Greek Leadership Workshop explores campus concerns

By Bill Holmes
Senior Staff Writer

What do you think a typical N.C. State fraternity or sorority member is doing on a Sunday at 8 a.m.?

Sleeping off the weekend or attending a leadership conference that addressed the topics of homophobia, self-esteem and ethics?

If you thought they were doing the latter, you thought correctly.

Five hundred fraternity and sorority members met at McKimmon Center March 18 for the eleventh annual NCSU Greek Leadership Workshop. Topics that were discussed included homophobia, self-esteem, ethics, cultural perspectives of African-American Greeks, AIDS, membership education and substance abuse.

The department of Student Development organized the event under the direction of Drew Smith, assistant director of Student Development and a member of Sigma Phi Epsilon.

Smith said these kinds of conferences are important because they help Greeks to be more knowledgeable and make better decisions on topics they face in today's society. "Fraternities and sororities are leadership and personal development organizations," said Smith. "It's important to expose them to these kind of issues."

Smith said the conference was programmed as a supplement to the department of Student Development's usual fraternity and sorority programs that are offered during the year. He said this kind of programming is important because Greeks are exposed to a variety of experiences.

"I think fraternities and sororities are the most comprehensive real-life learning lab available on a college campus," said Smith.

Smith said the conference was also significant because it is the only one of its kind in North Carolina and the premiere conference of its type in the Southeast. Smith also said the conference was not only for fraternity and sorority members.

"It's not just for Greeks. Most of what you get there is adaptable to everyday life," said Smith.

David Tanksley, president of the Interfraternity Council, said he was congratulated by several participants who were not Greek for the effectiveness of the conference.

"The single thing that surprised me the most is how it affected non-Greeks on campus. It gave some realization to the problems that are not related (only) to Greeks, but all societies," said Tanksley.

Tanksley also praised the presenters who conducted the workshops.

"I found that the session by Ed King on leadership and ethics in the 90s brought to surface a realization about how campus leaders and community leaders need to view their roles in their various positions. Hopefully, this session will set a precedent for the work that needs to be done in the years to come, as well as the means by which they should try to obtain their individual goals," said Tanksley.

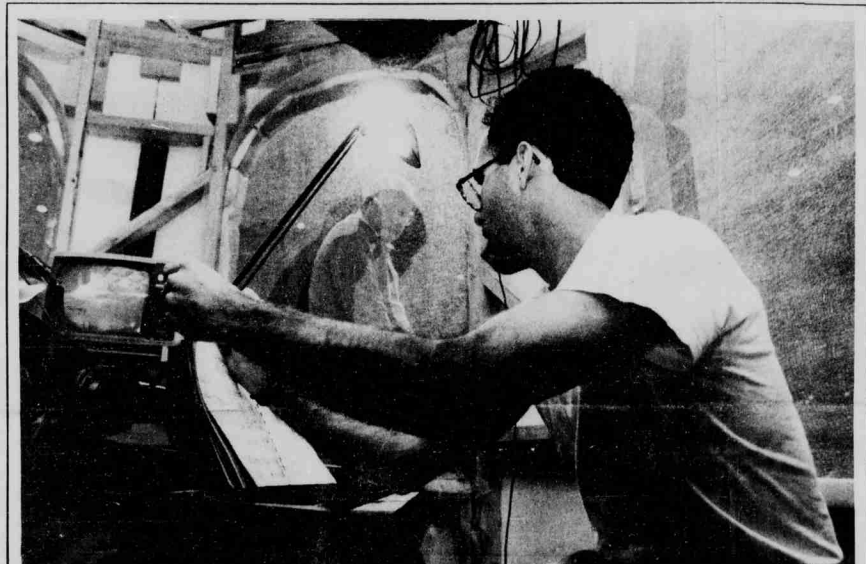

Kathy Cleveland Bull, a presenter at the conference, said the conference accomplished its objectives.

Cleveland Bull said, "I thought it was extremely successful. I appreciate the work of Student Development and Drew Smith. I thought the people that were there got to see an entertaining and thought-provoking keynote speaker in Will Keim. I appreciate that this year's program included non-traditional topics which took courage on the part of the staff of Student Development."

The participants came from eleven different schools across the Southeast, including Old Dominion University, UNC-Wilmington, UNC Chapel Hill, Western Carolina and the University of Richmond. However, NCSU students comprised 80 to 85 percent of the participants.

The workshop was sponsored by the NCSU Panhellenic Association, the NCSU Interfraternity Council, the Velvet Cloak Inn, Fraternal Composite, the NCSU Student Senate, the Alumni Association and Vantine Studios.

Wolfstock weekend to include feature film

Committee proposes dance also

By Bina Jangda
Staff Writer

The movie "Ferris Beuhler's Day Off" starring Matthew Broderick will be shown as part of this year's Wolfstock festivities.

According to Chris Johnston, vice president of the Bragaw Hall Council, the Wolfstock committee has asked Lee, Bragaw, and Sullivan Residence Halls to sponsor a movie along with the other Wolfstock activities.

"The movie will be shown on Friday April 6," said Johnston.

It will be shown in the amphitheater between Bragaw, Lee, and Sullivan between 8:30 and 9:00. Admission is free.

The movie is funded through the Wolfstock Committee.

In addition to the movie, the committee has also proposed a dance which will be open to all students.

"We need a location," said Yeelok Kwok, Inter-Residence Council Representative for Alexander Hall. "We can't find one that will accommodate our size."

Wolfstock T-shirts went on sale Monday and tickets will be on sale Monday, April 2.

The bands will be announced the same day the tickets go on sale.

According to John Schmitzer, co-chairman of Wolfstock, there will be four bands performing at this year's Wolfstock Concert. One of which will be a local band.

PRSSA offers students worthwhile experiences

By Punit Chhabra
Staff Writer

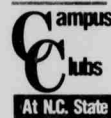

Students planning to pursue a career in public relations, advertising, marketing, sports information or any field that deals with the public should begin with the Public Relations Student Society of America.

PRSSA is a student-run organization in the department of Speech-Communications which educates and gives students the chance to gain hands-on experience in public relations.

Aside from inviting a variety of professional speakers from government, sports information, corporations and private public relations agencies, PRSSA also has social events and gives students a chance to meet professionals in their field.

Every year, PRSSA members are given the chance to attend a national conference with over 100 universities nationwide.

This year's conference, which takes place in November, will consist of informative seminars and speeches from professionals who work for some of the most influential and successful public relations firms and corporations in the United States.

Active members of the student organization can also take part in developing and implementing public relations proposals for non-profit groups and companies in the triangle area.

The programs are developed in the PRSSA student-run firm which is called Prospects.

This year, Prospects has done work for the N.C. State women's basketball team, the department of housing and residence life and the local level of the Public Relations Society of America.

The PRSSA is the national organization of public relations professionals who sponsor all of the PRSSA chapters in the United States.

They offer financial support in the form of scholarships and help student chapters get assistance from public relations professionals in their area.

In the 1988-89 school year, NCSU's chapter was named the outstanding chapter at a national conference. For more information call Laurie Sullivan at 737-2450.

Lee Residence Hall may open back deck

By Scott Webb
Staff Writer

Residents of Lee Hall might be able to enjoy the use of a new deck on the back of their residence hall before classes end for the summer.

Andy Ward, construction site supervisor, said that is now the deck is ahead of schedule and should be finished by April 1.

He said that the roof, which will cover the back entrance of the dorm, has not yet arrived and that this might delay construction. Ward claimed that the deck has been in the planning stages for the past couple of years and the estimated cost of the entire project is $48,000.

Construction is being done by D.W. Ward Construction, which has also done other building projects for N.C. State. Kevin Conley, assistant area director of Lee Residence Hall declined to comment on this project without permission from Cynthia Bonner, the director of the department of Housing and Residence Life.

Second City Touring Company

Second City troupe to visit

Second City is coming to Stewart Theatre. The concept is simple: Take six or seven vivacious actors, give them an empty stage and a few props, hurl some suggestive ideas their way and watch what happens.

The Second City company opened its doors in 1959 in Chicago, and success quickly followed. The company has launched the careers of numerous comedic geniuses, including Dan Aykroyd, Joan Rivers, Alan Alda, John Belushi and Gilda Radner. It has been called the foremost training ground for theatrical comics in the world.

For its 5th Triangle appearance, the company will perform two shows - Thursday and Friday at 8 p.m. in Stewart Theatre. Tickets are $5 for NCSU students, $10 for others.

NCSU 'Friends' host Moscow Philharmonic

Vladimir Viardo

Technician News Services

Enjoy a bit of musical culture at N.C. State this weekend, as NCSU Friends of the College hosts the Moscow Philharmonic with musical director Dmitri Kitaenko.

The Moscow Philharmonic Orchestra, regarded as one of the world's finest symphonic ensembles, was founded in 1951 by Samuel Samosud, a distinguished conductor of the Bolshoi Opera. Originally part of the All-Union Radio Committee, the orchestra was established primarily for the broadcasting of operatic music and was given its current title in 1953.

Musical director Kitaenko is one of the Soviet Union's leading conductors. His relationship with the Moscow Philharmonic Orchestra is regarded as one of the most creative collaborations in Soviet music today.

Also on the bill is pianist Vladimir Viardo.

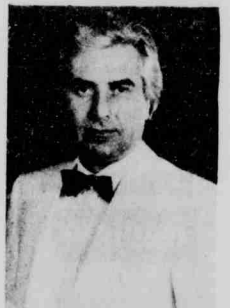

Viardo began studying the piano at age 6 with his grandmother and later studied at the Moscow State Conservatory with Lev Naumov.

He was the Gold Medal Winner at the 1973 Van Cliburn Competition.

The orchestra will perform "Night on Bald Mountain," by Mussorgsky, "Rhapsody on a Theme on Paganini," "Op. 43," by Rachmaninoff and "Symphony No. 2 in E minor Op. 27" by Rachmaninoff.

Showtimes are Friday and Saturday at 8 p.m.

NCSU students and one guest may attend for free by picking up two tickets at the Stewart Theatre Box Office.

'Pretty Woman' a rags-to-riches tale of Los Angeles prostitute

By Joe Corey
Staff Writer

For those of you sick and tired of me reviewing those "artsy" films that do not feature Chuck Norris, I have seen two films that the average Joe might go see.

When I saw the trailer for "Pretty Woman," I cringed in my seat. It looked really stupid. Where meets rich man and wins his heart. Plus it started a "Steel Magnolia" and I am trying to avoid films featuring the iron-flower women.

But I went, for the sake of the kids. "Pretty Woman" is pretty good. That is not saying it is some great profound film.

Julia Roberts is very likable as the Hollywood hooker with a golden heart. I would fork up the 50 bucks faster than Jimmy Swaggart if I saw her hanging out by the Fast Lane. She does look a lot like her brother Eric.

For some reason, I cannot imagine Richard Gere having an actual expression on his face. Maybe it is just me. No, it is probably Richard's fault. The guy has a mug that refuses to budge. This makes his characters look like something out of a Noh Theater piece. Of course, this helps in his character, a bland business executive who buys companies and busts them up.

When he hires Roberts to be his escort for the week that he is in Los Angeles, it looks too damn predictable. And it is. But it is a somewhat enjoyable journey.

One of the better elements of the film is the fact that you could still laugh at the jokes that got abused on the TV commercial. Well, maybe not all of them, but enough.

The key to the film is that the plot revolves around a self-taught "Pygmalion." Gere does not seem intent on culturing Roberts. Sure he has her get proper clothes, but that is all he cares about. He is only into a piece of meat to make him look good. Roberts has to go off and learn the manners of the world Gere lives in.

The best line in the film comes soon after he picks her up for a night jaunt. While eating strawberries and drinking champagne, she reminds Gere that the seduction is unnecessary because she is a "sure thing." Chuckles all around.

I guess this would be a good date film, except for the shot of Roberts' breasts. But what good is a prostitute that will not expose flesh?

Stewart to host jazz great Wynton Marsalis

Technician News Services

Jazz great Wynton Marsalis will bring his acoustic sounds to Stewart Theatre this Sunday night.

Marsalis is promoting his latest LP, "The Majesty of the Blues." The artist's roots lie in New Orleans. Consequently, he is currently embracing a bluesy type of jazz.

As evidenced on this album and in his latest shows, the embrace is sizzling.

Winner of eight Grammy awards, and the only artist to simultaneously win in Jazz and Classical categories, Wynton continues to grow. His encyclopedic style recalls Freddie Hubbard, and Miles Davis as well as others, and he is a proven master of baroque concertos.

From Al Hirt's gift of a trumpet at age 12, to international tours with jazz legends, Marsalis keeps the musical world on fire with his elo-

Photographer captures the Carolinas on film

By Kelly Bradley
Staff Writer

Hillsborough, not the street but the city in North Carolina, is the place that photographer Elizabeth Matheson calls home.

Her photographs are intriguing to look at. And one quickly learns that a mere glimpse is not going to suffice.

Museum Exhibit Review

The 42 black and white photographs on display at the North Carolina Museum of Art look normal enough, but there is a feeling that something is missing.

Matheson said, "I'm looking for that space in which something seems about to happen, the space between events."

This is evident in the shot of a vacant drive-in theater in North Wilkesboro, North Carolina. There are no cars and no people just an old, empty lot that makes one wish it was full.

The same goes for the photograph of some bicycles leaning against a white railing on a wooden boardwalk in Cape May, N.J.

In this photo, the ocean can be seen in the distance, but there are no kids in sight. The bicycles idly sit, waiting for riders. The boardwalk is in need of either pedestrians or skateboarders or both.

Next is a photo taken in Ocracoke of an overgrown path leading to the ocean.

This scene looks like it would be a great place to visit when things get hectic. It is the type of place that could make one get out a map.

Finally there is an interesting photograph of Miami. Centered directly in the photo is an empty whirlpool. The photo is surrounded by white tiles. And an intermittently cloud-filled sky takes up the photograph's remaining space.

The unique aspect of this photograph is that the horizon of the sky meets the white tiles.

The effect gives the impression that the sky is the only thing to be found. Consequently, if one were to jump out of this whirlpool, he or she would be in for a long fall.

Matheson's display is currently running through May 6 at the North Carolina Museum of Art. For more information call 833-1935.

The Royal Crescent Mob will be bringing their brand of funk/reggae to the Brewery Thursday night.

The band was formed by accident in 1986.

They are a spin-off from another band in which the lead vocalist left 45 minutes before their concert was set to begin.

Too bad for him.

Lead vocalist David Ellison was injured to begin a musical career at a very early age.

He used to mow the lawn of Sugar Bonner, lead guitarist for the Ohio Players, when he was a youngster.

And the Ohio Players proved to be The Royal Crescent Mob's largest influence to date. In fact, they play a few of the Players' covers in concert, including "Fire" and "Love Rollercoaster." The band also tackles acts ranging from James Brown to Led Zeppelin.

'Opportunity Knocks,' but nobody home for Carvey

Now "Opportunity Knocks" is a different story.

If this film had come out at Christmas, "Driving Miss Daisy" and "Born on the Fourth of July" might have been denied a couple nominations.

I am kidding folks.

Dana Carvey has followed in the tradition of bad movies made by "Saturday Night Live" members: "The Golden Child," "Caddyshack II," "Feds," and "Neighbors."

From the opening scene of Carvey walking down Chicago streets, the film tumbles. Carvey plays a deadbeat con man, who along with his longtime partner in crime, ends up running a company that makes hand blowers. Plenty of laughs for every occasion.

Carvey's deadbeat character stinks. All I could think of was how much more interesting John Laurie's performance in "Stranger Than Paradise" was.

The rest of the cast could easily board "The Love Boat."

The jokes were lame and every line seemed to bring on more pain. Why can't someone who seems so funny on television do a better story? Why couldn't Carvey say, "Hey fellas, this deal bites? It isn't funny."

But when opportunity knocks...

So on the bus ride to hell, this is going to be the new in-plummet movie. If given a choice between this film and having a finger whacked off in a bicycle wheel, go for the left ring finger and wait for John Water's "Cry Baby."

Now I am off to visit the new hot spot, the 5-D club in the Electric Company Mall.

Men swimmers end season at NCAAs

By Mark Cartner
Staff Writer

The N.C. State men's swimming and diving team concluded its season last weekend in Indianapolis at the NCAA Championships.

The Wolfpack finished in 35th place, narrowly missing its goal of a top-30 finish. The University of Texas won the meet.

Only the top 16 finishers in each event scored points and State scored in only two of the events it entered. The Pack's 200-meter free relay team, consisting of Jimmy Forrester, Dan Judge, David Fox, and Nick Paleocrassas, finished 14th. That same team also took 14th place in the 400 free relay.

State was close to scoring in several events. Judge finished 18th in the 50 free with a personal best 20.27.

The 400 medley relay finished 20th and the 200 medley relay team was headed for a top-10 finish but suffered a disqualification when one member jumped early.

Off the boards, State got two more good efforts that did not score points. Kurt Candler took 20th in the three-meter diving competition, while Simon Jackson finished 21st in the one-meter.

For the meet, the Wolfpack tallied 10 points, marking the first time in four years that State has scored in the national championships.

"We've got to get stronger," head coach Don Easterling said after the meet. "Some of those guys out there looked like linebackers."

Men netters down ODU; lose to Cavs, Terps

By Fred Hartman
Assistant Sports Editor

The double digit win column looked sweet for the N.C. State men's tennis team as they crushed Old Dominion 7-2 Friday in Norfolk, Va.

The Pack won four out of six singles matches before sweeping all three doubles matches en route to its 10th victory of the season.

"That was a really good win for us," James Catenis said. "We needed a strong victory and we got it."

Glen Philp and Mike Herb dropped matches at the one and two seeds for State's only defeats. Philp lost 6-4, 7-6 (7-5) while Herb lost 6-4, 6-4.

Catenis beat ODU's Andrew Corcoran at the third seed, 6-2, 6-2, while Matt Price gained a 7-5, 4-6, 6-3 win at the fourth seed.

Sean Ferreira added another notch to his win column with a 6-2, 6-3 win at five while Kent Lovett won 6-4, 6-2 at six.

In doubles, Herb and Catenis teamed for a 6-2, 7-6, (7-0) win over ODU's top two players. Price and Parke Morris notched a win at the two seed 6-3, 6-2 while Ferreira and Stephen Finch breezed by ODU's third seeds 6-3, 6-2.

After the ODU win, the Pack hit the road for its first two conference matches of the year. They lost 3-5 at Maryland Saturday and 3-6 at Virginia Sunday.

"They were the toughest Maryland team I've seen in quite awhile," said Catenis. "We knew they were good, but we didn't know they were that strong."

Philp got back on the winning track with a 4-6, 7-6, 6-3 victory at the one seed as did Herb with a commanding second seed win.

Catenis and Price lost at three and four to put the Pack and Terps even at two going into the last two singles of the day.

Ferreira put the Pack ahead with a win against the Terps' Alain Chacon but Maryland evened things up as Finch lost at six.

Herb and Catenis lost the first doubles match 6-7 (7-5), 7-6 (7-4) and 6-3 in one of the more exciting matches of the weekend. Price and Morris then dropped the next match to give the Terps the 3-5 victory. The last doubles match was not played due to time constraints.

State hoped to even its ACC record against Virginia but Sunday was not to be the Pack's day.

"It was really cold outside," said Catenis. "It was just really tough to play in weather like that."

With snow in the air, the Cavs took four of six singles matches and two of three doubles to win.

The Pack's victories included a

Herb win at two and a Price win at five. Philp and Ferreira gave State its only doubles win.

"We are a young team," said Catenis. "Even though we might have been expected to beat them, the fact that it was a conference game on the road makes it tougher."

State, 10-6, takes on UNC in Chapel Hill today. The Pack's next home match is April 1 at 2 p.m. against Furman.

Baseball team wins

Technician News Service

The N.C. State baseball team, which had its 19-game winning streak snapped by Virginia Sunday, got back on the winning track Tuesday with a 15-6 victory at Davidson.

State, now ranked 25th in the national college baseball ESPN poll, got 19 hits in the game as Jeff Pierce came on to preserve the win in relief.

State also hit six homers in the contest, as Scott Snead had two and Brian Bark, Robbie Bark, Chris Woodfin and Pierce each had one.

The Pack returns home today, hosting UNC-Charlotte at 3 p.m. at Doak Field. Woodfin will be on the mound for State.

Pack golfers finish third

By Bill Overton
Staff Writer

The N.C. State golf team leaped from seventh place to third on Sunday, the final day of the Carolinas Classic in Spartanburg, S.C. finishing with a three-day total of 884. Clemson was able to claim the championship with a score of 875, while South Carolina finished second at 881.

After two poor opening rounds which saw the Pack shoot 302 and 304, respectively, State rebounded with a four-under team total of 284 on the final day. Conference foes Virginia and nationally ranked Wake finished behind the Pack.

The Wolfpack placed two golfers in the individual top 10. Bowen Sargent shot a three-day total of 217, good enough for fifth place, while Steve Isley had his best finish ever with a ninth place 221.

State freshman Kelly Mitchum had the final round's best score, posting a two-under 70, to finish at 225. Doug Stone's 223 and Joel Hartwell's 227 rounded out the Wolfpack scores.

State coach Richard Sykes was pleased with his team's overall performance.

"We had to make quite a run to catch up," Sykes said. "The last round of golf was as strong as State has played in the last few years."

Furman's Larry Tedesco took the third hole of sudden death to defeat Oswald Drawdy of Clemson. Both golfers finished the tournament at one-under par 216.

"The course was very tough," Sykes said. "I think our boys finally realized that they were pretty good golfers."

The Pack will return to South Carolina Friday for the third straight weekend, as it participates in the Furman Intercollegiate at the Furman Golf Club.

State then returns home the following weekend to host the first edition of The American at MacGregor Downs in Cary.

"We're going down this weekend with a good attitude," Sykes said. "We don't play against many inferior golf teams. The more we play the better we will get."

"We've told each other 'I love you' a thousand times. But it took a diamond like this to leave her speechless."

Technician Opinion

March 28, 1990

A paper that is entirely the product of the student body becomes at once the official organ through which the thoughts, the activity and in fact the very life of the campus are registered. College life without its journal is blind.

University weaseling out

When a murderer gets off scot-free on a technicality, the public raises Cain. When a big corporation gets out of illegal dumping charges on a technicality, citizens raise the hue and cry. When N.C. State gets out of a contract payment on a technicality, no one says a thing.

University administrators have hired lawyers to go over head coach Jim Valvano's contract with a fine-toothed comb, looking for a loophole to get out of paying Valvano his due. That hardly conveys the image of integrity that NCSU has sought to create for itself. The image conveyed by the contract negotiations is one of hypocrisy.

Yes, the university is suffering under the burden of budget crunches. Yes, the trouble surrounding Valvano's tenure at NCSU may seem like a just cause to escape payment. But the university committed itself to a contract full of vague generalities. There is not a single provision in the contract that will give the NCSU negotiators a legal leg to stand on.

Lawyers have cited clauses from the contract that require Valvano to encourage the academic progress of his team members. If Valvano told all of his players to go to class, he encouraged their progress.

If he told them that they needed to pass their classes, he encouraged their progress. The clause cited is far too vague to be of any value to the university in weaseling its way out of its commitment.

It is interesting to note that the same administrators who rail against the media for questioning the integrity of NCSU are all for ducking out of the Valvano contract. It is a safe bet that the money spent to pay lawyers to go over the contract would pay a fair amount of what is owed Valvano.

The bottom line is simple. Valvano and the university entered into the contract prior to any of the trouble of recent years. The university may as well have signed in blood. There are no clauses with enough concrete application to allow administrators to slide out of payment responsibilities.

It is time that university administrators started practicing what they preach. Show some integrity. Pay Valvano his due and be done with the matter.

Tuition hike? That's right

Tuition. N.C. State students never like the look of tuition bills. But face it, we pay less than a lot of students.

North Carolina has the third lowest in-state tuition in the nation. We get a world class education at a bargain-basement price.

The university needs to raise its tuition rates. It's that simple. It seems like a lot, but the cost to an individual isn't much. The worst part of the situation is that some students aren't paying their fair share.

The budget crunches have hit the university hard because almost all of the university's money comes from the state of North Carolina. When the state falls on hard times, NCSU falls on hard times.

The UNC-system, especially the land-grant institutions, was intended to educate the state's people so they could go back into society and contribute to the growth in that state. That is why tuition is low — North Carolina's citizens are picking up the rest of your education tab.

The almost $600 paid every semester by students seems like a lot, but it's a tiny fraction of the total cost of educating that student. The more than $12,000 a student pays per semester at Duke or similar private universities covers every part of the tuition and costs to the university, not to mention a tidy profit.

The UNC-system makes a profit too, but it's different. The profit is the graduates who will go out and contribute to the betterment of North Carolina. Basically, graduates are an investment in North Carolina's future.

That's why out-of-state students pay more. The assumption is that that student will not stay in North Carolina to improve the state, nor has that student contributed anything to the taxes which fund the university system.

But the state still doesn't force an out-of-state student to pay the full cost of his tuition, because the student will contribute somewhere that will help people in another state.

Now comes a question. Why subsidize an out-of-country student who comes to NCSU to get that same education and will most likely take it back to another country? If tuition is to be raised, which it should be, we must put our priorities on who needs to pay more for what they are getting.

Maybe the system could charge a higher rate to out-of-state and out-of-country students and offer rebates if the student stays in North Carolina to work after graduation. If the graduate takes his education elsewhere, then the university has not invested in education without getting a return.

The university must lessen its dependence on state funds. In doing, so it can weather state budget crunches with less effect on its students. A tuition hike would hurt, but the university would not have to cancel classes if the state of North Carolina misjudges its budget.

Work for Technician, then criticize

Dwuan June
Editor-in-Chief

About 70 years ago M.E. Trice sat at his desk, pondering a new project.

Trice's task was not easy, and he solicited the advice of many important people. When he finally knew what the project would be, he determined what its mission would be.

"A paper that is entirely the product of the student body becomes at once the official organ which the thoughts, the activity and in fact the very life of the campus are registered," wrote Trice, Technician's first editor-in-chief. "College life without its journal is blank."

Trice could not have envisioned that his newspaper would last 70 years and that it would:

- Serve a community of more than 26,000 students that includes blacks, whites, women and students from almost every country in the world.

- Have a black editor-in-chief as well as a female EIC.

- Rank consistently among the best collegiate newspapers in the nation.

But Trice was on target on one aspect. Life at N.C. State would definitely be blank without Technician.

Students cannot find a better source of information about NCSU than Technician.

No other newspaper cares more about reaching its market than does Technician. However, the paper has had both good and bad experiences. Technician has received constant criticism from students, faculty, staff and alumni. It has suffered from student apathy and received little recognition at an engineering school.

It has not always risen to the occasion. But it has come to become one of the nation's best collegiate newspapers in reaching its student market.

More importantly, the newspaper reaches all students from whites to blacks to women.

Technician is the only college newspaper in North Carolina that publishes both a Black History Month and a Women's History Month special. The Daily Tar Heel at UNC and The Chronicle at Duke ignored both months.

Even with this special consideration, Technician is constantly bombarded with its racist and sexist policies. If we were sexist, our female managing editor, sports editor and features editor would not hold their positions. If Technician was racist, there would not be a black editor-in-chief. But those are minor points.

Technician is neither sexist nor racist. Critics argue that letters written to the editor, advertisements, cartoons and articles are racially and sexually biased. Through its editorial policy, the newspaper has tried to eliminate sexist and racist attitudes not only throughout its staff, but throughout campus. Our sexist critics cannot see the two Playboy ads, the one Playboy picture and the cartoons that we have pulled. All they can see from their office is the Playboy ad that did run.

Our racist critics cannot see the planned debates trying to educate the campus on the term African-American. Nor can they see the black members on staff explaining to white staff members the reasons why blacks and other minorities cannot be grouped together.

There will never be enough done in society to combat racism and sexism until it is eliminated. Pulling ads and planning debates will not solve the problem unless people come together to find the answer.

Technician members have gone to black organizations and talked to members of women's concerns groups trying to get both input and staff members to be on a par. Presently, there are only three black staff members and they consistently receive criticism from their black peers. We have two self-proclaimed feminists on staff.

But those five cannot carry a cause. Organizations need to make their concerns known. At least two ads appear in each issue asking for help. This week, only one person showed up.

Technician can only do so much. We do not hold letters because various groups may find them offensive. We print letters hoping that the student body will respond to try to educate the ignorant.

Currently, campus ignorance is high. No one knows why and how Technician operates. They do know how to criticize. Students should get involved at Technician to learn the right to criticize the paper, as well as learn why Technician functions as it does.

If students take part in Technician, they can help staff members in a learning process. The newspaper will grow.

You can't judge a movie if you do not go see it. The same holds true for Technician.

Games continue after childhood

Chris Repass
Opinion Columnist

Do you ever wish you were a kid again? Last weekend I spent some time remembering the fun things I did as a child, and found that I want to be a kid again. Of course, I do not want to be sent to my room or have my mouth washed out with soap again for giving my opinion of mom's cooking, but I would like to do many of the other things that I remember.

Hide-and-seek, for example. Do you remember the thrill of finding the ultimate hiding spot and attempting to turn invisible or stop breathing so that you would not be found? One of my most memorable experiences was when I actually fit into the washing machine but could not get out when I had won the game.

Can you imagine trying to fit into a washer now? How about a dryer? I had some interesting — and nauseating — experiences with the second half of the washing ensemble.

Do you remember playing dodgeball in elementary school? It was fun being on the inside of the circle, knowing that the rest of the kids wanted to knock you senseless so that you would cry and flop around on the floor holding your head.

I also remember having water fights with my brother, playing with toy soldiers and Matchbox cars, reading comic books and spending the night at a friend's house. For me, being a kid was great.

Looking back on those times, I find it depressing to see that a "Calvin and Hobbes" childhood of imagination and innocence has been replaced by the induced attempt to hit people in the middle. In real life this game is played by the media, their victims often including the good and the bad of society. Examples of the media's handiwork include Jim Valvano, Donald and Ivana Trump (and Marla Maples), Jim Bakker, Gary Hart, Zsa Zsa Gabor and even a healthy young person like Rob Lowe. Try and figure out which ones are good and which ones are bad.

Other childhood activities have been even more perverted. Instead of playing with toy soldiers, young men become toy soldiers that are played with. Matchbox cars become real cars, and are handled by some people in the same childlike manner. Instead of sleeping at a friend's house to stay up late, watch TV and have a pillow fight, now people stay at someone's place because they are too drunk to leave. It is depressing.

By the way, it appears that all I have mentioned are boy's games and activities, it is because I am male. I have no idea what little girls do except for playing with "Little Baby Bumpers" and kicking big broomies. All in all, I regret not being a child anymore. Sure, my brother and sister accuse me of acting childish at times, but I do not think that I will be able to fit into a washing machine again. For that matter, if you see people on campus who act like kids instead of playing Joe Cool, do not spurn them or put them down. Enjoy them. They probably enjoy life more than you or I do.

United States should lift South Africa sanctions

It is time for the United States to lift its sanctions against South Africa. Now that President F.W. de Klerk has placed South Africa irreversibly on the road toward national reconciliation, equality and the complete dismantling of apartheid, sanctions no longer serve a purpose.

Ironically, those who are shouting loudest to maintain sanctions are not black South Africans. Instead, they are American lobby groups who fear the prospect of finding themselves out of work. Thousands of blacks bear the brunt of U.S. sanctions, losing their jobs and means of family survival, while sanctions lobbyists such as Randall Robinson of TransAfrica are getting filthy rich on this issue.

A recent Gallup poll revealed that 85 percent of blacks in South Africa are against sanctions. Furthermore, Chief Buthelezi, leader of the 7 million strong Zulu nation in South Africa, repeatedly stated during his visit with President Bush that "the vast majority of black South Africans reject sanctions and the isolation of South Africa which minimizes black growth and maximizes black misery."

Those of us in America should not be led astray by self-serving lobby groups. Instead, we should listen to the voice of the South African people, black and white, who realize that it is not necessary to have their economy destroyed in order to promote changes that have already begun.

Our Italian and Chinese Chefs are arguing... Can you help?

Chef Giovanni from Florence, Italy, insists that his Pollo Alla Sorrentina sauteed with eggplant, prosciutto & the best Italian dish in the Triangle area!

However, our Chinese Chef Simon Chan thinks his General Tao's Chicken looks, tastes & smells just as good!

Chef Giovanni interrupts to add that his Gamberi Creole, which is created with fresh clams, shrimp, prosciutto, sauteed with onion, green peppers and mushrooms over a bed of rice, is delicious as well as the best value in town at only $10.95!

Chef Chan disagrees! He favors the Seafood Basket which has lobster meat, large shrimp, scallops & king crab meat. This dish is served with crispy vegetables in a unique potato basket and Chef Chan insists it is the freshest seafood dish ever created!

Whose dish is best is debatable, but the fact that these are the best Italian & Chinese Chefs in town is certain!

1990 Student Government Technician Election Guide

Technician

In this section, students will find statements from all Student Government candidates. The candidates were given a 50-word limit.

Student Body President

Dani Hershberger
CHASS, Senior

NCSU offers a multitude of opportunities to be proud of. Along with pride and spirit rides integrity, academic and awareness. Education of minority concerns, awareness of administrative decisions and unyielding pursuit of high academic standards are all essential in obtaining a university that is NCSU PROUD!

Eric Nobles
CHASS, Senior

Hello fellow students! I appreciate your interest and support. Like you, I love NCSU and hope to continue improving this university. As student body president I will enhance the campus environment, establish a literacy program and promote student unity. Any questions? Call me, Eric Nobles, at 737-5995.

G. Michael Richey
CHASS, Senior

While serving as Student Body Comptroller, I have become familiar not only with the day to day running of Student Government, but with the special projects also. This experience gives me the knowledge to lead and represent the student body properly.

Ed Stack
Textiles, Senior

As a current Executive Assistant to the Student Body President, a former student senator and a former campaign aid to the current attorney general, I am the most qualified candidate for Student Body President. I view the issues that face our campus as very important and informing the student body about these issues as equally.

Student Senate President

Leslie Powell
CHASS, Senior

Having three years of experience in Student Senate as well as in the Executive Branch, not only do I possess the experience necessary to understand the responsibilities of the office of Student Senate President, but I also feel compelled to lead the entire Senate into a new phase of leadership on campus.

Dave Holm
CHASS, Junior

I have enjoyed serving on the Student Senate for the past two years. This year as Senate Athletics Committee Chair and member of the Athletics Director Search Committee, I've voiced your opinions. If elected Senate President I'll seek your input and then take stands that will make you proud.

Student Body Chief Justice

Brian Buroker
Engineering, Senior

My experience as both a judicial board member and an assistant attorney general has prepared me well to meet the challenge of instituting a new student code of conduct. As a Caldwell Scholar, I feel I possess the leadership and integrity to make the judicial system work.

Derek V. Gatling
CHASS, Senior

It is my privilege to tell the student body about the new changes for the judicial branch this year. We now have a new code of conduct in which the attorney general's title has been changed to chief justice.

Student Body Treasurer

Nelson Mendoza
ALS, Sophomore

I feel I am the best candidate for Student Body Treasurer. Being the only incumbent running for major office would allow me to maintain continuity in Student Government and keep the current student concerns alive in the coming year. Also, I plan to continue making more efficient the operations of the treasurer's office.

Kendrick T. Lowery
CHASS, Junior

Each year, candidates submit applications ensuring promises and expectations. Voters are responsible for deciding whether candidates can fulfill these promises or not. As treasurer of my fraternity, I learned that good accounting skills and organization are required for success. I possess these skills and can ensure you a job well done.

John Hewitt
CHASS, Junior

With my experience as a fraternity comptroller and Senate Finance Committee member, I feel I'm the best candidate for Student Body Treasurer. As a senator and executive assistant to the Student Body President, I have gained the insight and vision necessary to represent the financial concerns of the student body.

Student Center President

Tara Niederer
ALS, Junior

Union Activities Board Art Committee member and chairperson, work in the Visual Arts Programs Office, know the Student Center Staff. To oversee the spending of student fees by promoting a variety of interesting activities for students, to be open to innovative ideas and the students' voice.

Shubhra J. Sawardeker
CHASS, Senior

My name is Shubhra Sawardeker and I'm running for Student Center President. I feel I am the most qualified candidate since I have a lot of leadership experience and a strong working knowledge of UAB and the Student Center. I am very enthusiastic and committed. Vote Shubhra Sawardeker for Student Center President.

Lee Casey
Engineering, Junior

I feel that my active involvement in the African-American Student Advisory Council, Black Students Board and other organizations has given me the experience necessary to be very effective as Student Center President. I plan to continue the excellent programs which the Student Center is known for.

Student Media Authority (5)

Junius Johnson
Engineering, Senior

I have been an active member of the Student Media Authority for the past four years and would like to continue serving the university in this capacity. I enjoy working with the media groups on campus and going nude waterskiing.

Banks Talley
CHASS, Senior

If elected to serve on the Student Media Authority I will do my best to make wise choices and decisions on the many pertinent issues they discuss. Hopefully, my experience this year as Literary Editor of the Windhover has given me additional knowledge, which would undoubtedly benefit me if selected for a seat on the SMA.

Benjamin Lea
PAMS, Senior

Since the student body's extracurricular activities should be facilitated by the Student Center, its leadership must be attentive to the students' needs. As students deserve a voice by which we can be heard.

Bill Holmes
CHASS, Junior

I feel my variety of activities on campus and my ability to communicate effectively qualify me for this position. The oversight of an organization such as the Student Center requires someone with these attributes, someone who both understands how the university works and can work with others to achieve a common purpose.

Donnie Williams
CHASS, Junior

Experienced as a current member of the Senate and Student Center Board of Directors and former Judicial Board chair, I understand student concerns. Thank you for the chance to continue serving in YOUR Student Government.

Bill Hicks
Engineering, Senior

The new Student Center will be at completion Spring 1991. The committee you elect this year will be in office during this delicate transition stage. I am prepared to meet needs of this transition.

Amy Noles
Forestry, Junior

With the construction of the Student Center Annex, the Board will have the added responsibility of determining how to use this space. I feel I have the leadership and organizational skills to work toward making these decisions.

Michele Lynn Lacenta
ALS, Junior

What with the new Student Center Annex under construction, the Student Center Board of Directors will have many important decisions to make. I believe that I have the qualifications and abilities to help meet these challenges.

Senior Class President

Kim Jenkins
CHASS, Junior

I have been very active in Student Government for the past two years. I have organized such projects as Feed Raleigh and Homecoming. If elected, I will work to promote seniors' ideas and concerns.

H. Eric Sparks
CHASS, Junior

I have developed skills in programming through serving as leader in several campus organizations. As these skills are essential to the office, I believe I am qualified to serve as Senior Class President.

Senior Class Vice President

Jeff Sagraves
Engineering, Senior

I feel that I could do well in representing my senior class during my final year at State. I have enjoyed working with Student Government and hope to continue serving the university.

Reed Humphrey
CHASS, Senior

As Senior Class Vice President, I want to be a servant and make an impact on our campus. As "Mr. Wul" on the cheerleading team, I have learned how to balance time, friendships, and studies. Rising seniors... Vote Reed!

Mary Bakenship
Engineering, Senior

As Senior Class Vice President, I would: Coordinate use of the Class Activities Budget for events interesting and beneficial to all seniors. Head up planning for a unique class gift. Diligently serve the interests of the senior class.

Numbers in parentheses indicate the number of at-large seats open in the election. In school races, sophomores will be listed first, followed by juniors and seniors.

Student Senate ALS (2, 1, 2)

Tre Scott
Sophomore

I greatly enjoyed the experience of serving on the Academic and Finance Committees of the Senate this year. My door is always open and I am working for you. Please re-elect Tre for another productive year.

Jennifer Rudisill
Sophomore

ALS students—Do you want someone with concerns and goals similar to yours representing and working for you next year? If so, I am who you want as your Senator!

Kathy Kenney
Junior

The leaders in Student Government are essential to our successful completion at the university. I am willing, ready and able to represent the rising junior class in the Student Senate.

Amy Griffin
Junior

My name is Amy Griffin and I would like to represent rising juniors in ALS. I served this past year and I hope for the opportunity to continue doing my best to represent the students.

Stacy Scarfutti
Senior

I am running for Student Senate because I wish to be given the opportunity to provide a strong, active voice for the members of my college.

Paul G. McKenzie
Senior

Note for experience. I have served one term and I am committed to a cleaner environment. By changing university policies which are ecologically destructive, we will help to preserve the earth for our own future.

Thomas S. Ivester
Senior

I feel the students of N.C. State deserve a representative concerned with the welfare of the student body, not his own recognition or the good of only his interests. I seek to promote foremost, the well-being of N.C. State.

Student Senate Engineering (Soph., 4)

Bekkie Reising

As a Senator this past year, I have expressed YOUR views to the best of my ability. If I am re-elected, I will continue to make your voice heard. Vote Bekkie Reising for Senate!

Eric Lamb

This February I attended the conference on Student Government Associations at Texas A & M. This provided me with valuable insights on better ways to make this university and its Student Government work for the students.

Michael Feher

I have a very strong inclination to be elected because of a deep concern for politics, strong initiative and foresight and an inner motivation to solve problems and bring pertinent issues to the attention for the Student Government.

Shannon Carroll

With your support I would like to represent your interests in the Senate. Students should get involved with decisions that affect their college life. Choose the right person to represent you in these decisions! Thank you

Tim Holbrook

As a freshman senator, I experienced the dedication required to be a productive senator. I would enjoy immensely the opportunity to serve again and would work to keep the Senate a respected, dynamic campus organization.

Elizabeth Anne Boyle

I am Elizabeth Boyle and this year I have been hard at work for you. I am currently on the NCSU freshman committee, which is working on problems that face engineers. Thanks, and please vote Boyle for Senate.

Sonya M. Rollins

Rising Sophomore Engineers: What? Vote — Guarantee the best Senate representation! Why? It's imperative that you vote for experience, an involved student... someone who cares! How? Elect proven performance!

Tony Scurry

I aspire to be a senator to have a voice in student affairs. I have the drive, ambition and determination to be an effective senator. These are the reasons for my interest in the Senate.

Engineering Juniors (4)

Mark Simmons
Sophomore

I have a strong interest in serving the NCSU community. This year I found I could pursue this interest by being involved with the Senate. I wish to maintain this involvement, so please elect me.

Sandy Mares

I have previous experience in Student Government and have the judgment to make decisions which best represent the student body. I hope to be given the opportunity to make a difference here at N.C. State.

Brent Walker

As a result of previous experience within the Senate, I feel I possess the ability to competently uphold the duties of this office.

Eric Prater Hollar

Why does everything require quarters but no one gives change? Hmmm? Students of NCSU are demanding change and we will not be satisfied with the token nickel and dime remedies of the past. Vote Hollar!

Lisa Johnson

Ability, willingness and eagerness are essential for being a member of Student Senate. I possess all of those qualities and more. So select me as your choice.

Jamal Summey

My name is Jamal Summey and I feel that I am qualified to represent the junior class as a student senator because I am part of that rising class and I feel that I can meet their needs and desires.

Kevin R. Burton

I would like to continue for my third year as an active leader on the Senate floor. The Senate must continue to pursue issues that are of high concern to the student body and administration.

Diane Repp

I have enjoyed serving as your Senate representative the last two years. Should you reelect me, I plan to continue to represent your needs and concerns at all times.

Engineering Seniors (4)

Kathryn L. Hughes

I have really enjoyed my last two years in the Senate. As co-chair of the Finance Committee, I have played an active role in Student Government. I hope to continue in the Senate next year.

Chuck Evans

If elected Senator, I will represent the viewpoints on issues concerning students in the College of Engineering. We must work together to solve our differences to make this an academic community admired by everyone.

David T. Chappell

I would very much like to have the opportunity to represent PAMS in the Student Senate. If elected, I will strive to show good judgment and leadership skills. I would appreciate your support.

D. Sean O'Neal
Sophomore

Hey, howdy all rising sophomores of PAMS. It's time for Senate elections and I'm running for re-election. I hope that you will allow me to serve again this year. Questions? Call me anytime 737-6972.

Jennings W. Bunch
Senior

I would like to offer Student Senate my experiences and knowledge that I have gained through holding offices in other campus organizations. These experiences qualify me to represent my fellow students well.

What You Do After Graduation Could Depend On What You Do Right Now.

The fact is, without work experience behind you, you'll have a lot of work ahead of you finding a job after college. That's why the National Security Agency's Cooperative Education Program exists. It gives students real-world work experience now, so they're prepared for what comes later. We're currently recruiting freshmen and sophomores majoring in: electrical engineering, computer science and Slack; Middle Eastern and Asian languages. If you're ready for the challenge, call the Co-op office at 737-2199.

COMMENT NOT AVAILABLE

Nicholas R. Ivester
Sophomore

Having served on the Student Senate and its Services Committee, I believe I can further the effectiveness of the Student Senate by providing support and assistance to those organizations and individuals that require it most.

Jan Beiting
Sophomore

Rising CHASS sophomores, I urge you to reelect me. I'll listen to your opinions and work hard to represent the best interests of the student body in our Senate. Vote for Jan Beiting!

Todd Holmes
Sophomore

There are many issues facing our university that are creating a negative impact on us as students. Racism, sexism and university finances are issues that must be faced by competent Student Government.

Holly F. Mills
Sophomore

In my opinion, a university is an institution for individual growth in the areas of knowledge, maturity, tolerance and understanding. I would like to do my part, as a member of the Student Senate, to contribute to the growth of myself, others and North Carolina State University.

Pam Gibson
Sophomore

As a current senator, I work diligently on the Homecoming, Minority Affairs, Freshman Experience and Centennial Center Building Committees and have gained valuable experience. Please allow me to continue working on your behalf.

Steve Powers
Sophomore

Achieving the positions of Executive Assistant to the Student Body President and Freshman Experience Advisory Board this year gives me the qualifications I would like to contribute to the Student Senate.

Justin Revels
Sophomore

Too many campus related issues are overlooked and are not, in my opinion, taken seriously enough. By serving on Senate, I plan to get more students involved in these issues and stress their importance and how they effect NCSU as a whole.

Scott Horton
Sophomore

Student Government would be worthless without the input of students. If elected, I will make sure that students' concerns and opinions are recognized by the Senate. Together we can make it happen.

Andrea Hearn
Junior

I am interested in becoming a member of the Senate because I feel that everyone should be given a voice on what goes on around campus. A good senator creates new ideas and enhances old ideas.

John R. Seay Jr.
Junior

As a student senator, I desire to improve relations among the various racial and ethnic groups, increase student awareness of events affecting the student body, and create further opportunity for minorities here at NCSU.

Jamie Hollimon
Junior

To all of the rising juniors in the School of Humanities and Social Sciences: promote excellent representation by voting me Jamie Hollimon into the Student Senate.

Voting takes place on April 2nd and 3rd. Get involved. Vote!!

CHASS (4, 4, 4)

Amanda Kornegay
Junior

If elected to Senate, I'll be dedicated to the needs of everyone at NCSU. Students should be aware of what is happening on our campus. It will become my responsibility to make this happen.

Jennifer Kendrick
Junior

I'm excited about the possibility of serving on Senate because it would give me the chance to be CHASS students' voice on campus. If elected, I will promote the welfare of CHASS and its students.

Jay V. Britt
Junior

After two years of consistently and faithfully supporting CHASS legislation on the Senate floor, I am once again seeking re-election. CHASS students keep your strong voice in Student Senate, re-elect Jay Britt! Together we make a difference.

Celeste Cook
Junior

Especially during this time of uncertainty at N.C. State, the student body must be strong in order to provide support for our university. I plan to instill this strength through the Senate, and appreciate all support.

Robert Ray Gibson
Junior

I'm decisive, open-minded and not afraid to speak up. I would like to be your Humanities and Social Sciences junior representative. Please vote for me on election day, April 2 and 3.

Donald Murdaugh
Junior

I was a senator my freshmen year. In addition, over this past year I have attended some Senate meetings, so I have Student Government experience. I hope you vote for experience.

Eric Johnson
Junior

As a candidate for re-election, I have had one full year of Senate experience. I have worked hard this year with the Athletics Committee and have continually worked with athletics concerns such as ticket distribution.

Donnie Williams
Junior

Experienced as a current member of the Senate and Student Center Board of Directors and former Judicial Board Chair, I understand student concerns. Thank you for the chance to continue serving in YOUR Student Government.

Karen Pachuta
Junior

Through my enthusiasm and my previous experience as a Senator, I believe I can represent not only CHASS students, but also all NCSU students to insure that our voices are heard in the policy-making process.

Jeff Eagle
Senior

Over the past year, N.C. State students have been faced with challenges and controversy. I want to continue to meet the needs and express the thoughts of the student body. Fly high, re-elect Eagle.

Kim Jenkins

For two years, I have served as a Student Senator and am very involved in Student Government. If re-elected, I will continue to represent students' views and concerns and help make needed changes in our university.

Robby Ewing
Senior

This position gives me an excellent opportunity to serve our university. I am to protest the current budget cuts and continual raises in costs to students. Your voice will be heard in Student Government.
