Y. M. C. A. LEADERS TALK TO STUDENTS AT CHAPEL PERIOD

F. W. Ramsay of Cleveland and E. L. Lotspiech of Nashville Are Heard

VISITING STATE MEETING

Miss Martha Burkhead of Peace Delights Audience With Xylophone

The students of State College enjoyed the privilege of hearing two very noted speakers and prominent leaders in the work of the Young Men's Christian Association throughout the United States at the general assembly exercises on Wednesday. It was a rare and extremely enjoyable treat that they were also able to hear Miss Martha Burkhead, a student at Peace Institute, give a few well executed selections upon the xylophone.

The exercises were opened by Miss Burkhead, who played "Indian Love Song" from "Rose Marie." Dean Cloyd then read the Scripture lesson and offered prayer. This was immediately followed by two other selections played by the young lady from Peace, Mr. King, of the State College Y. M. C. A., then made a brief speech in which he introduced the speakers of the day, both of whom were in attendance at the State Y. M. C. A. Convention being held at the State House.

The first to speak was Mr. F. W. Ramsay, a prominent business man of Cleveland, Ohio, who told the students how people like to be reminded that Christ is at the center of life. He is also the inspiration which caused the foundation of the Young Men's Christian Association, of which he is at the heart, and the aim of which is to bring men into closer relationship to God, to themselves, and to the highest and best ideals attainable in life.

The Y. M. C. A. first found its beginning eighty years ago in London, where Sir George Williams gathered.

BARNYARD ORCHESTRA RECENTLY ORGANIZED

The latest addition to college musical organizations is the "Barnyard" Orchestra, which was recently started by men in south end of 1911 Dormitory.

The orchestra is composed of six pieces, which includes two violins, played by Gilreath and Sides; two guitars, played by Gather and Toler; banjo, played by Black, and drums by Whitenton. The rehearsals are held on Sunday afternoons, and are enjoyed by those who room in this section.

As might be surmised from their name, this aggregation plays mostly the old-time favorites. They are said to be very proficient with the Mississippi Sawyer and others of his tribe. Whether they will apply to "Daddy" Price for recognition as a regular college organization is not known, but they have held several rehearsals recently, and never fail to draw a throng of eager listeners.

PEACH ORCHARD WILL BE PLANTED ON FARM

Plans for the establishment of a new peach orchard for the College were given out this week by Prof. J. P. Pillsbury, of the Horticulture Department.

The orchard will contain 150 trees and will be located just back of Professor Pillsbury's residence. This announcement will be of special interest to those students in Agriculture who are interested in peach growing, as it will give them an opportunity to see this work done and to take part in it.

"Spicy" Wray Confined To Infirmary With Infection

Friends of D. L. (Spicy) Wray regret to learn that he is confined to the infirmary with an infection caused from a blackhead just over his left eye.

He went to the hospital Tuesday afternoon and it was at this time his condition was discovered. At the present he is not seriously ill, but every precaution is being taken to prevent further complications.

Wray is a member of the Senior class in Biology.

CARD OF THANKS

Rex Hospital.
Since my operation, it has been a pleasure to have you fellows visit me. I wish to express very hearty appreciation for the beautiful bunch of flowers presented me by the Student Body.

BIBLE STUDY CLASSES HAVE GOOD BEGINNING

Larger Enrollment and More Interest Than Formerly; Many Fraternity Groups

Bible study has begun with a good start this term. There are eight fraternity classes and twenty-four other classes, the total enrollment of which is three hundred and forty men.

Last year there were twenty classes containing two hundred and eleven men; one hundred and fifteen of these men were 100-per-cent men and received a feed at the end of the course. Some of these classes were led by members of the faculty, but the majority were led by students. This year, under the leadership of R. J. Peeler, as chairman of the Bible Study Committee, a great step forward has been taken. There is an increase of twelve classes over the number last year, and the number of members has increased by one hundred and twenty-nine.

The interest in Bible Study this year is much greater than was shown last year. The fraternities are coming to the aid of the Y. M. C. A. and are helping to carry on the "Y" program.

Following are the names of those classes that have members of the faculty or prominent Raleigh citizens for leaders: Chi Alpha Sigma, Mr. T. S. Johnson; Sigma Delta, Dr. J. A. Ellis; Alpha Zeta, Dr. W. D. Parry; Sigma Phi Epsilon and Pi Kappa Alpha, Prof. C. C. Cunningham; Sigma Psi, Mr. Gilbert T. Stephenson; Sigma Delta Phi, Col. John W. Harrelson; Phi Kappa Tau, Dean E. L. Cloyd; Alpha Gamma Rho, Prof. J. D. Clark. Sigma Nu and Kappa Iota Epsilon desire to have classes, but so far have been unable to secure leaders.

In addition to these classes, there are twenty-one student-led classes, which are held in the dormitory sections. This makes thirty-two classes at present, with a possibility of one or two more.

DEBATE ON QUESTION OF CENSURING THIS PAPER

Pullen Society Decides Radical Policy Not So Radical After All

The Pullen Literary Society on Friday, January 22d, had one of the most interesting debates during the college year, on the question: "Resolved, That all the material for THE TECHNICIAN should be censored by the State College faculty."

The first speaker on the program was H. W. Taylor, who claimed that State College and the University of North Carolina were the only two colleges in the state that did not have their papers censored by the faculty. "There is a real need for having our college paper censored," he said. "Look at the Davidson incident, where one member of the publication staff was expelled for writing an article which contradicted some of the policies of the college."

"Some of the inherent qualities of the present methods for publishing articles in THE TECHNICIAN are, first, students write anything they think of, and oftentimes it degrades the college ideals. Second, the editor himself writes such editorials as 'Pools of Drugs in Our Dining Hall,' and sometimes attacks the policies of our Athletic Association. Third, another contributor, known as the 'Yelper,' writes suggestive items that tend to lower the high ideals which a college paper should stand for. Fourth, it is right for any individual to sign a fictitious name, like 'Red Hale,' when he wishes to reprimand someone that has done a foolish thing? Then again, the author of 'Hetero Colors' writes about the women, necking, and even uses profanity in his column, which should never be published."

"When articles of such a nature appear in our TECHNICIAN then it is time

Several Faculty Members To Read Papers At Atlantic Meet

State College Will be Well Represented at Annual Meeting of Southern Agricultural Workers Held in Atlanta February 3, 4, and 5; Distinct Honor to the College

North Carolina State College will be well represented at the twenty-seventh annual convention of the Association of Southern Agricultural Workers to be held at Atlanta, Ga., on February 3, 4, and 5, according to an announcement from Dean I. O. Schaub, of the School of Agriculture. Dr. R. Y. Winters, Director of the North Carolina Experiment Station, is chairman of the convention, and will also give a technical paper, "The Distribution of Cotton Fibers on the Seed." L. G. Willis, also of the station staff, will give a paper on liming muck soils, and Prof. C. B. Williams, head of the Agronomy Department, will give facts on the kind of fertilizers to use for cotton on the different soil types.

In the Animal Husbandry Section, Prof. R. S. Curtis will give recent facts established about the feeding of cottonseed meal to livestock. Professor Curtis will also report on the correlation of research work in animal husbandry. In the Dairy Section of this group, John A. Arcey will address the group on dairy production.

In the Plant Disease Section, Dr. S. G. Lehman and G. W. Fant are both on the program to discuss new facts about this work. Dr. F. A. Wolf, formerly of the North Carolina station, will collaborate with Dr. Lehman in presenting these new facts.

Prof. C. D. Matthews, head of the Department of Horticulture, is chairman of the Horticultural Section of the agricultural workers, and will preside over this section at the Atlanta meeting.

Dr. Carl C. Taylor, head of the Graduate School, will deliver an address before the Agricultural Economics Section on "The Strong and Weak Points in Rural Economic and Social Research in the South, Past and Present."

In Extension Work, Mrs. Jane S. McKimmon, Miss Phyllis Smith, and Miss Martha Crighton will represent the farm demonstration work. "It is recognized," says Dean Schaub, "that North Carolina has one of the best organized and most comprehensive plans for agricultural development in the South, and it is a source of deep gratification that our workers are so eagerly sought to appear on the programs of such an important convention as this. At this meeting is reported the progress made in agricultural education work throughout the whole South."

FRENCH EDUCATOR VISITS COLLEGE WHILE IN TOWN

Dr. Pasquet of University Paris Guest of Dr. Brooks; Is Writing History

"I have heard much of these 'Modernists' and 'Fundamentalists.' I hope I shall have the very exquisite pleasure of seeing one while I am in this country," said Dr. Desire Pasquet, of the University of Paris, while in Raleigh Monday. Dr. Pasquet, talking seriously, said that some French people believed in evolution and that some did not. He indicated that nobody in his country gave a hank what the other fellow believed on this point, and that, among the masses at least, it was not a question of religious doctrine but of opinion, based on the acceptance of scientific theories.

While in town Dr. Pasquet was on the campus. He discussed with Dr. Brooks the race question, the agricultural development of the State, the changing organization of Southern farming since the days of slavery, the development of hydro-electric power and the growth of the cotton industry, all of which was very interesting to him.

Dr. Pasquet will be in this country until about October 1, collecting data for a text on American history.

COLLEGE BUYS CAR LOAD BEEF CATTLE

Will Be Used in Course in Beef Production and For Experimental Purposes

"The College has purchased a carload of beef cattle for the classes in beef production," announced Prof. F. M. Hagl, of the Animal Husbandry Department.

Some of these cattle will be used for experimental purposes, while the rest will be cared for by the juniors and seniors studying beef production. These students will balance the rations, do the feeding, and keep cost of production records, as a part of their laboratory work. When the cattle become ready for market they will be turned over to the class in meats. Students in this class will slaughter the animals and sell them in the meat market, which is operated by the students in the meat course.

Some of the better type cattle will be kept for judging work and will be used by the class in advanced stock judging in the spring term. In this way the cattle will serve as laboratory material for three college courses.

ENJOY BIG HUNT

Captain Lee and Lieutenant Passalunghi spent two days on a hunting trip at the Fort Bragg reservation. They bagged three turkey buzzards, two owls, and a dove.

A CORRECTION

In last week's issue there appeared a news story of the election of officers of the Agricultural Club which stated that E. A. Davis was chosen president. This should have been G. B. Cline, as it was he and not Mr. Davis who was elected for the spring term.

GLEE CLUB RETURNS TONIGHT FROM TRIP

Have Been Touring Western N. C. Since Tuesday; Responses Have Been Good

Tuesday, January 26, the State College Glee Club and Orchestra, headed by the amiable and affable "Daddy" Price, left for the first long trip of the year. The territory covered was the western part of the State, beginning at Norwood and extending west to Marion, near Asheville. The tour will end with a concert at Swepsonton on Saturday night.

Major Price has developed a well-balanced organization, consisting of an orchestra of fourteen pieces and a glee club of eighteen voices. The program has been carefully arranged, the outstanding features being several selections by the State College Quartet, and piano and violin solos by members of the Orchestra.

Two concerts were given before they left, and although the halls were by no means crowded, the audiences thoroughly enjoyed the programs and called for encores on many of the numbers.

RADIO PEOPLE ANSWER REQUEST OF DONNELL

W. E. Donnell, a popular State College student and athlete, had his name and the name of this college broadcast over the country Sunday night, January 24, at 9:25 Eastern standard time.

During the world's radio broadcasting contest station WOK of Chicago was sending out a musical program from the Chicago Beach Hotel and asked for suggested pieces to play. Donnell immediately wired to Chicago to play "Collegiate" for the students of State College. Soon those listening in on the WOK program heard our grid-trot hero's name being broadcast over the country, and "Collegiate" soon followed.

POULTRY SCIENCE COURSE MOST SUCCESSFUL HELP

Was Attended by Thirty Practical Poultry Growers From Over the State

The fourth annual Poultry Short Course, held at State College the week of January 18, was attended by more than thirty men and women. It was one of the most successful courses of its kind yet held, according to Dr. B. F. Kaupp, head of the Poultry Department.

Practical work was given in culling and selection of breeding birds, trapped White Leghorns, Rocks, Reds, and Wyandottes being used in this work. During the week instruction was given as to the hatching, brooding, and marketing of broilers; diagnosing and controlling the various poultry diseases; selection, care, and management of breeding and laying hens; construction of poultry houses; captioning, sticking, dry picking, candling and grading of eggs.

The last day, Saturday, was devoted to a judging contest. The following birds were judged: Two classes of exhibition birds and two classes of utility birds. The exhibition classes consisted of Rhode Island Reds and White Wyandottes; the utility classes were Leghorns and Barred Rocks.

A silver loving cup was awarded to the person making the highest score. This was won by Mr. H. Sultan, of New Bern, his score being 345 out of a possible 400. Mr. C. J. Dellinger, of Cherryville, was second with a score of 285, and Mrs. N. Bailey, of Selma, was third with a score of 275.

The class was very enthusiastic and said it filled a long-felt need and that those who could not attend missed something valuable.

PROF. CUNNINGHAM DELIVERS SECOND TALK OF SERIES

Will Conclude Lectures in "Y" Auditorium Tomorrow Afternoon

SAYS BIBLE IS FALLIBLE

One of Most Helpful Religious Talks Heard on Campus, It Is Said

Last Sunday afternoon, in the auditorium of the Y. M. C. A., Professor Cunningham, head of the Public Speaking Division of the Department of English, delivered the second of a series of lectures on the topic, "What is the Bible?" The first of these lectures was given before the holidays and, in the rush attendant upon final examinations, was not given publicity in the columns of this paper. The third and concluding discourse will be presented by Professor Cunningham at half-past one o'clock Sunday afternoon in the "Y" hall.

In the introduction to his address, Professor Cunningham said that he hoped what he would say might prove of help to those thoughtful young men who, like Matthew Arnold, found themselves, in considering the conflict between science and religion, "struggling between two worlds, one dead, the other powerless to be born." If the literalist's conception of the Bible were true, there would be justification for Arnold's pessimism, but fortunately, the literalists are not right in their understanding of the Bible.

The speaker next pointed out that it would be possible for a man to be a Christian if he possessed no other book of the Bible except the Gospel according to Mark, the briefest and simplest of the accounts of Jesus' life, character, and teachings. He acknowledged,

LONDON SHOP NOT OWNED BY STETSON "D"

Because of a misunderstanding, last week's issue of this paper stated that the new store adjacent to the College Court would be occupied by "Stetson D." "It is true that this line of clothes will be featured," said W. O. Honeycutt, who is proprietor of the establishment, "but the store is not under the management of these people at all."

Mr. Honeycutt had hoped to be open for business by February 1, but will probably be delayed a day or two. He will feature John Ward Shoes after April 1, he stated. Besides these articles, he will carry a full line of tuxedos, top coats, and other wearing apparel for men.

A unique method of advertising has been adopted by the new firm. They will press free of charge for six months every suit purchased from them. This is a new departure for local stores, and will be watched with much interest.

BIG NICK RECOVERING FROM TUMBLE ON ICE

"Big Nick" Nicholson is out of the infirmary and slowly recovering from an injury received in a fall on the ice about two weeks ago. There seemed to be no bones out of place, but the hip was badly bruised.

Nicholson is a football man and wrestler. His absence from the wrestling squad is felt keenly. Everyone is in hopes that he will recover in time to get ready for the next wrestling encounter, which will be February 4, with V. P. I.

NOTICE!

The Y. M. C. A. is in need of the remainder of the funds that will come from student subscriptions. A canvass will be made next week in order that the money pledged may be collected as soon as possible. The program of the "Y" cannot be promoted without funds. There are a few pledges now due that will help in the promotion of the program for the remainder of the year. Fellows, I am depending on you to respond when the canvasser comes to your room.

H. K. PLOTT, Treas.

"POP" TAYLOR IS LATEST BACHELOR TO MAKE EXIT

Probable Cause Found Against Him; Members Must Live Up to Rules

"Pop" Taylor did not heed his warning last week, consequently he was the third member of the Bachelor Fraternity to be kicked out at the regular meeting last Monday night. The members expressed their surprise in strong language when they heard that "Pop" had been breaking every rule of the fraternity. "Pop" was accused of letting a girl down in the little city of Gastonia. "Pop's" girl asked him all about his various ramblings and activities and accused him of going astray from her. In reply, "Pop" said: "Darling, I have been staying in every night except one, and that was when 'Bull' Harper and I went down to see Keith's vaudeville at the State Theater and sat on the 'ball-head' row." At this, "Pop's" girl became angry, her eyes flashed lightning, fire came from her nostrils, and denunciatory words rolled from her ceaseless tongue like the mountains that rolled upon Satan's army before his seven-days fall into the deathless pit of brimstone and fire. "Pop" did not lose his head, as usual, and waited for the storm to become calm and peaceful, then he poured forth all his loving words—not the ones he pours forth to the freshmen, oh, no!—that smothered out the fire, turned back the mountains, and calmed that tongue, which is the deadly weapon of woman. Now, if "Pop" had withstood the onslaught, good and well; but he had to apologize, get down on his knees, place a gentle kiss on her fiery lips, and we know not what. Such caused his downfall from the Bachelor Fraternity.

Another indication of "Pop's" being an untried bachelor are the huge sums of insurance he has been taking out with our good friend, "Dean" Harper. It seems that the deeper "Pop" falls in love, the more insurance he buys from "Dean" Harper. We shall suggest right here that the insurance men of Raleigh watch "Pop" carefully, and maybe they will be able to sell him a few more ten-thousand-dollar policies.

And here is a last warning to Knute Tarleton to steer clear of specialized courting; otherwise, his life is in jeopardy. In the meantime, we are looking for some true bachelors to enter the fraternity, for it seems that we are about to kick them all out on account of having too soft and mushy hearts. Get a hard one like Colonel Harrelson's, or E. G. Moore's, or ye scribes, and you may belong and not have fear of being kicked out. There have been many applications sent in for membership, but the Bachelors see undue publicity in their desires, so they are not even considered. This fraternity is like all others—it sends out bids, instead of wanting fellows to send in applications.

Y. M. C. A. Leaders Talk to Students At Chapel Period

the young men of his community together to rebuild their faith and strength when he saw them going down and departing from the high ideals they might once have held.

Seventy-five years ago this movement for betterment in the Christian lives of men came to the United States. Today the Y. M. C. A. has to its credit more than two thousand establishments, more than one million members, over six thousand employed officers, more than one hundred thousand Christian laymen in the capacity of members of the board of trustees, and two millions of dollars in the Y. M. C. A. plants of the United States.

The idea of the founder of this great institution was that Christ made a greater addition to the life of any one, and that every interest in a man's life was made more by the addition of Christ. This movement, begun in only a small part of the great city of London, has since spread until it has covered the entire United States, and has extended its service to more than thirty other countries.

Mr. E. L. Loetsplech, the second speaker, said that the Y. M. C. A. has only just begun to appreciate the true value of its leadership in the work it is attempting to perpetuate. It was thought at first that any one would be capable of dealing with the souls of others. The value of well-trained men has been found out to such an extent that the organization is doing the work itself of training those who are to carry on its work.

A training school has been established in the South for those wishing to become Y. M. C. A. secretaries. Another small step toward the training of men for this work is the Students' Conference at Blue Ridge each summer. This is not to be confused with the regular training school held each summer at the same place as the conferences and known as the Blue Ridge Summer School. At Nashville, Tenn., has been established the school for the fall, winter, and spring terms. In addition to its regular work, the Y. M. C. A. is attempting to raise a million dollars for a Southern home. Some of the difficulty in the work of the organization can be shown in the fact that it had to create a demand for trained men to carry on the Y. M. C. A. work as well as to supply the demand after it had been created.

Debate Question of Censoring This Paper

for the faculty to step in and censor these articles before going to press."

The first speaker for the negative was E. C. Conrad, who stated that the act of the faculty censoring articles of THE TECHNICIAN would be taking away the freedom of the press.

"We know that the reasons for which our government was founded a few hundred years ago was the freedom of thought, expression, and the press. Today we want this same privilege in our colleges and universities. We want it at N. C. State College. The freedom for which our forefathers strived is of the same character as that which we want in our own institution. We want a paper free to inform us of conditions at our college, free to declare the truth as it is best known by those who write the news. We want the students to be informed of the true conditions existing within their college. To give the faculty members the privilege to censor our school paper would take away the incentive for writing the news, and would to a certain extent subjugate the truth.

"Dr. Chase, speaking before the newspaper institute at Chapel Hill, said in part, 'That universities and newspapers are very much alike, in that both are striving to find the truth and give that truth expression.'

"Taking the University of North Carolina for example, we might say that this institution has always had the policy of non-censorship by the faculty. They have seen fit always to print the truth at any cost. They print the news whether good or bad."

The second speaker on the affirmative was T. C. Andrews, who first considered some of the material that composes THE TECHNICIAN, and said: "The space taken in THE TECHNICIAN could be used to a better advantage than for jokes." Another point brought out was that through censorship the students become better acquainted with the faculty.

The last speaker for the negative, C. C. Todd, brought out the following three points:

1. THE TECHNICIAN is financed by the students.
2. Organized and managed by the students.
3. Faculty censorship would prove that we did not have faith in our student government.

The judges' decision was unanimously in favor of the negative, with E. C. Conrad as the best speaker.

At 30 he did his own pressing.

Prof. Cunningham Delivers Second Talk of Series

however, that his Christian knowledge and experience would probably lack much richness and profundity. As a first step in developing his theme, the speaker demonstrated by quotations from Jesus' teachings that He did not regard the Bible as infallible on all points, even in the field of religion and ethics, its peculiar province. Since Christ is the supreme revelation of God's character and purpose, it becomes obvious that all other revelation is of secondary importance. It is only in accord with reason, therefore, that the Christian should, in all fields of thought and experience, including the Holy Scriptures, apply the teaching of Paul, when he wrote to the Thessalonians, "Prove (i. e., test) all things; hold fast that which is good."

It was clearly shown that Jesus advised His disciples to depart from and to disregard certain Old Testament teachings and practices, in which instruction He was in accord with that of the prophets who preceded Him. The speaker also indicated that all Christians, including the most rigid literalists themselves, made distinctions in values in their use of the Scriptures.

The next inquiry raised was with reference to the source of the Bible. It was pointed out that the Bible was the product or effect of religion, not the cause thereof primarily. In answer to the question, How did it come out of religion? Professor Cunningham gave this terse and direct reply: The Bible was inspired as the revelation or word of the God whose character and whose dealings with men are set forth in its pages. He acknowledged, however, that many interpretations had been placed upon the term "inspire," especially as regards the method of inspiration. He then examined the Bible itself for an answer to the question, and this examination showed clearly that, far from being definite as to meaning, the Bible itself permitted the term to widen out until its meaning was almost as elusive as the horizon, applying it not to speeches and writings alone, but to the work of architects, engravers, jewelers, and other artists and artisans, and to the achievements of military and political leaders. Clearly, then, the position that holds that the Bible claims to be "altogether exempt from errors or mistakes of any sort" is untenable.

At this point in his discourse Professor Cunningham eloquently set forth the true significance of inspiration as applied to the Holy Scriptures. It is in the realm of morals and of character, not of educational attainment. The Bible was written by those pious Jews who through years of clean living, spiritual growth, and singleness of purpose had developed a sensitiveness to the spiritual and the divine, and who possessed a peculiar insight into things moral and religious. Such a man might be a farmer, like Malachi, or a shepherd, like Amos, or a gentle physician, like Luke, or some unknown political writer, like the author of the Book of Daniel. Sometimes the writers might work in groups, or schools. They were geniuses who had unusual moments of exaltation and vision, and who endeavored to express the experiences and insights of those moments in language understood by men. Many, like the writer who spoke of Joshua commanding the sun and moon to stand still, were poets, expressing themselves figuratively and never intending that they should be taken literally.

These writers made no claims to being authorities in the fields of geology, botany, anthropology, history; in fact, they contradicted one another in those fields. Their science was the science of the many periods of history in which they lived and wrote, and most of it has been outdated and has become obsolete. The vital thing about the story of creation in Genesis is not the order of the steps in the process, for there is contradiction in the two accounts found in the book itself. The essence of the Genesis story is its religious significance, not its scientific; and that significance is contained in the first three words, "In the beginning, God."

From cover to cover the Bible is a book of religion, as such, and makes no claim to being anything else. It is peculiarly inspired in that field. It has to do with God and man, and with the life which follows from right relations between them. It is the story of God's effort to redeem man by bringing him into fellowship with Himself, first, through the history of a God-conscious race, and later, through the life and character of an individual, Jesus Christ. This is primary; all the rest is secondary. Redemption and character are the supreme interests of Holy Writ. And because it is surpassingly great in the fields of religion and ethics, it is of vital importance to our life today. Its lawmakers still legislate for humankind; its poets sing of every possible religious experience; its messages concerning statecraft are more vital documents than the covenant of the League of Nations or the Locarno Peace Pact. Its savior, Messiah, Christ Jesus, is the supreme revelation of the Fatherhood of God; and His conception of all men as brothers and as sons of that God has never been surpassed in ethical and religious significance and beauty. The book is an exhaustless mine of religious and moral truths, concretely illustrated in the life and history of that people whose consuming passion was a nation led by God-conscious men as was known

God and to walk in His ways. We need have no fear for the Bible or for the religion it reveals, if we do not ask it to bear witness in fields alien to its avowed purposes, and if we do not judge it by any other standard than the one that applies to it: its height and depth and breadth and significance as a book of RELIGION.

In his concluding address, Professor Cunningham will attempt to answer two questions: First, why do some people refuse to accept the Bible in the right light? and second, what will the Bible do for us if it is accepted in that way?

"Why do men hold girls' hands?"
"Cause they wear watches in their vest pockets."

One question that always arises in the mind of every serious-thinking college man is, "What am I going to do after graduation or during vacation time?" This is an important question, worthy of serious consideration. It demands a decision.

In a very definite way the life insurance business offers you the opportunities for success. In no field is there a greater chance for the college man.

Terrors Return From Unlucky Trip To South

Win From Clemson and Lose to Georgia Tech and University of Georgia

Gus Tebell and his fighting Terrors have returned from the "Wilds of Georgia" with two defeats and one victory, but nevertheless full of the same fighting spirit and with a head full of things learned while in the Pamlico and Cracker states.

Leaving Raleigh at midnight Wednesday, eleven strong, nine men on the squad with Coach Tebell and Manager Jones, their first stop was at Clemson, the lair of the Tiger. There the Red-shirted boys tamed the Tiger 32-16.

Early the next morning, after spending a peaceful night at State's sister institute, the squad boarded the train for Atlanta. Reaching the metropolis of the South about eleven o'clock on Friday, they were guests of honor at a banquet given by the State College Alumni Chapter of Atlanta. Jack McDowell and "Ground Hog" Gresham were the stars at this battle.

The game with the Golden Tornado of Georgia Tech was an exciting battle. The fighting Terrors led all the way through until the last few minutes of play, when "Tiny" Hearn, the seven-foot center of the Georgians, got mad at some one who stepped on his toe and shot three baskets in succession that put his team within one point of the State College quint. Then a substitute player, who had only been in the game two minutes, got the ball and dribbled up to the middle of the floor and shot. This won the game for the Georgians. The Red Terrors were handicapped by the loss of Captain Dickens, who was injured in the Clemson game. No doubt if he had been in shape the score would tell a different tale.

That night after the game the squad visited the broadcasting studio of the Atlanta Journal—WSB. This station had broadcast the game play by play and had invited the team to their studio. After a big night spent at the Atlanta Baltimore Hotel, the team journeyed over to Athens to battle the University of Georgia.

This game was very similar to the one played the night before, and was just as exciting. The game was not noticed until the last seconds of play, and here, also, Lady Luck took the side of the Georgians. The playing of Spence of the Red-shirters stood out in this contest. Captain Dickens got in this game only a few minutes, due to his injured knee. The team left Athens at 11:15 Saturday night, and after a night never to be forgotten by the squad, reached Raleigh at 11:30 Sunday morning.

At each stop the team was highly entertained, and on every side it was noticed that the people of the South still can be praised for their Southern hospitality. The spectators at each game were high in their praise of Tebell's Terrible Terrors.

CALL FOR BASEBALL ANSWERED BY 30 MEN

Will Have Skull Practice Until Weather Permits Outdoor Work; Stars Missing

About thirty men answered Coach "Chick" Doak's call for baseball practice last Tuesday afternoon. As a result of this meeting, skull practice will be held every Tuesday and Thursday afternoon at 4:30 until the weather will permit of outside playing.

This year the coach and men will have to work especially hard to fill the vacancies left by the varsity stars who graduated last spring. Those whose shoes need filling are: "Captain Red" Lassiter, "Red" Johnson, "Dutch" Holland, "Bobby" Correll, Johnnie Hill, and "Whitey" Smith. Some of the best prospects from last year's Freshman team are Vick, Biggers, and Hunsicker.

Coach Doak has proved his ability to mould the material at hand into a hard-hitting, sweet-fielding team, and State men have no doubt whatsoever that he will do so again this coming season.

Sammie's Notebook

The other day me and a lot of State college students was coming out hillsboro street on the street car and a lot of wimen got on the car when the car turns out hillsboro street. The car was crowded with passengers and all the seats was taken befour the wimen got on. 1 of the students was setting on the front seat write buy the dore and he was a freshmen because he wore a red cap on his hed with a big white I on it so when the wimen got on the hillsboro street car he got up and let 1 of the wimen have his seat. There was 3 wimen that got on and the other 2 had to go way back in the car befour any body wood let em have there seat. Some of the students tried to start talking with the 2 wimen that had to set in the back and they sure cut up terribul making the men that sat near them laff and about that time the car came to my corner and I had to get off. It sure made me feel good seeln that freshmen get up and let 1 of the wimen have his seat just as soon as she got on the car and I decided that when I went to State I'd be sure to give my seat to the first lady that got on the car even if it wuz a girl that went to meredith or st marys or peace cause they is some ones girls and I wood want a fellar to give my girl a seat if she did knot have one.

CAPTAIN DICKENS, GRESHAM, BROWN, AND WATKINS, LETTER-MEN WHO ARE STARRING ON THE TECH QUINT THIS YEAR

STATE TAKES GAME FROM ELON QUINT

First Half is Rather Slow, But Red Terrors Get Better in Last

The Tech's North Carolina record is still clear. Elon made the sixth victory over State colleges scored by "Tebell's Terrors" this season, when they lost by the score of 29-24 in Frank Thompson Gym last Tuesday night.

Watkins, Tech guard, was the high scorer of the contest with three field goals and two free shots to his credit, while Newman of Elon, with seven points, and Williams and Spence of State, with six each, followed close behind him.

State played the poorest game of the season and had its hands full in the last half to keep the Christians from overcoming the ten-point lead picked up in the initial period. Captain Dickens, due to the injury to his knee, which occurred in the Clemson game last week, was not up to his usual form and secured only three counters. Watkins and McDowell both played good games at guard, with Watkins also leading the floor in scoring.

Line-up and summary:

N. C. State (29)	Elon (24)
Dickens (3)	Newman (7)
Gresham (4)	Bock (3)
Brown (2)	Crutchfield (1)
Watkins (8)	Byrd (4)
McDowell	Kelly (4)

State substitutions: Williams (6), Spence (6). Elon substitutions: Raub (5), Sexton.

Referee: Mr. Steiner (Syracuse).

KO-ED KOLUMN

By D. M. B.

One bright spring morning not so awfully long ago a co-ed came slipping and sliding down Hillsboro Street to class. Intent upon where her feet should fall, she failed to notice a group of boys lined up—one armed with a camera. Needless to say, she put on her party smile, wishing futilely she had "prinked" a bit before!

It all was laughingly carried off. The co-ed doubted she knew any of the boys—and they surely didn't know her!

Laughingly—in the spirit of fun! Isn't that the reaction of the boys to the co-eds? They don't really dislike them here, do they? The co-ed thinks not—for her brother wouldn't want other sisters' brothers disliking to have other brothers' sisters around—not as a rule!

What the former generation thinks of the present "senior tendencies" in bonnets may be gathered in this rather telling remark: Grandmother (upon viewing the hat): "Well, it's not so be-coming as it is over-coming!"

It is interesting to note the change in line formation outside Pullen Memorial Church after church Sunday mornings. Now that buses have superseded the cars, the men-in-waiting now line Cox instead of Hillsboro Street! I wonder where they would be without the ladies?

A girl in a certain town eloped in a suit of clothes belonging to her father. The head-lines in the town paper the next morning read: "Fleas in Her Father's Pants."

latter in inducing seven Asheville athletes to return to Florida to enter Rollins. Incidentally, a Wake Forest freshman was among the "nomads."

Another instance: It has been alleged that a small North Carolina college transported an entire football team from foreign parts, and last season created quite a stir in the "Little Five." Clearly it was a financial deal and evidently one that would make Florida reators envious.

The sale is on. The market is open, and the "old grads" are crowding the auctioneer to have their bids registered. If the athlete is not yet ready to be sold, an option is granted, and so the fight continues. Of course the deal is somewhat camouflaged, and the excuse of the purchaser is that he is especially interested in the boy on account of personal reasons and so much, et cetera; but, as it always co-incidentally happens, the boy is an embryonic Red Grange or Steve Oberlander.—Old Gold and Black.

LET THE BOOM DIE

The state papers insist that there is a distinct boom under way to get Mr. Garity, former Wake Forest coach, to come to Chapel Hill and take charge of certain athletic teams here. There is even a strong undercurrent of such a desire evident upon the University campus.

But we have the statement of Dr. Chase that the University is not considering employing the former Princeton star. It is to the credit of the institution that such is true. Certainly the trustees of Wake Forest College would not have called its highly successful coach upon his resignation unless there were serious and grave charges against him.

COLLAR-BONE BROKEN IN BASKETBALL GAME

T. D. O'Quinn Receives Injury in Game Between Ags. and Fuquay

T. D. O'Quinn, junior in the School of Agriculture, is suffering with a broken collar-bone which he received in a basketball game between the Agriculture Club team and Fuquay Springs at Fuquay last Saturday night.

His collar-bone is broken on the right side in two places. This will knock him out of playing any more this season for the Ag. Club. This comes as quite a shock to the Ag. Club, for he was one of the best players of the quint. Last year he led the Agricultural Club to victory in the intramural society basketball in procuring the championship, and so far the team has not lost a game this season.

Although O'Quinn's misfortune has weakened the team considerably, it still has a chance in the race for championship, for it is conceded that Cline, Goodman, and Morrison are players of no mean ability, and they are taking every advantage to practice and keep in shape for the coming encounters.

FRESH TOSSERS TACKLE BABY DEACONS SATURDAY

The Little Deacons of Wake Forest had better watch their step or they will sure go home disappointed after Sammie and his '29s get through with them down at the gym on Saturday night, January 30.

Over at Wake Forest the Baptists made a last-minute rally and overcame a State lead to win by five points. Since then the State lads have improved steadily, and with no low ceiling to interfere should give a good account of themselves and their basket-locating ability.

Goodwin, Young, Waring, and Holden are some of the best freshman players at State in years, and show flashes of real form on the court. In the Duke game they won the reputation of being the best first-year team seen on the Duke floor in years.

BASKETBALL TOURNEY MEETS READY RESPONSE

Eighteen Teams Already Entered, With Many Others Expected in Contest

Fifty answers have already been received in response to the 800 announcements sent out last week by the State College Athletic Department concerning the open basketball tournament to be held in the Frank Thompson Gym the first week in March. Eighteen of the teams responding signified their desire to enter, and many of the others are expected to do so in the near future. Entrance applications do not close until February 26, so Director of Athletics Miller expects at least 35 or 40 teams to enter before that time.

Since this is the first event of the kind ever to be staged in North Carolina, some teams are slow to enter, but such tournaments have been satisfactorily carried out in other states for years and should be a great success here. Mr. Miller says that 75 or more teams should enter regularly after the annual event is inaugurated.

Besides the pleasure and benefit that comes from meeting and playing with boys from many high schools, the prizes and trophies given will make the meet worth while. To the winner of Class A will be given the A. G. Spaulding Championship Cup, which will remain in the possession of the winning team for one year. To the winner and runner-up of each class will be given a silver loving cup, to remain the possession of the team winning it.

Besides these team trophy cups, each member of the winning team of the different groups will be given a gold basketball charm. The individuals on the team coming out next best in each group will be given a silver basketball charm.

Paragraphics

Speaking of complexes, we seem to have a bull-slinging complex on this campus.

The Bachelors Fraternity seems to be as hard to stay in as some of the classrooms around here.

Enfield barber shop has put on a mid-winter sale of hair-cuts. Price is 29 cents, as long as they last.

The real estate boom seems to be contagious. It spread from Hendersonville to New Bern at one jump.

Large fund will be devoted to research work to discover cause of baldness. Just think what a "shine" if they fail to discover a remedy.

Recent report shows that women spend 90 cents of every American dollar. Now, who was it that said two could live as cheaply as one?

College weekly closes an account of meeting led by student by stating it is hoped that an outside speaker may be secured for next meeting.

The stenographers on the campus have formed an "Old Maids' Club." We hear that Virginia Anderson is president and Frankie Bridges is secretary.

Since the debaters in Pullen Literary Society decided that we should not have faculty censorship we have decided that there is some good in debating, after all.

With two vacancies as head coach in North Carolina colleges, just think what a pity it is some of the college presidents could not qualify for the positions and receive the promotions.

According to a lesson sheet handed out by one of our professors, what we need is "Education that will help to maintain health after life." Must be a course in asbestos manufacturing.

The Glee Club and Orchestra gave a good program in Pullen Hall last Friday night. Our students certainly appreciate good music, for each and every one of the forty men there applauded loudly.

John Anderson, our copy editor, thinks there is a distressing need for a phrase to supplant the time-worn "long-felt need." Few stories, he says, come to his desk without expressing a "long-felt need" of some kind.

Those who did not hear Professor Cunningham last Sunday should not fail to read his talk in this issue. He is discussing the biggest problem any college man ever has to deal with—religion. There is much food for thought in his last address.

AUCTIONING ATHLETES

What is to be the future policy of North Carolina colleges regarding the hiring of athletes? Of course, this is a question to be discussed primarily in the dark, because it is generally practiced in such a place. However, since our contemporary, The Old Gold and Black of Wake Forest has broken the ice, we are constrained to shed some light upon the matter.

With all due apologies befitting such an outburst, we are wondering if there is not much house cleaning to be done by the colleges of this state in the matter of hiring high school boys to come to college to play football or baseball. Theoretically, no one receives pay for such service. The general public must not believe that colleges would tolerate such practices. As a matter of fact what happens is—well it doesn't take a detective to find out. Not that the colleges do the hiring, for as it is pointed out by the editorial in Old Gold and Black, it is usually the Alumni who negotiate the purchase. It is possible for the college officials never to know what is going on. Again, it is possible for them to encourage the loyal sons in their grand and noble work for their Alma Mater.

The worst feature of the situation is its almost universal existence. Statements from faculty and students from many North Carolina colleges certainly are enough to give strong support to the belief that many of them have men on their teams who are being remunerated for their ability to play some popular game. The colleges have about reached the place where they must pay a good price or get what is left of the high school material. They find themselves in an endless circle. It is well-nigh impossible for any single college to quit. The only solution for the athletic directors is to keep pace with other schools and outbid them occasionally. Doubtless many of the officials are longing for some solution, but not daring to break away from the established custom.

The only solution we can see for this problem is a concerted effort on the part of all the colleges. The students must let their sentiments be known, as they have already done in a few colleges. Among these are Dartmouth and University of Alabama. With the support of the student bodies, the athletic committees could curb the enthusiasm of the Alumni, if it is this group who are causing the trouble. In the case of a student who was not financially able to pay his way through college, but who could meet certain requirements, let him be given an athletic scholarship. Undesirable as this scheme might be, it would at least eliminate the element of secrecy attached to the old method.

VISITING DANCERS

Is the morale of our dances being lowered? Probably you haven't taken time to think about this question, but the situation is coming to be very complex. Our campus dances have always been of the highest type and have received favorable comment from the administration. Let's keep them that way.

One of our sister institutions has just undergone the misfortune of having its dances barred on account of drunkenness and disorder. Are we to meet the same fate at the hands of others?

At several of our recent dances it has been noted that there were quite a number intoxicated. Four-fifths of these were students of other institutions. They are away from home and we have no jurisdiction over them. They are at will to do as they please. At the last dance there were several fights which took place and other disorders which could be eliminated. This leaves a bad impression on the mothers of the visiting young ladies and on the people as a whole, for the impression is left that they are State College students. Are we going to have State College standards lowered by others? Think it over and let's do something in this connection. J. J. W.

For the next three weeks the editor will be away and the editing will be left up to Wright, Fountain, Chester, Anderson, Long, Potter, Zippy Mack, and such other second-rate help as can be found on the campus.

If the person who wrote the article on "Grading System at State College" will call by the office and give his full name, we will be glad to publish the piece. Anonymous matter will not be published.

HETERO COLORS

M. L. W.

This department has refilled its pipe no less than six times—in the process of getting this excessive energy off the system. With each refilling a change in subject. One of the staff suggests on the side—not where I can hear it—that this column is being used to exercise a given animal of mine. You are the judge.

C. W. B., of the Tar Heel, gives us the following:

"Install phonographs in every classroom, with professors' lectures on the records. Students would like this; you could regulate a phonograph to the proper speed for taking notes; you can't a professor. Of course a phonograph couldn't check up on class attendance, you say, but that could easily be done by means of a time clock—let each student punch it as he came in. And that, it seems, would be standardization in keeping with the mass production sort of education we have to be subjected to today in every institution big enough to 'rate' at all."

Fine! Let's enlarge on the idea and make the phonograph automatically operated, with the entire course of lectures—records automatically fed from a magazine which is filled at the beginning of each term.

Now install a broadcasting set—a receiving set in each student's room. On the scheduled hour just tune in—on your honor for attendance.

The copyright for the name "Dr. Charlie's Country Club" rightfully goes to Joe Johnson, but we can't see why he should be "dunning" for royalties so soon.

Rex Hale admitted that this department caused him to do some free thinking along religious lines, but failed to state how he stood on the subject of "Wimmin." The guess is that a stronger force than this department can bring to bear is operating on the mating instinct of our friend Rex.

Agromeck Yelps

Notice to Rex Hale: Agromeck wishes to sell a half interest in a Packard.

Hereafter the Freshman class will have a prayer meeting after the first fall of snow.

Meredith is now the proud owner of a watch—well, in his own opinion it must be watch-State-College-boys.

In one of our Senior write-ups we find "Absolute knowledge he has none." We can't tell names and stories too.

One night last week our Circulation Manager had a date with a girl with a wooden leg, but he broke it.

Carolina cannot have dances. State College will be in the same fix if we allow Carolina boys to come over and act like they acted Saturday night.

One man on our staff is undecided what to do. He doesn't know whether to get married or buy a Chevrolet coupe.—"Bricks and Applesauce."

As a poet we are a failure. Professor "Zippy Mack" says so. That's all right, Professor; just so you get our meaning.

We don't mind taking quizzes especially, but we do object to our professors getting paid for printing the new material that we furnish.

A tip to our professors: Whenever a student in our class says that he didn't find our lessons hard, you may know that he didn't find them at all.

This snow, snow, beautiful snow, reminds us somewhat of our Editor. He used to be pure as the falling snow, but he has drifted a lot.

It is not our policy to complain, knock, criticize, be a chronic kicker, or create discord in any way. Oh, no! But we wonder why Seniors can't have more 8:00 o'clock classes. We only have six a week at present.

At last we have found an ardent rooter for co-eds. She says that soon we must have a co-ed hall. We wonder if the "a" in the last word was not a misprint. She also praises a "fellow" co-ed for having the courage to face the men's classes alone. We wonder if it wasn't the men who had the courage. She even hopes that the presence of co-eds will give us that "smart" appearance. We wonder what our professors will get paid for then. She hopes that co-eds at State College will increase in geometric ratio. Let us hope it will be a minus inverse ratio.

Student Forum

What a lot of BULL! That is my opinion of the recent articles in The Technician about the activities of Jim Potter and his gang. It's bad enough to hold regular sessions in your rooms, but when it comes to using valuable space in The Technician to disseminate the essence of the proceedings of the so-called "Bachelors' Fraternity," it is time to call a halt. I'd like to know what The Agromeck and Technician will degenerate into at the present rate their respective editors are going?

I want to say in the beginning that I turned down a bid of the radical agent of the Devil, even though I haven't had a date in the two and one-half years I've been here, because I thought it was founded on the wrong principles. I wanted to be free to have a date, in case it should be found necessary, without violating any sacred pledge. Since that time I have observed that every member, even down to Knute Tarleton and Pop Taylor, have consistently violated all of the rules of the fraternity; therefore, I say the whole thing is a bunch of bull.

The thing was organized for the sole purpose of giving publicity to a few students on the campus. Why the editor, a man with the discriminating powers he possesses, should become a member himself, then publish for the world to see the activities of an organization which is as rotten as this one, is more than I can see. We all know that it was the product of Jim Potter's mind, and I caution the freshmen to stay clear of this man.

Evidently the editor is pressed for material to fill the paper. If he is, I would suggest that he find something worth while or leave that part of the paper blank. However, if he persists in printing the proceedings of bull sessions, I would suggest that he use something that is not so radical or individualistic. In this connection I think "The Mysteries of Tom Gentry and the Textile Tower" should be reprinted.

Fellows, I think it is time that the whole student body demand that this type of material be left out of The Technician. If Jim Potter gets sore because he can't have more than four dates a week at Meredith, let him tell it to his fraternity brethren, instead of printing it in the paper. This will give room for material worth reading, instead of causing a lot of it to be thrown in the trash basket for lack of space.

REX HALE.

WANTS MORE SLEEP

To be perfectly frank, there is a continual groaning and growling among a great many students about this business of getting up for a 7:00 o'clock breakfast.

We are the only college in the State that has breakfast so early. Not only do our classes begin earlier, but continue as late in the day as those of any college in this section. Just what is the object in all this early rising?

There is a whole hour between the beginning of breakfast and the beginning of classes. Many of the larger colleges observe a rising hour of 7:45, breakfast at 8:00, and classes at 8:30. Just what do you think of this program?

Not only do a great many students lose quite a bit of sleep over this early rising, but money, also. If a student values sleep more than breakfast, there is nothing to do but pay for an additional meal somewhere other than in the mess hall. Judging by the number of vacant places in the mess hall every morning, we have quite a few students who place a big price on their forty winks.

Would it be worth while to take a straw vote on this question? What do some of the other boys think? Let's hear from you.

C. R. BAUGHAM, Jr.

NEED TELEPHONES

Why is it that the boys of State College have the use of only two phones on the campus? There should be a phone in each large dormitory, to prevent waiting at the Y. M. C. A. This lack of more phones at State College is a long-felt need, and it is becoming more acute as the College grows. We have good heat, light, and water service at State College, but how about our telephone service?

W. P. WATKINS.

WHY THE DARKNESS?

For the last two weeks there has been no light on the campus except on the bridge over the railroad and in front of South Dormitory. Now, why is this? What is the use of having a lot of money invested in a lighting system when only part of the system is in use? Why don't some one go to the seat of the trouble and get our lights burning again? What is the use of lighting the back side of the campus when there are no lights on the front? That would be poor advertisement for our college. If we are going to have a "White Way," why not keep it in shape so we can have lights to see how to avoid the water puddles these snowy nights? Meredith campus is very beautifully lighted, and if we don't mind our boys will be like moths at night. We have a good lighting system, and why not keep it going? A little light about six o'clock every morning would greatly benefit the thirty men that work in the dining hall, for "It is always darkest just before dawn." Just then there are no lights anywhere.

There may be some real remedy for this trouble, and some one should investigate the matter and get our lights burning on the front of our campus at least by next week.

WITH THE COLLEGE EDITORS

IS DR. PASCHAL RIGHT?

In a recent article which was given a prominent place on the sports page of the News and Observer, and which is reprinted in this issue, Dr. G. W. Paschal, formerly chairman of the faculty athletic committee, at Wake Forest, was quoted as saying: "From what I know about the matter, I should judge that not less than $25,000 is spent every year in our colleges and universities in North Carolina in paying the expenses of members of football teams, baseball teams, and basketball teams." IS HE RIGHT?

The practice of hiring athletes has long been carried on extensively by North Carolina colleges and universities. Although we do not primarily attack the administration of athletics in the several colleges in North Carolina, much of the blame can be ascribed to them for the encouragement which they lend to Alumni in their efforts to "Raise the bid" on high school athletes. And so it is that the Alumni of the various institutions comb the nation for athletes, feverishly endeavoring to offer more financial inducements "to swing the dashing halfback or the no-hit pitcher to their respective Alma Maters." Only recently one of the Asheville dailies carried a news article in which there was the report of the visit of a Rollins College athletic official to that city, and the success of the manipu-

DAVIDSON DISPUTE BROUGHT TO END

No More Magazine Until Next Fall; New Editor to Take Hold Then

Davidson, Jan. 18.—The disagreement over the Davidson College magazine editorship between the faculty of Davidson College and the students came to an end when the student council this morning presented to the student-body a motion that the magazine be discontinued for the year. The motion also provided that at the spring elections the nominating committee of the student council present names, and an editor be elected to continue the work next year. After some brief discussion, this motion was voted upon and passed almost unanimously. It was felt that this was the only way to end the matter permanently and alleviate any hard feelings that might have been generated, and the students seemed willing and glad to take this action.

The trouble arose over the publication under a nom de plume of a short story, "Dim Morning," in the Davidson College Magazine, which dealt primarily with the modern girl and boy, giving minute details of a house party the last summer at which necking was promiscuous and which was in reality a petting party instead of a house party. It was the opinion of the faculty that such a story should have been withheld from publication; accordingly they deposed the editor, C. F. Monk. The students then elevated T. C. Barr, exchange editor, and the writer of the story to the editorship, but he was unacceptable to the faculty, which body took action accordingly.—From News and Observer.

RED MUD ADHERES TO STENOGRAPHERS

Find That Meredith Has No Monopoly On Sticky Substance

Breathing hard and perspiring profusely, Misses Dorothy Vann and Minda Smith bravely fought their way to safety and a delayed lunch through a sea of red mud and wheel ruts Monday, January 18, at 1 p. m.

While on their way from the Animal Husbandry building to the mid-day lunch, which they are in the habit of taking at the college dining hall, two pretty young stenographers in the Agricultural School became almost hopelessly "stuck" in the mud.

Due to excavation work which is going on at the site of the new Physics and Electrical Engineering Building, the young ladies decided that, instead of coming around by 1911 Dormitory and Page Hall, as was their custom, they would go across the dam constructed between the old power house and Riddick Field.

The heavily loaded scoops doing excavation work had also been using this route, and this use, coupled with the snows and rains, had rendered the road unfit for any traffic except a parade of the most radical ducks.

At one time, it is reported, the passage of the young ladies became almost as exciting as that of Eliza crossing the river on the floating ice. Miss Vann became imbedded in the mud to such an extent that she lost both her shoes and had to dive for them, coming out with one in each hand. Miss Smith fell into a wheel rut so deeply until barely the top of her red turban could be seen making its way in the general direction of the dining hall, it is alleged.

This incident, it is predicted, will cause quite a bit of envy on the part of the Meredith students, since it is the popular opinion at that institution that it has a monopoly on red mud of tough consistency.

Dorothy Vann is a blonde, a daughter of Dr. R. T. Vann, former president of Meredith College. Dr. Vann is at present secretary of the North Carolina Baptist Educational Association, with headquarters at Raleigh. Minda Smith is a daughter of Robert Smith, prominent farmer and business man of Garner. Her brother, Preston, is a student at Duke University.

PIGGY-WIGGLY OPENS STORE NEAR CAMPUS

The new building, on the college court block, erected by Dean W. C. Riddick, is now nearing completion. One-half of it has been finished and is now occupied by a Piggy Wiggly store.

The other half of the building, which is complete except for the show window, will be occupied by a clothing concern.

POULTRY SCIENCE CLUB HOLDS INTERESTING MEET

On Thursday night, January 21, the Poultry Science Club held a meeting for those who attended the Poultry Short Course. Many of the short-course students attended and gave the speakers their whole attention. At the conclusion of each speech the speaker asked if there was any question anyone wanted to ask.

These practical poultry raisers showed their true interest by the questions they asked. Some of them also took notes on the talks.

Dr. B. F. Kaupp, chairman of the Poultry Department, was the first speaker. He explained how the egg-laying contests were conducted in Canada. He said that the Canadian poultry men recognize grades of birds.

Grade A must lay over 150 eggs in a year.

Grade AA must lay over 225 eggs in a year.

C. P. Fishburne, a member of the Poultry Judging Team that represented State College at New York, was the second speaker. He told of cold storage plants, commission agents, breaking establishments, and the Egg Exchange, visited by the team while in New York.

J. B. Slack, also a member of the Poultry Team, gave a report of the commercial unit, of the Swannanoa Experiment plant.

He reported that a profit of $936.08 was made in 1925 from 500 hens, or a profit of $2.06 per bird.

Prof. W. F. Armstrong next gave some humorous tales of how the boys conducted themselves while in New York. Mr. Keever seemed to like fish, while Knox had a great mania for stamps. But, above all, was Mr. Slack's idea of mailing picture post-cards to the people "back home."

But Professor Armstrong did not remember to ask "Where are we going?"

C. O. Dossin, a graduate student from Connecticut, ended the program with a lantern slide lecture. The slides were scenes of a trip taken by Connecticut people while on a tour of poultry plant inspection through Massachusetts.

FRESHMEN WALK GUTTERS, SAYS COURT OF CUSTOMS

Because the majority of the Freshman Class failed to attend the last meeting of the student-body, the Court of Customs met Wednesday night to pass sentences upon those who failed to attend and who were not excused.

They desire that all Freshmen understand that these sentences apply to them unless they attended the meeting or were excused officially by the court in due session. Following are the decisions of the court: Edict of the Court of Customs issued January 27, 1926:

All Freshmen who did not attend the student-body meeting held in Puller Hall Tuesday, January 19, 1926, will be subject to the following rules, effective Monday, February 1, at 7 a. m., and expiring Thursday, February 4, at 7 p. m.

(Note: Freshmen who have handed excuses to the court and had them passed will be excused. These names are posted in front of Dining Hall.)

1. All Freshmen shall wear a white ribbon tied on the upper part of the left arm. Ribbon to be one inch wide and two feet long.

2. All Freshmen shall walk in gutters and cut all corners square, military fashion.

3. No one wearing the ribbon will be allowed to speak to any person except while indoors.

4. Ribbons will not be worn with military uniform, but uniform will be worn only during the forenoon of Tuesday, February 2, and Thursday, February 4.

Anyone proved guilty of violating these rules will be subject to the action of the Court of Customs.

(Signed) COURT OF CUSTOMS.

SENIORS URGED TO BUY CANES, DERBIES EARLY

At a meeting of the Senior Class a few days before Christmas the motion was carried that seniors should provide themselves with a derby and cane. A few noble supporters of the cause had the nerve to make their appearance a few days later in the prescribed outfit. Since then others have been added to the ranks, but as yet there has not been a sufficient number to put this movement over.

Something had to be done, so the president called another meeting Monday night, January 18, to take definite steps in meeting the occasion. Bill Cohen, manager of "The Leader," brought out some samples of derbies and canes, and a standard cane was selected by the class. All seniors may get these by going to "The Leader," on Wilmington Street, and placing their orders.

NORWOOD ADDRESSES CERAMICS SOCIETY

The American Ceramic Society of North Carolina State College held an important and interesting meeting Tuesday night, in the new Ceramics Building. Even though the paint was not dry, the society wanted to start the New Year right, so they held their first meeting in their new home. After the special business was settled, Professor A. M. Greaves-Walker introduced the speaker of the evening, Mr. Norwood, President of the Norwood Brick and Tile Company of Selma, North Carolina.

Mr. Norwood used for his topic "The Practical Man in Business." He told the society of several mistakes that men just going out in the ceramic business would likely make. Several interesting examples were given, showing the effects of these mistakes on different business concerns. Many helpful suggestions were given for the engineer who is planning to specialize, emphasizing the importance of coming in contact and making friends with the leaders of your chosen profession. Mr. Norwood believes that a man should dream and plan for the future so that he can make preparations which will lead him onward toward his goal.

SENIORS IN VOC.
ED. LEAVE TODAY

Will Spend Three Weeks in Practice Teaching in Agricultural High Schools

Today and tomorrow nineteen Seniors in Vocational Education will leave for three weeks of practice-teaching in the schools of North Carolina. This period of observation and supervised practice is a part of their preparation for teachers of Agriculture.

The men will be scattered from Moxock to Crossnore, and will doubtless find their new work interesting. Prof. L. E. Cook and others of the Vocational Department will visit these men and supervise their work. This period spent away counts as a five-hour course in Education.

Following is a list of the men and the schools they will visit:

- R. E. Black, Dobson; R. B. Harper, Cary; H. W. Taylor, Vass; J. P. Shaw, Troy; E. G. Moore, Granite Falls; R. B. Winchester, Wentworth; C. E. Morrison, Moxock; E. R. Thompson, Crossnore; H. A. NOTED ENGLISHMAN
VISITS DR. BROOKS

Sir Richard Winfree of England, formerly a Member of Parliament and also a member of Lloyd George's cabinet, visited the College Friday.

He was particularly interested in the agriculture of the State, in the work of the Research and Extension departments of State College, and also in the co-operation of the agricultural research and the textile research in the improvement of the cotton fiber. He visited one of the classes in cotton grading.

Sir Richard Winfree is touring the country in connection with the Methodist Brotherhood.

Come to me when winds are asleep,
When the day is done and the blackness sweet
Steals ghostly o'er a secret world,
And the moon in the east lies a golden curl,

And the gardens of Spring give faint perfume,
When dreams are Gods, and Youth is calling,
When days are bright, no shadows falling,
When the heart is full and happy and true
And sings a song of love to you!

BUSINESS CLUB HEARS BROWER

Newest Club Promises to Become One of Livest on the Campus

The State's financial policy was discussed at the regular meeting of the Business Club Tuesday night by Mr. A. S. Brower, purchasing agent for the college.

With a brief review of ancient systems of financing government as a background, Mr. Brower immediately advanced into our present-day method of procedure in buying and collecting funds for the upkeep of the State's general welfare.

Not only was his talk interesting, but facts concerning the State's policy with regard to its main source of revenue were carefully explained. Our only regret is that this talk could not have been heard by the entire student body. The Business Club is yet in its infancy, being organized, with the personal supervision of Prof. Henniger of the Industrial Management Department and Prof. Stretcher of the Business Administration Department, on January 14, for the purpose of creating a closer contact between the students of the two departments, and to promote professional interests of the students by discussing business problems among ourselves and with men of the business world.

The officers elected were as follows: D. O. Price, President; Joe W. Johnson, Vice-President; J. C. Clifford, Secretary and Treas.; J. P. Sedbury, Reporter; H. E. Springer, Chaplain.

PROF. W. H. DARST
INVITED ACT HEAD
FED. SEED SERVICE

Organization is Endeavoring to Protect Farmers Against Mislabeled Seeds

The American Farm Bureau Federation has invited Professor W. H. Darst, of the School of Agriculture of North Carolina State College, to act as executive secretary to the Federated Seed Service for a period of two months. Prof. Darst is interested in this service, as all other new movements concerning seeds. The Federated Seed Service has its headquarters with the American Farm Bureau in Chicago.

The purpose of this service is to insure the distribution of seeds of known origin, variety, and quality to the various state farm bureaus and others.

Agronomists have recognized for a long time the importance of adapted seeds. However, it has only been recently that much importance has been attached to the origin and adaptation of forage crop seeds. Owing to the high price of clover and alfalfa seeds in the United States, many millions of pounds of this seed are imported each year. A large part of this seed is grown in Southern Europe and other regions of mild climate, which makes it of little value when grown in the clover and alfalfa regions of the United States. Experimental results on the comparative value of seeds of different origin show that adapted domestic, clover, and alfalfa seed is far superior to most of the imported seed; also that the origin of domestic grown seed is of considerable importance.

It is well known that much of the imported seed finds its way into the retail trade as domestic grown. It is estimated that seeds imported from Southern Europe, South Africa, Argentina, and the Mediterranean region cost the farmers of the United States at least ten millions of dollars annually.

The Federated Seed Service is endeavoring to protect the farmer, when State and Federal seed laws are not sufficient protection against the mislabeling of seeds as to exact origin and quality. This service has great possibilities for aiding the farmer in securing better seeds. Prof. Darst is making a study of the Federated Seed Service, with the possibility of adapting it in principle to Southern conditions.

REVIEWING OFFICER PLEASED WITH UNIT

Colonel Frank W. Rowell, officer in charge of R. O. T. C. training for the Fourth Corps Area, comprising the eight Southern States of North Carolina, South Carolina, Tennessee, Georgia, Alabama, Florida, Louisiana, and Mississippi, inspected the State College R. O. T. C. Regiment on Friday and Saturday, January 15th and 16th.

Colonel Rowell expressed himself as very much impressed with the fine appearance of the regiment, and with the excellent spirit shown by the R. O. T. C. students.

He met and talked to many of the R. O. T. C. students and was struck with the manly, straightforward, clean-cut class of young men in the State College regiment.

The high state of morale and discipline in the regiment, the excellence of the class-room instruction, the neatness, military bearing, and good average physique of the men in the State College R. O. T. C. Regiment were favorably commented on.

The spirit of co-operation and helpfulness shown by the College authorities and by the College faculty toward the Military Department was found to be exceptionally good.

Colonel Rowell stated in particular that the improvement in the military appearance and condition of uniforms of the regiment was especially noteworthy. —C. C. Early.

C. E. SOCIETY HOLDS SMOKER AND ELECTION

An important meeting of the American Society of Civil Engineers was held in the "Y" last Tuesday night. Officers for the second and third terms were elected. Mr. F. Gregson was chosen president of the Society and he assured the members that he would do all in his power to make the Society even more of a success than it has been heretofore. B. C. Steed was elected vice president, H. C. Tate, secretary and treasurer; K. V. Wainwright, reporter, and all Civils will now hall and give three rousing cheers for our new sergeant-at-arms, Mr. "Bob" W. Luther. "Red" Beam and Henry Weeden will represent the C. E. Society in the Engineering Council.

Cigars and cigarettes in great abundance (for so it might be said) were passed around after the election and matters pertaining to the improvement of the C. E. basketball team were discussed.

Everything looks bright for the remainder of the school year.

ALUMNI NOTES

(Observations and Communications of Zippy Mack)

The games last week with Georgia Tech and Georgia were about the hardest luck affairs we have ever had occasion to note. It wouldn't have been so bad if there had been only one one-point defeat, or if they had not been Conference games. Better luck next time, fellows.

Mrs. Icano Poole announces the marriage of her daughter, Frances Bell, to Mr. Frank Parker, Saturday, January 23, at Clayton N. C. Mr. Parker is a member of the Class of '18. After a bridal trip to Florida, Mr. and Mrs. Parker will make their home in Raleigh.

Mr. and Mrs. B. A. Powell announce the marriage of their daughter, Martha, to Mr. George King Murray, First Baptist Church, Charlotte, N. C., Tuesday, January 19, 1926. Mr. Murray is a member of the Textile Class of '21, and while in College was one of the greatest baseball pitchers State ever had.

Mr. L. D. (Pud) Styron, of the '23 Electricals, was a visitor last weekend. He is now with the Southern Bell Telephone Company, with headquarters at Charlotte.

Mr. T. A. (Tim) White, of the '24 Vocationalists, was in Raleigh recently, attending the convention of Beekeepers.

Mr. J. L. (Highpockets) Andrews, of the '24 Electricals, was in Raleigh Saturday. He is now in the employ of the Carolina Power and Light Company, at their steam plant at Moncure.

Mr. G. V. (George) Holloman, of the '25 Electricals, who has been doing army service at Fort Benning, Ga., has recently made application for air service, and will report for duty in April.

We are indebted to Professor Cotner, of the Agronomy Department, for a very interesting letter written him by R. G. Christopher, an Agronomy student who finished his course at Christmas, and obtained a position on a large farm in Mexico. Mr. Christopher writes of the most interesting conditions existing there, where the operations are carried out on a scale larger than one would easily imagine. It seems that the farm, some 25,000 acres, is operated by an American company, which employs Mexican labor, but depends upon Americans for superintendency. The name by which the company is known as Tlahualilo, Dgo., Mexico.

In his letter Mr. Christopher explains that the superintendents have very little to do. That there is every convenience in the camp where they are stationed. That there are plenty of implements and other equipment, and that there is a Mexican girl who gives instruction in the peculiarities of the Spanish language. Such Utopian conditions sound very different from the rumblings of revolutions which reach us very frequently.

FRESHMEN NUMERALS TO BE AWARDED SOON

Due to an unavoidable delay, the Freshmen football men have not yet received their numerals, but in a few days the '29 will blossom forth in all their splendor. The numerals are of the block letter type and are of a good grade white felt. They will be worn on a red sweater.

The men receiving these numerals will also be permitted to replace the freshman cap with a sailor style crimson hat bearing a small numeral instead of the customary "F."
