

Student body presidential candidates state positions

To increase student awareness of Student Government actions on Tuesday and Wednesday, candidates seeking the four major offices, Student Body President, Student Body Treasurer, Student Senate President and Student Center President, were asked by Technician to state their general positions on why they should be elected and to answer the following questions concerning specific issues:

1. What do you feel is the greatest responsibility of the office you are seeking? How does that responsibility directly affect students?
2. If you were in office, how would you have reacted to the proposed parking fee increase and how would you have increased student awareness and input?

3. How do you feel about fee increases, both for student services, such as Student Government or publications, and for academics, such as lab fees?
4. If elected, what will you do to improve State's image outside of campus? What emphasis will you put on lobbying for funds in the legislature?
5. What will you do to make Student Government more responsive to the needs of the students and more visible? What methods will you use to combat student apathy?
6. Comment on weaknesses of past Student Governments.
7. Comment on one of your special interests.

Carson

As a candidate for student body president, my main goal center around making Student Government a more responsible and influential organization on campus and the state. I have cited communication with students as the key to all issues, and this will be top priority in my service to State. 1. The greatest responsibility of the student body president is to represent the affairs of all students in relative issues on campus and in the state. The student body president is the student's only voice in some cases and must be on top of any issues to represent them fairly.

2. I would have organized the various student leaders on campus to assure that they were well informed of the situation and then to develop a collective voice in protest of the increase. A unified protest would have been more effective in bringing attention to the student's view.

3. Each fee increase must be analyzed on the basis of cost effectiveness. I plan to organize a standing committee to investigate all fee increase proposals that can't be justified. Of course student input will be the main factor in the committee's determination.

Haas

My position is one of authority and experience. I am running for student body president on the idea of supporting YOU, the students of this elite establishment, State. I create new ideas and execute them with little or no opposition, because I work with my constituents to provide the enthusiasm to get involved.

Hilliard

Every Student Government project is a group project. I have done many things for State, but I haven't done it alone. So when you think about our computers, Party-Line and the Voting Guide, remember that I was not the only one who did it. I'll need even more.

Kamai

I am running for student body president because I believe I can represent many aspects of the students at State. I want students to enjoy their college educations. I agree this office is political, but I think to serve the students better, I must be a student leader and not a political leader.

Kelley

As student body president I would like to keep an open line of information flowing between students and university and legislative officials. This is the first step in confronting the issues. With my experience in working with students as well as the media I feel I could best facilitate communication between students and officials.

Kolley

As student body president I would like to keep an open line of information flowing between students and university and legislative officials. This is the first step in confronting the issues. With my experience in working with students as well as the media I feel I could best facilitate communication between students and officials.

4. Outside representation is a primary responsibility of the student body president and of particular importance this year with the lobby effort for an addition to D.H. Hill Library. This effort will be a top priority in my office and will be organized immediately with student leaders in conjunction with the administration.

Coble

As student body president I intend to turn Student Government into the voice of the students. Together, we can accomplish the goals ultimately set forth by you, the student. I want to be student body president not for myself but for the students.

5. As student body president I will provide information to the students by establishing a newsletter. In addition to the newsletter I want to regularly inform Technician about what is going on in Student Government. Getting information to the student and making Student Government very visible will reduce the apathy problem.

6. Past Student Governments have been far too passive in their attacks on issues and problems. In addition to passive action, Student Government is isolated from students. I will turn Student Government into the dynamic force of the student body and pass along vital information to the community. Again, this will reduce student apathy.

7. I plan to remain constantly in contact with the various departments on campus that influence student services by involving students as liaisons. Working closely with various departments can increase availability of such things as athletic facilities.

8. To act as a liaison between the student body and the legislature asking for money, but you'll find them regularly telling them who we are and getting them interested in State students.

9. I founded the President's Task Force to Combat Apathy two years ago. Since then I have brought computers, Party-Line, Voting Guides and other ideas to Student Government. As president, I will reach out into the student body as no other student has been able to do before.

10. In the past, student leaders have found it impossible to organize a student body with tens of thousands of students

11. I would like to increase the accessibility of Student Government to the students through increasing the number of public forums on University issues and the amount of media coverage of Student Government activities and policy making.

Fisher

I am seeking the office of student body treasurer because I would like to see the office made stronger in influence and responsibility to the students. Most importantly I want to strengthen the role of Student Government as a link between the students and the administration. Student Government should serve as an avenue in communication, not as an obstacle.

1. The two greatest responsibilities that face the office of treasurer are (1) to let the students know exactly how much money is being spent and what it is being spent on and (2) to try to reduce waste in the government budget.

Hight

The treasurer is a student body leader, and I feel it's time this office assumed its proper position in Student Government. Beyond serving as Finance Committee chairman and working to help student groups to receive their fair share of funding, I hope to initiate many projects to benefit all State students.

2. I would have to take a lot of convincing to get me to support this proposal, especially in this amount and for "their" reasons. True, we need an increase for more parking spaces, but this increase.

3. Student input is vital in every issue, fee increase or otherwise! Not all increases are bad. My major criteria will be the justification of the increase and how much the students will benefit or be hurt. In my opinion those are the two major considerations for fee increases.

Mauney

As a senator, I was the only student body treasurer candidate who fought Random Distribution from start to finish. I voted against Student Government fee increases. I feel the only way to really inform students about campus issues is to ask questions. No other candidate has done this. Let me prove it to YOU!

Student treasurer candidates draw attention to controversial issues

Anthony

If I am elected student body treasurer, I will make the students more aware of how Student Government utilizes its money. I will also examine all aspects of fee increases to see what can be done to eliminate unnecessary increases which deal with parking, labs, telephones and other problems which the students feel are unfair.

1. I feel that the greatest responsibility of the treasurer is to oversee that the money is used for adequate purposes.

2. I think that if the parking fees have to be increased then they should be increased on a gradual basis. I would have increased student awareness by calling students at random in order to receive feedback on their ideas and also by polling students about the parking fees.

3. I feel that the student should only be charged for a lab when it requires the excessive use and disposal of lab materials. In relation to Student Government, I feel that Student Government needs more money to work with in order to do more for the students.

4. I think State can improve its current status by having student representatives going to the different high schools and explaining to the high school students all about college life at State, including academics, sports and social events that the school provides.

5. In order to combat student apathy, I think that the Student Government should try very hard to get the incoming freshmen involved in school and in Student Government. If students get involved right away, they most likely will continue to be involved in the school. Apathy is a problem because a lot of students feel that Student Government has no bearing on their college lives.

6. I feel that one of the major weaknesses of Student Government involves a lack of communication between Student Government and the students. Also, I think that Student Government lacks the motivation towards planning activities for the students.

7. I am going to try to attack the issue concerning the school cafeteria. I feel that students should have the option of whether or not to eat at the cafeteria.

8. I will try and make the population of North Carolina more aware of what the University is doing for the community through the increased support of the University's extension programs. I will try to get across the idea that this is indeed a peoples university.

9. I believe student apathy is a tremendous problem because students are not aware of how the role of Student Government is now and should be in the future. To combat this apathy adequately, I feel it should be the responsibility of every elected student official to inform the student body of the importance they may exercise in the formulation of University policy.

10. Student Government did not inform students of its actions in the past. I want to make the students more aware of the Student Government's actions. Many of these weaknesses may be due to the students' lack of exercising their attributed right to support or reject Student Government proposals.

11. I would like to increase the accessibility of Student Government to the students through increasing the number of public forums on University issues and the amount of media coverage of Student Government activities and policy making.

Student represents N.C. at radio, T.V. conference

Jack Reynolds
Feature Writer

Not many students get the chance to mingle with national news celebrities and news producers and get a chance to meet such people as Fred Silverman. One student from State, however, was given just this chance. Kim Phillips became the first student from North Carolina to attend the annual conference of The International Radio and Television Society held Feb. 16.

Phillips, speech communications major, attended the conference of this New York based organization which consists of some 1,800 members involved in the areas of advertising, broadcasting and other related fields.

The annual Faculty/College Conference links the worlds of education and communication with the real world for 75 faculty members and 26 students.

"There's no other opportunity like it in the country, for a student or a faculty member," Edward Funkhouser assistant professor of speech communication, said. Funkhouser has been to the conference three years in a row. "It's like being an ambassador from State to the powers that be in communication." Those "powers" include, among others, members of all three networks, HBO and Warner Brothers. And that's merely the tip of the iceberg.

IRTS has a monthly "News Maker Luncheon" in the grand ballroom of the Waldorf-Historic. In February, Kim Phillips was able to participate in this, along with the 25 other students chosen for this honor. Each student was recognized individually and given a round of applause from the sold-out crowd which included Fred Silverman and Grant Tinker.

"We took part in a program with Communispan Inc. which involves oral presentations using videotape," Phillips said. "It's a rigorous training so you'd know how to act if '60 Minutes' walked in."

"There were also informative sessions on job preparation. The personnel directors of CBS and ABC, in helping us prepare interviews and resumes, told us the do's and don'ts of this competitive business."

Since this was a competition in which, although some 500 applied, 26 were chosen, it gave Phillips an opportunity "to compare N.C. State to all these other schools and compare what each of them had to offer."

Of the 26 that attended the conference in February, 10 will be asked to return for an internship this summer in New York. The internship will be given by the likes of "ABC World News Tonight," "Good Morning America," HBO, NBC programming, WCBS-TV and Paramount's "Entertainment Tonight."

In 1981, Phillips was an associate producer for "P.M. Magazine" at WTHI-TV in Terre Haute, Ind. Since then she works on a freelance basis for the industrial communications section of CP&L in Raleigh.

Phillips. From tours of NBC sets ("Saturday Night Live," "Late Night with David Letterman" and "The Today Show") to the Museum of Broadcasting at the Waldorf-Historic.

"It's a phenomenal experience," Funkhouser said. "She's an excellent student, and she has a great deal going for her. And that's the best internship available for a student in telecommunication."

Awareness fair offers new alcohol information

Jack Reynolds

Beer bread, rum balls and hot dogs cooked in bourbon are just a few of the goodies being offered Tuesday at the fifth annual Alcohol Awareness Fair. The fair will be held from 10:30 a.m. until 2:30 p.m. in the Student Center Plaza around the fountain.

"The purpose of the fair is to provide information," Jerry Barker, coordinator of Health Education Programs, said. "It is not an anti-alcohol event. Hopefully, it will be beneficial to users and teetotalers."

There will be a wide range of exhibits and activities, such as eating samples of food cooked with alcohol (i.e. beer bread contributed by Bowen Residence Hall).

"One of the things that have made the fair successful in the past has been the great student participation," Barker said. "We have 30 student groups that have contributed a lot of the time and money to make the fair interesting and informative."

The Food Science Club is having a wine jelly tasting. The TEMP's club will have a booth instructing on emergency care. The Panhellenic Council, representing the sororities, will run a booth titled "Be Sensible - Eat While You Drink." And Bragaw Residence Hall is running an experiment with a breathalyzer in which two people have a drink every 30 minutes. A reaction-time test and a coordination test will demonstrate the effects alcohol has on coordination and reaction.

Leaflets and pamphlets will be available throughout the fair on the effects of alcohol, alcoholism and where to go for help.

Six fraternities will be represented behind an Alternative Beverage Bar, catering non-alcoholic drinks. A $50 prize will be awarded for the best non-alcoholic drink. In addition to this prize, Student Government will be awarding prizes of $100, $50 and $25 to the best three booths. Prizes will also be given to those attending the fair. There will be opportunities to sign up during the fair, and you don't have to be present to win. These prizes are furnished by the Students' Supply Stores, numerous local businesses and community agencies.

The Alcohol Awareness Fair is sponsored by the Student Health Service and is being coordinated by Jerry Barker, Harvey Smith (student health program coordinator of Sullivan Residence Hall) and Dr. Marianne Turnbull (health educator).

The fair is scheduled to be held outdoors to give it a festive atmosphere. In the event of rain, the fair will be moved indoors to the first floor lobby of the Student Center.

Sigma Chi sponsors annual frolic

Sherie Yorkovich
Feature Writer

It's time again for Sigma Chi's frolic and fund raising project to take place Wednesday until April 5 - Derby Days. A display of physical activity, good friends, new friends and lots of laughs will take place.

This year's Derby Daddy chairman, Joe Ciriano from Sigma Chi, has been working to make the events run smoothly. "I love it! I like to work with the people," he said.

Sigma Chi is donating this year's proceeds to United Cerebral Palsy at the Adult Life and Enrichment Center in Raleigh on Horne Street. The average donation, based on past years, is roughly $25,000 to $30,000. The event is sponsored by Harris Wholesale.

Derby Days consist of a series of competitive events that all the teams participate in. A few events to take place are tug of war and "derby chase," in which the brothers run and the girls try to take the derbies off their heads," Ciriano said. Ten girls and one brother as a coach make up one of several teams. "Each team has a local business to sponsor them," Ciriano said. "We take teams of girls from the girls schools and sororities." From Peace, Meredith, St. Mary's, Chi Omega, Sigma Kappa, Alpha Pi Delta, central campus and west campus, any girl may take part in a team.

The project kicks off with Spirit Week Wednesday which continues until March 31. Such activities as a poster contest, banner contest and a live dance will go on. Spirit Week closes with a Pig Pickin' Saturday afternoon of the last day.

April 2 starts off Derby Week, in which field events are held in the Commons of Frat Court. The Derby Darling Contest will be April 4 at 3 p.m. in Stewart Theatre. Everyone is welcome with no admission charge. "Derby Darling is kind of like a beauty contest. Each team has a girl to compete," Ciriano said. This year an evening gown contest and a swimsuit contest will be the categories. Points are awarded to the winning girls' teams.

The Derby Dance will be the final activity of Derby Days. This will be at the Brickyard night club April 5 starting at 8 p.m. Awards will be announced, and the Sponge Tones will be performing.

"This (Derby Days) is the only event that unites all the three girls schools and State together working on the same thing," Ciriano said.

Pack wins ACC pitching duels

Mike Grizzard
Sports Writer

Offense has been the Wolfpack baseball team's trademark throughout the season, but State's talented pitching staff stole the spotlight in two ACC clashes on Doak Field this weekend.

Sunday, Robert Toth went the distance, scattering seven hits while shutting out Virginia, 1-0. Freshman Bud Loving also went the distance for State Saturday as he pitched his fifth complete game in five outings and allowed only four hits in a 3-1 win over Maryland.

The Pack managed only six hits in the two contests, but got maximum production from the safeties.

A pitching duel was staged Sunday as the Wolfpack squeezed out its 19th win in 22 games. State went to 3-1 in the ACC.

The Pack scored the only run of the game in the first inning and survived a late Cavalier onslaught to take a 1-0 victory. After two outs, Doug Strange drew a base-on-balls and came around to score when Woodson drilled a double to left-center field.

Virginia was able to put runners in scoring position in six innings, but a stingy State defense denied the Cavaliers a run. Toth was the recipient of two double plays and some other fine fielding plays turned in by the Pack defense. Toth's only strikeout of the game came against the final batter he faced and ended the Wahoo's rally attempt.

Women golfers place 18th at Paladin

Mike Grizzard
Sports Writer

State's women's golf team opened its 1984 spring season with a disappointing 18th-place finish this weekend in the Furman Lady Paladin Invitational in Greenville, S.C.

Tournament host Furman captured the first-place crown with a team total of 912. Duke finished second at 918, followed by Florida with 929 and Georgia with 932. North Carolina edged Wake Forest for 11th place.

Duke trailed by 16

strokes entering Saturday's final round, but blistered the course for a tournament low score of 298 to challenge the Paladins. Mary Ann Widman, the individual titlist, led the Blue Devil charge with a three-day total of 219. Furman's Cindy Davis and Kathy Kingston claimed second and third places with respective scores of 222 and 224.

State's linksters posted uncharacteristic scores in the affair and look to this weekend's Rollins College Invitational in Winter Park, Fla. for redemption.

Beth Schumacher carded a three-day score of 238 to lead the Pack. Jill Spamer turned in a 242 and freshman Sharon Minnich contributed a 246 for the Wolfpack.

"We definitely did not play up to our potential," said coach Fran Allen. "The weather has caused us to miss some practices, so we were not really ready for competition. But I do feel it was a learning experience."

"Our short game, especially chipping around the fringe, hurt us," said Allen. "We were leaving too much on our chips to make par, but we will do better next week in Florida."
