Preregistration Period Lasts April 25-May 6

A ten dollar late fee will be assessed all students who fail to preregister a fall schedule before May 6. According to Scheduling Officer Ronald C. Butler, fall preregistration must be taken care of between April 25 and May 6 to avoid the fee. Preregistration for summer sessions will also be taken care of during this period. This is the first time these two activities have been carried on together. Students should obtain a Schedule of Courses booklet from the office of the department in which they are presently enrolled. The booklets will be available beginning Monday. The Schedule of Courses booklet contains complete and explicit instructions for the completion of the preregistration process.

After filling out his Official Preregistration Schedule Request cards with his advisor, the student is to take his approved card to the appropriate offices: 1966 fall semester cards—Registration Office, Room 2, Peele Hall; 1966 summer session cards—Division of Continuing Education, Room 134, 1911 Building. Students who neglect the preregistration-registration process can incur penalties up to $20, according to Butler. The University's late fee policy is summarized as follows: 1. Currently enrolled students who fail to preregister during the Official Preregistration Period (April 25-May 6) and preregister will be charged a $10 late fee. 2. All students who preregister but subsequently fail to complete registration at the Coliseum in September and register late will be charged a $10 late fee. 3. Students who fail to preregister at all will be unable to register. These students will be charged both the $10 fee for failing to preregister and the $10 fee for registering late, or a total of $20.

Campus Chest Carnival

Darts, Pies To Fly

A new approach is being made to the annual Campus Chest Drive. A carnival, sponsored by Alpha Phi Omega, will be the new means of raising funds for Campus Chest.

In the past, money has been collected with a door-to-door drive. In an effort to increase school interest and the funds raised, the idea of a carnival was conceived.

The carnival, to be held on All-Campus-Weekend, April 22-23, will feature approximately 25 booths sponsored by various campus organizations. The booths will be open Friday from 2-9 p.m. and on Saturday from 9 a.m.-9 p.m. They will be located in the vicinity of Mann and Daniels Halls and will include such things as pie-throwing, ducky booths, basketball-shooting booths, and dart tossing.

A photography booth, which will take pictures of a person's head on top of a cutout of James Bond, will be sponsored by Rho Phi Alpha. Watauga Hall will participate with a dart throwing booth. It is rumored that the prize for this is a date.

Although students may be spending their money, they will have a chance to earn it back. Prizes amounting to approximately $2,000 will be given away by the various booths. The medium of exchange for the carnival will be "wusters." These are brass nuts about as large as a silver dollar, and can be purchased at an exchange booth for five and fifteen cents.

"Wusters" will have the emblem of Campus Chest imprinted on them. "Their purpose is to make people realize to the Catherine Zeek Caldwell Fund and the Student Emergency Fund. World University Service is a "cooperative effort of over fifty countries." It aids various universities and students throughout the world. An example of how far money will go in this organization is illustrated by the fact that 25 cents will buy three meals a day for a student in Florida College in Greece. The Raleigh United Fund contributes to organizations located in Raleigh like the Salvation Army, Family Service Society, Child Care Service, and Boy Scouts. The Student Emergency Fund provides students with funds when needed. They will loan up to $50 for 30 days. The Catherine Zeek Caldwell Fund provides $100-$200 for deserving and capable international students. "We hope that the carnival will be successful, and we hope to continue it in following years," stated Wray. An easy way to spend money for a good cause has been provided. Take advantage of it.

Clark To Speak At Awards Program

Dr. Chester W. Clark, Vice President for Research at the Research Triangle Institute, will be guest speaker at The Second Annual Awards Convocation of the School of Engineering on April 19.

An informal coffee gathering will open the meeting at 3:30 p.m., followed by the main program at 4 p.m. The purpose of the Awards Convocation is to reward three engineering seniors who have excelled in leadership and scholarship. This year's program will also recognize outstanding alumni of the School of Engineering.

Often called the "soldier scientist," Dr. Clark has spent most of his adult life in research, teaching, and in directing research. Dr. Clark previously had achieved the rank of Major General in the United States Army before his retirement on May 31, 1965. Prior to his last assignment, he was Director of Army Research for the U. S. Army.

In his present position, he has administrative responsibility for research in physical sciences, mathematics, life sciences, environmental sciences, behavioral sciences, and operations research. His personal research is in the areas of low temperature physics and solid state physics.

A native of San Francisco, and a Master's degree in Chemistry from the University of California. He was later awarded a Ph.D. in Physics from the University of Leiden in the Netherlands.

The remainder will be given to Campus Chest Fund. The money given to the Campus Chest Fund will go to four organizations. Fifty per cent will go off campus to Raleigh United Fund and the World University Service. The other half will be given

Cheerleading Tryouts To Be Held Next Week

Tryouts for all 12 positions on the Varsity cheerleading squad will be held Thursday, April 21. The tryouts are being held this spring instead of next fall, and there are openings for seven boys and five girls. Anyone wishing to be eligible for the positions is asked to sign up at the Erdahl-Cloyd Information Desk by April 18 and to attend a compulsory meeting Tuesday, April 19, at 5 p.m. in Riddick Stadium. No experience is required. Applicants must, however, have at least a 2.0 average and not be on social or academic probation. Judging at the tryouts will be a faculty advisor, the Dean of Women, two members of the athletic staff, two P. E. staffers, and Tommy Stafford of Student Activities. Judging will be on the basis of coordination, voice, appearance, and enthusiasm.

This past year, the Varsity cheerleaders were able to attend all football games and plans are for them to do the same next fall. This includes the Michigan State game. The cheerers are also to attend all home and big four basketball games and, when possible, nearby away games. Usually travel expenses and lodging, when out of town, are paid by Student Government appropriations and through the Athletic Department. Those selected for the positions will receive varsity letter blazers.

Poet Dicky To Read On Circuit

On Monday at 8 p.m., one American poet, James Dickey, will read from his poetry in the of the best-known of young Erdahl-Cloyd Union. The reading is the second of the season sponsored by the North Carolina Poetry Circuit and the English Department at State and is free to the public.

Mr. Dickey has received a number of awards for his books of poetry. The most recent of these is the National Book Award for the year's most distinguished book of poetry for his book, Buckdancer's Choice. Having been poet-in-residence at a number of colleges, Mr. Dickey has been honored by being chosen poetry consultant to the Library of Congress for 1966-67.

Campus Landscaping Program Includes Six Thousand Azaleas

The purpose of the late fees is to encourage students to preregister and register during the officially scheduled times," explained Butler. He emphasized that the students, the departments, and the scheduling office would all benefit if everyone completed these activities on time. Students would save time and receive workable schedules, departments would know what courses to teach and the scheduling office would have a much greater chance of giving each student all the courses he requested, according to Butler.

Nearly 1000 students failed to preregister and/or register last semester, Butler indicated. "A computer scheduling system such as ours is of little value when the plans of such a large number of students are unknown," Butler pointed out.

From Modern Painting To Steel Sculpture Student Art Show Opens

Selected paintings, sculptures, and prints from the Fourth Annual Student Art Competition will be displayed in the Erdahl-Cloyd Union Sunday, April 17 through May 4. Twenty colleges and universities of North Carolina participated in the competition, sponsored by the Gallery Committee of the Union. There were 318 entrants representing almost 600 pieces of work. Sixty-six pieces of art were selected for the exhibit.

The show was juried by Department at the University of Chattanooga. He received his B.F.A. and M.F.A. from the University of Georgia and has studied at American University and Phillips Memorial Gallery.

The competition included four categories: painting, sculpture, drawings, and prints. There were four awards presented in each category and honorable mention at the discretion of the jury.

The winners of the art competition will receive their awards at a coffee hour in the Union at 3 p.m. Sunday. First place winners in each category are: painting, Dick Mandell, UNCC senior; "Astranged"—an oil polymer; sculpture, Tom Chipley, State senior; "West Coast Whale"—steel and wood; print, Barbara Satterfield, UNGC junior. Suggestions are needed for a gift from the class of '66 to State. Any ideas may be sent to: Stuart Chaney, Box 15043, N.C.S.U. A campus improvement project and the idea of putting a wolf's head in the center of the basketball court in the Coliseum have been considered.

Campus Landscaping Program Includes Six Thousand Azaleas

By Tom Whitton

Contrary to popular belief, the seemingly random movement of plants from one end of the campus to the other and back again within a period of two years or so does have a purpose. The annual campus landscaping is proceeding apace and the groundskeepers have been hard at work during the early months planting small trees, shrubs and plants at various places around the campus. According to Harold G. Bolick, Superintendent of grounds, the landscaping is being done to position the newly planted greenery at strategic places about the campus in order to cut down on the number of "footpaths" worn into the ground by students. The paths are especially noticeable in and around the area behind Winston and Tompkins Halls. An extremely dry fall and winter caused delays in the setting out of many small shrubs and trees since the transplanting of these larger plants depends to a large extent upon the condition of the soil, with special attention being paid to moisture content, said Bolick. Only recently have conditions improved to the point where plants can be moved without fear of their destruction. The landscaping, normally a year-round operation, has been delayed approximately two months. Most of the transplanting that has occurred so far this year has become necessary in order to shift material from areas which are slated as future construction sites, such as the area immediately in front of Tucker and Owen Dorms and behind the Erdahl-Cloyd Union. To supplement the transplanted material the Physical Plant raises its own plants from seedlings in a small greenhouse adjacent to the baseball field. Larger trees are procured from the Horticulture Laboratories when their usefulness as experimental specimens has diminished. This year they are being used to replace the unusual number of trees stricken with Dutch Elm Disease. Bolick estimates that twelve large shade trees have been lost as a result of this current epidemic. Treatment of trees that can still be saved is continuing without interruption.

Proof that the staff of about 50 groundskeepers do keep busy is evident by the monthly statement concerning work that has been done on the campus. The statement lists 284 trees and shrubs transplanted out of construction limits in front of Tucker and Owen, the setting out of five to 6,000 azaleas at various spots about the campus and the planting of some 3,500 pine seedlings. Spivak Cuts

A record featuring the artistry of Raul Spivak, State's musician-in residence, is now on advance sale to students.

The record is entitled, "Piano Favorites," and has selections by Handel, Scarlatti, Brahms, Schumann, Mendelssohn, Chopin, Liszt, Rachmaninoff, Prokofiev, and artists from Latin-America and Spain: Villalobos, Aguirre, Albeniz, Granados, and de Falla.

The Music Department is putting the record on advance sale as a service to the University and at no profit. No extra copies will be made, so only those placing advance orders will be able to obtain the record.

The cost of each high fidelity record is $3.00. Anyone interested in obtaining one of these records should send a check for the amount made out to the Music Department. No orders will be accepted after April 29. Additional information may be obtained by contacting the Music Department of North Carolina State University, 205 King Building, 755-2401.

Riesman McKenna Articles Are Included In 'Windhover'

After seven months of poring over selections, chasing down contributors, tearing hair over unmet deadlines, and chasing down a lost manuscript, the Third Edition of The Windhover, State's literary magazine, has returned from press and is now being distributed.

Editor Al Fuqua cites two special selections in this edition. One is an excerpt from an unfinished novel, "Sons of Wrath," on which Richard McKenna was working when he died. The other is David Riesman's "The Coming Victory of the Academic," a reprint of a lecture Riesman gave as part of the Contemporary Scene lecture series last fall in the Union.

Two contributions to this issue are winners of $50 prize money. Last fall, the staff sponsored the competition for the best short story and for the best poem contributed by a student. Joel Jackson's "to helen" won the poetry division classification and Tim Brannan's "A Light in the Bower" won in the short story division.

Staff members for this edition include Tina Warthen, present poetry editor and next ditional copies are being sold to the public at the North Carolina Museum of Art bookstore.

According to Miss Warthen, new editor, plans for the fourth edition next year include a general expansion of the staff to include more student participation and an expansion of the copy to include more student work.

The Windhover is supported as a student publication by the Board of Publications. All support for the magazine comes from student funds. Staff positions are open to all students.

IDC, Union To Reopen Club

The Inter-Dormitory Council and the Erdahl-Cloyd Union will re-open the Starlight Club, State's own night club, Saturday night.

Spaghetti buffet will be served in the catering rooms next to the Ballroom from 6-8 p.m.—all the spaghetti you can eat for 60 cents a person. Taped music will be provided. The Playboys Combo will begin playing at 8 p.m., and waiter service will be provided at the tables in the ballroom until midnight. The Starlight Club is open only to students and their dates or spouses. If attendance is good at this opening, the Starlight Club will be open more next year, according to Barbara Miller, chairman of the Union Dance Committee.

INDIVIDUAL COMPETITION

Twenty-four trophies will be awarded to winners of the individual competition in seven sports to be held on April 27 and 28. In addition to trophies, champions will have their pictures placed on the Intramural Board of Champions at Carmichael Gymnasium.

The events in the competition are table tennis, badminton, tennis, horseshoes, fencing (for both men and women), archery, and riflery.

These events are a continuation of the successful individual tournaments held earlier this spring.

Deadline for all entries is April 22, and applications should be made at the Intramural Office, except for archery and riflery. For these two report to the archery and rifle ranges, respectively.

Pairings will be announced on Monday, April 25, and the competition will be held on April 27 and 28. In fencing the men will compete on the 27th and the women on the 28th.

Members of the Big "4" teams will be selected from the teams entered in the individual championships, and these people will go to Wake Forest on May 4, for the annual intercollegiate event to represent State.

HOUSEKEEPING

Pairings for the open squash and handball tournaments can be picked up at the Intramural

Golf pairings for the tournament are also ready.

SOFTBALL

Slow pitch softball is now well underway, and the leaders are beginning to become evident.

The dorms sport undefeated teams in all four sections, with Alexander holding the best record at 4-0. Lee #2, Syme, Bragaw S #2, and Bragaw N #2 all have three wins to no losses. The fraternities have only one all-winning team, Sigma Chi. In Open League play the Majors and Lee #1 hold 4-0 records, and Animal Science has won all three of its games.

SPORTSCRAPS

by Harry Eagar

Our favorite time of the year is here. In spite of exams and spring fever Big Four Day will result in another overwhelming victory for the Big Red and that makes us happy.

Of all the sports at State Big Four Day is best because it gives everyone a chance to show what he can do against men from Duke, Carolina, and Wake Forest and prove Statemen are better. And that's fine. Great. Oh! Rapture unbearable!

Thirty-five weeks a year the students watch well-muscled, highly-trained athletes carry on for dear old alma mater, do or die, etc. That's nice but if you want anything right you have to do it yourself.

That goes double this year if you (caught you looking wonderingly at your beer gut? Guys from the other schools have 'em too) want to prove that chasing cows, or coeds, or working a slipstick makes you (beer gut and all) better than anybody. And Carolina, Duke, and Wake Forest have declared all out war on State's bid for a sixth consecutive Big Four win.

By now you may have (Continued on page 4)

MILITARY COMMAND TECHNOLOGY

MITRE is chief technical advisor and systems engineer to the Air Force Electronic Systems Division of the Air Force Systems Command. In this capacity, we design and develop such global, computer-based systems as the NORAD Combat Operation Center and the Back-Up Interceptor Control System. Other commitments: development of a future air traffic control system and supporting the Defense Communications Agency in the development of the National Military Command System. We call this Military Command Technology.

For the young systems engineer, this is uniquely rewarding work. You associate with the top men in your field. You work in an atmosphere that allows you to extend your capabilities professionally and academically.

At MITRE, men trained in single disciplines are encouraged to grow beyond their original fields of interest. Systems designers learn to work from an increasingly broad base.

You may work in such diverse areas as information theory, computer design, display techniques and propagation. You may analyze. You may synthesize. You may deal with systems or individual components. At the highest levels you may have to consider political, economic and social factors ... as well as the available and predictable technology.

If you have a B.S., M.S., or Ph.D. in Electrical Engineering, Physics, or Mathematics and want more information regarding opportunities at MITRE, call collect, James L. Mitchell To Work With Jim Gardner

Student Government President Jackie Mitchell will work with Republican Congressional Candidate James Gardner this summer.

Mitchell will participate in Gardner's effort to unseat the 4th District Democratic incumbent, Harold Cooley. He will head Gardner's program to reach college students.

Corresponding throughout the year with Gardner, Mitchell said that about three weeks ago he received a letter from Gardner inviting him to work on the campaign staff.

Mitchell will not start to work with Gardner until this summer. He said he refrained from becoming involved sooner because of his position as SG President.

Next fall Mitchell plans to go to UNC to work on a Master of Business Administration degree at UNC.

Shade Trees Are Dying Of Fungus

In addition to the planting that goes on, the Physical Plant is also responsible for the maintenance and replacement of walkways and sidewalks about the campus. All walkways made of brick were laid after 1958, the year the Bolick assumed his present position.

He has advocated the use of brick in the laying of walks for several reasons, among them being that they can be set closer to trees without fear of the tree being harmed, since water can soak through the walk to the roots. In the same vein, liquid fertilizer need only be sprayed along the walk in order to nourish the trees. Electrical conduit and water pipes are routed beneath the walks at several locations and when it becomes necessary to repair or replace wiring or plumbing, sections of brick walk can be taken up and later replaced without creating a "patchwork" effect that is seen with concrete and asphalt.

Since January, the Physical Plant has laid approximately 850 feet of new brick walkways on the campus.

When asked about the proposed construction and landscaping behind the Union, Bolick mentioned that after all plumbing and electrical wiring had been lowered, work that is now taking place and contracts for the grading of the area will be let and construction will proceed throughout the summer under the guidance of the Physical Plant.

Bolick stressed that, except for the grading and earthmoving, all work will be done by the Physical Plant and financed by the University. Tentative plans call for 130,000 feet of paved area between the Union and Harrelson, with landscaping in front of Williams Hall and Gardner Hall.

Bolick is a graduate of State in Landscape Architecture, receiving his degree in 1933. "At that time, we only had mud holes to run and jump across." A little cooperation by the student body in regards to remaining on the walkways, he suggested, would make his job much easier and benefit everybody.

SOPHOMORE MEN:

Want to be a leader and double your chances for success in life? You can, by earning both a degree and an Army officer's commission at the same time... even though you may have completed your training in your first two years.

Through a new program, you can be commissioned as a Second Lieutenant after taking two years of Army ROTC training while you complete your studies for a college degree. You can qualify for this program by attending a special six-week summer training camp after your sophomore year and then completing the ROTC Advanced Course in your junior and senior years of college.

Here's what ROTC training and an officer's commission will do for you:

- It will qualify you to fulfill your military obligation as an officer.
- You will learn to organize, motivate, and lead others.
- You will develop leadership qualities that many college men miss—self-discipline, physical stamina, poise, bearing, the acceptance of responsibility and other qualities that contribute to success in either a civilian or military career.
- You will receive $40 per month during your junior and senior years, plus pay and mileage for summer training.

The training and experience you will receive through Army ROTC will pay off for the rest of your life. A decision to take advantage of this new program could be one of the most important you will ever make.

You owe it to yourself to investigate this new important opportunity.

For complete information on the new Two-Year Army ROTC Program see the Professor of Military Science on campus.
