college than there are thieves on the outside."

So, fellows, you can't be too careful. Look after the other fellow's interest as well as your own, and he will in turn appreciate it.

THE AMERICAN PRINCE

To all fraternity men the following article clipped from "The New Student" will be of interest:

John Coolidge, son of the President, came to his father's college, Amherst. The Dartmouth paper reported that "young Coolidge accepted the pledge (of Alpha Chapter of the Phi Gamma Delta fraternity) on the second day of the rushing, having been rushed by 12 other fraternities." There are thirteen houses at Amherst.

Our Amherst correspondent is "wondering how Dartmouth happens to know so much about it all."

"Young Coolidge," says he, "had a very definite idea when he came here this fall that he was going to pledge his father's fraternity, and the other twelve houses had a good idea that he would be going there. To my knowledge there was no great attempt made by any house to get him. Our house gave him a bid, but this came only after a good bit of discussion of the boy himself, and not as one having influential connections."

"Coolidge made the rounds of the houses in the usual manner on the first and second days. . . . He wore a gray lounge suit, tan Oxford shoes, and looked rather neat in appearance. At times he looked bored, but this I think was due to embarrassment."

"I don't believe that John is any exceptional lad and everyone here seemed to realize it."

THE BAND PLEASES

The following letter, received by Dr. Brooks from Mr. R. S. Busbee, the secretary of the Raleigh Chamber of Commerce needs no explanation, but we would like to say that we are glad the Raleigh business men had a chance to see just who and what our band is composed of. The letter pleased Dr. Brooks very much, and it should please the whole student body:

RALEIGH, N. C., Oct. 1, 1924.

DR. E. C. BROOKS,
President State College,
Raleigh, N. C.

MY DEAR DR. BROOKS: I was among those on the State Fair Special out of Raleigh last week and was so impressed with the behavior of the thirty State College boys in the band that I want to tell you of it, knowing that it will give you a great deal of pleasure. I am a loyal University alumnus, but if anything should make me root for State College it would certainly be the association with these thirty fine young men.

Sincerely,

(Signed) R. S. BUSBEE,
Sec. Chamber of Commerce, Raleigh.

Mary: Of course not, this isn't Palm Sunday.

Johnnie: Well, it isn't Independence Day, either.

Mother: "What do you mean by putting your thumb to your nose and wriggling your fingers at those little boys?"

Willie: "Don't you worry, they know what I mean?"

Raper: Between you and me, what do you think of Lutz's girl?

Bremer: Between you and me, not so good; but alone—oh! boy.

Humphrey: "Say, Wells, are you a musician?"

Wells: "Well, judge for yourself. I played on the Linoleum when I was a year and a half old."

First Waitress: "Aw, kissin' a gent in public ain't raw."

Tother One: "Well, it ain't done, neither."—Ex.

NITTANY LIONS OUT-GROWL WOLFPACK

Penn State her only touchdown for the quarter. On her kick-off Penn State sent the ball well over the goal line. Beginning at the 20-yard line, Johnson made a couple of pretty runs for a first down but was forced to kick on the third down. Penn State then attempted passes but without success. Alternate kicks gave but little advantage to either team and the first quarter ended with Penn State on the 67-yard line, with a score of 7-0.

Penn State opened the second quarter by carrying the ball on the goal line, but was penalized 15 yards for holding. However her error was quickly erased by a touchdown, followed by a goal-kick. The Lions then proceeded to add to their advantage by scoring a field goal with a place kick. Penn State kicked off over the goal line again, and State took the ball on the 20-yard line, only to lose it after two grounded passes and a kick. After a first down, Penn State carried the ball over for another touchdown. Then for the third time the Lions sent the kick-off over the goal line. The half ended with State on the 20-yard line and with the score 24-0.

State opened the second half with a kick-off. The Lions then started on a clean sweep down the field, making four first downs by line plunges which were quickly followed by a 45-yard run for a touchdown.

From force of habit, Penn State sent another kick-off over the goal line. State took the ball on the 20-yard line and punted to the Lions, who sailed down the field 52 yards for another touchdown. Another kick-off over the goal line and two more touchdowns for Penn State followed in short order. The Wolfpack then kicked off to the Lions, who returned the ball to the 40-yard line. The third quarter ended with the score 51-0.

State opened the final quarter with a series of unsuccessful passes followed by a punt to Penn State's 1-yard line. The Lions returned the punt to their 53-yard line, and State made a first down on line plunges. A pass and a penalty brought the ball to the 2-yard line, and Johnson carried it over.

The line-up was as follows:

N. C. State	Penn State
Wallis	Hayes
White	Center
Logan	Right Guard
Ripple	Right Tackle
W. Shuford	Right End
Lassiter	Right Halfback
Sprague	Fullback
	Quarterback

AG. CLUB HOLDS AN IMPORTANT MEETING

The attention of the Agricultural Club was first caught Tuesday night by Mr. Capps, who told us in a brief way how we might be of service to the High School boys who will be here for judging work at the State Fair next week. They will probably arrive here Wednesday evening or Thursday morning. These boys will come from various sections of our State, and let us be as hospitable as possible toward them, as it will be a means of establishing a still better name for State College throughout our State.

Dr. Wells next gave us an interesting lecture concerning the Agricultural Club and its important function toward turning out professional men in the agricultural field, and also emphasizing the value of our coming Students' Agricultural Fair, illustrating to us that in order that we might have the largest degree of success we must not be lacking in our "organization," which is the main essential to the success of any great undertaking.

Dr. Wells made it plain to all that, even though we fall short on some of our studies, if we have the ability to "do" things we can accomplish a real purpose in life.

Following these educational remarks, business was taken up concerning the Students' Fair and N. C. State Agriculturist. The underclassmen were asked to sign up for the various departments they were especially interested in, and then cooperate to make these departments take first place with their floats and departmental exhibits. It was also announced that the premium list would be out the following day. Departmental editors were appointed for the N. C. State Agriculturist and the agricultural students urged to get their material in for the magazine by the fifteenth of this month.

The treasurer then urged the payment of the dues as soon as possible, after which the club adjourned, to meet the following week.

Installation of Equipment in New Gymn Almost Completed

traction to the eye is the large, angular-shaped windows that are on either side of the building, and numerous smaller ones on the back for the lighting of the swimming pool.

General Accommodations

For many years in the past all the intercollegiate basketball games have been played in the Raleigh City Auditorium for the accommodation of the spectators. But with the completion of the new gymnasium all the intercollegiate games will be played in it. The knock-down seating capacity will be about 2,800, and as soon as possible other seats will be put into the gallery. When adequately filled with seats the fans of Raleigh and vicinity may be guaranteed a seating and standing capacity for easily 5,000 spectators.

One of the most needed and one of the most appreciated accommodations that will be given to the student body is the large swimming pool. It is built of octagonally shaped white tiling and decorated with red tiling—State's colors. The pool is 75 feet long and 35 feet wide, with the depth ranging from three feet six inches to ten feet at the spring boards. Mr. Parker, who has charge of classes in Physical Education, will use this pool for class instruction and interclass meets. The pool will be open at all times for recreational purposes, except during gymnastic class hours. There has been procured a chlorinator for the purpose of purifying the water at a small expense and for absolutely sanitary purposes.

The basement of the gymnasium will be used for locker rooms, baths, and location of the armory. There are eighteen shower baths in the basement and 1,000 fine lockers for the placing of gymnastic suits.

Equipment

There have been two small rooms reserved in the basement that are furnished and equipped for use of physicians in the making of thorough physical examinations. In one of these rooms is a foot-o-print machine used for the showing of the degree of flatness of foot. There is also a silhouettegraph, which is a camera designed for taking silhouettes and showing postural defects. This apparatus will be used extensively in corrective work among the students.

On the first floor much equipment for recreational and instructive purposes has been secured. This consists of the following: 2 parallel bars, 2 side horses, 2 bucks, 3 horizontal bars, 2 springing boards for the pool, 2 flying rings, 6 traveling rings, 6 steel bars, 72 pairs of dumb bells, 72 maple wands, 72 steel wands, 6 medicine balls, 1 punching bag, 1 18x18 wrestling mat, several pairs of boxing gloves, 5 climbing ropes, and 4 permanent volley ball courts.

An auxiliary gymnasium is used for corrective work by Mr. Parker. The physical educational staff, which consists of John E. Miller, director of Physical Education; "Buck" Shaw, football backfield coach; "Gus" Tebell, line coach; "Sammy" Homewood, Freshman football coach, and Mr. Parker, who has charge of the gymnasium classes, has four fully equipped rooms for office work. There is a room for the Varsity club only, and a room for the use of faculty members who participate in any kind of recreation. There is a nice, neat room for visiting teams to dress in, where they will not be disturbed by outsiders.

Not only has the Frank Thompson Gymnasium complete equipment for the training and accommodation of a student body of approximately 1,500, but it has many additional conveniences. All goes toward the building of a finer and nobler manhood in our States and makes possible the threefold educational programs for the development of body, mind and spirit.

Prof.: "Mr. Moffit, I am tempted to give you a zero for reading a letter in class."

Johnnie: "Yield not to temptation."

PRICELESS EXHIBIT OF FABRICS SHOWN AT STATE COLLEGE

There is on display in the Textile Building at State College an exhibit of ancient and modern fabrics, valued at a million dollars, the property of M. D. C. Crawford, editor of the New York Daily News Record and other Fairchild publications. The exhibit, which was shown in Charlotte at the Carolina Exposition, will remain at the college through Friday and the public is invited to see it.

There are wall hangings and other fabrics more than four thousand years old, beautiful shawls from India, Oriental prints, batiks and pieces of tie dying. A doll costume pageant gives the story of silk from 3,500 B. C. to A. D. 1923.

The exhibit also includes 10th Century specimens of dye patterns from the Philippine Islands, 16th and 17th Century India Calceos from France, Peruvian cloths more than 3,000 years old, specimens of 17th century Bulgarian embroideries, 18th century Persian Cloth Mosiac, 17th century Spanish Altar from the Aegean Island.

Members of the Textile Department faculty, and students are in charge to explain to visitors the various features of the exhibit.

While a girl may remember how many times you have treated her, it's a certainty she'll never forget the times you haven't.—Ex.

BIG MEN IN COLLEGE

In the September issue of The Open Road there is an article, "How Big Should a College Man Be?" by George L. Moore. The article is based on statistics as a result of a study of "Big Men of University and of College." Mr. Moore sent questionnaires to responsible authorities in a great many institutions, with instructions to "hunt out the men who ten or fifteen years ago were running the college with the assistance of the president and board of trustees—that is the managers, presidents, athletic captains, editors and high honor students—and note down the facts of their careers since leaving college." Institutions of various sizes and in different parts of the country complied with his requests and sent in much data.

In addition to the questionnaire source of information, the Who's Who for 1924-25, the United States Internal Revenue Statistics of Income, and such sources of statistics were searched for all available information on what happens to big college men. It is needless to say that such statistical information is interesting. Startling facts are contained in the article. The author of the article tries to leave the impression that all college "giants" are failures for the first ten years after they get out into life. He gives such statistics as the ones below.

The first startling characteristic of "campus giants" in after-college life that is noteworthy is that 77 out of every 100 people listed in "Who's Who" are college people, while 23 out of every 100 are non-college people. This same study showed that 66 out of every 100 in "Who's Who" graduated from college. College men and women at least amount to something in life.

Another side of the study gives the occupations of former "campus giants." Of the total number studied, 29 per cent are lawyers, 25 per cent are business men, 21 per cent are teachers, 5 per cent are engineers, 5 per cent are ministers, 4 per cent are doctors, 2 per cent are in research work, 1.5 per cent are editors, 1.5 per cent are in advertising business, 1.5 per cent are in government work, 1.5 per cent are chemists, 1.5 per cent are farmers, and 1.5 per cent are physical directors. We can conclude from the above that big men in college are known in after life—they do not all fade absolutely into oblivion. A man known on the campus while in college as one of the leaders will be known later whether his attainments are high or not.

The study made on the basis of average salaries are similar to the foregoing. Class presidents come first, athletic managers second, treasurers and secretaries of classes third, honor men in studies fourth, captains of teams fifth, and editors of college publications sixth. This xylophone arrangements of some college leaders has its degree of encouragement so far as hopes of salaries in the future are concerned.

The most interesting part of the study is the answer to the question as to what college life did for them. Many different answers were given. Nearly all of them would be different if they could have the opportunity of living their college life over again.—(Reprinted from Old Gold and Black.)
