Mike Cross performed before a foot-stomping, clapping, sold-out crowd at Stewart Theatre Monday night. Cross, a fiddler/guitarist/storyteller, performed both new and old songs to the delight of everyone who attended.

Cross displays many talents

Joe Corey
Entertainment Writer

"I consider myself more of a performer than a recording artist," Mike Cross said before his concert Monday night in Stewart Theatre.

Hill resident, is known for his unique blend of folk, country and Irish music. Cross combines his musical style with a touch of humor to produce a sound unequalled in the music scene of the 80s.

Since his debut album in 1976, Child Prodigy, Cross has been called a "phenomenon" and "a legend" by critics across the country, yet he remains unfazed by success.

"Even though I've recorded six albums, I sometimes forget about them," Cross said. "It becomes a mild shock when someone hands me one of my records to sign."

The songs of Mike Cross are noted for being more refractive in their views of life. "I guess it reflects my sense of humor," he explained.

"I also like to tell stories in my songs so that when people read the lyrics alone, they can read a humorous little poem. Far too many of today's songs cannot exist without their music."

Cross said that he does not ever plan on writing hit songs and attributes his successful record sales, in part, to his record company. "Sugar Hill Records has been a lot more loose in allowing me to explore in the studio," he said.

"They (Sugar Hill Records) know that my records will sell to the people that enjoy my stuff," Cross continued. "The times (when) my records hit the billboard charts, it's mostly accidental."

Cross said that he didn't pay much attention to music when he was growing up in western North Carolina. This changed, however, when he went to college at UNC-Chapel Hill where he started to enjoy the blues sounds of the Mississippi Delta.

"I really enjoyed people like Blind Lemon Jefferson, Leadbetter, Hopkins and most of all Mississippi John Hurt," Cross said.

Cross said that he first learned how to play guitar one night during a snowstorm in Chapel Hill. He told a story of how he was at UNC one night with a friend during a nasty winter storm when he decided to stay over.

In the middle of the night, Cross was awakened by "this crazy drunken man who grabbed a guitar from under one of the beds and started playing and singing very loud," Cross said.

"When he finally noticed me, he said, 'My name's Larry Reynolds. What's yours?' Then he said, 'You know it's more fun to play.' He then proceeded to manipulate my fingers as he showed me some chords," Cross continued.

"After that began my floating apprenticeship as I watched every guitarist I could see perform."

Since that time, Cross has developed a love of performing that he easily transmits to his audiences.

"I could perform every night," he said. "98% of the time I get more energy at the end of a show, the other 2% I break even."

The only thing Cross admits to really despising about going on the road is the long hours spent in travel. "The worst is flying," he said, "because you're on somebody else's time and on somebody else's accidents."

Cross is currently working on a new solo album due out sometime soon. "It took over 150 hours of studio time to put out Carolina Sky (his last album), but for my new record called Solo at Midnight, I've already spent 20 hours in the studio and I'll probably do 30 more."

Shrew promises to be unlike freshman English

Floyd Harris
Entertainment Writer

William Shakespeare is universally regarded as the world's greatest playwright. However, he may also remind many college students of freshman English. This may lead them to skip Thompson Theatre's production of the Bard's The Taming of the Shrew. But Shrew is not typical Shakespeare.

There has been much historical speculation (perhaps jealousy) as to whether Shakespeare actually wrote all of his plays. In Shrew there is evidence that Shakespeare might have "borrowed" the plot. There was a traveling play in Shakespeare's day entitled The Shrew, and it is thought that Shakespeare may have simply modified the story.

Whatever the case, The Taming of the Shrew is elaborate, even slapstick comedy. To this, director Burton Russell has added a contemporary setting and a modernization of the language, forming Thompson Theatre's current production.

"The setting will be present-day Italy, and the costumes will be contemporary but colorful," Russell said.

"The text will retain all of the poetry, but we have changed the 'thys' to 'you' and so on," Russell continued. "This play lends itself to that because it is one of Shakespeare's more straightforward."

The story remains timeless, though "a bit chauvinistic," Russell added.

It is the story of a man, Baptista Minola, and his two daughters, Katherine and Bianca. Bianca, the younger daughter, has several boyfriends but cannot get married until her older sister weds. The problem is that Katherine, the shrew, is a bit of a bitch and definitely not the marrying kind. Bianca's suitors find a young man, Petruchio, to marry Katherine. This Petruchio does and then sets out to tame his feisty new bride.

The play has remained popular since Shakespeare's day, having been revived frequently throughout the world. It has been made into a motion picture with Elizabeth Taylor and Richard Burton and also into a musical comedy entitled Kiss Me, Kate.

Ironically, freshman Delia Hincley, who plays Kate, also played the lead in Kiss Me, Kate during high school in Maryland.

"I was real happy to get the part of Kate," Hincley said. "I guess I'm sort of getting typecast, but it's fun to get in such a bitchy mood each night."

Tony Lea, a junior in speech-communications, will be playing the part of Petruchio. Lea has been in a number of local productions, but this is his first Shakespearean lead.

"It's been a lot of fun," Lea said. "It really lets me cut loose, and I think all of the movement onstage keeps things interesting for the audience."

The exceptionally large cast of 25 includes students from just about every school in the university. Shakespearean comedies are a tall order for any theatre and especially for one at a university with no theatre department. However, these students say that they have learned that Shakespeare can be fun even if he was a struggle back in English class.

The Taming of the Shrew opens Thursday and runs through Saturday, and then next week Wednesday - Saturday, March 27-30. Tickets are $4 for adults, $3 for non-State students and senior citizens and $1 for State students. State students may purchase two tickets for $1 each with their current registration card. For reservations or information, call the Thompson Theatre Box Office at 737-2405.

Horne sings again

Chrissy Curtin
Entertainment Editor

Internationally acclaimed operatic soprano Marilyn Horne, along with accompanist Martin Katz, will return for a second performance in Reynolds Coliseum tonight in what will be the finale of the Friends of the College 1984-85 season.

Horne performed before a crowd of approximately 10,000 in Reynolds Coliseum Monday night.

"It was a great concert," Henry Bowers, administrative director of the Friends of the College, said. "She (Horne) has a magnetic personality in addition to an incredibly beautiful voice."

"It is one of the great experiences of a lifetime to hear her sing," Bowers said.

Horne's vocal versatility is reflected in the varied amount of material in tonight's program. Included in the program are several classical art songs of Handel and Schubert, a grouping of American folksongs by Aaron Copland, and a set of Spanish folk and classical songs.

Since her public singing debut at the age of four, Horne has sung under the direction of such musical masters as Igor Stravinsky, Paul Hindemith and Dmitri Mitropoulos. Horne made her major operatic debut in 1960 with the San Francisco Opera and has since then been acclaimed in opera circles throughout the world.

In 1982 she became the first recipient of the Rossini Foundation's Golden Plaque which honored her as "il piu grande cantante del mondo" (the greatest singer in the world) — an award made even more prestigious by the fact that it was presented in Italy, regarded as the birthplace of opera, to an American mezzo-soprano.

Tonight's performance is free to State students and a guest upon presentation of a current registration card. The performance begins at 8 p.m. in Reynolds Coliseum.

Clydesdales to make appearance at State Thursday

Shortly after the turn of the century, the word "horsepower" took on a new meaning. Where the trotting of horses' hooves used to sound, now echoed the roaring engines of the Model T.
Horses were fading into history.
The Budweiser Clydesdales, however, were on the brink of discovery.
Following their formal introduction to Anheuser-Busch in 1933, the Budweiser Clydesdales began touring the country, experiencing a far different environment than that of their distant ancestors.

These mammoth horses will be appearing on the brickyard Thursday from 11 a.m. to 3 p.m. as part of Alpha Zeta's Agriculture Awareness Week. They will also be at Cameron Village Mall from 2 p.m. to 6 p.m. on Friday.

In medieval times, a knight's shield, armor and lance added more than 200 pounds to a rider's body weight, a principal reason for the need of horses with great size and strength. So farmers living along the banks of the river Clyde in Lanarkshire, Scotland bred the Great Flemish White Horse.

The result was a horse of great strength and stamina. These first draft horses were said to have pulled loads of more than one ton at a walking speed of five miles an hour.

Canadians of Scottish descent brought the first Clydesdales to America in the mid-1800s. They became extremely popular throughout the Civil War years, and in 1897, the Clydesdales Breeding Association was formed in America.

Today, the Clydesdales are used primarily for breeding and for show.

To qualify for the world-famous eight-horse hitch, a Clydesdale must meet certain requirements. Size is one thing. Standing at more than six feet high at the shoulder when fully mature, Budweiser Clydesdales weigh at least 2,000 pounds. They must be geldings, bay in color, have four white stockings, a black mane and tail, and a blaze of white on the face. A gentle temperament is also important, as hitch horses often meet millions of people each year.

When a Clydesdale eventually becomes part of the St. Louis team, he takes up residence in the official home of the "Gentle Giants," the Budweiser Clydesdale stable. Built in 1885 by Anheuser-Busch founder Adolphus Busch, the stable was used to house his personal horses and carriages. The structure is one of three buildings within the brewery complex designated a National Historic Landmark.

In two daily meals, whether on the road or at home, a Budweiser Clydesdale hitch horse will consume 25-30 quarts of feed, 50-60 pounds of hay and 30 gallons of water.

Performance days for the Clydesdales are cause for quite a commotion. While they are groomed daily, special attention is given to their appearance on performance days. The seven grooms spend about five hours washing and grooming the horses, polishing the harness, braiding the manes and tails and inserting red and white paper flowers.

The harnessing process takes an additional 45 minutes. The red, white and gold 1903 Studebaker-built beer wagon is pulled out from the trailer and, one by one, the horses are hitched to it. The wheel horses, the ones closest to the wagon, are hitched up first.

Each set of harness weighs 130 pounds, and the entire set of eight is valued at more than $48,000. The harness is handcrafted from brass and imported leather. Pure linen thread is used for the stitching. The harness is made to fit any horse, but the collar comes in different sizes and must be individually fitted like a suit of clothes to the Clydesdale that wears it.

Once all eight horses are hitched to the wagon, the driver begins to adjust the reins. Driving the 12 tons of wagon and horses requires strength. The 40 pounds of reins he holds, plus the tension of the reins, weighs 75 pounds. During the long parades, the driver and the assistant often alternate reins between them.

Events start today

Week highlights agriculture in U.S.

Mark Bungardner
Staff Writer

Farming exhibits, the Budweiser Clydesdale horses and Governor Jim Martin will be on the brickyard this week as State kicks off its fourth annual Agriculture Awareness Week, sponsored by the Alpha Zeta fraternity.

Agriculture Awareness Week has been sponsored by Alpha Zeta along with clubs related to agriculture and life sciences for the past six years, and each year has expanded to include more exhibits and facets of agriculture.

Alpha Zeta is a coed fraternity that has been on campus since 1904. Among the Alpha Zeta alumni are former governors Jim Hunt and Bob Scott, and honorary members include Commissioner of Agriculture Jim Graham.

"Agriculture Awareness Week is our major service project for the campus and community," said club member Maggie Gettys. "Our other projects include the Co-Op Bookstore, Christmas tree sales, and work with the Governor's Morehead Scholarship for the Blind and the Brian Center resthome."

This year, the week will include speakers in governmental offices, high-tech farm equipment displays, and tours of State's School of Veterinary Medicine and of poultry and sheep farms.

The three-day event begins today and is designed to highlight the role agriculture plays in our community.

"Our objectives are to increase the public's awareness of agriculture and help promote the many ways our campus is improving the agriculture industry," said Gettys.

"There is a lot of new stuff in agriculture. We want people to know how advanced farming is," said planner Steven Clark.

In the past, the turnout has been very good, and Clark feels "this is going to be the biggest year ever."

The week's biggest event begins Thursday at 11 a.m. when Governor Martin will be on hand to welcome the famous Budweiser Clydesdale horses.

The horses will be at State until 3 p.m. Thursday and at Cameron Village Mall most of the day Friday.

The festivities get underway at noon today when Chancellor Bruce Poulton welcomes Commissioner of Agriculture Graham, who will discuss the role of farming in North Carolina's economy.

The rest of the day will be filled with exhibits presented by State's agricultural clubs, tours of the university's farms and a display of modern farm equipment.

During the farm tours, the Clydesdales will be shown in their temporary residence at the Vet School. Otherwise, viewers will have to wait until Thursday to get a look at the giant horses.

After lunch, made available by the Animal Science Club, there will be celebrity milking and ice cream eating contests.

Gettys, publicity chairman, said the contest will feature "Dix Harper, Dr. Perry, a couple of other professors and a few baseball players."

"Thursday we will have sheep shearing, horse-shoeing and artificial insemination demonstrations," she said.

She said Governor Martin will be presented with a Clydesdale horse shoe. The week's events wrap up Friday with Agri-business and Technology Day.

Farming computers, computerized tractors and displays featuring the bio-technology research done here on campus will be the features.

"State is doing a lot of research with bio-technology," Gettys said.

Today's top three exhibits will be on display at Cameron Village and a shuttle will be provided to transport students and interested shoppers back and forth. The events close at 3 p.m. with Lees-McRae

Bluegrass Cloggers.

The program has the potential to include thousands of spectators from the university and the community during the three-day event.

Opinion

A paper that is entirely the product of the student body becomes at once the official organ through which the thoughts, the activity and in fact the very life of the campus are registered. It is the mouthpiece through which the students themselves talk. College life without its journal is blank.

Technician, vol. 1, no. 1, Feb. 1, 1920

Our endorsements

There are few things more critical to the student body than the elections of its officials. Here are Technician's endorsements for the major offices.

Student Body President

In the race for student body president, two exceptionally enthusiastic and qualified candidates are running. Both candidates have leadership experience and constructive ideas.

Jay Everett, however, has the most experience with State's Student Government and in dealing with the administration. In fact, Everett has the most experience in general at State. As a member of the Chancellor's Commission on Humanities and Social Sciences and as a Chancellor's aide, Everett has served the student body well in important, decision-making positions and in roles where he represented the student body. With this experience, Everett is more than qualified for the office of student body president. He is also the more qualified of the two candidates.

Student Senate President

Out of the four candidates for Senate president, two candidates stand out — Gary Mauney and Perry Woods.

Gary Mauney has proven himself an enthusiastic officer and a hard worker this past year. He is also an effective organizer. He has generally performed his duties well as student body treasurer. His experience on the Finance Committee, one year as a member and the next as the chairman, has given him excellent background in working in the Senate in a key committee. Though we have had our differences with Mauney — questioning certain judgments — we feel that he is still a good candidate and well-qualified for the job.

Perry Woods also could be an asset as Student Senate president. Brimming with enthusiasm, Woods emphasizes involvement of the student body in Student Government. He has served the students well as a member of the Student Senate a year ago (1984 Senator of Year), as an alternate senator most of this year and a diligent member of the Physical Environment Committee.

We cannot clearly endorse one or the other candidate. By voting for either candidate, the student body is the winner.

Student Body Treasurer

We support Marva Hardee for student body treasurer. She has had leadership experience both in the Senate and as president of Bowen House Council. We feel Hardee would be able to communicate effectively with her fellow officers and with other members of Student Government. She would also have a positive influence on involving minority groups in Student Government who have not actively participated in the past. Hardee's experience on the Finance Committee and in the North Carolina Student Legislature will benefit her in running smooth Finance Committee meetings next year. Again, for student body treasurer, we feel Hardee is the best choice.

Attorney General

Although both candidates for attorney general have proven credentials in the judicial branch of Student Government, one candidate stands out as the one for the job. Jeff Ross, who has served this year as executive assistant to the attorney general, certainly has the experience necessary to take charge of the student judicial system. During the campaign, he has demonstrated excitement about running for the position and has put forth some innovative ideas. Judicial Board members claim Ross works well with his fellow students and is a "flexible leader." For these reasons we support Ross for attorney general.

Student Center President

The race for Student Center president (UAB president) is an interesting race. Both candidates have sound qualifications for a leadership role, but one is obviously more qualified for this particular job.

John Higdon would be the best choice for Student Center president. He has worked in the UAB for four years. As vice president this past year, Higdon has gained valuable experience. Knowing the inner workings of the UAB and the people involved within its programs, Higdon would not have to worry about getting the proverbial "ball rolling." Higdon's excellent experience alone makes him the logical choice for the position.

Publications Authority

The Publications Authority is the only race that we will comment on that is not a major office. It represents a very sensitive area for Technician. The major duties of the Pub Board are to elect the editors of the publications and to approve their budgets.

The only member of the Pub Board running for re-election is Shawn Dorsch. He has been a solid, hard-working member of the Pub Board and has been one of the most active members in recent years. He would be a good choice.

When choosing the four other seats, students should analyze the candidate's stand, experience and open-mindedness. Of particular importance is the experience. Members with some past experience at any of the publications or WKNC have a greater knowledge of how the operations are run and will have the ability to make responsible decisions.

Ferraro

THE UN-CANDIDATE

UAB president candidates propose ideas

Higdon

For the past four years, I have served the students of State in various capacities as a member of the Union Activities Board. I have been committee member, committee chairman and most recently vice president and member of the Board of Directors. With this experience, I feel worthy of the office of president.

1) The greatest responsibility the Student Center president has is making sure quality programs are generated and that adequate publicity ensures students' knowledge of these programs.
2) Student fee increases cannot be discussed in general because each individual case is different. However, the UAB program budget has already been finalized for the next year and reflects no fee increases for students.
3) I don't think we have an apathy problem at the Student Center. We have a publicity problem. I hope to further the gains made in this area through the continuation of the current administration's Publicity Committee. I refuse to believe that students don't want to go see concerts and films, go skiing and white water rafting, hear nationally known speakers lecture or go to an international coffeehouse, for example, all very inexpensive or free. They simply aren't aware of these events. I will extensively make use of the various media and posters across campus to make sure students know what's going on at the Student Center.

Sumter

Rankin

between the Senate cannot be broken. They must be made stronger. I have seen an ineffective Student Senate in the past (not necessarily this past year) due to our being out of touch with student needs and concerns. This cannot be allowed to occur again.

Woods

1) The greatest responsibility of the Senate president is to motivate his senators and others to go out into the university community and find out the wants and needs of the students.

Sumter

Government would be aware of what students are interested in and would like to participate in. And by forming more committees to get these views, the student population would be benefited.

Senate president nominees discuss issues

Rankin

As a candidate for the office of Student Senate president, I feel that I should first go over my qualifications and why I am running for the office. Having been a student senator for the past three years, I feel that I can build an active Student Senate through knowing and learning from the strengths and weaknesses of past presidents. My experience as chairman of the Senate Government Committee has given me insight into the operation and abilities of the Student Senate. And as vice chairman of the Finance Committee and chairman of the Senate Audit Board, I have dealt with the needs of the campus organizations. I believe that these experiences of the past will enable me to serve the student body well in the upcoming year.

Rankin

As this representative, it will be my responsibility to pursue and promote these relations among the different divisions of this campus. In order to do this, I will utilize the Senate's funding and communication abilities to express student concerns to all factions of this university. These avenues of communication

Woods

1) All fee increases are not bad, but before they are implemented, adequate research and input is needed to see if they are in the best interest of the students.

Woods

2) I look forward to this upcoming year with much expectation. There is much that needs to be done, and Student Government is the organization that can do it, if led to do so. Anyone who has any concerns should feel free to call me at my dorm room. It's in the book. Have a good semester.

Woods

3) Unfortunately, the majority of students are not aware of what Student Government does. Too often it is perceived as a bunch of people just trying

Student Senate president candidates list reasons for gaining support

prevent the moving of residents to the fringe lots. We worked with the faculty and staff to come up with a comprehensive plan that will serve the needs of the entire university and not just one group. Included in this plan is a proposal to research a shuttle system that could be implemented in the fall of 1986. This shuttle system has the potential to grow with the university and to help solve long-term parking problems.

Mauney

1) In my role this year as student body treasurer, my primary concern has been to ensure that all Senate appropriations are distributed in a manner which is both fair and in the best interest of the students here at State. As Senate president, I will hold to these responsibilities. However, as Senate president, my primary concern must be to motivate and guide the Senate towards programs and policies which will directly benefit all students. Without the ability to motivate the senators in the Senate towards these programs, the actual "heart" of Student Government will be dead and immobile. To keep this "heart" alive will be my greatest responsibility.

2) As both a student and a Student Government officer, I am continually concerned about any fee increase which could possibly make it impossible for a student to attend this university. Student Government's role must be to fight effectively unnecessary, unfair increases and to make sure that any inevitable increases are at the most minimum level that can be obtained. In order to attain these goals, the Senate president must ensure that the fight is begun before the decision is made by the university and that student input be a factor from day 1. Only in this manner can the student be assured that the decision to raise a dorm fee or tuition is the smallest and most fair one possible.

3) As Senate president, I will attempt to enact policies which will enable every student on this campus to point to some action by Student Government which has directly affected them. Some of these programs will include: a full-time legal counselor to advise any student or organization, free of charge; the establishment of a minority affairs committee in the Senate to deal primarily with the problems of blacks, women and international students on campus; and a service charged with investigating local businesses, banks and apartment complexes to inform students on where they can get the best deal as well as the best treatment possible.

4) I feel that the primary weakness of past Student Governments has been a lack of planning ahead. Often decisions such as the renovation of Watagua Hall have been made with minimal student input. Student Government must maintain a stance of aggressive but fair while looking towards problem areas in the future.

5) I feel that my ability to motivate people towards a common goal and making these same people feel good about that goal is the greatest asset a Senate president can have.

6) The community must be shown that the average State student is very concerned with both campus problems as well as problems in the Raleigh area. This can be done through campus/community projects such as the woodchop project and other projects which show students' genuine interest in this area.

7) The Senate Government Assembly Liaison Committee must be utilized to its fullest extent to fight unfair laws such as the raise in drinking age and the proposed 10% tuition hike. Without an effective student lobby to demonstrate our side to the legislators, laws such as these will continue to occur. As Senate president, I can't allow this to occur.

8) A good leader must be able to do many things; he or she must be able to relate and understand the feelings and problems of everyone, from the international student to the officials in the administration; he or she must be able to take a problem and find practical, fair solutions to it; most of all, a leader must be able to motivate the people around him to achieve common goals. I feel that I have these attributes and that is why I am running for Senate president.

9) The parking situation at State is one which is a result of a severe lack of long-term planning. A shuttle system designed to utilize fringe lots must be enacted to help ease the strain on faculty and commuter lots. Also, any policies which seek to relegate the resident parking to the outer lots must not be allowed. Only through adequate student input can these things be assured. It is Student Government's responsibility to see that these things are carried out and that adequate planning for the future is made.

Hight

1,5,8) The two most important duties of the Senate president are to lead the Senate and to motivate the student body. Obviously, this requires leadership - charismatic, energetic leadership. While some leaders are good at sitting behind a desk, pushing papers, I am better at getting out and meeting the people face to face. That, I think, is my strong point - the fact that I have met and do know so many people. I don't try to con them into supporting me as if they owe me something for doing my job. Instead, I feel I owe them something because they, and this university, have been very good to me, and I want to repay my debt of gratitude.

Although I haven't held executive office, that's about the only thing in Student Government I haven't done. I have extensive experience and a proven record of success. My integrity has never been questioned, either in connection with my official duties or otherwise. Academically, I am the most qualified candidate, because as a rising senior in political science, I have specialized and been trained in how to handle the problems facing us.

2) I am not opposed to valid fee increases; all aren't bad. However, I am opposed to the way some fees, for example Watagua Hall, are pushed through without student input. As far as government and publications fees go, I do not see the need for an increase at this time. In fact, I know that there has been some interest in the past in removing the publications fee. I support this as a trade off in the proposed tuition increase, if in fact we are unable to defeat that proposal.

3) I think apathy is a problem because many groups, namely women, minorities and fraternities, feel locked out of Student Government, if not campus life. I will work to make these groups become a part of campus life by appointing them to leadership positions, meeting regularly with their leadership to open lines of communication and encourage cooperation, encouraging them to seek office and become involved, and providing them with substantial support instead of lip service.

4) I think the primary weakness of Student Government is lack of organization and research. Shannon has gone a long way towards addressing this problem. His efforts must be continued and increased. I think the Executive Council should work more closely with other student leaders to maximize our forces. Also, Student Government seems a bit timid to stand up and say, "We've had enough!" Those who know me, know I won't hesitate to speak my mind or speak out when I see something's wrong.

5) There is concern over how the recent "bad press" will affect our image. Unfortunately, some of the negative publicity was deserved. You and I know, though, that there are many great things going on at State every day. I feel we should emphasize those things and work to improve our weaknesses.

7) Perhaps next year's Senate General Assembly Liaison Committee will be my busiest one, for there are many issues vital to the student community coming before this legislature. If we don't lobby on our behalf, few will. Issues such as the drinking age, tuition hikes and 700 SAT minimums are going to affect students now and forever. In each case, we do have allies, but we need to do our part and show that college students today do give a damn. Here's where my academic training will be most effective and in many ways, this is our number one priority for next year.

9) Our other priority is finding a reasonable, fair parking policy. I am pleased to see the shuttle-service proposal, which I suggested in last year's campaign, embraced by Student Government as the best alternative. I think it is, too. However, I propose a major change. Instead of increasing parking permits 6-10 dollars, I suggest we charge all students 2-4 dollars for two reasons: 1) More revenue can be raised because of the larger base and 2) all students will be able to use the service without having only a few pay for it.

Attorney General nominees vie for votes

Paschall

1) As stated in my position paper, I feel the attorney general's greatest responsibility is to assure the rights and interests of the student body. I can do this by being in a position to assure all students that the Student Government officers are fulfilling the duties of their offices and are following the procedures and guidelines set down by our predecessors. Also, he must see that students' rights are not violated when a student is accused of misconduct. The above responsibilities affect the student body directly because Student Government is responsible for allocating approximately $80,000 of student fees. The students' rights must be protected because this includes what type of behavior is permissible on campus and how the student is disciplined for violations of student law.

2) I believe that fee increases are something we must live with; however, before an increase is made, the increase must be justified. The group or organization must show how they will make use of the increased money and how this will affect the student body.

3) Student Government can become more responsive to the needs of the student body if the channel of communication is open and information about Student Government activities is readily available to the student body. I will ask Technician to report activities involving Student Government and to do feature articles about the different offices within Student Government. I will, as I have for the past year, keep my office available for students to voice their concerns about campus issues.

4) The biggest weakness I have seen with Student Government is the lack of written explanation of procedures for such things as elections. Anyone in-involved in the present election can see that changes are being made mid-stream and from one day to the next. These changes are being made by people who are not in a position to make these changes, according to the Student Body Documents. These problems arise because different people are performing each job each year, and the new person has no guidelines to follow to help him perform his job.

5) I have been involved with Student Government for two years and have participated in programs for student leaders. As the executive assistant to the attorney general I have made myself available to the students and will continue to do so if elected to the office of attorney general. I am willing to speak out against activities that I feel are in violation of student law and which are not in the best interest of the student body.

12) With the attorney general being elected this year, I ask the students to look at the experience an individual will bring into the office of attorney general. I ask them to pick someone like myself who has had the opportunity to participate in all aspects of the judicial process. I will fulfill the responsibilities I have set out above by working with the new student body president to clarify the Student Body Documents by having a series of Board of Reviews to interpret the documents. I will work further with the district court judges and district attorney's office to try to have students that come up before district court referred to the student judicial system to keep these individuals from getting a criminal record because of an unfortunate incident.

13) The problem I see with the judicial process is a lack of knowledge on the part of the university community. More publicity about what the judicial system does will be the major way of combating this lack of knowledge. A lack of participation in Student Government activities by the attorney general is another problem, and I intend to participate actively in Student Government — not just within the judicial hearing process but with what the Senate is doing and how this will affect the student body.

Ross

1) The greatest responsibility of the office of the attorney general is to provide the students with a fair and objective system. Serious decisions are made by the attorney general, the assistants and the judicial board members. These decisions affect all students, and the attorney general must take the necessary steps to ensure that our system is fair and just to all students. This office should provide a learning experience for all students, guilty or not. This will serve them in the future and in the world outside school.

2) I don't like the idea of fee increases of any kind because I sometimes have trouble meeting my financial responsibilities. However, fee increases are usually the only solution. It is the job of all concerned students to investigate each option and try to provide alternate solutions or comply without complaint. We must get involved before the fee increase takes place in order to be successful.

3,4) A definite weakness in Student Government is student apathy. I think this is caused by a lack of communication between Student Government and the student body. Two of my ideas concerning better communication are articles in Technician from the attorney general's office concerning Student Government and surveys of student opinion. Ideas like these would improve communications and make Student Government more visible and responsive to students. They would also stimulate student interest in Student Government, making me a better representative.

5) The most important traits that make me "the candidate for the job" are my open-mindedness and my ability to listen and communicate. One has to be open-minded and a good listener in order to make fair and objective decisions that affect others. I have the experience and the high levels of motivation, concern, integrity and honesty that are required to be fair and just. I also have the time and enthusiasm to put out the tremendous effort required to provide a fair judicial system for our students.

12) When students are cited by Public Safety for possible violations of student laws such as academic misconduct, assault, vandalism, disorderly conduct or others, the attorney general's office becomes very involved. If the student pleads guilty to an assistant or to the attorney general, that assistant or attorney general will issue any combination of sanctions from the student body documents that he has decided is fair. The sanctions may be appealed. If the charged pleads not guilty, one assistant represents each side of the case, the defense and the prosecution, in a mediation panel. The outcome and possible sanctions of this courtroom-type hearing are determined by the judicial board members. This can get very serious very quickly. This seriousness is why the attorney general, the assistants and board members must be open-minded and must be fair and good listeners and communicators. I have these qualities, and they have served me well in my job as a board member and as an assistant and can serve me well in the future towards providing a fair and objective judicial system for our students.

13) I think we need organized training for the student and faculty judicial board members, chairmen and assistants. We should set up consistent guidelines and limits used for determining fair sanctions. I also think increased judicial board membership and minority representation would eliminate the possibility of certain groups feeling left out or cheated. I don't think students should be sanctioned by the student attorney general's office if they have already been sanctioned by Wake County District Court. The attorney general's office needs to maintain close communications with the students through articles in Technician and student opinion surveys.

Student Government elections begin today

Kathy Kyle
Assistant News Editor

About 2,000 students — less than 10 percent of the student body — will vote today and Thursday in Student Government elections that probably will be inconclusive.

Offices up for grabs on the ballots include student body president; Student Senate president; student body treasurer; attorney general and numerous Senate, Publications Authority and Judicial Board seats.

Not on the ballot but an important issue in student elections every year is the question of who will control the Student Government budget of about $90,000 which is gotten from student fees.

The polls, which are being manned by Alpha Phi Alpha fraternity are located in the Dining Hall, the Library Annex, Student Center, outside Link Hall, at the Free Expression tunnel and at the Veterinary School at lunchtime.

The polls will be open from 8:30 a.m. to 4:30 p.m., and until 6 p.m. in the Dining Hall.

Registration cards are required to vote.

The results from the first election will be tabulated Thursday night and published in Friday morning's Technician, according to Elections Board Chairman Clarence Hauer.

Student Senate President Steve Greer expects runoffs will be held for the offices, because of requirements in election laws.

"We take the number of votes and divide them by the number of seats, and the candidate has to receive half that number to get that seat," Greer said.

In recent years this formula has meant an almost automatic runoff in any race in which three or more candidates are competing.

If a runoff is required this year it will be March 27 and 28 and in case of a second runoff the date will be April 1.

The rock concert policy, the proposal to raise the drinking age are important issues that students show their interest in by voting, said Greer, who will be graduating this year.

"Student Government is the vehicle of student opinions, ideas to be expressed to the university and even to the state," Greer said.

Devin Steele
 Executive Sports Editor

The Wolfpack Women, says Robyn Mayo, found their revenge in a rowdy arena called ODU Field House on Feb. 1. Now, the Pack is pursuing stakes when it battles Old Dominion in the Eastern Regionals Thursday night in Norfolk, Va.

"We got our revenge out of the way then," said State's senior point guard, referring to the 82-71 win over the Monarchs that avenged a loss in last year's playoffs. "We're even now. There's no more revenge; there's stakes. And the stakes are to advance."

"That's what we're thinking, and I'm sure they're thinking the same thing."

The game begins at 8:30 p.m. and will be broadcast by WKNC (FM-88).

Last year, State lost in overtime to ODU in the Eastern Regionals, then made some amends with this year's shocker over the high-flying Monarchs, ranked No. 2 nationally at the time.

That win was the fourth of 15 straight for the Wolfpack Women, who have not lost since a 72-57 debacle at Tennessee on Jan. 19. Does the thought of continuing that streak put added pressure on the team?

"I think Coach (Kay) Yow thinks we feel pressure, but there is none," said Mayo, whose team downed St. Joseph's 67-64 Friday night in the opening round. "We're just enjoying the ride really. We love playing, and winning is something we enjoy. I think right now we're scared to lose because we don't want to feel that feeling."

"Each game we play, we don't think about the past or how far we've come. We just try to be consistent, just go out and play hard. We feel if we do that, everything will fall into place."

Despite the 11-point win over Old Dominion, Mayo still sees the Monarchs as favorites.

"The odds are all against us," she said. "When we won up there before, people were saying things like, 'Old Dominion had an off-night.' They tried to make excuses (for the loss)."

"I like being the underdog anyway."

State has earned a berth in each of the four NCAA Tournaments, but has yet to advance past the first game in the regionals. Mayo believes the team's chances for advancement are better than ever this year, though.

"Last year we were inexperienced," she said. "The year before we didn't have an inside game. Now, we've got experience, we've got an inside game and we've got a bench. We've got more plusses than minuses."

One thing definitely weighing in ODU's favor is the home-court advantage. The Monarchs average crowds of over 2,000 for home games, with their season-high 4,000 — against the Wolfpack no less.

Still, State was able to withstand the pressure. But how?

"We knew how it was going to be because we went up there last year," said sophomore reserve guard Annemarie Treadway, whose strong play of late has helped the team's surge. "I think we had that blocked out of our mind. We knew we came to play ball and that's what we did."

And Treadway believes the Pack can overcome those outside distractions again.

"We'll be ready," she said. "Old Dominion took the game from us last year. They're not going to do it again, even though they're going to try to."

According to assistant coach Rita Wiggs, the biggest keys for State will be its defense and how well it controls the boards against ODU, which is second in the nation in rebounding margin (13.3).

"We'll have to have another good defensive game and keep them off the boards," Wiggs said. "They're a bigger team than us, but we were able to box them out inside. We were pretty effective in stopping Medina (Dixon) and Tracy (Claxton)."

Seniors Dixon, Claxton and Dawn Cullen make up the Monarchs' tall front-line. Forwards Dixon, 6-3, and Claxton, 6-2, pace the team's balanced scoring attack and rebounding game. Dixon averages 16.6 points a game and 8.3 rebounds, while Claxton hits at a 14.9 clip and pulls down an average of 10.8 rebounds.

Cullen, a 6-4 center, averages 11.1 points and 6.2 caroms. Guards Lisa Blais (6.4 ppg., 4.8 apg.) and Maria Christian (7.0 ppg.) round out the starting lineup.

ODU, 27-3, advanced to the regionals with an 88-63 win over Syracuse. The former top-ranked Monarchs have defeated such powers as Texas (90-80), Long Beach State (84-71) and Southern Cal (52-48). Their other two losses came against Tennessee (67-64) and powerful Louisiana Tech (72-63).

Hot tamale! Pack still sizzles in The Pit

Terry Gannon, Lorenzo Charles and Cozell McQueen found more fortunes in The Pit this weekend, but now must put their return trip behind them as they move on to Denver.

ALBUQUERQUE LEFTOVERS: It's known as the Land of Enchantment. And for State's basketball team, the state of New Mexico has more than lived up to its billing. This is home for Albuquerque, and home for the Wolfpack as well.

SCOTT KEEFFER

Sports Editor

The proud southwestern city is steeped in both Mexican and Indian culture, with adobe buildings and houses serving as constant reminders of a lifestyle past.

Yet Albuquerque has its modern side as well. Several high-rise office buildings and motels tower above the flattened landscape, and fast-foot eateries and shopping centers abound. But the most meaningful thing found in New Mexico's second-largest city, at least in the minds of Wolfpack fans, is a place known as The Pit.

The Pit — that renowned 19,000-seat coliseum where State won it all in '83 — is full of memories for the Wolfpack. From the thrilling conquest of Georgia in the semifinal to Lorenzo's dunking of Houston's "untouchable" Cougars in the title game. The Pit has provided more than its share of excitement for Wolfpack fans.

In The Pit, State has knocked more people off their feet than a double-shot round of Pepe Lopez.

The Pack's good fortune appears to be bottomless in The Pit. Their latest excursion into that beloved arena produced two more wins — although of lesser impact and magnitude than their predecessors.

First came a rather unimpressive 65-56 win over scrappy Nevada-Reno on Friday. State allowed Reno to stick close throughout, but Charles' 22 points and 12 rebounds proved the difference.

The Pack rebounded to reveal classic form two days later against Texas-El Paso. State's offense was hotter than a Pup 'n Taco tamale with jalapenos, connecting on a seething 31-of-40 shots (73 percent), establishing a new standard for accuracy in NCAA sub-regional play.

From here, however, the competition will only get tougher. Alabama will be the first test in Denver, while St. John's and Kentucky are the other West Regional finalists.

It will be, as Valvano has instilled in his players, a matter of survival — perhaps not crushing opponents, but rather simply playing well enough to win.

"It really doesn't matter to me how well we play as long as we win," Valvano said. "We're in a one-game season now, just trying to survive and advance."

Valvano, who kissed the ground when he got off his plane in Albuquerque, was more than happy about his team's encore in the city.

"Sometimes it's hard when you come back to a place where you remember so many good things," Valvano said. "I just didn't want to come back and be fat and bald for everyone."

"And what could we do to top what we did two years ago? The next best thing was to win two games here, and we did that. We certainly haven't tarnished our image here."

Indeed not. But although the Pack emerged with its image intact, they were far from being the crowd favorites.

The UTEP fans, who held a pep rally in State's hotel the morning of the game, revealed behavior much like the setting of their home city — close to the edge. Miner Mania was in full force, as the partisan crowd bordered from being spirited to obnoxiously crude.

But as Terry Gannon would later explain, the actions of the UTEP fans only served to fire up the Pack.

"The atmosphere was much different than the Reno game," Gannon said. "And I could tell it was going to affect us in the locker room before the game. I think it helped — it really ignited us."

Netters blanked

Texas Christian did not lose a set en route to blanking the women's tennis team Monday at Lee Courts.

The men's team, which won three matches this weekend, is back in action today when it hosts strong North Carolina at Lee Courts at 1:30 p.m.

Regional play set

(27-2) in Saturday's regional finals, with the prize being a Final Four berth. That game will tap off at 12 p.m. and will be televised by ESPN.

In other games, Texas squares off with Western Kentucky and Tennessee meets Mississippi in the Midwest Regional; Long Beach State faces Southern Cal and UCLA battles Georgia in the West Regional; and Louisiana Tech plays San Diego State and Auburn meets Northeast Louisiana in the Midwest Regional.

Baseball team entertains struggling Cats

Tim Peeler
Sports Writer

After losing its first two conference games, the baseball team looks to rebound from those setbacks today when it hosts winless Vermont in a double-header.

The first game is slated for 1 p.m. at Doak Field. The Pack, which dropped road games to Maryland and Virginia this weekend, sports a 12-10 record as it begins a nine-game homestand.

The South has not been friendly to the 0-5 Catamounts, who have been beaten handily by Navy (9-4), Duke (22-7, 12-3) and North Carolina (18-2, 15-5) on their tour of Dixie.

However, Vermont is a young team with only two seniors and has new faces at each infield position. The loss of two top pitchers also has left the Catamounts with little mound firepower.

Co-captain John O'Sullivan, a three-year starter at catcher, provides some stabilization in the youthful Catamount lineup. He is supported by outfielders Mike Trehub and Ed Stamer, who were two of the team's top hitters in 1984.

Coach Sam Esposito's Wolfpack, which has lost six of its last nine games, has been slugging its way into several high-scoring defeats. State had 29 hits in its last two games but came up empty on both accounts.

Costly errors (five in the Virginia game) and a lack of strong pitching have strangled the hard-hitting Pack.

Several State performers are having a banner year at the plate. Second baseman Doug Strange leads the team with 24 RBI and a .380 batting average.

He is followed by shortstop Alex Wallace, who maintains a .356 clip. Wallace also is tied with sophomore outfielder Mark Celedonia for the team lead in home runs with six. Junior college transfer Mick Billmeyer (.337) has done well in pressure situations as a designated hitter by contributing 23 RBI, a team-high three of which were game-winners.

Pitching has been a sore spot for Esposito's youthful squad. None of the starting pitchers has an ERA below Robert Toth's 3.32. Freshman Paul Grossman owns the team's best record at 4-0. Toth (3-0) is the only other undefeated starter.

State returns to league play Thursday when it hosts Wake Forest at 3 p.m. The Demon Deacons travel to Doak Field with a 9-9-1 record.

Bragaw South I looks for third straight title

Bragaw South I defeated Sigma Chi 10-8 to win its second consecutive resident and fraternity title last season.

Although winners of its first game by a 11-7 score, Bragaw South I seems to be in for a rebuilding season.

Last year's fraternity champion Sigma Chi, returns eight starters from last year's squad and is the leading contender for this year's over-all title.

FarmHouse finished third in last year's fraternity race and has looked impressive in rolling to a 2-0 record.

Owen I, who lost to Bragaw South I 14-11 in the resident's finals, rolled to an impressive 20-0 win after struggling to a 12-8 win in its first game.

Bragaw North I, who lost to Owen I 5-4 in last year's semifinals, returns a strong line-up and should battle Owen I.

Resident & Fraternity Softball Top Ten

1. Sigma Chi 1-0
2. FH 2-0
3. Owen I 1-0
4. Bragaw North I 1-0
5. LCA 2-0
6. Sullivan I 1-0
7. Sigma Nu 1-0
8. Owen II 1-0
9. South 0-0
10. KA 1-0

Syme wins second straight title

Syme rolled over Sullivan II by a 44-27 margin to capture the resident basketball championship for the second consecutive year.

Chuck Bates scored the first four points in the game, and Syme never looked back in revenge of an earlier 50-48 loss to Sullivan.

Barrington Taylor scored 14 points and Bates added 10 for Syme, who finished the season at 6-1.

PKA defeats KA 54-33

KA 40-31 in regular season action, dominated the contest as it placed four people in double figures. Donnie Patterson and Dennis Mater scored 20 points each for PKA.

Sullivan edges Bowen 31-28 to win title

Sullivan edged Bowen 31-28 to claim the resident/sorority basketball championship.

Kellie Beeson led Sullivan with 14 points. Sullivan had defeated Bowen

33-25 in regular season action.

Sullivan held a nine-point lead early in the game but had to rely on free throw shooting to win the contest.

Turlington edges North

Turlington edged North 49-42 to claim the resident 'C' league title, and KA defeated DU 36-29 to win the fraternity 'C' league title.

Turlington finished the season at 7-0 and KA, who won its second consecutive title, also finished at 7-0.

Gantt wins award

Mark Gantt won this week's Official of the Week award. Gantt is from Conover, NC, and is a senior in agriculture education.

He is a member of Farm House fraternity and has officiated basketball for five years. Gantt has also officiated softball for seven years.

"The most important part of officiating is to make the game happier for the players," Gantt said.

"If an official is in the limelight, he is not doing a good job."

Publications Authority

Alicia (Lisa) Benson

Do you believe in a free press and equal consideration for all student opinions? As a member of the Publications Board, I would support these principles and would insure equal access for all students to their publications. I will be willing to dedicate my time and leadership abilities to guarantee the efficient and fair operation of the Publications Board. If you feel these issues are vital to the continued success of our publications, please remember to vote for me.

Stuart Broyles

Qualifications: RA in South Hall for over a year, 3.75 GPA, Jr. in Materials Engineering, Navy Nuclear Propulsion Officer Candidate, Former Co-Op with National Aeronautics and Space Administration (NASA).

I feel I have excellent judgement capabilities which are appropriate for the job on the Publications Board.

Mark J. Bumgardner

I'm Mark Bumgardner and I would like to represent you on the Publications Board. As a respected member of State's Juggling Club, I feel certain I would do a good job. I also write news and editorials for Technician and, if elected, will work to keep all student publications self-governing. Please, everyone go out and cast your votes.

Kenneth (KC) Chapman

I have only one main reason for running for the Publications Board. My attention has been drawn to the fact that a group of organized far-right-wing, ultra-conservative students are making a power play for control of the Publications Board. If this situation were allowed to go unchallenged, it could turn NCSU's press into a propaganda tool for the radical right. Since I am of a more liberal school of thought and a supporter of the First Amendment, I want to help sway the balance of power back to a moderate position and insure both fairness and equal representation in our publications. Thank you.

Tony Clemons

I, Tony Clemons, am running for the office of Student Body Representative for the Publications Authority because I feel that my leadership qualities and ability to view ideas and materials on a justifiable basis are well suitable for this position. My having been in positions of authority has allowed me to advance my leadership qualities to the point where I am able to recognize people's needs and be amenable towards them. I feel that my skills will be very expedient in any risen circumstances and that the board can benefit more from having me be a part of it.

Shawn Ambrose Dorsch

I have spent the past year diligently working to serve the needs of the students here at NCSU. I have been a member of the Publications Authority for one year. I also currently serve on the NCSU Admissions Committee. On the pub board, I am the chairman of the fee increase committee studying the complex financial problems of the publications. I also sit on the student government executive round table. On the pub board this year I have been instrumental in organizing a student survey to determine what students think of WKNC.

Carl Hankins

I, Carl Hankins, am running for the offices of Judicial Board and Publications Board because I feel that I have the experience to successfully handle the job. I am currently on the Judicial Board and I am an active, participating member. I think that my prior experience will help me be a good Judicial Board member in the future. As far as the Publications Board is concerned, I am an active member of WKNC and I feel that I can represent the members of the university publications fairly.

James (Jim) Long

My name is Jim Long. I am a rising junior in Mechanical Engineering, and I want to represent you on the Publications Authority. I feel that I am qualified for this office because since before high school, I have worked on the staff of school-oriented newspapers and annuals. While I was in high school, I served as Executive Editor for our annual and continued as a consultant after I left for college. Also while in college, I have held several positions in Tau Kappa Epsilon Fraternity including an elected office. I intend to keep the publications student oriented, for this is why they exist.

Laura Lunsford

A strong interest in this University ranks high among the reasons I would like to be a member of the 1985-86 Publications Board. A desire to become involved in Student Government and past experience with high school publications and with Technician have directed my interest. I feel I would serve the students well as a member of the pub board because of my honesty, awareness of the University community's concerns and needs, ability to make unbiased decisions and strong desire to serve the University.

Joseph (Joe) Meno

The media of N.C. State must represent and respond to the student body's needs and views. All parts of the board are run by students, however, change is done by the student body as a whole. In order for complaints and suggestions to be known and acted upon, there must be an interaction. Such interaction is the responsibility of the student representative of the Publications Board, and if elected, I will take this office with this interaction — your interaction and input as my prime concern. Thank you for your consideration.

David Metsch

My name is David Metsch and I am currently a rising senior in Economics running for election to the Publications Board. I am a hard-working and open-minded individual who wants to help the students get what they want. I do have leadership qualities as I am a Resident Advisor in South Hall, have served as South Hall's Treasurer, and have been on a university committee for a year. I feel I can successfully fulfill the duties of this position and would greatly appreciate your support.

Devii Steele

Having worked at Technician for five years, I believe I have learned first-hand the role of publications to society. And it takes this kind of understanding for those involved with the production to adequately perform these media functions. I have seen the paper grow from an inconsistent blob of information to a well-organized, informative publication as near to professional as students can make possible. I like the direction of Technician and am willing to work to make it, WKNC, Agromeck, and Windhover progress.

Judicial Board Soph.

Eric E. Edwards

With a year of experience on the Judicial Board and a genuine interest in our University's Judicial system, I would like to solicit your vote for re-election to the board for next year. Accurate interpretation of the Student Body Documents is essential to all of the cases that come before the board, and I feel that my experience and familiarity with the documents enables me to make just and fair decisions, especially when the welfare or academic future of a student is concerned. I would appreciate your support.

Using this Guide

The statements in this guide are as close as possible to the statements provided to Student Government by the candidates. In some cases, the statements have been edited for grammar and brevity.

All students may vote for five candidates for the Publications Authority and one candidate for the University of North Carolina Association of Student Government Representative from State.

All rising sophomores may vote for three candidates for Judicial Board. ALS sophomores may vote for two candidates for Senator. Sophomores in the School of Engineering will elect four Senators. SHASS sophomores will vote for three candidates. PAMS sophomores will elect one Senator.

Every rising junior may vote for three candidates for Judicial Board. ALS juniors will elect three Senators. The junior class from the School of Engineering will have four Senators. SHASS juniors may vote for three candidates. PAMS juniors will elect two representatives.

Seniors will cast votes for three candidates for the Judicial Board. Seniors in ALS may vote for three candidates for Senate. Engineering seniors will elect four members to the Senate. SHASS seniors may vote for three candidates and seniors in PAMS will elect two Senators.

Judicial Board — Jr.

W. Dean Henderson

As a member of the Judicial Board, I will try to maintain equality and fairness in its dealings. I will try to see that the integrity of Student Body is maintained while adhering to the laws of the University. I will weigh each case on its merits without being swayed by popular opinion. Because of my attitudes, I feel that I will be a positive influence on and an asset to the board.

James R. (Jamie) Ayers

Hello, my name is Jamie Ayers and I am a rising junior majoring in political science. I have been a participant in the last two years in the Scholars of the College Program. Although a newcomer to Student Government, if given the opportunity to serve on the Judicial Board, I plan to bring with me the honesty and fairness the job requires. Implicit in this fairness would be the consideration of each student's case on its own merits. Your support on election day will be greatly appreciated.

Lisa S. Whitlow

As a rising junior in Chemical Engineering, I feel as though I can competently perform the duties assigned to Judicial Board members. I know I can meet the certain qualities needed to fulfill this position such as fairness and open-mindedness. Being a member of Carroll House Council last year kept me in touch with campus life and the problems surrounding it. Presently, as an officer of Chi Omega Fraternity, I am further developing my decision-making capabilities which are essential to satisfy the demands of Judicial Board members.

Greta Saeng Johnson

I've chosen to run for a position on the Judicial Board and my reason is that I have worked in diverse environments and interacted with people of all different backgrounds and personalities. As a result of my experiences and exposures I can be honest, open-minded and fair when making decisions about any case upon which I have to make a judgement.

Senator PAMS — Jr.

Veris Williams

Having served this year as the sophomore Senator for PAMS, I have worked diligently to sponsor funding requests for several of the school's organizations and to represent vocally the opinions of the Senate's Academics Committee. I have played a major role in developing minor programs for State. With your vote, I will be able to continue to push for approval of minors and to serve you actively in the senate.

Suzette Bradham

Anne L. Griffin

Senator PAMS — Sr.

Barry (Fitzgerald) Hicks

If re-elected to the Student Body Senate, I will continue to work hard to assure that the students of the school and PAMS are represented. I feel that all students should have an active voice in Student Government. Therefore, my primary goal is equal representation. So, if you want to be heard spread the word: vote for Barry F. Hicks for Sr. Senator of PAMS.

Stacy Thomas

I feel that I am qualified to participate as a member of the Judicial Board. I have been involved with Student Government in the past. I am a member of Gamma Beta Phi honor and service fraternity, and I serve on its publicity committee. I am an active member of Alpha Delta Pi sorority. I represent my sorority to the Student Development Office through the Fraternity Court Renters' Board, which allocates funds for the improvement of the chapter houses. I would like to represent my class to the Judicial Board because I would help to maintain the rights of the students and promote equality within the system.

Kirk D. Jones

Many people say that a university campus is a mini-world within itself. The truth is that this is likely so. As such we have university rules by which we all must abide. It is the task of the Judicial Board of N.C. State to interpret and apply these laws. Fairness, honesty, and integrity are qualities necessary for all board members. Another important quality is responsibility. I have tried to exemplify these qualities to the very best of my abilities. I have endeavored to judge fairly and equitably in each case and with respect for all parties involved. I can only ask that you feel able to allow me to serve you again on this board. My promise to you is that I will put all into serving this university and its people if elected. To do less would be an injustice to us all.

David Allan Eckles

I have no direct experience related to the Judicial Board, however, when it comes to leadership and responsibility I feel I have some very relevant experience. I have served on the University's Physical Environment Committee, a position appointed by the Student Body President. I am currently the President of Sigma Phi Epsilon Fraternity, and I have also been that organization's Rush Chairman, and Treasurer. In a year and a half in office, I have made treating people fairly and with respect my top priority. As a Judicial Board member, I intend to carry out my duties in a way that best serves students within the rules governing the University. For I believe that fairness and equality should remain constant in a competitive environment such as N. C. State University.

Judicial Board — Sr.

Fulvio B. Brooks

In deciding to run for the Judicial Board, I became aware of many issues that I had not realized. In cases involving student violations of any kind the Judicial Board has the final say. I hope to represent the students fairly, because justice should be equal for everyone. I will be representing the Senior class and I wish to attend law school after graduation so being on the Judicial Board would be a very special privilege. I hope to be a voice for each and every student. Please render me your support, and we will work together to make N. C. State the envy of all other schools.

Carl Hankins

I, Carl Hankins, am running for the offices of Judicial Board and Publications Board because I feel that having the experience to successfully handle the job. I am currently on the Judicial Board and I am an active, participating member. I think that my prior experience will help me be a good Judicial Board member in the future. As far as the Publications Board is concerned, I am an active member of WKNC and I feel that I can represent the members of the university publications fairly.

Donna L. Primrose

My name is Donna L. Primrose and I am a candidate for Student Judicial Board. I am a junior political science major, a current member of this year's Judicial Board, and a clerk-typist in the Student Government office. As an incumbent, I have gained the experience and knowledge I will need to continue to be fair and honest in my dealings with student judicial matters. Having worked for Student Government, I feel confident that I will handle my responsibility as a Judicial Board member well. Your support on election day will be greatly appreciated.

Senator ALS — Sr.

Vicki Carter

I am running for Student Senate because I have the experience and know-how to get things accomplished on your behalf. I have a vested interest in the concerns and problems of fellow ALS students. Working diligently to solve these, I also hope to create bright new aspects for our senior year. I really enjoyed being a senator this year and feel that I was caring and hard-working. If re-elected, I will proudly represent your thoughts and opinions in Student Government next year. I welcome and appreciate your vote! Thank you!

Mark Durant Crisco

I feel that the senate is the most effective student organization on campus. The administration respects the ability of students to effectively voice their views in an organized and concerted manner. The office of senator, though not a major office is, nevertheless, one of great responsibility. A senator must avidly seek out and represent the needs and concerns of his constituents, and I would be willing to do so. My positions as a former candidate for Student Body Treasurer and as an officer in the NCSU British Brass Band have given me leadership experience and exposure to Student Government. I am confident that such experience would enable me to effectively represent the SALS, and I would consider it a distinct honor and privilege to do so.

Michael D. Parker

As a rising senior here at NCSU, I have seen many problems that the administration has either failed to address or has addressed improperly. For example, the rock concert ban at Reynolds, the parking situation, etc. If elected to the Student Senate again, I pledge to strive for the administration's recognition of student concerns and interests. I also plan to see that resolutions passed by the senate receive administration attention. If you love NCSU as much as I, but want to see it be more responsive to students, I urge you to support me for the NCSU Student Senate.

Suzette Bradham

Anne L. Griffin

Senator PAMS — Sr.

Barry (Fitzgerald) Hicks

If re-elected to the Student Body Senate, I will continue to work hard to assure that the students of the school and PAMS are represented. I feel that all students should have an active voice in Student Government. Therefore, my primary goal is equal representation. So, if you want to be heard spread the word: vote for Barry F. Hicks for Sr. Senator of PAMS.

Charles T. Saunders

As a candidate for the position of Judicial Board, I need your support. I am a criminal justice major and student rights are a major concern to me. I am qualified to do the work required in a very professional manner. Please let me help you by voting for Charles T. Saunders — Judicial Board on elections day

Senator ALS - Jr.

Jason Dell

As a Senator and a member of the Communications and Information Committee this year, I have learned of the need for Student Government to serve the students rather than itself. Student Government must reach out to the students, not just campus residents but all students. If re-elected to the senate, this year I would like to work on making the students at NCSU more aware of their Student Government. Without the support of the student body, Student Government is ineffective.

Dorothy E. Primrose

My name is Dot Primrose, and I am running for Ag. and Life Sciences Senator. I am a rising junior majoring in Pre-Veterinary Medicine. During my freshman year, I was Secretary of the Pre-Professional Health Society. Currently, I am participating in the ALS Honors Program. As Senator, I will seriously evaluate those resolutions I think will help the N.C. State student body. Because I am often in contact with faculty members, I believe I can translate student ideas into legislation. With your support, I will accomplish these goals and fulfill my duties to the best of my ability.

Sally Lynne Smith

University Affiliations: 4-H Collegiate Club - Secretary, Residential Scholars Program - Representative from the School of Agriculture and Life Sciences to the Residential Scholars Council, School of Ag. and Life Sciences Honors Program, Food Science Club, Gamma Beta Phi Honor and Service Society, Phi Eta Sigma Freshman Honor Society.

I am concerned about the issues and policies that affect university students. Representing the School of Agriculture and Life Sciences would be a rewarding challenge.

Senator ENG - Jr.

William Prince Ferrell

Although I have no experience in Student Government, I believe I am qualified for this job. If elected, I will listen to the students and do my best to meet their needs, both academically and socially. As a hard-working student, I believe that a good social life is necessary for a successful academic life. I also believe that everyone should be able to freely voice their opinion and that their voice should be heard. Finally, voting in these elections gives everyone a chance to speak out. As a believer in democracy, I urge everyone to vote, not only in this but every election.

Charles Walls

Student Senate is an instrument of, and for the students to change and enhance their lives at the university. Senators should keep in mind the people who have placed them in the Senate when carrying out their legislative duties. As an experienced senator, I understand the importance of the Senate giving and making the most for students and I would like to continue my service to the student body in general and to the engineering school I would represent.

John Thomas

I believe I am qualified for this position because I have been very involved throughout my school years in government. During these years I held the offices of Student Council President, Junior Board President, Senior Board Representative and Student Association Executive Board Representative. I am an open-minded individual who always looks at both sides of an issue before making any conclusion. An area which I am concerned with is the safety for the people who live and work on campus.

Samuel (Sam) M. Spilman

I believe that a Student Government has a responsibility to listen to the needs of the student population. However, I do not feel that this task is being accomplished satisfactorily by our Student Government. I want to help solve this problem. Presently, I am the Facilities Chairman for the Bragaw House Council and the Pinball Chairman for the Inter-Residence Council; therefore, I have experience working with organizations at NCSU. In high school, I was the president of two clubs which more than familiarized me with the process of attending to the needs of others while in a governing position.

Senator ENG - Soph.

William Mike Greer

I, Mike Greer, shall make a fine Sophomore Engineering Senator. I will do my best as a Senator to make the School of Engineering's influence felt. Please feel free to confront me with your feelings on issues. I will always be willing to listen to any ideas you may have and present them if you like. My experience lies with activities such as my attendance of Boys' State, a week-long workshop on North Carolina State Government. There, I had first-hand experience because I was elected a Senator.

Stephen Lee Gay

Next fall, I will be enrolled as a sophomore in the Department of Chemical Engineering. In high school, I was active in student government on the local and state level. At Rocky Mount Senior High, I served as Senior Class President and Student Body Treasurer as a junior. On the state level, I served as Eastern District N.C. Assoc. of Student Councils Division 5 Chairperson. This past summer, I was a counselor at the N.C. Assoc. of Student Councils Summer Leadership Workshop. I bring to the job a diverse background in student activities and a willingness to work hard for NCSU.

Zhu Peng

After my freshman year at State, I have realized the importance of getting involved in various activities. Leadership experience gained in high school as presidents of clubs and participation in student organizations would help me not only to represent the interests of the sophomore engineering students, but also the concerns of the student body at large. I would like to extend my current involvement (Fellows leadership Program and State Student Alumni Association) to include serving as a student senator.

Dwayne Sloan

Often on a college campus, a visible gap exists between the student body's opinions and the university's decisions. Since these decisions govern the lives of the students at N.C. State, students here should make their opinions known to the decision makers. With the leadership and communication skills I developed as Student Body President of Lexington Senior High School, I believe that I can help fill this gap between the University Government and the individual students. I am especially concerned with minority involvement with the Student Government. If everyone expresses themselves freely to the decision makers, maybe one day NCSU will really be our school.

Charles Danny Hall

To me, NCSU offers a vast assortment of quality people. Being a member of IEEE, the N.C. State Gaming Society, and the NCSU Football Team, I am exposed to this wide variety of students daily. Talking with these people, working with them, I've come to appreciate their different beliefs and personal feelings on key university policies and issues. Despite the wide assortment of State students, they all express that desire for basic goodness which seems to prevail throughout this university. My goal as Senator is to transfer these good student values and concepts into the Student Government for the betterment of all.

Tim Zeller

Having been a Student Senator for two years now, I have the experience and knowledge to perform the duties of Student Senator to its fullest potential. It is my intention, if elected to take on a greater leadership role such as committee chairman, etc. It has been a pleasure for the past two years serving NCSU and especially the School of Engineering as a Senator. I would like to thank you for supporting me and would appreciate your continued support.

Robert (Bert) C.G. Ezum

I was not only a voting member of my city's Youth Council but also an intern in Washington, D.C. for Congressman Charlie Rose. I know how the democratic process works and plan to get it to work for you. I will do this by increasing student awareness and the interaction between you, the students, and the administration on such issues as parking, ticket distribution, meal plans, grading systems, inter-campus transit, dorm security, and Public Safety. Some ideas include concerns in Carter-Finley, non-required meal plans for freshmen, a plus grading system, and "safe paths" at night that would be patrolled by Public Safety Officers on foot.

C. Curtia Williams, Jr.

As Treasurer of the Sigma Chi Fraternity, I have experienced leadership. As senator for sophomore engineering, I will use this experience to promote the best interests of the students at NCSU. I will work to see that the student body is handled fairly by the faculty, staff and administration of the University.

Senator ENG - Sr.

Connie Clement

A key function of the Senator, as a part of Student Government, should be to integrate student needs with administrative policies. Thus, the Senator must first be well informed of campus activities. If elected as an engineering Senator, I would be a vocal representative. The position requires good communication skills along with effective decision-making capabilities. I believe that I am a capable possessor of these abilities. In my attempts to make fair and rational decisions, I will be receptive to any suggestions and encourage them.

John Bruce Jones

The perspective I would bring to the Senate is a diverse one. Active in the ASM Technical Society, Engineers' Council and on the chapter and state levels of Gamma Beta Phi Service organization, I find myself already familiar with principles of leadership and execution of proposals, concepts integral to the operation of Student Senate. Experience as a co-op with Bell-Northern Research gives me a better appreciation of both the co-op program and the career concerns of engineers in general.

Keith E. Wold

As a Student Senator, I will uphold all responsibilities and duties of the office. I will attend to my constituents' needs by seeking the opinions of my fellow students. As a Senator, I will be a voice in government directly expressing the views of the students that I represent. The years I have spent on campus have provided me with experience and determination to see action taken and carried out. I plan to provide a direct link between students and Student Government.

Senator SHASS — Soph.

Brian Phillip Brans

I am confident about my capabilities as a responsible and dedicated SHASS representative for the Student Senate. As a high school senior, I gained valuable experience by actively holding three concurrent positions in the student council: publicity committee chairman, representative and senior class secretary-treasurer. My goal as a Senator is to open lines of communication between SHASS students and the Student Government. In my efforts to do so, your ideas will be reliably presented to the Senate. Students will be invited to come to me personally to discuss what the Senate is doing for you.

Ross Curtin

I am presently a freshman history major. I made a 2.7 GPA my first semester. I am currently taking seventeen hours, holding a 'B' average. I am an active brother of Pi Kappa Alpha fraternity. I have a strong admiration for N.C. State and I think my characteristics of loyalty and honesty will make me an outstanding candidate for a seat in the Senate.

Michael Thomas

Senator SHASS — Sr.

Vincent R. White

I feel that with my past experience in leadership positions in Student Government, Activity Groups, and Army ROTC, I will be a competent and able candidate as a Senator representing the School of Humanities and Social Sciences. I feel that being the second largest school on State's campus we should have a powerful voice representing us on campus. I will work hard to make sure that voice is heard in Student Government.

Diane Wortman

I did it before and I can do it again! This year as a Senator and as Chairman of the Athletics Committee, I was able to stand up for a variety of students needs. If elected, my goal would be to continue to serve the needs of the whole student body to the best of my ability. Make your vote go a long way — vote for the one with the experience and know-how to get the job done right.

UNCASG Rep.

Walt Perry

If elected as UNCASG Representative, my goal would be to effectively express the concerns of NCSU students on issues that affect the entire UNC system. Having served on university committees and two years in the Student Senate, I feel my experience will be an asset to the position. Your vote will be appreciated.

Your vote will be appreciated.

Senator SHASS — Jr.

Jeff Barger

As a Senator, I would be willing to make myself available to anyone with a problem or idea. I will be totally honest in dealing with your problems or ideas concerning Student Government. I do not have all the answers so I am going to need a lot of input from students. All I can promise you is that I will take this job seriously and work to make Student Government better. I hope you will go out and vote on March 20.

Donna Burge

Previous experience: Student Senator '83-84, Finance Committee '83-84, Student Senator '84-85, Academics Committee '84-85, Environment Committee '84-85, University Physical Environment Committee '84-85, Legal Defense Corporation Secretary '84-85.

Goals for the future: Improved advising system, continued student input for transportation decisions, improved student services.

Howard Lee Clyburn

As a Raleigh native, I have been familiar with NCSU for 20 years. Living on campus and being employed by the Department of Residence Life has given me the opportunity to learn this campus and its facilities. As a Student Senator for the School of Humanities and Social Sciences, I hope to help maintain a strong bridge between students and University officials and to increase student awareness of the Senate's actions.

Paul Anderson

Few candidates for the Student Senate have as diverse a background as does Paul Anderson. Paul has been a member of a volunteer squad for four years and has held the position of captain and member of the rescue squad. Paul will apply his knowledge of the $120,000 a year budget of the rescue squad to the NCSU Student Government. As a member of the North Carolina Student Legislature, Paul has learned how legislative organizations function and how Student Government can serve the students.

Kevin Howell

The reason that I would like to be a member of the Senate is to put my leadership ability to work. My goals, if elected to the Senate, are to work efficiently and effectively with the administration, as well as my fellow students to make NCSU the best University in the world. Sure a lot of candidates make promises that they cannot keep, but here is a promise that I know I will keep. If I'm elected, my goal is not simply to be on the Senate, but to work to make changes only for the best interest of the university.

Jeffrey Michael Aiken

My main objective as a Senator for the School of Humanities and Social Sciences will be to introduce and support legislation strengthening N.C. State's liberal arts programs. I also want to address the following issues that affect the entire campus: parking for students, freshman eligibility in athletics, ticket distribution, campus concerts, major/minor programs, allowing freshmen the choice of eating in the dining hall, programs for increased safety campus-wide, and some sort of uniformity among teachers concerning grading policy. Input from students will be my first priority.

James R. (Jimmy) Phillips

My name is Jimmy Phillips and I am a candidate for Student Senate. I am a rising junior, a political science major, and I have been a member of the Scholars of the College Program for two years. If given the privilege of serving in the Student Senate, I intend to take steps to increase the awareness and input into the formulation of policy in the Senate. I plan to work toward greater cooperation between students and administration in policy matters, and will make myself available at all times to hear student opinion.

Anthony Monfrado

I have always been interested in the governmental system. I was involved in Student Government in high school. As a Senator for the School of Humanities and Social Sciences, my main goal is to unite the school with the rest of the "technical" university. As a strongly liberal-arts influenced group, we need to have more support in the scientific community. I would also like to see the students and faculty get to know each other better. I will work hard and devote all the time I can to the position.

Stacy Dortch

I served on the Senate my freshman year and I am really interested in serving on it again. Since I am a rising junior in Political Science, I have come to realize some of the problems and interests that students have. Many students have expressed concerns about commuting to and from school, dorm rent and conditions, and about parking on campus. I know these are not the only problems to be worked on, so I will always be available and willing to work with anyone and their ideas.
