Baker wins Student Senate presidency with two-to-one margin

by Gina Blackw Staff Writer

Staff Writer

Jeff Baker defeated Stan
Gallagher in the election for Student Senate president by almost a two-to-one margin in the runoff elections held Tuesday and Wednesday.

In the final tally, Baker had 876 votes, 65.5 percent and Gallagher had 467 votes, 34.5 percent.

Baker attributes his election to his personal contact with the students.

"I not only hung posters and banners, but I went out and met people," Baker said.

students was essential, Baker said, because of the Technician's double endorsement of Gallagher.

"I knew it was an up-hil battle when the Technician endorsed Stan and then when they re-endorsed him I knew I had to get out and meet more people," he said. "I guess you could say that I beat the system."

Baker said Gallagher did "a great job" with his campaigning and hopes Gallagher will be involv-ed with Student Government dur-ing the next school year.

"A man of his caliber is definitely needed in the Student Senate. He has some good ideas and could be a very good asset to Student Government," Baker said.

In other runoff categories, Ginger Rouse of State's nationally 12th-ranked women's basketball team was elected over football linebacker Robert Abraham, a Playboy 1981 preseason All-America selection, to receive the Alumni Athletic trophy. Mike Lowry, Michael Covington, Steve Duncan and Laura Falter were elected to the Union Activities Board board of directors.

Kat Murphy, Todd Floyd and Bob Simpson were elected to the junior Judicial Board Steve Gibs won the race for sophomore Judicial Board member.

Yocum supports Gay Awareness Week bill

Student Government will support the N.C. State Gay Community during the next school year, according to Jim Yocum, student body president-elect. Yocum said the Gay Community is a legitimate organization and should be treated the same way Student Government treats other campus organizations.

Government treats other campus organizations.

"The Gay Community is no different than the Agri-Life Council. They should receive the same funding and the same support as everyone else," Yocum said.

Earlier this semester, the Student Senate voted down a bill presented by Gay Community member Bob Hoy, requesting funds for a Gay Awareness Day.

Gay Community members questing funds for a Gay Awareness Day.

Yocum said, "The main reason the bill was defeated by the Senate was because it was introduced by a group represented by Hoy because he has become a focal point of publicity.
"However, I feel that this was no reason for the bill to be refused. I have met on several occasions with Bob and found him to be a pleasant person who is just trying to make people aware of something that is a large part of to-day's society." something that is a large part or to-day's society."

Yocum said that while he had nothing to do with the way the Senate would vote on such a bill, he was sure Jeff Baker, Student Senate president-elect, would help push the bill

Jeff Baker, Student Senate president-elect, would help push the bill through.

"Jeff and I have worked very close-ly on several bills that have been ac-cepted by the Senate. I am sure he would not let me down on an important matter like making students aware of what homosexuality is all about," Yocum said.

Bob Hoy

Hoy said that he is very pleased to have Yocum on his side. He feels that it is a big step forward in State's gay movement.

"Jim is a really good guy and had to emain unbiased while he was (Student Senate) president. Now that he is entering a new office, he can use his pull with the Senate to get our club recognized," Hoy said.

According to Ron Spivey, current student body president, Yocum is making these statements out of personal preference rather than logic.

"Jim and Bob have become rather close friends over the past few months. It disturbs me that he should let a preference enter into his political office." Spivey said.

Yocum refused comment on his alleged relationship with Hoy.

Hoy said, "Jim and I are good friends. That is all that it is necessary to say. What we do or don't do is our business."

"I merely am concerned about an organization that has been refused its use of student fees," Yocum said. "The students that belong to the State Gay Community.pay fees like everyone else and deserve to be able to use them like every other student."

It is reported that Yocum is an alleged member of the State Gay Community. However, this could not be verified with either Hoy or Yocum and this reporter was denied permission to see the membership roll.

Student body presidential candidate faces arson charges in 'ballot box burning'

by Tucker Johnson Senior Editor

A student body presidential can-didate has been implicated in an in-vestigation of an attempt last week to set fire to election ballot boxes.

set fire to election ballot boxes.

David Hartley has been charged with election fraud by Student Attorney General Liz Ward. Ward initiated an investigation of election sabotage after poll attendants reported having to pour several buckets of water on ballot boxes when someone apparently dropped several matches into them.

matches into them.

Hartley's involvement with the fire was first suspected when several people who were at the scene reported him "lurking around the edge of the crowd."

pie who were at the scene reported in "lurking around the edge of the crowd."

According to one witness, who prefers to remain anonymous, "David was watching from the back of the crowd while the fire was being put out. Then he kind of slunk off."

Fingerprints from the partially burned matches were traced to Hartley via the fingerprint files of the Raleigh Police Department. The prints have been matched with other prints found on material charred during numerous fires last month on Meredith's campus.

"These charges are absolutely, definitely and outrageously untrue," Hartley said. "Matches? I never carry matches. What reason would I have to be carrying matches?"

Hartley made these comments during a recent 30-minute interview during which he smoked four cigarettes.

The case against Hartley "is very strong," according to Public Safety Capt. John J. McGinnis. The major evidence in the case has been gathered by a Technican staff writer who has been working with Public Safety in an effort to fulfill requirements for an investigative journalism course.

"Our evidence includes fingerprints

"Our evidence includes fingerprints and the reports of two eyewitnesses," McGinnis said. "We also have some circumstantial evidence that includes reports by several of Hartley's acquaintances that he had planned to drop matches into all the ballot boxes on the second day of the elections." Hartley denied such premeditated action. "If I had wanted to alter the

Devid Hartley
election results," he said, "I would have chosen a better way to do it than burn ballots. But regardless of that, the fact remains that there is no way I would ever stoop so low as to cheat at this University — especially with the Technician on my back and all."
Hartley has said during recent interviews that the Technician is "out to get him." He cites as evidence reports by staff writers that he was asked in 1978 to resign from a Student Government executive aide position.
Jim Yocum, Hartley's major contender in the race for student body president, said he found it difficult to believe that a candidate would attempt to tamper with the election results.
"I really cannot believe that David tempt to tamper with the election results.

"I really cannot believe that David Hartley would do something like that," Yocum said. "I think the entire thing has been fabricated by the Technician writer doing the investigation. We all know how accurate the Technician is when it comes to campus news."

pus news."
Attorney General Ward said she expected Hartley's case to come before the Student Judicial Board within the next two weeks.
"There will be a small delay before we can bring him to trial." Ward said. "We will first have to complete an investigation of possible accomplices in the matter."

Poulton announces intention to fire Valvano

Editorial Editor

CONCORD, New Hampshire — In his weekly press conference today, State's Chancellor-slect Bruce Robert Poulton announced that his first act upon assuming the chancellorship at State would be to fire current State basketball coach Jim Valvano.

Apparently Poulton's action is the result of comments made by Valvano saying that the chancellor was powerless to tell him what to do. Poulton, a former basketball player, said, "It's high time that the coaches learn to respect the power that their chancellors possess. Being a former player, I know how egotistical some of them think that they know everything. But, after that (NCAA) tournament game, it's obvious that Valvano doesn't know everything."

Valvano was quoted in the Washington Post as saying, "We're not even part of the school anymore.

Bruce Poulton

anyway. I work for the N.C. State Athletics Association. That has nothing to do with the University. Our funding is totally independent. You think the Chancellor is going to tell me what to do? Who to take into the school or who not to take into school? I doubt it."

When asked to respond about his pending departure from State, Valvano said, "I didn't think he could do that. Mr. C. (Director of Athletics Willis Casey) said that he couldn't touch me, that I could do anything I wanted. I was told that all I had to do was make it to the tournament, beat North Carolina, win 20 games and not get caught."

Casey declined comment on the an-nouncement saying that the Athletics Association would be meeting soon to discuss the possible selection of a new chancellor.

chancellor.

When Poulton was asked if he was considering firing any other coaches, he said, "I'll wait until Oct. 23 before making a decision on that."

Apparently Poulton was referring to the annual State-Carolina football game scheduled to be played on that date. Poulton, refusing to directly name State football coach Monte Kiffin, only said, "I don't want to fuel any speculation about what I might or might not do to any particular coach if State loses to (North) Carolina."

When Valvano was asked if he had considered where he might coach next year, he smiled and said, "I got some big Italian friends up in New York who will make certain that I have a job next year even if we have to get a new chancellor down here:

The 6'8" Poulton, flanked by body guards on each side, said that he didn't fear any retaliation from Valvano or the Athletics Asspication. "These guys (the guards)" are just here to show that I mean business."

When asked if he would consider changing his decision about firing Valvano, Poulton said, "Well, I guess if he (Valvano) has a tremendous recruiting year, I might reconsider. But, as it stands now, I can't see how he'll ever coach at State again. I mean even Norm (former State coach Norman Sloan) was better than he is."

announcement

Due to important campus events, the Technician has to postpone its April Fool's edition until next week. Look forward to it, it's going to be a "doozie."

Photo courtes

mmer for the Layouts, strikes his Jeffrey "Crash" Bender, front man and dru ose. See story page 5.

inside

- Oglesby to blame for no Zoo Day Page 2

- Forum speaks out. Page 3.

- Interview with 60's drug 'guru.'
Page 4.

clarification

In Monday's edition of the Technician, it was incorrectly written in the inside box that the author of "I'd walk a mile to get away from a smoking cigarette" referred to smokers as parasites. Also, in "Death penalty fails to deter spontaneous opermediated murder" it was incorrectly stated that Great Britain abolished capital punishment in 1976. The country abolished capital punishment in 1976 and experienced a drop in the homocide rate.

- Rod Stewart returns. Page 5. - Celts get a tasty freeze. Page 6.

Worthy goes home to mammy. Page 7.

correction

In Monday's edition, TEMPs was in-correctly referred to as Temporary: Emergency Personnel in the article "Alcohol Awareness Fair." The organization is Trained Emergency Personnel. Also, in a front page ar-ticle, Edwards Air Force Base was stated to be in Nevada. It is located in California.

In Monday's sports section, a headline incorrectly stated, "Riburs take 11th in first NCAA appearance". The rifling team finished ninth

'Missing' black bear residing on State campus schools, was founded by the Animal schools, was founded by the Animal Husbandry extension. Dr. James Patterson, who is in charge of the Animal Science department as well as the Farm Unit, agreed to an interview with the Technician because the bear will soon be leaving this home. "I don't mind talking to you now, but if you had asked earlier I wouldn't have because it could have endangered the bear's safety if too many people found out about him. He'll be leaving about noon on Tuesday, so I don't mind talking now." Patterson said.

News Assignment Assistant

The black bear that appeared over the Christmas holiday is being kept in residence on campus property by the Animal Science Department and N.C.
Wildlife Commission.
After the holiday, a story was run in the Technician about the appearance of a black bear on campus and it was reported that the bear eluded Public Safety and could not be found.
A source from Public Safety, who wishes to remain anonymous (and will be referred to as Smith), informed a Technician reporter that the bear had not "really disappeared."

"We never really lost the bear. We just had to tell the public that," Smith said.
Smith then explained what happen-

id. Smith then explained what happen-

Smith then explained what happened.
"We got a call around 9:15 that night (Dec.26) about the sighting of a bear, so two officers (Sgt. Abney and Officer Black) went to investigate. When they spotted the bear, they called back to the department to confirm the report. Then they asked what they should do." Smith said.

He said the officers were given orders not to kill the bear because it would "raise a lot of fuss from animal lovers."

Dr. William Adams, Associate Dean

Dr. William Adams, Associate Dean and Director of Veterinary Medical Services, was asked by Public Safety

to take tranquilizer darts to the place where the bear was last seen. The N.C. Wildlife Commission was also notified of the bear sighting. Smith said. The bear was tranquilized and

The bear was tranquilized and removed.
"I don't know where they took it, but the officers called back to the station and said that Adams and the officer from the Wildlife Commission had things under control and they would take care of everything." Smith said. "I believe the bear is still on campus somewhere."
When Adams was contacted, he at first denied knowing anything about the bear.

first denied knowing anything about the bear.
However, after Adams was told that someone from Public Safety informed the Technician of the bear's presence on campus, he said any further questions should be addressed to Dr. Roger Powell, Assistant Professor of Zoology.

Dr. Roger Powell, Assistant Professor of Zoology.
Dr. Powell agreed to an interview with the Technician.
Powell said that he had accompanied Adams to the bear sight. However, Powell denied knowing beforehand what Adams had in mind when Adams asked him to help with the bear.
"I was at home when Bill called and asked me what I was doing." Powell said. "When I told him I wasn't doing anything, he asked me if I wanted to help him catch a bear. Well, Bill's got a wild sense of humor, and I assumed that this was going to lead into a joke, so I told him I would." Powell said Adams picked him up and then drove to Carmichael Gym-nasium.

nasium.

"As we drove around Carmichael, I noticed a Public Safety car parked with two officers looking at something. At first, I wasn't really interested, but when we started heading in their direction, I said, 'Hey Bill, what's going on?' He looked at me and said, 'We're going to catch a bear.'"

The hear-

and said, 'We're going to catch a bear.'"

The bear was tranquiized and, according to Powell, Adams talked to the N.C. Commission officer and asked if he could study the bear.

"They told him that he could do whatever he wanted with the bear. If you set they figured it was one thing off their shoulders." Powell said.

Powell added that he didn't know who fabricated the story that was given to the Technician.

"I really don't know where that story came from." he said. "I guess Public Safety and the Wildlife officer made it up. I know I didn't."

The location of the bear was not revealed during the interview but the bear was later located by a Technician investigative reporter.

The bear was found at Farm Unit Five, located on the outskirts of campus. The building, which houses the animals of different agricultural don't mind talking now." Patterson said.

When asked why the bear was kept, Patterson had trouble answering.
"Tve asked myself that question every time I've gone to feed hi." he said. "I still don't know why. I don't even know how we've been able to pull it off for so long, especially since we have so many students working here. But we did. I don't even know if Dr. Lassiter (head of Animal Science) knows because I was afraid it might cost me my job. Then again, this interview might."

The bear, housed in a large cage, appeared healthy and fit. On Tuesday he will be shipped to and released at Pisgah National Park.

Writer's note: Readers are re-quested not to visit the bear or bother it in any way. Farm Unit Five is not a zoo and should not be treated as such.

9085...

April 2, 1982 /

ublish right or wrong: Fools are my theme, let satire be my song

by - Lord Byron

Chuck Oglesby to blame for no Zoo Day this year

Here's what appears to be the final word on Zoo Day this year. In his infinite wisdom, Charles "Chuck" Oglesby, director of residence life, has unilaterally decided that there will NOT be Zoo Day this year. Well Chuck, you are wrong, wrong. The students need Zoo Day.

The students need Zoo Day. When else can all students get together, drink lots of beer, listen to good music and generally have a fun time right before the spring exams? There is no other time to do all of these things except Zoo Day. Besides, why is it any of Chuck's business if students want to get together to have a good time? The director of residence life should not be involved in a decision that is good time? The director of residence life should not be involved in a decision that is clearly the jurisdiction of student development. Chuck needs to keep his nose out of students' business except perhaps if the issue concerns reducing the number of names on the lottery lists.

Chuck's probably angry with the idea of Zoo Day just because his brother-in-law's company was denied the beer concession for West Campus Jam and Central Campus Craze. But his in-law's company didn't deserve the beer concession since the distributor wanted to charge $4 for a six-pack. Profit is one thing, but Chuck was expecting a percentage of the gross profits that would finance his entire retirement plan in a single day.

pecting a percentage of the gross profits that would finance his entire retirement plan in a single day.

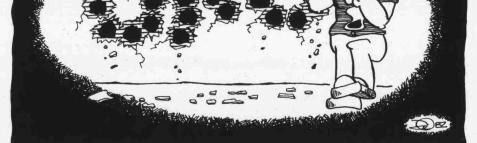

In general, Chuck showed a lack of courage in dealing with the question of Zoo Day. He never directly stated to any student leaders that he was going to do everything in his power to prevent Zoo Day. In fact, Chuck said that he would make some compromises with the Union Activities Board to make some type of Zoo Day possible. Chuck's idea of a compromise is to propose totally unworkable policies that, according to him, would ensure that Zoo Day goes smoothly. But Chuck's ideas for reducing to him, would ensure that Zoo Day are just ridiculous. Luckly student leaders rejected them outright. Come on, Chuck, placing a toll gate on Dan Allen Drive and Cates Avenue just will not work. And no band worth its snare drums would be willing to play for tips like you suggested.

When students start to plan next year's Zoo Day — and there will be a Zoo Day next year — Chuck should NOT be involved in the negotiations. Students can't afford his demands. One has to wonder if Chuck would want a Zoo Day even if all of his demands were met. Probably not.

The battlelines have now been drawn for next year's Zoo Day and it is clearly a battle of the students vs. Chuck. Twenty thousand to one are not bad odds. Seems like we could have a Zoo Day next year after all.

Any student who would like to complain about this year's handling of Zoo Day should voice his concern. Call Chuck at 737-2406 or 876-2103 and let him know just how the student body feels about Zoo Day student body feels about Zoo Day

Jungle war occurring at State

The North Carolina State Beautification Association recently initiated moves to begin the removal and rearrangement of strategically placed trees and shrubbery on State's campus in an effort to "enhance the dynamic balance and distribution" of greenery in certain areas of the campus, according to a NCSBA spokesman. Its ultimate goal, according to the organization

NCSBA spokesman. Its ultimate goal, according to the organiza-tion's chairman Mr. Red B. Rick, is to improve upon the aesthetic qualities of an inner-civ-campus by providing equitable play for both nature and the progress of further development.

The original idea for its action rises from the growing clamor of the powerful Radical Development Front. The RDF believes the campus is being over-run by the encroachment of undesired vegetation and greenery in

Mr. Red B. Rick said his organization, the NCSBA, is attempting to act as a mediator between the RDF and the radical campus environmentalists of the Imperial Vegetation Organization. Others claim, however, that the increasingly factionalist NCSBA is simply an RDF front conducting a widespread terrorist campaign against the policies of the powerful and in-fluential hierarchy of the RDF, The guerillas often disguised as shrubbery, have reportedly employed a wide variety of subtle political and chemical initiatives aimed at undermining the RDF's agenda dubbed Wheels Of Progress.

The aim of the IVO, as outlined in the IVO policy charter "The Doctrine of Imperial Vegetation," is to thwart NCSBA efforts aimed at undermining the extreme goals of the trees are often used as cover for guerillas waiting to strike.

IVO leader, Mr. Green G. Rass, stated that "the disturbing inclination of the NCSBA to attempt to regulate the rights and sanctity of nature and the very progressive and highly commendable programs will lead only to growing dissatisfaction and heightened tensions" in the community. He also denounced the "appeasement mentality" of the NCSBA. "It is the very idea of destroying life that concerns most people," Rass said, "and though they (the NCSBA and the RDF) might surely argue that it is in the name of progress, it is our belief that they are but impeding the fulfilment of life. The IVO will neither tolerate nor accept this. We will not relent."

On the other hand, an RDF spokesman, preferring to remain anonymous, stated that it is radical organizations like the IVO that stand in the way of "enlightened development that is not overtly hostile to nature." However, he also points out that "no amount of rhetoric or botanical terrorism will prevent us from killing every tree and shrub that gets in our way" if it is in any way obstructing the implementation of the RDF's Wheels Of Progress agends. He concluded by saying, "Let them eat bricks." NCSBA leader Rick, when queried about his reaction to the rhetorical polemics of the RDF and the IVO, simply stated that "their stand is simply a matter of politics. In order to keep the peace both sides will have to give."

As he spoke it was apparent that any negotiations are not likely to resolve the issue soon. At last report, the talks, aimed at securing a compromise, broke down as tempers flared and the IVO claimed that its opposition tlared and the IVO claimed that its opposition was not negotiating in good faith. As proof the organization pointed to reports of piles of bricks standing watch over Carolina Court while throngs of RDF members, armed with trowels for spreading concrete, were gathering by Reynolds Collseum for a frontal assault on one of the campus's few remaining greenwars.

ways.

Countering such reports, however, were RDF and NCSBA members who say they witnessed packs of shrubbery and trees placed in strategic positions surrounding Carolina Court in order to initiate a major onslaught against innocent administrators standing nearby. The RDF advocated a preemptive strike to remove the threatening greenery.

Meanwhile, both sides seem poised for a major battle that could well decide the future color and composition of the State campus. Thus a major confrontation looms.

It has been reported by reliable sources that

It has been reported by reliable sources that the administration is secretly aiding the RDF. Acting Chancellor Nash Winstead, asked about such reports, simply said, "No com-

It is apparent that, through its arrogance and power, the RDF will fulfill its goal of "More red — less green." Those of us concerned about the coloration of our educational environment are bound by duty of conscience to aid the IVO in every way.

From the Right

O through compromising its principles with e RDF. The RDF, meanwhile, seeks a com-omise solution but states emphatically that it ill not allow any tree to stand athwart its heels of Progress agenda." It points out that

Widespread addictions

Polish youths turn to drugs for escape once a month to discuss politics and hear

WASHINGTON — Drug addiction and talitarianism aren't supposed to go together

WASHINGTON — Drug addiction and totalitarianism aren't supposed to go together — or so the Soviets say.

Nevertheless, as martial-law authorities have found, not even Russian-made tanks have been able to allay Poland's chronic heroin problem.

While government counts are, not surprisingly, unavailable, there are an estimated

While government counts are, not surprisingly, unavailable, there are an estimated 90,000 hard-core heroin addicts in Poland. Regular users are said to number in the hundreds of thousands — in a country of 35 million — and they are predominantly teenagers and young adults. Poland's dearth of marijuana and hashish has only fostered the popularity of heroin, which is derived from the popules that grow widely throughout the Poland countryside. The cakey, brown concoction, which we found on a recent trip to Warsaw, is priced by volume — at $1.20 per cubic centimeter at the "official government exchange rate" or 66 cents at the black-market rate — and still sold rather openly in urban cafes.

Before the Dec. 13 crackdown, this st absurd levels. Accor ding to some Warsaw residents, drug sales amid young people in and outside the cafes just off Marszalkowska Street — Warsaw's version of Fifth Avenue — were reaching epidemic proportions. Drug deals seemingly went unchallenged by police, and passersby were often ostracized.

Now, more than three months later, the drug trade still goes on in Warsaw's downtown district. When the military police recently raided one heavily-trafficked cafe, the "action" only moved to another establishment next door

Poland's ruling generals can only be distressed by the lingering heroin mania. As one Warsaw resident mused, there are more one Warsaw resident mused, there are more young heroin users than young members of Poland's Communist Party. Drug rehabilitation centers and the threat of government sweeps don't seem to stem the rising use. Given the bitter pessimism among Polish youth, the military authorities must see the heroin problems as representative of an even bigger challenge: to prove that Poland's future is bright. As American leaders have learned from the youth of this country, mere promises of improvement are never enough to get kids away from the dreamland of drugs.

Maxwell Cody Glen Shearer

Here and Now

* * *

More than 40 top women staffers in the former Carter administration have created their own informal organization. They meet

The "Intelligence Identities Protection Act," legislation which proscribes publishing the names of U.S. intelligence agents overseas, is expected to face an immediate court test if it's enacted. Yet House and Senate members-must still iron out differences on the bill. must still iron out differences on the bill.

Just because there are 2,800 resident correspondents in Washington, D.C., it doesn't necessarily hold that Americans are getting their news value, contends Ben. H. Bagdiklan, media critic and professor of journalism at the University of California. As he told college students at a recent conference on investigative reporting, "If you depended upon the average daily newspaper and television broadcast, it would be easy to miss the fact that the country's social structure was being rearranged and that we seem to have the first president in history who sincerely believes in class warfare."

The "Intelligence Identities Protection Act,"

Rep. Robert N. Shamansky; D-Ohio, and Sen. Ted Stevens, R-Alaska, have introduced legislation to encourage the private development of an automobile that can travel 80 to 105 miles per gallon. Under the bill, engineers who develop and market the most fuel-efficient car would win a bonus of $140 million from Uncle Sam; each of the four runners-up would receive $20 million.

Technician

Malevolent Jesse Helms unfit to make laws for U.S.

servative" and "liberal" alike — grimaced in laughter and disbelief at what the voters of North Carolina had sent them. Jesse Helms — a stark-raving-mad, reactionary buffoon who twisted the Christian cross into a swastika — actually expected to be taken seriously. Surely such a ludicrous phenomenon would pass.

pass.

It may yet pass but not possibly soon

On Feb. 27 Helms described El Salvadoran enough.

On Feb. 27 Helms described El Salvadoran President Jose Napoleon Duarte as "a man far to the left of (former Democratic senator from South Dakota) George McGovern' who is leading a "left-wing socialist government." Duarte is really an intelligent, innovative, moderate leader who would make a far better senator than Helms.

The senator proposed finding a more conservative "standard-bearer" among the "many fine and attractive men in El Salvador who are for the free-enterprise system." Yeah — there are men like Nicaragua's Anastasio Somoza Debayle, whom Helms still mourns. "Free enterprise" is Jesse's Aztec idol, to whom thousands may be sacrificed to keep the religion alive.

In conclusion, the senator brazenly stated that "we didn't have to support land reform." He referred to Duarte's policy of breaking up large land-holdings and distributing them among peasants. Helms dreams of a return to military dictatorship and monstrous haciendas farmed by impoverished workers, and probably extols that as the Christian way. What do the lives and hopes of a few peasants matter, as long as free enterprise reigns?

Duarte for senator, anyone?

A recent letter in the Technician claimed that staff columnist Henry Jarrett made a fool of himself when criticizing Helms' ways and means. Jarrett is a good, objective writer who made a practically infallible case. By contrast, one does not need Jarrett to make a fool out of Helms. The senator does that whenever he opens his evil mouth.

El Salvador is not the only place where the wicked hand of Senator No beckens. When former President Jimmy Carter proposed an

Jonathan| Halperen

Staff Opinion

aid package to several Central American nations, Helms stuck on an amendment that struck Nicaragua from the list. Arguing for his amendment, the senator stated that the Sandinista government, mere months old, had killed 20.000 people. Man, like which ear did he pull that statistic out of? Not even anti-Khomeini Iranians have stuck that big a number on the board, except for detentions. Helms' patriotic amendment robbed us of our best chance to gain some influence in Nicaragua. Without him and the idiot who passed his proposal by voice vote, we might have been able to dissuade the Sandinistas from some of their present injustices.

On June 5. 1981. The New York Times reported as follows:
"Senator Helms has held up the nomination (of Chester Crocker as assistant secretary of state for African affairs) because he felt that Crocker does not adequately support closer ties with South Africa."

The greater distance we can afford from South Africa, the better. It is not enough that Helms staffers refer to black people as "freds," or that Helms himself calls them "brothers and sisters." No, he must also make sure that apartheid, Soweto, legal ostracism and the crowding of millilions into barren "homelands" do not perish from the earth. The Times continued: "The senator has reportedly been negotiating with the White House, offering to drop his opposition in return for the naming of his own choice to direct U.S. policy toward southern Africa." Steve Biko for senator, anyone?

As if eroding human rights abroad were not enough. Helms is determined to do the same

As if eroding human rights abroad were not enough, Helms is determined to do the same thing at home. As any North Carolinian knows, the senator has worked long and hard knows, the senator has worked long and hard to nullify the legal right of a woman to have an abortion. To him, the fright of a high-school junior who finds herself pregnant is secondary to a vindictive code or morality. The senator will glare down from on high and make sure that she either raises a child or provides someone else with one.

The granddaughter of one illegal-abortion victim said, "I don't miss the fetus. I miss my grandmother." She probably would not miss Helms, either.

Helms also proposes a bill to legalize "voluntary prayer" in public schools. Folks, if a child today wants to pray in school, nobody is stopping him or her. Helms' bill can only imply organized prayers in which one who declines to take part is exposed. As an atheist since childhood. I take personal offense at such an action. In July 1981 Helms went all-out to pro such an action.

In July 1981 Helms went all-out to proclaim "a revulsion of the trends in this country—the permissiveness, the pornography, the drugs, abortion, living together, divorce." Pornography, drugs, divorce and children born out of wedlock are indeed problems.

But just what is the senator's plan to rid America of all these evils? Will he bring the wrath of the federal government down on two people he finds living together? He already threatens to do that to a pregnant woman in an abortion clinic. The moralistic drive of a man like Helms is not likely to dissuade people from their ways. What does he plan to do—close P.C. Goodtimes?

Idi Amin for senator, anyone?

Just what motivates Jesse Helms? Personal gain is probably not a factor; a lust for power is simply not one of Helms' traits. No, he is earnestly dedicated to something. But can his motivation be principles, when he hardly has any?

He seems to think so. In a letter concerning.

motivation be principles, when he hadry warrany?

He seems to think so. In a letter concerning abortion, he stated: "I have gone through fire and water for the principles I believe in — and you will find just about all of them in the Constitution and the Ten Commandments." When Shakespeare wrote. "The devil can quote scripture to his purpose," he wasn't kidding.

Helms' prime objective is evidently to inscribe into law a single, "righteous" moral code which everyone must follow except the tobacco industry. Such moral arbitration is anathema to the principles that the makers of the Constitution held dear. Helms' arbitration of right and wrong is not everybody's. Yes, governments do legislate morality with criminal codes and vice laws; but there is such a thing as going too far. The Reformation of the 16th century was based partly on a revolt against such arbitration.

Yes, the Bible is stern, but the decision whether to follow it must be voluntary. The most famous attempt to "impose Christianity" was probably that of Charlemagne, who waged bloody massacres in the eighth century to make people change their views of the universe.

ed bioody massacres in the eignin century to make people change their views of the universe. Helms truly believes that an unborn organism is a sanctified life, worthy of protection. Such a view is certainly legitimate. But unfortunately, his beliefs—or at least imposing them on the Constitution—will likely cause pain for those already born. The most dangerous man is one who endeavors to do good by telling others what is right. Possibly the most fitting description of Helms is a statement made of the Roman emperor Justinian: "He would have been less dangerous if he had no good in him at all."

For what precious little good he may have in him. Senator Helms is basically a malevolent ideologue who is unfit to make laws for our country. His idealism is aimed in the wrong direction, and he must be stopped. As Huey Long once said, "Anybody who lets his public policies get mixed up with his religious prejudices is a g—ed fool."

Whatever you may think of Long, his statement is true

Jonathan Halperen is a proofreader for the Technician.

Chancellor speaks

Editor's note: A copy of the following letter was sent to the Technician for reprinting. The original letter was sent to the head of each administrative department on campus.

It has come to my attention that "Zoo Day," a campus-wide student function at State, has been effectively cancelled by the administration. I have also been informed that this cancellation is due primarily to the efforts of administrators within the Division of Student Affairs.

It is my understanding that this "Zoo Day" is the only event held each year for the enjoyment of all State students. The administration's cancellation of this event represents a blatant anti-student attitude. The outrage of State's student leadership is understandable and entirely justified. If there have been problems with past such "Zoo Days," these could have been worked out. I understand that student leaders have made every effort to come up with solutions, but that certain administrators have refused to compromise. I am sincerely disappointed in the administration's handling of this matter, and I hope that some decision can be reached that is amenabre to administrators and students. If not, you may rest assured that I will not allow similar anti-student actions to occur once I am installed at the University.

Bruce Robert Poulton State's Chancellor-elect

'Why endorse me?'

I am writing this letter to express extreme disappointment in one of the Technician's editorial policies — namely, that of endorsing Student Government candidates.

As a candidate in the recent campus elections, I feel that the Technician endorsements were instrumental in my defeat. I was the candidate of choice in the Student Senate presidential race, according to the Technician. In the first counting of votes, it appeared that the student body agreed; I received six more votes than Jeff Baker did. However, the Technician editorial staff then made a move that was totally lacking in intelligence. I was re-endorsed in Monday's issue. Any fool knows that the people who oppose something — or someone — are more vocal than those who support something. When the Technician endorsed me, my supporters assumed that I would be elected and did not make any effort to get out and vote. But my opponent's supporters, out of fear that Jeff Baker would be defeated because of the endorsements, made a special effort to get to the polls.

forum

he polls.

And Baker won the runoffs — by almost a 2-to-1

Perhaps the Technician's editorial staff should actice some psychology and endorse the candates it wants not to be elected.

Trash newspaper

I am outraged at what some people call the student "newspaper" at State. The Technician is no more a newspaper than is the National Enquirer. First of all, Technician staff writers do not even know the meaning of the word "accuracy"; this is obvious from the corrections that are run on the first page of almost every issue. The features and entertainment sections are jokes, complete with infantile writing and erroneous, unresearched "facts."
And, finally, I'd like to comment on the opinion page. I realize that there is currently a politically conservative attitude in America, but the Technician has done its best to convince State's students that liberal thought has disappeared from the face of the earth.

of the earth.

And now, the tour de force. I hear that the Technician does not plan to print an April Fool's issue. From all reports, the April Fool's issue has been the only issue to ever look forward to. And it has been the only issue that is appropriately titled

"April Fool's issue" put out by fools.

Jeffrey Malgum

ID I-IO

Oscar picks stunk

Well, the Technician has done it again. Mr. Alter's article in Monday's paper ("54th Academy Awards to be announced") contained some unbelievably inaccurate predictions for the Academy Awards. Where he gets his information, I'll never know. Out of the six categories Mr. Alter dared to give predictions for — probably the only six he had any knowledge of — he got but three right. A mere 50 percent. It's time that this movie critic-fraud was exposed. I consider myself to be somewhat of a film connisseur, and yet I have still to see Mr. Alter at Studio 1 for either the 1-15, 2.20, 3.25, 4.30 or 5.35 p.m. screenings of any of its poignant movies. In returning to his predictions, a trifle 50 percent correct is embarrassing I. myself, naturally got all ten of my early Tuesday morning predictions correct. Let's get on the ball Tom.

1982 Agromeck P.O. Box 5727 N.C. State University Raleigh, NC 27650

Stewart Theatre

The French Lieutenant's

April 3rd $1.00 6:30p.m. and 9:00p.m.

Women in Love April 3rd $1.00 11:30p.m.

'Guru of groovy' drops by State

Assistant Features Editor

Once upon a time, say back in the '60s when everyone was running around inserting non-nutritional substances into their bodies, someone did research. Only he wasn't content to keep his studies confined to the lab and he began advocating that everyone drop out and turn on.

And you know what? Lots of people did just that. In fact, lots of people are still doing it. Well, in keeping with that time and this, our hallowed university has invited that 'all time guru of groovy.' Dr. Timothy Leary to lecture for 40 days and nights on 'Hallucinations and Other Middle Class Apparitions of Glory.'

Leary's series will take place from today until someone remembers when 40 days are up.

"That may be easier said than done,' Leary was overheard saying to his projectionist and former cellmate.

me.

Age has been kind to the old guru of light and sound, although his concentration rarely takes hold for longer than 30 seconds or so. His gray locks paradoxically add a degree of youthful enthusiasm to his appearance.

Leary agreed to talk after downing his daily requirement of steroids and hallucinogens. The inside of his trailor was lined with various relies of the past. Pop art posters per-sonally autographed by Andy Warhol lined the walls, copies of Famous quotes by Famous Indian Witch Doctors lined the book shelves, and lines of oddly familiar white powder the book shelves, and lines of oddly laminar was politined the tables.

"I'll make a deal with you." Leary said, "If you promise not to ask a lot of questions about the 60s, I'll promise to give you some of my Kool Aid."

"Ken Kesey Original?" I questioned.
"The same," Leary said.
"It's a deal. By the way Tim, do you somehow feel responsible for so many kids who burned their brains into so much sawdust?"

sible for so many suits with our test sawdust?"
Leary looked puzzled, then he looked pissed. "You promised, but since you asked I guess I would be rude not to reply...II— No. At least, I think I don't.
Leary leaned back, his head rolling toward heaven, and then suddenly sprung out of his Easy-Boy recliner. "Hey man, like I almost forgot my end of the bargain."
"Look Tim, that's okay," I countered. "That can wait. This can't."

ok kid, they can both wait as far as I'm concerned. I'm

"Look kid, they can both wait as iar as I in toncernor."
there. Can you say the same?"
(May my editor forgive me, but I could not say the same.)
"Okay man, go ahead."
"I thought you might see things my way," Leary said as a patented s—eating grin crossed his face.
As he served the funky mixture, another question popped to mind. "Tim, why did you decide to tour again? I mean, did you skip bond or something?
"No, not exactly Rol. ... Here, try this. After they released me. I decided to travel the country again, preferably legally but you know how it goes? An ounce of good intentions won't get you off. Know what I mean?

Well, anyway, I ran into Ginsburg around Mexico where he'd come across some of this. (He pointed to the mixture which I'd nearly emptied by now.) "Hey, wait up. You're not supposed to drink all of it." "Sav what?"

drink all of it.
"Say what?"
"Oh s... Take it easy now."
"Go ahead Tim. I'm fine."
"That's what you think. . Well, let me get back to my story. So I run into Allen right and he says to me 'Man I've just seen God. And he wants to talk to you

"Wow. I thought I was burned out before. Now I can't distinguish reality from a hole in the ground or maybe they're one in the same. But we're making a killing off our me 'Man I've just seen toot.

And he wants to talk to you and me about touring again.

The desk of a typical features writer might look like this, complete with phone, pencil, cof-waturally. I thought he was fee and pills. Dr. Timothy Leary has come to State to educate writers and students alike. off his crock, but then again of the store of the property of the pr

'I heard a strange, mechanical groan.'

(See 'Guru,' page 8)

Chimerical recess creates adventure for weary production manager "Man!" she said rather... loudly. I could tell right off that she was not the right person to discuss Einstein's theory of relativity with. After a big hug, she carried us to a nearby temple, bound us, adorned us with several pieces of expensive jewelry and then left the tomb. My brave partner

While sitting petrified at my orthognol escritorie I decided to take a chimerical recess. Since most of my associates were spending their spring abandonment in either Myrtle Beach or Florida, I decided to try something diversified.

I went straight to the Raleigh-Durham Aerial Transportation Terminal (stopping by the Teller II's on the way to make a tally of my commonwealth). After securing the appropriate boarding pass, I entered the elongated, stratospheric-shuttle, and waited calmly for disembarkment. Shortly thereafter take-off was executed.

Once our majestic carrier reached an extended distance from our matron domicile, Terran, I reclined to a prostrate position and perused Webster's latest edition of his dictionary for mistakes. Finding several, I transcribed a complet revision and addressed it to the proper publisher to be mailed upon arrival.

After a perfectly monotonous excursion, I arrived at the receiving terrived at the receiving terrived.

rived at the receiving ter minal in Rio De Janerio minal in Rio De Janerio. Brazil.

After a short rest and dinner at the Red Scorpion. I quickly scrounged around and found a guide to take me on a small expedition the next morning. I then settled down for a relaxing evening, playing roulette.
Early the next morning, my guide and I secured transport to the Amazon River and headed upstream in dory. After several hours, we finally passed the extent of civilized human habitation and entered into habitation and entered into the denser, darker and truly more harrowing aspects of nature.

Late that afternoon, we decided to construct our cantonment close to the river's shore. After an extended night filled with horrid voilerations, we arose tended night filled with horrid vociferations, we arose to a bright, shining sun. We then traveled deep into the dense jungle.

Several hours later, we were apprehended by a small tribe of aborigities armed with primitive spears. We were taken to their chief who regarded us very suspiciously — the their chief who regarded us very suspiciously — the idea of our being their can-nabalistic meal momentari-1; flashed across my mind — until I bestowed unto him a large wad of good of American green. He graciously received my gift and offered to help us on our way. I politely refused, and we were then ushered on.

After several miles and many hours surrounded by masses of swarming in-sects, we decided to camp beside a large reservoir. Actually it was a swamp but I prefer to call it a reservoir.

Actually it was a swamp but I prefer to call it a reservoir.

About 2:30 the next morning, I was rudely awakended to find my companion quietly gasping while being suffocated by a rather large python. The naughty creature had him wrapped up tighter than a Christmas package.

I quickly grabbed an aerosol can from my knapsack and sprayed some Raidright in the beast's nostrilist in the beast's nostrilist in the beast's nostrilist watched him vacate the vacinity. My companion, needless to say, found it hard to-get back to sleep.

All the next day, I had a growing suspicion that we were being watched.

ved positive proof late afternoon when I st walked head-on into an arrow flying in the op-posite direction. After several more such nearseveral more such near-collisions, I finally realized what was happening. "Ho, yon Robin Hoodite. Wherefore art thou?" I said rather loudly. Lo and behold a goliath of a woman stepped out of the bushes onto the path not ten feet from where we were stan-had resigned himself to mumbling "Amazon warriors," over and over, but I took the opportunity to survey our present location.

The room was stocked with all kinds of expensive gems and trinkets, but my eyes. were drawn like magnets to a large, solid gold idol on a table in the center of the room. I reached my hands (which were tied at my back) to my side and removed my hunting knife. She hadn't removed it, because she was not ware of such modern implements.

plements.
I quickly sliced open my bonds and went to rescue

my guide. He was still lost in his mind and, try as I might, he wouldn't come around. Hearing her around. Hearing her footsteps approaching, I figured that I had a good three minutes before she would finally arrive. I went straight to the idol and lifted the weighty object and carried it over next to the door.

When she finally entered the room I quickly exited the door.

When she finally entered the room, I quickly exited after her and headed for the outside and freedom. Once outside, I headed into the woods. As I neared a clearing. I heard a strange, mechanical groan. Suddenly, the ground dropped out from under my feet and I looked straight into the face of an oncoming train. There was nothing to do but accept the inevitable...

A loud crash rattled the air and I awoke startled and uncomprehending as my roommate came storming into the room just before slamming the door. Upon inquiry, he revealed that he had just failed an exam that he had really spent a lot of time studying for. I thanked him for rescuing me, and then left the room to get something to drink.

Zilch

If you're a senior and have the promise of a $10,000 career-oriented job, do you know what's stopping you from getting the American Express' Card?

You guessed it.

Recause American Express believes in your future. But more than that, We believe in you now. And we're proving it.

A $10,000 job promise. That's it. No strings. No gimmicks. And this offer is even good for 12 months after you graduate.

But why do you need the American Express Card now?

First of all, it's a good way to begin to establish your credit history. And you know that's important.

know that's important.

Of course, the Card is also good for travel, restaurants, and shopping for things like a new stereo or furniture. And because the Card is recognized and welcomed worldwide, so are you.

So call for a Special Student Application or look for one at your college bookstore or on campus bulletin boards.

The American Express Card. Don't leave school without it:

Call today for an application: 800-528-8000.

What To Do?

What To US?

If you are like a lot of prople, oney you dende that you would like to go useful to measure the continuous transport of the proplement of the proplement of the flashshedge oner business is providing you with answers to those questions. If you're bunger, women to the Rathshedge and try one four selection of different and unusual sandwickes and entrees. Items like Casbew Christen, Pepper Steak, and unusual sandwickes and entrees. Items like Casbew Christen, Pepper Steak, descriptions of the proplement of the proplemen

Not all clinics are the same.

ABORTION is a difficult decision that's made easier by the women of the Fleming Center. Counselors are available day and night to support and understand you. Comfort, safety, privacy, and a friendly staff...that's what the Fleming Center is all

Insurance accepted
All inclusive fees
We hidden charges
Wery early pregnancy tests

Call 781-5550 day or night.

The Fleming Center makes the diffe

Benefit for Wake County SPCA P.C. GOODTIMES 2 PM to 1:30 AM

3 Bands to Play Slow Children - Rock & New Wave Denis Rives & K-9 Core - Rock & Roll 910 - Rock & Roll

Saturday • April 3 All Cover goes to SPCA Also taking pet food donations

ARE YOU LOOKING FOR A GOOD SPRING???

If your answer is not a positive one, consider a Cut, Style, or Perm for a New You. Marla has 8 years experience; 5 years in N.C., and the last 3 years in California with advanced haircutting from the Nicholas Academy in San Mateo, California.

Her talent is now here in Raleigh at the PREMIER CUT & STYLE STUDIO. Marla is a stylist who cares about your complete look working with Bone Structure and Head Shape. For your best look or just a consultation call Marla today!

Perm, Cut, Style	$25.00	reg.	35.00
(Long Hair)
Hair Highlight
Cut Dlaw Ctule			14 50

3820 MERTON DRIVE Located in North Hills Office Center Six Forks Road Hours: Mon-Sat 9 to 6 781-6149 or 781-6145

for first visit only-offer expires April 17, 1982

Entertainment

Layouts release Production Night, LP of hard rock

Entertainment Writer

One of the hottest new bands to come from this area in a long time is the Layouts. It plays its own special mix of new wave and rock music, attracting crowds from all over Raleigh. It is definitely worth the time to see the Layouts strut its stuff in performance.

The Layout's newest The Layout's newest release, Production Night is sure to be a chart breaker. The hit single titled "My Editor Eats (P.B. and J. sandwiches)" is bound to be a smash. With lyrics like:

She's got jam on her fingers, jam in her hair. I know it's been said, I wanna be her bread, is song could go places

'A superb rock band ... able to bring out

- Rolling Stone Magazine Another song from the album includes "Gremlins my MDT" which tells the story of a haywire comter terminal that constantly digests writers'

all of the emotions in any listener.

"Sunday Night Suicide" portrays the life of an editor who runs amuck when the paper is past

Photo courtesy of Graphic
Allen, Kim "the Gem" Frazier, Jeffrey "Crash" Bender and The Layout band members from left to right: Darrell "2" Shortt, Rick my "Duke" Ellington. They will be appearing here at State April 23.

deadline and kills himself by slicing his wrist with a sheet of paper.
A favorite for all of those rock n'roll lovers is "My Hero is Joe Rat."

Hero is Joe Rat."

One song that is sure to grab the listener's attention is "Ads Done Screwed My Page Again." The Layouts seem to take out all of its primitive frustrations in this song. The beat is hard and driving, and the vocals could slice steel. Lyrics include

Ads done screwed my page again,

I'm going to get even and take away their scissors.

their scissors.

Ads done screwed my page again,
I want to blow them away and do my page my own D— way.

This is definitely a song to keep under lock and key.
There is one slow song— a ballad simply entitled "Cris, I Love You." The title speaks for the content of the song.

The five members of the band come from diverse backgrounds. The lead vocalist, Kim "the Gem"

Frazier is from the northern business-rush atmosphere of New York City. Jeffrey "Crash" Bender, the ear-smashing drummer is from the deep south of the Florida Keys.

the Florida Kevs.

Darrell "2" Shortt who plays an ivory piano, is a mysterious sort of guy who said he comes from Tralfamadore. Rick "Babycakes" Allen, bass guitar and Timmy "Duke" Ellington, lead guitar both come from the Carolina mountains.

'A fine piece of work. It covers the new wave spectrum with the style of the greatest super groups. - Billboard Magazine

Frazier, probably the sexiest thing since Pat Benatar, has an excellent well-trained voice. She can easily handle the demands rock music makes on the vocal chords.

When asked what it was to be like the only girl in an otherwise all-male band, she said, "It's super. I get all the attention, which I don't mind."

Ellington and Allen, who play mean guitars, both claim to be mountain boys and can chew tobacco to prove it. Keyboards are handled quite well by Shortt who enjoys needlepoint when he isn't on stage.

to prove it. Keyboards are nature quite when he isn't on stage.

Finally, Bender who can destroy $2,500 worth of drums in two minutes and 37 seconds, is the rowdiest of the group. The band claims that the chains he wears on stage are all that keep him from pillaging the audience.

The Layouts' newest album has received national attention. Rolling Stone Magazine, a leader in the music industry's publications, calls The Layouts, "a superb rock band... able to bring out all of the emotions in any listener."

The Layouts album, Production Night, is a "fine piece of work. It covers the new wave, rock 'n' roll spectrum with the style of the greatest super groups," according to Billboard Magazine.

So you can see, The Layouts are truly a group to be reckoned with. All in all, it is evident that they are an interesting and quite unusual band. They should go far in the fickle world of popular music.

Editor's Note: The Layouts will be playing an exclusive engagement in the third floor of Tucker lounge, April 2 at 8 p.m. There will be no admission.

Entertainment Brief

Harpsichordist Kenneth Cooper will be joined by flutist Paula Robison in a concert presented by the Raleigh Chamber Music Guild on Sunday at 8 p.m. in Stewart Theater. That afternoon, from 1 to 3 p.m., Cooper will conduct a master class, and criticize extracts played by local performers. He will then illustrate his points.

Silyer Screen

Entertainment Editor

The French Lieutenant's Woman Saturday, 6:30 & 9:30 p.m. Stewart Theatre

Admission: $1

John Fowle's Victorian romance comes brilliantly to life with Meryl Streep as the enigmatic Sarah Woodruff. The interweaving of the Victorian romance with a romance between the modern movie actors portraying the characters serves to accent the advanced attitudes of Sarah Woodruff and Charles Smithson.

Women in Love Stewart Theatre

Saturday, 11:30 p.m.

Glenda Jackson won an Academy Award for her role in this adaption of the D.H. Lawrence novel. Ken Russell also received critical acclaim for his direction.

Tuesday, April 6 10:00 a.m.- 4:00 p.m.

Disappointing Rod Stewart to make reappearance in Reynolds

Entertainment Editor

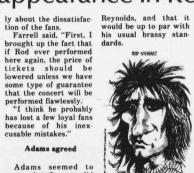

Entertainment Editor
Here is some fantastic
news for all of you rock'n'roll fans. The one and only Rod Stewart is going to perform again at State on April 23. He will do an encore of his wild, "heetic concert," which took place on March 4.
Remember that night
when Stewart performed at Reynolds Coliseum? In his performance, Stewart messed up beautifully on the mance, Stewart messed up beautifully on the lyrics of three of his most well-known songs — "Tonight's the Night," "Young Turks," and "Maggie May."

On the following day, R.H. Farrell, who coordinates special programs at Reynolds, contacted Stewart's manager, Richard Adams, to discuss Stewart's poorly, carried-out performance of the previous night. The two mentalked over the situation — especial-

Adams agreed

Adams seemed to agree that Stewart did what could be referred to as a 'flip-flop' performance. As an apology to the State student fans, Adams said he would convince Stewart to repeat his appearance at

So for all of you Rod Stewart fans, your dream has come true. You can see this famous rock 'n' roller once again. The tickets for the concert will be on sale beginning Saturday for a reduced price of $5.00 and $7.50. All students who attended the original concert will be able to get in free of charge if they present their ticket stubs at the door.

In addition to the low price of the concert tickets, there will is free bumper sticket, and punk-rock style t-shirts for only $4.50.

UP TO 4 STUDENTS PERMITTED PER APARTMENT KEEPS YOUR MONTHLY RENT PER PERSON REASONABLE!

Located adjacent to Wake County Medical Center and 1-64! Just 13 minutes from NCSU. Bus service to NCSU on Route #15. Year round indoor swimming pool, exercise room and clubhouse. Tennis courts and outdoor pool too! One and two bedroom plans offer modern kitchen, air conditioning, and campeting. Cablevision and HBO available. Direct Bus service. For complete information and a complimentary indoor pool pass, visit us 9-6:00 p.m. daily, Saturday 10-5:00 p.m.

Avoid The Lottery Blues-Apply Now

Walnut Room 4th Floor

MAKE A WORLD OF DIFFERENCE

RECRUITERS WILL BE ON CAMPUS: APRIL 6-7-8 SIGN UP TODAY FOR INTERVIEWS IN THE CAREER PLANNING AND PLACEMENT CENTER

Bailey turns down senior year; signs with Celtics

Sports Editor

While James Worthy, Dominique Wilkins and Ralph Sampson are still deciding what the future holds for them, one junior has already sealed his fate.

State forward Thurl Bailey, who led State to a 22-10 record last year, unexpectedly announced his decision to turn pro and sign a contract with the NBA's Boston Celtics, opting to forego his senior year with the Wolfpack.

"I decided this was the optimum time for me to enter the market," said the 6'11" Bailey at a press conference hurried ly arranged in Raleigh Thursday afternoon. "With so many juniors playing well this year and a slack senior class coming out now, I felt I could arrange a better deal at this point.

"Even though Sampson and Wilkins may be entering the market, I think that making my decision early helped me to get a jump on those guys."

market, I think that making my declarations get a jump on those guys."

Bailey reportedly signed a multi-year contract calling for an annual salary in the six-figure range. That figure could expand depending on the outcome of several incentive clauses that were worked out by Jerry Kapstein, Bailey's clauses that were worked out by well, will agent.

"We are extremely proud to have Thurl join our organization," said Mike Auerbach, son of Boston general manager Red Auerbach, who arrived in Raleigh Wednesday night for the signing. "With the addition of Bailey an injury like the one that Larry Bird (Boston star forward) suffered will not incapacitate us. We have received some standout backup performances to fill in while "the Bird" was out but we need someone like "T" who can start and fill in at other spots for "too"."

someone like 'T' who can start and fill in at other spots for us too.'

The Celtics are the defending NBA Champions and that may have had an influence on Bailey's decision.

"I wanted to go to a winning program so the Celts worked out a way to get me in without going through the draft," said the 14 point per game former State player. "The Celts didn't figure that I'd be around when their draft choice came up and they wanted to go ahead and sign me. (NBA Commissioner) Larry O'Brien worked out something.

"Even if I can't start right away, I know I will be with a winning team and can get into the game on a regular basis. After all, even the Bird is sitting on the bench right now.''

Although Boston was thrilled at the thoughts of signing the Wolfpack's leading big man, State head coach Jim Valvano showed certain disappointment in losing Bailey, although reacting in his normal outgoing manner.

"Thurl went for the big bucks and we just couldn't match their contract offer," said Valvano jokingly. "No, seriously,

Announcement Do You Want a

ZOO DAY?

Call Chuck Oglesby 737-2406

Lookingfor

ob

A Computerized Listing of Seniors & Graduates
Looking for your first full-time job? Now there is a new and unique way to do it. A new employment information service, Career Placement Registry, Inc., is available that will give you exposure to the personnel recruiters of the top 8,000 businesses, service organizations and industrial companies in the United States and 55 foreign countries, who now subscribe to DIALOG, the nation's foremost information retrieval service.
No employment agencies are involved. No recruiting fees are charged. As an upcoming college graduate, you pay only $8 to be included in this new national database.
CPR offers you exposure never before available—you can be registered under any one of over 400 occupational descriptions, from Accounting through Zoology. But only if you request and return your Data Entry form.
The database is copyrighted, and use of the file
as a mailing list is prohibited.

It costs nothing to find out more about CPR. Just complete and return the coupon.

For Faster Action: Call Toll-Free 1-800-368-3093 In Virginia (703) 683-1085

CPR Career Placement Registry, In 302 Swann Avenue
Alexandria, Virginia 22301

Register with CPR,

State's Thurl Bailey is presented a hat by Mike Auerbach, son of Boston Celtics' general manager Red Auerbach, at a Thursday press conference, where he announced his signing with the defending NBA Champion Celtics.

we wish Thurl all the luck in the world with the Celts. I believe he can do a good job for them.

"Thurl came to me a couple of weeks ago when he first learned the Celts were interested. I told him we certainly believe the cane to me a couple of weeks ago when he first learned the Celts were interested. I told him we certainly himself and some of the other Pack players may have inside the common of the other pack players may have inside the common of the other pack players may have inside the common of the other pack players may have inside the common of the other pack players may have inside the common of the other pack players may have inside the common would like to have him back but that the question was, what would be best for him? I'm disappointed he's leaving but I'm looking forward to drinking a few beers on him after he has

Bailey indicated that some conflict existing between timeself and some of the other Pack players may have in uenced his decision.

"You're darn right, I'm going pro because I want people to see my real talents," said Bailey after being grilled by some reporters at the press conference. "I couldn't get the ball after mid-season.

"After teams would shut down the baseline jumper, I started passing the ball back out. Then Whit (Dereck Whittenburg) and Sidney (Lowe) wouldn't let me touch the ball. Whit fired it up and Sidney wouldn't pass it in knowing he couldn't get an assist.
"Then with that big Nevitt under the basket it was all I could do to work around him and steal the ball so I could shoot. I'm ready to get to the NBA and show my real talent."

shoot. I'm ready to get to the INDA and show my statemt."

Valvano brushed off Bailey's comments, saying he thought the Pack's offense was well trained.

"Thurl should feel right at home in the NBA," Valvano said. "He'll soon learn to shoot the rock up everytime he gets his hands on that sucker."

The Pack forward intends to come back and continue he studies during the off seasons. He hopes he can play well enough in the NBA so Pack fans will be his fans too and he won't have created any animosity by leaving.

High school stars Hunter, Densmore commit to State

Assistant Sports Edito

Two highly-touted high school basketball stars an-nounced Thursday that they will attend State.

will attend State.
Curtis Hunter, a star guard for Southern Durham
High School, and Walt Densmore, a forward for Tuscaloosa Central High School, picked the Wolfpack over several big-name colleges.

leges.

Hunter, a 6-foot-4/z, 185-pounder, picked State
over national champion
North Carolina, Duke
NCAA runner-up Georgetown and DePaul. He averaged 22.4 points and 12.3 rebounds a game for Southern Durham, which lost to Warren County in the state 3-A regional finals.

"He is an outstanding young man in all respects," State head coach Jim Valvano said. "He is a fine student and was highly recommended by his principal. He is a very quick athlete who will be a candidate for a position at big guard or small forward."

Densmore, the 6-foot-6, 195-pounder, led Tuscaloosa to a 27-5 record this season. He averaged 18.3 points and 9.6 rebounds per game and 9.6 rebounds per game and was among the top 15 students in his 750-member senior class.

students in his 750-member senior class.

"He's very much a teamoriented man," Central coach Rosevelt Sanders said. "If he had wanted to, he could have scored 35 or 40 points a game."

Densmore picked State over Vanderbilt, Mississippi and Alabama.

"Twe always thought the and Alabama.

"I've always thought the Atlantic Coast Conference was the best," he said. "And, when I visited the campus earlier, all the State players seemed so happy to be a part of Coach Valvano's program."

Thompson's last-second heroics give Pack win over Heels

Sports Writer
David Thompson, after taking an errant pass from James Worthy, scored on a dunk with 2 seconds left to give State's 1974 NCAA championship team a 36-34 victory over this year's national champion North Carolina in an exhibition game Wednesday night in the Tar Heels' Carmichael Auditorium.

The Wolfpack had been behind by 24 points during the game, before it surged back to knot the count,

34-34, on a pair of free throws by Monte Towe. The Tar Heels called a timeout to set up a final timeout to set up a final play.

Sam Perkins threw the inbounds pass to Worthy, who drove downcourt, turned and dished the ball to Thompson.

The game was played as a challenge from the Wolfpack, who agreed to get together to "show the Heels what the game of basketball is all about."

While the contest was being planned, Thompson and his teammates argued about the slowdown pace that the college game has come to lately.

"We were especially tired of seeing Carolina's four-corners stall and we went so far as to challenge Carolina to this game."

Yet, the Heels, as usual, employed its four-corners stall much of the second half, but the Pack was still able to take charge.

"I would like to apologize to the fans for the low-scoring game," said Thompson, who was granted permission by the Denver Nuggets to attend the game. "But I think we proved our point. We did not play any mission by the Denver Nuggets to attend, the game. But I think we proved our point. We did not play any slowdown ball at all, and we beat the 1982 NCAA champions who did. And we haven't played with each other in eight years."

The affair united the 1974 squad, which is the only State team to win the national crown. The Wolfpack's entire starting lineup was present, including Thompson, Towe, Mo Rivers, Tom Burleson and Tim Stoddard.

Thompson also served as

In the first 12 minutes of the game, the Tar Heels jumped ahead, 24-8, on eight points by Matt Doherty and six by Mike Jordan and Perkins.

Perkins.
They went to their stall from there and held the ball as the clock wound down.
Jordan shot a 20-footer with 18 seconds left, but Burleson hauled down the rebound and passed down court to Towe, who scored on a layup. The Pack trailed, 24-10, at halftime.

The Heels then slowed things down a bit, going to their delay and forcing a number of State fouls. North Carolina connected 12 of 16 free throws in the final eight minutes and outscored State, 12-10, over the next 13 minutes.

With the score 34-30 with 1:54 left, Spence banked in a baseline shot to pull the Pack within two. North Carolina held the ball until 29 seconds remained. Stoddard fouled Worthy, who missed a one-and-one bonus situation. Burleson grabbed the rebound, dribbled and passed the ball to Towe, who was accidentally fouled by Worthy. Towe's free throws tied the count, 34-34, before Thompson ended the game with his heroic dunk.

"I told the team at halftime that we had to speed the tempo up and change Carolina's slowdown game," Thompson said.

Carter Stadium may become first domed facility in state

Due to the increase in at-tendance of athletic events at State, the athletic depart-ment and university officials are considering making Carter Finley Stadium the first dome facility in North Carolina.

first dome facility in North Carolina.

The project if passed will be put into effect as soon as possible. The construction will start during the sum-mer and should be completed by the fall football season. The cost of the pro-ject is rumored to be in the excess of $22 million, but athletics director Willis Casey feels that the money will be well worth it.

"It will give State the largest basketball seating capacity for any college," Casey said. "Let North Carolina eat their hearts out. We will be able to seat for itself in less than 10

for itself in less than 10 years."

The initial cost will be paid for by three groups. The alumni will contribute about a third of the cost, and the university and athletic department will contribute the rest. Students' tuition will not be increased, but each student who contributes over $200 will receive tickets for the games that will be played the year after they graduate.

"The dome will be a worthy investment for the students," Casey said. "It will give them a chance to help improve the State athletics program and get season tickets to boot. We don't like making the students pay for every thing that goes on here."

Having the dome will help the quality of athletics at State. Football fans will not have to put up with the rain or the cold weather. This should help bring in more people to see the Pack play. The money taken from the proceeds will be divided into three parts. The university will be given a third of the money to.help improve the campus. This money will initially be used to pay for the additions planned for Carmichael Gymnasium. This way students will not have to take responsibility for the full amount of the cost. The athletics department will get a third of the money to lund athletics. The last third of the money will go to pay loans taken out to build the dome.

By having the dome State.

If built the dome is being considered as the site of the 1985 NCAA Basketball Championship. Also Carter dome will be the sight of the Wolfpack Bowl where the ACC champion will take on the best team it can find. All of the Big Four basketball games will be played there. This will give the fans a chance to have tickets to see their favorite teams play. Reynolds will be turned over to the women's athletics department. This will also improve the quality of women's athletics. All of State's coaches were in favor of the dome. They believe the dome should be named the Carterdome. "It will help recruiting a

They believe the comshould be named the Carterdome.

"It will help recruiting a lot if we build the dome," said football coach Monte Kiffin. "For the opening game I will paint Go To HCarolina on the ceiling."

"The number of people in our crowds will increase," coach Jim Valvano said.
"Can you imagine 54,000 people yelling at a basketball game. With that type of crowd no athlete in his right mind would pass up (playing for) State."

EARN OVER $950 PER MONTH DURING YOUR LAST TWO YEARS OF COLLEGE! a head start on an exciting challenging.

YOUR LAST TWO YEARS OF COLLEGE!

Get a head start on an exciting, challenging position after graduation. While you finish school, we will pay you over $950 per month to maintain good grades. We have the hest graduat level nuclear training program in the world. Math, physics, chemestry, technical majors, and engineering students may qualify. U.S. citizens less than 27 years old, 30 GPA or better and good health are the requirements. We offer a projected salary of over $40,000 after 4 years. If you are interested, send letter and transcripts to:

1.800-662-7568

Navy Nuclear Programs
1001 Navaho Drive
CAMPUS VISIT SCHEDULED APRIL 68
Raleigh N.C. 27609

ABORTIONS UP TO 12TH

ABORTIONS UP TO 121H
WEEK OF PREGNANCY
Abortions from 13 to 16 weeks et additional charge.
pregnancy test, birth control and problem pregnancy counseling. Fr turther information call 852-6353 (tol free number 800-221-2369) betwee

Raleigh Women's Health Organization

Organization 917 West Morgan St. Paleigh, N.C. 27603

50¢ OFF VILLAGE INN PIZZA PARLOR'S

Silver Bullet

Tonight, Saturday, and Sunday Night

Tuesday

STORMZ

til 10:00

Tuesday Night-

Dr. Martin Luther King Jr. Commemoration Dr. Augustus M. Witherspoon Sunday April 4, 1982 7 p.m. Ballroom University Student Center RE-SCHEDULED FROM JAN. 15, 1982

THE SKILLET

10% OFF ANY MENU ITEM (UPON PRESENTATION OF I.D.)

TO ALL STATE STUDENTS AND FACULTY

OPEN 24 HOURS

Mission Valley Inn WESTERN BOULEVARD AT AVENT FERRY ROAD RALEIGH, NORTH CAROLINA . PHONE 919/628-662

"ALL YOU CAN EAT" Buffet Good only from 5 to 9 pm Western Blvd. expires Friday, April 9 _____

Home of Rock-n-Roll

the South's Top Rock-n-Roll Band

10¢ Draft for Ladies Friday Night-

Sunday Night-Free Draft 8-9:30

75¢ Bottle Beer

ALL NIGHT

Worthy forfeits senior season

Sports Writer

James Worthy of NCAA champion North Carolina an-nounced he is foregoing his senior year for a career in senior year for a career in acting.

Worthy, a first-team all-America from Gastonia, led the Tar Heels to the championship, averaging over 15 points and 6.5 rebounds per contest. While hitting 56 percent of his shots from the floor, he guided North Carolina to a 32-2 record.

His presence on the floor intimidated his opponents and forced others to overplay him defensively. He is best-known for his crowd-arousing slam dunks. The 6°P power forward realized one of his boyhood dreams after his team won the NCAA Championship Monday night with a 63-62 victory over Georgetown.

Another dream, according to Worthy, is to become a famous singer and dancer like his idol, Sammy Davis, Jr.

To the surprise of many.

Jr.
To the surprise of many, including Tar Heel coach Dean Smith, Worthy turned down several offers to play professional basketball.

James Worthy demonstrates his acting ability at the East Region possible, has a glass eye and is Jewish. A flamboyant performer, Davis began as a vaudeville performer and worked his way to the top of worked his way to the top of his profession.

Worthy plans to "start at or near the top," with the lead in the way-off Broadway musical "Mammy." This swinging rendition of Al Jolsen's famous movie will begin its tour with two performances in Hooterville on April 31. The troupe will head north after its initial engagement.

engagement.

Worthy will be right at home on the Hooterville stage. In high school, he co-starred on that stage with Eric "Sleepy" Floyd, a basketball star at Georgetown, in the Gaston Little Theatre's production "Snow White and the Seven Dwarfs."

Worthy, unlike Floyd, has abandoned his dwarf nickname.

"I didn't think the other actors would respect so-meone named Dopey," Wor-thy said.

He thought the name was "unbecoming for a basket-ball star turned singer-dancer."

hit, Worthy plans to change his name to suit his new Jewish faith. As Slaman Dunkstein, he hopes to make enough money to buy rings for both hands and to pay for a glass eye transplant.

According to Worthy, rumors concerning former North Carolina teammate Sam Perkins' decision to followon the road to stardom is untrue. Perkins will remain at Chapel Hill unless the troupe can top the $500,000 salary he earns on his summer job — watching the grass grow in Kenan Stadium.

Heel's celebration goes on . . . and on

Well. I hope all you "Wolfpack" fans have had a good time celebrating and are either talking about basketball recruiting or football by now.

But for the real Wolfpack fans the depression is just wearing down. The depression of being deserted by their own that is. The worst depression is yet to be faced for the true Wolfpack fan. The depression of hearing that North Carolina boasting for the next God knows how long, definitely till the cows come home and then some.

Well now that you "Wolfpack" fans are through with your celebrations, how does it feel to have your fellow Tar Heelers still gloating and foaming at the mouth over victory. That's right, just keep putting up with it. Another couple of weeks and you'll be plenty tired of it though. Relax, though, there's only another 10 or 20 years of it to go.

Let's not have any of this crap about how the ACC won. No, the Tar Heels won and you'll hear no credit being given to the ACC from their ranks.

For a rivalry to exist there must be competition. And my friends the competition is now gone. Gone is the argument that Dean Smith isn't the nation's greatest coach because he's never won a Title. Gone is the Wolfpack claim to fame on having won the last Title in the ACC.

The Heels are ranked first in the nation in lacrosse also, as well as being the defending national champs. In short, North Carolina on a national level has the upperhand in virtually every sport, even if the Pack won over the Heels on a league level.

•Wrestling: The Heels grappled the Pack at the nationals.

ionals.
•Swimming: The Heels got wet. The Pack drown-

Symmung
 ed.
 Football: It didn't take an onsides kick to get the Heels to the Gator Bowl.

•Lacrosse: They've got a Gross lead. •Basketball: Obvious. •Tennis: They're the ones with the (light) blue Occupance of the control of the c

Sideline

William Terry Sports Editor Kelley

Insights

I'm sure all the new bumper stickers are already out by now. The ones that proclaim the Tar Heels the greatest. The ones that claim that Deity effects the weather due to His collegiate preference, all those "yes we know how it feels, now stickers", etc. But before you come out with something about your dominance over MOO U just remember a classy one from Raleigh, "Better Ag than Fag."

Well, Pack fans, I give my condolences. For you true Packers, it will be hard to cope with the garbage that will spill over from the Hill for the next few years. There's no ammo to fight back with now.

And for you "Wolfpack" fans, when the Heel noise gets to be too much for you, just stick in there and be like a real Heel. Be obnoxious. Cheer when you win. Be obnoxious. Complain when you lose. Be obnoxious.

Be obnoxious. Complain when you lose. Be obnoxio Boast and boast. And oh, did I say, be obnoxious.

Heels, Hoyas to be investigated

by Bray Toot Sports Writer

Sports Writer
The NCAA board of directors is placing both North Carolina and Georgetown under NCAA investigation for gambling. According to NCAA officials the 1982
Championship game had too many question marks about how players from how players f Georgetown performed.

pionship game both Pat Ew-ing and Fred Brown opened bank accounts for $100,000 each. At the same time Dean Smith's account dropped by $200,000. Officials report that something is not right

"I threw a large party last night and when it was over it cost me a lot of money." Smith said. "I had never met either of the players before, until the game. I could have not possibly paid them that much."

over three times in the first half and missed three easy layups. Brown helped preserve the Heels' victory when he threw James Wor-thy the ball with eight seconds left in the game.

Ewing denied all reports that Smith had given him money. When first asked where the money came from he had no comment. Later, he said that he found the

"I, uh, did not, uh, receive the, uh, money from Dean," Ewing said. "I found it out-side... in the trash."

Brown like Ewing did not at first say where he got the money. Later after he was questioned, Brown broke down in tears and confessed to the crime.

"All the other players have easy jobs to make money." Brown said. "I just wanted to be rich like them. Dean called me after we reached the finals and asked eif I needed any money. At first I said no, but after he told me how much I could not refuse."

After learning about what Brown said, NCAA officials confronted Smith with the news. Smith still denied the charges.

"You can not prove anything that I did." Smith said. "Money is not traceable. We won the cham-pionship and nobody can deny it."

As the police carried

As the police carried Smith away he began yelling "NCAA Champions." Not since the early 60s has an ACC team been suspected of

LOCK.

STOCK &

Visit our three convenient area locations • Italian Foods • Steaks Gourmet Burgers Seafood
Gourmet Desserts Excellent Wine List

Gourmet Desserts Texas Seafood

Gourmet Desserts Sex Seafood

PLUS .

OUR FAMOUS ALL YOU CAN EAT 35 ITEM SALAD BAR

3 CONVENIENT LOCATIONS: ●3524 NORTH BOULEVARD-mixed

BARREL

gambling. Both North Carolina and Georgetown if convicted will be placed on four years of probation. Smith, Ewing and Brown could receive up to five years in prison if convicted. But some how Smith always seems to come out on the clean side of things no mat-ter what the charges are.

Kiffin announces change in offense

by Devin Steele
Assistant Sports Editor

It appears that, for the third season in a row, State football will have a new look. In 1980, it was an addition of a new coach — Monte Kiffin, an exhilarating and unpredictable individual who added a snark to the

of a new coach — Monte Kirfin, an exhilarating and unpredictable individual who added a spark to the Wolfpack program.

In 1980, Kiffin changed the face of the offense with the I-formation, switching from the Veer which the Pack operated since 1972. Kiffin, in a Thursday afternoon press conference, announced that the Wolfpack will change offenses once more — to the 1-800 offense, a style which he developed himself after his squad ended the 1981 season with a dismal 4-7 record.

"After such a disappointing season, I got

"After such a disappoint in g season, I got desperate," Kiffin said. "But the move isn't out of mere desperation. It's a well-planned, well-coordinated attack. And my staff is willing to give it a shot."

According to Kiffin, the change won't affect the running back positions at all, but is geared to initiate change in the quarterback slot. He would not outline the formation in detail, but hinted about the origin of its name. "Like the phone company, I call it the 1-800 because it will be 'To-f-ree,' a grinning Kiffin said. Kiffin was, obviously, referring to junior quarterback Tol "sure-handed" Avery who, despite leading State to only four wins, was touted for his excellent hands and ability to read defenses well. "Tol handled the ball flawlessly last fall," Kiffin said. "But he just doesn't have the knack it takes to play the quarterback position. We just haven't had a true quarterback position. We just haven't had a true quarterback our our entire lineup the past two seasons. We tried to make Tol into one, which he adjusted to well, but could not come through in the doordon't situations."

The State mentor said he thinks Avery has found a home at the wide receiver position, where graduating Mike Quick handled chores for four seasons and became catcher and reception yards gainer.

State's all-time leading pass catcher and reception yards gainer.

Kiffin's only qualm about moving the Four Oaks native to the line is his blocking weakness.

"Let's face it. Tol was the biggest hole in our offense." Kiffin said. "I have confidence that his catching will make up for that."

fidence that his catching will make-up for that."

Avery's prospective replacement, according to Kiffin, will be a walk-on from State's Club football team. William Hurst, a 6'2", 215-pound sophomore from Deep Run, was asked to tryout following tell-tale reports from Kiffin's coaching staff.

Hurst was under close scrutiny during spring drills and so far has been the most impressive of State's quarterbacks.

"Now there's a true quarterback," Kiffin said. "He's got a great eye for the receivers and he can connect with accuracy. And he must've known the plays before he got here. He caught on in no time at all."

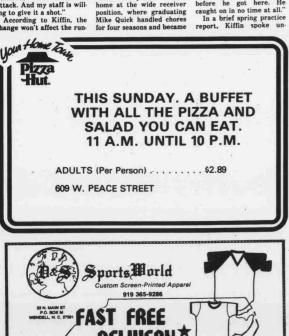

In a brief spring practice report, Kiffin spoke un-

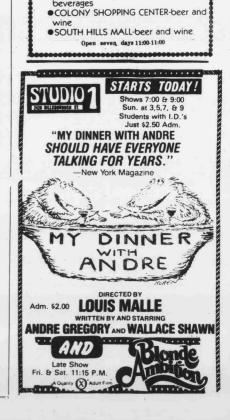

Only one of these pens is thin enough to draw the line below.

It's the extra-fine rolling ball of Pilot's remarkable new Precise Ball Liner Pen. (If you haven't guessed which one it is, look at the top photo again. It's the trim beauty on the bottom left.) But unlike the others. The real beauty of Pilot's Precise Ball Liner is the extra-fine line it puts on paper. It glides smoothly across the page because its tiny tungsten carbide ball is held securely within a needle-like stainless steel collar. A collar that makes the Precise Ball Liner the most durable, It's letter-writer's joy. An artist's dream. It's letter-writer's joy. An artist A scribbler's delight.
One more fine point: the Pilot Precise Ball Liner doesn't have a big, fat price. It's just a skinny $1.19. PILOT The rolling ball pen that revolutionizes thin writing.

'Guru of groovy' At Crier terms must be lewer than 30 BLACK SCHO and pseudo-intellectual professors who think today's youth are still interested in all that stuff."

"Hey, Tim. Man where did it go?"

"What's that, kid?"

"The trailer."

"Keep it together now. We'll be back in a little while. At least I will. I'm not so sure about you."

"Ohhh Wowww."

"Reality is just a concept. No, that's too philosophical. How about, reality is just a part of a concept that no one is really sure of or not sure of except those who drop hallucinogens. Do you like that?"

"Does it mean anything." I asked.

"What's that?"

"Ohe I thought you meant my quote."

"What quote?"

"Hey, your lousy paper paid for this interview. The least you can do is listen."

"Yeah, good idea. That's pretty funny, Tim.

"Quit laughing and ask me something else. I have an appointment with my hairdresser in an hour."

"But you wear a wig."

"Shut up. Let me tell you about the 'space between us all..."

"How about the space between us and the ground?"

II..."
"How about the space between us and the ground?"
"So fill it with words, my friend."
(There was a slight pause.)

'Man, I've just talked to God. And he wants to talk to you.

"You've come under criticism lately for trying to cash in on your past fame. Any comment?"

"No. Besides fame is relative. I don't think I was at all famous. I think infamous would be more appropriate."

"What were you trying to say?"

"That I believe infamous would be a more appropriate word."

"Mot were you trying to say?"
"That I believe infamous would be a more appropriate."
"What were you trying to say?"
"That I believe infamous would be a more appropriate word."
"No. I mean in the 60s."
"Just that with all the crap going on in the world at the time maybe everyone should take a break."
"By dropping acid?"
"That was the closest thing to my grasp. It worked for me. .. (Starts singing, off.key of course.) And he fell off the 'Stairway to Heaven..."
"Do you mean you fell from grace?"
"Yeah. I fell pretty d-- quick once I got busted."
"Do you feel you got a bum rap?"
"Everyone feels he got a bum rap?"
"Everyone feels he got a bum rap?"
"You mean you planned to dump acid at Hoover Dam?"
"No. stupid! We planned to dump acid at Hoover Dam?"
"No. stupid! We planned to dump acid at Hoover Dam?"
"No. stupid! We planned to dump acid at Hoover Dam?"
"No. stupid! We planned to dump acid at Hoover Dam?"
"So was your question."
Time had become quite insignificant by now. Leary said we'd been talking for hours. As he began to denounce claims that dropping acid inevitably led to homosexual tendencies, in walked Ginsburg with a new poem he had composed just for the State appearance.
"Roses are red. Violets are blue. If the Wolfpack dropped acid, they'd all go 'Moo'."
"That's pretty deep ole buddy." Leary said as laughter seeméd to literally cross his face.
"Hey, kid. You've never seen laughter cross someone's face?" Ginsburg inquired as I looked on utterly enthralled.
"It starts quick and then spreads like a tidal wave, washing out pain in the process. Can you dig it?"
I could tell Ginsburg was still buried deep in the past he'd helped to create. "I thought words like 'dig had vanished with phrases like 'I'm hip man?", I asked him.
"Well, it figures to me, like, the space of that concept is, like, too abstract for me to comprehend, but I can tell you this, my accomplice in the play of life. They have, but old burnouts like me still use them for lack of anything better to say. Like, you know?"
The olly thing I knew r

"TRYOUTS"

Cheerleaders, Mascots, Mike Man

First Meeting: Mon. April 5, 6:00 p.m. Carmichael Gym Cuts:

Thurs. April 8

Tryouts:

Mascots & Mike Man - Thurs. April 8

Cheerleaders - Thurs. April 15

"Fun And Exciting"
"Be a part of some of the nation's finest!"
Any questions call Cathy Buckley: 362-8928

segon printed on 8 % X 11 page; Herris sold, similar data data conform to the above specifications will not be run tilly one riem south the properties of the properties of the south the properties of the properties of all stems at least once before their meeting all stems at least once before their meeting date, but no stem will appear more than three times. The deadline for all Criters so, pm. the date of publication for the previous cases them may be submitted in Student control to the properties of the properties cases. The properties of the properties cases them may be submitted in Student control to the properties of the properties control to the properties of the properties of the properties of the properties the properties

ALL PSYCHOLOGY MAJORS are invite amend the Psychology Club's Spring St April 21 at 7:30 p.m. in the Packh RSVP by April 9 outside 640 Poe Hall

2 BEDROOM FURNISHED APT to sublet for summer 1% miles from campus Call

SUNNY FURNISHED ROOM Own bath, en-try, parking. Kitchen use. Female. $160/mo. 876-4099, 851-3592

TYPING SERVICE Reports, resumes, term papers, letters. Quick turn-around. 876 6142

BLACK SCHOLASTIC ACHIEVEMENT PRO GRAM, Thurs, April 8 at 8 p.m. in the Stu-dent Center Walnut Boom. Guest speaker Mr. H.M. "Mickey". Michaux, candidate for U.S. Congress.

ULTIMATE FRISBET is played every day on Harris field from 3 6 p.m. For more into call either Todd Grushong 1832 (2277) or Jim Markov (737 6262). Come out and play!

THE SOCIETY OF WOMEN ENGINEERS will meet Tues. April 6 at 6 p.m. in the Board Room. We will have a program of Field Engineering by General Efector.

classifi

CARDINAS' PSYCHOLOGY CONFERENCE begins tonight with a social in the Student Center from 71130 pm. The conference continues tomorrow with paper presentations, quest speakers, and a psychology liftnestraal in Pile Hall from 7 a.m. 530 pm. Registration fee is $3. HEAR ACOUSTIC GUITAR by Keith Shealy Itermerly of Allwyn Wall Band. Jenkins Memoraal United Methodist, Sat., April 3 at 8 p.m.

NOTICE Sundry pieces located in this pro-geny of omniscient promulgation happen to be specious. This an official disclaimer. Just thought you'd Jikke to know.

30 fr 3 HONDRARY SOPHOMORE LEADER SHIP SOCIETY will accept applications for admission until April 2. Applications are available at 114 Harris Hall or at the Student GoV1 Office. Rising juniors may apply

eds

ACCUMRITER TYPING SERVICE Honors English graduate with wind processor would like to solve your lyping problems. Term papers, resumes, cover letters. Will pick up and deliver work night and day 787 8384.

ATTENTION The Technician wants to rent highly trained, semi-intelligent personnel to interested parties for menial jobs. Cheap rates. Contact. Turn. After at. 737,7411. for more with.

PROFESSIONAL TYPING Will do rush jobs IBM Selectric II Call 828 1632 Ask for TYPING FOR STUDENTS done in my home. 75 years' experience. Reasonable rates. Call 834.3747 anytime.

PARKING, PARKING DISCOUNT RATES until summer Guaranteed space 8345188 ROOMS, APARTMENTS, AND HOUSES FOH RENT % block from campus. Now signing leases for summer and fall. For details call 834-5180

FOR SALE — Bell Tower, seldom used, must sell quickly, money is needed to finance another jock dorm, call 737.2191 with your best offer.

SUMMER WORK! HAVE YOU GOT THE FINANCIAL CUT BLUES? If you'd like to make $1,200/month, can relocate for the summer, send-name and phone no. to: Summer Work, 232 Numley Dr., Nashville, Tn. 37211

PRE-MEDIDENT CLUB MCAT review General Chem, hear Dr Carmichael Sat April 3 at 9:00 in 210 Dabney Non members are welcome

AGROMECK LAYOUT STAFF will have a layout session April 3 and 4 at 11 a m in the

CIRCLE K members are reminded that the upcoming Induction Banquet is Sat. April 3 at 7 pm. For more information call Jimmy at 737 6444

HOSPITAL COURIER needed for Holly Hill Hospital Volunteer will receive hospital orientation and training transport lab specimens, reports, etc. between Wake Medical, other errands. Call Volunteer Ser vices, 737.3193.

PPC PROGRAMMING CONTEST Mon. April 5 in the Student Center Board Boom

FOUND — a black leather wallet with brown lacing containing $20 and no identification. Call 737 2411 to claim.

LAST CHANCE 1992 AGROMECK YEAR BOOK SALE ends today! Purchase your record of the school year from tables at 1st floor Student Center and the Free Expression Tunnel from 1800 arm to 300 pm Or mail in the coupon from the Technolan ad Delivery is 'on time' in September.

FORMER NEWS EDITORS OF THE TECHNI-CIAN CLUB will meet tonight following pro-duction in their booth at Mitch's to discuss the possible membership of Liz Bloom.

NCSU YOUNG DEMOCRATS, Thurs, April 8 at 730 p.m. in Student Center Green Room. Election of new officers. Door Prize.

ATTENTION ENGINEERING MAJORS Brig. General Tubbers, Chief of Staff of Man-

* TECHNICIAN NEEDS ADVERTISING ust be: SALES REPRESENTATIVES @Aggressive @Chauvinist @Preppy @Member of a social fraternity @Able to hold massive quantities of beer @Fine connoisseur of attractive women and loud music @Have and maintain 4 0 G.P.A. while working 60 hours per week at the Technician, dating 14 girls in six states and being active in your fraternity

Must have:

©Highly developed capacity to B.S., especially when you know you are wrong

©Father whose business nets over $500,000 after taxes so it can underwrite printing and production costs of the newspaper

@Must drive Mercedes-Benz* or other highly priced import diesel

@Must spend all college breaks in international tropical resort areas

If you meet the above requirements, contact: Hughes Vanderbilt at 737-2411, 2412 or 2413.

BOOG POWELL (Former American Baseball Great): Koichi here has been giving me a new angle on baseball. It seems the game's a little different in Japan.

KOICHI NUMAZAWA (Former

Japanese Baseball Great): そう、例えばフィールドが小さめてすね。

BOOG: That's right. The field is smaller over there.

KOICHI: つまり、ショートで小さめな日本人の体格に合わせたんですよ。 BOOG: Well, now that you mentioned it, I guess you guys are kinda smaller. Does that mean you drink Lite Beer 'cause it's less

KOICHI: いやー, おいしいから飲む んですよ。

B006: Tastes great? That's why I drink it, too! I guess we have a lot more in common than I thought KOICHI: その通り!どうです、日本の野球チームに入りませんか。

BOOG: Me? I'm too big to play on MOICH! そんなことないですよ、ショートに最適ですよ。 BOOG: Shortstop?! Very funny.

