

Player charged with assault

By Tim Peeler
Senior Staff Writer

N.C. State wide receiver Nasrallah Worthen was arrested early Saturday morning and charged with two counts of assault on two female NCSU students.

Worthen, an all-ACC selection in football and a member of the Wolfpack track team, was arrested about 12:30 a.m. Saturday by Raleigh police for an incident that took place Thursday, according to the warrant filed in the Wake County Magistrate's office.

He was released later that day after posting $500 bond.

One complaint charged that Worthen kicked and choked Andrea Machel Baker, a senior from Belhaven, bruising and scratching her. The other complaint charged that Worthen forcefully pushed Lashurya Wise, a junior from Vanceboro, against a concrete wall.

Worthen, a junior from Jacksonville, Fla., said Sunday that the incident stemmed from a fight with the boyfriend of one of the women, who Worthen identified as James Johnson. Johnson is listed on the warrant as a witness to the assaults.

Worthen said he approached the two women Thursday during the intermission of the Pan African talent show to collect a $10 debt Baker owed him. Magistrate's records confirmed the fight was over a debt. Worthen and the two women went outside to a parking lot near Reynolds Coliseum and the track, he said.

Worthen said Johnson, who arrived as they left the Student Center, protested when Baker started to repay her debt.

"He was yelling, 'You ain't got to pay him anything,'" Worthen said.

He claimed Johnson pushed him out of the way and a fight began. "I think the girls got hit when I was hitting the guy," he said. "The guy was coming at me. That's when I started kicking. I pushed him away and then (the two women) started grabbing me and trying to hold me for him. I was trying to get away."

Worthen said he first met the two women when he came to State three years ago, but that he did not know Johnson.

Worthen also said that he and Johnson were involved in another incident on Thursday night at the NCSU Student Center, following the talent show.

Darian Bryant, a witness to the incident said: "I looked up and saw this guy grabbing Naz from behind. At that time I didn't know if they were playing or what. When I saw the expression on the guy's face, I grabbed the guy and tried to break it up."

Bryant, also on the track team, said he has seen Johnson on campus before, although he is not a student at the university.

Both Baker and Wise refused to comment on the incidents when contacted by telephone Sunday night. Johnson could not be reached.

Each fundraiser has purpose, Poulton says

By Madelyn Rosenberg
News Editor

N.C. State is not interested in raising money just to raise money, Chancellor Bruce Poulton told the Board of Trustees Saturday.

There is a purpose behind every cent NCSU receives, Poulton said, and without private contributions, the university is "not going to have facilities available to suit the needs of the curriculum."

John Kanipe, vice chancellor for development, evaluated the recently completed State of the Future campaign, which raised $52 million, as "overwhelmingly successful."

"This is a unique university," Kanipe said, during a presentation to the board. "Ten years ago people said, 'Where are you from again?' Now they know."

Officials also discussed starting another campaign similar to the State of the Future drive. Kanipe said the university cannot afford to lose a moment before coordinated fund raising begins again.

Meeting in executive session, the trustees were briefed on the progress of NCSU's internal audit of Reynolds Coliseum management. University Counsel Becky French said the investigation will be completed soon, but would not comment further.

Board Chairman James Hackney said in an interview that the completion of the report is imminent, but he did not comment on its contents. "It is an internal administrative matter," Hackney said. "We don't know the results of the audit - we're looking into university procedures, what was done or not done by people."

Hackney said it was the responsibility of the board to insure the chancellor does a good job. "He moved swiftly at the first indication of a problem," he said. "The chancellor briefed us on what he did."

"I have been through similar situations in my own company," Hackney added. "One thing you discover when you have a large number of people - you can't control everything that happens."

"Certainly it's embarrassing," he said, in reference to the internal investigation and the State Bureau of Investigations (SBI) audit of the university. "But you can't take a chance. The SBI is investigating errors in judgment."

"We're taking a cursory look at what's happening," Hackney added. "If there is the possibility of illegal acts, our objective is to bring it to the attention of the appropriate authorities." That's what the university has done by including the SBI, he said.

"The university did exactly right," Hackney added. "It acted as well as it could have."

In other business:
• The trustees jointly adopted a set of by-laws proposed by their endowment board. Hackney, who is also a member of the endowment board, said the by-laws were almost identical to the unofficial rules the board has followed in the past.

• Poulton said he was delighted with the two people under consideration for openings as dean of the School of Textiles and director of the library. Because this is a personnel matter, Poulton said he could only discuss the candidates in executive session. One male and one female will be recommended for the two positions, he said.

Hackney said the personnel committee will make the appointments for the positions next month.

Trustees asked to adopt athletics policy

Chancellor Poulton asked the Board of Trustees to adopt a written policy on athletics when it met Saturday morning.

"I think the Board of Trustees at this University should have a policy on athletics," he said. Presently all athletics policies at N.C. State are made by the chancellor.

Baxter Williams, the chairman of the Student and Campus Affairs committee, said the Board does not want to disrupt the policies already in place. He said the policy should establish wide guidelines so the trustees would have some input if problems arise. Board of Trustees Chairman James Hackney said the policy should address the purpose of intercollegiate sports at NCSU and the relationship of athletics to academic and campus life. The policy should also address athletic scholarships, grants in aid, and the university's involvement with organizations, such as the ACC and NCAA. Finally, the policy should address the administration of athletics, Hackney said.

According to Frank Weedon, senior associate director of athletics, the only policies the university uses as guide lines come from the NCAA, the ACC and the UNC system Board of Governors. The board of governors policy states that the chancellors of each UNC system school must administer the athletic program within policies established by the respective boards of trustees.

Both the NCAA and the ACC require the formation of an athletics council to advise the chancellor on athletics. The proposed policy would have no effect on the make-up or purpose of that body.

The athletics council is an advisory group which proposes policies to the chancellor, but policies affecting the overall administration of the athletics department must be approved by the Board of Trustees before they are implemented.

Committee member Dan Gunter was appointed to look into possibilities with the athletic department administration and with student leaders.

The Building and Properties Committee approved a plan to raise parking permit fees by 14 to 33 percent. The difference in the percentages should bring the commuter and residence permits to a similar level, officials from NCSU's transportation department said. North and South campus parking permits issued to faculty will be increased by 11 percent while handicapped permits will be raised by 20 percent.

The committee also approved plans for leasing nearby buildings and voted to lease the building at 20 Enterprise Street for one year with a two-year renewal. The building will house the computing and hardware services presently located in the Hillsborough Building. The committee also approved leasing in the CC Mangum Building on Hillsborough Street during the renovation work on Page Hall. - Marty Massey

Program planned to curb spring crime

By Dwuan Zion
Senior Staff Writer

More campus crime occurs during the month of April than any other month in the year and Public Safety has launched a special program to combat it.

Public Safety will increase its manpower and the number of patrols during Operation Crush, a program designed to combat the high crime rate during this month.

Sgt. Linda Biggs said Public Safety will increase patrols in such high crime areas as the parking deck, Sullivan Parking Lot and D.H. Hill Library. She said officers will place posters in these areas encouraging students to report any suspicious activities since "a lot of crime often occurs in the parking areas."

"The posters will say this is a high crime area," Biggs said. "It will give statistics and hints to students such as 'don't leave your book bags unattended.'"

She also said students can help by being just a little more cautious than they normally would be this time of year.

"Students are getting ready to go home and they have more on their mind," Biggs said. "Thieves outside the campus also know that the campus is getting ready for summer."

Biggs said several types of crimes - larceny of bicycles and book bags, and breaking and entering into an automobile - happen more in April than any other time of year.

"Last year 22 bikes were stolen in the month of April," she said. "Students should take a little more time to make sure their locks are properly secured."

Biggs said Public Safety plans to continue Operation Crush in the future.

"Hopefully, it will become an annual event," she said. "I don't know if the trend decreases. If the program will end, we're just trying to address the need."

New parking deck scheduled for 1989

By David Moore
Staff Writer

Parking on campus is about to become easier with a new parking deck and a revised parking zone system to improve students' chances of finding a space.

A three-year plan, now in its early stages, will raise permit prices for student and faculty parkers. The extra revenue will pay for the deck, says Janis Rhodes, director of the division of transportation.

The plan was adopted last year by the Physical Environment Committee (PEC) and was drafted by transportation officials.

The new parking deck with 1,200 spaces will raise the total number of campus spaces to 11,200. Rhodes said this structure is expected to be built off Dan Allen Drive, north of the rail yard tracks where a private lot is now located.

Currently, the university is involved in purchasing the site, estimated at $600,000. The parking structure will cost another $8 million to build and is scheduled for completion in 1989.

According to the PEC's goals, the rezoning of parking areas with the new deck will "simplify the parking system by decreasing types of permits, simplify the permit allocation process, provide Sunday night's New Horizon Choir concert in Stewart Theatre concluded the 1987 Pan-African Festival. Many different activities expressing black culture were planned for the week.

The 1987 Miss Pan-African pageant opened the week, with senior textile management major Denise Sutton taking the crown. Jennifer Elliot was first runner-up and won Miss Congeniality and Best Talent. Samantha Cook was second runner-up and Chavonda Jacobs third runner-up.

Shellena Jackson and Ronald Tyson, two members of the band EZ, opened the program, singing "I Feel Like Going On." Paul Atlas accompanied on the piano.

The contestants then performed a group dance to Melba Moore's song "Lean on Me" with Veronica Harris, the choreographer, making a guest appearance during the dance.

There was a brief intermission, followed by the introduction of the 1985 Miss Pan Africa, Shivon Scales. The contestants modeled their semi-formal wear and answered an impromptu question. After the evening gown competition, several awards were presented. Tamara Jackson received the Highest Grade Point Average Award while Jennifer Elliot received the Best Talent Award for her original monologue entitled "All Alone."

Iris Hunt coordinated the pageant and Carl Hankins emceed. Hunt also coordinated the Pan-African Talent Show featuring what's hot for the upcoming year.

The 1987 Pan-African Talent Show on Thursday saw Arnella Downing and Harvey Smith retain their spots as NCSU's top female and male vocalist.

DanceVisions celebrated their 10th anniversary during a special performance Friday at Stewart Theatre. Also, on Friday a concert featured musical acts Ray Goodman and Brown, Mikki Howard and the EZ Band.

Saturday's activities included a picnic on the Student Center Plaza and the Pan-African Step Show in Stewart Theatre.

Larry Campbell, assistant program director of the Student Center, deemed the week as a success.

"I thought the week in general was good as a whole," he said. "We had good attendance in basically every event we planned."

more parking spaces in high demand areas, and meet the demand for "reserved" type parking spaces." Rhodes said the new zoning system, introducing a new alphabet soup of parking permits, is devised to accomplish these goals.

The current system allows a permit holder to park only in the areas marked on his or her permit.

Beginning in the 1988-89 academic year, a hierarchical system will be devised that allows some permit holders to park in all zones while others with lower permits can park in fewer zones or, at the lowest level, only one zone.

The new zones will be lettered from A to F and are located in the following areas: A (North Campus), B (South Campus, around North Hall, and near Pate Hall), C (Vet School), D (both Parking Decks), E (Fraternity Court and E.S. King Village) and F (Fringe).

Under the new system zone A permit holders can park in the zones A, B, and all lower zones. Zone B holders can park in zones B-F but not in zone A. Zone F permit holders will only be able to park in zone F because it is the lowest zone.

Pack sweeps Cavs in doubleheader

By Bruce Winkworth
Associate Sports Editor

On a weekend when the Atlantic Coast Conference baseball race took definitive form, State swept three conference games to move into a tie for second place with an 8-3 league record.

The Wolfpack swept a doubleheader from Virginia Saturday by scores of 21-3 and 5-3 and took an 8-7 decision over Maryland yesterday. The wins raised State into a tie with Georgia Tech for second place in the ACC, one-half game behind Clemson, who is 8-2. North Carolina is fourth at 8-4. State is now 27-6 overall.

Saturday's sweep of the Cavaliers also marked a coaching milestone for State head coach Sam Esposito, who notched his 500th career win.

"It's a nice figure to have," Esposito said of his 500th win. "I'm proud of the fact that I've worked here 21 years. Longevity means a lot to me. This is a great institution, and I'm thankful to everyone I've been associated with here, from the administration to the coaches and the players. But more than anything, I'm happy that we won two conference games."

The Wolfpack held a 4-3 lead over Virginia after three innings of the opener before breaking the game open with an 11-run fourth. Mark Withers served as the focal point of the inning for State with a two-run double and a two-run single. In all 16 men batted in the inning for State.

In the game State collected eight extra-base hits, including a triple and home run by freshman center fielder/pitcher Brian Bark. The homer was Bark's 11th of the season, a school record for freshmen.

Righthander Jeff Hartsock, who struggled with his breaking pitch in the early innings, coasted with the big lead to his seventh win of the season without a loss. Hartsock allowed seven hits and two walks while striking out five. Hartsock, with a 2.21 ERA, now is tied for ninth on the all-time Wolfpack win list with 15. He needs just four more wins to take sole possession of second place behind Mike Caldwell, who won 32 in his four-year career (1968-71).

Gary Shingledecker and Turtle Zaun each hit homers in the second game of the twinbill, and Bark went 3-for-3 with a pair of RBI, while picking up his third pitching victory of the season. Bark started and went five and two-thirds innings before giving way to Larry Price, who picked up his second save despite hitting two batters in the seventh inning.

"The first game started out like a grinder," Esposito said. "We scored some runs to take the pressure off Jeff, who pitched a good game. The second game started out the same way and we had to grind that one out all the way. I thought Larry did a good job, although I didn't like the two hit-batsmen."

The Wolfpack came out Sunday and gave away four runs on sloppy defensive play, but managed to pull out the win over the Terps. In the third inning, Shingledecker committed a pair of errors, and pitcher Preston Woods failed to cover the base on a grounder to Zaun at first, allowing four unearned runs to score and giving Maryland a 4-3 lead.

Zaun's 13th homer of the season, a towering two-run shot in the fifth inning, put State back on top by a 6-5 score, and Bark singled in two more to make it 8-5.

Woods pitched into the seventh inning before giving way to Mark Wendel. Woods allowed just two earned runs, walked one and struck out three to raise his record to 6-2 on the season.

When the Terps rallied against Wendel in the eighth, Price came out of the bullpen to slam the door and pick up his third save. In pitching 23 and one-third scoreless innings this season, Price has allowed just 13 hits and four walks, while striking out 24.

Esposito reaches milestone, notches 500th career win

Wolfpack baseball coach Sam Esposito reached a milestone in his career Saturday, when his team topped Virginia in both ends of a doubleheader to give Esposito his 500th win.

The wins, along with a decision Sunday over Maryland, gave State a 27-6 record overall and an 8-3 mark in the Atlantic Coast Conference, upping Esposito's all-time record to 501-242-4 and 191-122 in ACC competition.

The Wolfpack coach has never had a losing season in 21 years and this year is his 15th consecutive 20-win season.

Last year, Esposito's squad won a school-record 35 games, capturing the league's regular season title and advancing to the NCAA playoffs. He was named ACC coach-of-the-year in both 1984 and 1986.

Esposito, who left Indiana University after his sophomore year, played ten years as an infielder for the Chicago White Sox and was a member of the Sox's 1959 World Series team. He returned to Indiana and earned both a B.S. in Physical Education in 1966 and an M.A. in Social Studies.

Esposito then joined State's coaching staff as both head baseball coach and assistant basketball coach in 1966, and has led the Wolfpack to four conference crowns.

The coach is a member of both the South Chicago Hall of Fame and the Illinois Basketball Hall of Fame.

Esposito, pleased with the win and the second-place tie in the conference race, was not happy with State's play against the Terps.

"All I can say is that we got a win when we didn't play alertly," Esposito said. "Maryland definitely played a lot better than we did. In that one inning (the third), we did everything we possibly could the wrong way. That happens in baseball, but the thing that upsets me is that we seemed to forget what got us to this point, and that's heads-up play."

State hosts Wake Forest tomorrow at 3 p.m. before taking to the road for a seven-game road trip. Lefthander Brad Rhodes (1-0) will start against the Deacons, who are 1-9 in ACC play.

Clemson captures women's tennis title

By Stephan Stewart
Staff Writer

Clemson extended its Atlantic Coast Conference women's tennis tournament winning streak to seven as they defeated Wake Forest in the championship match Sunday, at N.C. State's Wolfpack Tennis Complex.

The Tigers played with a well-balanced attack led by Ingelise Driehuis, who remained undefeated in conference action. The Tigers were seeded number three in the tournament and advanced to the finals by defeating sixth-seeded Virginia, 6-3, in the first round, and upsetting second-seeded Duke, 7-2, in the semi-finals. The wins upheld Clemson's record to 18-12 overall and 8-1 in the conference.

Wake Forest, on the other hand, had a much tougher time advancing to the finals. In the first round of the Deacon Deacons defeated the fifth-seeded Wolfpack, 6-3. In the semi-finals, Wake Forest upset the top-seeded Tar Heels of North Carolina in a great come-from-behind victory.

At the end of their singles matches Saturday, the Deacons were down 4-2, but Jackie Van Wijk and Monica Kowalewski defeated North Carolina's team of Gina Goblirsch and Spencer Barnes in the number one doubles match, 6-4, 4-6, 6-4. The other two doubles matches were suspended due to rain.

Sunday morning, the suspended matches were resumed. The Deacons' team of Angelique Lodewyck and Laura Jackson defeated the duo of Laura Ballentine and Landis Cox, 4-6, 7-5, 7-6, at the number two doubles spot. Then Jolyn Smith and Susie Broecker defeated Petra Wessels and Valerie Farmer, 4-6, 6-2, 6-4, to complete the Deacons sweep of the doubles competition and advance them to the final round.

Wake Forest is now 22-11 overall and 6-4 in conference competition. The home court advantage did not seem to help State's team, as the Wolfpack placed sixth in the tournament. In the first round, the fifth-seeded Pack was upended, 6-3, by Wake Forest. Mary Lloyd Hodges and Meg Fleming recorded all three of State's victories.

Hodges defeated Kowalewski, 6-4, 6-1, at the number two singles spot; and Fleming won by an identical score over Susie Broecker in the number five match. Then Hodges and Fleming teamed up to down Broecker and Smith, 7-5, 6-1, in the number three doubles match.

In the second round the Wolfpack had a much easier time defeating Georgia Tech, 7-2. State's only losses were due to Meg Fleming's illness, who played number five singles and as part of the number three doubles team.

Other than those two matches, State did not lose a single set. The winners for the Wolfpack were Katie Fleming at number one singles, Hodges at number two, Sandra Meiser at the number three spot, Anne-Marie Voorheis at number four, and Krisly Weathers at number six singles.

In doubles action the team of Meiser and Voorheis won at the number one position and the duo of Katie Fleming and Weathers won at the number two spot.

In the final round of the loser's bracket, Virginia's Cavaliers defeated the Wolfpack women, 6-3, to take fifth place in the tournament. Hodges and Weathers won the only two singles matches for State. Hodges upended Diane Sancillo, 6-4, 6-1, to remain undefeated in the tournament's singles action, and Weathers defeated Michelle McKeen, 7-5, 6-4, at the number six position.

Meiser and Voorheis were State's only doubles winners, as they defeated Leslie Reed and McKeen in the number one match.

In other matches, second-seeded Duke defeated top-seeded North Carolina, 5-1, to take third place in the tournament and seventh-seeded Maryland downed eight-seeded Georgia Tech to take seventh place in the tourney.

The Atlantic Coast Conference men's tennis tournament is scheduled for April 16-18 in Charlottesville, Virginia.

Swimming coach Easterling looking forward to rebuilding strong tradition

By Scott Deuel
Staff Writer

For N.C. State swimming coach Don Easterling, the worst can only be over.

After having the first losing seasons of his career for both the men's and women's swimming teams, Easterling is looking toward re-creating the winning tradition of the past Wolfpack teams have enjoyed. Prior to this season, the Wolfpack men's teams had successfully captured 14 of 16 Atlantic Coast Conference swimming titles, dating back to 1970.

The women's teams had also been successful — winning two league titles in Easterling's seven-year reign.

Easterling's poor showing this year may be attributed to injuries, inexperience and overall bad luck.

Training began in the fall with two-a-day workouts. Matt Dresman, a co-captain and ACC Champion in the 100 and 200-meter freestyle events, was injured in a bicycling accident. He tore his shoulder muscle in the accident, and it is not known if he has yet fully recovered from the injury.

"We were all shocked by Matt's injury," Easterling said. "There was no way we could possibly replace his loss from the team."

Shilea Hanley, a top recruit from Hermitage, Tennessee, was hurt in the weight room during training in October. She is still recovering from her injury, which Easterling felt was unfortunate.

Another contributing factor in both the men's and women's sub-par seasons was the inexperience on the teams — there were no seniors on either squad. However, Easterling feels that the teams' youth might be a blessing in disguise.

"You could see we were young from the mistakes that we made during the season, but I feel that a sound base has been laid for the future," Easterling said.

Although this season had more than its share of lows, both teams showed a great deal of improvement in the ACC Championships. The Wolfpack women's 400- and 800-meter freestyle relay teams, Christina MacMillan, Melinda Moxin, Maya Coelli and Susan Butcher, qualified for the NCAA Championships. The 400-meter relay team qualified with a time of 3:28, while the 800-meter relay squad qualified with a time of 7:31.2. Neither team was able to score at the NCAAs in Indianapolis, but Easterling was nevertheless proud of the four women.

On the men's side, no one qualified for the NCAAs, but three squad members participated in the U.S. Senior Swimming Championships in Boca Raton, Florida. Dan Tripps, Chuck Niemeyer and Steve Bradshaw all qualified as well as graduate assistant coach Dave Cowell.

Former Wolfpack swimmer Bob Mattson will be inducted into the North Carolina Swimming Hall of Fame Saturday, May 2, at 7:30 p.m. in the McKimmon Center. Mattson and three others were elected by the North Carolina Swimming Hall of Fame Committee to join ten previous Hall of Fame members. Robert Jamieson, a swimming coach for over 40 years at Grimsley High School, Dr. James Thomas, an outstanding backstroke for the University of North Carolina from 1947 to 1951, and Ann Marshall Winston, the first female swimmer to earn a grant-in-aid at North Carolina, will join Mattson as the 1987 Hall of Fame inductees.

Mattson established world and American records in the breaststroke and individual medley while competing for the Wolfpack from 1951 through 1956 under then-head coach Willis Casey. He was named to the AAU's all-America swimming team in 1955 for the breaststroke and in 1956 for the individual medley.

After Mattson was graduated with a chemistry degree, he moved to Wilmington, Delaware, and established the Wilmington Aquatic Club. The club started with just 21 members and grew to over 400 members by 1963, sporting teams ranked among the best in the nation.

Ralph Casey, Willis Casey, Duncan Goodhue, Mary Montgomery Johnston, Harold Thompson Mann and Stephen Ryzeh were the first Hall of Fame members, inducted in 1985; and Steven Garrett Gregg, Daniel Lee Hargan, Richard Elmer Jamieson and Susan Walsh Stankavague were inducted in 1986.

PRSSA receives regional award

By Dwan June
Senior Staff Writer

In its first year as a chartered chapter, N.C. State's Public Relations Student Society of America (PRSSA) received the Outstanding Chapter Development Award in the Southeast during the Southeast District convention in Atlanta.

Nineteen chapters from South Carolina, Georgia, Tennessee and Florida were present at the convention. NCSU's chapter is the only one in North Carolina.

"PRSSA is 20 years old and in one year we've already made an impact," PRSSA president Rick Wallace said. "In the years to come, we're going to become one of the more influential chapters in the district."

Wallace said the chapter submitted a 20-page booklet describing the chapter's accomplishments during the past year. He added that out of the 100 people at the convention, NCSU's PRSSA chapter made up over one-tenth of the population. In the past eight months, the chapter's membership has grown from zero to 82. He said by winning the award on the district level, the chapter automatically gets a berth in the national convention next year in Los Angeles.

"We are going after the national award in Los Angeles," Wallace said. "We've proven ourselves on the district level, and now we are going to prove ourselves at the national level."

The chapter is also the founder of the student public relations firm, Wolfcomm, Inc. Wallace said the firm is a non-profit organization and has done public relations work for a PGA tournament in Pinehurst and the speech department's Communication Week.

"Our costs are determined on what the job will be, outside costs and how long they want us for," he said. "In Pinehurst, they offered to donate a computer or $2,000."

"We envision that this firm will continue to do public relations work for the communication projects and at least several other service projects for the University," Wallace added.

He said the firm plans to go out and get some clients such as corporations that need public relations programs but don't want to pay the market price. "We want to provide a competitive program at a more reasonable fee than a public relations agency," he said.

Opinion

A paper that is entirely the product of the student body becomes at once the official organ through which the thoughts, the activity and in fact the very life of the campus are registered. It is the mouthpiece through which the students themselves talk. College life without its journal is blank.

Technician, vol. 1 no. 1 Feb. 1, 1920

Revise statutes

Thank goodness. Except for Student Senate president runoffs tomorrow and Wednesday, the 1987 spring student government elections are over. It's about time.

Elections of years past, just like elections of years present, always turn out to be long, drawn-out affairs. Elections of years future promise to hold more of the same unless something changes.

That "something" has to be the student body statutes that deal with the election process. These statutes have either not been followed or not been clear in the first place.

Recently, a suggestion was made to form a student government committee to take a closer look at these documents. We hope president Gary Mauney will work with president-elect Kevin Howell to follow up on this proposal.

Any committee formed for this purpose will have its hands full. For instance, the student body documents state that the Elections Board Committee shall pick an organization to operate the polls "on the basis of nonaffiliation (sic) with candidates."

This year, student government did not contract out this job to non-affiliated groups. Neither Greeks United nor the Panhellenic Council would be considered non-affiliated, yet both groups manned polls. Furthermore, the polls both groups manned became the subject of controversy. Had these two groups been less involved, perhaps these problems would have been avoided.

Student government should seriously consider changing the statutes so outside, non-student groups can run the polls. This way, the same, unbiased group of people could run the polls year after year. They would know what time the polls open and what time the polls close. More importantly, they would understand proper voting procedure.

As it stands, virtually no one understands proper voting procedure. The proposed committee needs to look into complaints about past voting irregularities.

The student body documents state that, "No campaigning may be done within fifty feet of the polls on the election days." The problem here deals with the definition of campaigning. Is campaigning just passing out pre-marked ballots or flyers supporting candidates, or does it include discussing candidates in private conversation? It's a well-known fact that students "hang out" at the student center every day. Most of them are within 50 feet of the poll. Could these people be charged with violating campaign procedures?

Also, the issue of official political sponsorship needs to be examined. The student body documents define potential sponsors as "any student or group of students who wish to support a candidate or candidates." Official sponsors must register during the nomination period, and any expenses they incur count against their sponsored candidate's campaign expenses.

Instead of going to all this trouble, groups or organizations could claim they are "unofficially sponsoring" candidates, thereby sliding out through a loophole. The statutes need to define what official and unofficial sponsorships are.

Again, we hope student government looks into the possibility of revising the elections statutes. We're as tired of this annual fiasco as everyone else.

BEGINNING A NEW CENTURY... FINALLY

KEVIN HOWELL: N.C. STATE'S NEW STUDENT BODY PRESIDENT

Keep God out of finances

LEE CREIGHTON

after a small donation of $1.3 million was handed to him, so he shall be permitted to live. He had better not be lying, for the Bible that he claims to follow so closely says, "All liars shall have their part in the lake that burns with fire and brimstone." Maybe he should take some of that $8 million and buy a nice ceiling fan.

This business with the PTL Club is more ridiculous than the Oral Roberts business. There is Jim Bakker, whose club can praise the Lord and Partake the Loot at the same time; there is James "Jimmy" Swaggart who wants to join the club, but Bakker won't let him; and there is Jerry Falwell, whose "Old Time Gospel Hour" contains just enough religion to make Elmer Gantry (of Sinclair Lewis fame) proud.

This "holy war" is showing what a lot of television evangelists really are: a bit more business than religion. They seem to be studying the books of law a little more than the books of the Bible. But who can judge? After all, the Lord helps those who help themselves to a few things that aren't exactly Sunday school topics.

People act as if, with Bakker out of the PTL Club, it is the end of religion as they know it. These people need to ask themselves what constitutes religion. They must think that religion is a specific person that leads a club, congregation or circle. They must think it is the political power of the leader. According to them, the gut feeling — the love from the heart — is only a very minor part of religious faith.

A church is not a building, but rather the people who attend. The same thing is true of a religion. It cannot be described as a particular pastor, vicar or clergyman. Religion is the beliefs that all the constituent members hold. A rectory that associates with a man rather than a set of ideals is not a religion — it is a cult. The trio of pious ministers need to realize this or they might need an air conditioner too.

Lee Creighton is a sophomore in MED.

The recent scam in the PTL Club and the holy death threat to Oral Roberts are drawing major attention from all the news media. In combining the two incidents, there is extortion, blackmail, sex-laden ordeals, corporate takeovers and endless bickering. It is good to see that Jimmy Swaggart, Jerry Falwell, Jim Bakker and Roberts can take religion and turn it into what could be a soap opera plot.

The actual thought that God would "take" Oral Roberts if he didn't raise $8 million is ludicrous. If Roberts is indeed a "messenger of the holy word," then why would God want to kill him? If he isn't, then God probably doesn't want him any more than we do.

Using a holy revelation to get money is immoral. Real or not, playing on the pity of unknowing people to increase funds for a university surely cannot be rationalized by anyone, even Roberts. After all, N.C. State needs money to build a new parking deck, but nobody has heard anything about Bruce Poulton being struck down if the parking permit prices are raised. At least not yet.

Roberts did, however, raise the money

Don't infringe on rights of others

Recently around campus I have seen stencils painted on buildings opposing the slaughter of "sickly anemic calves" for food. Today I saw that these stencils have also been painted on Hillsborough Street. I would like to address the person or group responsible for this graffiti.

First of all, if you want to advocate your cause, that is perfectly fine, but defacing property that belongs to others as well as yourself (if indeed that is the case), is no way to gain respect. Secondly, if you believe so strongly in your cause, which apparently you do in view of the number of buildings that you have defaced (have you ever heard of the Free Expression Tunnel?), why don't you take credit for your opinions and actions? If for one do not eat veal, but if I did, I would in no way be affected by this childish act. If you are serious about advocating your beliefs, please do so in a mature and responsible way. Maybe before you take up for the rights of calves, you should first learn not to infringe those of your fellow man.

Allison O'Neill
SOLAS

A poor representative

Isn't it funny? The entire student government elections reminded me of the 1984 senatorial race. More mudslinging has taken place in these elections than I have ever seen. One candidate in particular, Bill Maddalon, has lost all of my respect. A good politician has control of the English language. He does not make racial slurs to "describe" someone. Maddalon's "description" of Nguyen was irresponsible, ignorant and unorgivable. Does he like being "described" as a "white boy" or "cracker"? Well, this is essentially what Maddalon did.

Secondly, where does Maddalon get off accusing the black Greeks of not properly running the voting booths? Can't blacks win without cheating? Blacks won Miss NCSU and the 1st runner up. Was this due to cheating? Aren't you the same person who had his "boys" threaten someone trying to support one of your opponents? You sound like a racist whose pride was hurt. If blacks cheat so much, how come all of the discrepancy concerning voting booths and illegal voting dealt with those booths manned by whites? Since 1981 there have been several SGA officers and homecoming queens elected even though their fraternity or sorority were manning booths. Did anyone complain when they won?

In short I don't think you deserve to be a university representative and obviously the voting population of this campus agrees. You always seem to be involved when the mudslinging starts. It has been suggested that we contract a company to run the voting booths. This might be a good idea so any babies like you can't complain when you lose. Congratulations Kevin Howell; you have all of our support.

T.V. evangelists do some good

I am writing concerning the April Fool's edition of Technician. It is true that television evangelists do not have a good rapport with the public right now, but I feel many of the articles and comments in last Wednesday's paper would have been better left unsaid.

I am a Christian, and though I don't always endorse the methods of fund raising taken by some evangelists, I also don't think it is our place to judge or ridicule their good intentions. We certainly don't always know how their money is spent, but we can easily see many positive results coming from their ministries. From the work PTL has done for the handicapped and its provisions for wholesome family entertainment, to Billy Graham's soul-stirring messages and Jerry Falwell's crusade with Moral Majority, we cannot deny the efforts of these evangelists to improve our nation physically, spiritually and emotionally. In addition, I think it is a good idea to remember that these people are human just as we are. They are vulnerable to temptation and make mistakes just like we do. If we compare ourselves to others, we will always be able to find someone better and someone worse, thus there is no concrete reference by which to judge unless we compare ourselves to Christ. That is one standard none of us can measure up to. It's a good thing we can be forgiven.

Cannot mock God

Technician has reached its all-time low with the publication of the The Heritage Herald in its April fool's day issue. The only obvious fools on April 1 were the writers who found it funny to print the garbage that they did. Although it was to be a joke, there was little to laugh about in this low form of humor. Stopping to such a level hurts the credibility of the school's paper, if there ever has been any, as well as shows a misrepresentation of the university and its students.

The articles which were published not only contained little humor but deemed it funny to make a joke of our student body president, athletics director, sex and Satan. The purpose of sex has fallen far short of God's intended purpose.

Out of all the things that The Heritage Herald was designed to poke fun at, the idea of blasphemy against God is possibly the lowest form of any humor. No one makes fun of God! By making such blasphemous statements as "God said he has not seen one penny of the cash..." and "I remember when I sent Gab down to tell Mary about Junior..." really takes the cake. God has been quoted in his word, the Bible, as saying that he is not mocked and our sins will find us out.

The idea that our sins will find us out can be seen with the ordeal with Jim Bakker. The lesson that we can learn from the happenings of Jim Bakker is that all of us are susceptible to the powers of temptation, and we have all succumbed to temptation and fallen short of God's intentions for man. For God does not condone our wrong doings toward man or himself, so that if this is what we sow in our lives then we reap the consequences, which is exactly what the Bakker family is experiencing now.

You may not agree with everything that PTL did, I didn't, but who are we to cast stones at the Bakkers. Jesus said, "If any is without sin, let him be the first to throw a stone." Everyone has something in their lives that they are not going to tell anyone. Therefore, isn't it good to know that God, through Christ, has forgiven us for our sins if only we will accept him as our Lord and Saviour, meaning to give him the throne of our lives. Jesus promises he will return soon so your eternal fate is in your own hands.

When Jesus returns, we will have to give an account for our own actions. Wonder what Technician's writers will tell him about the articles from The Heritage Herald.

The fact is, Technician may care about the student, but it is unsure what they think about Christians and God.

The cartoon in decline ... is James Watt responsible?

DURHAM—I still have to find a real name for this column. Most of my choices are too gross or egocentric.

I like parties, social or political, as long as they have enough refreshments to last the night. So let's get on with the show.

Television
I went home and watched a couple of minutes worth of the PTL Ne'erwork.

Jim and Tammy Bakker, please come back, those imbeciles are ruining the show.

I could barely watch a solid minute of the network without wincing in pain at what people were saying or doing.

What does James Watt know about television? He's killing your dream network, just like he killed all those trees when he was Secretary of the Interior.

You should have left the Beastie Boys in charge of the place instead

The worst part of the show was when Aunt Maude, one of the hostesses, pleaded for viewers to become special lifetime partners by sending in money.

Instead of the $1,000 normally needed to join this select group, she was telling the folks to send in $5,000 and stick it on credit cards. She just can't grovel for bucks like you could, Jim. She has no sense of dramatic timing.

I forgive you, Jim and Tammy. What you two did was not wrong. Even Jimmy Carter lusted for other women, and Johnny Cash got hooked on prescription drugs. Nobody's perfect.

Two of the greatest animated series are not being shown in this area, and children are suffering because of it.

Why aren't Star Blazers and

JOE COREY

Party Favors

Speed Racer anymore?

It is probably a conspiracy of Americans Against Drugs, Alcohol and Intelligence that is keeping these programs off the air.

I know they are the reason that Police Squad, Taxi and SuperTrain were taken off the air.

How long will the children suffer with commercial seelock such as Rambo, Transformers and Rainbow Brite? Stop this constipation of the airwaves.

Speed Racer and Star Blazers are two of only a handful of cartoons that rise above the muck and mire of Saturday morning cartoons. These shows had a real value and neat gadgets. Unlike those cereal cartoons being blasted on the tube, the things used on these shows are not available at every toy department.

Radio
One of my favorite radio programs is getting more hours—finally.

Nightwaves, WKNC's progressive music show, will be on Monday through Thursday from 8 to 10 p.m. starting in May.

Matt Kelly, who has been hosting the show every Tuesday and Thursday from 9 p.m. to midnight, is excited about the new hours.

Russell Allen will host the show on Tuesday and Thursday nights, while Kelly will handle the knobs on Monday and Wednesday. Nightwaves was a solution to something this area needed when it came on nearly five years ago. Unless you had a good powerful receiver that picked up WXYC in Chapel Hill or WXDU in Durham, new, off the norm music was alien to the Raleigh area.

Recently, Nightwaves has been featuring the Smiths, FIREHOSE, the soundtrack to Athens, Georgia, and oldies by The Cure.

Hopefully, WKNC's sound will change a bit with listeners hearing more than the usual stuff that you can bang your heads to in a 44 beat.

On Campus
Do you need some quick cash, but aren't in the mood to cough up a pint of blood?

Well, if you want to earn $25 for simply not laughing for three minutes, your chance has come.

Those crazy, insane guys from We Can Make You Laugh will be returning to Stewart Theatre Tuesday at 8 p.m.

This year's crew includes Joe Dunekel, Earl Borks and Winston the Wonder Dog, and G. Guy.

Even if you don't get picked to be a contestant in this game show, the comedy is great.

The comics will go to any length to get a chuckle out of a contestant. They usually attack with a zany gadget like ugly teeth, goofy hats or just something too warped to imagine on a human's body.

We Can Make You Laugh used to be a television show with some of the new comic talent trying out odd routines. Gallagher was a regular on the old show.

The show is free, so come on out and rake in the big bucks.

LAST CHANCE!!

For Seniors To Buy At University Prices.*

Now there's more than one way to get through life after college.

To get ahead in school, it helps if you choose a brilliant roommate. Like a Macintosh™ personal computer. In life after college you can take this brilliant roommate with you. And now there are two models to choose from.

The Macintosh Plus, which comes with one 800K disk drive and up to four megabytes of memory.

And the Macintosh SE. Which comes with either two built-in 800K drives, or one drive and an internal 20-megabyte hard disk. As well as a choice of keyboards.

The SE also has an expansion slot, so you can add a card that lets you share information over a campus-wide network. Or another that lets you run MS-DOS programs.

Whichever Macintosh you choose, you can use the latest, most advanced software. And that means you'll be able to work faster, better and smarter.

No two ways about it.

The power to be your best.™

(Top) The Smithereens Wolf-rocked approximately 5,000 'Stockers Saturday under threatening and sometimes rainy skies. After their set, Courtney Fields (above) threw the audience some pretty fast curves, and later strutted on to take the bikini contest first prize. Graduates facing major decisions

Money not the only factor in job search

Special to Technician

As students advance toward graduation, they face life-shaping decisions about careers and place of residence.

Interviews conducted with several graduating seniors reveal how some students are dealing with these difficult choices.

Beth Gray, a senior in Engineering, is fortunate — her decision is to choose the best of several job offers she has received. Gray says that the location of the job, its proximity to this area and the broadness of opportunity offered by the company are the most important factors for her in making a decision. She also notes that graduates who are engaged to be married (or who soon will be) need to keep employment prospects for their future spouse in mind when choosing an employer.

"Quality of life is very important to me, even more important than money," said Doris Pierce, who will be graduating with a degree in Textiles. Her primary focus is on job characteristics.

Potential for advancement, the reputation of the company, and the opportunity to develop and apply the knowledge gained as a student at State are important considerations for Design senior Vincent Gardner.

Beth Gray

For Marty Lance in Education, satisfaction with the job and the working relationships with others in the job setting are the most important things. Lance also wants a nice job location.

Some students fear they will be forced to leave North Carolina in order to find appropriate employment opportunities. Others, making staying close to home a priority, are limiting their job search to their home state and doing the best they can there.

The choices seniors make reveal much about what they want and value in career and community life. The advice they give to rising sophomores, juniors and seniors is to clarify their values and prepare early for important choices.

Worthen arrested

Frye said he was unaware that charges had been filed against Worthen, but added he did know of the incident.

Frye said he did not yet know of Worthen's status for the upcoming ACC Track and Field Championships, being held this weekend in Atlanta. Head track coach Rollie Geiger was unavailable for comment.

Worthen said he informed assistant head football coach Steve Robertson about the incident. Robertson then contacted head coach Dick Sheridan, Worthen said.

Neither Robertson nor Sheridan could be reached for comment.
