ENGINEERS PLAN THEIR FAIR FOR ST. PATRICK'S DAY

Nearly 500 Engineering Students Gather in Pullen Hall to Discuss Plans

ANTHONY BE ST. PATRICK

President of Engineers' Council Honored by Choice of Students

The largest meeting of Engineering students in the history of State College was held in Pullen Hall Tuesday evening. The purpose of the meeting was the presentation to the Engineering students by the Engineers' Council of the program for developing more spirit and better co-operation among the students of the various departments, and to outline the program for the first Annual Engineers' Day, which will be St. Patrick's Day, March 17, next. Between 400 and 500 Engineering students attended the meeting, and many of the members of the Engineering Faculty were present.

Dean E. L. Cloyd, himself an engineer, was the first speaker on the program, and he stressed the need of closer co-operation between the engineers, and called upon them to back up strongly the efforts of the Engineers' Council.

Dean Cloyd was followed by Professor L. E. Wooten, of the Department of Civil Engineering and a graduate of State College. He pointed out the necessity for the development among the engineers of this college of an "esprit de corps." Professor Wooten said that State College engineers had been suffering from an "inferiority complex," and that if they would just remember that they outnumber the students of all the other schools combined, it would help them to build up a pride in themselves and their school.

Colonel J. W. Harrelson, the third speaker on the program and also an engineer, emphasized the points brought out by the previous speakers, and complimented the Council on their move to build up spirit in the Engineering School.

Professor W. J. Dana, of the Department of Mechanical Engineering, complimented the students on getting together, and expressed himself as particularly pleased that the Council—Continued on page 2.

DR. WILSON ENTERTAINS THE CHEMISTRY FACULTY

The members of the faculty of the Department of Chemistry and the Dean of the School of Science and Business were the guests at a stag dinner Tuesday evening, given by Dr. A. J. Wilson, departmental chairman.

The well appointed dinner was followed by a smoke barrage, through which stories and escapades of former college days permeated.

The guests were Professors B. F. Brown, H. L. Cavens, J. L. Cummings, A. D. Jones, W. E. Jordan, E. E. Randolph, F. E. Rice, G. H. Satterfield, H. W. Thompson, and L. F. Williams.

Meredith "Y" Cabinet Royally Entertained By 'Plott & Pals'

The Meredith Y. W. C. A. Cabinet and N. C. State Y. M. C. A. Cabinet enjoyed a joint meeting in the N. C. S. "Y" building Friday evening, November 19.

At the meeting Miss Odessa Arnette, president of the Meredith Y. W. C. A., and H. K. Plott, president of State College Y. M. C. A., briefly explained the work of their associations and the general plans for future work. After these two talks, all the other members of the two cabinets made short talks in which they told of the work of the committees of which they are chairmen. These members also spoke briefly of their plans for future committee work. This was followed by a general discussion of problems of both "Y's" and a discussion of the ways in which the two associations may work together. Plans for future joint meetings of this kind were also considered.

Farmers, Farmerettes And Faculty Warm Barn

Something is going to happen, and going to happen soon. Tonight, over at Squire Miller's barn, there will be the greatest event of the year for the "Aggies." The farm lads will assemble at 8:00 o'clock, feeling quite natural in their overalls. The only handicap is that they will be required to wear shoes. The country lassies will be gaily bedecked with gingham house dresses and sun-bonnets. The goddess of merriment will reign supreme, as the farmers, farmerettes, and the "Ag" faculty with their spouses unite in frolic and fun, which will last until near the midnight hour. One of the biggest and merriest numbers on the program will be an old-fashioned corn shucking, which will be carried out according to the "good old rule." The first farmer to find a red ear of corn will be allowed to kiss the girl of his choice.

CARTOONIST PRESENTS GOOD PROGRAM IN PULLEN HALL

Audience Considered Extremely Responsive to Drawings and Illustrations

Ned Woodman, the cartoonist, gave an interesting entertainment before a large audience of State College students and their friends from Raleigh in Pullen Hall Friday night of last week.

Mr. Woodman is not only a cartoonist of creative ability, but a philosopher who touches up his points with bits of clever wit while illustrations are rapidly taking shape under his guiding hand with the crayon. He is also somewhat of a musician, coming from Chicago on the Redpath Circuit. The two hours of entertainment earned most hearty applause as well as many favorable comments from the people of Raleigh.

After the program, several members of the audience climbed on the stage in quest of one of his crayon drawings. Mr. Woodman remarked that this was one of the high spots of his series of lectures, for the audience was very responsive and enthusiastic throughout the entire program. The scenes of Hiawatha and the Grand Canyon were unique and displayed Mr. Woodman's wonderful originality.

The entertainment and lecture committee, composed of Dean Cloyd, Prof. J. D. Clarke, and E. S. King, secretary of the Y. M. C. A., are to be highly commended for their ability to bring such high-class entertainment and lectures before us.

The next Redpath number on the program will be Lew Sarett, woodsman, poet, lecturer, and college professor of Northwestern University. This gentleman was a fraternity brother of Prof. C. C. Cunningham while at Belmont College, and also his instructor while at Northwestern University.

The social hour, with refreshments and good time for all, followed the business part of the program and proved to be more than just a little interesting to every member of the two cabinets. This part of the meeting increased the interest in the possibilities of future joint meetings of this kind.

The members of the Meredith "Y" Cabinet present were: Odessa Arnette, president; Elizabeth Graham, Margaret Harrison, Virginia Groves, Alma Webb, Isabel McCleod, Lucille Jones, Martha McCullen, Clyda Parrish, Mary Frances Biggers, MaBie Patterson, Margaret Lassiter, Ruth Loudermilk, Nancy Woods, and Miss Biggers, chaperone.

The members of the N. C. State "Y" Cabinet present were: H. K. Plott, president; J. B. Britt, C. L. Aldridge, Jeff Davis, H. E. Springer, F. M. Chedester, J. E. Tiddy, C. W. Jackson, F. E. Plummer, R. B. Holden.

PINE BURRS ARE DISTRIBUTED AT FRESH MEETING

Local Honorary Scholarship and Leadership Society Elects Ten Members

TO BE INITIATED SOON

Exact Date for Initiation Has Not Been Decided; Probably Be Held Within Week

"Pine Burrs," emblematic of the Pine Burr Honorary Society of State College, were presented to two seniors and eight juniors by B. A. Sides, president of the society, at the chapel exercises in Pullen Hall at noon on Friday, November 19.

"These 'burrs,'" said the President, "are given to you to show that you have been elected into membership in the Pine Burr Society, a strictly State College society, and one that stands for the highest in scholarship, campus activity, and fellowship."

To be eligible for this honor, a student must have completed two years of a regular undergraduate course without having failed in a single subject, must have an average grade of 85 or above, and must be engaged in and a leader of some form of extra-curricula "college" activity. Election into this society is considered one of the highest honors that may be given a student at this College.

The seniors to receive "burrs" were C. O. Butler, Chemical Engineering, and W. A. Yost, Mechanical Engineering, and the eight juniors were as follows: C. S. Tucker, Vocational Education; J. B. Britt, Agriculture; H. H. Rogers, Physics; L. Shaw, Agriculture; P. E. Trevathan, Ceramic Engineering; J. M. Dunn, Textile Manufacturing; J. M. Kilgore, Electrical Engineering, and J. C. Tomlinson, Agriculture.

Plans for the initiation and banquet have been made, but the exact date has not yet been announced. The ceremonies will be held, however, either this coming week or the one following, in the college Y. M. C. A.

The members of Pine Burr Society in the Class of 1927 are: J. L. Campbell, F. M. Chedester, J. D. Conrad, R. F. Fountain, J. F. Matheson, F. E. Plummer, B. A. Sides, R. R. Trevathan, W. E. Wilson, and D. C. Worth.

STATE GLEE CLUB MAKES FIRST TRIP

The North Carolina State College Glee Club and orchestra left Wednesday morning at 11:00 o'clock on the first trip of the year, in the course of which they toured eastern North Carolina, giving concerts in Snow Hill Wednesday night, Hookerton Thursday night, and Dunn Friday night. Quite a number were present at each appearance of the club and their numbers were exceptionally well received.

Light and classical numbers were combined on the program of music for this trip, and other journeys will be made later during the year. The boys returned to Raleigh Saturday morning.

The male chorus is composed of sixteen voices and the remainder of the thirty-two going on the trip compose the college quartet and the orchestra. Major P. W. Price accompanied the boys, the whole party leaving on a chartered bus from Pullen Hall.

Those going on the trip were G. W. Britt, T. J. Byrum, J. Cole, J. E. Dehann, L. C. Einwick, B. H. Grove, R. H. Harrell, O. D. Haynes, R. W. Harvell, R. W. Hayward, A. C. Holloway, W. D. Kendall, J. A. King, B. S. Linville, B. S. Low, A. E. Lanier, R. Mason, W. R. McCracken, E. McCann, J. C. Matthews, E. J. Nesbitt, C. W. Overman, C. C. Oldham, H. Sang, R. B. Selby, F. M. Strickland, H. Schachtman, E. Tysor, V. L. Taylor, E. V. Vestal, S. V. Walsh, H. T. Wescott, and B. F. Williams.

DR. NEAL ADDRESSES CHEMISTRY SEMINAR

Dr. K. P. Neal discussed "First Aid" at the meeting of the Chemistry Seminar last Tuesday. Dr. Neal is an honor graduate of Harvard, and is now prominent in medical work in this section.

Because of Having You Here

When the air it is chilly
With its autumnal breeze;
When the winds whistle shrilly
Through the bare, lifeless trees;
When your blood it is snappy
With its Thanksgiving cheer,
You can make the world happy
At its having you here.

When the barn it is bulging
With its plenteous store,
While the pigs are divulging
What they want, at its door;
When the chick and the ducky
Wander friendly near,
You can make the world lucky
'Cause of having you here.

When the folks in the kitchen
Ply themselves to their trade,
While the odors bewitchin'
Tell of things they have made;
While the pies, peach and cherry,
And the turkey appear,
You can make the world merry
Just at having you here.

TECH GRADS FORM LARGE PART N. C. TEACHING FORCES

"Progressive Farmer" Congratulates Farm Demonstration Agents in State

27 FROM STATE COLLEGE

Possibilities of Getting Mass Action on Important School Issues

(By Zippy Mack.)

That State College alumni form the bulk of all the farm demonstration and vocational teaching force of the State of North Carolina is an interesting fact brought out by the Progressive Farmer in its column of "Birthday Greetings" to those people.

Since January 1 the Progressive Farmer has extended greetings to thirty-seven county farm demonstration agents and vocational education teachers, twenty-seven of whom went out as graduates of this institution. Nine other institutions have representatives, proportioned as follows. Auburn, 1; Clemson, 3; Duke 2 (one of whom came to State later); Mississippi A. and M., 1; Wake Forest, 1 (who later came to State); Iowa State, 1; Ohio State, 1; University of Tennessee, 1; Georgia State College of Agriculture, 1.

The great preponderance of State College men, most of whom are natives of the State, in the farm fields of this kind, proves that State College is in the midst of the recent great advance of the State, and that the money the taxpayers have paid for the upkeep of the educational institutions is being turned directly back into the coffers of the State's development. It is interesting to note that the teaching and demonstration work is being handled almost entirely by men who are in a position to know at first hand the—Continued on page 2.

BOYS ON COLLEGE SICK LIST NOW MUCH BETTER

Dwight Johnson, who has been confined in the College Infirmary following an operation for appendicitis at Rex Hospital, has been released and is now able to attend classes; while George Hunsucker, football star, who has been ill since receiving a rupture in the football game between State and Furman on October 2, although still in the infirmary, is reported to be doing very nicely and hopes to accompany the football team to Columbia.

Arthur Taylor successfully underwent an operation at Rex Hospital for the removal of his tonsils, and is now resting nicely at the infirmary. "Oit" is expected to be able to resume his class duties by the first of the week.

W. T. Moseley is quarantined with a badly infected throat, but Miss Maynard reports that he will be able to attend classes in a few days.

Other students confined to the infirmary are: F. M. Plunkett, infected foot, and D. A. Grider, abscess of throat.

R. O. T. C. IS HIGHLY PRAISED BY CELEBRATION LEADERS

Sprague Silver and A. L. Fletcher Send Congratulatory Letters to Major C. C. Early

Major Early, the leader of the R. O. T. C. Regiment, has received two congratulatory letters from the leaders of the Armistice Day celebration in Raleigh. These letters came as a result of the fine showing made by the regiment in the Armistice Day parade.

The letters are as follows: Major C. C. Early, Military Department, State College, Raleigh, N. C.

My dear Major Early: As chairman of the parade committee for Armistice Day, I desire to express to you and the officers of your staff my appreciation of their efforts to make our Armistice Day parade the greatest one we have ever had in Raleigh.

The student body of your unit deserve a great amount of praise for the wonderful showing they made, and if you will express my appreciation to the student body and student officers I will be very grateful.

With kindest regards, I am Yours very truly, SPRAGUE SILVER.

The second is as follows: Major C. C. Early, State College Station, Raleigh, N. C.

Dear Major Early: I am deeply grateful to you for your assistance in making our Armistice Day parade a success. Your State College regiment was the finest feature of the parade. They made a splendid appearance, and brought back to the minds of the thousands of people watching their memories of the stirring days of 1917 when our boys marched away to war.

I greatly appreciate what you did, and I beg that you extend to the members of your committee and to Dr. Brooks the heartfelt thanks of Raleigh Post No. 1 of the American Legion for the splendid way in which State College helped us to celebrate Armistice Day.

With best wishes, I am Very truly your friend, A. L. FLETCHER, General Chairman.

MAIL SITUATION NOW IMPROVING

During the last three or four weeks articles have been published in this paper which might be construed to mean that the local postal authorities have not done their full duty in delivering mail to the students.

An interview with the staff has disclosed the fact that such was not the intention of that body. Students contributors, taking advantage of the alleged deplorable mail service that is necessary under the present system of distribution, have let their imagination soar, it is said.

Postmaster Duncan has been doing some investigating on his own initiative, and it is reported that he did not find the waiting lines at the windows so long as he had been led to expect.

DUNLAP WILL BE CONFINED TO BED FOR EIGHT WEEKS

X-ray Test Brings to Light a Crushed Condition of a Lumbar Vertebra

R. H. Dunlap, State College student, who was run down last Thursday night during the student celebration, was removed Thursday afternoon on a stretcher to his home in Charlotte, where he will be confined to his bed for seven or eight weeks. X-ray pictures having disclosed the fact that he suffered a fracture of the second lower lumbar vertebra when both wheels of a Willys-Knight roadster, driven by R. L. Dresser, Raleigh business man, passed over his body.

Contrary to first reports sent out regarding the accident, Dunlap was not with the college students who were holding a snake dance at the head of Fayetteville street, but was on his way to the State Theatre at the time. He did not take part in the celebration at any time, and merely happened to be crossing the street at the time Dresser started to leave, after having some words with the group of students who had detained him in their demonstration.

Dunlap is a sophomore in Chemical Engineering, and was initiated into the order of DeMolay on the night preceding the accident. At first his injuries were thought to be of a minor nature, but recent X-ray tests show that it will be necessary for him to lie on his back for at least 7 or 8 weeks.

COLLEGE RECEIVES HERD FOR EXPERIMENTAL WORK

Professor R. S. Curtis, head of the experimental and extension work in Animal Husbandry, has recently received sixty pure-bred Hereford feeders, for the purpose of experiments in feeding. They are of uniform size, ranging from eight to twelve months of age. They were shipped here from a western range.

Tucker Presents Paper On Municipal Engineering Work

Harry Tucker, Professor of Highway Engineering, attended the annual meeting of the American Society for Municipal Improvements in Washington on November 8th to 12th. He read a paper on "The Organization of Engineering Departments in Small Cities."

Professor Tucker reports that a number of State College graduates, a good many of them now connected with such engineering departments, attended the meeting.

Professor Tucker's paper dealt with the organization of engineering departments in small cities, and was prompted by a belief that such departments were not organized efficiently to carry on engineering work in such cities. The Engineering News-Record had conducted a survey of some one hundred such cities, and the results of the survey showed that only about 25 per cent had efficient engineering departments.

Professor Tucker pointed out that for the efficient organization of engineering departments in a city of from 25,000 to 30,000 population, the following engineers should be employed:

A competent city engineer, office assistant, three assistants to superintend sewers, water, and streets, and two additional assistants in the water department. He suggested that the city engineer should have jurisdiction over garbage disposal and building inspection. The cost of an engineering organization of this kind should not exceed $25,000 per year. To take care of new construction, it would be only necessary to extend the organization by the addition of subordinate engineers.

Discussion of Professor Tucker's paper at Washington brought out the fact that it would be well to include the position of plumbing inspector under the city engineer, and that it might not always be feasible to have the water department under the city engineer.

Freshman Council Will Give Training In Christian Faith

"To create, maintain, and extend high standards of Christian Character on State College campus."

Here we have the general statement of purpose of the Freshman Friendship Council of the North Carolina State College Y. M. C. A. The Council is the organization that affords new students at State training in the fundamentals of the Christian faith, and privilege of an active part in the work of the Y. M. C. A. on our campus.

The above statement of purpose is clear and definite in a practical way only upon explanation of the term or phrase "high standards of Christian character." Christian and Christian character are very clearly and adequately expressed in Sherwood Eddy's definition: "A Christian is one who is trying to live up to all the meanings he sees in Christ." This definition emphasizes the possibility and necessity for continuous growth and achievement in the Christian life. And upon careful analysis, the purpose and plan of the Council resolve into an effort to find the positive growing and achieving life for the individuals that constitute the membership of the Council and for the State College student body.

Now Christianity is rooted in an historic person. So to attain more of the quality of life called Christian, one must study the historic character and the conditions under which this person lived; one must learn active devotion, and one must serve. The most satisfactory method of study combines private study with group study. That is, a group of students agree on a plan of study and a time of meeting. In this case once a week. Each member makes a private study of the material agreed upon for the given week. At the meeting each brings the fruits of his labor as well as the questions which the study has raised. In this way, each profits by the findings and study and stimulus of all the others. The group meeting enriches the private study and gives impetus to it.

The nucleus about which the Council is to be built is rapidly being chosen. The first regular meeting of the Council will be held in the Y. M. C. A. Auditorium on Sunday afternoon, November 28, at 1:30 o'clock. The "Y" is fortunate in being able to have Dr. W. D. Weatherford, president of Southern College Y. M. C. A. of Nashville, present at that time. It should be noted that Dr. Weatherford was a member of the building committee for the Y. M. C. A. building here at State. He is author of the first text that is used in the Council work: "Introducing Men to Christ." What a fine start for this year's Council to know the author of the text and to appreciate his remarkable Christian dynamic.

The committee on organization for the 1928-29 Freshman Council is headed by Mr. A. B. Holden, president of Freshman Council of last year, and president of last year's Freshman Class. The committee cordially welcomes every man of this year's Freshman Class to the meeting in the Y. M. C. A. Auditorium on Sunday afternoon at 1:30 on November 28, and invites all who are willing to accept the standard and purpose of the Council to become members.

Don't forget Dr. Weatherford's address, which is to be the feature of our first meeting.

was outlining a program of combined meetings for the engineering societies.

The last speaker on the program was John A. Anthony, President of the Engineers' Council, who is to be the first "St. Pat," the highest honor that can be conferred on an Engineering student at State College. President Anthony explained the workings of the Engineers' Council, and outlined the tentative program for the Engineers' Fair, the Parade, and the "Grand Brawl" to be held next St. Patrick's Day. He then outlined the necessity for funds to carry out the program, and suggested that the Engineering students allow the college authorities to add an assessment of $1 to the second quarter fees. On calling for a vote on this method of raising the funds, the students gave a unanimous affirmative.

The meeting adjourned with a "Wau-Ga-Rac" for the Engineers. This meeting assures the success of the Council's program, and gives indication that the Engineers will hereafter work as a unit.

problems and needs of the farmers of the State. It is interesting to contemplate the possibilities of getting through these men, all of one family, as it were, some definite action with regard to the present overproduction of cotton. It is interesting to note, also, the possibilities of getting mass action through them for the proposed longer school term, better roads, better rural sanitation, and more conveniences for the country home.

Those of the State College group who have received felicitations from Clarence Poe's paper, since January 1, are as follows:

R. D. Goodman, whose birthday is January 14, is a member of the Class of '13, and was born near Concord. He is now a county agent, but his county was not given.

E. P. Welch, whose birthday is March 15, is now county agent in Beaufort County. He is a member of the Class of '20, and was born in Mecklenburg County.

R. L. Sloan, birthday March 28, a member of the Class of '13, is now county agent in Burke County. He is also a native of Mecklenburg.

L. A. Ammon, whose birthday is April 22, is now county agent in Transylvania County. He is a member of the Class of '13. Ammon is stressing the importance of raising livestock in the mountain sections.

G. L. Winchester, born in Guilford County June 5, is now agricultural teacher at Stanfield. He is a member of the Class of '22, and following his graduation taught for a time here in the College.

G. C. Buck, teacher of Agriculture in the school on Route 1, Kinston, is a member of the Class of '16. He was born June 18. For his community he has a definite program of co-operative buying and selling, and community fairs.

D. H. Osborne, born July 3, in Guilford County, and a member of the Class of '20, is now demonstration agent in Alexander County.

J. I. Wagoner, a member of the Class of '19, and a great player on the football team of his day, is now demonstration agent in his native county of Guilford. His birthday falls July 19. Before taking up demonstration work, Wagoner taught.

O. H. Phillips, county agent in Stanly, was born August 21. He went to Duke for a time before entering State. He has served his county in the legislature.

N. B. Stevens, born August 27 in Wayne County, and a member of the Class of '12, is now agent for Cumberland County. He is devoting most of his efforts toward the raising of better cotton.

E. E. Turner, born August 27, and a member of the Class of '17, is now demonstration agent in Ashe County.

Much of his time is spent in developing new money crops to take the place of the disappearing timber of the mountain regions.

A. K. Robertson receives his greetings on August 28, and is a member of the Class of '12. He was born in Robeson, but is now agent in Wayne.

V. C. Taylor, a member of the Class of '23, celebrates on August 29. He is now teacher of Agriculture at Lattimore. Pure-bred livestock is his long suit.

C. W. Warrick, a September 8 native of Wayne County, and a member of the Class of '20, is now teaching Agriculture at Pikeville.

J. G. Morrison, an '06 man, born September 17, is now county agent in his native county, Lincoln.

P. H. Satterwhite, a September 24 addition to the population of Burke County and a '24 addition to our alumni, is now teaching Agriculture at Ronda.

D. H. Sutton, '20, who receives congratulations on September 25, is now teaching Agriculture at Forest City. Before going there, he taught in Bladenboro and China Grove. Poultry is his dish.

J. O. Anthony, a November 1 native of Guilford County, and a member of the Class of '24, is now teaching at Lillington. Before entering college, Anthony was with the A. E. F. in France.

R. M. Kmazey is teaching Agriculture at Leicester High School. He is a member of the Class of '21, and celebrates October 13.

J. A. Wilson, who went to Berea

College, and to Kentucky Wesleyan, and finished here in '25, is teaching at Denver, N. C.

G. F. Seymour, who gets his congratulations on October 16, is now teaching Agriculture at Grantham School, out from Goldsboro. He is a member of the Class of '25.

B. J. Beason, also a member of the Class of '25, is teaching at Dobson. He is an October 19 product of Guilford County. His policy is that of living at home.

N. M. Smith, '25, is teaching at Warsaw, where he received natal felicitations October 26.

J. M. Henley, '20, is farming and doing teaching at Salemburg. He was born November 1 at Burlington, a long time ago.

L. E. Raper, '23, is teaching at Cary, where he is also doing much experimental work in poultry. He celebrates November 13.

Where dependability is vital

IN connection with a new pumping station at Milwaukee, Wisconsin, additional feeder mains were required. It was necessary that one of these should carry an unusually large proportion of the water supply, and 54-inch pipe was decided upon. Although pipe of material other than cast iron had a lower first cost, Cast Iron Pipe was chosen because the possibility of interruption to service had to be reduced to a minimum.

The photograph above shows a section of pipe being lowered into the ditch in the process of laying it.

A smoking pleasure that never fails

HERE is the outstanding fact of the entire cigarette industry: Camels never tire the taste, no matter how liberally you smoke them; never leave a cigarette after-taste.

Only the choicest tobaccos that nature produces, only the finest blending ever given a cigarette could produce a smoke that never fails to please, that always brings the utmost in smoking enjoyment. Regardless of how often you want the comfort of a smoke, of how steadily you light one after another,

Camels will never fail you, never give you any but the finest thrill of smoking pleasure.

That is why Camel sales, by far the largest in the world, keep overwhelmingly in the lead. Increasing millions are discovering the incomparable Camel quality—smoothness and mellowness.

If you want the one and only cigarette that's good to live with strenuously from morn to mid-night—the cigarette that never tires the taste—Have a Camel!

Can the Wolfpack "Kick the Bucket" by Thanksgiving Win?

Repetition of Memorable Victory of 1925 Would Place Deacons in Hard Position With Regard to Championship Aspirations; Wolfpack Has Improved Much in Recent Games.

Thanksgiving Day will not only mark the closing of the 1926 football schedule, but will also be the occasion for what some folks think the most important game of the Wolfpack schedule, for it is upon Thanksgiving that State's Wolfpack meets the Demon Deacons from Wake Forest.

To State, the outcome of the game means the difference between a "bad" and a fairly successful season. To Wake Forest, it means the State Championship. Should State defeat the Deacons and should Davidson trounce the Blue Devils the championship would go to Davidson.

There is a lot in "dope," and this writer has the utmost respect for other sport writers' opinions, for they are often based upon cold facts, but sport "dope" just like political "dope" is apt to be all wrong. Almost to a man the sport writers of the state have Wake Forest "doped" to an easy victory over State.

But what about last year? Weren't the Deacons slated to easily defeat the pack? Of course they were. But what was the result? Ask any Wake Forest Alumnus who was a member of the school in 1925 twenty-five years from now and without hesitancy he will be able to relate how the Wolfpack kept his Alma Mater from the honor of being crowned State Champions. Yes, last year the Deacons came, they saw, but they didn't conquer. As the final whistle blew the score stood State 6, Wake Forest 0. The old dope bucket had been overturned, much to the amazement of several thousand fans.

In fact, State seems to be the jinx for Wake Forest. No matter how smooth has been the sailing for the Deacons, they always find stiff opposition in the Wolfpack. Such things cannot always be explained in techni-

FROSH HARRIERS ELECT G. M. MITCHELL CAPTAIN

G. M. Mitchell, of Radford, Va., was elected captain of the State College Freshman Cross-Country Team Monday afternoon. Mitchell was the first State man to finish against Carolina Freshmen last week.

He was a star athlete in high school, being a letter man in baseball for four years, football and track one year. In track he was a sprint man, running the 100 and 220-yard dashes. Last year he was rated as the second best dash man in the prep schools of Virginia. It is seldom that a dash man is also a star three-miler.

Intramural Announcements

Any dormitory or fraternity wishing to enter the tag football league should see "Chick" Doak at the Gymnasium and get a football. Coach Doak wishes to see the representatives of each team in his office in the gym and arrange a schedule, on Monday, November 22, at 4:30.

All men wishing to enter the handball tournament should also see Coach Doak and arrange for partners in doubles; also, all men going out for intramural wrestling should turn in names and weights to him.

cal terms, but nevertheless such conditions exist. Sometimes to have a jinx is worth more than the presence of several capable stars. Yes, friends, this Wolfpack of ours is a strange pack indeed. One time they are limp and almost lifeless, but again they are a bunch of charging murderers. So don't be surprised at anything they may do. State's battle cry of late has been: "With McDowell and Outen we'll march onward and upward."

The following men will probably start the game for State if the squad comes through the Gamecock clash in fine style: Betty and Goodwin, end; Nicholson and Vaughn, guards; Logan, center; Bynum and Evans, tackles; Outen, McDowell, Melton, and Ridenhour will make up the backfield.

"ALL-AMERICANS" DEFEAT GREENVILLE GRID MACHINE

Greenville Grid Machine Fails Before Scruppy Offense of State Scrub Team

The "All-Americans" defeated the Greenville National Guard eleven in their second game of the season at Greenville, on Armistice Day, by the score of 7-0.

The Reserves scored a touchdown in the first five minutes of play, and it looked as if the scrubs were going to have very little competition, but the Greenville team fought stubbornly and successfully checked the threatening attacks of the A. A. eleven.

The game was played almost wholly in Greenville territory. One marker was all that the scrubs were able to score, although Polk made a 55-yard run off-tackle for a touchdown, but was called back as one of his teammates was called for tripping. On two other occasions the backs dropped passes which cost touchdowns.

The outstanding stars for State's All-American team were Polk, Pollock, Metz, Woodleaf, Herron, a former State player, was the best performer for the Greenville team.

WOLVES ENTRAIN MEET GAMECOCKS

Coach Tebell and his squad of twenty-five men left Friday night for Columbia, S. C., where the Wolfpack will clash with the strong University of South Carolina Gamecocks on Richardson Field this afternoon.

This is a conference game, and an important one. Coach Tebell has been drilling his squad thoroughly in breaking up the air game in which the Gamecocks have shown great strength this season. It may be remembered that the Gamecocks downed the strong V. P. I. eleven by a great passing attack.

Jack McDowell, star half-back for State, and whose work in the Duke game was spectacular, is in better condition than he has been this season. With his bullet-like passes and long punts Tebell expects this versatile back to aid greatly in the team's strong bid for a victory over the Gamecocks.

Trainer Sermon announced that the squad as a whole is in good condition, having come through the Duke game in fine style.

FOOTBALL AS A CO-ED SEES IT

While the coaches and philosophers are having their say on the merry subject of football, The Detroit Variety News prints the illuminating viewpoint of one co-ed.

"Football is the loveliest game. Almost everybody you know is there. They all yell and jump up and down and have the best time.

"Our opening game was wonderful. Our team was a little late, for they ran on the field as fast as they could, and the crowd waved and tooted things because they had come at last.

"The game was terribly rough. The fellows got the dirtiest faces. Nobody can say, though, that we haven't a clean-playing team. Every once in a while the whole team rushed to the sidelines and washed their faces with a sponge.

"Football is easy to understand. The main idea is to get rid of the ball. If any one is accidentally caught with it, he'll be knocked down every time. All the players get in the middle of the field, then somebody calls off their numbers to see if they are all there. They pass the ball to each other as fast as they can, and at the same time knock each other down. The last one caught with the ball runs with it until some one trips him.

"In the Alma game 'Nicky' Stromp was certainly a scream. One time he couldn't get rid of the ball. The whole mob was after him, and he became so furious that he threw the ball into the air. Everybody tried to avoid being hit. But Brett ran right into the way of it, and of course everybody jumped on him, which was an awfully good joke on Brett.

"Right in the beginning it could be seen that the Alma team wasn't any good. They had only one really cute fellow. He was darling, and had such lovely curly blond hair that he didn't have to wear his headgear. But, of course, the poor thing couldn't win the game by himself.

"The Columbia team didn't have a chance. They wore funny yellow sweaters. Immediately after each game, everybody that I asked said that we had won. And I was so thrilled!"

Man may learn to fly like a bird, but he will never learn to sit on a barbed wire fence.

Wolflets Trim Kittens 13-0 In Hard Fight On Home Grid

Leeka and Warren Star on State Team; 45-Yard End Run and 40-Yard Pass in Second and Third Quarters, Respectively, Bring Scores for Tech Freshman Players.

The Wolflets took another step toward the State Championship, when they defeated the Wild Kittens on Riddick Field last Saturday by the score of 13-0. Although the Kittens were outclassed in every department, they showed plenty of fight from beginning to end.

Leeka and Warren were the stars in the State eleven's backfield. The former was directly responsible for the first touchdown in the first half, when he skirted around left end for 45 yards and a touchdown, while the latter showed up well in every respect. He was good on running interference, made several pretty tackles, and was one of the best ground gainers for the Yearlings.

In the first quarter the Wolflets advanced the ball to the visitors' 2-yard line, but lost the ball on downs and Davidson punted out of danger. The first touchdown came in the second quarter, when Leeka ran around left end for 45 yards and a touchdown. He added the extra point by booting the ball squarely between the uprights.

The second touchdown came in the third quarter as the result of a 40-yard pass from Leeka to Childress, who jumped high into the air for the pigskin and raced across the goal line for the marker. Leeka failed to kick goal for the extra point. This was the last scoring that was done, but both teams carried on the fight until the final whistle blew.

"IF" IS BIG DROP IN DOPE BUCKET

Who will be the 1926 football champions of North Carolina? The crown now rests between Wake Forest and Davidson, who have won and tied the same number of games.

Wake Forest plays Guilford Saturday, while Davidson is resting up for the Duke scrap. Guilford is expected to show little opposition against the Deacons, and will really be only a practice game for them.

On Thanksgiving Day State meets Wake Forest, while Davidson tackles the Blue Devils. The outcome of these two games may decide the wearer of the 1926 football crown. However, there may be some upset in these Turkey Day games. If the Wildcats win from Duke and State defeats Wake Forest, Davidson will take the crown. On the other hand, if Duke turns the tide against the Cats (which is not expected to happen), and Wake Forest wins from State, the crown will go to the Deacons.

Last year State robbed the Deacons of the State championship by showing unexpected strength; but this year State will have to play great football to make history repeat itself. However, State has greatly improved in the last few games, and if there are no injuries in the Gamecock-Pack clash today, the Pack will be primed for the Turkey Day game.

Should Duke down Davidson and State defeat Wake Forest, the championship would still be undecided, as the Cats and Deacons would still be tied for the crown.

WOLFLETS WILL MEET BLUE IMPS

The undefeated Wolflets will be given the supreme test of the season when they meet the Blue Imps of Duke University on Hanes Field at Durham this afternoon. This contest will determine the winner of the freshman football championship of North Carolina.

Both teams have won and tied the same number of games. State's freshmen have tied the Little Deacons, defeated Davidson and Carolina, while the first-year men of Duke have tied Wake Forest and defeated Davidson.

By comparative scores the Imps have the edge over the Wolflets, since Duke defeated Davidson by a two-touchdown greater margin than State.

State's hope for victory lies in its backfield, which is composed of the best backs that have been seen in several years at State College. Captain Warren is expected to be one of the shining lights in today's game. He has already shown his ability in previous games in good interference to his teammates, and has been one of the most consistent ground-gainers for the Yearlings this season. The combination, Leeka to Childress, will give the Imps something to worry about.

This game has attracted quite a bit of attention and it is expected that several State students will journey to Durham to see this contest.

RIDDICK FIELD SUGGESTED AS SCENE OF CHAMP GAME

At present the two football teams contending for the State Championship are in a tie. With the Thanksgiving games as the only hope for breaking it, it now seems probable that they will be tied. Unless Duke or State upsets the dope in the coming games, it would be necessary to see who should be the real champion. A. J. McKelvin, sport writer for the News and Observer, has suggested a post-season game for the solution of the problem. He also suggests that it be played on Riddick Field, as it is the best situated and has the largest seating accommodations of any field in the State, having a seating capacity of ten thousand.

It has been reported that the Wake Forest authorities are agreeable to such a move, and it all rests now on the Davidson Athletic Association. Both the S. I. C. and the S. I. A. A. have strict rules against post-season games, but neither Wake Forest nor Davidson are in either of them and it would be all right to stage the game.

FRESHMEN TO RUN CROSS-COUNTRY RACE NEXT WEEK

For the second time in as many years, on Tuesday, November 23, at 4 o'clock, the Freshmen will run their annual cross-country race. This race takes the place of the examination in Physical Education, and all Freshmen except those playing football or those out for cross-country will be required to run.

The race last year was won by T. Freeman, who took only twelve and one-half minutes for the entire distance. Four or five hundred men will run the race, and the first fifteen to finish will receive intramural medals.

The start and finish of the race will be on Freshman Field, with the physical directors and coaches in charge.

Paragaphics

It is reported that the faculty and students from all departments of the college are longing to rate "Ag." tonight.

Henceforth all news articles appearing in this publication shall be understood as having the beginning phrase: "It is alleged that—"

Our circulation manager, when questioned as to the reason for his perpetual "gloomy gripping," confessed that it was the usual cause—women.

We have been so fortunate as to secure dates for seven nights during the first week in December. The Journalism class will officiate editorially.

It is a pity that Queen Marie can't come and let us also idolize her. We have idolized many women, but few of them have been the mother of mature progeny.

We considered it quite unusual when recently we saw a woman with skirts so long that the child accompanying her could hang on while the two were crossing the street.

It is rumored that the mere fact that a policeman doesn't notice that a man is intoxicated is not conclusive proof that he isn't. Policemen have long since learned not to notice, it is alleged.

It is rumored that the editor contemplates "going one better" on Otto Wood. He will write the story of his life while in jail, instead of waiting to get in the State Prison, it is alleged.

We congratulate the University of North Carolina on her roseate prospects for a real stadium. It will not only be of benefit to Carolina, but will be an added incentive to other institutions to build also.

WE CLOSE OUR ARGUMENT

We carried two Student Forum articles last week concerning the manner of student dress on the campus. There has been quite a bit of discussion concerning the views expressed, especially those of Mr. Shuford.

All this talk has tended to create a problem which is more apparent than real. The number of students here who do not take at least a fair degree of pride in their personal appearance is so small that it is scarcely worthy of consideration.

Mr. Crofts entirely missed the idea contained in the editorial with which he sought to take issue. The editorial did not seek to censure the student who wears overalls to work. On the other hand, we think it would be equally as foolish to wear good clothes to the woodshop as it is to wear overalls to public gatherings. We honor the self-help student, and proudly list ourselves among their number.

Mr. Crofts merely missed our meaning, which was probably our fault, since the chief purpose in all journalism is to get the writer's idea across to the reader.

As for Mr. Shuford, the very fact that he wrote in favor of overalls at public gatherings is a stronger argument against them than we could possibly bring forward. If we may judge by his writings, Mr. Shuford is a man without pride or principle. May his tribe decrease!

ON STREET CELEBRATIONS

During the last ten days there has been much discussion among the students, and in the newspapers of the state, regarding an unfortunate occurrence resulting, either directly or indirectly, from a student celebration of a football victory.

The "end products" of the aforementioned occurrence may be tabulated as follows:

1. A student was knocked down and run over by an automobile which was driven by a man who was, according to the best information available, so influenced by strong drink or other stimuli as to act in a very injudicious manner.
2. A citizen of Raleigh is hailed into police court (whether of his own volition or by act of the police is an unimportant detail) and is made the everlasting enemy of State College in all its activities.
3. A feeling of resentment and misunderstanding between the student body of this institution and the people of Raleigh is set up, and unless both parties cooperate to bring about the former spirit of harmony its effects may be far-reaching.
4. The college, justly or unjustly, has received quite a bit of adverse publicity.

The state papers have taken, in the main, a biased view of the affair, and have tended to place the blame at the feet of the students unreservedly. This was largely due to the attitude taken by the local morning paper, which saw only the news value of a sensational story of student mob action, instead of taking into consideration the fact that "there is one born every minute," and that they are not all in the colleges. One paper in Concord went so far as to say that State is known as the "roughest" college in the state. Its editors forgot to remember numerous instances in the histories of the various other educational institutions of the state in which all was not harmony with local authorities. Courtesy to those colleges prevents us from naming specific instances.

The people of Raleigh had only newspaper reports to believe, and many of them promptly decided that every student in this institution is utterly devoid of respect for the rights of others.

We hold no brief for those students who are always ready to stir up trouble, not only for themselves, but for their fellow students and their college. We make no blanket claim of sanctity for the student body. In a group of 1,300 there will always be some who are thoughtless of others.

Likewise we resent wholeheartedly any insinuations that the whole student body is a shambling mob, motivated only by low and cowardly designs upon those with whom they come in contact. To lay all the blame for the doings of Thursday night, November 11, at the feet of the students is to take a narrow-minded view that is unworthy of intelligent persons. We have heard citizens of Raleigh boast about having repeatedly driven through the line during "snake dances," merely for the "fun" of doing so.

Chief of Police J. Winder Bryan gave out a statement that speaks well for the future cooperation of the students with the police. He advocates police aid during celebrations, and opposes all mob action.

We believe that the only sensible solution is combined police and student government supervision of all street celebrations.

CLOYD DISCUSSES THE CONDUCT OF STUDENTS

My dear Mr. Editor:
I have read with interest two articles appearing in THE TECHNICIAN of November 13, one entitled "Disagrees with Editor" and the other entitled "Should Wear Overalls."

It is evident from the opening sentence of the first article that some comment had been made in a previous issue of your paper upon that small group of students who so far forgot themselves as to appear rude to the members of the company who furnished our first entertainment on October 22. I did not see this comment, but it is the reference to our Lyceum program which leads me to write this letter.

State College has been giving a series of lectures and entertainments for many years. I don't know just when this course was established, but I know it has been in existence since 1910. For the past seven years I have been a member of this committee, and it has been a genuine pleasure to me to watch the steady growth in interest in these entertainments on the part of our students, the members of our faculty, and the friends of the college in the city of Raleigh. Within the past six years State College has made many friends, and has received much favorable advertising from the city of Raleigh, because of this series of lectures and entertainments.

Not only this, but State College audiences have been, with only two exceptions that I know of, very highly spoken of by every company or individual who has appeared on our program.

One of the exceptions was a number of years ago when, on account of circumstances, I felt that the students were not entirely at fault. The other occasion was on October 22, when a few thoughtless men laughed in the midst of a number of the program, and made it appear that State College students do not understand nor appreciate good vocal music. (Let me say just here, on the other hand, that the particular member of the company concerned evidently did not understand college boys, or she would have realized that the students involved had no intention of being discourteous to her.) But such behavior on the part of a few men does reflect upon the whole student body, and leaves the student upon these who are doing their best to entertain us, and also upon any visitors present, that State College students are rough, ignorant, and unappreciative of those things which are becoming to cultured gentlemen.

I cannot believe that the majority of State College students agree with the impression made by the writer of one of the recent articles, to the effect that since State College students paid for these entertainments by a Lecture and Entertainment fee they, therefore, had a right to so conduct themselves during these entertainments or to act these entertainments dressed in such a way as to show a lack of courtesy to the members of the company and the invited guests.

Concerning our dress on occasions of this kind, I wish to say very clearly, and I wish I could say this in such a way that it would sink deep into the consciousness of every State College student, that every man here owes it to himself, to his parents, and to his college to appear in every gathering held in Pullen Hall or in any classroom dressed as neatly as possible. I have a great respect for all college men who, in order to pay their college expenses, must don their overalls or other working clothes and spend their spare hours earning money "by the sweat of their brow." I know what it means to work your way through college. I spent many hours on State College campus as a student working in overalls, but I never found it necessary to attend any kind of formal entertainment in my working clothes.

The whole point I'm trying to make concerning our dress on the campus and on the streets of Raleigh is that it is so easy for us to become lax in those little things which, while they appear unimportant to us, go so far in shaping public opinion, and which in the long run are of very great importance to our college community.

I think it was Paul who said, "All things are lawful for me, but all things are not expedient; all things are lawful for me, but all things edify not." We may have paid for many things, and from a legal standpoint have a right to conduct ourselves in one way because of that fact, but because of the standards of cultured people, we are glad to waive our rights.

What I hope to see, and what I have faith to believe I will see, in fact the evidences are at hand to show that now, the great majority of State College students are interested in and wish to co-operate in every undertaking which will show to the people of Raleigh and North Carolina that the State College Community is a community made up of enthusiastic, cultured, Christian gentlemen.

Yours always for the best interests of State College,
E. L. CLOYD.

STUDENT CELEBRATIONS

College students for so long have been given the run of the town in student celebrations that the practice appears almost as one of their inalienable rights. Assuredly, there is no wrong in a harmless parade of cheering undergraduates flushed with victory on the gridiron or stadium. Unfortunately, though, mass celebrations in which there can be little direction and authority, have a way, occasionally, of breaking out of bounds. When this happens, the students themselves suffer discredit, and antagonism is built up between townspeople and students.

This does not take into consideration the harm that is occasionally done to private property or to persons who suffer inconvenience, humiliation, or actual injury.

It ought not to be necessary for the city authorities to step in and deny the streets of the city for the purposes of student celebrations. This is a matter which ought to commend itself to the college authorities and to the student government. Maintaining good relations between townspeople and the college community is too important for both to be jeopardized by a thing that is unnecessary.

It is above all things supremely important that the rights of private citizens be protected on the streets, and it is equally important for the good name of the college that those who would convert a harmless celebration into a near riot be restrained.

Probably a solution of the problem rests jointly with students, faculty, and city authorities. Together, they might work out an agreement by which students might stage their celebrations without interfering with the rights of citizens, and thus forestall the necessity on the part of the city authorities to prohibit the use of the streets for such purposes. Certainly, an affair such as that which occurred in Raleigh Thursday night is a strong argument for a city ban.—News and Observer.

Uncle Dudley's Opinion--

I do not like to criticize so much and especially along the same line, but with sincere interest for the reputation of State College I believe that some of the articles in our paper are very detrimental to this institution.

The articles for THE TECHNICIAN should be of some interest to the student body. Perhaps some one will throw a brick into my machinery by saying that what I write each week is worthless.

Fellow, my writings may not be interesting to all, but I do have State College at heart and I write always with the idea of a better State College for the future.

When articles appear similar to that in last week's Student Forum, headed, "Disagrees With Editor," a mark is placed against this school. I am not writing to answer this article, for I have been criticized for replying to that kind before. I do want to say that that kind of material should never appear in our college paper.

It is a small factor with you students, but think what other people will say about it. How do they know but that there are many students of the same opinion as the author of that article.

Little do you realize that such opinions as we expressed in the article concerning the Lyceum program is causing many of the high school students over the state who read our weekly paper to picture State as a school for a bunch of "hicks." I know that kind of opinion will never place this school on the higher plane for which we are striving.

Now, fellows, please pardon me for taking up so much time and space discussing that sort of I Student Forum writing, but I do it to show you what harm can result from it, and that it is more serious than you think.

The State football championship hangs between two colleges as it did last year. It seems that we must settle the question again this year. We defeated Wake Forest last season and gave the laurels to Carolina. Davidson defeated Carolina last week, leaving the honor of the championship between Davidson and Wake Forest. If State defeats the deacons and Davidson conquers Duke, the Wild Cats will have full sway over the state. The Thanksgiving game here seems to be very decisive each year in the state honors for football.

The question above is worthy of consideration, for by defeating Wake Forest our record will be greatly elevated by comparative victories in the state. We must pull for that game and end our season in high ranks.

"OLD RELIABLE" FAILS TO CONSULT MR. WEBSTER

The News and Observer misquoted and misinterpreted an article carried in THE TECHNICIAN of November 13, concerning an occurrence on Morgan Street in which R. H. Dunlap, a State College student, was run down by an automobile.

The daily's headline stated: "Driver of Car Striking Dunlap Was Drunk, Says Student Paper." An examination of the article in the "Student Paper" revealed the fact that the word "drunk" was never used.

A careful study of Webster's Monarch Dictionary upheld the opinion of the local staff that "drunk" is not an accurate synonym for "intoxicated," which was the word used.

On account of the close scrutiny to which college papers are subjected by the editors of the local dailies, college editors have to be most careful of their choice of words. The word "intoxicated" was, therefore, used advisedly. It was assumed that the reckless driving which was directly responsible for the injury to Dunlap could have been performed by no man who was not "excited to a kind of delirium," which is one of the definitions of "intoxicated." The delirium may have been induced by any one of a number of causes.

Driver: Taxi, sir?
New Student: Much obliged—was just wonderin' what it was!

Professor Zip says--

I'VE groomed myself for turkey meat; my appetite is itchin'; big loads of cranb'ry sauce I'll eat till I have drained the kitchen. This autumn air is cool and crisp; I find a kick that's lasting. In every savored odor's wisp I look a punkin's ripe and yellow; at every ticking of the clock there's joy for every fellow. The preachers say my mind should hold not any whit of lusting, yet, often though that story's told, I'll eat till nearly busting. I'll grab that gobble while he waits, and gnaw his frame-work silly; I'll let him know just where he rates, long-side our old "corn Willie." Those pies I'll cram into my neck, and wedge them down with apples; the nuts and fruits will be a wreck, when hunger with them grapples. Perhaps already it is clear that I'm a hopeless sinner—but then 'tis only once a year we get that kind of dinner.

ORIENT and OCCIDENT

A. L. AYDLETT

There is a certain newspaper in the city of Raleigh that is always ready to grab a chance to knock State College, its students, or something connected with the institution. This daily journal is piloted by an editor and a staff that seem to take a great delight in playing up all the other colleges in the state as somewhat of ideal schools against this college as an undesirable element. We were out of town when a certain occurrence took place one night last week during a celebration of our fellow-students and, regretfully, are unable to give an account of the affair as we might had we witnessed it. All we know we have learned from the papers and from talk of the students about the campus. The presence of broken bottles some are said to have seen would be sufficient evidence in most cases.

Last year, because they had failed to attend a meeting of the student body, quite a number of the freshmen were sentenced by the Court of Customs of the Student Government of State College, as a method of enforcing discipline and obedience to the rules, to wear upon their arm a white ribbon, to speak to no one outside of a building, to walk in the gutters of the campus, and to turn all corners square; the discipline lasted three days. A great hue and cry was raised by the daily journal of which we have spoken about the inhumanity, cruelty, and abuse accorded the first-year men by the upperclassmen. A space on the front page of that newspaper was also devoted to a bit of trouble three of the students of State College had with policemen of Raleigh.

Not a word, that we saw, was in the journal about the free-for-all fight between the freshmen and sophomore classes of Wake Forest College, only seventeen miles from this city, which resulted from a smoker held by the first-year men against the orders of the upperclassmen, a fight in which there were several stone heads and almost a few broken bones. A freshman class had never before attempted such a thing as was pulled off at Wake Forest. Yet not even an inside space was allotted to a story of the twenty-eight heads of hair that were cut at that institution during the latter part of the year, to say nothing of the free books given about Christmas time. The writers of the Raleigh daily were silent about all this, since it happened at another school. Had such a procedure been attempted at State College the echo of the row would only be returning to us.

If the newspapers and the people of Raleigh do not like State College we are sorry. We try to cooperate with them in every respect in spite of the fact that they are eternally knocking us. The present students of this institution did not ask the old Watauga Club to found a school of Agriculture and Mechanic Arts, nor did they ask the people of Raleigh to put up a large sum of money as a donation to the school in addition to the real estate necessary to erect the buildings and thus relieve Charlotte of the menace of State College students. If State College is unwanted in the city of Raleigh there are plenty of cities in the state that would be glad of the chance to encompass an institution of learning such as this school is coming to be.

Raleigh does not hesitate to call upon the State College Band to accompany the merchants on a good-will tour to advertise the city, nor upon the military unit to participate in parades.

Why can't the city and the school find some method to pull together for both Raleigh and State College, and put both before the people of North Carolina and the country at large?

ENTHUSIASTIC DUKE FANS CAUSE GREAT EXCITEMENT

Duke had the ball on the five-yard line, just ninety-five yards from a touchdown, when all of a sudden there arose a great commotion in the Freshmen section at the Duke-State game. All interest was immediately lost in the game when the words "Fight! Fight!" were yelled from this section. The excitement was all because two over-enthusiastic Duke supporters had perambulated into the State section and thought that they would have some fun at the Frosh's expense. They let go a yell for Duke and made a pass at several freshman caps—but not so lucky. No sooner said than done, they were well on the way to the bottom of the bleachers, for angry Frosh had literally given them the air. They tried to make their way to the top again, but met with no better success than before, for practically the whole section had become interested. This time they landed on the bottom.

Just at this time Major Early and his side-kick lieutenant, Passalague, came rushing to the rescue and soon had the angry students quieted and returned to the original Duke-State fight, in which State again was winner. It is also stated that a State faculty member, who is also president of the Wake County Alumni, had his glasses broken in the melee and therewith entered active hostility with the invader.

STATE THEATRE IS HOST TO STUDENTS

The State Theatre, under the management of F. W. Williamson, has tried a new way of giving the boys a free show when they win a game. It is by handing out passes which are good over a period of several days.

This has many advantages over the old method, which was to give a free show on a certain night. The whole student body, with a lot of town people jumping in and joining, would attend the same show. This always resulted in some property being broken up, and the boys necessarily were seated in the balconies.

But by giving passes which are good for several days the students can go at their own pleasure, and without interfering with the shows for the regular patronage. They can have any available seat the same as if they had bought a ticket. The management dislikes to seat college boys in the upper balcony the same as the students dislike to be put there, so it works fine for both sides.

The students appreciate the twelve hundred tickets which the State distributed after their last victory, for they saw some of the best pictures that are shown in Raleigh—pictures of high class which they should see more often.

Norma Shearer's athletic skill serves her well in "The Waning Sex," the picture playing at the STATE Theatre Tuesday and Wednesday.

In this she has to swim and dive, play tennis and golf—playing to win, too, from Conrad Nagel, her leading man.

Suzanne Fleming, 18, a blue-eyed brunette, plays an important part as Alice Joyce's daughter, in Adolphe Menjou's latest picture, "The Ace of Cads," which is to be shown at the STATE Theatre next Friday and Saturday.

A Ziegfeld revue was Miss Fleming's first show; "The Ace of Cads" is her first picture.

Some of the most side-splitting situations ever incorporated in a comedy are woven into the warp and woof of "Hold That Lion." Douglas MacLean's love, laughter, and lion comedy showing at the COLLEGE "Y," Tuesday night.

MacLean, minus his trousers, has to wear Scotch kilts to hide his—embarrassment.

In "Fascinating Youth" the Paramount Junior Stars first production, the girls wear woolly and fur-trimmed barekneed outfits for the big winter carnival.

A good chance to see what young blood can do in the way of living up a mountain inn. That chance comes to the COLLEGE "Y" on Thursday night.

Since having been elevated to stardom, everyone of Raymond Griffith's productions so far surpassed expectations that it is no longer wise to predict anything about them in advance. However, "You'd Be Surprised" is one picture which can't be dismissed. Why venture prophecies? Suffice to say that—you'll be surprised if you see Raymond at the SUPERBA Theatre either Monday or Tuesday.

Yell and the world yells with you—keep silent and you are silent alone.

Burdette Henny has the word yelling in "Forever After," showing at the SUPERBA Theatre next Wednesday and Thursday.

"This Week's Ads"

By G. P. DICKINSON

Just think, fellows, Thanksgiving is only one week off, and all of us are looking forward with great expectations to the new things which we are going to get.

But who are you going to buy these new things from? Are we going to buy them from some one who doesn't show the least interest in the school, or are we going to buy them from the men who make it possible for us to have the best college paper in the state, and one of the best annuals?

Just give these things a thought and your conscience will show you where your duty lies.

day and Thursday. You know he is the cheer leader at the University of California and is rapidly yelling his way to stardom.

Lloyd Hughes and Mary Astor feature in the picture. It is a picture you'll remember "Forever After."

"Tony Runs Wild." Tom Mix's latest production, will start a two-day showing at the SUPERBA Theatre, beginning next Friday.

This picture gives both Mix and his wonder-horse, "Tony," an opportunity to appear in new feats of strength and skill and to add thrills that are new even to Mix and "Tony!"

You've sung the song, whistled the tune, and now you have a chance to see it on the screen. "Down Upon the Suwanee River" shows at the CAPITOL Theatre next Monday and Tuesday.

Football galore is shown in the college picture of the year. "Brown of Harvard" comes to the CAPITOL Theatre Wednesday, consisting of as wonderful an aggregation of stars as were ever placed in a picture. Such young stars as Doug Fairbanks, Jr., make the picture one of pep from start to finish.

Don't tell a lie unless you can back it up and get away with it to the bitter end. That is one of the lessons taught in one of the most laughable comedies that has yet been screened. The picture is "Skinner's Dress Suit," and comes to the CAPITOL Theatre Thursday.

Reginald Denny, favorite of the Nation, is the star, with Laura LaPlante as the featured lead.

Does "drugstore complexion" make the woman? Decide for yourself after seeing "His Secretary," at the CAPITOL Theatre Friday.

"Bustin' Through," featuring Jack Hoxie, is being shown at the CAPITOL Theatre next Saturday.

Bigger and better, it's one of Hoxie's best.

BAY STATE BOYS FORM LOCAL ORGANIZATION

Another club was added to the list of organizations at State College when on Monday afternoon the students from Massachusetts met and formed what is to be known as the Bay State Club.

Meetings will be held bi-weekly, but a regular time has not yet been decided upon. The boys feel that closer communication among themselves will do much towards making them feel at home, and also toward fostering a spirit of loyalty to both the Bay State and Alma Mater.

W. R. Kenan, of New York City,
Gives $275,000 For Stadium

Chapel Hill, N. C., Nov. 16.—With the gift of $275,000 by William Rand Kenan, a Carolina alumnus and now a prominent engineer of New York City, work will be begun at once on the new University Memorial Stadium, which has a seating capacity of 24,000 people, and will be located somewhere near the present Emersor Field. The donation is in memory of Mr. Kenan's mother, Mary Hargrave, and father, William Rand Kenan, and the structure will be known as the Kenan Memorial Stadium.

Mr. Kenan made the gift in person here Saturday afternoon in President Chase's office, in the presence of the graduate manager, Charles T. Woolen, Robert Lassiter, of Charlotte, Dr. Foy Roberson, of Durham, and President Chase. Mr. Lassiter and Dr. Roberson are chairman and secretary, respectively, of a committee which has laid plans for a general campaign among Carolina alumni for funds for the stadium, but Mr. Kenan's gift has made this drive unnecessary.

STATE FRESHMEN ELECT OFFICERS

State College freshmen Friday night elected their officers at the annual class election, following one of the most spirited profection contests in years. There was an average of ten nominations for each elective office. The office of historian and poet will be filled at a later meeting.

J. W. Harden, of Graham, was elected as president of the fourth year class; Archie Cathey, of Mooresville, vice-president; J. H. Dougherty, of Asheville, secretary-treasurer, and J. M. Hollingsworth, of Asheville, cheer leader.

Harden is center on the freshman football team and is a pledge of the Sigma Phi Epsilon fraternity. A student in the business school, he is one of the outstanding members of his class.

Much interest centered around the election of Cathey, legless student, who is one of the best liked men at State College. He is a student in the business school. Cathey is a well known personage about the streets of the city and on the college campus, where he may be seen almost daily propelling himself about in his "skate-board."

Dougherty, a student in the agricultural school, is a pledge of the Sigma Phi Epsilon fraternity and is also assistant manager of the freshman football squad. Hollingsworth, a student in the engineering school, is a pledge of the Chi Tau fraternity.

The meeting Friday evening was attended by all the 622 members of the freshman class.

RALEIGH SCOUTS OFF TO HUNT ALLIGATOR NEST

Local Boy Scouts will leave here next week for the swamps of Pamlico County, where they will hunt alligator nests. The boys will leave here under the leadership of one who takes a great interest in scouting, but asks that his name be kept secret, on account of the questions he would have to answer. It was he who last week found the gator nests in Pamlico County.

The alligator nests are several feet in diameter and are carefully hidden in the marsh beds. One of the nests found last week contained 120 eggs, and another held 45. The eggs are left alone to be hatched by the sun's rays. The old gators dig wells around the nests to afford protection for their young. Some of these wells are as much as twelve feet deep and are several feet in diameter.

SAINTS SELECT 14
JUNIOR MEMBERS

Fourteen new members were initiated into the Junior Order of Saints at their initiation held Saturday night, November 13.

The "Saints" have been in existence on the State College Campus since 1904 and is the oldest organization of its kind at State College. This organization is open only to fraternity men and is one of the most exclusive social orders at State College. Membership in this club is one of the highest social honors a Junior may obtain.

Those belonging to the "Saints" on the campus are: E. A. Feimster, Pi Kappa Alpha; M. C. Comer, Pi Kappa Alpha; J. O. Foil, Phi Gamma Delta; Albert Dougherty, Sigma Phi Epsilon; Carter Hodgins, Kappa Sigma; Fred Habel, Sigma Pi; Gordon Gresham, Sigma Pi; Hooker Spence, Pi Kappa Phi.

The following men were initiated Saturday night: G. E. Kohn, Pi Kappa Alpha; J. B. Dunn, Pi Kappa Alpha; C. R. Eskridge, Pi Kappa Alpha; Howard White, Sigma Phi Epsilon; Hil-

The "Saints" annually give a dance on the campus which is noted as one of the most colorful affairs of the social season.

WHISTLE FAILS TO TOOT; LATE BOYS FAIL TO EAT

Failure on the part of the man at the power plant to blow the first whistle for breakfast Tuesday morning caused several to miss their early meal.

At the call of the second whistle, which really came first, a steady stream of yellow slickers was seen coming from the various dormitories and moving toward the Bull Hall, only to be turned away on account of being late. This is the first time that blowing the whistle has been neglected, and it is the hope of all interested that it will be the last.

Broadcasting from CRH

C. R. HANNA

"NEVER heard of station CRH", you'll say. Quite naturally, for CRH is not a station. CRH is Clinton R. Hanna, age 27, out of Purdue less than five years, a Research Engineer with Westinghouse at East Pittsburgh.

Any time you're listening to your radio, however, you may be getting better reception, a clearer program, because of CRH and the improvements in reproducing apparatus to which he contributed.

That story goes back to undergraduate days at Lafayette. Hanna, as a student, developed an intense interest in radio; and, making capital out of his hobby, his thesis was entitled, "Interrupter Type of Radio Transmitter."

To carry on his experiments, it was logical that Hanna should find his way into the Westinghouse Graduate Students' Course immediately after graduation. There he received varied practical shop training. Then, in less than a year, he was busily at work on development assures good quality of speech and music with greater continuity of operation than other types, because of its ruggedness and sensitivity.

"What's the future with a large organization?" That is what college men want to know, first of all. The question is best answered by the accomplishments of others with similar training and like opportunities. This is one of a series of advertisements portraying the progress at Westinghouse of typical college graduates, off the campus some five—eight—ten years.

For this inventive spirit and its result in microphones, Hanna's alma mater in 1926 honored him with a degree of Electrical Engineer to go with his Bachelor of Science degree of four years earlier.

And these are studies which still go on. There is no end to progress. It is because Westinghouse offers both facilities and appreciation for practical study that Research Engineers find satisfying careers in the Company's laboratories.

his favored radio subject at the Westinghouse Research Laboratories.

One of his accomplishments has been the development of an improved microphone. He has introduced the electro-dynamic principle, in place of the condenser-transmitter type of microphone in earlier use. Hanna's
