Pack shuts down No. 2 FSU

*The Wolfpack pulled off perhaps the greatest upset in ACC history with a win at home again Florida State.

Staff Writer

Florida State Coach Bobby Bowden and the 50,000 fans in attendance were stunned, but Head Coach Mike O'Cain pulled off an incredible victory over the No. 2 ranked Florida State Seminoles. "It's a great day for the Wolfpack. This is the most important win for the Pack since joining the ACC in 1992."

Below, FSU Head Coach Bobby Bowden after the Pack's victory. N.C. State's win was just the second FSU loss in the ACC since joining in 1992.

Sports Brief Report

A first time for everything: N.C. State is the first ACC team to hold Florida State to seven points or less since the Seminoles joined the ACC in 1992. The last time the Seminoles scored less than seven points in a contest was in 1988 when Miami defeated FSU 31-0 in the season opener.

What do Brett Favre and Jamie Barnette have in common? Favre and Barnette are the last two quarterbacks to lead non-AAP Top 25 ranked teams past the Florida State Seminoles. Favre did it in 1989 when Southern Miss defeated FSU 30-26 in the season opener. Barnette led the Pack to the upset win on Saturday. Barnette had the advantage in one important area: the score.

- University Players offers acting and technical workshops throughout September.

Meister Bows

For those who have always had an interest in the dramatic arts, this year’s University Players become involved with N.C. State’s Theater Arts in a new and exciting way. University Players have already boxed their first season as an arts group to the public, creating the first opportunity to visit the theater the new year and see new shows.

The University Players, N.C. State’s arts group, is currently hosting a series of acting and technical workshops in the Student Union. The workshops which begin September 7th and will be conducted every Wednesday from 3:00-5:00 p.m. at Thompson Theatre.

Trip-hop attacks

- Massive Attack’s high-energy mini-festival enlivened the first Thursday last month.

Mystery Illness

So it was another great night at the Riot with another great band on Wednesday. All the way from England, Massive Attack wowed the full audience with a set of captivating trip-hop rhythms and beats. Before they took the stage around 9:00 p.m., a full house of fans patiently waited for the much anticipated show. The “Clockwork Orange” soundtrack, and the presence of trip-hop aficionados, set the scene.

The band’s return to the stage was met with excitement and anticipation. The crowd was completely immersed in the music. The energy of the people wasn’t the only highlight that the crowd could enjoy at the Riot. The Riot’s stage lights were turned off to provide a more intimate atmosphere for the performance.

Massive Attack, featuring their dance/rap outfit came to Raleigh from Bristol, England.

ne spring all over the UK contributing to the trip-hop movement. The lyrics and melodies come together with fullness and passion to create an artistically meaningful style of music.

On tour, Massive Attack and trip-hop reggae legend Horace Andy, who helped out on their last trip, are currently playing to packed houses. Their show on the main stage featured the singles “Natural” and “Earth.”

But the chemistry alone between nine people on stage was wondrous. The touring bassist and the drummer both gained new songs with the same enthusiasm. The band’s lead singer, Robert, who was hinting every note with perfection.

and the crowd was truly starry, although in different ways. I recall people playing around and growing, and I think we saw people just in awe and smiling at the stage. The band played to a sold-out crowd.

On stage, the songs were interesting because the actual album that the band played was different from the ones we had previously heard. The band used their stage to highlight their music and really engage the audience. They didn’t just throw their music into the air and leave it up to the audience to appreciate it. They were making art on stage and allowing the audience to experience it.

- Baring Cell Theatre Company comes to N.C. State September 17.

Cue Soup

Are you tired of ordinary entertainment with the good guy who always wins, the beautiful heroine, and the dramatic finale? Then you are in luck. The Baring Cell Theatre Company will offer you a different approach to drama. They will be coming to Thompson Theatre September 17 through 21.

This season is opening its second season with the American premiere of "Waiting for Godot" by Samuel Beckett. The play is a comic work of dark humor and black humor. It is a comedy about a pair of middle-aged professional men named Vladimir and Estragon, who met somewhere on a continent that is never specified. They are trapped on a beach and are always waiting for someone to come and take them away. The play is filled with strange and bizarre events, and the audience is never sure what is going to happen next.

The Baring Cell Theatre Company performs in the Student Union, information will be available there. For more information, please call the box office at 773-3111 or visit their website at www.baringcell.org.

Seemingly in every corner of Georgia Tech's campus, discussions on the future of student life are taking place. These conversations are not isolated to a select few, but rather involve a wide range of topics, from the impact of departmental changes to the potential effects of new policies. As administrators and students alike grapple with the challenges of today's academic landscape, it is clear that the future of student life at Georgia Tech is a topic that affects us all.

Technician Campus CAMPUS

Respect the Pack

When you see the Pack, do you see red and black, or do you see something else? For many Georgia Tech students, the Pack is much more than just a mascot. It is a symbol of school spirit and pride. And for those who don't, it's time to break down the barriers and understand the true meaning of the Pack.

Concern with fees

Concern with fees. Concern with fees. Concern with fees. It seems like the only thing people are talking about these days. But what are we really concerned about? Are we concerned about the fees themselves, or are we concerned about the impact they have on our lives? And what can we do about it?

Tales of an Evil Avent Ferry regime

Tales of an Evil Avent Ferry regime. What's the deal with this guy anyway? Is he really as evil as people say he is, or is it all just a big misunderstanding? Only time will tell.

Technician's view

Respect the Pack

As you can see, the Technician's view is all about respect. It's about respecting our students, our faculty, and our university. It's about having open and honest discussions on the important issues facing our campus. So let's get talking, let's respect each other, and let's make Georgia Tech the best it can be.

A matter of finesse

• Thursday’s match against Greensboro provided a glimpse of what a well-coordinated offense can do.

James Erl

Sports Editor

The UNCG Spartans offense operated like a well-coordinated machine against the Wolfpack defense.

UNCG head coach Brian Bornstein praised his team for its offensive performance.

Bornstein said the team's success against an early season opponent is a positive sign.

The UNCG offense scored five goals in the first half against the Wolfpack defense.

The Spartans took an early lead and never looked back, winning 5-0.

The victory moves the Spartans to 1-1 in conference play, while the Wolfpack falls to 0-2.

Next week, UNCG will travel to play at Furman University in a crucial match for both teams.

Soccer loses two at Duke Classic

• Men’s soccer recently lost two games at Duke in the Addius-Foulk shocked Classic.

The Wolfpack lost both matches last weekend to open the season.

In the first game, the Pack lost 1-0 to the Blue Devils.

In the second game, UNCG fell 2-1 to Duke.

Despite the losses, the Pack believes it can compete against some of the top teams in the country.

The Pack will look to bounce back next weekend when it hosts Elon in its home opener.
