University celebrates its centennial Tuesday

Century II Campaign announced to help nation's problems

By David Cartrette
Staff Writer

Dignitaries from N.C. State's past and present gathered in the Mary E. Yarbrough Court to celebrate the university's 100th birthday Tuesday evening.

Distinguished guests included John Caldwell, who was chancellor of NCSU for 35 years, Lewis Wooten, an alumnus from the class of 1917, former Gov. James Hunt and former Lt. Gov. Robert Jordan.

"No institution has meant more to the community than NCSU," said John Kanipe, NCSU's vice chancellor for development, in the ceremony's opening speech. Rather than concentrating on the past, the Kanipe and the other speakers concentrated on the future and what it holds for NCSU.

"NCSU has been intent on building for the future," said John Gregg, chairman of the Board of Trustees. "State has created better lives for North Carolina and the United States. We have faced our challenges and met them."

Larry Monteith, interim chancellor, posed the question "Have we really changed? The principles that governed us 100 years ago still govern us today. These principles are to provide a liberal education to the industrial class."

"NCSU is truly a child of the 20th century," said former UNC-System president William Friday. He also is president of the North Carolina State Foundation, Inc. "We are attached to the land, which is a noble tradition on which a school can be based," he said.

"We must press forward to be at the forefront of a volatile world and reaffirm ourselves to cope with the problems of it," he added.

James Hackney, of the NCSU Development Board Executive Committee, challenged the faculty and students of NCSU to help solve the problems of a changing world.

He announced the Century II campaign, a five-year, $200 million effort by NCSU to help alleviate national problems, such as a lack of scientists, engineers, and qualified teachers.

"Our history depends on our future. And our future is the Century II Campaign," said Hackney.

Prior to the speeches, the attending guests had a buffet supper, complete with birthday cake.

The cake was baked in the shape of the main entry to Holladay Hall.

This shape is the symbol of the Century II Campaign.

The varsity glee club and jazz ensemble led the celebrants in a rousing rendition of "Happy Birthday" to NCSU. The officials and guests present said they were happy to be there.

"I am proud to be a part of the celebration," said Student Body President Brian Nixon. "Hopefully the next hundred years will be as prosperous."

"Few institutions have meant as much to any state as has NCSU," said Jordan. "The flexibility of NCSU to meet the changes of North Carolina makes me proud. I am also proud to call North Carolina State University my alma mater."

"We, as a university, are an important organ to society," said Caldwell. "We have shaped the thinking of thousands of young people, and thus the world."

Monteith is ready for the challenge

Interim chancellor's first days are hectic

By Wade Babcock
News Editor

His first two days have been hectic, but Larry Monteith said on Tuesday he is up to the challenge of taking over as N.C. State's interim chancellor.

"I like a challenge," he said. "You take on a job for the interest, the demand, and the personal reward. Enjoying your work is essential."

Monteith is replacing Bruce Poulton, who served his last day as chancellor Saturday after resigning in the wake of allegations of wrongdoing and corruption in the Wolfpack athletics program. NCSU is currently under investigation by the NCAA.

Monteith said he spent Monday setting priorities and getting organized. He said he looks forward to his new job but is still discovering what exactly it is.

The interim chancellor said he is not going to embark on any major institutional changes, but "there are lots of important things that need attention. They can't wait until the permanent chancellor takes office."

"The projects ahead of him are large and diverse, he said.

"I'll set some priorities and work on the important ones. Big issues take a year, maybe two, sometimes longer."

"I'll perform the best I can."

He said UNC System President C.D. Spangler gave him two charges.

One is to separate the athletics director's position from a coach's job and the other was to improve the academic standing of N.C. State's students.

Monteith said that to bolster the university's academic standing further, he first has to determine what is fair to all students.

"How many groups (of students) do you classify?" he asked. "NCSU is a challenging academic experience. Most students immediately face demanding courses."

Monteith extolled the virtues of the "flexible policy" NCSU has on admissions and courses within its 10 colleges and schools.

"It could encourage abuse of the system, but with the right people, associate deans and others, firmly overseeing the system with a commitment to academic integrity, it works and works well," he said.

However he added, "Students and faculty, if they abuse or misuse the system, must be held accountable. Our credibility is maintained at the highest level."

He compared the problems of credibility to that of an employee taking a pen from the office to their home. He said taking the pen may seem trivial, but "it establishes your personal level of integrity."

Monteith is personally dedicated to education and will stress its advancement during his term.

"I have a real sense of the academic responsibilities," he said.

"The basic reason the university exists is to teach classes and award degrees," said Monteith. He said that is his philosophy and the way he will view his job as chancellor.

Monteith is congenial and willing to talk with people. He said one of his reasons for working in a university setting is its unique ability to encourage openness in exchanging ideas.

"I'm driven to be frank. I much prefer the open exchange situation," he said.

Monteith has served as the dean of the College of Engineering for nine years. However, he said he would not return as engineering dean after a permanent chancellor takes office.

"The university is best served if the leadership is refreshed," he said. "My personal motivations were not on a level I was pleased with."

He said new people coming in with new ideas help the university to grow more than the ideas of people who may be stagnating in their positions.

Monteith said he's still a boy from the mountains of western North Carolina and he is not used to the attention that has been suddenly thrust upon him.

"Now there's considerable public interest in what I do," he said. "When I was dean, I didn't get this much attention."

Monteith said he thinks a chancellor must be in charge.

"What I do, I will be held accountable for. The final accountability will be mine."

I brought my own shade

Junior Dave Graybeal seeks shelter from the sun on the Brickyard Monday. When the rain stopped on Monday, the sun came out and brought with it some beautiful blue skies.

The rest of the week should remain sunny with the rains returning Saturday just in time for this weekend's football match-up pitting N.C. State against Middle Tennessee State.

Deck opening postponed again

By David J. Forrest
Staff Writer

The opening of the Dan Allen Drive Parking Deck, scheduled for Thursday, has been delayed once again.

Officials said Tuesday the deck was delayed because of bad weather, unexpected labor problems, poor access to the construction site and limited storage space on the site.

"We don't know exactly when the deck will be completed, but the way things are looking, it, more than likely, will not be in the month of October," said Jorge Quintal, N.C. State's building systems engineer.

"Unless we have a hurricane pass through, we're looking at 100 percent completion on Nov. 1," said Richard McNeill, job superintendent of the contractor, Metric Constructors, Inc.

The $8.9 million structure was begun on July 15, 1988 with an estimated completion date of Aug. 14, 1989. Because of inclement weather, the date was postponed to Oct. 5.

As of Tuesday evening, stairwells had not yet been completed, fire alarms had not been installed, guard rails had not all been attached, and the structure had not been inspected and approved by insurance inspectors. Also, the glass tiles are still being put in, and hand rails for the stairwells had not come in.

McNeill could give no concrete reasons for the month-and-a-half delay.

"We've had a number of set-backs which have slowed us down," he said. "A few minor factors have come into play. Obviously, weather has been a problem and, because of the location, there is poor access to the site and limited storage. We have also had a few labor problems nagging us but we really have not had any major problems."

He said a shortage of qualified construction workers in the Raleigh area hindered the job.

Upon completion and occupation of the parking deck, the 478 people who purchased Dan Allen Drive Parking Deck

(DD) stickers will be refunded $3 for each month completion was delayed.

These stickers are also valid in C/R, F and Q spaces; they are not valid in N, C, S, or R lots.

Until the deck is completed, no more permits will be sold for on-campus parking.

When the parking structure is completed, it should ease NCSU's parking woes. It will house 1,228 spaces. Fifty percent of the spaces will be for faculty and staff, 30 percent for residents and 20 percent for commuting students.

The spaces will be oversold 25 percent for commuters and 15 percent for faculty and staff. They will not be oversold for residents.

One hundred spaces will be reserved for people without stickers on a "variable time/rate" basis. They will cost $1.25 for one hour and 50 cents for each additional hour, with a $5 daily maximum.

Stickers for the deck will be sold when it is finished.

Gates Avenue closing for Student Center Annex work

Cates Avenue, from Dan Allen Drive to Tucker Residence Hall, will be closed to vehicular traffic for four weeks beginning Friday.

Officials at N.C. State's Division of Transportation said Tuesday the road will be closed because underground electrical cables will have to be rerouted so piles can be driven for construction of the new Student Center Annex to be built on Harris Field.

The road is scheduled to reopen Nov. 3.

People who need to drive across South Campus should use Facette and Morrill Drives until Cates Avenue reopens.

Truman Scholarship for qualified sophomores

By Pat Lee

Special to Technician

N.C. State sophomores interested in a career in government service at the federal, state or local level are invited to apply for a 1990 Harry S Truman Scholarship.

In April 1990, the Harry S Truman Foundation will award 92 scholarships nationally. NCSU can nominate three students for the competition. The scholarship covers eligible educational expenses up to $7,000 per year for the junior and senior year plus two years of graduate study.

To be eligible, students must be full-time sophomores working toward or planning to pursue a baccalaureate program, have a B average or equivalent, stand in the upper fourth of their class, and be a U.S. citizen or U.S. national heading toward a career in government.

Students can come from a variety of majors. History, political science, public administration, economics and finance or international relations majors are eligible, as are agriculture, chemistry, engineering, environmental studies, forestry, foreign languages, mathematics, computer science and public health/medicine majors.

Sophomores interested in being considered for this scholarship need to act immediately. They should call Erika Fairchild at 737-2481 or stop by her office at 217 Caldwell Hall. They can also contact Pat Lee at 737-3671 or stop by Room 2118 of the Student Services Center.

Paperwork and an interest statement must be submitted to Fairchild by Oct. 9.

At IBM, outstanding people don't stand still.

So you always thought IBMers were a bunch of blue striped suits with buttoned down minds. Nothing could be further from the truth.

They're movers and shakers. Energetic, ambitious and smart. People who know where they're going and get there fast. People with ideas who choose IBM because they know their ideas will be heard and put into action.

That's right. The winds of change are sweeping the vast corporate infrastructure of IBM. Today's IBM is a leaner, more streamlined operation that reacts more quickly. We've broken through the layers of bureaucracy to create a company that takes more risks... is closer to the customer... and encourages IBMers to speak up, challenge old ways of thinking and initiate new ideas.

This is not a company that simply rests on its past successes. We're sharing our blueprint for the future with both our staff and competitors.

We've become more robust, expanding with the marketplace... and even developing products that easily hook up with systems outside the IBM environment.

"I see unlimited opportunities for advancement at IBM... both in the technical and managerial ranks. We have our share of technical challenges and our share of the right people to meet them. Professionals who are committed to quality and excellence in all they do. And by the way, they know how to have fun too."

After all, we're the worldwide leader in communications. And with us communication begins right here. Where individuality is prized. Diversity applauded. And management is open-minded, progressive and responsive.

At IBM, you'll be at the heart of the information explosion. Right from the start you'll get all the responsibility you can handle. Work in small project teams with the newest computer-aided equipment. Involved in technologies that range from image processing to laser-fiber optics... from robotics and computer controlled

"At IBM I can be a systems engineer, marketing representative, education instructor, programmer, engineer, specialist or generalist... all with the same company. Where the people are high achievers with big dreams and tons of enthusiasm. Where not one day is the same as the next. I would not change it for anything in the world."

instrumentation to electron-beam technology and satellite transmission. Applying the latest information technologies... and working alongside some of the industry's brightest programmers, engineers and scientists in all fields.

You'll earn early recognition and have the opportunity for exposure to multiple projects. At IBM, no idea is too small to reach management's ear and get quick response.

You'll have plenty of room to grow because we're a company that promotes from within. IBMers have the option to move from one area to another... to relocate to a variety of sites... and to follow a career track along purely technical lines or into management. All the while moving up just as fast and as far as your talent will take you.

"The thing that gets me going the most is the possibilities, the endless possibilities. This is a company where I can, within reason, call my own shots about my future. If I want to develop a career as a top-level IBM manager, I can do that. If I want to become an IBM Fellow eventually, I can make that happen too. Career development at IBM is primarily the responsibility of the individual; the manager is there to facilitate and counsel. Having that degree of control over my own future career is exciting."

Your education doesn't end when you get a job at IBM. It just begins. Our training facilities are tops. And at every location, we sponsor numerous workshops, seminars, symposiums and lectures to keep you technologically fit. In addition, IBMers are encouraged to avail themselves of a wide variety of educational programs to enhance their present job performance, meet future challenges and achieve their long-range career goals.

At IBM, employees can take advantage of both general and job-specific training that include Graduate Work-Study, Resident Study, Special Studies Programs and Technical Sabbaticals which afford

"The most exciting thing about IBM is that we're trying to be a different company than we were ten years ago, or even last year. There are opportunities for making change happen. I've had both increasing responsibility and increasing freedom as the years progressed, in an increasing variety of roles."

technical leaders the opportunity to take on temporary assignments within or outside IBM.

And there's more. IBM encourages its family of professionals to exceed their own expectations. At all levels, IBMers may receive recognition and financial awards for outstanding contribution, innovation and technical achievement. Recognition coupled with the prestige of meeting and exceeding unusual challenges keep both IBM and its people growing and moving ahead.

Never has there been a more exciting time to join IBM. Every day we're growing and changing, keeping ahead of the most rapid technological changes. And this means greater challenge and fast-paced career mobility for you in development, programming, research, manufacturing or marketing. If you want to experience that sense of accomplishment and self-fulfillment that sparks new ideas and keeps you growing, step into IBM. You and your career will never stand still.

Cosby Show to hit Dean Dome Friday

By Dan Pawlowski
Entertainment Editor

Tune in this week for a "double Billing" of "The Cosby Show." Tomorrow night on NBC, Cosby and his television family will once again entertain American viewers. Friday night in Chapel Hill's Dean E. Smith Center, he'll crack up the Triangle.

Cosby's comedic genius had its early beginnings in a Philadelphia ghetto. And since then, the 52-year-old performer has had his hands in many different medians.

For the past four years the actor's television show, "The Cosby Show," has held the number one spot and is currently going strong in its fifth season. Cosby returned to the television screen after an eight-year hiatus, and his return almost instantly placed NBC on top of prime-time programming.

The entertainer's accomplishments are almost infinite. In 1986, during one of Cosby's recent tours, he broke Radio City Music Hall's 53-year-old attendance record. In 1987, Cosby's wife, Camille, taped a home-video cassette fittingly named, "Bill Cosby 49." Expectantly, the video's sales were in the hundreds of thousands.

Among other successes, his "Those of You With or Without Children, You'll Understand" LP has gone gold and sales are rapidly pushing toward platinum status. This album has shocked music critics with its popularity for a comedy album.

The artist's talents are seen in print as well. For example, "Fatherhood," released in 1986, was the fastest selling hardback of all time. This book was soon followed up with "Time Flies," which sold nearly two million copies.

In 1989, "Love and Marriage" was released. And the author's most recent work has become a huge hit in large part due to its down-to-earth life experiences. The book covers the stages of romances from first love to marriage. All of which are told in a light tone.

Cosby's comedic career has spanned some 25 years. Like comedians of today, Cosby's beginning was in stand-up. His routine was such a success that it soon was put on vinyl. Presently, the artist holds the status of being the comedian on records of all time. To his discography are 21 albums.

The transition from vinyl to TV was made on the show "I Spy" and "The Bill Cosby Show" (the original version). He made his movie debut in "Man and Boy," which was a timepiece set in the post-Civil War era. Shortly after these were starring roles in "Hickey and Boggs," "Uptown Saturday Night" and "Let's Do It Again." One of Cosby's recent roles in motion pictures was in the flop "Leonard Part VI."

This versatile entertainer's accomplishments are too numerous to list. But one sure bet is to catch the performer's stand-up routine this weekend.

Griffith shows who's the boss in 'Working Girl'

By Marci Bernstein
Staff writer

"Working Girl"

Tess McGill wants a change from her boring life filled with a dull job and low pay. Tess, played by Melanie Griffith, comes up with an idea that's sure to get attention and win her a promotion. But her boss, Katherine Parker (Sigourney Weaver) steals Tess' plan. So Tess steals Katherine's boyfriend. A complicated business deal turns into all-out corporate war in this Oscar-winning comedy. Also starring Harrison Ford (this is a far cry from Indiana Jones). Due out on videocassette tomorrow.

"The Dream Team"

Four mental patients from New Jersey find themselves free in New York City. After being separated from their therapist on the way to a baseball game, the group discovers the world is crazier than they are. The 'team' is made up of a chronic liar with a terrible temper (Michael Keaton), a former postal inspector with a doctor phobia (Christopher Lloyd), a former executive with a Christ complex (Peter Boyle) and a couch potato with a baseball complex (Stephen Furst). They get into some bizarre situations as they discover that insanity is only a state of mind — especially in New York City. This crazy comedy will be available on videocassette tomorrow.

"Major League"

The new owner of the Cleveland Indians wants the team to finish the season in last place. This isn't too tough since the Indians have never been winners. The owner, however, has a devious plan to move the team to Florida. Now that's not right. Three loser-players are recruited to ensure the worst season for the team yet. A punk pitcher, a womanizing catcher and a pretty-boy third baseman — sure to cause disaster for the Indians — miraculously come together and begin to catch "panama fever." Starring Charlie Sheen and Tom Berenger. Check out this comedy tomorrow on videocassette to see if the Cleveland Indians can rescue themselves from being transplanted to Florida.

"Fright Night Part II"

This sequel to — yes, you guessed it, — "Fright Night," stars Roddy McDowall and William Ragsdale as vampire hunters. Charlie (Ragsdale) meets the exotic Regine Dandrudge who just happens to be a vampire. She tries her best to seduce Charlie to join the vampire clan. Only Vincent, the TV host who saved Charlie in the first film, can help him from becoming one of these blood suckers. This horror flick is due out tomorrow.

Other releases this week:

"Bye Bye Baby." Staring Brigitte Nielsen as a doctor and Carol Alt as a billiards champ.

"Checking Out." Murder with Melanie Mayron.

"Norman's Awesome Experience." A physics whiz and his pals go back in time to conquer the Roman Empire.

"Criminal Law." Stars Kevin Bacon as a serial killer. I don't believe it.

"Suspria." Does a dance school have ties to Satan?

And if these don't thrill you, "Teenage Mutant Ninja Turtles in the Case of the Killer Pizzas" comes out on video tomorrow. Just don't forget the pepperoni.

Still time to catch 'Radio Show'

By Mark Schaffer
Staff Writer

The radio dial was tuned to Thompson Theatre's adaptation of "The Radio Show," last Thursday. And it was a vintage broadcast.

Radio scripts from several 1940s shows were adapted to make up the script for "The Radio Show." Such favorites as "The Lone Ranger," "The Shadow," "Ma Perkins" and "Town Hall" were portrayed in an authentic sound studio of the "golden era of the airwaves." The set had all the extras, complete with man-made sound effects and a live audience prompted to applaud appropriately. The set was like the broadcasting center of an old radio station complete with all the devices for creating all needed sound effects, from stomping feet to the crashing clutter, from Fibber McGee's closet.

There was good reason to applaud. Marilee who played the Catwife in "Lights Out," a horror show, was excellent. She also played Mrs. Uppington and sang the "I'll be seeing you," solo.

Jason Fetvedt played a variety of roles, including Henry Aldridge, but should be remembered for his hysterical performance in the Jello commercial with Jackson. Kelly Mizell, a senior, played Molly McGee and Mrs. Odaddy as well as singing with the Merry Macks. Kerrance Carpenter, a freshman in his first show, played the Lone Ranger and Malley in "The Shadow" like a seasoned veteran. The actors worked well together, only getting in each others way on cue.

The audience for the shows varied each night. The older audiences that remember the old radio shows were better able to relate to some of the older jokes and scenes from the old radio scripts. When the war bond song was sung, the older audiences would flash the sign for victory. Yet, younger audiences will enjoy the show as well.

The show will run through Oct. 7. Show times 8 p.m. at Thompson Theatre. Tickets $2 for students.

The Merry Macks perform "Don't Sit Under the Apple Tree" as part of Thompson Theatre's production.

Center Stage curtains open for 'Beehive'

By Mark Schaffer
Staff Writer

Step right up. The Center Stage season at Stewart Theatre begins in earnest this week with "Beehive," a female 1960s musical. On Oct. 4, "Beehive," will be performed in Stewart Theatre at 8 p.m. The show is full of 90 minutes of 60s music from the greatest female groups of the time. A live band will accompany six female vocalists, as they perform some 40 tracks from the innocence of 1960 to the budding social consciousness of 1969. Such greats as Aretha Franklin's "Respect," and Leslie Gore's "It's My Party and I'll Cry If I Want To," are only a few songs off of the playlist. Tickets are on sale now at the Student Center Box office, $12 for the general public and $6 for students.

Soprano saxophonist Paul Winter will bring his musical creation Earth Music to Stewart Oct. 6 at 8 p.m. His music is a blend of jazz, classical, Brazilian, African and others that celebrate the earth's cultures and creatures. He will be performing as part of the Triangle Awareness Week 89.

Winter has crusaded for environmental issues and his concerns have been included in his music. Sometimes he combines his music with the cries of wolves or the songs of whales, in an attempt to emphasize the need for creatures of all types to live harmoniously. Tickets are $14 for the general public and $7 for students, and can be picked up at the box office.

And in N.C.State's Thompson Theatre, "The Radio Show," continues it run until Oct. 7. Shows are at 8 p.m. and tickets are $2 for students.

The cast of "Beehive," a group that brings the rockin' '60s back to life, will open the Center Stage season.

Pigs 'n ribs featured at Darryl's

By Heather Gool
Staff Writer

Pink pig-visors and hog-tie aprons are innovations you would not expect to see at a restaurant. But at Darryl's, located on Hillsborough Street, these are only a few of the novelties you can leave with.

Darryl's is open seven days a week, serving both lunch and dinner. And no matter where you are seated, you feel as you are the center of attention. The restaurant is designed that way. It makes you feel that you belong with every party.

Finally, the waitress arrives. Your wait may be long because of the popularity of the establishment. You are now ready to order. The menu has a wide variety. It includes appetizers, salads, sandwiches, seafood, ribs, pasta, steaks, desserts and even a kid's meal. Dinner prices range from a cup of cream of broccoli soup for $1.95 to steak and shrimp for $13.95.

The "Snack Attack" is a good appetizer selection. As you wait, you start to taste the tempting selection of golden-brown wingers, fried provolone and cheese nachos. The waitress arrives and says, "Now you know why we have a pig for our mascot." You certainly do get your money's worth. While stuffing your face with this scrumptious appetizer, you decide that an entree would be too much to handle. Instead, you head right to the desert.

And the pecan turtle sundae is a must. A giant sundae dish filled with two scoops of vanilla ice cream and two of chocolate, topped with pecans, crushed Heath bars, hot fudge, caramel and whip cream.

About the time you feel as if you have gone to heaven, the waitress returns. You can't wait to dig in. Just remember to eat slowly, to avoid the repercussions that comes with eating ice cream too fast.

You're probably wondering how much all this food costs, well let's make one suggestion — go during lunch. The prices almost double at dinner. Lunch prices range from a cup of broccoli soup for $1.95 to prime rib sandwich for $5.25.

Darryl's is a great place to go with friends. It does have a college atmosphere and many of the employees are students. So, when you feel you've had enough of McDonald's and Hardees, just take a stroll down Hillsborough Street. You'll be glad you did.

$30,000 BEFORE YOU GRADUATE

The Navy offers you as a qualified student the chance to earn up to $30,000 during your junior and senior years, and never have to put on a Navy uniform until after graduation. No drills, no summer obligations. In the Nuclear Propulsion Officer Candidate Program you'll get your start in nuclear power where nuclear power started. In the Navy. After you graduate, you'll get 6 months of graduate level engineering education in Orlando, Florida, plus 6 months of hands-on engineer training at a nuclear reactor trainer ... and more. Just meet these requirements:

- Be at least a junior, majoring in engineering, chemistry, science or math.
- Have a minimum 3.3 GPA.
- Have completed a mathematics sequence through integral calculus.
- Have completed one year of calculus-based physics.
- Be a United States citizen no more than 26 1/2 years old at time of commissioning and meet Navy physical standards.

Navy Officers will be on campus conducting interviews. All interested students should sign up at the Career Placement Center. For more information, contact LT BRIAN HALSEY OR LT. BOB JENKINS at 1-800-662-7419.
 INTERVIEW DATE: OCTOBER 5 PLACE: CAREER PLACEMENT CENTER
