Change of Grading Is Urged By Psychologist

Dr. Meyer Demonstrates Lectometer and Exactometer; Suggests Changes in Grading

Demonstrating the only Lectometer and Exactometer in the world, Dr. Max F. Meyer, Professor of Psychology of the University of Missouri, spent the entire afternoon and evening of last Thursday giving lectures and showing his unique and complicated instruments to the faculty and students of State College.

The Exactometer, an instrument designed for the measurement of a person's tendency to manipulate things which require accuracy in spatial location, and the Lectometer, an instrument which measures how a person compares with others in his tendency to make use of his eyes, were placed in Dr. Shaw's office in Page Hall. All afternoon different professors of the College witnessed the working and testing of these two instruments—these being the only ones of their likeness in the world and invented by Dr. Meyer. In the tests that were carried out it is interesting to note there were none of the faculty or students who made a mark above the average. The procedure is a grueling one and is very complicated on the machine; therefore it would be impossible, almost, to undertake to explain the mechanism of the machine and procedure of the test.

Grading and Elimination as Methods of Vocational Guidance

At the lecture given in the Y. M. C. A. at 4.30 Dr. Meyer said that the present-day grading of class work is absolutely detrimental to the best interests of the student and instructor, in that it kills the initiative of the student to master his subject and thus discourages the instructor. He stated that the student should be trained in such a way that he would make the mastering of his subject the paramount idea and that the grading would almost dwindle into obscurity if the system that he proposed should be carried out. The University of

Students To Contribute To Community Chest

J. M. Broughton Talks to State College Students in Behalf of This Worthy Cause

Mr. J. M. Broughton, director of the Raleigh Community Chest program, addressed the student body of State College at the second hour Monday morning in Pullen Hall.

In a short address, Mr. Broughton asked the students to contribute whatever they were able to the campaign and suggested that they make their contributions through the American Red Cross. Membership to this organization is one dollar a year and in contributing this amount the students would not only help a very worthy cause but also would have a part in the Community Chest movement at a very small outlay. Cards were passed around and the students were allowed to sign the pledges to be paid whenever convenient.

Mr. Broughton made apologies for asking for money from a student body, explaining that from his own experience he knew the general financial status of students. He stated that all students were financiers since it took a financier to persuade "Dad" that he really needed a little more cash when "Dad" had no more cash to give, and therefore they should not object to contributing to this worthy cause.

The Community Chest movement is new in Raleigh, but it has been

Student Government Puts Out a Definition Of "Special Student"

Classes of Men Listed Below Will Not Be Required to Wear Red Cap

At a business meeting of the Student Council on Tuesday afternoon, the following business of interest to the student body was transacted:

The rule regarding the members of the student body who are required to wear the Freshman cap was clarified. Sometime ago the House of Student Government changed section 6 of the Freshman Rules to read as follows:

"Any man registering at this College for the first time, and taking more than one-half Freshman work, shall be required to wear the Freshman cap. This rule does not apply to 'special students'."

The Council interprets the term "Special Student" to mean a student who is without entrance requirements—but who is permitted to enter college because of his mature age and who selects special courses with a very definite vocational aim, and who is designated by the College authorities as a student of a "Special Class" and is not classified as a Freshman. Such a student does not come under the provisions of this section.

The only men in college who are exempt from wearing the cap under this rule and interpretation at the present time are:

P. J. Brown, E. C. Causey, J. B. Champion, I. Hendren, W. F. Hunter, W. H. Poindexter, D. T. Scales, H. A. Sherwin, R. P. Walthall, and P. Wooten. These men have the words "Special Class" written across their rosters by the College authorities. Everybody is requested to report all violations of the Freshman Rules to the Court of Customs.

At the request of the Council the president appointed "Red" Johnson, R. L. Melton, and Henry Duls a committee to meet with a committee from the Two-Year Agricultural students to decide on a ring to be worn by these students, since they are not in the Senior Class and, therefore, cannot wear the Senior ring.

The Council decided to ask the presidents of the four classes to appoint four members of their respective classes as marshals at the college assembly periods. The plan is to have one man from each class every time, the men to act in rotation, with the Senior member as the chief marshal.

The Council also wishes to call attention to the deplorable falling off in attendance at the college assemblies. These meetings are very beneficial and everybody on the campus should make it a point to attend every one of them. If the attendance does not increase there is great danger of the college being forced to resort to some method of compulsory attendance, which no one wants. In this connection it might be well to remind the Freshmen that they are required to attend all student body meetings; but it is up to all other students to go, as well as the Freshmen.

C. L. SHUFORD, Secretary.

FRESHMAN CLASS MEETS

A Freshman Class Meeting was held in Pullen Hall last Friday night. The purpose of the meeting was to select class colors. The meeting was unusually quiet and orderly.

The following sets of colors were submitted to the class for voting:

Maroon and black, black and old gold, garnet and black, green and gold, purple and gold, green and blue, chocolate brown and dark blue. Maroon and black were the colors selected.

State College Party Goes to Southern Textile Exposition

Visit Made to the Artificial Silk Mill at Lowell, N. C.; Other Mills Inspected

On Tuesday, October 21, several members of the Textile Department started on a three days motor trip. The chief purpose of the trip was to visit the sixth Southern Textile Exposition held in Greenville, S. C., the textile center of the South.

A stop was made at Lowell, N. C., to go on a tour of inspection through the artificial silk mill located there. This mill is in a class by itself in this part of the country, being devoted entirely to the manufacture of artificial silk fabrics.

We arrived in Greenville Tuesday night and next morning visited the Judson Mills of Greenville. This mill is one of the most modern and up-to-date mills in the South, being devoted to the manufacture of fine goods. A keen interest was taken in watching and inspecting the row upon row of looms in perfect running order, turning out yard upon yard of fine shirting and fancy fabrics which were to be later turned into the finished product. It was a revelation to us all. Professor Tulson had preached fine goods to us time after time but never before had we been brought face to face with it, and it was not until then that we fully realized that fine goods can be made in the South, that it is being made, and in the near future it will be made, more and more.

Leaving the Judson Mill we next went to the Textile Exposition Hall, a three-story building, the space of which is devoted entirely to the exhibition of textile machinery. The whole afternoon was spent in inspecting and listening to the explanation of the working of the latest creations and designs in textile machinery.

It was with reluctance that we left the Exposition Building for there was so much to be seen that we felt as if a week could be spent there profitably. The return trip to school was made Thursday.

Those making the trip were: Professor and Mrs. Thomas Nelson, Professor Hilton, O. M. House, W. G. Mahaffey, B. T. Cotton, J. Mosheim, Ed Ruffey, T. Gaines, L. H. Roane, H. L. Lambeth.

Many Clemson Men Apply For Admission

As Present Term Is Half Over, They May Not Be Accepted Until Next Term

According to the registrar, more than thirty men who were dismissed from Clemson College during the recent walkout of the student body at the South Carolina institution, have applied for entrance to State College.

As the term is now half over, these students may not be admitted until next term, because according to the rules of the college, no one can be accepted after a certain date except in very special instances.

The matter was brought before the faculty council at their meeting yesterday, but because of lack of material, no serious consideration was taken of it at that time. However, any students who wish to enter may present their transcript of records from Clemson and they will be considered for registration.

Dean Cloyd stated that he believed no one would be accepted until the beginning of the second term which opens the first of January. It is expected that many Clemson students will enter at this time because most of them are not eligible to enter the South Carolina college until next September.

In last week's Carolinian we saw that a monkey visited the campus at N. C. C. W. and left with a mouth full of peanuts and apples. GEE! WHAT A MOUTH.

R.O.T.C. Rifle Team Boosts State College

Team Has Been Invited to Join the Intercollegiate Rifle Association

The R.O.T.C. rifle team is doing much to boost State College. In addition to ranking third in the shoot for the Hearst trophy last spring this College has been invited to join an intercollegiate rifle association.

The object of this Intercollegiate Rifle Association is to promote interest in and recognition of rifle and pistol shooting among the colleges by competitive matches. The colleges are divided into leagues according to the location of the institution; only three leagues being organized at present, the New England league, the Eastern league, and the Middle States league. This college would belong to the last-named which is composed of Georgetown, Gettysburg, Pittsburgh, Carnegie, Cincinnati, Johns Hopkins, George Washington, University of Kentucky, and N. C. State.

It would do much for State College if we could join this I. R. A. but unfortunately at present we are not able to enter this association because one of the requirements is that the college be a member of the National Rifle Association. We are hoping to enter this association in the near future and as soon as we are members of the N. R. A. we will accept the invitation of the Intercollegiate Rifle Association.

In the shoot for the Hearst trophy last spring State College ranked third with a score of 1,925 out of a possible 2,000 points, only seven points behind the University of Minnesota which won the trophy. This is quite an honor as only the University of Minnesota and Norwich University of Vermont ranked above this college out of 103 active competing teams. The next Southern college on the list was the Texas A. & M. which ranked twentieth. This is below our second team for its stood eighteenth with a score of 1,842 points. J. J. Wright of this college was one of the high scorers of the shoot making a score of 390 out of a possible 400 points. Only five contestants did better than 390; the top score being 397, by a student of the University of South Dakota.

This is one way in which the military department is helping to boost State College.

DORMITORY BIBLE STUDY BEGINS NEXT WEDNESDAY

In a short canvas for members of Bible Study groups Wednesday night about two hundred and fifty men signed up for the course. This number does not, however, cover the total of all who are expected to take part. Several of the canvassers had not reported when the count was made and many of those who did report also reported that quite a few men were out of their rooms at the time the canvas was made. These men will be called on later and given a chance to become members of classes. There are, besides, one or two dormitory sections which have not been canvassed at all. Taking all this into consideration, the chairman of the Bible Study committee hopes to have at least four hundred men enrolled by the time of the first meeting of the separate groups next Wednesday evening at 6:30 o'clock.

N. C. State has always been a leader in Bible Study among the colleges of the South. We are proud of our standing, and wish to keep our place at the top. This can only be accomplished by having a large number of interested men enrolled in the student-led classes. Sign up for Bible Study and help N. C. State keep her place at the top.

Whirlwind Attack in First Half Gives V.M.I. Victory; State Stronger in Last Half

Last Saturday the Flying Squadron of V. M. I. played alert football and defeated the Woolpack 17 to 7. Play by the Woolpack was loose in the first half, and it was during this half that V. M. I. did all their scoring. The victory was the Cadets' seventh in thirteen games played between the two institutions. The game might be termed a moral victory for the Woolpack, because V. M. I.'s two touchdowns were results of long runs by Harmeling and White. The Woolpack tightened up in the second half and V. M. I. was unable to make a single first down.

The first score came before the game was hardly started. Ripple, after the kickoff, punted and was rushed by the V. M. I. forwards. He kicked the ball scarcely twenty yards, where the ball was scooped up by Harmeling, who rushed forty yards for a touchdown. White kicked the goal. The Cadets' second score came soon after the opening of the second period, when White raced from the center of the field to the ten-yard line. Foster carried the ball across a minute later. White again kicked the goal. A few minutes later White intercepted Johnston's attempted pass and put the ball into play on State's forty-five-yard line. A pass, White to Caldwell, gained 25 yards, and White kicked a placement goal from the twenty-five-yard line.

A fumble by Harmeling gave the Woolpack their first chance to score. This fumble coming late in the second quarter. Lassiter gained ten yards from the thirty-five-yard line. Successive line-backs by Lassiter and a short pass carried the ball across. Lassiter kicked the goal.

State was prevented from showing its power in the third period when Johnston fumbled four times, State finally losing the ball on a line buck. V. M. I. carried the ball to the three-yard line, but the Woolpack held

N. C. C. P. A. Will Meet At Greensboro

The Technician Will Be Represented by H. M. Bremer and R. H. Raper

On Thursday, Friday and Saturday of this week the North Carolina Collegiate Press Association will hold its fall meeting in Greensboro. Twice a year the association meets, having its place of meeting at a different school each time. This fall G. C. W. will play host to representatives from all the colleges in the State whose publications are members of the association. The young men and women who will be present will represent the thinking element of our colleges which tries to put before the world whatever has gone on in the colleges of the State. The purpose of the meeting is to bring together in some way the different college papers throughout the State so that they may have a common ground to stand on and a common aim to work for. It offers each representative a chance to gather new ideas which may help in the publication of his or her paper and to bear constructive criticisms on methods of giving news to the college public.

The Technician has been a member of the association since the first and it is through the vigor and enthusiasm kept going by the association that our paper has had such a remarkable success. The Technician will be represented at the conference by R. H. Raper and H. M. Bremer, business manager and associate editor of the paper.

Governor Trinkle, General Dumont, attache of the French embassy, and many F. F. V.'s, were witnesses of the game last Saturday.

It seems that after just one game the Grid-graph has become the most talked-of addition to our campus equipment. It pleases the fellows and fills a long-felt want.

Rain may come and rain may go, but mud goes on forever, unless the new system of drainage being installed works better than the old ever did. Let's hope it will.

And our new special telephone system is coming in for its part of the campus notice. The question most heard about it is, "Will we have 'phones in the dormitories, too?"

It begins to look as though the Frank Thompson gymnasium has at last arrived. The Varsity basketball squad is using it for practice and the Freshmen have already dubbed it "Frankie."

The two-year Ag. men are to have special rings. It is only right that they have rings. Of course they couldn't be allowed to wear the standard ring, but they should have their own ring.

Court of Customs, gauntlet, Freshmen, Post Tostie boxes, all in the same conversation mean that our Student Government is functioning with a will in the department governing the conduct of the Freshies.

According to Early Smith they must be going to starve us in the mess hall during November. He said, "All those who do not check out of the mess hall by the 31st of October will be out of luck for November."

Be sure and read the account of the Student Council meeting. It is a fine thing. The term "Special Student" has at last been cleared up. Now Sophomores, all men who are not wearing caps who should be, turn them up.

The High School championship schedule has been made out. Riddick Field should be the place for as many of the contests in the semifinals as possible. State College men, you know your duty to the College; if any of these games are played on Riddick Field, go out of your way to do something for these High School boys. We need them here later.

We are indeed glad to see the new library named after the late Dr. Hill, former president of the College.

The campus begins to look as if it were the training ground of some infantry unit. These ditches would make fine trenches.

At last John W. Davis has admitted he would be elected and furthermore have the support of Congress. For a long time he has been insinuating this, but last week was the first public admittal of the fact. President Coolidge seems to be waiting until the twenty-first day to count his chicks.

Richmond gave the Wolfpack a very cordial reception last week-end. Although the majority of the spectators at the game were unquestionably for V. M. I., still State had many loyal supporters at the game. Several members of the squad have been heard to remark that they liked Richmond better than Norfolk as a place in which to stage Virginia games.

Hazing will soon be a thing of the past in Southern colleges. Every year more and more colleges and universities throughout the South are taking firm stands against hazing. Even V. M. I., known throughout this section as a school where they are "Rough on Rats," has taken measures to stop hazing. The V. M. I. board says, "Hazing must go, and the hazers with it."

Last year the triangle debate with V. M. I. and V. P. I. marked the beginning of inter-collegiate debating at State College. Last year there wasn't very much interest shown along this line, but we are hoping more interest will be taken this year. Several inter-collegiate debates have already been scheduled for this fall. Try out for this team. Here is a chance for you men who can't represent State College in athletics to represent her in inter-collegiate contests.

The trouble at Clemson is apparently about over, but, of course, it will take a long time to get back to normal again. Last week there were many applications to the Registrar for admittance by Clemson students. While we always want students at State College, still we are not wanting men who cannot get along with the administration at another college. Whether the students were justified or not for the "walk-out" at Clemson several weeks ago we are not in a position to say, but we can say that men that Clemson doesn't want and doesn't need, surely State doesn't want and doesn't need. Some of the students may be justified in leaving Clemson. These men we do want, and we can assure them there will be no such trouble here at State College, and we welcome them here with open arms.

The North Carolina Collegiate Press Association meets this week-end at Greensboro College for Women. The business manager, representing the business office of this paper, and the associate editor, representing the editorial side, will be our representatives at the convention.

HALLOWE'EN

If one did not know, he would hardly believe that the celebration of Halloween originated from the celebration of a Christian holiday. But such is the case. England and Ireland seemed to be the chief places in which All Hallows Eve, or the eve of All Saints Day was kept. On the ancient Hallowe'en bonfires were lighted and kept burning, because on this night, more than any other in the year, ghosts were supposed to wander abroad.

The main celebrations of Hallowe'en are purely Druidical and on the Druidic ceremonies were grafted some of the characteristics of the Roman festival in honor of Pomona, in which nuts and apples, as representing the winter store of fruits, played an important part. Even down till today the roasting of nuts and the "ducking for apples" still are ways of enjoyment on Hallowe'en.

BIBLE STUDY

This week is the beginning of Bible study for this year. It has so been arranged that every section of the dormitories may have a Bible study group. Men from the various fraternities have been organized into Bible study classes. State College has always been to the front in Bible study work, and we want to urge all men to attend these classes and get all you can out of them, because, "It is right there for you." State College must not fall down in anything. This year should be the best yet in Bible study work. J. Bruce Curry spent several days here training the leaders for this work, so it is up to you to go get from these leaders what they received from Mr. Curry.

COURTESY TO VISITING TEAMS IS GOOD FORM

Below is an article written by one of our professors, giving his idea of how we might improve our college spirit for other colleges, and thereby improve their toward us:

October 28, 1924.

Dear Sir:—A letter has already appeared in The Technician praising the student body for the spirit shown during the State-College game. I wish to add to that praise, my own. It requires real college spirit to maintain such a volume of cheering as was heard, in the face of defeat.

Being a newcomer on the campus, there is a natural tendency to make comparisons between State and other schools in the small things that ordinarily go unnoticed. One of these was the "razing" of the officials by a few students when decisions unfavorable to our team were made. There was not much of this, but there should be none whatever. In most colleges this is looked upon as bad form and poor sportsmanship. Can we afford to be different in a matter of this kind? Courtesy to the officials and visiting team and student body will do more to advertise the College in the right quarters than a winning team.

And let me here suggest the adoption of an act of courtesy practiced among the Big Ten colleges. When the visiting team appears on the field and their band plays the college hymn, let the student body stand and uncover, as we do when our own hymn is played. No mark of respect will make a greater impression, and I will venture that if we adopt this custom it will spread to every college in the South within a year.

Another suggestion. Why not have our band play the hymn of the visitors between halves as it marches past their stands. Can't you hear the cheer that would go up from those stands? Why not be the originators of these customs in the South?

Sincerely,
A. F. GREAVES-WALKER,
Professor, Ceramic Engineering.

First Intercollegiate Football Game

A match between Harvard and McGill (Montreal) played on May 13, 1874, was the first intercollegiate football game ever contested. Harvard won; but on the second day was held to a tie in a contest played according to Rugby rules.

The manner of playing was simple. A player could either "run, throw, or pass" the ball when it came to him. "Many good struggles" are recorded in a contemporaneous account.

Eleven players participated in the first game; but as a matter of chance rather than design, four of the Canadian players having been detained in Montreal. For the first time in its history the Harvard team cast aside their usual costume consisting of the oldest clothes available and wore dark trousers, white undershirts and magna scarfs wound round their heads. Their opponents appeared neatly uniformed in the English fashion.

The game consisted of three half-hour periods. Five hundred people witnessed the struggle.—The New Student.

Missouri has this system of grading, which is placing the student in rank as he comes in class from first to last, and has increased the scholarship of the student body about fifty per cent in the past several months.

Not only would this system encourage the student to improve his knowledge of the subject matter, but it would also enable the instructor to look over his records and ascertain his aptitude for different work and thereby help him find himself and know what branch of study to major in. Dr. Meyer said that this would enable the students who are graduated from college to come nearer making a monetary success as well as being pleased with the work he does after he starts into his chosen field.

The system, as suggested by Dr. Meyer and already instituted at the University of Missouri, is something like this: Let us assume that we have 41 students in a class of English. The instructor would place the best one, in his opinion, first, and let all the rest follow according to where the instructor thought they belonged in the list, running from one to forty-one. Then the first eight would receive a grade of A, the men who came next in order up to nineteen would receive a grade of B, the men who run from twenty to thirty-six would receive a grade of C, and the ones that run from thirty-six through forty-one would probably fail the subject. But this grading can't be based alike on all subjects, but according to the difficulty in mastering the subject. The instructor could have his men running from one to forty-one in a difficult study and still pass them all; but in this run the student would know whether he would head the list or be at the foot or middle of it. Dr. Meyer said that, this method of grading would increase the initiative of the student almost beyond one's imagination who had been using our present system. There were many questions that could be asked and answered about this new system that has been suggested, but Dr. Meyer had slides to accompany his lecture and made the complicated seem so simple that a little child could almost grasp the entire method of grading.

Dr. Meyer presented his subject matter in a quiet and scientific manner and in such a way that his method of grading looked to be more feasible than the one that is now in operation at this institution.

Nothing astonishes men so much as common sense and plain dealing.

To Name The Library In Memory of Dr. D. H. Hill

Action Taken by Trustees After Recommendation of General Alumni Association

With the recommendation of the General Alumni Association, the board of trustees of State College on Monday decided that the magnificent new $265,000 library now nearing completion will be named the "Hill Library" in honor of the late Dr. Daniel Harvey Hill, former president of State College.

In a letter to the board of trustees signed by a committee composed of Messrs. E. B. Owen, '98; C. B. Williams, '93; and I. O. Schaub, '00, the alumni association set forth the fact that Holliday Hall was named in honor of the first president of this institution, Winston Hall, for the second, and proposed the name Hill Library for the third president. "This is especially fitting," stated the letter, "because as professor of English and as supervisor and guardian for the college library, he performed there an invaluable service, selecting the books and directing the policy of the library for a period of twenty years."

Dr. Hill

Dr. Hill was born January 15, 1859, at Davidson College, North Carolina, a son of General Daniel Harvey Hill of the Confederate army, and a great-grandson of Colonel William Hill of the Revolutionary war. His father was one of the five North Carolina generals, memorials to whom will be placed at Stone Mountain. Dr. Hill's father was president of the University of North Carolina and his grandfather was president of Davidson College.

Prepared for college at the Military Institute at Charlotte and at Horner and Graves Military Academy at Hillsboro, he was graduated from Davidson College in 1880. In 1885 he received the degree of Master of Arts from Davidson and 1905 the degree of Lit.D. In 1910 the University conferred on him the degree of Doctor of Laws.

From 1880 to 1889, Dr. Hill was professor of English at the Georgia Military and Agricultural College, and from there was called to the professorship of English at the North Carolina College of Agriculture and Mechanic Arts. This was at the time this institution was founded, and Dr. Hill participated in making the original curriculum. From 1889 to 1896 while professor of English, he also held the office of bursar. For twenty years, Dr. Hill was supervisor of the library, selecting its books and directing its policy. In 1899 he was selected as vice-president of the college, which office he held until 1908 under the administration of George T. Winston. In 1908 he became president of the college and held this office until his resignation in 1916 for the purpose of writing on the Ricks Foundation, a history of North Carolina in the Civil War. At the time of his death, two volumes of this work had been completed and are to appear at an early date.

Besides this history of North Carolina, Dr. Hill wrote the History of North Carolina Troops in the Civil War, 1861; General Green's Retreat, 1901; Agriculture for Beginners, 1903; Hill Reader, 1907; Young People's History of North Carolina, 1907; Corn Book, 1920; and numerous other studies and essays on North Carolina history.

Aside from his historical and literary work, Dr. Hill was an active figure in many phases of the State's life. He was one of the founders of the North Carolina Literary and Historical Society and of the Southern Educational Association. In 1907 he was appointed to the Historical Commission of which he became secretary.

At the beginning of the war he was appointed by Governor Bickett as chairman of the North Carolina Council of Defense and as the head of the war-time civilian forces of the State rendered very active service.

"Dr. Hill was one of those rare spirits whose capacity for unselfishness and friendship surpassed most of mankind. A man of high purpose and clear vision, he always exerted the finest influence on college life here. As president, his leadership was wise and progressive. The college grew soundly in prestige and power throughout his term of service."

"As a citizen, he was, as in all else, a man of the highest and purest ideals, far and clear-seeing. His contributions to the writings of North Carolina history and his literary career are well known and constitute a distinction of which State College men are proud."

and was waging an aerial attack when the game ended.

State's greatest trouble was in wild forward passes. Two of these passes, when intercepted, were turned into scores for the Flying Squadron. State tried a great number of passes and completed only two short ones.

Lassiter and Beatty were the outstanding stars for the Wolfpack. White, Clements, Wilson and Caldwell put up the best game for the Cadets.

Al Johnston did not play his usual game, and his fumbling came at times when the Wolfpack threatened. However, he made several good gains around end.

Starting Faulkner in his first start in a varsity game, the coaches were satisfied with the newcomer's work, and much will be seen of this young fellow in future games.

The students were highly pleased with the play-by-play returns of the game last Saturday. The large Grid-graph, electrically operated, made it possible for the indoor spectators to see every move of the ball up and down the field.

The Young Men Worth Finding

There never was a time in the history of the world when there was a greater demand for young men for positions of business trust and management. The world has great need of young men, but no greater need than the young men have for it.

In this day of the auto and jazz the young man must remember that the world is older than he is by several years; that for thousands of years it has been so full of smarter and better young men than yourself that their feet stuck out of the dormer windows; that when they died the old globe went whirling on, and not one man in ten million went to the funeral or even heard of the death.

Be as smart as you can, of course. Know as much as you can, without blowing the packing out of your cylinder-head; shed the light of your wisdom abroad in the world, but don't dazzle people with it, and don't imagine a thing is so simply because you say it is.

Don't be too sorry for your father because he knows so much less than you do; remember the reply of a professor to the student of Brown University who said it was easy enough to make proverbs such as Solomon wrote. "Make a few," tersely replied the old man. We never heard that the young man made any more. Not more than two or three anyhow.

Your clothes fit you better than your father's fit him—they cost more money, they are more stylish, your moustache is neater, the cut of your hair is better and you are prettier, oh, far prettier, than 'Dad.'

But, young man, the old gentleman gets the bigger salary and his homely, scrambling signature on the business end of a check will bring more money out of the bank in five minutes than you could get out with a ream of paper and copperplate signature in six months.

Do not be so modest as to shut yourself clear out; but don't be so fresh that you will have to be put away in the cool to keep from spoiling.

Don't be afraid that your merits will not be discovered. People all over the world are hunting for you, and if you are worth finding they will find you.

A diamond isn't so easily found as a quartz pebble, but people search for it all the more intently.—Ex.

Wolfpack vs. Wildcats At Pinehurst on Friday

Odds Slightly With State, But the Wildcats Are a Scrappy, Fighting Bunch

While the poultry and livestock will be showing their best form, and while the agricultural exhibits will be fighting for first honors at the Sandhills Fair this week, the State and Davidson grid teams will meet in a game which is predicted to be interesting and hard fought.

The game will be of special interest since it will be the Red and Black's first contest of the season with one of the Big Five. The outcome of Friday's game will be a good indicator of the comparative strength of the North Carolina eleven.

Up to the Furman game Davidson had been a consistent winner the whole season. And if the State and Davidson elevens are compared by noting their scores for the season, without taking into account the strength of the opposing team, the Wildcats have the Wolfpack easily outclassed. But a look at the opposing teams show that Davidson has met but one rather strong eleven. This was on last Wednesday when she was defeated by Furman by a score of 6-0.

This does not mean, however, that the Wildcats are not a scrappy, fighting bunch. They have well earned their "rep" of being one of the pluckiest teams in the state.

This year the Red and Black machine has been outweighed by every opposing eleven. The average weight of the Davidson team is only 160 pounds, individuals weighing from 135 to 190 pounds.

The records and scores of the games won and lost by the Wildcats this year are as follows:

Davidson 14; Elon 0.
Davidson 15; Presbyterian College 3.
Davidson 7; University of Richmond 0.

Davidson 7; Wofford 0.
Davidson 45; Lenoir 0.
Davidson 0; Furman 6.
Total for Davidson, 88.
Total for opponents, 9.

State's record so far is as follows:
State 14; Trinity 0.
State 6; Penn State 51.
State 0; South Carolina 10.
State 0; Carolina 10.
State 7; V. M. I. 17.
Total for State, 27.
Total for opponents, 88.

This record looks discouraging; however let us note the State-Davidson score for the last five years:

	State	Davidson
1920	23	0
1921	3	3
1922	15	0
Total	79	15

We cannot predict the outcome of Friday's battle from past results with a great degree of accuracy. However we have a reason to feel encouraged. We do not expect the Wildcats to come out of the fray with all their fur gone, but we do expect their claws will be severely blunted by the hides of the Wolfpack.

When C. J. M. arrived at school on the opening day he carried the following note to the teacher:

"Dear Teacher: 'Our little Johnny is a very delicate, nervous child, and if he is naughty—and he is likely to be naughty at times—just punish the boy next to him, and that will frighten him so he'll be good.'"

SPORT COMMENT

We are endeavoring in this column to give the gist of Campus opinion about sports. Because of man's inherent narrow-mindedness and conceit it is most probably our own personal opinion that we're actually giving. We hope not.
THE SPORT EDITOR.

THE NEW SPORT CUT. We're proud of it. State College, and especially THE TECHNICIAN, owes a debt of gratitude to her two loyal sons who made it possible. Thanks "Bob" and "Shimmy."

—N.C.S.—

IT'S NOT OUR PURPOSE in this column to hurt anybody's feelings or to say anything detrimental to the College or any Department of the College, but if we can call attention to anything that we think should be done, or should not be done, for the betterment of State College, our purpose is accomplished.

—N.C.S.—

IN OUR WILMINGTON COMMENT last week we were not so much interested in finding fault as we were in having the mistaken idea of the Wilmington people corrected. We are still of the opinion that the error should be adjusted, whatever its cause.

—N.C.S.—

WHY DIDN'T THE BAND go to Richmond? It's our opinion that the State College Band should go to Richmond. Perhaps it'd be good to take the Band on more than one trip with the team. But it does not seem to us to be the Athletic Department's duty to take the Band. It's not a department Band. It's the College Band. The College reaps the benefit of the advertisement thus obtained, and not the Athletic Department. The College should send the Band with the Team.

The Athletic Department is of the same opinion. And there are so many uses the $600 necessary to carry the Band to Richmond could be put by the Athletic Department that it hardly seems just to spend that much money for such a purpose. However, the Athletic Department is taking the Band to Pinehurst Friday for the Davidson game on its own expense. The Student Body appreciates this action on the part of the Athletic Department and we take this opportunity of saying so.

—N.C.S.—

THE FRESHMEN GET INTO ACTION Saturday when they journey over to Mars Hill for their first game. State's newest team looks good to us, and we predict a victory tomorrow. Go to it, Freshmen; we're for you!

—N.C.S.—

DAVIDSON AT LAST LOSES. Hard luck, Davidson, but we're predicting more of the same variety. We had rather hoped you'd save us the honor of marring up your pretty clean record. The Wildcats have done well, though, and should be congratulated on their record. Unbeaten until last Wednesday when Furman won a 6-0 victory with a fluke touchdown over them at the South Carolina Fair. At the Sandhill Fair we are not expecting Davidson to lose—by a fluke. However, we are not predicting a walk-away by the Wolfpack.

—N.C.S.—

NORTH CAROLINA TEAMS apparently had an off week all together last week. Wake Forest alone, of the big five, won.

—N.C.S.—

IT IS INTERESTING TO NOTE that The Carolinian, of N. C. College at Greensboro, is carrying the results of intercollegiate football games in which North Carolina Colleges figure, each week now in its "Campus Collection" column.

—N.C.S.—

IN THE FLAT HAT of William and Mary we note that "Trinity hold N. C. State to a meagre 6-0 victory." To whom it may concern: The score of the 1924 Trinity-State game was 14-0. Not so "meagre" after all, eh?

Sports Cut Designed By State College Men

"Bob" Fortune and "Shimmy"
Kittrell Present Technician
Snappy Sports Cut

The new Wolfpack sports cut, appearing for the first time this week in THE TECHNICIAN, is truly a State College product, having been originated and designed by State College men. "Bob" Fortune is responsible for the idea and "Shimmy" Kittrell for the design.

With the advent of the 1924-25 staff, THE TECHNICIAN doubled in size and gave the Sport Department a full page to itself; whereupon the sport staff immediately began casting about in search of an appropriate and snappy sports cut. 'Twas not long before "Bob" Fortune came forward with the idea of the lean and hungry wolf pack on the hunt.

An attempt by local designers up town produced the cut that has been in use since the second issue of the paper this fall. But the sport staff was not satisfied. It is even rumored that one of the reporters suggested a note saying, "These are wolves—not puppy dogs" be carried underneath the cut. Then "Shimmy" Kittrell was asked to give us a real cut. The result may be observed above. The wolves are lean, hungry, and ferocious looking—truly characteristic of the fighting spirit of the Wolfpack.

"Bob" Fortune is a member of the class of '25 and is taking Electrical Engineering. He is Advertising Manager of THE TECHNICIAN and a leader in all phases of college life. He is a clear, systematic, and thorough thinker and the best advertising manager THE TECHNICIAN has ever had. The idea, complete and flawless as it is, is characteristic of the man who originated it.

"Shimmy" Kittrell is an alumnus of State College, having finished here in 1923. While in school here he clearly demonstrated his artistic ability. For several years he was a member of the art staff of the Agromock, the State College year book, serving as art editor during his last year here. Although he was not on the campus last year, he did lots of the cartoon work for the Agromock by correspondence. He was active in all phases of college life while here and was liked by all who knew him. Kittrell is now working out in Whiting, Ind., showing the world what a State College man can do.

SPORT COMMENT DRAWS BLOOD

Wilmington Episode Explained
by Mr. Mill in Commenting on the Game

Misunderstanding between Wilmington authorities and State College Athletic Department not the fault of the department, thus states Mr. Miller, Director of Athletics at State College. In the sport comment column last week an effort was made to find out where the fault was and to have the mistake corrected. Mr. Miller states that the understanding between him and the Wilmington managers was that either the Freshmen or the Scrubs would play them—that a State College team would take the field against them. With that understanding the Scrub team was sent.

Mr. Miller says perhaps the papers at Wilmington in stating that varsity men were to play on Freshman team were a little mixed because of the men who made the trip. "Mug" Seawell's little brother made the trip. Bill Studdert's brother George made the trip. Capt. Cleve Beatty's brother Bill made the trip. Sophomore Jennette made the trip, not John. This probably accounts for the Wilmington papers' statements to the effect that several varsity men played on the Freshman team.

While talking, Mr. Miller stated that probably this is the last time a State College team will play a non-college game. He says college athletics and intercollegiate games were intended for the students and to bring people to the college campus. Thus a game other than one played between colleges and on a college gridiron digresses from the fundamental purpose of college athletics.

Tar Heel Teams Have A Disastrous Week

Wake Forest's Demon Deacons
the Only Winning Member of "Big Five"

Wake Forest was the only member of the "Big Five" to grab a victory last week. Carolina and Trinity met defeat at the hands of outside teams. Lenoir and Guilford, of the smaller colleges, won while Elon lost out. Davidson had previously lost to Furman, Wednesday at Columbia, South Carolina.

The Demon Deacons enjoyed what might be called a practice game with Lynchburg, taking the large end of a 37 to 7 tally. Pegano, Hall and Johnson, regulars, did not start.

Maryland defeated Carolina 6 to 0, two field goals in the last period being the margin of their victory. The Tar Heels held the visitors well in the other three periods.

Davidson was beaten by Furman 6 to 0. The touchdown resulting in a blocked punt by Furman. This is the first time this year that the Wildcats goal line has been crossed. Trinity could do nothing against the strong William and Mary team and was defeated 21 to 3.

Lenoir defeated East Tennessee Normal by a score of 41 to 0.

The North Carolina teams, as a whole, last week, had a very disastrous week.

High School Grid Games Championship Schedule

Race Begins Today and Tomorrow
With Games in Eight
Eastern Groups

Athletic managers representing 23 high schools in Eastern North Carolina met in conference with E. L. Rankin of the Extension Department of the University of North Carolina, in Raleigh Tuesday night. The 23 schools represented all entered the annual high school football championship race sponsored by the University.

The games will begin in each of the groups Friday or Saturday of this week and group championships will be determined next week. New schedules for inter-group games will be determined at another meeting of the managers of the eight surviving teams.

The final game for the championship of the East will be played on November 29 and the champion will meet the survivors of the 20 Western teams for State honors at Chapel Hill on December 6.

The schedule follows:

Group 1: Elizabeth City vs. Washington at Elizabeth City, October 31; New Bern vs. Vanceboro at Vanceboro, October 31. Winners play November 7.

Group 2: Greenville vs. Tarboro at Tarboro, October 31. Mount Olive vs. Mount Olive plays Tarboro at Wilson, or Greenville at Mount Olive, November 7.

Group 3: Raeford vs. Fayetteville at Raeford, November 1; Wilmington, Bye. Wilmington plays Fayetteville at Wilmington, or Raeford at Fayetteville, November 8.

Wolf Cubs Begin Season Saturday With Mars Hill

State's third football team to enter the lists makes its initial entry tomorrow when the Baby Wolves match wits and strength with the Mars Hillians. Coach Homewood has been working his men hard and steadily. The team looks good and bids well to win the most if not all of its five games.

The Southern Conference rules allow only five contests for freshman teams. That accounts for the late start, which in turn should account for or be accounted for by a good record at the end of the season. The varsity and the scrubs have already begun their show, and State turns expectantly toward the Freshmen.

The game is to be played at Mars Hill. The Mars Hill record for the season, according to information at hand, is varied, but generally good. The Freshmen enter their baptism in the best of condition and the highest of spirits. They should bring home the bacon.

Cross Country Teams Are Working Hard

Varsity and Freshman Meets November 8th; Interest on the Increase

With the approach of November 8th the interest and work of both the Varsity and Freshman Cross-Country teams have increased in volume and intensity. Captain Robinson, who recently won first place in a field of fifteen at the annual Fair Week two-mile race held on the Fair Grounds track, and the entire squad have begun the steady, hard grind leading up to the Carolina meet, to be held at Carolina November 8th.

At the same time the Freshmen meet the Carolina Freshmen in a dual meet at Chapel Hill. This is the first year the Freshman have had a cross-country team and schedule of their own. Heretofore they have been eligible for the Varsity team. However, the Freshmen look good and prospects are bright for a successful season.

The schedules follow:

Varsity
Carolina at Chapel Hill, Nov. 8.
Trinity at Durham, Nov. 15.

State Meet at Wake Forest, Dec. 6.

Freshmen

Literature Club Organized

Perhaps the newest club on the campus is the Literature Club, organized October 22nd, by interested students of the English Department. At the organization meeting Professor Clark spoke of what the club might mean both to the students and to the college and of the advantage of meeting with literature clubs of other colleges of the city. Mr. Ladu urged the club to work for the establishment of a magazine. The following are the officers of the club:

C. R. Hall, president; R. R. Fountain, vice-president; Lillian Marguerite Ray, secretary-treasurer; J. L. Campbell, assistant secretary-treasurer.

A committee has been appointed to find a suitable name for the new club. The next meeting will be held on Thursday evening, November 6, at 6:45, with the Literature Club of Meredith College, when Professor Cunningham of the public speaking department will give serious and humorous readings.

We shall be glad to have any student who is interested in literature and the work of a club of this kind to meet with us.

EXCHANGES

By WRIGHT
Virginia Polytechnic Institute has been selected as a distinguished college by the War Department. There are only thirty-two distinguished colleges in the United States. This should make Virginia feel very proud of her technical school.

Over half the total enrollment of Clemson College staged a "walk out" Tuesday afternoon, October 14, after the president of the senior class had been suspended. "Wienies absolutely rotten" and "chicken indisposed in every respect" started the trouble, according to the students version of the tale.

Guilford College has the largest enrollment this year since 1909. There are 149 women and 130 men registered.

A class in fundamentals of good dancing was recently inaugurated at the University of Kansas. Over 75 attended the first lesson.

The Ku Klux Klan, on making a social call on Princeton College the other night, received such an overwhelming reception that the Princeton police force had to come to the aid of the Klan before order was restored.

The presidents of more than forty of the leading colleges of the United States have pledged their support to John W. Davis in the Presidential race.

Bible Study Classes To Begin Next Week

Banquet in Y.M.C.A.; Dr. Brooks Condemns Compulsory Religious Exercises

The Y. M. C. A. is planning to start one of the biggest and most successful Bible study programs this year that it has ever attempted to put across.

At a banquet last Thursday evening about fifty students who are interested in Bible study met with Dr. Brooks and Dr. Taylor in the Y. M. C. A. along with several other members of the faculty who are very much interested in the Bible study program. This splendid banquet was under the supervision of the College Woman's Club. Two very interesting and inspiring addresses were made by Dr. Brooks and Dr. Taylor.

Dr. Brooks in his address stated that he was in not in favor of any form of compulsory religious exercises. He says that this is one reason for the abolishment of the compulsory chapel exercises which were formerly held every day. He also said that the period of time at the chapel exercises, which was devoted to this purpose, was entirely too short for the students to receive very much benefit from the time spent. The idea of Dr. Brooks is that the teachings, or the truths of the Bible can better be applied to the problems which confront us by discussing these problems in small groups and then seek the application of the truth as taught in the Bible and applying it to each particular problem. "The truth never changes," he said, "it is merely the application of the truth that changes. We must constantly seek new applications of the truth as revealed in the light of the teachings of Jesus."

As Dr. Taylor has gladly consented to sacrifice some extra time and help put the program across he will meet with the leaders of the various classes on each Monday night before they go out to meet their classes on Wednesday night. He will discuss with them some of the problems in order that each man might be better prepared to lead his group. He outlined very clearly the method by which he would undertake to carry out the program for the entire ten weeks. It is his intention to make a complete survey of the moral conditions of the campus, and decide upon the outstanding problems that confront us while in college, as well as problems that will confront us in life after we are out of school. After deciding on these outstanding problems the Bible will be used as a guide upon which we will base our standards.

When the canvas is made for enrollment in these classes it is hoped that every student on the campus will join one of these groups. The plan is to have a class in each section of every dormitory.

Certainly, the income tax returns made by Henry Ford are not flivvers.

8 Hearts With A Single Thought

All Aspirants to Exalted Office of Lieutenant-Colonel of Col. Legorie's Regiment

Militaristic inclinations caused the downfall and eventual death of Napoleon, ambition killed Caesar and the famous "blood and iron" policy of Bismarck is the cause of the banishment of "Wilhelm Hohenzollern."

Judging by the disastrous ends that befell these historical characters, one could not help but feel that there is a great danger of banishment, or ostracism, or some like tragic end, waiting the military aspirants on State College campus. The danger lies, not in the famous Six Hundred or the first hundred thousand, but in this "legging squad." This squad is composed of seven men and one officer, the corporal. There is, however, an unlimited amount of reserves awaiting their chance to pull the celebrated lower limb. The squad consists of the officer in charge, the previously mentioned corporal, who has "been it" and who has legged everything in the way of music on the campus, the whole textile department, and is like Alexander of yore who cried because he had no more worlds to conquer. He says, "Durn the band when ambition calls."

Number three in the front rank is a plain private, peering out from under a hat that is too big for him, but which will fit, when he gets the coveted office. He has no tie, but expects to get one when there is a tie in the finals of the contest. He has a sharpshooters medal on his swarthy chest, look good and you will see it. He is no rifleman, but he can shoot that brand of bull that will stick. So proficient is he at it that ole "Bull" Johnson is oftentimes filled with fear and trembling lest his well earned laurels be snatched away like candy is taken from a baby. Salute him, boys, it's ole George Holleman, even though you can't see his face.

Number two in the front rank is another private with nothing but a lot of well established hopes. A close friend of his says that he is frequently prone to make flattering remarks that will finally reach the auditory openings of our beloved P. M. S. & T. He brags on the regiment, even though he does not mean it. The hired artist could not draw him as he thinks he looks but he drew him as he really looks. We agree with George Wray when he says in a boasting-like manner that it would take a mighty big man to fill his shoes. Look at them. But look out boys, he may be your superior officer.

Number one in the front rank is Private Shed, Barn, or some other similar habitation structure. He got some inside "Coca Cola" (dope) that his previous record for valor would land him that soft, easy coveted job. The amiable and affable commandant of the regiment is known to have, on one occasion, winked at him and since then he has been sticking in there with the bravest of them, like a sick kitten sticks to a hot brick. He is Meredith's "dark horse."

Number one in the rear rank is a modest sort of a fellow. That is the reason that he hid behind number one's uniform. In his position as he is here shown, he legs the Colonel while the four privates in the front rank have their backs turned. But just watch his smoke and smell his dust. He will cross the street to get a chance to salute our commander. He often discusses the future of the military service at State College. He knows that the leader of Dr. Brooks' garrison likes to hear that kind of stuff. A well known secret service man told one of the Technician press reporters that Private Cotton had a death grip in the ankle of the battle scarred veteran of the battle of Camp Lee.

Number two in the rear rank is a buck private, with an accent on the buck. He has a long war record which gives him a jump on the rest of his competitors. During the war he was a member of the "home guards," stationed at home. He was half-shot in the battle of Cherryville woods. Time and time again he charged amid the smoke of his own pipe, but time and time again he was thrown back and out by an older and more experienced parent. He always wears his uniform with all of the latest frills and in all of the composure that reason will permit. The commander would be justified if he smiled favorably on him. His campaign manager at N. C. C. W. is betting strong on him.

Number three in the rear rank is a type of man with great tensile strength to stand the awful pulling that he frequently accords the lower limb. He hangs around the military department and talks very friendly to the officers, including all of the stenographers. He is a dark horse of another color from far into the interior of 1911 dormitory. Hedgepeth told Dr. Brooks in a personal conversation that his entrant, Berry, will beat all of the rest like the ace beating the deuce.

"Terminus, but by far none the less minute" is number four of the rear rank. He is there because he can't help it. During his training as a cheer leader, he has developed a commanding voice like a ten-year-old bull frog with a bad cold, and some fraternity brother of his has told him that his chances were as good as the next ones and that if he would stick in there and fight the odds would favor him. He does not leg so much, but, dam, how he does hope.

This squad passes in review every day. The roster of the squad is familiar to us all, so when you pass one of them on the campus, salute, for you are meeting a future general.

Voting Regulations

Student voters in doubt as to where they shall cast their ballots in the coming elections may receive some enlightenment from the following statement by Professor Harold R. Bruce of the Department of Political Science at Dartmouth:

"The general rule adopted by the courts of the states of the union regarding student voting in the location of the college or university is that a student who is entirely self-supporting may declare his residence to be in the college town and vote there; but that all those students who receive any portion of their support from their parents are legal residents of their home town and must vote there if at all."

Thirty-two states have provisions in their statute books whereby "absentee voters," under which classification students are usually included, may vote by mail if properly registered. These provisions vary so greatly, however, that no summary is possible. The wisest course for any student wishing to indulge in the coming battle (to pursue) is to write immediately to the clerk or register of his home county or parish and to ask what he must do.—The New Student.

"Y" CABINET CHANGES TIME OF MEETING

In order to find a time when all the members could be present the Y. M. C. A. Cabinet has been put to much trouble. After trying several different days of the week, a night meeting was arranged, the hour being 10:00 o'clock. Practically the whole membership was present. So well pleased are the members that they have voted to make 10 o'clock Wednesday night the regular meeting hour. It comes late, but it seems to get results.

Durham Squad Beats Raleigh High Team

Long Runs Shatter Hopes of the
"Purple Hurricane"; Score
Was 34 to 0

Raleigh High was defeated in Durham Friday by a score of 34 to 0. The features of the game were the fast end runs of Satterfield and Hackney of Durham.

The nearest the Hurricane came to scoring was in the first quarter when a try for a field goal resulted in the ball striking the goal post.

In the first half the locals held their own very well, but in the last they weakened under the strong attack of the victors. The score at the end of the first half was 7 to 0 in favor of Durham.

The greatest drive of the Hurricane came in the first quarter when Sears, Bristow and Terrell made consistent gains, but were halted on Durham's 20-yard line. It was from this position that Hawkins tried for goal.

Hackney and Satterfield featured for Durham. Hackney made an end run for fifty yards, while Satterfield ran through the entire Raleigh eleven for a touchdown after receiving a punt.

Hawkins, Ball and C. Ray put up a fine defense for the Hurricane, but the usual team work was somewhat missing in the last half when Durham was pulling her sensational runs.

TAKING NO CHANCES

Cohen, accompanied by his wife, visited the oculist to have his eyes examined.

"Now, Mr. Cohen," ordered the oculist, "close your right eye and read this sentence."

The patient read the sentence, whereupon he was asked to close his left eye this time and repeat the performance by reading another line of words.

At this point he hesitated. Removing his wallet, he turned to his wife and transferred it to her with a whisper:

"Here, Becky; you'd better hold on to this for a while. You never can tell when he'll want me to close both eyes at the same time."

It is now hoped that by combining these seven drives into one that the necessary money will be raised and the public relieved of the annoyance of being called upon every few weeks.

Writing life insurance has enabled many a man to pay his way through college. It is a dignified calling and a true social service.

To induce your fellows to form habits of thrift—to obligate them to put by a little of the income—to safeguard them against future loss of earning power—is a form of effort that brings keen satisfaction as well as profit.

That is only one of the reasons why the insurance business today is attracting some of the very best brains of America.

State College To Debate Carolina

All Men Who Wish to Try Out For the Team Should Sign Up Immediately

Word has just been received from the debate council at Chapel Hill that the University of North Carolina is willing to meet State College in debate during the present term. Heretofore, the University has been unwilling to give serious consideration to proposals for debating contests with N. C. State, and their change of attitude is a recognition of the fact that State is now rapidly getting into a position that will enable her to meet the other schools of the State in intellectual conflict as well as in athletic contests. This contest between the two State institutions will be held at Chapel Hill during the second week in December.

Plans have also been completed for a debate with Trinity College, to be held in Raleigh during the same week.

The proposition for debate with each opponent will probably be: Resolved, That the proposed amendment to the Federal Constitution authorizing the regulation of child labor should be adopted. This is an interesting and timely subject in the field of the social and political sciences, and should afford opportunity for many to study an important present-day problem.

The members of the two State teams which will be used in these debates will be chosen in a preliminary contest to be held on Wednesday afternoon, November 5, at 4:30 in Room 35, Holladay Hall. Professor Cunningham, head of the department of public speaking and coach of debate, will select the squad at this time. The try-out will consist of a five minute constructive speech on any issue involved in the proposition and a three-minute rebuttal speech dealing with arguments raised by other contestants or by writers on the subject. Professor Cunningham will also quiz each contestant orally as to his knowledge of the principles and procedure of debate.

All men who plan to try out for these debate teams should sign up with Professor Cunningham, at his office, Room 93, Holladay. In case it is impossible for any man to be present for the try-out on Wednesday, November 4, another time will be arranged.

As a preliminary preparation for these try-outs, the subject will be debated at the meeting of each of the two college literary societies Friday, October 21, at 6:30.

COLLEGE SPIRIT?

Even a casual observer will notice a lot of changes and improvements around our campus. Almost everything is in a state of change. New buildings are being erected. New heat and water systems are being installed. There is a new telephone exchange—oh, numerous changes; and all these tend to make our campus look beautiful and help our college to function more smoothly. The new library, the new dormitory across the track, the new power plant, the Frank Thomson Gymnasium—the best gym in the South—these four buildings have already become quite an asset to the growing fame and popularity of State College.

Side by side with the enlargements and improvements of the campus there have come some changes in the methods of instruction; the field of activity has been enlarged, and many new additions have been made to the number of courses that were formerly offered; new additions have been made to the faculty. But all these improvements are only of the surface, as it were; and as regards the interior of it, we have yet to find it.

The interior of this surface or, rather, the heart of this institution, is the student-body. The college is being enlarged, improved and bettered, not for itself or the officers of the college, but for the students. Until that new improvement takes place the institution will not have attained its goal.

Are the students showing any improvement? In some respects they are, while in some other respects they are not. "So far as the scholarship is concerned the students are doing fine," so said a college authority to me recently.

Scholarship is not the only thing that we come here to acquire. There are other things which demand our attention also. College life and college customs, for example.

College education should prepare an individual to become a thorough gentleman and a better citizen of the community he is to live in in his future years. Therefore a college student should learn to be responsible for his acts and behavior. He should learn to take life seriously and should realize the importance and value of the education that he is acquiring while at college. If a man does not learn to be responsible while at college he will never learn it in his after life.

Our students are rather careless in this regard. They do not take college life seriously. They take it all as fun. In doing this they not only forget the responsibility placed on them, but also cultivate a habit of being irresponsible—thus never learning the true meaning of Duty.

Those of us who were present at the assembly meeting last Monday will have already noticed this fact. Not even half the number of the students were present at the exercises. And the only reason for their absence was tardiness or carelessness plus some indifference. Some students on this campus are as indifferent toward college activities as they possibly can be.

Such carelessness and indifference only denotes one thing, and that is that we students are not keeping ourselves abreast with the advancing step of the institution toward progress. We are lagging behind.

But let us remember the fact that State College won't prosper unless we would help it to prosper. The institution needs our "backing up." We ought to show enough "pep" and zeal to prove that we are loyal to the college. This spirit will come through co-operation and interest. We shall not act unless we are interested in what's going on, and we shall not be interested until we go and look into what is going on.

Then let us go. Let us do our part.
