SMALL COLLEGES
BEST, SAYS WILEY

"Select small colleges for your children," is the advice of Dr. Harvey W. Wiley, noted educator and health authority, in his article appearing in the September issue of Good Housekeeping. "The great universities," he says, "with present-day enrollments of 5,000 to 25,000 are like factories turning out graduates supplied with specified facts on certain subjects, but they lack the advantages of intimate contact between teacher and students and the congenial community life which develops character."

"There is also a social threat which is more dangerous in huge crowds than in small companies," he says. "It is the danger of beliefism and atheism. It is an easy matter in these crowded educational centers to couple up disbelief in God with disbelief in government."

"One dollar expended at a small college gives as much culture as five at Harvard. As a graduate of both institutions, I can truly make this statement."

"The real specific benefit of the small colleges lies in the fact that its students are individuals. They know their professors. They are not simply a number in a huge herd without recognition or individuality."

"In a commencement in which from one to two thousand graduates receive their diplomas, as is the case in many of our large universities, there is no individuality. There may be a few who have graduated with honors, but most of them rise and, without even answering to their names, are given the degree of bachelor of arts, or whatever other degree they may receive.

"The whole benefit of personal contact with the professor, the advantage of his personal and sympathetic attention and his interest in each individual character as it is unfolded before him during the years of the association, are all lacking in this mass instruction."

"The safety of the future, the purity of learning and the efficiency of teaching are all intimately bound up with the small educational unit," his Good Housekeeping article concludes.

An old lady returned to visit the home of her youth and was visiting with one of the old men there. Both were hard of hearing. She undertook to tell the man about having spanked him when a boy. He didn't get it, so replied: "Yes, but you would hardly know the old place now."

Wolves Are Ready For Opening Game

Keen, Friendly Rivalry For Berths on 1927 Tech Eleven

SLAUGHTER MAKES GOOD IMPRESSION ON PLAYERS

Open Season With Elon Here on Sept. 23; Freshman Coaches Assisting With Workouts for Present; Twelve Letter Men Back, With Freshman Stars Going Good.

Two full weeks have passed since the cry of the Wolfpack swelled once more across the countryside. Harkening to the hunting call the big gray Wolves moved down upon N. C. on September 5, and a few days later the Pack was in full cry again on the long, hard grind of routine, training and competition which will end only when the nippy days of early December bring Michigan State to Riddick Field.

For three days more the Pack will hunt alone and then Coach Tebell will send the gray horde out for the first encounter of the campaign. Elon College opens the season here on Friday, September 23.

The last fortnight has been featured by a grueling twice-a-day program of work, which has put the squad rather far along in its training. Sore muscles have responded nicely to the ministrations of Dr. Ray Sermon. The forty-odd candidates have acquired the "feel" of the football togs, and husky young bodies have been pitted against each other in the keen but friendly rivalry for positions with a willingness and enthusiasm which should bring results.

The new assistant coach, E. R. "Butch" Slaughter, 1924 All-American guard at the University of Michigan, who is giving exclusive attention to the development of the line, has made a very favorable impression upon the players and Tech alumni and supporters. This unusually fine specimen of the handiwork of "Hurry-up" Yost is doing a splendid job of teaching line play to centers, guards, and tackles.

The big boy, apparently, knows his stuff, and judging by the methods he has uncovered since he has been here he also knows how to get his ideas across to those under his particular care.

Head Coach "Gus" Tebell and Trainer Ray Sermon, who is also assisting with the backfield coaching, occupy their same high position in the esteem of the players. To a man the squad is solidly behind this popular pair of mentors who are starting their third and many believe their greatest year at N. C. State.

The freshman coaches, "Buck" Drennan and "Dutch" Passalunghi, who need no introduction in this section, will continue to work with the varsity squad until the yearling hopefuls are called out about October 1.

The varsity squad, as it is at present constituted, is made up of around 40 men, or a little less than four full teams. More men will be called out at the opening of College next week.

The material, as a whole, shapes up as the most likely looking array of football talent gathered here since 1920. Twelve of the men are wearers of the monogram. The others came up from the 1926 championship yearling squad, or were members of last year's reserve team.

Frank Goodwin is the only letter man left on the flanks, but six youngsters from the yearling squad are hustling for a job at end. These include Childress, Jordan, Dedmon, Latimer, Crowson, and Wester. The wingers look good.

There are eight candidates for the tackle positions, with Bob Evans and Dave Floyd, letter men, leading the parade. Joe Kilgore, another letter man, and Lepo, from the freshman team, should cause the veterans a lot of worry before the jobs are settled. Hardesty, May, Patterson, and Frank Plonk, all sophomores, are the other tackles.

Captain Newlin Bartemus Nicholson, Vaughan, and Ford head the list of guard candidates. On the basis of experience a couple of these youngsters should be favored to start. However, the yearling squad sent up some fine guard material in Mayfield, Upchurch, Smathers, and Vann.

The pivot position, left vacant by the graduation of Captain "Tubby" Logan, is wide open at present, with Metz, from the reserve team, and Harden, from the yearling squad, staking a neck-and-neck race for the job. Eubanks got some experience in the position on last year's reserve team. At present he is out with a fractured ankle. Choplin, a sophomore, is trying for the place, and Coach Tebell has indicated that he may shift young Jordan from end to center. Jordan is the big rangy youngster who played guard last year on the freshman team.

The backfield squad includes five letter men in George Hunsucker, Jack McDowell, "Chink" Outen, Fred Crum, and "Peanut" Ridenhour. Two other letter backs, Morris and Melton, were counted upon for the preliminary training, but to date they have not reported and it is rumored that neither will return to college this year.

An unusually promising backfield squad was graduated from the freshman team. These include Warren, Adams, Jeffrey, Koonce, Aderholt, Morgan, Silver, and Zee Plonk.

If the Tech coaches have settled upon eleven men who will start against Elon in the opener they have kept the information to themselves. Every job, apparently, is wide open, and every candidate is getting an equal chance for a place. The men have been working hard during the last two weeks, but they are responding nobly to the efforts of the coaches to mold a formidable team into shape.

Ivey Is Host At Ice-Cream Supper To Football Squad

L. L. Ivey, manager of the Students' Supply Store, gave an ice-cream feed to the members of the football team on Thursday evening in the Students' Supply Store.

This was greatly appreciated and enjoyed by all the football team, since it was ice-cream weather and the coaches had put them through a grueling scrimmage that afternoon. Every man left with a contented look on his face that showed that he had a very pleasant and enjoyable evening.

Mr. Ivey stated that he wanted to do something to show the football team that he was behind them, and could think of nothing better or more appropriate for such hot and sultry weather.

HUNSUCKER EVANS RIDENHOUR VAUGHN

"BUTCH" SLAUGHTER

ASSISTANT FOOTBALL COACH

Football is here once more, and once more the world rejoices at the sound of the toe banging against the pigskin. Let us rejoice with them.

Elon, an ancient enemy of State's, is the opponent in the opening game of the season. Last year we won 10-0, but the odds this year should be greater, inasmuch as we have better material this year than last.

One scribe, Mr. Ed Mitchell, of the Charlotte News, rates State College as second in the Big Five. He bases his calculations upon the material at hand. Duke is first, State second, Carolina third, Wake Forest fourth, and Davidson last. According to Scribe Mitchell we have only to best Duke to win the State Championship. We first have to conquer Carolina, our ancient enemy of several years. Jake Wade, of the Charlotte Observer, says that we have a darn good chance.

Another scribe says that all the schools are specializing in forward passes this year, and Carolina is looking for a passer, but their press agent might be playing pranks upon the rest of the world.

We have a new set of rules this year. Perhaps the laymen are not acquainted with the rules. The goal posts have been moved back ten yards in order to prevent the players from hurting themselves on the posts on plays near the line and to make the goal after touchdowns harder. Another rule is that the ball is dead after a fumbled punt. One second is allowed for the shift. Fifteen seconds is the limit for the huddle that came into prominence last year on the state gridlrons.

We want to see every freshman at the game Friday. It is a rulling of the Court of Customs that all freshmen are required to attend all State College athletic contests played in Raleigh. But, why have the Court of Customs Co., New York City.

make you attend? Go! And go of your own free will. Put your whole self in the game. It is not necessary for you to play, but lend your moral and vocal support. Vocal support is as necessary to win games as players. For example: take the State-Carolina basketball game, two years ago. There never was a better example of vocal support shown in the state.

'Tubby' Logan Is Ill With Tuberculosis at the Hospital

Captain of 1926 Wolfpack Has Been at Sanatorium For Several Weeks

News has reached the campus that Fred 'Tubby' Logan, captain of the 1926 Wolfpack, is in the Sanatorium at Sanatorium, taking the "rest cure" for tuberculosis.

Logan hails from Shelby, where he runs the city's leading drug store. The news comes as a shock to 'Tubby's' many friends on the campus, as he was seemingly in perfect health at the close of the year. The "rest cure" requires from two months to two years to cure the patient. In Logan's case the doctors got at the cause in the early stages.

Logan was the second member of the 1926 Tech eleven to fall prey to sickness or death. Boyd 'Moo' Bynum was the first. Bynum was killed in an automobile accident in the spring.

Logan's friends are confident that he will recover soon.

Tennis Courts To Be Ready First October

Twelve new tennis courts will be available to the students about the second week in October, according to information given out by Tal H. Stafford, graduate manager of athletics.

Work on the courts is progressing as rapidly as the weather will permit. The actual work was begun last spring when the plots were laid off and leveled down, but due to poor management the construction was carried no further. The work that will probably finish the courts was begun August 1.

State College students have been handicapped by the lack of suitable courts on which to practice, but when the new courts become available there will be room for all tennis-loving students to play.

Last year a tennis team was organized under the direction of Professor H. T. Lefler, University of Pennsylvania star and a member of the North Carolina championship doubles team, who is willing to coach a college team provided enough interest is shown.

One of the greatest exhibitions of human bravery every depicted on the screen is a part of the thrilling mystery story of the French Foreign Legion, "Beau Geste," which comes to the State Theatre for a three-day engagement, beginning Monday.

One episode graphically shows the fearless defense of 40 legionnaires of a part of the Sahara, a desert outpost, against hundreds of Tonaregs, nomadic desert bandits who are among the best warriors and finest riders in the world. It shows Sergeant Lejaune, enacted by Noah Berry, "the cruelest beast and bravest soldier" in the Legion, dominating the battle. It depicts him taking the fallen men,

For all stomach and intestinal troubles and disturbances due to teething, there is nothing better than a safe Infant's and Children's Laxative.

Mrs. Winslow's STRUP

wedging them into the fort's embrasures and propping their rifles in lifeless hands to deceive the enemy.

Fighting to the last man, they refuse to surrender.

Ronald Colman appears in the title role of "Beau Geste."

Thrills from start to finish, with a mystifying plot that defies detection until the final scenes, are the highlights promised in "The Cat and the Canary," the mystery drama that comes to the State Theatre next Thursday, Friday, and Saturday.

Headed by Laura LaPlante, the picture embraces an all-feature cast, including Arthur Edmund Carew, Forrest Stanley, Creighton Hale, Gertrude Astor, Tully Marshall, and Martha Mattox.

Gentlemen and big-butter-and-egg-men may prefer blondes, but rural New Englanders marry brunettes.

When you see little Virginia Bradford as the ingenue of "The Country Doctor" you'll understand why the son of the village rich man lost his heart to her and why the rural physician was willing to incur the wrath of his old friend by championing their cause.

There is said to be an idyllic love story interwoven in the plot of this picture which Rupert Julian directed with Rudolph Schlickraut featured in the title role, and which comes to the Superba Theatre on next Monday and Tuesday.

"For Ladies Only," which comes to the Superba Theatre next Wednesday and Thursday, is a colorful tale of modern American office life, which was directed by Henry Lehrman and Percy Pembroke and supervised by Harry Cohn, vice-president and supervisor of production.

The story hinges on a clash of wills between the hero, Clifford Coleman, and his secretary, Ruth Barton. Fun is introduced in the persons of Gerty Long, the switchboard operator, and the office boy, Joe Doakes.

Coleman, the office manager of the Amalgamated Hallock Company, is a woman-hater. When he is installed in the new office he almost promptly fires the girls; then his secretary plans her revenge, and—she gets it. He falls in love with her.

"K. Maynard, Civil Engineer," was what Ken Maynard expected to have painted on a ground-glass door some where or other, as soon as he graduated from college, and his entire course of study was shaped toward that end. He got his degree all right, and can squint through a transit with the best of them—but the ground-glass door has not yet materialized and probably never will. Once out of college Ken's allegiance wavered, and he fell, first for the lure of the sawdust and then for the Kleig lights. The world has apparently lost a civil engineer—but the fans have gained an idol.

Ken Maynard will be at the Superba Theatre on next Friday and Saturday in the Divis Distributing success, "$50,000 Reward."

You've all seen many "country-girl-want-to-go-on-the-stage" pictures. Every producer has at one time or another made one.

The homestuck girl gets stage-struck—now you know the type we mean.

But have you ever seen a picture of a stage-struck girl getting "home-struck." That is exactly the type of picture that Viola Dana, supported by Alan Brooks, appears in at the Capitol Theatre next Wednesday and Thursday. She calls it "Home-struck."

Let your actor be ever so talented, let him play the greatest role of a great career, yet he will not win his way into the public heart so surely as an animal that displays rare intellect. This truth is demonstrated in "The Baited Trap," a Rayart feature picture, which is at the Capitol Theatre next Friday.

"Fangs," a handsome wolf dog, plays a striking role in a story of the United States Secret Service. Ben Wilson has the principal part as an agent of the Federal government. Others in the cast are Neva Gerber, who portrays a lovely feminine agent of the service, and Al Ferguson, the deep-dyed villain who is a bandit, and a murderer. Little Monty O'Grady is the boy in the story and his work is unusually effective.

There is a realistic touch to this picture which, with the good presentation by a capable cast and the rare intelligence displayed by the dog, make it one of the most worthwhile films which have come to this city in many moons.

Belle Bennett, the star that made "Stella Davis" the great heart-throbbing success that it was, shows at the Palace Theatre today in an equally heart-breaking vehicle, "The Lily." Story is of the fight for a love that comes late in a woman's life.

Everybody rolls 'em in "Rolled Stocking," the Paramount Junior stars' current release, which shows at the Palace Theatre on Wednesday.

What could be better news to the movie fans than to tell them that Milton Sills and Montague Love are coming to the Palace Theatre on Thursday and Friday in "The Silent Lover,"

Metcalf Contrasts College
Now and Forty Years Ago

In behalf of the teachers of the School of Agriculture, I am asked to write a word of welcome to the incoming freshman class, and being a long-whiskered gentleman of advanced years, my memory is not as good as it used to be; but, nevertheless, like all the aged, my mind turns back to the kind of welcome I got something less than forty years ago. We were asked to do various stunts such as to swim Mirror Lake, the campus mud puddle, at 3 a. m. to sing "Sweet Adeline" from the top of the highest telephone pole on the campus, and various other simple stunts.

But now all that is changed, perhaps not for the better, and freshmen are met at the depot or on the campus with open arms like the long lost brother, and treated like the returned prodigal sons. Everywhere they are made welcome in royal fashion. I understand that they are even made welcome to impromptu sophomore class meetings at all hours of the night.

But, seriously, we are glad to welcome you. We are glad you have selected North Carolina State College for your future Alma Mater. The institution is yours for this Freshman Week, after that it belongs to the upperclassmen for the rest of the year. But we hope you will stick around till next year, when you can have it back again.

Z. P. METCALF,
Director of Instruction,
School of Agriculture.

Left—H. J. Oberholzer, of Orange Free State, South Africa. Last year, as a Junior in the School of Agriculture, he won first prize of $1,500 in the National Intercollegiate Oratorical Contest, held in Los Angeles. He represented the South against the champion college and university orators of six other regions.

Center—Professor C. C. Cunningham, head of the Public Speaking work at State College, coach of debaters and orators. He is a graduate of Beloit College, Wisconsin, and holds the M.A. degree in Speech from Northwestern University. He has coached the winners of two national contests, four regional contests, and twelve state contests in oratory. Debaters he has instructed have won seventy-five per cent of the contests in which they have participated. They have defeated the representatives of such institutions as the University of Michigan, the University of Chicago, the University of Notre Dame, the University of Southern California, and the Catholic University of America.

Right—Hardy M. Ray, of Raleigh, who, as the representative of Northwestern University and the Central region, won third prize of $750 in the National Oratorical Contest of 1927. He received his first training for competitive debate and oratory at State College under Professor Cunningham, and represented Northwestern University in both these branches of forensics. He was graduated with high honors from the Northwestern School of Speech last June, and has returned to State College as assistant to Professor Cunningham, with the rank of assistant professor of English.

Stewed—I do, Doctor but the trouble is I get drunk before I reach it.

He—I'd like to propose a little toast.
She—Nothing doing, kid; I want a regular meal.

The officers of the Pullen Literary Society wish to welcome each and every Freshman to State College, congratulating him upon his wise choice, and at the same time takes the opportunity to extend an invitation to all of those who desire to become connected with a literary society.

What a literary society may mean to a student has been shown in all colleges. At State the percentage of successful students belonging to a literary society is very high. It has come to be recognized as a vital part of college life.

The Pullen Literary Society was organized during the first year of State College history. It was named for one of the men who helped State to become the foremost technical institution in the South. Since the beginning Pullen has taken a whole-hearted part in the development of a wholesome and intellectual atmosphere which is necessary to a college community.

Again the officers of Pullen wish to invite those who are interested to join a real live-wire society.

SOCIAL ACTIVITIES

Terpsichorean Club Honors Debutantes

The Terpsichorean Club proved worthy of its honor by entertaining the 1927 debutantes at a dance given annually in the Sir Walter Hotel by the club. The dance was carried out in a successful and joyful way for the guests of the club in the usual good and true spirit of the Terpsichorean Club.

Fall Festival

The Merchants Association of Raleigh presented their sixth annual fall festival as the students entered the thirty-seventh session of North Carolina State College. A most cordial welcome was extended to the students to attend the different events of the program.

The program that was presented was as follows: Advertising Ball, Co-operative Fashion Show, the Terpsichorean Dance in honor of the debutantes, the Debutante Ball, Civic Clubs Luncheon, Sphinx Club Dance in honor of the debutantes, and Felt Hat Day.

The students that entered State College for the first time in order to start on a successful year were shown the fine spirit of the city of Raleigh.

Debutante Ball

The Fall Festival soared to the heights of fame as sixty beautiful girls from all points of the Old North State were presented to society in the annual Debutante Ball. The fair maidens were presented one by one as they came down wide white stairs with a background of green fires, and an aeroplane, "The Spirit of Raleigh," could also be seen in the background.

The ball began with the ball managers' figure, led by Miss Landrum Norris and Buster Manning, forming an outline against the sides of the balcony, which served as a background for the debutantes. Then came the debutante figure, led by Miss Julia Andrews and Hubert Royster, and the figures of 1927 were formed. The dance was a spectacular affair with the beautiful debutantes with the attractive appearance of the orchestra, and with Weidemeyer's Orchestra playing.

Advertising Ball

On Tuesday evening, September 13, at 9 o'clock, in the city auditorium, Weidemeyer's Orchestra struck the first notes that announced that the Fall Festival had started in a grand and glorious way on its sixth successful year.

The costumes of the ball managers and their partners represented members of the Merchants Association, thus advertising them in a unique way. Prizes were offered for the most representative, prettiest, and cleverest costumes. Favors and novelties were distributed from booths in the arena of the auditorium.

Sphinx Club Dance

The Sphinx Club Dance proved to be a brilliant and fitting conclusion for the social activities of the Fall Festival, and it was a happy farewell for the fair debutantes. The feature of the evening was the sale of chickens (with the debutantes representing the chickens) by auction. The dance was given in the ballroom of the Sir Walter Hotel, with Kay Kyser's Orchestra playing.

South Dormitory Work Completed

Another step forward in the bettering of the physical property of the campus was the remodeling of South Dormitory. This work was completed the past summer, being a part of the work to be carried out from the appropriations of the last legislature for permanent improvements.

All of the walls and ceilings have been gone over in blue and white and where needed the walls have been plastered. The remodeling of South, which is one of the largest dormitories to be found in any school in the state.

TAYLOR REPORTS CROP CONDITIONS MIDWEST FARMS

Dr. C. C. Taylor, dean of the graduate school at State College, who recently made a trip through the mid-west, says that of all the cotton crops he saw on the way, North Carolina cotton is in as good condition as the cotton in any of the other states.

In one county Dr. Taylor saw two farms of over a thousand acres each which had just been cut out of range land for the purpose of growing wheat. "But the owners of those farms told me," he said, "that if cotton went to 25 cents they would put their land in cotton rather than in wheat. Such a procedure would certainly put cotton farmers in this section in a precarious condition," he continued.

Dr. Taylor has also just returned from a trip made through the South for the National Social Research Council, when he made a survey of rural social research in all institutions of higher learning, the trip taking him as far west as Texas and Oklahoma.

On a later trip through the mid-west he was leader of discussion at a meeting of the American Country Life Association in Lansing, Michigan, the first week in August. Topics of discussion pertained to the relation of farm income to farm life. Six hundred delegates were present, representing 160 organizations in 31 states and 18 foreign countries.

Dr. Taylor delivered two addresses in Ohio and one in West Virginia before farm bureau and grange groups.

P. A. is a grand little pal

PRINCE ALBERT is the kind of a smoke you get clubby with, right off the bat. You'll be calling each other by your first names after the very first pipe-load. It is so genuinely friendly, in spirit and in fact.

P. A. treats your tongue and throat as gently as a mother handles a new-born baby. Never a bite. Never a parch. These are details, of course. The thing you'll remember longest is that wonderful taste! So cool, so sweet, so soothing.

PRINCE ALBERT

—no other tobacco is like it!

P. A. is sold everywhere in tidy red tins, pound and half-pound tin humidors, and pound crystal-glass humidors with sponge-moistener top. And always with every bit of bite and parch removed by the Prince Albert process.
